Social Security Paid To Eligibles Living Outside U.S.A.

While most jobs in the United States are now under social security, and most workers in those jobs know that they are building old-age and survivors insurance rights, some workers do not know that social security benefit payment checks can be sent outside of the United States. Moreover, to gain the right to social security payments the insured worker need not be a citizen of this country.

If old-age or survivors insurance benefit payments are due, they will be sent to you or your family in any country where such payments can be made.

There are some countries, however, to which the United States Government will not send money. This is because there is no assurance that benefit payment checks would reach the beneficiaries or, even if they did reach them, that the checks could be cashed at their full value. For this reason, payments will not be sent to people living in Albania, Bulgaria, China (except Formosa and Hong Kong), Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the Russian Zone of Occupation of Germany, and the Russian Sector of Occupation of Berlin.

Since the countries to which social security benefit payment checks cannot be forwarded change from time to time, it is advisable for a person living outside the United States to inquire at his nearest U. S. Foreign Service Office.

Some people who are entitled to social security benefit payments have gone back to their native land and have not filed claim for old-age or survivors insurance payments to which they are entitled. It is not necessary that you be in the United States to file a claim. If you are living in a foreign country to which payments can be sent, you can file your claim at the U. S. Foreign Service Office at any U. S. Embassy or Consulate. Employees of the American State Department on duty at these offices will give all the necessary information and take your application for old-age or survivors insurance benefit payments.

Claims filed outside the United States will be sent to a social security field office in the United States. When benefit payments are due, checks will be sent regularly to the consular representative at the U. S. Consulate where the claim was filed. It will be his responsibility to deliver the checks to the people entitled to receive them. In all cases, the checks will be made out in the name of the beneficiary.

People in the United States who want more information about their old-age and survivors insurance rights and obligations, or who want to file a claim for benefit payments, should call, write, or visit the social security field office. Any post office will give you the address of the social security office nearest to you.

While not in multitudes, spring has been bringing us quite a number of beautiful wild flowers. We have seen these more numerous and varied, but never so welcome. It really uplifts one's soul to see these gorgeous creations of nature, especially since we have been crying in need for a rain. These flowers are harbingers of hope.

Often as we read the news of the day we feel as insecure as a skinny old maid in a strapless evening gown.

Our Washington Newsletter

AMERICAN TAXPAYERS got a break last week when an economy-minded House cut three quarters of a billion dollars from the President's budget request for funds to run some 27 agencies during the next fiscal year. Some of us would have liked to abolish some of those bureaus altogether. There was also a mandatory reduction in personnel. It was one of the biggest budget cut backs in the history of these sprawling agencies. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The most controversial issue debated was an amendment which I offered to prohibit more than 5,000 new public housing units to be started during the next fiscal year. The President had requested 75,000, the House committee recommending 25,000.

With support spearheaded by the House Liberals, the public housing issue has cropped up periodically for several years. It has been described as a good example of the creeping type of socialism which gnaws away at Free Enterprise and gets the government deeper and deeper into a Welfare State activity and at the same time deeper and deeper in debt.

After a hard fight, my amendment was adopted on a roll-call vote by a margin of 192-107. We lost only three votes in the Texas delegation. If this cut-back can be maintained it will eventually save the American taxpayers a total of $348,400,000 by reducing the new units by 20,000.

Actually, in Federal subsidies and net loss in local taxes (all public housing projects are tax-exempted by local cities), these dwelling units over the 40-year periods of the loans, for which income tax-exempt bonds are sold, cost the taxpayers a total of $18,920 each—and the cost to build them runs around $10,000 for each dwelling unit.

It will be recalled that in 1949, by a majority of only five, the House approved the current public housing program whereby the government, through local housing authorities, may build up to 810,000 units over a six-year period. I voted against it. The total cost would run well over $20 billion! But each year the Congress must pass on the number of new units that may be constructed, not to exceed 165,000. My amendment would hold it to the 5,000 figure during the next fiscal year.

Local authorities who choose to obtain public housing projects are in no wise to blame. The fault is in Congress and the Administration for establishing the policy of having the government go into this sort of business.

The individual apartments in these public housing projects rent for about one-third of what they would rent for if they were opened to the general public on a competitive basis. Thus, the taxpayers pay about one-third of the rent bills for these tenants each month, and that will go on for 40 years.

A VISIT TO TEXAS
It is difficult to get away from Washington during these times when so much important legislation is pending. However, while the House was in recess, I was able to fly down to the district recently in response to some invitations, and was enabled to visit a brother-in-law who is seriously ill.

I addressed a large audience at the Masonic Hall in Melvin where a joint Masonic-Public School celebration was held, attended by lodge members, the local school faculty, school board, their families and visitors. Hon. E. L. Allison, City Recorder and retired school teacher, introduced me. Venerable and respected, he taught school for more than 40 years, and was teacher at a one-teacher rural school attended by my older brothers and my oldest sister before I was born.

You will look a long time before you find a more hospitable place than Melvin—or a finer class of American citizens.

It was my pleasure to be the principal speaker at the annual stockholders meeting of the San Saba National Farm Loan Association, held at the High School gym there. That Association, with Mr. Perry Hardin as Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. A. F. Wood as President, has made an excellent record of service to farmers and ranchmen in that area. More than 300 people attended the annual meeting and program.

I also attended an earlier meeting of the Directors of the Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, held at San Saba, where many current problems peculiar to farmers and ranchmen were discussed.

On Sunday afternoon before my return to Washington, upon the invitation of Rev. Taylor Henley it was my pleasure to attend the groundbreaking ceremony of the magnificent new church building to be constructed at 14th and Oakes Streets in San Angelo.

OPS Seeks Treble Damages

For the second week in succession, treble damages sought by the Office of Price Stabilization for violation of OPS price regulations exceeded the million dollar mark, OPS said today.

The amount of treble damages sought in civil court actions filed throughout the country by the Department of Justice for OPS during the week ending March 14 totaled $1,024,978.18. Under the Defense Production Act, as amended, OPS can sue in court for three times the actual amount of overcharges.

During the week, 71 civil actions were filed for OPS. Thirty-six were for injunctions to restrain firms and individuals from violating OPS regulations, and 35 sought treble damages for alleged over-ceiling sales. Four criminal complaints were filed.

A total of 31 cases involving only the actual overcharges were settled. The amount of money paid to the United States Treasury totaled $9,172.41. These were cases in which there was no apparent willful violation, according to OPS, and no punitive damages were sought.

Forty-seven other cases were settled for more than the actual overcharges, with the amount being paid to the Treasury totaling $13,738.52.

There's no doubt that medicine is making great strides in some of their researches, especially in wonder drugs, but it will be quite a good ways yet afore they can present them to the public for use. And until then, it's hard to predict how effective they will be. One noted physician boosts them, another tears them down. So, we just got to wait and see, stay well or sick.

MENTAL

MEANDERINGS

Guess some of you folks have been wondering what happened to this newspaper. Well, the company we had been getting our ready print from for about 40 years decided to go out of business and we haven't had time to latch on to another readyprint as of yet. Seems the government with its taxes and workers with their higher wage demands squeezed the company right out of business. Like many others will undoubtedly go. Seems that "free" enterprise is going by the boards.

British intelligence has reported that Old Joe Stalin is in bad shape physically and that his termination of his lease of life is expected soon. Naturally, conjecture becomes rife as to his successor. No doubt but out of the three and four who have been named as logical successors to Mister Stalin some of them will get eliminated, one way or another, from the scene. Which does not give us all too much hope. The Communist iron fist is too strong to expect more than a spasmodic revolution, and none at all in its relaxation of its fight to overwhelm the world and capitalistic governments as it so brazenly announces. But it might cause some unforeseen situations to arise which might help the civilized world directly or indirectly. At least, we all hope so.

That unless something in the way of moisture, and plenty of that wet stuff comes to our State pretty soon, and especially to this immediate area, its going to be a hard, hard year goes without saying. The need is for moisture and plenty of it now and from now on to overcome the effects of this devastating drought we have seen.

The national political scene is shifting and in some respects getting more difficult to understand each day. The upsurge of Eisenhower and of others who apparently were not given too much chance to win in the primaries, seems to have stunned, at least temporarily, the old guard. Even President Truman, who usually has quite something to say, has been fighting shy of making his usual confident predictions. It is hard to tell which way the wind blows, but the frame of mind the American people have at this time, is something which may upset all calculated plans and turn the political strategy of both parties topsy-turvy.

What is the matter with America? What is causing these disgraceful number of scandals among highest officers? Why are we so low in morals? Why is crime so high. Why does the public condone, at least by its lack of interest, the functioning of crime and politics? These and many other questions which crop up now frequently in the public mind, might be easily answered if we knew exactly what is undermining the nation's moral tone. Some say that it is because we have turned away from home life as the center of our nation's strength. Others view with alarm and point to juvenile delinquency. Some to the lack of public interest in prosecution of crimes. Possibly it is all or part of these.

But none of these would be found existing if the moral fiber of the individual citizen had not been disintegrating, and the number of those who live right and want to live according to the moral law are dwindling. History tells us that nations have gone down into defeat and finally into dust when they turned their preference to material things and not those of the spirit. That the lure of money, pleasures, and sensory experiences have been the cause of many a nation's downfall. That bribery, corruption, trickery, crime and all the host of materialistic evils come from an indifferent people to whom home life and religion are no longer a sacred must. Let us hope, and pray too, that America will find itself before its too late, and before History writes it off like Persia, Rome, Carthage and other greats before it.

The fact that even some of the houses which sell or rather have in the past sold large quantities of merchandise are advertising their wares and have been gradually raising their prices is a good indication of the times. It is also an indication that we Texas folks have just passed through income tax paying time and getting the license plates for that jalopy.

The other day, before Spring came on officially, we overheard an argument between two friends as to which was spring, the 20th or 21st. Both produced calendars to prove they were right. The two calendars did have the two separate days as Spring, but of course, one of them failed to take in the fact this was leap year and therefore set it back a day. Showing even the best of us get wrong once in a while.

We were reading in a daily paper about a taxi company that really got "squeezed out" in an unenviable manner, too. Seems the city wanted the company to improve their taxis and service before they would grant an extension of franchise. The finance company wouldn't grant funds for improvements unless the company had a franchise. So, the taxi company went out of business. Wotta predicament.

Looking over ideas for a house. Nope, we weren't figuring on putting up one, though this idea was ok and about as simple as any we have come across. First, it was an adobe walled house, cool in summer and warm in winter. And the roof, a sod one, of all things. Perhaps it would look sort of primitive, but just think of buying a so-called dream house, made in quantity lots, and paying oh say eight thousand and up, and inflated dollars, too!

A fellow told us recently that in his opinion too many people who read the Good Book seem to do it with the intention of justifying most of their actions and beliefs. Hardly true, we think, for most of those who open the Book of Books. Many read it for moral and spiritual support, for a course of action or a mode of life according to one's view. Others for spiritual guidance. Some few, it must be confessed, in order to denounce the actions of others, confuse their listeners, or excuse their actions.

Price Daniel Still Active

Special correspondents for the Houston Post and San Antonio Express Sunday reported that Senator Tom Connally "flatly accused Price Daniel, attorney general of Texas, of losing the Texas tidelands fight, and said he was afraid the state ownership bill will not pass the Senate."

In view of his statement, I have sent Senator Connally the following telegram:

"I regret that at a time when all Texans should be working together to save our tidelands you have apparently decided to make it into a personal political issue. You weaken our cause by dividing our own forces instead of placing the blame squarely upon your federal friends and proteges who filed the lawsuit and engineered this steal against the Texas school fund.

At this critical time when a vote is near in the Senate I plead with you to turn your back on your Washington friends who instigated and performed this theft rather than upon Texas officials who have been resisting the theft.

"Your public expression of doubt as to the passage of our state ownership bill in the Senate could also harm our prospects. All other Senators and state officials on our side of the fight are highly optimistic over passage of the bill, and I predict that in spite of your attitude the Senate will pass our bill by a good majority.

"At least until the Senate has acted, I urge you to lay aside political considerations and let's work together for passage of the tidelands bill. It is more important for Texas to win this fight than for either of us to win the Senate race."

NOTE TO EDITORS
 Senator Connally is incorrect in stating that we mixed the Texas case with the California and Louisiana cases. The Texas case was fought out solely upon our own special annexation agreement, which the court refused to apply and on which the court (by 4 to 3 vote) refused to hear evidence.

Our cooperation with other states was limited solely to congressional action and defense of the California case through the National Association of Attorneys General. In each instance it was always stated that Texas, in addition to the general claim of all the States, had a separate and special claim which would be relied upon if necessary.

Except for cooperating with the other states we would not be in such a favorable position in Congress today. We must continue to keep their support in order to get enough votes to pass a quitclaim bill.

I have in my files letters from Senator Connally praising my defense of the Texas case, and he has never heretofore objected to our cooperation with the other States.

Editorials on this subject are attached hereto for further information.

Will Hold Annual Training

AUSTIN, TEXAS. — Two Army Engineer Aviation Brigades, Organized Reserve, consisting of two battalions each with attached units, will hold their annual field training at Wolters Air Force Base, near Mineral Wells, during the periods July 6-20 and July 20-August 3, Col. C. M. Culp, Chief of the Texas Military District announced this week.

The two brigades are the 420th, from College Station, commanded by Col. Spencer Buchanan, and the 337th with headquarters in New Orleans, La.

This is the first time that Army-Air Force joint training of reservists has been scheduled in this area.

Engineer aviation organizations are Army units assigned to special technical duty with the Air Force and are known as SCARWAF units. They construct and rehabilitate air fields, roads, utilities buildings and other facilities used by the Air Forces in combat areas. Wolters Air Force Base is headquarters for all SCARWAF and is the aviation engineer training center for the continental United States.

Detail training plans for the two reserve brigades will be worked out at a pre-camp conference at Wolters scheduled early in April, to be attended by reserve unit commanders, representatives of headquarters Texas Military District and the air base. By scheduling their training at the air base, the reservists will be able to work with the heavy construction machinery and equipment they would use under actual combat conditions. In addition their plans call for weapons firing and demolition practice.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I realize that, since the GI Bill cut-off date is past, I'm not allowed to change courses except for certain reasons. But does this restriction also apply to changing schools, where no course change is involved?

A.—No. So long as your progress and conduct are satisfactory, and the new school will give you credit for the work you've already completed, you may change schools without changing the course.

Q.—I intend to buy a house with a GI loan. Where do I get the necessary forms to fill out?

A.—Lenders generally have the forms and other necessary papers, and will fill them out for veterans. If your lender does not have the forms, you may obtain them from your nearest VA regional office.

Q.—I've just been discharged from the Army with a service-connected disability. However, I never served outside the United States. Would I be eligible for Public Law 16 training, even though I was never actually in Korea?

A.—Yes, provided you meet all the requirements of the law: a discharge other than dishonorable, a compensable service-connected disability, and a need for training to overcome your handicap. The disability may have incurred any place in the world; not necessarily Korea.

Q.—I am a Korean veteran. Who may I name as beneficiary on the new form of Government term life insurance for which I've applied?

A.—You may name any person or persons, firm or corporation, or your estate as beneficiary.

BRACKETTVILLE TEXAS, FRIDAY APRIL 25 1953

NO. 3

Get Your Car Inspected

Austin, Texas. — "Get your vehicle inspected and avoid the delay and inconvenience of having to wait in line," said Chief G. W. Busby, Motor Vehicle Inspection Division, Department of Public Safety, Austin, Texas.

The 2700 official inspection stations licensed in Texas so far are inspecting some 50,000 cars per week and in order to inspect all the cars in this State by the deadline, September 6th, the number of cars inspected per week will have to be doubled.

There can be no further extension of the deadline and operators of vehicles not inspected on September 7th will be subject to arrest. The law provides a fine of not to exceed $200.00 for any person guilty of operating a vehicle after September 7th when such vehicle has not been inspected and approved.

More and more stations are being licensed in Texas daily and the operators of these stations are waiting to faithfully and honestly inspect your car at your earliest convenience. Take your car to the inspection station of your choice and get your approval certificate while there is plenty of time and no waiting.

When you get your approval certificate on your car, you will take pride in knowing that your car is safe to operate and that you are helping to contribute to a safer Texas.

Where Your Money Goes

From time to time, there are revealed some curious uses to which your tax money is put. A part of what you paid in taxes was invested by the government in a rattlesnake farm that went broke. An aroused public can halt foolish government spending if it protests loudly enough.

The Source Of Wages

WASHINGTON — Attempts to justify current wage demands are sometimes made on the assumption that they can be paid out of profits, without compensating price increases.

Nothing could be farther from the truth, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in an analysis of corporate earnings and wage payments.

"The compensation of employees has risen," says the Chamber, "from $117 billion in 1946 to $178 billion in 1951, on an annual basis. Corporate profits before taxes have risen from $23.5 billion in 1946 to $44.8 billion in 1951. Wages thus went up $61 billion and pre-tax profits $21.3 billion.

"But when we allow for corporate income taxes, corporate profits have risen actually by only $4.2 billion between 1946 and 1951. Thus, the idea of paying increased wages out of profits becomes even more absurd.

"It must be remembered that wages are paid out of sales; not out of profits."

Private Aid Increasing

Direct private U. S. investments abroad increased from $8.6 billion in 1946 to $13.6 billion in 1950. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States says that most of the increases were in Canada and Latin American nations which received little or no U. S. government aid, and that the main reason for the increases is that the investment environment in these nations is sufficiently favorable so that the returns are large enough to justify the risks.

The installment plan is the only method so far discovered that will induce some people to do things on time.

Our Washington Newsletter

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
FIRINGS, RESIGNATIONS, PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S decision, the pending steel strike, Tidelands, cherry blossoms, and the Queen of the Netherlands, all figured in Washington news last week.

Charles E. Wilson, the demobilized War Mobilizer, handed in his resignation in protest against the President's refusal to follow his advice to refuse WSB's proposed settlement of the steel argument. WSB had recommended 26c an hour increase for Phil Murray's union, and Wilson said this will adversely affect the nation's economy and would probably lead to another round of wage and price increases, hence more inflation.

Wilson, in his first public appearance following his resignation talked to the Texas delegation at our weekly lunch last week. He pulled no punches. He pointed out that while the cost of living index is dropping Phil Murray is demanding an increase that will reverse that trend.

He cautioned that if Murray's trend "as sure as God made little demands are continued, the cost of that labor by 1960 will reach $4 per hour and the cost of steel will jump to $200 a ton!" Steel labor has had 5 raises in 5 years, not counting the ones they are now demanding.

"Phil Murray — and also one or two other union leaders — now has more power to control the fate of this Nation's economy than does the President of the United States," he reminded. "Murray can shut down the steel mills tomorrow, along with scores of other industries. But do you think the President of the United States has the power to start them up again the next day? Emphatically not."

TIDELANDS

Texas — and the nation for that matter — scored a victory last week when the Senate passed our tidelands bill by a vote of 59 to 35, with 7 of the absent Senators being recorded as favoring the measure. One absentee, Senator Kefauver, had himself recorded as being opposed to it.

Since the bill is not on all fours with the House bill we passed last summer, it will have to be acted upon again in the House. That will be done soon. The House will be able to override a veto. It is a bit doubtful in the Senate, though there is a distinct possibility that a veto can be overridden by the Senators. Up to now it has been a major victory for Texas and for fundamental rights of the States.

MORRIS GETS OUT

When the President announced the appointment of Newbold Morris as a choice to ferret out any corruption in government—thus carrying out the pattern set by many members of Congress in exposing crime and corruption where it can be found—he was acclaimed by the exposing element on Capitol Hill. But it soon developed that Morris' law firm had been entangled in some big ship profits, which while legal at least raised a question with regard to his fitness for the clean-up job.

Then, last week the pay-off came. Attorney General McGrath said he had made a mistake in approving Morris' appointment, didn't like the way he was handling his job, and proceeded to fire him. A few hours later President Truman gave McGrath his walking papers. Thus, two months after the appointment of a clean-up man, it all fizzled. The total results: zero.

It can be assured, however, that the independent members of Congress will not retreat. Those of us who have supported the exposure drive during the past year or so will keep right on exposing and bringing to justice all who can be found betraying their public trust.

AMONG RECENT FRIENDS who have visited our office, have been: Milton Sparks of Brady and Big Menzel, both students at Daniel Baker College; Midshipman Roy B. Smith of Brownwood and Midshipman James B. White of Coleman, both attending the Naval Academy; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stein of Fredericksburg; A. B. Lollar of San Angelo; Naval cadet James H. Stevenson and Capt. J. B. Dismukes, both of Kerrville; Let "Tuffy" McCormick of Eldorado, recently returned from action with the Marines in Korea; A. L. Krueger of San Angelo and Hollis Blackwell of Goldthwaite; Garcia Swanson of San Angelo.

Foreign Aid Balance Sheet

At the end of this fiscal year, on June 30, there will be $7.9 billion in foreign aid funds left over from previous years. The new federal budget calls for another $7.6 billion appropriation, making a total of $15.5 billion available for spending in fiscal 1953. The budget calls for spending $10.5 billion in fiscal 1952, leaving $5 billion for spending in the following year. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recommends that spending be limited to $5 billion in fiscal 1953. This would leave $2.9 billion of the present surplus for spending in the following year, without any new appropriation this year.

Car Financing Cost Rule Cited

OPS reminds automobile buyers that normal financing charges may be added to authorized ceiling prices when a car is bought on the installment plan.

However, sellers cannot use inflated financing charges to break through authorized ceilings, the agency warned.

OPS Price Ceilings Include Horsemeat

OPS has placed dollar-and-cent ceiling prices on horsemeat and horsemeat products, largely used as dog and animal food, as a consumer protection in a market accounting for over $100 million of sales a year.

Cafes To Post Ceiling Prices

Restaurant owners were reminded today by OPS that they are required to post a chart showing their ceiling prices by April 25.

Cafe and bar operators who have NOT received instructions and forms from OPS in accordance with Ceiling Price Regulation 134 are urged to contact the San Antonio district OPS, 229 West Nueva Street.

Spring, and the birds and the bees and the flowers—and the neighbor's chickens. Not to mention mosquitoes, flies, etc. Usually we are bothered no end with this unpleasantness—such as mosquitoes, — which we should take with the other good things nature offers. But like the old saying goes: no rose without a thorn. So, not being able to go to the mountains, or the seashore (sigh!) we do the next best thing and screen the porch in, rub on anti-mosquito lotion, spray for flies, bugs and insects in general, and try to enjoy nature at its best. Which reminds us — why not start cleaning up around the old home, and then the old home town? Weeds are shooting up, and though wildflowers look pretty, the weeds that grow with them are not and can make a slightly place look mightily unsightly.

The great national sport — "Baseball" — is on and from now on until the World Series, there are many who will just have to listen in to the games broadcast each day, rooting for their team to win. It is a great sport, such as no communistic nation can claim, which relaxes people, provides friendly competition, and is a source for letting off steam. And it is played by all, from the small fry to the big uns, and makes men more satisfied with their way of life. Its better anyway, than competing, like behind the iron curtain, on who can break a rock the quickest, who can arrest the most.

We put up a little but very jaunty birdhouse the other day. A friend presented it to us, and we to the birds. These feathered friends gave the small structure would envy. Then, finally deciding the rent wasn't too high, and the neighbors OK, they moved in and from the looks of it they are going to stay. A stray redbird who got too inquisitive, and too close, didn't know what hit him but they haven't been bothered since.

Reading through a scientific magazine the other day and an editorial in which it was forecast that anti-collision cars were coming within a few years. A combination of radar, and automatic controls would repel two cars that were headed for each other, or for one from an unavoidable object. Would be sort of a miracle, wouldn't it? Now, lays the cars seem to have an affinity for other things on off the road, just something to hit.

Having a hobby is a mighty fine thing. It helps relieve the mind and takes one off on something one likes. There are many, many hobbies, and some have made them profitable. Anything can be a hobby, that is of course excepting hard work. From tying flies for fishing to carving of soap, from Cermatics to collecting items, from this to that, a hobby can keep one young, busy and out of mischief. Our hobby—oh well, we had one at one time, but just forgot what it was. Maybe its being curious about things we shouldn't might cover it.

From the number of people we hear talking about tiredness, we think it is sulphur and molasses time again. That — or just the thought of it—certainly used to pep us up.

That squabble between the Union and the Steel Companies, in which the President took over operation of the Steel mills, certainly set many an American to thinking seriously. That the unions are getting so powerful that they can control industry or the men at the top is a frightening idea. Almost, one can say, as thinking the big industrialists want to handle everything and take all the profits. But when the action of the President gave the important impression that by its action in taking over one big business it could take over others and force people to join unions whether they will or not, then one begins to wonder where we are. Not at the crossroads, for a fact—we passed that one a while back when the government began to encroach on state powers, when the unions got out of hand and the regulation of them was necessary, when anti-trust suits against the big boys of industry became necessary. Where is the champion of the common people? Seems he — or they — have somehow, somewhere been misled. Meanwhile the man with the burden—you, me and us—groans and wonders.

Even before it arrives, several states are passing laws in order to be ready for the day when automobiles on the road will be equipped with Television sets. Which would be something to watch—a guy trying to watch TV and the road at the same time. Just wouldn't work, but some would probably try it anyway.

Seems that despite the great advance in radio, in making sets smaller and smaller, or bigger and bigger, and more powerful, that the old crystal radio is still booming along. And with the new powerful Germanium crystals is still coming along, and better than ever. We still remember our first radio set, a crystal, too, of quite a few yesterday ago.

It is rather a disquieting thought to read that the United States now has in readiness for any offense or defense atomic weapons such as cannon, etc. That we are making progress on the hydrogen bomb, that we have guided missiles capable of knocking down planes from great heights. The sober thought is that if we have these there is no guarantee that our enemies might not also have them. So, we just get what consolation we can out of the thought that we really are keeping up or abreast of our enemies and that one of these days someone—perhaps a good many of us—will get wiped out by some devilish means such as one of these weapons. Or gerra warfare, etc. Comforting thought, isn't it?

Doubletalk is ok in talk but how about it in writing? A fellow we know who can do it brown in general conversation tried it in writing, but said that it was too hard for him.

The reason they call money "jack" is because it lifts such a load off a person.

If you want your progress to stop, just be totally satisfied.

Judge Brian Montague of Del Rio was a business visitor here one day last week.

Major and Mrs. Baston Massey and daughter Navis Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brothers and two daughters of San Antonio were Brackettville visitors one day last week.

The Brackettville High School ball team invaded Eagle Pass last week for a game with that high school team. It was a tight affair with Budje Smith and Henry Talamantez pitching good ball. Errors helped Eagle Pass to take the top of a 2 to 1 score. This loss the first in the district team series, gave Eagle Pass the lead.

Those few showers and rains we had received during the past week or so have been causing the weeds and other vegetation to shoot up rapidly especially as the weather has been right for promoting such growth. Also the presence of mosquitoes is being felt, and other insect pests are moving in. Why not put on a good cleanup, rid the community of all breeding places for insects and help make the city look better and brighter.

ONE HUNDRED PILOTS LAND AT FORT CLARK RANCH

More than one hundred pilots and their wives from 17 states and Cuba flew into Fort Clark Ranch, Brackettville, Texas Sunday, April 20th for the five day spring cruise of the sportsman pilots association, the nation's most exclusive aviation club.

The association is composed of private aircraft pilots who fly their own planes for pleasure and business and who become members through invitation only. It was organized in 1935 in the Mayflower hotel, Washington, D. C., as the result of a movement started by a group of air men in 1928 who wanted to have a flying club social in nature and national in character.

Three times a year the members gather at some resort for a week of fun and frolic and this year selected Texas for their meeting. Early arrivals spent the week-end at a planned rendezvous in Houston and flew from there to the airport at Fort Clark Ranch.

The last cruise was held in October at Ponte Vedra Inn, Jacksonville, Fla., and other resorts recently visited include Sun Valley, Idaho, and Phoenix Ariz, Westport Inn and Country Club, Essex County, New York has been selected for the summer cruise.

Officers of the Association who flew their own planes to Fort Clark Ranch are Cassins D. McCormick of Muncie, Ind., president; Hayward A. Gay of Cincinnati, Ohio, vice president; Robert S. Fisher of Keokuk Iowa second vice president; and John A. Shartle of Troy, Ohio, secretary-treasurer. Howell Coker of Houston is the state governor for Texas.

As the planes arrived at the Fort Clark airport, the ranch presented each passenger with a fancy Mexican hat. From there the visitors went to the clubhouse for a cocktail party and buffet dinner.

Monday's program included a barbecue by the swimming pool followed by an outdoor square dance and highlight of Tuesday was a trip to Piedras, Mexico, with a dinner dance at the Victory Club. On horseback and in hay wagon the group rode to the ranch picnic grounds at noon on Wednesday and planned for Thursday was a ladies luncheon in Villa Acuna, Mexico, while the pilots held their business meeting.

That evening a cocktail party and cruise banquet in the banquet hall ended the scheduled events with Friday seeing the planes winging homeward to all parts of the nation.

The brightest side of politics is on the inside.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I am an ex-WAC, going to school full time under the GI Bill. I'm married and have a child. Would I be eligible for the $120-a-month subsistence for veterans with more than one dependent (my husband and child)?

A.—No. You may, however, be eligible for the $105 rate paid to veteran-trainees with one dependent — that dependent being your child.

Q.—How do I go about finding a lender who will lend me money under the GI Bill?

A.—Information as to who makes GI farm loans may be obtained usually from the County Agricultural Extension Agent. Information concerning home and business loans may be had from your local Chamber of Commerce, or by inquiring at banks, savings and loan associations, mortgage and insurance companies, and other public and private lending agencies.

Q.—I have a service-connected dental condition, and was fitted with bridgework several years ago through VA's outpatient dental program. The bridgework seems to be wearing out. May I have it replaced?

A.—Yes. Bridgework which becomes unserviceable through legitimate wear and deterioration may be replaced, provided your dental condition is still shown to be service-connected.

Q.—I surrendered my NSLI permanent policy for cash when I went back into military service. I expect to get out soon, and I'd like to know what I must do to regain my insurance protection.

A.—You may either (1) apply to VA in Washington, D. C. for a new permanent policy on the same plan and not in excess of the amount surrendered for cash, and pay the required premium, or (2) reinstate your surrendered permanent plan by paying the required reserve and the premium for the current month. In either case, you must act within 120 days following your separation from active service. Physical examination is not necessary.

Low-cost electricity, that is. Here's why an electric range is modern.

IT'S ACCURATE! Electric heat is so evenly controlled that it eliminates guess work and food waste. Cakes come out perfectly and meat cooks with almost no shrinkage.

IT'S COOL AND CLEAN! Electric heat goes directly into the food in the cooking process and the oven is insulated on all six sides. No soot, smoke or fumes to blacken kitchen walls, pots and pans.

IT'S AUTOMATIC! Accurate time and temperature controls on the electric range oven allow you to set it and forget it. You can cook a whole oven meal safely and accurately while you're away from home.

IT'S ECONOMICAL! In cooking oven meals, the electricity is on only about one-third of the time, but it maintains the desired cooking temperature all the time. And the operating cost is low. You can cook electrically for about three cents a meal. See your appliance dealer right away for your electric range.

Final agreement was reached the past week between the Kinney County commissioners court and the city of Brackettville on the one side and D. T. Mackey and F. H. Fritter on the other, for the purchase of a strip land owned by the last named gentlemen and which said strip is to be made into a new entry route to the Pinto road.

The new stretch of this road will begin on highway 90, in the Lorraine addition just west of Brackettville and will cut across diagonally to the Pinto road below the dump ground.

The proposed entry route will eliminate at one time both the hazards of passing the dumping grounds and the sharp right angle curve and steep grade on the old road.

The Blame Goes with the Name

By IRVIN S. COBB

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON, the author, walked into a Boston bookstore—Boston, the home of culture, mind you, and, fiddling about, found a copy of his own book Graustark. Slipping a fountain-pen from his pocket he surreptitiously scribbled his name on the fly-leaf. McCutcheon writes an almost illegible hand. He fiddled about a bit, then picked up the book and, carrying it in his hand, approached the proprietor. "What kind of a yarn is this?" he asked. "Pretty fair." "How much is it?" "Dollar and a half." McCutcheon opened the volume at the page bearing his scrawled signature. "How about this?" he asked. "What do you want for it with this in it?" "Oh," said the book-dealer, "that's a mutilated copy. Take it for seventy-five cents."

Daniel Receives Encouragement

Austin, March 27.—The Price Daniel campaign for the United States Senate is "snowballing" with hundreds of new supporters signing up every day.

This was the announcement of Daniel's state campaign manager, Everett Hutchinson.

Hutchinson said a total of 45,039 Texans have sent in their written pledges of active support.

"This is more than four times the original number of volunteer workers that Price Daniel called for in his opening speech January 21," Hutchinson said. "The letters, cards and pledge sheets continue to come in by the hundreds each day."

"It is truly a grass-roots movement and will be the biggest group of active campaigners Texas has ever seen in any political race," Hutchinson said.

Daniel, Texas' 41-year-old trust-busting and crime-fighting attorney general is running against 74-year-old Tom Connally the State's senior senator. Daniel said his active campaign would begin late in May.

Until then, Daniel said, he is leaving his campaign strictly up to his volunteer workers and campaign managers.
