March Of Dimes Reaches Goal

Austin, Jan. 30.—The March of Dimes, January 2-31, will reach new heights this year in Texas, believes state chairman, Lloyd Gregory of Houston.

"With the assistance of thousands of volunteer polio fighters in every Texas county, better organized, better supplied, and better informed than ever before about the service program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis good results should be predetermined," Gregory said this week.

An example of outstanding cooperation pointed to by Gregory is the support offered by representatives of 57 state-wide organizations, many of which have organized for the campaign in their local units throughout Texas.

Examples of all-out effort in the move to provide Texas county chapters and the National Foundation with sufficient funds for polio treatment, education, and research have come from many varied groups.

Gregory announced that messages requesting local support had been sent to National Guard units, Fourth Army units, theatres, local chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, local posts of the American Veterans, unions in the Texas Federation of Labor, local brotherhoods of the Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and the Texas Hospital Association.

Also, county chairmen of the Texas Home Demonstration Association, Rotary Clubs, members of the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, clubs of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, Rebekah Assemblies of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, women's auxiliaries of the Texas Medical Association, and district presidents of the Texas Council of Church Women.

Gregory said he was certain other letters had been sent by state officers of organizations about which he had not been informed. The state polio chairman declared it seemed to him that everyone was eager to see that enough money would be raised to guarantee that no polio patients needing help would be denied, that Texas would pay its own way in patient care, and contribute its share to the National research, professional medical education, and epidemic aid programs.

A fellow whom we know is getting up well past the 65-year mark recently confided to us that he had been for some time doing research work on how to live to be a hundred, or at least a ripe old age. He quoted some as having lived simply, some oldsters who lived almost as they pleased; in fact he found out that there were no set rules as some drank and some didn't; others ate meat and some did not, being strictly vegetarians. Some smoke, some never used the stuff. So, after separating all the good advice it seems you can live long enough if you escape perils of traffic and modern civilization, live a sensible life, and the Good Lord don't take a liking to you before the first hundred years are up.

One thing we can enjoy—and we believe that goes for most people—it is a guy who has convictions and is straight forward in presenting them. And we like him more if he is not narrow-minded.

Approximately $125,000 is being spent each month from March of Dimes funds in caring for Texas polio patients.

Our Washington Newsletter

By Congressman O. C. Fischer
THE OUTLOOK for a new Mexican labor agreement, and it may have in it if one is worked out, remains uncertain. The present agreement expires on February 11.

Last week a Special Farm Labor Advisory Committee to the Farm Placement Service, met in Washington to study the problem and make recommendations concerning the terms of a new agreement, if one is made.

On that committee are two Texans—Kirkland of Pecos and Sam Reed of Haskell County. Upon invitation, Ernest Williams and Willie B. Wilson, of San Angelo, attended the meetings and presented the view of sheep, goat, and cattle raisers.

They insisted that any new agreement include ranch as well as farm labor; that the contracts be simplified, with more choice by employers in selecting experienced men, and more latitude be given in firing incompetents. It was urged, among other things, that work contracts be lengthened and that wages, etc. be no higher for ranch than for farm work.

I joined the Texans in urging that these and other views be included in recommendations to those who do the negotiating for our Government.

IN THE MEANTIME, on Capitol Hill the House Judiciary Committee was busy drafting amendments to the present immigration laws with the view of meeting President Truman's demand for tighter anti-wetback laws.

Early in January at my suggestion a member of the press asked Mr. Truman what his attitude was regarding the renewal of a labor agreement to replace the present one when it expires. The President said he had promised the President of Mexico at the latter's insistence—that drastic laws would be enacted controlling the working of so-called wet-backs in this country before any new agreement is negotiated, and that he would insist upon that being done.

When asked for my comments on that development, I stated that in my judgment the matter of what immigration laws are enacted in this country should be decided by the Congress—not by the President of Mexico. I pointed out that there's a simple solution to the so-called wet-back problem; simply work out a sensible and workable labor agreement, free of so much red tape and discrimination against employers, so Mexican workers can be processed to work on our farms and ranches where adequate domestic labor is not available. If that is done there will be little reason or incentive for the Mexican nationals to seek employment on this side of the Rio Grande without first being processed.

OUR FEAR IS that certain proposed amendments before the Judiciary Committee will be violative of fundamental protection to our farmers and ranchers against unreasonable searches of their premises. In other words, the proposal that Immigration officers have free access to premises without first obtaining search or arrest warrants would be a dangerous invasion of personal rights of people, and would undoubtedly cause much dissension and possible trouble. Such searches cannot now be done, without warrants, with respect to narcotics, stolen property, etc; so why give Immigration officers such blanket rights with respect to search for wetbacks?

We need laws against illegal aliens, but such laws should apply over all the nation and should recognize the rights of the people as against invasion of their premises by officers, with or without reason. If they have good reason, they can obtain authority from Magistrates to make any necessary searches for proper arrests.

On the Judiciary Committee, now studying this phase of the proposed legislation is Congressman Wilson of Dallas and Pickett of Palestine. They are both fighting for reasonable laws that will be adequate but which will not be violative of fundamental rights.

IT NOW APPEARS likely that a new immigration law will be enacted within the next few weeks, but probably some time after the February 11 deadline. Just what it will provide remains to be seen. It also remains uncertain at this time whether the present agreement may be extended pending passage of the legislation on the subject insisted upon by the President. If and when negotiations are begun on a new agreement with Mexico, it is indicated that they may be held in Washington this time.

Will Give Highway Map

Austin, January 20—Need an official Texas map? You will have an opportunity to get one when you register your car this year. The Texas Highway Department in cooperation with the County Tax Assessor-Collector is once again offering a free Official Highway Map to each registrant through a post card plan inaugurated last year.

This service on the part of the Highway Department and County Tax Assessor-Collector is intended to provide a means by which the Texas car owner can get something extra for his registration fee. These cooperating state and county agencies feel that every motorist who desires one of the colorful official maps is certainly entitled to it.

The Official Highway Travel Map not only shows the 40,000 miles of state highways but many of the Texas scenic highlights for the next vacation or week-end trip. Chock-full of information, the map encourages everyone to "See Texas First."

Here is the way you may take advantage of this opportunity. Every Texas resident who registers his vehicle in the state will be offered a return addressed post card at the same time he purchases the 1952 license plates. If the car owner so desires, he may affix a two-cent stamp to the card along with his name and address and mail it to the Highway Department. In return, a free copy of the colorful Official Highway Travel Map will be dispatched to the addressee.

Plane crashes seem to happen in groups or spurts. And when they do happen, they usually carry off a number of lives at one swoop. The automobile is dangerous, but it hardly ever takes over four lives at one time. A plane usually takes several dozen. No further comment.

National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis chapters do not give polio treatment or care; they purchase it, with March of Dimes funds.

MENTAL MEANDERINGS

Political hats are beginning to be thrown into the ditto ring. There are some "early" candidates who believe that the "early bird catches the voting worm". Not always are the strongest candidates the first to rush into the field. They usually sit back, feel the pulse of the people as it were, study the field, and calculate their chances with greater deliberation than does the one who lets go with a whoop and a hollar and wants to start the bandwagon going right off. Some of these early candidates probably do it for the nuisance value they can exert and therefore favors they may get, for trading positions, for advertising purposes (the only way possibly they can get that much attention from everyone), and maybe because if they come out later the public attention will be focused on a stronger candidate and to his own detriment. There are good men, however, to be found among those "first out" as well as those later ones. Like the reluctant dragon, some really make a splash when they come out late. The Voter this year will have lots of fun, and possibly plenty of headaches, too, this year trying to decide who he will support and vote for. There is always a good big crop of candidates, so take your time, study the men, their work and possibilities, and not always their promises.

It won't be long now afore its Valentine Day. The day, so we are told, dedicated to lovers everywhere, and to sentimental goings-on of a more or less harmless sort, depending specifically on the point of view of those involved. There are many nice, sentimental Valentines offered the general public, sweets in heart shaped boxes, rhymes, jig-saw hearts, talking hearts, etc. Even, we recall, a small bracelet with a Valentine sentiment in more than a dozen different languages. The old-timers' "comic" Valentine seems to gradually be passing out of the picture, as well as original poems, and, for that matter, original ideas. Now, we remember—on the second thought we guess we had best clam up as some of those former peccadillos—might be embarrassing, you know.

Prospects for the springtime are not as bright as they usually have been at this stage of the season. But it does not seem to deter people from starting their spring planting. Many are as optimistic as ever, buying their plants and shrubbery now and planting same now. While you folks at it, just remember what you paid for that head of lettuce, for that bell pepper, for that bunch of carrots. Just imagine when you can get from a home garden. Makes one want to start that home garden now. We came near convincing our ourselves of doing this afore we remembered we have no place to do same.

We overheard a guy saying that about the only one who can afford to buy a steak is the guy who raises it in the first place. Brother, he don't have to buy it, but when he considers what he might have gotten for that beef he killed, it—the steak —won't sit too good on his digestive conscience.

January went by like a flash. It sure was a stirring month. Between trying to pay for Christmas bills (which most of us failed to get settled in any comfortable degree), there were insurances, expenses of this and that, poll taxes (the best buy ever for the money), and what not. And grub, clothes, time payments, etc. Maybe February, the shortest month but with an extra day and despite its five Fridays, will give us a breather of a sort.

Just reading the newspapers sometimes can give a guy quite a kick. You can get anything from a sho-nuff sob down to a real tummy-laff if you range around these papers. You see where some mother deserted her two children and left them to starve. Where a child accidentally wounds its parent. Where someone considers their lot in life too tough and try to make it the easy way, and are caught; Pathos, plenty of it. Ridiculous in the making, with zany divorce pleas, nonsential escapades, goofy proceedings, anything for a laugh, or for publicity. And then you can breeze into the humorous and oftentimes unintentional life-like king-size slapstick. On one page we found one item on the war against communism, one of Korea, two of the weather, two of thefts, one of murder, three of terroristic escapades, one of capitol crime, one of politics, and one of—all things—an argument as to whether pretzels should be placed in cellophane bags or not. Indeed, you can find almost anything in the daily papers. Like a noted wit once described the word "news": "It's the same old things, but only happening to different people."

A lecturer one time said that if you feel yourself getting too important to look through a telescope at the stars; if you were getting a complex, to look through a microscope. A good look at the firmament and the myriads of blazing stars, of a glimpse of the milky way and its billions of stars, of looks at blazing Vega, glistening Arcturus, Orion and the great nebula, at the spiral nebula, and millions of other manifestations of the Creator's work will make a mere man, if he have any brains at all, feel small and humble. A look at the microscope will uplift a man by showing him things the eye can't see, of life struggling to adapt itself to patterns set for it by the Master Planner. It is good to take these mental excursions once in a while.

Will President Truman run again? That seems to be the question asked. The one thing to be remembered is that, whether Truman gets back in or not, and no matter who is president, there will be little chance of reducing the national taxes now or for some time to come. There's a big defense job on; there are our commitments to foreign aid; to the UN, everywhere. So, don't expect miracles if a new president is selected. There may be some cuts in national spending by economy in government but it won't be too much.

Truman's State of Union Speech Termed Friendly, Conciliatory

STATE OF THE UNION—Was it a wiser or politically minded President who delivered the state of the union message to the second session of the 82nd congress? Was his conciliatory and friendly mood dictated by the fact that 1952 is an election year, or was it an effort to consolidate the majority behind the defense program and the nation's foreign policy? These questions have been in the minds of every American since the President's speech.

For the first time in five years, President Truman, who is beginning to show the strain of his years as chief executive, did not go all-out for welfare-state legislation. He made it clear, however, that he was not abandoning any of the things he has advocated since 1946. Rather, he would have the country concentrate its full efforts to defense and keeping economically sound.

In this respect he said the stabilization law was shot full of holes at the last session and "it will be one of the main tasks before congress to repair the damage and enact a strong anti-inflation law". As for defense, he warned that the situation in Korea remains dangerous and that "the Soviet Union is increasing its armed might." The world still walks in the shadow of another world war, he said.

But his approach to taxation, compulsory health insurance, civil rights, and other controversial issues was so amiable that it left many Republican critics speechless. In fact, Republicans, who obviously were all set for a field day of criticism, found little about which to demonstrate.

The main criticism, when it was all over, was the charge that the speech was just a rehash of past messages. Generally, Democrats praised the message. But from the opposition came such statements as: "The same broken record . . ." "The President's speech could be characterized as follows: spend more, waste more, socialize more, give more away, control more, talk more, and blame the other fellow for all the ills of the United States and the world."

The fire and stubborn fight of the Truman of old was so obviously lacking that it seemed almost apathetic to many home towners who heard the address.

PRODUCTION—Production of civilian goods for the second quarter of 1952 has been cut back sharply. Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced the government has ordered home building slashed by 23 per cent for the months of April, May and June. Automobile output was slashed by 7 per cent and other consumer goods using scarce materials were trimmed 10 per cent.

This is the general picture for the second quarter: Construction—Home building, now at a rate of 850,000 a year, will be slashed to a rate of 660,000. Only factories vitally needed for defense production will be built, and little material will be available for office buildings, stores, and other commercial construction.

Autos—The industry will get enough copper and aluminum to make 800,000 cars and enough steel to make 900,000.

Civilian Goods—Most consumer goods, including refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, television sets, and radios, will be cut by about 10 per cent from the first quarter.

Railroad Equipment—Freight car production will be reduced about 14 per cent below the 20,000-car output for the first quarter.

Roads—Only the most urgent road building will be permitted.

Ships—Allotments to the Maritime Administration will be increased.

TAX EVADERS—The Treasury department has launched a new policy that should receive wide approval of the average home town taxpayer. The Treasury will no longer let tax evaders escape criminal prosecution if they voluntarily confess their fraud and pay up.

The department also took steps to speed up its prosecution of tax evaders, including: (1) Reducing the number of conferences with taxpayers about their cases, although taxpayers still will be heard when necessary to develop actual facts; (2) The only persons who can represent taxpayers in these conferences must have duly certified powers of attorney to speak for the taxpayer.

The new policies are expected to reduce the lag in prosecution from an average of 292 days to about 100, it was estimated by the Treasury department.

PEACE TALKS—The Korean peace talks remain deadlocked over the question of whether or not the Communists be allowed to build airfields in North Korea during an armistice. The Reds insist that any ban on rehabilitation of combat airfields would infringe on North Korean sovereignty by interfering in internal affairs. On the other hand, the United Nations says it will not make a peace that gives the Communists the right to build up military forces and installations for further aggression.

At home, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reports he is hopeful for a workable truce in Korea, but there is one price we won't pay—appeasement.

CLEANUP—President Truman's long awaited plan to clean up graft in government is under way, although it drew considerable fire from Republican critics.

The President dropped his plan for a special commission and handed the job to Attorney General McGrath. Republicans immediately began their criticism. The general charge was that "a whitewash is coming".

The President did not indicate how extensive the clean-up measures will go. A number of administration leaders are known to want action which would remove the corruption in government issue as far as possible from the approaching presidential election campaign.

Truman first asked Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy of New York to head a cleanup commission. Murphy withdrew before his appointment could be announced officially. What caused him to change his mind has not been made public.

One of Russia's newest twin jet planes is depicted in this drawing, released by Aviation Age. The trade and technical magazine said it was either a twin jet fighter, night fighter, or ground attack aircraft, recently developed by the Red air force. Its exact designation is not known.

THE NATION'S SCHOOLS

Rearming Brakes U.S. School Gains

The nation's schools are again facing a serious crisis, brought on by four major factors: increased enrollments, inflationary costs, lack of building materials and an acute teacher shortage.

Educators, however, contend that the nation's economy is strong enough to support the defense program and the schools. And they insist that schools are the first line of our defense. A recent survey revealed that 3,500,000 elementary and high school children—one out of eight pupils in the public schools—are suffering an impaired education because of inadequate facilities.

An estimated 400,000 boys and girls are not getting a full school day—some are attending school on triple-session schedules.

Old Sawtooth Mountain Hurls Challenge And a Small Town Accepts and Beats It

Up on the north shore of Lake Superior is the village of Grand Marais (population 1,078), which boasts an active ski club, several hundred ski enthusiasts—and a big hill for them to operate on. The hill ascends back from the town and rises to a 1,700-foot elevation. Because of the natural construction of the range, which resembles the teeth of a saw, the hill is called Sawtooth Mountain.

It happened that Old Sawtooth had represented a standing challenge to the Grand Marais skiers to "just try to break me for skiing." Many had considered the idea, but all had been brought up short by the forbidding obstacles that presented themselves. No one even dared to start the project, and Sawtooth Mountain's challenge remained unaccepted for a long time.

But in 1948 a handful of civic-minded men, led by Howard Joynes, then president of the Chamber of Commerce, made up their minds to pick up the gauntlet and throw Old Sawtooth's challenge back in his old sawteeth. How well they succeeded is admirably demonstrated by the fact that Grand Marais and its mountain will be host to the Central United States Downhill Slalom Championships this February 16 and 17.

It is a tribute to Grand Marais' sense of community pride and motive of self-improvement to say that although the sights were set on procuring just such meets as this in the future, the chief purpose was—and still is—to build a recreation area for the folks about town who enjoy and participate in this type of sport.

When the civic group decided to go to work on the Sawtooth project, the first step was to visit ski areas in Fort William, Ontario, a district which had been established skiing terrain for many years. Here they gleaned information about tows, trails, club activities, ski building, and whatever other points of information they could find relative to skiing.

A ski club was organized, and that fall a bulldozer began rearranging the southern exposure of the mountain. Here and there trails began showing through the evergreens, aspens, and birches. A rope tow, powered from the bottom of the slope, was set up. When the snow came—and it had been eagerly awaited—an assortment of intrepid skiers gingerly tried out the lower slopes to give the project its initial test. They came away happy.

From there on the work was continued with one immediate goal—the "Central." But before that could be accomplished, more challenges had to be faced and conquered. A temporary warming house had to be built. A beginner's tow had to be constructed. Local skiers had to be taught. A nucleus of skiers attended the Canadian traveling ski school and brought back what they learned to pass on to the tyros at home.

The task involved a sizable amount of construction work—more, it would appear on the surface, than was within the capabilities of a small town of 1,078 persons. New areas had to be cut out, and tow motors had to be changed to operate from the top of the hill. Electricity had to be brought into the areas to run the tows and light some of the slopes for night skiing. New trails had to be planned and cut.

The answer, as in the case of virtually every worth-while community project, turned out to be volunteer labor and the unstinting cooperation of the townspeople. Merchants, professional men, day laborers—all came out to help. The ladies faithfully furnished coffee and cake for the crews.

Meanwhile, the local skiers daily were becoming more proficient. They soon were taking the expert trails in their stride. Finally, the ski club applied for membership in the Central U.S. Ski Association and was accepted. This, in a sense, was a fitting reward for the people who, in just three years, had advanced the area as far as many older skiing spots had gone in twice that time or more.

Next week we shall discuss how Grand Marais asked for the Central U.S. Meet and got it.

U.S. Isolation

MOST disturbing development in the U.S.A. to members of the Churchill party has been the growth of isolationism in certain sections. British observers who see the United States during periodic visits may have an advantage in diagnosing popular changes between those visits. At any rate they compare public sentiment today to that just before Pearl Harbor when the United States also was torn between isolation and international participation.

This, incidentally, appears to be borne out by the Washington Merry-Go-Round poll of Republican candidates. At the start of this poll, Taft chalked up his greatest strength in the traditionally isolationist mid-west; Eisenhower his greatest strength in New England, the South and the Pacific Coast.

The poll, which is still continuing, also continues to show Taft strong in these areas. In fact, the voting runs almost constant in regard to Taft strength in the midwest, Eisenhower strength in other areas.

RFC Chairman

Harry McDonald, to be the first Republican head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 19 years of Democratic rule, can be counted on to carry on the forthright policies of Stuart Symington.

As head of the securities and exchange commission, McDonald vigorously advised GOP members of the RFC not to O.K. the controversial Texmass loan, warned them that his SEC had not given Texmass a clean bill of health.

McDonald, who believes the public is entitled to know all the facts about big financial deals, used to run a Detroit dairy, was supreme potentate of the Michigan Shrine, got to know Truman because they are fellow shriners, and took a mild shine to Rita Hayworth when she visited in Washington. He is a bachelor.

Atomic Artillery

Though President Truman has been opposed to exchanging atomic information with England, one so-called atomic secret, which the Churchill party has been told, is that our much-ballyhooed atomic artillery is not going to work miracles on the battlefield as some had expected.

This is not exactly a secret, for the American public will be told the news later—namely, that atomic artillery, while by no means a dud, has been a military disappointment. In other words, while a lot more powerful and deadly than conventional artillery, the new atomic shells will not wipe out armies overnight.

Most significant result of the recent Nevada blasts was that animals staked behind near-by shelters easily survived atomic artillery and baby A-bombs dropped from fighter planes. This convinced U.S. observers that troops in trenches or behind clumps likewise could withstand an atomic raid. Thus, in rugged terrain, atomic artillery would be no more effective against troops than heavy artillery now in use.

This means that the atomic bomb could not stop the Chinese Communists in Korea. By holding up in caves or lying low behind rocks and ridges, they could take terrific atomic punishment.

Shell for shell, however, atomic artillery would pack 100 times the wallop of TNT, would sweep clean any military targets sticking above ground.

The new A-bombs also would be most effective in retarding a Russian invasion of western Europe by bombing troop concentrations and transportation centers along the invasion route. Both B-29s and fighter-bombers are already being diverted from the Air Force's tactical and strategic commands for a special atomic air arm called retardation command.

Atomic raiding along the invasion route would be most effective against air bases. One atomic bomb could wipe out an air base, flatten parked planes, and level operations buildings.

Note—Our most powerful atomic bombs will probably be used to blast factories and military bases. It has been computed that one such bomb packs more explosive power than all the ordinary bombs so far dropped in a year and a half of Korean fighting.

Veterans Questions And Their Answers

Q.—I get a $120-a-month pension from VA because of a non-service-connected disability that has left me so helpless that I need the regular aid of another person. I'm supposed to enter a VA hospital soon for treatment. Will the payments of $120 a month go on while I am hospitalized?

A.—No. While you are receiving VA hospital care, you will be paid only the basic rate of pension, and not the additional amount paid to those in need of constant aid and attendance. Basic rates are $60 a month, going up to $72 after the veteran has been on the rolls for 10 years or when he reaches the age 65.

Q.—Will I have to take a physical examination in order to apply for the new form of non-convertible term insurance available to Korean veterans?

A.—No physical examination is needed for that insurance. But you must apply in writing to VA in Washington, D. C., within 120 days after your release or separation from service, and pay the required first premium.

How "big" should government be?

Lincoln was President at a time when the federal government had to take away from its citizens more rights and responsibilities than ever before.

But he didn't like it. He believed, with the writers of the Constitution and the Declaration, that our government should protect people's independence, not push people around.

"In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere," Lincoln once said.

Lincoln never let Americans forget that. He kept reminding the nation that the government's vast wartime powers must be only temporary.

He made powerful enemies. For there are always those who want to see government run things — and run people — permanently.

We have them today. They think up all kinds of reasons why the federal government should take over this or that business, industry or service. They never say they want socialism. Maybe they don't even realize it. But that's actually what they propose.

Most Americans don't want socialism any more than you do. The job is to recognize it — and halt it — no matter what disguise it wears.

The people who plan and work for a socialistic U.S.A. know that permanent control of a few key industries and services will give government the power to take over just about everything. One of the key industries that they're trying to take over is electric light and power. That's why we bring this warning to you.

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

... take it for granted that their insurance is just right

It's easy to be sort of lax about insurance particularly if you've never had a loss. Guessing that life will order you the awfully costly guesswork. You may have too much, or you may have too little. It's best business either way.

Texas Employment Commission

The fact that Congress in 1951 raised the taxable wage base under the Social Security Act—Old Age & Survivors Insurance—from $3,000 to $3,600 does not have any effect on the Federal Unemployment Tax Act or the State Unemployment Tax Act, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

Some employers, according to TEC, have reported wages to the agency up to $3,600, with the idea that they are compelled to under the unemployment insurance law. This is not correct, TEC says, in that the taxable wage base is still only $3,000 under the TUC law.

To clarify the different types of payroll tax laws, TEC pointed out that under the Social Security Act, an old-age and survivors insurance tax of 3 per cent is levied on wages paid by the employer up to a maximum of $3,600. Of this tax, one and one-half per cent is paid by the employer, and a like amount is paid by the employee.

Under the state unemployment insurance law, employers are required to pay taxes at a rate that varies from one-tenth of one per cent to two and seven-tenths per cent. This tax applies to only the first $3,000 paid to an individual employee in a calendar year. All of it is paid by the employer, and no part is paid by the employee.

The Federal Unemployment Tax Act levies a payroll tax of three-tenths of one per cent on wages up to a maximum of $3,000, paid to an individual employee in a calendar year as in the case under the TUC law. This excise tax is reported annually to the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, TEC said.

Actually the employer's annual report to the Federal government is a little more complicated than his quarterly report. He must report his total payroll for the year and compute the tax at 3 per cent of the payroll. The employer may deduct from this three per cent tax, 2.7 per cent of his payroll if he has timely paid the state unemployment tax. This is true even if the state tax was paid at a rate less than 2.7 per cent.
