A SPECIAL LADY HONORED

"Some women never seem to grow old. Always active in thought, always ready to adapt new ideas, they are never chargeable with foggyism. Satisfied, yet ever dissatisfied, settled, yet ever unsettled, they always enjoy the best of what is, and are the first to find the best of what will be.

A special lady with a winning smile, hazel eyes with a mischievous twinkle, a sense of humor, a love of life and unending dedication to her community, Miss Else Sauer has been chosen to be the Grand Marshall of the Ninth Annual Fort Clark Cavalry Days Parade, 10:00 AM Saturday April 27 in Brackettville.

Newcomers to the area found their way to the New World Study Club Library on Ann St. where Miss Sauer welcomed them with open arms to Brackettville and into her heart. One of the library founders, she generously shared knowledge of her beloved community and the world with young and old alike.

"It's a great honor to be chosen to be the Grand Marshall ... more than I ever aspired to ... people are so nice and my family is very pleased that I am so honored."

A former co-worker said, "she has the ability to transfer her joy of telling stories of adventure, ancient history and literature to you, the listener."

Young at heart, she especially welcomed children to the library, encouraging them to read and "a pat on the back" when they returned to check out yet another adventure. School children regularly attended movies, summer reading and recreational programs climaxed with a picnic at the Fort Clark Springs Swim Park.

Currently serving on the library board, she works to assure the future of the Kinney County Library.

Else was born October 1, 1899 to Elise (Nee Haas) and Richard V. Sauer at the Fort Clark Base Hospital maternity ward, which is now the residence of the Fort Clark Springs General Manager.

The eighth of nine children, she spent a happy, carefree childhood on the ranch adjoining Fort Clark. In 1906, she started school and her first grade teacher, Miss Mittie Jones, was still teaching when Miss Sauer began to teach.

As a child, she recalls driving to Fort Clark on Sunday evenings to attend band concerts held on the parade grounds in a gazebo-like bandstand.

In 1916, Sauer graduated from Brackett High School. At that time, the school had eleven grades, was highly rated and affiliated with the University of Texas.

As was the custom, each summer the future teacher attended college and was awarded a teaching certificate for the coming year. She taught at the York and Macie one-room schools in Kinney County and in Bexar County before coming to the Brackett school system in 1922. Miss Sauer attained her B.A. degree in 1938 from South West Texas, Master of Education degree from University of Texas in 1943 and worked on her doctorate at Columbia University in New York City.

Three generations of students fondly refer to her as a "strict disciplinarian" but with pride in their voice, they proclaim "she taught me!"

Although she retired from BISD in 1973, she did not retire from life. Her energy and enthusiasm put many a younger person to shame.

Active in the Ft. Clark Historical Society and the Kinney County Historical Commission, her interest and work in the conservation and restoration of our local heritage is unending.

"The most important contribution is her cheerful spirit, her willingness to work, doing more than her part to get things going" said Reverend Edward Bush of St. James Episcopal Church. "She has served the church in almost every capacity including the Bishops committee and the Altar Guild ... "A tireless Evangelist" Miss Sauer has been a member of the Episcopal Church since 1922.

Throughout the years, Miss Sauer has given her time and support to many other groups, among them the Medical Clinic and Garden Club, and individuals, but space does not permit listing them all.

"Miss Else is not just a citizen of Brackettville, Kinney County, or Texas for that matter," said a neighbor and friend." Her graciousness to strangers unites them within the community and makes her a citizen of the world. She is one of the key ingredients that makes our community so very special."

Miss Sauer ... we love you.

DID YOU KNOW?

Here's some food for thought about water.

- Domestic bottled water is regulated by the federal government and by all state and some local agencies.
- The Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) classifies and regulates bottled water as a food.
- Under provisions of the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974, and in keeping with the Memorandum of Understanding between the FDA and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The EPA also has a definite impact on the quality standards that bottled water must meet.

• Bottled water is the most closely monitored and regulated of all drinking water. Dangerous contaminants, reported with increasing frequency in tap water supplies throughout various regions of the United States, have caused many consumers to turn to bottled water.

Ten Ways To Cut Your Telephone Costs

Following are 10 consumer tips that will help ensure that you receive the "right" long distance telephone bill.

How will you know for sure that your bill is the right one? That's easy. You will be receiving the highest quality at the lowest possible cost.

1. Know your hidden costs. If you have to pay message unit charges for access to your long distance service, this adds to the cost of your call.

Some services have no message unit charges. In fact, if you call their access number from a pay phone, your coin is returned.

2. Look for an understandable rate structure. Most long distance companies' charges are based on mileage, in addition to day of week and time of day. And rates vary from city to city and state to state. Finding out your long distance costs can often be difficult and confusing.

SBS Skyline, for example, has a simple rate structure based on whether you're calling a neighboring state, regionally or coast-to-coast, as well as day of week and time of day.

3. When a 'minute' is not a minute. Most of the large long distance companies round up to the next minute. This means that if your call is only a few seconds past one minute, you're charged for two minutes.

There are services that round calls up to the nearest 30 seconds. Obviously, a significant savings each month.

4. Demand answer supervision. Only two companies AT&T and SBS Skyline, now use equipment that starts billing most calls when the phone is answered, not when it rings.

5. Know your telephone numbers. You will be charged for long distance information calls, so it pays to keep a list of important phone numbers next to the telephone.

6. Avoid person-to-person calls. There is an expensive charge for each call. While this is advertised as a convenience, it adds to your costs.

7. Know your service charges. Some services have monthly fees just for having the service. Look for the service that charges only for the calls you make, or at least applies any monthly charge against service used.

8. Look into automatic dialing. By adding an automatic dialer, your calls will be put through faster and more conveniently. Dialers also can route your calls to the long distance service of your choice.

9. Schedule your calls. Since rates vary by the time of day, you should place your calls during the most economical times.

10. Do you have more service than you need? Your local phone company charges for every line you have. If you can use fewer lines, you pay less. Get rid of the excess and save more.

The Effects of Stress

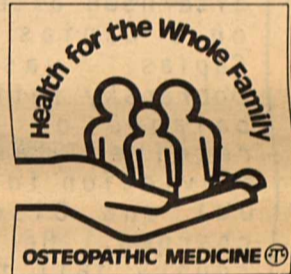

Does stress affect your body? Yes, reports Andrew Lovy, D.O., director of psychiatric training and education, Michigan Osteopathic Medical Center, Detroit.

Doctors have found both internal and external regulators of the body in response to stress. Some internal regulators are adrenalin, blood sugar and other products that prepare the body for "fight or flight" reactions. In times of stress, almost all of the body's major systems are affected, including the cardiovascular, neuro-muscular, respiratory, and renal and digestive systems. External regulators include all environmental elements that are seen as stressful by the individual, including such elements as job, school, family and adjustment problems.

According to Dr. Lovy, an osteopathic physician, stress can cause real damage to target organs. This damage can take the form of ulcers, asthma, colitis, dermatitis, migraine headaches or backaches.

Dr. Lovy reminds us that frequently it is the accumulation of stressors which will finally break down a functioning system.

The first line of defense is to isolate the stressors, identify them, and try to deal with them one at a time. Another strategy is to develop regular work, sleep, diet and recreation cycles.

Diet has become increasingly important. When stress begins to mount, busy people find themselves falling into improper eating habits which can lead to vitamin deficiencies and excess weight.

Dr. Lovy points out that the mind/body can take just so much work before it needs recreation to reduce tension and renew energy. Some of his rules for relaxation and recreation are: Set aside a specific time of day and a specific place. Accept no excuses. It may take a while to obtain total relaxation, but continue to practice. Find leisure activities that have both aerobic and anaerobic phases. An activity that presents a challenge is worthwhile. Block out other things when participating in a leisure activity. And above all, remember that relaxation and recreation should be fun.

The word "pagan" originally meant a villager or a rustic, and comes from the Latin "paganus".

THE SHERIFF'S CORNER

by Norman H. Hooten

Charges of injury to a child have been filed against a Cuban national as a result of an assault on a 10 year old girl Saturday, April 13.

Andres Quintana, 27, was arrested by this officer Saturday afternoon after the 10 year old came to the county jail asking for protection. Quintana allegedly slapped the girl several times after an argument between his and her mother. The little girl had a bruised left eye, a bloody nose and cuts on the inside of her upper lip. Quintanas remained in jail at the time of this writing in lieu of $3,000 bond.

John Joseph Dobransky of Uvalde was returned to the Kinney County Jail Tuesday afternoon after being arrested on a Capias Pro fine. The Capias was issued after Dobransky failed to pay a $523 balance of a fine he had received last month on a conviction in County Court on DWI and Disorderly Conduct charges. He remains in the county jail to serve out the balance of his fine.

Bobby H. Arnold was returned to the county jail from Kermit, TX Wednesday, he had been a fugitive from this county on DWI charges for several months. After he failed to appear in court at the scheduled time, he was entered as a wanted person in the TCIC computer. He was arrested by authorities in Winkler County near the Texas-New Mexico border after they ran a check on him through the Texas crime information center and got a "hit" on him per our warrants. He is also wanted by Port La Vaca authorities on felony auto theft charges. He remains in jail in lieu of $2,500 bond on con charges and Port La Vaca has placed a "hold" on him.

Herbert "Rusty" Owen, one of our jail guards found it necessary to resign from his job due to personal responsibilities. He has done an excellent job for us and we will miss him. We wish both he and his wife the best of luck. Rusty has been replaced by Matt Sandoval who will begin his duties as a jail guard on May 1st.

I would like to take time this week to commend my staff at the county jail. They are dedicated, hard-working public servants who put in long hard hours at the jail under less than favorable conditions. The overall operation of the sheriffs dept. and County jail would be handicapped without their dedicated, loyal assistance.

Phillip Benites and Michael Schlsater recently completed the required jailers certification course and will soon receive their permanent jailers license from the Texas Commission on law enforcement other standards & education. The only jailer left who has not been permanently licensed as a certified jailer will be Matt Sandoval who will be starting on May 1st. This makes the county jail in full compliance with all requirements of the Texas Jail Commission and the Texas Commission on law enforcement and of this we are quite proud. If you have been following the news from Del Rio concerning the problems with their jails, both old and new, you may be sure that to be in full compliance with all the requirements of both the TCJS and TCLOSE is quite a feat these days.

Some believe it bad luck to laugh before breakfast.

DID YOU KNOW?

Agriculture production is booming thanks to modern technology, according to the experts at the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Food Marketing Institute. One U.S. farm family feeds 78 people—52 in this country and 26 abroad. Total agriculture production is more than twice the goals set in 1930, even though our agriculture resource base hasn't changed much.

The United States provides more than 40 percent of world wheat exports and about 80 percent of world corn exports. We supply 80 percent of world soybean exports, 60 percent of cotton seed, 24 percent of the rice, 20 percent of the tobacco, and 18 percent of the lemons and limes exported.

There are an additional 20 million jobs associated with food production—2.5 million in supplying inputs, 1.7 million in food processing, five million in manufacturing, 7.6 million in transportation, wholesaling and retailing, and 3.3 million in eating establishments.

American consumers spend only 16 percent of their personal disposable income on food—less than in any other country in the world.

LAND PRODUCTIVITY VALUATION

MAY LOWER YOUR PROPERTY TAXES

The Texas Property Tax Code provides a form of tax relief for farmers and ranchers. If you qualify, your agricultural land will be taxed on its productive value rather than its market value. Productivity valuation may lower the 1985 taxes on your agricultural or open-space land.

If your land has never received open-space (1-d-1) valuation, or if your land has been receiving agricultural (1-d) valuation, you must apply to the appraisal district office before May 1 this year to get tax relief for 1985.

If your land received open-space (1-d-1) valuation in 1984, you will not need to reapply for 1985 unless required by the chief appraiser. Remember, however, that the law requires annual applications for agricultural (1-d) valuation.

SCHOOL NEWS

At the last school board meeting several important issues were addressed. The board was reorganized and Mr. Gwartney was named president. Mrs. Smith was named vice-president and Mrs. Dyer was named secretary.

The board also discussed and approved the installation of a satellite education system. This system would allow students to participate in lectures and classes that would not normally be available. Lectures would be brought to the students through a television monitor. Students could communicate with the teacher by a telephone system. The first year fee, which includes installation is $17,000.

Regarding personal matters, the school board discussed the replacement of Bob McCall as high school principal. Mr. McCall is being considered for the job of Superintendent of Schools. The school calendar was approved for the 1985 and 1986 school year.

FACULTY FEATURE

Several Brackettville teachers will be improving their teaching skills this summer through additional coursework. We talked to these teachers and this is what they are going to do.

Mrs. Bunsen said, "I will spend part of the summer working on curriculum for a class in theatre arts. Theatre arts will be an elective at Brackettville High School next year."

Mr. Hall explained to us that he has only one more course to take and then he will take his oral examinations to complete the requirements for his master's degree. He will be getting his degree from Sul Ross State University, in Alpine.

Mr. McCall's summer will be spent working at school and learning how to be superintendent. This involves a lot of study, due to new laws and regulations passed last summer.

We learned recently that several civic groups, individuals and local business establishments had really been supportive last year of our city youth. Many of those we list below gave time and money to get the city pool open for mainly the elementary and junior high age kids. We appreciate and applaud that effort very much, regardless of how small the contribution was. We would like the pool committee to consider upgrading the basketball courts during the coming weeks, as they will get a lot of activity if in good shape.

The following individuals and businesses donated funds that made it possible for the community pool to operate during the summer of 1984: Brackettville Lions Club, Nash Dry Goods Store, Fort Clark Springs Assoc., H.S. Blackwell, Screen Door Garden Center, E.P. Bush, Bob McCall, C.W. Stafford, C.W. Schwandner, J. Harber, A.F. Hall, S.L. COCONUT CLASSICS

Serving pearly white coconut seems especially fitting during winter. Big chewy flakes make a snowy garnish for cakes and candies. Chopped coconut adds a touch of the tropics to winter salads and sauces.

If you've always shied away from coconut as a hard nut to crack, try these simple suggestions.

Homemade candy is a winner at any time of the year. For a fast and fabulous treat, start with a tub of creamy chocolate frosting. These could be the best rum balls you'll ever make. For certain, they will be the easiest.

Heat oven to 350°. Grease and flour 12-cup bundt cake pan. Mix brown sugar, cocoa, flour and margarine until crumbly; stir in 1/2 cup coconut and reserve. Beat cake mix (dry), water, oil and eggs in large bowl on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, until moistened, about 15 seconds. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl frequently, 2 minutes. Pour about 3 cups batter into pan; sprinkle with reserved cocoa mixture.

Pour remaining batter into pan. Bake until cake springs back when touched lightly in center, 45 to 50 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; invert on wire rack or heatproof serving plate. BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

What has oversized tires, can conquer virtually any terrain and is one of the fastest growing industries in the United States? All Terrain Vehicles, more commonly known as ATVs.

The three wheeled vehicle, invented by Honda in 1971, was originally designed for recreational use only. However, American ingenuity spurred rapid growth as more sophisticated versions of the ATV were developed. Today, they perform a variety of functions ranging from agricultural uses and ski patrols to crowd control and rescue work for police departments.

Until 1979 sales were steady but slow, and sales potential seemed limited. However, as the general public discovered more ways to utilize these versatile machines, sales began to skyrocket. In the past five years, the number of ATV sales has increased 600 percent and today more than 1.5 million vehicles are being utilized for both utility and recreational purposes.

The tremendous growth rate and public interest is evidenced by the fact that in the last five years alone the industry has designed approximately three dozen new models tailored to meet the many specific consumer needs. In 1978, only two three wheelers were available. Today more than 5,000 dealers nationwide offer a line of 36 different three and four wheeled ATVs for sport, commercial and multi-purpose use.

Increasing in popularity as a family activity, ATVs are being used recreationally in snow, sand and swamps as well as in the mountains and on dirt trails. The small size and maneuverability of the vehicles also enables outdoor enthusiasts, such as fishermen and campers, to reach areas normally inaccessible to larger vehicles. Desert and snow racing are also popular ATV activities in areas of the Southwest, Midwest and Northeast.

In commerce, ATVs are being used in a wide range of geographical and environmental conditions. In Alaska, ATVs are utilized by oil companies in the construction of oil pipelines and in the Midwest they are used for every type of agricultural activity. Another unique use of ATVs involves use by roofing and construction companies. There, the vehicles are hoisted onto sprawling construction site rooftops so workers can easily transport materials while on the job.

ATVs, some of which have a pulling capacity upwards of 700 pounds, have also proven useful to numerous government agencies, including the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service, which require small versatile vehicles to patrol land under their jurisdiction.

The tremendous growth rate of the ATVs has spawned other industries including enthusiast publications, specialty parts manufacturers and retailers, ATV ride parks, and local and state ATV clubs. Recently, a separate industry association, the Specialty Vehicle Institute of America (SVIA), was formed to promote safety awareness and training. Industry experts predict that 1985 sales will jump nearly 40% from 500,000 in 1984 to approximately 700,000 this year.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR MONEY

Your Mutual Fund Objective

By John Templeton, President, The Templeton Mutual Funds, Lyford Cay, Bahamas

Q. What recommendations would you make for the various age groups that buy mutual funds?

A. Literally everybody has the same objective—to produce the maximum total return, net after taxes and after inflation. One should not necessarily say, for example, that a retired person needs a fund that pays high dividends. Every person should look for maximum total return, because the investor can spend part of the capital gains from a mutual fund, just as if they were ordinary income.

A person seeking high income could, for example, invest in a mutual fund on an automatic withdrawal plan. If the fund produces an average 15% total return per year, the investor can take out 10% per year and have 5% a year left to offset inflation and show dollar growth in the value of his investment.

A person seeking long-term growth would be advised to reinvest all capital gains and dividend distributions in a growth-oriented fund.

Other investors say they want safety. But 90% don't mean just that. What they really mean is safety in terms of purchasing power. Our belief is that inflation soon will resume its upward course and probably will average 8% over the next decade. That means the cost of living will double every nine years. In such a case a money market fund investor would really suffer. An investment in a well-managed common stock fund should at least keep pace with the increase in the cost of living.

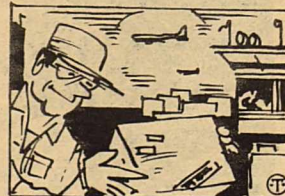

Of course, if an investor has a short-term obligation to meet, a money market fund is more appropriate.

Mr. Templeton of Lyford Cay, Bahamas responded to this and other questions at a recent Templeton Fund shareholders' meeting. For a copy of the complete question and answer booklet or a Templeton fund prospectus, contact your local broker or Securities Fund Investors, Inc., 405 Central Ave., P.O. It's Happening

America's economy could be getting a big boost—from the way other countries are recovering from recession. Mexico is increasing its trade surplus. That makes it easier for that country to pay its debts to American banks. That could be good for all Americans.

One way this country can help the situation along is to avoid putting too many restrictions on trade with Mexico. The more of its goods that country can sell here, the more of its debts to the United States it will be able to pay.

Agency Saves Thousands Of Lives In Ethiopia

Hundreds of thousands of Ethiopians who are victims of a decade-long drought and famine are now receiving food, water and medical assistance through the efforts of relief organizations such as World Vision, a Christian agency with headquarters in Monrovia, California.

His cries for food are being heard by Americans helping save lives in Ethiopia.

"The crisis of yesterday is the joke of tomorrow." -H.G. Wells

Nutrition-health centers, emergency relief distribution projects and childcare assistance provided by donations to World Vision are currently benefiting more than 700,000 men, women and children throughout Ethiopia.

Still, there is much to be done. Millions have been forced to leave their homes in search of food. And although response worldwide has brought much help to Ethiopia, the food shortage remains critical; medical supplies and personnel are desperately needed.

During 1985, World Vision will be providing close to $50 million worth of relief and development assistance in this drought-stricken country. But your help is needed to make this possible.

To contribute funds or receive more information about how you can get involved, call toll free 1-800-423-4200; or write to World Vision, Ethiopia Relief, Box O, Pasadena, CA 91109.

Energy Efficiency Ratio

Eight is Great!

Or, at the very least, an important number to keep in mind when you shop for air conditioning.

To get more cool air for your energy dollar, look for a unit with an Energy Guide number of eight or higher. It may cost a little more than the lower-rated model, but air conditioning with a high EER will soon return the difference in savings on utility bills.

EER and SEER tell you how much cool air the system will deliver in relation to the amount of electricity needed to run it. Each unit's efficiency rating number is specified in an Electric Energy Guide tag. Check the tags carefully—then head straight for the eight for comfort and savings.
