Dimes Fund Covers Gonzales Treatment

AUSTIN, Dec. 20—The cost of polio patient care at Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation is borne by Texas chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Ed S. Stewart of Abilene, chairman of the 1951 Texas March of Dimes, pointed out today.

NFIP chapters in Texas have spent $187,000 in March of Dimes revenue at the Texas Warm Springs institution thru Sept. of this year, Stewart said. Gonzales Foundation officials reported to Stewart that the total of NFIP patient days as listed by months was as follows: January, 2,895; February, 2,349; March, 2,028; April, 1,805; May, 1,937; June, 1,664; July, 1,927; August, 2,206; and September, 1,976.

The per diem rate paid by National Foundation chapters for treatment at Gonzales is $10.00, exclusive of payments for braces and appliances.

"Gonzales is one of the leading Texas facilities for the treatment of polio convalescents," said Stewart. "The cost of this care at Gonzales, as at other hospitals, is met by county chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis through funds received from the March of Dimes.

"The average monthly bill at Gonzales for National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis patients has been $20,874 for the first nine months of 1950.

"Under an agreement between the Gonzales Foundation and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the former does not raise money to pay the per diem cost of treating polio patients at Gonzales, since the March of Dimes organization, through its Texas chapters, assumes responsibility for the cost of whatever care is needed by the polio patient. "The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis works with Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation as well as with other hospital facilities to extend treatment to Texas polio patients, and NFIP compensates Gonzales and other agencies for such care.

"Exhaustion of March of Dimes funds raised by Texas Chapters has meant that all hospitals are extending credit to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis until after the 1951 March of Dimes, January 15-31."

Texas Reserve Under New Policy

AUSTIN, Dec. 20—Authorization to transfer Army Reserve Officers from inactive to active status without regard to vacancies in the Volunteer Reserve, was received from the Department of the Army this week, Colonel C. M. Culp, Chief of the Texas Military District, announced today.

Under this new policy, many Texas Reserve Officers who have been kept on the inactive list for lack of a vacancy in the Volunteer Reserve, will be enabled to become active and participate in training activities, receive credit in longevity, retirement points and better prepare themselves for active duty, Colonel Culp pointed out.

Any Reserve officer who is not over age in grade may submit an application for such transfer to his local unit instructor. Applications must be in writing and include the following statements:

- That the officer desires the transfer.
- That he believes himself to be physically qualified for active duty in the armed forces.
- That he is capable of participating in the required Reserve duty training.

Quarter Horse Show and Cutting Horse Contest at Exposition

A Quarter Horse show and cutting horse contest will be held during the San Antonio Livestock Exposition, Feb. 16-25 at the Coliseum according to show manager, James F. Grote.

The Quarter horse show shall consist of Halter and Performance classes with $2700 in premiums being offered by the San Antonio show.

Cutting horse owners will compete for $2000 in prize money plus entry fees during the 15 performances of the Everett Colborn World's Championship Rodeo.

Approximately $1850 in premiums is being offered in the Halter Classes with trophies being awarded by the American Quarter Horse Association for the Grand Champion Stallion, Mare and Gelding. Trophies will also be awarded to the best Get-of-Sire and the best Produce-of-Dam.

In the performance classes, exhibitors of reining horses will vie for more than $900 in premiums. The four horses making the highest score will perform in the Championship class in the Feb. 24 rodeo performance.

Competition in the Quarter Horse show starts, 9:00 AM, Feb. 23 and continues through the 24th. Cutting horses begin their contest Feb. 15 in the first go-round.

The San Antonio show has the approval of the American Quarter Horse Association and the National Cutting Horse Association and will be under the direct supervision of the San Antonio Livestock Exposition.

Entry fees for Halter classes are $5 and reining classes $10. Cutting horse entry fees are set at $75 per horse. Entries will be accepted for 175 stalls. Closing date for both Quarter and Cutting Horses is Feb. 15, 1951.

Premium list for the Horse show can be obtained from James F. Grote, secretary-manager, San Antonio Livestock Exposition, Box 1746, San Antonio, Texas.

Annual Christmas Seal Sale

"Tuberculosis is a chronic, communicable disease that has no obvious symptoms in an early stage," declared Dr. Hendricks, head of the Texas Tuberculosis Assn. "Even one case of tuberculosis in a community, however early, may be a possible danger to others in the area.

"But tuberculosis can be discovered, even in an early stage, by means of the X-ray. That is why we urge every adult in the state to have a chest X-ray at least once a year."

Dr. Hendricks also briefly described the Association's health education program, the purpose of which, he said, was to inform the people of the facts of tuberculosis which could help them protect themselves against the disease.

"Although tuberculosis may strike anywhere, at any time, we believe that forewarned is forearmed," he concluded. "People who know how to protect themselves against tuberculosis are less likely to get the disease. I cannot urge too strongly that every Texan buy and use Christmas Seals. I feel that Seal purchase means ammunition against one of the State's persistent enemies, tuberculosis because it means support of the helpful year-round campaign against the disease carried on by the tuberculosis associations."

Veterans' Questions And Their Answers

Q.—In 1940, I enlisted in the Canadian army and lost my American citizenship by doing so. I recently was repatriated and am living in the United States. Am I eligible for GI Bill benefits?

A.—Yes, so long as you haven't received the same or similar benefits from the Canadian government. Under the law, you are eligible so long as you were a United States citizen at the time of entry into active duty with an allied government.

Q.—I am the widow of a World War II veteran, and I am drawing NSLI payments in regular monthly installments. Is it possible to obtain the remainder of the insurance in a lump sum so I can buy a house?

A.—No. Once insurance payments have started, no change in the method of payments may be made.

Q.—My husband, a World War I veteran, recently passed away, leaving me a $600 commercial life insurance policy which I received in a lump sum and which is my only income. May I also obtain death pension payments from VA?

A.—Yes. Pensions may be paid from the day following your husband's death, so long as your sole income during the calendar year in which he died consists of a lump-sum settlement of commercial life insurance which does not exceed $1,000—if you have no children.

Q.—I have just been discharged from the Army after four months' service. Do I qualify for GI Bill benefits?

A.—No. One of the requirements is active service between September 16, 1940, and July 25, 1947.

Q.—I am a serviceman holding a $5,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. If I go overseas, is my insurance automatically increased to $10,000, or must I apply for the additional amount if I want it?

A.—You must apply with your unit's insurance officer. The increase is not granted automatically under present laws.

Q.—I intend to take GI Bill flight training, and I need affidavits from two "competent, disinterested persons", stating the training will be put to bona fide use in connection with my job. May my employer submit one of the affidavits, even though he isn't necessarily a "disinterested" person?

A.—Yes, so long as he can testify, by reason of personal knowledge and facts, that the flight training will be used in connection with your earning a livelihood.

Tuberculosis can — and does — kill at any age. It kills more than 1,500 children under 15 years of age a year, but the median age at which it kills has advanced from 39 in 1939 to 46 in 1947. The median age for cancer is 65 and for heart diseases, 70.

Mental Meanderings:

We now have well advanced into a new year, one which may be the most significant in our lives, and in the lives of all civilization. It may be the uneasy peace which has prevailed will continue throughout the year, or it will see the start of the Third World War. None of us here in this country, and in all peace-loving countries for that matter, favor war unless on attack. But when the Devil labors there is no telling what fruit he will bring forth. May it be that this is not the hour of total conflict, but of turning points in man's search for peace.

Let's strive for many good things in this new year. But above all, let us help our fellowman. These are hard times now, and many are facing dreary prospects for the future, not the distant future, but the immediate future. Help must be given these peoples or then America's noble gesture of helping the undernourished and unprovided for people of other countries will be a mockery for some of our own people.

A fellow told us that for Christmas, several weeks before in fact, he culled his brains and many magazines and catalogs and ads trying to find a suitable present for a friend. Christmas found him without any, so he went and bought about the only one available. He found out that it was what was wanted all the time. Moral (if any): Simple choice is often the most pleasing.

Now we expect to hear some wisecrack over the radio, made by a would-be comedian, that there are so many days until next Christmas.

One thing we noticed, the seed and flower catalogs were late in coming out this past season. Possibly the paper shortage; perhaps the dry spell and again — just perhaps.

One thing we noticed. Around Christmas time there were more of those old-time fadoles, or Christmas lights out than we had in previous years. It has appeared to us that in recent times the number of these Christmas "lights" had been dwindling, and that the old but beautiful custom would die out. It is a good thought behind that custom, but civilization and "modern times" have a way of knocking off many customs.

Calendars were very slowing this year in coming out. Some places apparently took the view that this year, with rationing and controls in the offing, there would not be too much need of advertising by way of calendars.

It won't be too long—not the way time flies at any rate, afore we will be getting around to planting for springtime. True, we have had a severe dry spell all this past quarter, and it may string along for a while yet, but spring usually brings showers, and showers bring out the flowers. So, why not let us plan for the future, let's make this a planting year, and this one of the nicest places to visit in and look at ever seen. That's a good project, folks.

Seems like everyone in the world was sending Christmas and New Year's cards this past holiday season. Maybe they all felt the urge to make that Christmas and that New Year's day one to remember in case we do not have very many more merry ones.

The big fuss over television in color seems a little far-fetched to most of us, but one may discern, if he cares to look at it just on the assumption of what is going on in governmental circles, that there are some branches of federal government who don't mind just reaching out, even if they exceed their authority, and take some liberty away from the general public. Not that nothing done in this nation, or in government need surprise anyone. Having found a way to encroach on the rights of the public, many bureaucrats find it interesting and profitable to see how far they can go without getting fingers burnt.

All Marshal Plan aid for Britain gets cut off Jan. 1. Which probably means that we have about put Britain on her feet again. And, we will in all probability, as usual, not get any credit for the good job that our dollars did there. Sweden is said to be about ready to stop the Marshal Plan. But some of those others—well, as long as the golden rain is coming, they are keeping their hats under the spout.

The past year in one particular was not a pleasant one. We refer to the large number of fatalities that came from carelessness, speed, negligence, and indifference. Many lives were lost that might have been saved. It would be fine if all the nation would make its mind up to lower death and injuries from auto accidents. But indifference and carelessness are too well imbued in so many that it is almost useless to talk about it.

We overheard a fellow the other day start off saying: "It's none of my business, but—" And he was rudely interrupted by the other, who shortly answered him: "It surely isn't." A few more answers like that and there probably wouldn't be so many ready to tear a character part, to besmirch a reputation.

It seems odd how some of the old ideas just don't want to wear out or die off. We remember for years hearing of some home help idea, a home remedy, which was sneered at but eventually found to bear much fruit; but some of these which never should have lasted so long if only someone with a scientific turn of mind had probed into it, seem to be ridiculous and apparent to anyone with a lick of sense. Human nature.

The government is inviting its citizens to send in ideas and inventions to National Inventors Council which sorts them out and if found worthy, submits them to the armed forces or defense boards for possible use. Some of the best in warfare as in peace comes from people who put their brains to work, and America has the brains.

It's getting tighter than we think. Soon, we can expect that even with controls, the economic situation is so tense that it's gonna be hard to even get the stuff wherewith to buy. Meaning of course, that many phases of credit buying, as we know it, go overboard.

Household Hints

To soften a new rope clothes line and to make it last longer, boil it in soap and water for five minutes before using it for the first time.

If you use a pail of clean, dry sand as a storage place for small garden tools, you will retard rust.

Regardless of how young or small your baby is, you can weigh him or her quite accurately on an ordinary bathroom floor scale. Climb on the scale with the mite in your arms and make a note of the weight that shows up. Then step on the scale empty-handed. The net difference between the two weighings is, of course, the weight of your bambino.

If sparrows and other birds congregate outside the nursery window and wake the baby up too early, hang a cheesecloth sack full of mothballs as close as possible to the place where the birds convene. That'll make them decide to go hire a hall.

THE SICK TREES

TREES HAD NEVER WORRIED us much. The big ones in the yard seemed so self-dependent, resourceful and free from security programs. But suddenly the big winds came, and flat on the lawn for the 10 count were our two finest specimens from the forest primeval. What to do? We never felt so futile. In all our garden tools there was no derrick. No birthdays had brought us a steam shovel. There wasn't a steel cable in the joint. There must be somebody to call in such emergencies. . . . City Hall? . . . Nope! . . . The local political leader? . . . No dice! . . . How about the phone book? . . . Any "Day & Night Tree Uprighting Company"? . . . "Timber Division of National Red Cross"? . . . "Federal Tree Security Administration"? . . . Nothing in the book. . . . What a problem!

"I think the phone book lists them as tree surgeons," said the wife. We finally got hold of one. He was very busy. Could see our trees only by appointment. "How about next Thursday at 10:45?" It was really urgent, we argued. "How serious is the condition of your trees?" he asked. "Flat on their backs," we explained. "Not even able to sit up and take nourishment." "I'll see them Wednesday at 3:30. Keep them quiet. No visitors!" he snapped.

Ultimately Dr. Widgeon, the tree surgeon, showed up. He walked around our fallen Druids, shook his head and said, "This is serious. It's a CBO. . . . Completely Blown Over case." "And RTAE too. Roots Torn and Exposed." "Can you do anything?" we asked. He thought so. The trees had led good lives and were the rugged sort. But they would have to go on a waiting list! "Fifty trees ahead of 'em. Be over soon as possible with truck, hoists and tackle. Meanwhile, stop worrying. Don't convey sense of fear to trees." Then he dashed away. We sat up with trees for a week. They looked pretty sick. After a while we phoned Dr. Widgeon. He didn't recall the case. We refreshed his recollection with difficulty. "Oh, those!" he said. "My staff filed the card wrong. Sorry. Get around to them soon as possible."

"But my trees are in awful shape," we said. "Got worse cases," insisted the tree surgeon.

"Be patient. Suggest aspirin every four hours, hot water bottle at night and maybe a sulfa tablet."

"For the trees?" we asked. "No, for YOU!" he said.

He showed up a day or two later with what seemed like a fire department hook and ladder and four men. The trees were soon upright and supported by guy wires. Everything seemed fine. Then we got the bill. Now we ar flatter on our back than the trees were. And deliciously chanting:

*Poems are saved by fools like me:
My error was to save a tree;
It sat sky high upon a bill . . .
But higher sits the tree man's bill.*

YE GOTHAM BUGLE

Ima Dodo got so mixed up she asked for tickets to "Ring Around the Sun" and "Season in the Moon." . . . Shudda Haddim missed that daily double on "Dime" and "Jobstown." . . . "I knew that after I bet two bucks I'd be down to my last dime," he weeps. "And I had already spoke for a part-time job in Coral Gables. Yet I don't get a hunch!" . . . Since Gotham redcaps began charging 25 cents a bag we ad getts off a train and asks for bids . . . "Hosts of Guards Protect Truman at Army-Navy Game."—headline. But none protected Army. . . . "Such Love Is Seldom," a new book by Anne Cawley Boardman has a dramatic story far beyond the ones the movies buy. It is a terrific tale of an immigrant girl, Mary Walsh, who soon after landing in New York began devoting her life to the service of the sick poor. Out of it grew a great charitable order. The account of her sacrifices and triumphs is more moving than any Book of the Month Club choice.

1 egg, well beaten
1 1/4 cups milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening
1 cup wheat flakes, slightly crushed

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine egg and milk; add gradually to flour, mixing only until smooth. Add shortening and flakes. Bake on hot griddle. While hot, spread each griddle cake to edge with Damson Plum Preserves. Roll up lightly and serve with maple-blended syrup.

Turn once to brown on both sides. Roll cakes while hot. When ready to serve, heat rolled cakes in hot sauce about 5 minutes. Serve with following sauce:

1 cup pineapple syrup
6 tablespoons sugar or corn syrup, light or dark
3 teaspoons cornstarch
4 tablespoons cold water
4 tablespoons butter
4 slices pineapple, canned

Heat pineapple syrup to boiling. Mix sugar or corn syrup, cornstarch and water; add to heated syrup; bring to boil over low heat stirring constantly; simmer 3 minutes. Remove from heat, add butter and pineapple, cut in small pieces.

APPLES ARE PLENTIFUL now and can be used for lovely dessert pancakes as follows:

Apple Griddle Cakes
(Makes 12-15 cakes)
2 beaten eggs
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
3/4 cup finely chopped apple

Combine eggs, milk, and shortening. Add flour sifted with salt, baking powder, sugar, and apple; beat smooth. Bake on ungreased griddle. When baked, spread with butter and brown sugar; roll up and serve.

Pancakes go to dessert in color when they're made paper thin and rolled with cranberry sauce, strawberry jam or orange marmalade. Good with breakfast pancakes is a spread made by creaming together butter with brown sugar or maple sugar. Here's a light serving tip for breakfast cakes: sprinkle with granulated sugar and dash with a bit of lemon juice. Season your cream sauce with a fine sprinkling of herbs for creamed chicken or turkey and serve over hot crisp waffles. Compliments will smother you! Vienna sausage served with corn pancakes make a delicious combination for quick supper or luncheon. Hot, buttered syrup may be served with them. If you're serving pancakes to a crowd, heat the oven and stack the cakes on a cookie sheet to keep warm until ready to serve enough at one time.

Salt Water Stuff

This is the season of the year when the more fortunate among northern and eastern anglers already are in the southland or heading there as speedily as possible.

For these favored gentry, there are all the thrills and excitement of southern bass fishing, as well as the more strenuous sport of deep sea angling with its exciting prospect of the quarry being bigger than the stalker. For the deep sea addict, the range and type of his fishing are almost limitless. If he desires, he can clamber aboard the charter and cruise boats and do battle with sailfish, giant swords and marlin, to say nothing of the killer, mako and lesser sharks that may fall to his lure.

If his tastes are less for the giants of the deep, there are almost a million-and-one smaller species which will offer him much sport and many swell fish dinners. Among these, of course, are the weakfish (spotted trout), the groupers, snappers and a host of others. Should the angler be out sheerly for sport and wishes to risk his tackle, he may go after baby tarpon with his fly-rod—admittedly one of the most spectacular and exciting types of fishing to be found anywhere.

As for tackle for most deep-sea sport, the rare thing about it is that he need have no tackle at all. For, on most of the charter and cruise boats, there is always ample tackle and it will be rented to the angler and the price included in the overall cost of the trip.

The surf fisherman, too, will be coming in for his share of sport as he haunts the lonely beaches, casting, ever casting into the foaming surf in search of the battling striper or other salt water denizen. For the ice-bound Ike Walton, there is nothing to do to while away the long days until spring except read outdoor magazines, refurbish items of tackle or hopefully wait for tackle catalogues detailing next year's equipment offerings.

Fire In Winter

Starting a fire in winter, when ground and fuel are likely to be wet with rain or snow is sometimes very difficult—but it can be done. Previous preparation is many times the answer. For instance, paraffin is an excellent tinder, and several small cubes wrapped individually and carried in your pack will pay valuable dividends. The stub of a candle, or a newspaper rolled tightly, dipped into paraffin and cut into small lengths, are also excellent materials. A little piece of sandpaper or a lady's small fingerboard glued in the top of your waterproof matchbox will provide a dry place for striking matches.

In selecting your wood, naturally get the driest it is possible to find and make some "prayer" or "fuzz" sticks. To do this, cut long slivers along all sides of the twigs and leave them attached. Place your tinder on the driest possible spot of ground and lay some of the dry shavings over it. Over this, place one or two of the "prayer" sticks or you have made. As the fire is lighted and the "fuzz sticks" catch fire, more and more can be added until a fair-sized flame is going. To this should be added the small kindling which already you have prepared. Add kindling gradually, working up to the big limbs which, finally, will make your fire.

Knife-Sharpening

Every sharp-edged tool requires periodic sharpening regardless of quality. Of course, the finer quality the knife, the less sharpening will be necessary. To get the most from your hunting or pocket knife, use this procedure to maintain a sharp edge:

Use a natural oil stone or composition stone of medium fine grade. Hold the blade of your knife at about a 20-degree angle and draw against the edge of the stone from heel to point, a few strokes on each side of the blade. A sharp edge will soon be restored.

Never lay the blade flat on the stone, and take care to use even, straight strokes on both sides. With the last few strokes, you may lessen the pressure being applied. Use a few drops of kerosene or light machine oil on the stone in order to obtain a smooth, keen edge on the blade. Never use a coarse stone or a grinding wheel, as these will destroy a fine cutting edge.

Bench Rest Rifles

Bench rest rifles for the most part boast long, heavy barrels. Some of these look like a telephone pole on Main street, and look, too, as if they'd weigh just about as much. A rifle with an inch-and-a-quarter barrel, about 23 inches long, a strong action and a high-powered scope will tip the scales at around 20 pounds, maybe more. That is a lot of steel, but who cares? You don't have to carry it around.

Smile Awhile

Business Report
"My business is looking up," said the astronomer.
"Mine is going up in smoke," complained the cigar-maker.
"Mine is all write," chuckled the author.
"Mine is just sew, sew," remarked the tailor.
"Mine is growing," the farmer boasted.
"Ours is pretty light," snapped the electric light man.
"Mine is picking up," smiled the cheerful rag picker.
"Mine is looking better," opined the optician.

Calls Her Name
"I suppose Thompson is the most pious fellow I know."
"Why, he never struck me that way. In fact I always thought him rather worldly."
"Well, I happen to know for a fact that he never kisses his girl without saying grace."
"Why, what in the world does he do that for?"
"That's her name."

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

... take it for granted that their insurance is just right

It's easy to be sort of lax about insurance, particularly if you've never had a loss. "Guessing" that it's all in order can be awfully costly guesswork. You may have too much, or you may have too little. It's bad business either way.

Max! Don't risk leaving it to disaster to show where you stand... Let us go over your insurance situation BEFORE a loss comes.

OFF TO HUNTSVILLE

Early Friday morning December 28, Leo Brown was taken to Huntsville by state officers to start serving a sentence in district court in the cause wherein Brown had been charged, tried and convicted for the slaying of Clarence Goosby. The delay in his transfer was said to have been due to crowded conditions at the state penal institution. Brown had been assessed a ten year term by a jury in district court.

HUNTING SEASON OVER

The 1950 hunting season ended on the last day of the year, with hunters out in force toward the end of the season. During the extended holiday season as if almost everyone was hunting and with outsiders in the field also, quite a large number of bucks were bagged. Some wild turkeys were in evidence. Hunting violations tried were very few this year in comparison with those of former years.

Approximately 100,000 persons who are free from tuberculosis today will have the disease within a year.

Del Rio & Winter Garden Telephone Company Del Rio, Texas

Statement of Company Policy

The employees in Del Rio, through prearrangement with Union officials, walked out Thursday December 28 1950 from 10:30 to 11 A. M. notwithstanding the fact it was in violation of the contract in existence and the fact the Union Representative had in their possession a Company offer at 10:10 A. M.

This all happened while the Company was endeavoring through collective bargaining with the Union Committee to reach a settlement in a conference room. The Company had no knowledge of the walkout until it happened.

NO ONE EVER WINS A STRIKE

Employee lose the full amount of their wages while a strike is in progress, the public suffers because a vital service has been curtailed, and the Company loses revenue. Therefore no one wants a strike.

TELEPHONE JOBS ARE GOOD JOBS BECAUSE:

- (a) They offer steady year round work.
- (b) They provide good working conditions in pleasant surroundings.
- (c) They include paid vacations and holidays.
- (d) Employees get sick benefits.
- (e) Employees get extra pay for all hours over 40.

TO AVOID A STRIKE

Your Company believes that telephone jobs should be good jobs—that compare favorably, and in many ways, are better than other positions requiring similar skill and experience in the communities we serve. The Company has offered to increase wages of plant and clerical people and to shorten progressions schedules of all employees to 6 1/2 years to reach top pay. This will mean that 80% of all telephone people in the Company would get immediate raises.

Four out of five employees received wage increases in 1950, under the present contract. The Company believes that it has made a fair and just offer. It sincerely hopes that a strike can be avoided.

THE COMPANY'S POSITION IN THE EVENT OF A STRIKE WOULD BE AS FOLLOWS:

- (1) Everything possible would be done to meet our obligation to provide continuing telephone service to the public.
- (2) There is nothing in any law or contract between the Union and the Company which would require the Company to discharge, demote, or discipline any employee for remaining at work during a strike or for returning to work before the end of a strike.
- (3) The Company hopes and expects that any picketing that may be done in the event of a strike will be peaceful, and that no attempt will be made to prevent employees who wish to work from doing so.
- (4) The Company believes that it is the first duty of Company and employees alike to provide uninterrupted telephone service to the public.

Letter From State Health Officer

AUSTIN, Dec. 27—Most fathers and mothers want their boys and girls to go to school regularly. They send them off in the morning willingly — sometimes thankfully. The fact that there is a law which compels parents to send their children to school seldom or never occurs to them, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Various studies in the United States and Canada show that sickness is the cause of the great majority of lawful school absences. Certainly it would be impossible to wipe absences because of illness and accidental injury entirely off the record. But they can be reduced in number and shortened in length if parents, teachers, and the doctors, nurses, and guidance personnel serving the school work closely together.

The boy or girl in the beginning stages of a cold or sore throat or some other catching illness is a focus of infection from which new cases easily spread outward in ever-widening circles. Often the parents can help to keep infectious diseases from spreading in school by keeping children at home when they are not in their usual health. Teachers can help by having an evenly heated and well ventilated room and by teaching children to stay home when ill.

Excuses for absences are important to the school both for the record and for the information they give the teacher, the nurse, and the doctor in their health guidance of the child. If the child was under medical care the excuse should indicate that the doctor approves a return to school. Any special recommendations made by the doctor will help the teacher to make any adjustments needed in the child's school program.

Here's the POWER!

America's electric light and power companies are ready to accept whatever demands the nation makes upon them.

Years of planning and building by this business-managed industry are behind our readiness to serve. Since the end of World War II—during which electric power was "never too little or too late"—these companies have increased their electric generating capacity by 35%. Almost as much more is planned to be added within the next three years.

Here in South Texas, CPL has available more than twice as much power as in December, 1941, the beginning of World War II. Electric service facilities are still being expanded at top speed and new power—lots of it—is under construction and planned for the future.

There is no power shortage in America today. And we pledge our every resource to meet the future needs of our national economy and to preserve our national security.

Churchill Supports Attlee

THERE is a certain vein of similarity running through the lives of the two men who conferred regarding the course to be followed by the British and American governments toward future war or peace.

Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman both are left-of-center liberals, both have spent much of their lives in government, both have tried to work for the less-privileged sector of the British and American people.

Neither is considered a strong man in his own country, neither is a man of much imagination, neither has the force, the flair, the genius of two others who conferred a great deal during the past decade—Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

However, Clement Attlee, in his quiet way and backed by a powerful labor party, has put across a schedule of socialist legislation which staid old Britons never dreamed could happen.

And while these reforms were passed in the face of vigorous conservative opposition, nevertheless, Attlee today has one important advantage over President Truman. He has the support of his opponent, Winston Churchill, when it comes to foreign policy.

Churchill Advised Trip

Furthermore, he has the support of most of the Conservative party. On the other hand, Truman of late has had the bitter, sometimes vitriolic opposition of a majority of Republican senators in regard to almost every foreign-policy move he has made.

Attlee not only was careful to get Churchill's support before he left London, but Churchill even advised him on how to force Truman's hand regarding the trip.

What happened was that immediately after the Prime Minister heard of Truman's atom-bomb statement, he called on Churchill. Though political opponents, the two served in the same coalition war cabinet together and are personal friends.

At one time Attlee was Churchill's deputy prime minister, and handled British domestic affairs while Churchill was busy with the war.

With this background of friendship, it is not hard to understand why Attlee should have consulted Churchill or that Churchill advised him that he should take the trip to Washington.

Furthermore, Churchill suggested that inasmuch as Truman might be opposed to the trip, Attlee should make a premature announcement of his plan—thus making it impossible for Truman to decline. This was why news of Attlee's plans prematurely leaked from London.

Churchill also promised Attlee that no effort would be made to overthrow the Labor government while he was away.

Attlee's Tory Background

Though Truman and Attlee have much in common politically, Attlee came from more conservative surroundings. His father was a Tory lawyer and president of the British equivalent to the American Bar Association. After studying at England's ritziest schools and being admitted to the bar, however, young Attlee suddenly became a social worker.

At the age of 24 he went to work and lived in Limehouse, one of London's workmen's districts, and he has made his life with labor ever since.

Unlike Mr. Truman, who frequently lapses into Missouri mule-driver's language, Attlee's diction is cultured, sometimes poetic. In fact, he has written some widely quoted poems, one of them regarding his own workmen's district, which reads:

"I hear the feet of many men who go their way . . . Through streets that have no pity, and streets where men decay."

Repairs Own Pipes

Attlee is married to Violet Helen Millar, and for many years they lived with their four children in a modest house in a London suburb where Attlee did a little gardening and repaired his own pipes in his own carpenter's shop.

Unlike Truman, Attlee is a halting, none-to-forgetful speaker. When he speaks impromptu, he hesitates and repeats. The President, on the other hand, is at his best when speaking off the cuff. In conferences, Attlee tries to win his point by charm and persuasion. The President sometimes gets impatient and petulant.

When Foreign Minister Molotov visited Truman a few days after Roosevelt's death while en route to the San Francisco conference, the new President spent 45 minutes bawling him out. There have been many occasions when Molotov deserved such a scolding.

In Europe, Attlee and his government are considered among the most vigorous of all opponents to communism, and it is sometimes predicted that, in case the Russians overran Europe, the Attlee cabinet would be the first to suffer.

This Year's Football

THERE IS A GOOD CHANCE that college football will drop to an even lower level in 1951 than it knew in 1944 and 1945, when only Army, Navy and Navy Pre-flights and a few other schools had any real teams.

The other eleven were composed largely of kids and 4F's. It's possible, with the increasing demands of the military arm, that Army and Navy will have the only good teams left.

For example, I was talking with Jeff Cravath of Southern California about the Army game next fall. "Army," said Jeff, "won't lose any men by the draft. Only by graduation. We've already lost good men and we are pretty sure to lose others. Under these conditions I wouldn't want to take a draft-ridden team East to be out-classed and slaughtered by a powerful, untouched Army squad consisting of Pollard, Pollock, Filipki, Johnson, Beck, Weaver and other stars."

"We would have little chance with everybody back against this 1951 Army line-up. Just a few more young fellows lost to the draft would wreck us."

"This isn't Army's fault, of course," Cravath said. "It is one of the breaks of the defense of the peace. Army and Navy certainly lead any college in time of war. They do a great job. But they also have most of the good football players in time of war."

There is a new call of 400,000 for the draft. This will be directed at young fellows largely between the ages of 19 and 22. It will take more than a few baseball stars, especially all the good rookies. It also will wreck the cheerful prospects of many a football squad.

In the last war the Army abandoned football outside of West Point. The Navy was responsible for most of the football played. No one knows what will happen in 1951. The fogs and the mists ahead are thick.

Will the Army again give up the game or will the Army join in with the Navy? Will there be more pre-flight schools where football will be played? Or will the Navy also quit the game and leave the colleges to struggle along without help?

Army-Navy Game

The Army-Navy game may be one of the few big games played next year. Army and Navy certainly will stick to football. They need it. Other colleges may need it, but they'll be floundering.

Big-time football may easily grow out of fashion. This might hurt future football. When the game has reached the point where it takes $250,000 a year to finance a football squad, there is little of the amateur side left.

Everyone knows that most college stars are well taken care of through scholarships and other expenses. Everybody knows that many others are paid in cash, under the table, not by the colleges but by alumni.

Football is one of the greatest of all games. It is a great sport and a magnificent spectacle—when it is treated as a sport and not big business. It is needed as a conditioner for those who play it in time of war.

But there is where luck breaks against Army and Navy. During the last war they had all the breaks in material. Through the next year or two, or longer, they will again get all the breaks in material. They will receive no credit for beating draft-depleted opponents—not if they win 80 to 0. Again this isn't their fault. But, again, if the draft begins to cut in heavily, Army and Navy can't expect opponents to be slaughtered.

It may not be this bad. This may be a morbid view. But again it might be even worse in a world that is still thinking in terms of suicide and extinction. If the first atom bomb ever falls, the rest of the story is incredible chaos. Football won't even be a dot on the schedule of destruction.

As an eminent bard by the name of William Shakespeare once said: "Cowards die many times before their deaths; the valiant taste of death but once."

Too Much Pressure

Apparently few colleges and still fewer old grads can't understand that in a football game both teams can't win. As a result, pressure on coaches has become so heavy that no sane man will ever want the job.

When a great coach, such as Bernie Bierman has been for decades, wants to quit and when a winning coach, such as Blair Cherry of Texas is, also wants to quit, you can get some idea of the picture.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman, Attlee Outline Program Of 'Peace Without Appeasement'; Korean Picture Remains Serious

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

The four men above have concluded a conference that may become known as the last stand of democracy. For five days, President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee (seated) conferred on the present world crisis. President Truman was advised by Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall (standing). Peace without appeasement was the theme of the conference.

ATTLEE-TRUMAN: A Joint Statement

President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee concluded their historic five-day conference on the theme of "peace without appeasement". It was impossible, however, to evaluate the results of the meeting in the light of swiftly moving events. It suffices to say the two nations gained a clearer view of mutual problems and possible future action.

Appointments

A 10-point statement was issued at the conclusion of the conference: 1. Economic and military aid to the non-Communist nations in southeast Asia will go forward despite the Communist onslaught against Korea. 2. The United States and Britain "will act together with resolution and unity to meet the challenge to peace which recent weeks have made clear to all."

KOREA: What's the Next Move?

The military picture in Korea was still serious. The U. S. eighth army withdrew successfully from North Korea and established defense positions below the 38th parallel and north of Seoul. The first marine division, British units and small groups of U. S. army troops reached Hamhung after a 50-mile retreat in sub-zero cold. The first marines thus escaped the Communist trap sprung by six divisions, but not without heavy casualties.

RENT CONTROL: Extended 90 Days

Much to the surprise of many observers, the house and senate approved a 90-day extension of the federal rent-control law. The senate's action on the bill must still be ratified by the house, but that approval was expected without trouble. The new legislation replaced the federal rent control law that expired at the end of December except in communities that decided to continue them through June 30. The three-month extension provision is exactly what Truman requested. He told congress a 90-day continuance would give the lawmakers time next year to consider the whole rent problem in relation to other inflation controls.

FARM BUREAU Farm Bureau Speakers Rap Controls

Speakers at the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Dallas, Tex., said the American farmer doesn't want either price controls or rationing. Federation President Allan B. Kline said, "Price control does not control inflation. It is the handmaiden of inflation. It covers up." He suggested higher taxes as an inflation control.

U.S.A., 1951: What's in Store?

With 1951 but a few days away a number of observers paused long enough to ask the question of what is life in the United States going to be like during the coming year, assuming we have still managed to avert a third world war?

The assumption that the U. S. will not be involved in war during 1951 is taking the optimistic view of world events. But if that should be the case, the future shapes up something like this:

Cost of living will be higher, perhaps by as much as six per cent, even with price and wage controls.

Food will be ample, including luxuries, at higher prices. When incomes are high, people not only eat more, but eat better.

High grade wool for clothing will be scarce and nylon goods will be in tight supply.

House furnishings quality will deteriorate, and some items will not be available.

Automobile production will be far below 1950's eight million or more.

There should be enough gasoline to go around, but the quality is likely to be somewhat lower.

There will be more jobs than job-hunters and most workers will be working longer hours.

Taxes will be a good deal higher for individuals and corporations. An excess-profits tax is almost certain.

Consumer credit controls will be tougher, meaning larger down payments even than now and shorter payment periods.

All of which means, according to the experts, a lower standard of living for the average American and an austerity program for the country generally.

HARRY GOLD: End of Sordid Story

The end of the sordid story of Harry Gold, 40, confessed member of a Russian espionage ring, was written in a U. S. court. He was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

After the trial, Gold said in a statement that he had made a "terrible mistake" and added that he had received the "most scrupulously fair trial and treatment."

"Most certainly," he said, "that could never have happened in the Soviet Union or any of the countries dominated by it."

Gold admitted during his trial of turning over to Soviet agents vital defense secrets and data on atomic research obtained by British scientists Dr. Klaus Fuchs.

The convicted man said he was concerned over the fact that "those who mean so much to me have been the most besmirched by my deeds—my country, my family and friends, my former classmates at Xavier University (Cincinnati) and the Jesuits there, and the people at the heart station of Philadelphia General Hospital.

BUSINESS: Record Investment

The commerce department in a recent report said American business plans to invest $4,800,000,000 in new factories, machinery and other equipment during the first quarter of 1951, setting a record for that season.

"On the basis of preliminary returns, if plans for the year as a whole are realized, 1951 capital outlays will be higher than in any previous year," the department said.

The present full-year record, $19,230,000,000, was established in booming 1948. In 1949, a recession year, expansion outlays fell to $18,100,000,000. 1950 is expected to be about the same as last year.

The report also showed a sharp pickup in business spending for new plants and equipment since the outbreak of the Korean war last June.

If plans uncovered in the department survey are carried out, expansion outlays in the first quarter of 1951 will be 30 per cent above the first quarter of 1950. All major industries will be contributing to the increase.

Stabilizer

Michael DiSalle, mayor of Toledo, O., was named by President Truman to serve as director of price stabilization. The post assumed increasing importance with continued rumors that price-wage controls would be clamped on in the near future.

ACCIDENTS: 442,970 Killed

Automobiles slaughtered more Americans in the past 14 years than have been killed or fatally wounded in all the wars in U. S. history including latest available casualty figures from Korea, reported the Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

In the same period automobiles injured 13 times as many Americans as wounded in all United States wars.

President Stands Alone

DESPIKE THE fact that President Truman is in almost hourly conference with his cabinet, with top military advisors and with leaders in Congress, there is probably no man who is more alone than the man in the White House.

For under our constitution, the President of the United States is solely responsible for the foreign policy of this country.

As one writer phrased it, "The fate of the civilized world may well hang on the soundness of the decisions which Harry Truman will have to make, and in the last analysis, he will have to make them alone, in consultation with his God and his heart and his conscience.

He will have the sympathy and support of all thinking people, but there will be none to envy him."

And as the President goes through his lonely Gethsemane, there is a hue and cry from many sources that Mr. Truman should seek and follow the advice of members of the congress in this time of national crisis. This reporter has jotted down some of the opinions in the senate to which the President should listen as he seeks a solution of the problems which beset the nation.

Here they are: Senator Wiley, Wisconsin, thinks we should build up our spiritual armament to take an offensive against the Russian government.

Senator Capehart, Indiana, believes if the situation is serious, and it is serious, why doesn't the President consult the congress.

Senator Chavez, New Mexico, believes this country, the executive department, the house of representatives, the senate of the United States, must once and forever tell the world that we will not recognize Communist China.

Senator Eastland, Mississippi, thinks we should arm the anti-Communists in China.

Senator Knowland, California, believes we should place, in conjunction with the navy of the Republic of China, an immediate naval blockade against the entire China coast and should not permit the entry or exit of a vessel of any nationality.

Senator Kim, Missouri, believes Secretary Acheson must go; congress should take whatever steps are required to bring about this result.

Senator Malone, Nevada, thinks we must let General MacArthur use every means and every weapon against the enemy, or endeavor to entirely remove the U. S. forces from Korea.

Senator Connally, Texas, thinks the security council should be called upon to take appropriate action to bring about a quick showdown in Korea.

Senator O'Mahoney, Wyoming, thinks we should serve the Russians with an ultimatum to get the Chinese troops out of Korea.

Senator Brewster, Maine, thinks General MacArthur should be given full authority to use the atom bomb if he thinks it necessary.

Senator Bridges, New Hampshire, believes the same thing.

Senator Cain, Washington, demands that General MacArthur be given authority to send troops and planes across the Manchurian border.

Senator Ferguson, Michigan, says MacArthur should be given authority to wage all-out war.

Senator Smith, New Jersey, believes the Chinese troops of Chiang-Kai-shek should be thrown into the fight.

Diversity of Opinion

This diversity of opinion is much like Joseph's coat and the chances are will not be very helpful to the President in making his fateful decision. So as President, he must make his own decision, and as a nation we should stand back of him to the limit of our endurance as a people.

Washington Silhouettes

Washington Silhouettes—The old Belasco theatre on Lafayette park may be back in service as a recreational center for service men. During World War II it was a stage door canteen and stands next to the historical home of Dolly Madison. In peacetime it serves as a storage house for the treasury . . . quiet 56-year-old Senator Ernest McFarland of Arizona, farmer-banker-schoolteacher-lawyer, likely compromise senate majority leader, a middle-of-the-roader, has one creed— he tries to get along with people . . . if he is elected it will be a Democratic unity move. It seems almost sacrilegious to watch workmen dig a sewer trench across the velvety green lawn of the White House in the refurbishing process . . . state officials may obtain original seals of their states painted on glass in the 1850's, now removed in favor of sculptured seals in the new house chamber, by writing to David Lynn, Capitol architect. Crisis in international affairs has so changed thinking there is a chance the excess profits tax may pass this lame-duck session despite opposition of business interests.

Michael DiSalle, mayor of Toledo, O., was named by President Truman to serve as director of price stabilization. The post assumed increasing importance with continued rumors that price-wage controls would be clamped on in the near future.

State Health Officer Warns Parents Against Whooping Cough

AUSTIN, Texas. — "Your child can be protected from whooping cough by the use of anti-serum available for the immunization of youngsters," according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, as he advised parents not to take this communicable disease lightly.

"Since whooping cough is particularly dangerous for babies the need for early protection against it is undisputed. Research has shown that preventive treatment may safely and effectively be given at the age of two months or earlier. Older children who have been previously immunized should receive booster doses of the vaccine."

Pointing out that Texas has had over 10,700 cases of whooping cough so far this year, Dr. Cox reminded parents that whooping cough is sometimes fatal to young children. It may also leave the lungs and other affected parts permanently damaged.

"In an effort to control whooping cough emphasis is placed upon the great importance of calling the family physician at any time when a child is not in normal health. If the first signs of a cold do not disappear after a few days of good home care, including rest in bed and isolation from other children, the physician should be called as the cold in itself may be dangerous. The physician will prescribe proper treatment and report any cases of communicable disease to the public health officer.
