Support TB Research By Buying Xmas Seals

Asserting that progress already made in tuberculosis control is "proof that further progress can be made and will be made with the continued cooperative effort of the American people," President Truman has expressed the hope that Americans will be generous this holiday season in their purchase of Christmas Seals, which support the work of the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated state and county associations.

The following is the full text of the President's statement regarding the 1950 Christmas Seal Sale now being conducted throughout the nation:

Tuberculosis has taken the lives of more than 5,000,000 Americans in the past 50 years.

Tragic as this figure is, it would have been worse if the American people had not banded together to fight tuberculosis. They formed the National Tuberculosis Association in 1904 and launched a nationwide campaign against this disease. Since then, the TB death rate has been cut 85 per cent. Yet I am informed that tuberculosis today leads all diseases as a cause of death in the age group from 15 to 35.

The progress already made is proof that further progress can be made and will be made, with the continued cooperative effort of the American people. One way of showing we are behind the anti-tuberculosis campaign is to use Christmas Seals, sold annually to support the work of the NTA and the 3,000 state and local voluntary associations now affiliated with it.

First sold in this country in 1907, the Christmas Seal has become a symbol of the people's fight to eradicate tuberculosis.

To hasten that day, I hope the American people will be generous this holiday season in their purchase of Christmas Seals.

Texas Polio Toll Reaches New High

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. — A 20 per cent increase over the record 1949 total of polio cases is indicated for Texas this year on the basis of official figures.

According to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Texas will have over 2,800 new cases of polio in 1950.

Texas reported 2,684 cases up to November 18. During November and December in 1949, the state had 217 new cases. The Foundation, using this as a basis of what to expect this year, says Texas will have more than 2,800 cases. The 1949 total was 2,355.

Meanwhile, Texas has received from the NFIP 10r patient care slightly more than $322,708 more than the state sent in to the national headquarters during the last three years.

The state thus has had to depend on other states to handle the complete research financing burden and to even aid with care of Texas patients.

Texas, which has been among the hardest hit of the states has received almost one-tenth of the cash advances made from the National Foundation.

The state is counted on to make up the deficit when the only financing campaign for polio care and research is conducted — the 1951 March of Dimes, January 15-31.

Christmas Seal funds help support X-ray surveys among apparently healthy people to find tuberculosis in that early stage before there are outward signs.

"Fourth Estate" Does No Wrong

Your editor, as well as the thousands of other members of the Fourth Estate, is human to the degree that he too, does make a few mistakes in the columns of the News-Mail.

At the appearance of one of these boners, we seem to recall this truism that some anonymous and erring editor wrote a long time ago.

"When a garage man makes a mistake, he adds it on your bill. When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference. When a lawyer makes a mistake, it was just because he wanted a chance to try the case all over again.

"When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes the law of the land. When a doctor makes a mistake he buries it.

"But when the editor makes a mistake — look out! — the whole darn world knows it."

Geo. Peddy Named Crusade Chairman For Cancer Society

TEMPLE (Special). — George E. B. Peddy, Houston attorney who has long been prominent in Texas civic affairs, will serve as state cancer Crusade chairman for the 1951 membership and fundraising campaign of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division.

His selection was announced by Dr. G. V. Brindley of Temple, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Texas Cancer Organization.

As Texas Crusade chairman, Mr. Peddy will head the Society's April drive in Texas — the sixth annual cancer campaign to be waged in the state. At that time, county units of the Cancer Society throughout Texas will launch a vigorous educational drive to remind Texans that cancer can be cured if discovered in time and frequently treated. Cancer volunteers will also solicit funds for cancer research for service to cancer patients through support of clinics and dressings programs, and for a year-round educational program among Texans.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mr. Peddy said, "Cancer is still one of our most menacing health problems. It is still unconquered. Last year almost 8,000 Texans died of the disease, most of them needlessly. We must make a vital effort year after year to stem the march of this disease, and we can do this best through the American Cancer Society's annual Crusade. I urge every Texan to join the 1951 Cancer Crusade."

A former special assistant United States attorney in charge of mail fraud prosecutions and a former state legislator, Mr. Peddy is a veteran of both World Wars, having served as a colonel with General Patton's famed Third Army. He served in military government in North Africa, Italy, Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia. Since the war he has been a leader in veteran affairs, serving on the National Defense Committee of the American Legion and in other key positions.

A native of Tenaha in East Texas, the Crusade chairman is married to the former Gertrude Erwin, who served as head of the women's division of the Cancer Society's Harris County (Houston) Unit in the 1950 Crusade.

Veterans Questions And Answers

Q—I was the common-law wife of a World War I veteran who died recently. If I meet income requirements, would I be eligible for a VA pension?

A—You may be eligible provided a valid common-law marriage was established. File a claim with the VA, and at that time your entitlement will be determined.

Q—I expect to enter a VA hospital shortly for treatment of a 40 percent service-connected disability, and I understand I'll have to remain there for two or three months. Is there any way my family can get financial help from VA while I am hospitalized?

A—VA has no funds specifically available for such purposes. However, after you have been in the hospital 21 days or more for treatment of the service-connected condition, VA will pay you a 100 percent disability rating which you will continue to receive thereafter for as long as you remain hospitalized for such treatment.

Q—I am planning to buy a home with a GI loan, and am ready to make a down payment. What happens to my down payment in case a VA loan guaranty cannot be accomplished?

A—Unless you make certain a clause is inserted in the purchase contract stating that payments are to be returned to you if the loan cannot be obtained, you may lose your down payment.

Q—Does the new law enabling Spanish-American War veterans to get outpatient medical care without regard to service-connection, also apply to dental care?

A—Yes. Spanish-American War veterans may be eligible for full dental care in VA clinics or from home-town dentists with VA approval.

Junior Jaycees Help Fight Against T. B.

AUSTIN, Texas (Special). — Junior Chambers of Commerce in Texas were urged today by C. J. M. Roesch, State Jaycee Public Health Chairman, Austin, to give all assistance possible to the Texas Tuberculosis Association and its county affiliates in the 1950 Christmas Seal campaign now in progress throughout the nation. The Seal Sale is the sole annual appeal of the voluntary TB associations for funds to conduct their year-round program of tuberculosis prevention and control.

"Tuberculosis can and does strike people of all ages," Roesch said in a bulletin issued to 15,000 Jaycees in 134 Junior Chambers in Texas, "but it is a disease which takes a particularly high toll among young adults in the productive years of life. It is especially fitting, therefore, that Texas Jaycees join forces with the TB associations to bring this destructive disease under control in our State."

Roesch suggested that Jaycees offer local TB associations cooperation in Seal Sale and other activities, or that they contact the Texas Tuberculosis Association, Austin.

The Liberty Bell was cast in England.

Mental Meanderings

The Editor of the "Brackett News-Mail" takes this opportunity to wishing each and everyone, everywhere, all of the happiness, contentment and peace needed to make this coming Christmas Day one of the brightest in your life.

We wish one and all a "MERRY CHRISTMAS."

We all realize that it would not seem like the Christmases of old, when families were reunited, when loved ones were at home, when the world was more or less at peace. But it does not lessen the significance nor the glory of Christmas Day. For this day, December 25th, is the one which we observe as the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour, the Christ Child. He came to this earth to save mankind, to teach him the lessons of life and love, to guide his footsteps. His example is one which alone of all things gives comfort and contentment to man in his most grievous hour.

Let us, then, make this a Christmas of Remembrance, in Memory of the Lord and commemorate it in a religious way. Let us make this a Christmas of Contentment, being satisfied with what we have, our way of life, our faith and our ideals. Let us make it a Christmas of Peace, seeking the peace that comes from doing one's work and being at peace with our neighbor. Let us make it a Christmas of Happiness, giving to our loved ones at home, remembering those who are absent, helping those in need and brightening homes otherwise bleak and dreary.

It is our wish that your Christmas may be gay and happy, cheery and bright. That the good things of life come to you and yours, and that when the new year comes around, you will have no regrets to offer for not having succeeded in making it a worthwhile Yuletide.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS EVERYONE."

—The Brackett News-Mail

We wish to commend the ladies and those whose efforts resulted in the recent cleaning of our cemeteries. It is a job well done, a worthy project accomplished. This is a good example for the entire community, showing what can be done when there is a will (and the ladies) behind a project.

The military situation in Korea, which for a time seemed to have been going very successfully, suddenly turned bad for the allies. As usual, in such circumstances, there has been much recrimination, name-calling, scandalizing, etc. Even our allies, England to be exact, expressed itself dissatisfied with the conduct of the "war." Perhaps it would be well for these United States to tell our "Allies" that, if they refuse to aid us, well they can shift for themselves. Lukewarm friends are of hardly any use at all. We have some friends, but mighty few it appears — and we should take advantage of these. Otherwise, we shall be left to carry the burden of the fight against Communism alone, a frightful prospect.

We have never studied politics or the art of "face-saving" but we Yankees (meaning the U.S.) have done some good trading in our day. As long as we hang on to Formosa, even if we are forced out of Korea, we have something that Red China can't get and won't dare take if we remain firm. That is a good bargaining point, if we ever find someone who can bargain for us. Shortage of good leadership material is worse with us than shortage of manpower.

It's coming, folks. That business of controls we have been predicting all along. Its going to be clamped down on most everything. Another thing, this business of trying to keep up payments to bolster the economy while exacting untold heavy taxes for defense is another thing that is gonna throw both the high wages of labor and the payment of supports into the ask heap afore long.

Most of the fairy tales began with "Once upon a time . . ." Now, according to the movie version: "Don't worry. Everything is gonna come out all right." Most things do come out all right, thanks to the Good Lord who doesn't take the advice of human folks, but there are some things that don't.

Did you see the big catalogs of Christmas toys, or peek into the show windows to see what good old Santa Claus was bringing for the kids. Machine guns that pop loud and shoot sparks, cowboy suits and shootin' frons, atomic toys, and lots of things like that. The trend of war is given to many of these gadgets. Others are gleaned from movies and television. Tsh, Tsh. We do not wonder too much where some of the tendencies that the youth of today, have come from.

About the only western, or gunfighting story that we have seen in a long time that had something akin to a moral was "The Gunfighter," recently screened at a local theater. It taught a vivid lesson about what happens to those who lived, and who live, by the law of the gun. It revealed the despair of those who go too far to stop. In short, to our notion, it would have been worthwhile years ago as a lesson, and in these days when kids take to westerns, it might act as a lesson to what ends such a life could lead.

Don't forget that you still can do your share for someone who, but for grace of your help, might find this a very dull, miserable and cheerless Christmas. Perhaps it is some clothing, some food, some cash. It may be gifts for some poor child who will treasure it more than one who has plenty. It will help make your Christmas the more merry by knowing you have made it merrier for another. As Emerson said: "So, of cheerfulness or a good temper, the more of it spent, the more remains." Get that warm Christmas feeling inside, this Christmas.

It seems rather odd to most of us down here in the ranks of the consumer to hear management saying the costs of goods goes up because of wage increases, and labor saying it isn't so, that profits are big even without raises. No matter who is right or wrong up there, it is us down here who get the axe on most everything. About the only satisfaction the poor man has is that he won't have to stay up nights worrying about how to beat income tax or how to spend profits. He has neither.

Early Puritans celebrated Christmas about the middle of the 19th century.

Use Chewing-Gum Laxative—REMOVES WASTE... NOT GOOD FOOD

When you can't sleep—feel just awful because you need a laxative—do MILLIONS do—chew FEEN-A-MINT. FEEN-A-MINT is wonderfully different! Doctors say many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon right in the stomach. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy—you feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak, tired feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel fine, full of life! 25c, 50c, or only 10c.

Search for Most Vital Idea Turns Up Large Variety

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Phillips Stevens, headmaster of Williston academy at Easthampton, Mass., wanted to find out if students could be taught only one idea, what idea should that be?

In his search for an answer he telegraphed the question to a group of persons ranging from Andrei Vishinski, Russia's foreign minister, to Gypsy Rose Lee.

Neither Vishinski or the strip tease dancer replied, but from others he got a variety of answers:

Bernard Baruch: "The principal thing to teach is physical and mental discipline and self-reliance."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "The value of freedom, liberty and democracy and the obligation of every individual to serve in every possible way in the preservation of these vital principals."

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York: "I exhort and encourage you to live truth in charity. Your love of truth will make you peacemakers in a world that dreads war and fears enslavement."

Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect: "Our democracy fails unless our architects free themselves to build with style for men themselves free of a style."

Warren Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations: "Gain a thorough understanding of the principles which are absolutely necessary to keep government free and to maintain the blessings of liberty."

Groucho Marx: "The Kinsey report should be required reading unless the school is co-educational. In that case nature will provide the necessary answers."

Dolled-Up Dobbins Making a Comeback On Western Farms

GLENVILLE, Minn. — According to P. H. Cottrell of Glenville, who deals in horses, the once beast for burden on the American farm is staging a comeback. But now he has a new role. He is becoming a pet.

He'll earn his keep by giving the farm pleasure of horseback riding, but use of that energy is a far cry from that he used to burn up tilling the soil.

Cottrell reports the horse is finding favor in southern Minnesota which is so highly mechanized that farmers don't even swat mosquitoes by hand.

The section used to be proud of its Clydesdale, Percherons and Belgians. Now such animals are as unusual as a 1912 Maxwell and at county fairs a matched team of Clydes get more attention than the midway.

The draft animal gave way to tractors. And something went out of rural living. A farmer and his team of horses held each other in mutual esteem. They worked for each other's living and fared equally in the fortunes of the battle of wrestling an income from the soil.

Cottrell reports farmers are now offering fancy prices for saddle animals. To meet the demand he has had to go to the Dakotas and Iowa for stocks.

It's a grand life the nag is leading now. Fed, groomed and cared for like high-priced milch cows, they go to the fairs trimmed with satin ribbons.

Shed no tears over the horse. He's on his way back to a proper station in rural America.

Make Versatile Meals with Cranberries (See Recipes Below)

Colorful Cranberries

WHEN YOU WANT to add color to fall and winter meals, try cranberries. They can be used in many versatile ways, with vegetables, as a sauce or relish, with meats and fowl and as desserts.

You'll enjoy the tartness which cranberries give to many foods, especially the bland and mild-flavored ones like fowl, ham and sweet potatoes. Their bright red color is a delight in other foods such as muffins or French dressing.

*Cranberry Ham Slices (Serves 6)
3 cups cranberries
1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup water or apple juice
2 slices ham (¾ to 1" thick)
2 tablespoons whole cloves

Mix cranberries, sugar and water (or juice). Cut edges of fat on ham in gashes. Place one slice of ham in baking dish and cover with cranberry sugar-mixture. Top with second ham slice and cover with remaining cranberry mixture. Stick whole cloves around edges of ham slices. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven until tender, about 1½ hours, basting occasionally with liquid in dish.

WHEN YOU'RE looking for an elegant way to show off sweet potatoes or yams, you'll like them combined with cranberries, pineapple, peanuts and interesting seasonings.

Cranberry Yam Puffs (Serves 4-6)
4 medium-sized yams or sweet potatoes
1 cup cranberries, chopped
½ cup drained, crushed pineapple
½ cup chopped, salted peanuts
4 tablespoons butter
Salt, pepper, nutmeg to taste

Boil yams until tender; peel and mash with a fork. Add chopped cranberries, drained pineapple, nuts and butter; mix thoroughly and season to taste. If mixture seems too dry, beat in 1 egg or ¼ cup cream or evaporated milk. Divide mixture into 4 to 6 well greased custard cups and dot top with butter. Bake in a moderately hot (400°) oven for 45 minutes or until set. Loosen with spatula and turn out around roast.

BOTH BROWN and white sugar go into this old-fashioned version of cranberry sauce. Thinly sliced lemon rinds among the plump red cranberries give you a flavorful accompaniment to roast turkey or chicken on your festive board.

Cranberry Sauce (Makes 1 quart)
1½ cup water
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
4 cups cranberries
Half lemon, thinly sliced

LYNN SAYS: Make These Dishes For Hearty Satisfaction

Save that leftover waffle batter for good supper dishes. Add bits of fried bacon to the batter. Serve the waffles with green peas in cream sauce.

Make your leftover ham into a meat loaf mixture and bake in a square pan for a change. Top the loaf with peaches which have been brushed with melted fat and sprinkled with brown sugar. Serve in squares.

Combine water and sugar in saucepan and bring to a brisk boil. Add cranberries and lemon and cook over medium heat until berries pop, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool in saucepan, then chill before serving.

HERE'S A delectable salad dressing that goes well with fruit salads to add pep to winter meals:

Cranberry French Dressing (Makes 1 cup)
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup chopped cranberries
1 tablespoon sugar

1 teaspoon salt
Grated rind of ½ orange
Grated rind of ½ lemon
Combine ingredients in covered jar. Shake well before using.

TO GET THE family up readily for breakfast, or to add color and appeal to a meal made primarily of leftovers, there's nothing like a good hot bread:

Cranberry Muffins (Makes 9-12)
2 cups bran cereal
½ cup dark molasses
½ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder

Combine bran, molasses and milk, let stand 20 minutes. Stir in beaten egg. Sift together dry ingredients and sift into bran mixture. Fold in cranberries. Fill greased muffin tins about ¾ full and bake in a moderately hot (400°) oven for 20 minutes or until done.

FRESH FRUIT and raisins are combined with berries to make this pie which is so good for cold months when other fruits are scarce. To make a picture-pretty pie and let the colorful filling peek through, make the top crust in criss-cross fashion, or use cookie cutters like stars, trees, leaves on pastry for a decorative effect.

Cranberry Pie (Makes 1 10" Pie)
4 cups cranberries
1 orange, quartered and seeded
1 apple, peeled, cored, quartered
½ cup seedless raisins
2 cups sugar
¾ cup water
4 tablespoons tapioca
Pastry

Put cranberries, orange, apple and raisins through food chopper. Combine with remaining ingredients and let stand while making pastry. Roll out pastry to fit pie plate. Pour in filling. Arrange top crust. Bake in a hot oven (450°) for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350°) and continue baking for 30 minutes or until filling is set and crust nicely browned.

Add some berries to your canned apple sauce for a colorful touch and serve as a relish or dessert with cookies.

A fluffy nest of mashed potatoes is nice to serve with creamed salmon or dried beef to which a few leftover green peas have been added for color.

Corn pudding and scalloped potatoes make an excellent supper dish if you add bits of leftover ham, smoked butt or Canadian bacon to the vegetable in the casserole before baking.

Bouquet for Vaughan

SOME PEOPLE will hardly believe it, but herewith is a bouquet to my old deep-freeze pal, Gen. Harry Vaughan.

Ever since the Korean war, 10,000 servicemen have been wandering the streets of Washington with no place to go and none of the hospitality shown them during World War II. For the nations capital—like a lot of other cities—hasn't realized that with the cold war now warm, we civilians ought to shift our hospitality from cold to warm.

An exception in General Vaughan, who has been quietly raising Cain with the treasury and Jess Larson, chief of the general services of supply, in order to pry loose the old Belasco theatre for the use of the American Legion and other veterans' groups in entertaining servicemen.

The Belasco theatre enjoys one of the most central locations in Washington. Diagonally across Lafayette square from the White House, it is adjacent to the old Dolly Madison house where the wife of the fourth president of the United States entertained in the early days of the republic. But because legitimate theatres have long been closed in the nation's capital, the Belasco—believe it or not—is filled with old government files and canceled checks.

And the treasury department, whose files are chiefly concerned, won't release the theatre to the veterans for entertainment purposes.

More Red Tape

First stumbling block was a treasury claim that it would cost $20,000 to transport the files to another building. Whereupon Maj. Gen. T. W. Herren, army commander in the District of Columbia, offered to transport the files in army trucks, free.

Then the treasury came up with a new argument—that it would cost the government $75,000 to find other storage space for the files. Furthermore, the treasury wants an armed guard to be placed over its canceled checks and it's more convenient to keep a guard over them in the Belasco theatre.

But what Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder doesn't seem to realize is that $75,000 a year is chickenfeed compared to the morale and morals of 10,000 young Americans who don't want to be away from home, but who in serving their country have to be away from home, and need some place to relax evenings.

General Vaughan, recognizing this problem, has done his best to cut red tape. But so far his friends John Maragon and Joe Major seem to have been more successful with Jess Larson regarding surplus property in the past than the general is now regarding hospitality for servicemen.

Protecting the President

The folks back in Independence, Mo., still are talking about the strict security precautions taken by the secret service during the President's recent visit to his home town. It wasn't at all like other visits, when Mr. Truman casually walked around the main streets, waving to neighbors and chatting with old friends.

Milton Morris, a deliveryman for the Independence Ice and Creamery Co., is one who knows how different Harry's visit was this time. For when Morris wheeled his ice truck into the parking lot at the Reorganized Latter Day Saint auditorium where Truman was being entertained at lunch, he was met by two secret service agents. And a new method of delivery was set for the iceman that day.

Morris was told to leave his pocket knife, his ice pick, and his ice tongs in the truck. He was required to carry the 50-pound chunk of ice to the door of the building in his arms. There the ice was washed—twice—and then handed to a worker inside the building.

Down at Kelsey's restaurant on Truman road, the route usually taken from the Muehlebach hotel to Independence, a few of the townspeople waited patiently for the President's caravan to pass. But his limousine, followed by seven secret service agents riding in an open car, whizzed by a bit in excess of the Independence 25-mile-an-hour speed limit, and few saw Truman.

Ellen, a waitress, looking out at the seven agents in the open car, remarked: "Those guys looked darn cold."

Phone Strike

The senate labor-management subcommittee is rushing a report on labor and strike conditions in the Bell Telephone system.

(Ed. Note—The strike was settled after eleven days with the signing of a fifteen months contract.)

The report will show that while American Telephone and Telegraph, the mother company, actually dictates labor policy for the entire system, the labor union is forced to deal independently with the local companies, and that chaos exists.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Chinese Delegation Charges U. S. With Aggression in Korea, China; U. N. Forces Face Defeat in Korea

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The "big-win-the-war" push got underway (1) in Korea with the 24th division driving on Chongju. Other UN forces aimed toward Taechon. The big offensive was touched off by a frontline visit of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who flew from Tokyo to Sinuiju (2). He also flew over Sinuiju (3) the Suho dam (4), Hyesanjin (5), and over the Changjin reservoir area (6). Superforts bombed Manpojin (7) in one of the war's big raids.

UNITED NATIONS:

Is It War or Peace?

Fear gripped the United Nations security council when U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin asked Red China's delegate Wu Hsiu-Chuan, "Will there be war or peace in the Far East?"

It was with these words that the United States charged Red China with aggression in Korea; it was these words that created a feeling of fear never before felt in the United Nations. As one diplomat explained, it created such a great fear that those seated in the security council were afraid to speak lest the wrong words plunge the world into World War III.

Communist China had been invited to the council to debate the charge that the U. S. had committed aggression against Formosa. Instead the Chinese delegate charged the security of his country was endangered by U. S. aggression against Korea, and he asserted he was alarmed by the spread toward China of the "flames" of the U. S. "war of aggression." He demanded the withdrawal of United Nations troops from Korea and a seat in the United Nations for his country.

The American delegate charged China with aggression after General MacArthur reported there were 200,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in Korea and that the U. N. forces faced an entirely new war. Red China replied that the Chinese troops in Korea were volunteers and that Peiping will not stop their departure for the battle front.

Austin asked the Chinese delegate 20 direct questions which, in sum, boiled down to: Why had China thrown 200,000 troops into Korea against United Nations forces and what do you want? The Red delegate did not even answer Austin.

Observers who heard the exchange of charges were agreed that the world was closer to World War III than ever before. It was also evident that China had no intention of calling off its troops in Korea until U. N. forces had been defeated.

But more than this, the future of Asia seemed at stake. China's delegate charged the U. S. with aggression in the Philippines and other Asian countries. This would indicate, most observers felt, that China had mapped a program for the domination of the Far East comparable to that one championed by Japan.

And as the diplomats talked and hurled charges and countercharges, the position of U. N. forces in Korea became more desperate. Their defeat would mean a blow to the United Nations from which that world organization may never recover.

The tone of Wu's security council speech was not new to U. N. delegates. It could have been written by the Russians. At one point Wu threatened the countries backing the United States not to "pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the United States—because if you support United States aggression you must bear the consequences of your actions."

With Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally directing the start, U. N. forces in North Korea launched what was called the "big-win-the-war-push." Initial successes were reported by U. N. commanders, but Chinese Communists counterattacks stalled the drive and broke through the U. N. front at a number of points.

As many as 200,000 Chinese Communists were reported in North Korea, overrunning U. N. positions and threatening the entire army.

The Reds were swiftly exploiting their breakthrough. They were reported swarming along "every road, gully and ridge line." As many as 21 divisions were reported to be in action.

The situation in Korea was so serious that General MacArthur told the non-Communist powers that they must decide quickly what to do about the grim prospect of "an entirely new war" against Red China. He went so far as to suggest that World War III had actually begun and could be stopped only by a last-minute political solution.

Overnight the military situation in Korea became desperate. MacArthur said Chinese Communists had already thrown "a major segment" of their armies into Korea. They have shown "the obvious intent and preparation" to reinforce this spearhead with perhaps 300,000 more men now on the move in Manchuria, he added.

Observers said that total defeat in Korea was not unlikely if some last minute action is not taken by the United Nations. It was no secret that military commanders wanted the authority to bomb supply centers and concentration points in Manchuria where the Communists have organized for the attack.

Observers believe the rent control extension measure is doomed to defeat. Republican senators said it could wait. What the delay is for no one knows, unless it is to tighten the squeeze on the little man.

A bitter and possibly long fight was indicated in both houses over the administration's call for an excess-profits tax. Even the proposed legislation granting statehood to Alaska and Hawaii seemed in for a knock down and drag out fight.

Republican leaders, buoyed by election victories, seemed determined to have a greater say in the nation's foreign policy. Many observers believe if they could collect Secretary of State Acheson's scalp they would be satisfied.

This wrangling of the politicians is getting results in one way, however. The American public is on the verge of screaming fits. More than anything else the average American would like to see some degree of unity in congress at a time when the nation faces a serious crisis.

AMERICAN COMMUNISTS

Jury Indicts Six Top U. S. Communists

A federal grand jury ordered contempt of congress prosecution against former Communist boss Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, New York millionaire and alleged "angel" of Red causes.

The jury also indicted Philip Jacob Jaffe, former editor of the defunct Amerasia magazine and a key figure in the 1945 "stolen secrets" case.

Chinese Reds

Jacob Malik (left), chief of the Soviet delegation to the U. N. and Julius Katz-Suchy (center), Polish delegate, are on hand to welcome the nine-member Chinese Communist delegation which appeared before the United Nations. Malik is shown shaking hands with Gen. Wu Hsiu Chuan, head of the Chinese group.

KOREA:

Chinese Attack

CONGRESS:

The Politicians Fight

President Truman put several questions to the lame-duck session of congress on the opening day and immediately the politicians began their wrangling. To the American listening to the depressing news from Korea and screams of a troubled world, the gentlemen in the senate and house appeared somewhat ridiculous, to put it mildly.

The administration asked for extension of rent controls, statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, increased taxation to meet budget requirements, and increased defense appropriations.

Most observers believe the rent control extension measure is doomed to defeat. Republican senators said it could wait. What the delay is for no one knows, unless it is to tighten the squeeze on the little man.

A bitter and possibly long fight was indicated in both houses over the administration's call for an excess-profits tax. Even the proposed legislation granting statehood to Alaska and Hawaii seemed in for a knock down and drag out fight.

Republican leaders, buoyed by election victories, seemed determined to have a greater say in the nation's foreign policy. Many observers believe if they could collect Secretary of State Acheson's scalp they would be satisfied.

This wrangling of the politicians is getting results in one way, however. The American public is on the verge of screaming fits. More than anything else the average American would like to see some degree of unity in congress at a time when the nation faces a serious crisis.

ATOMIC POWER:

To Reveal Secrets

The announcement that the United States, Great Britain and Canada had agreed to release data relating to "low-power" nuclear reactors was greeted by most observers as one of the most important decisions in regard to the question of atomic secrecy to be made by the three powers.

The agreement permits the publication of information necessary to the design, construction, and operation of four U. S. low-power reactors as a means of stimulating atomic-energy development in the countries, particularly for peace-time application.

The atomic energy commission said the three governments agreed that the release of the information under the revised guide will speed the training of nuclear-reactor engineers and technicians and will hasten atomic-energy development in these countries, particularly for peace-time applications.

Before such a reactor can be built by a private institution, however, the permission of the government to use the necessary fissionable materials is required.

Sift together into a large bowl:

2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour

3/4 teaspoon double-action baking powder (or 1/2 tsp. single-action)

1 teaspoon salt

1 1/2 cups sugar

Add:

2/3 cup Snowdrift

1/4 cup milk

Mix enough to dampen flour. Beat 2 minutes. If by hand, count beating time only. With electric mixer use "low speed." Scrape bowl often; scrape beaters after 2 minutes.

Add:

2 egg whites, unbeaten

1/4 cup milk

1 teaspoon almond extract

Beat 1 minute. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layer pans, lined with plain paper in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes. Cool. Frost with ALMOND COCOA ICING: Cream 3 tbsps. Snowdrift with 2 tbsps. butter. Add 1/2 cup sifted cocoa, 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, and 1/2 tsp. salt alternately with 1/4 cup milk. When smooth, add 1 teaspoon almond extract. Frost cake. Dip tips of blanched almonds in icing; press upright around bottom of cake.

Household Hints

If a screw-cap is tight, grasp it with a piece of coarse sand paper and twist. Or slip a wide rubber band around the lid. Or put the cap of the jar or bottle in an open door jamb, close the door far enough to make it tighten up or the cap, and then twist the bottle. Go easy with the door, though, or you may break the glass container.

When a bottle is emptied keep the cork. Such corks are hard to use when partially filled bottles lose their stoppers, especially when they're kept in the refrigerator. Making corks out of rolled up paper wads allows a good odor to get into the bottles, and won't prevent spilling if the bottle is tipped over.

Potted plants should be watered with tepid water to avoid shock and to stimulate growth.

EVELYN KEYES

Heflin, and everybody else were giving their all to show what can be done when working without the restrictions of a big studio. Pretty, blonde Evelyn is one of the comparatively few actresses who has plenty of interests outside of picture making; one of them is collecting the little gold images that date back to Mexico's early days, an interesting—and very expensive—hobby.

Moira Shearer, star of the ballet film "Red Shoes," turned down a lot of offers to make a picture here even before she went to Hollywood with the Sadler's Wells Ballet. But she broke down and signed with Samuel Goldwyn for the lead in his screen biography of Hans Christian Anderson. It will be filmed next fall in Technicolor, with a three-to-four million dollar budget.

Radio editors have voted Eve Arden radio's 1959 "Woman of the Year." It was her characterization of "Connie Brooks," the school teacher on "Our Miss Brooks," that won her the award. The show is heard on CBS Sundays.

Ronald and Benita Colman are very, very particular about getting everything just right on "The Halls of Ivy"—which, incidentally, is rapidly becoming one of the most popular shows on the air. Clark Gable's wife, formerly Lady Ashley, was technical adviser for one scene that dramatized the changing of the guards at Buckingham Palace; even the bugle call was specially written.

Doris Day is being awakened at 6 a. m. every day by the notes of reveille, played not well but loud. Somebody gave her eight-year-old son, Terry, a bugle. Aiming at being an Eagle Scout, he practices all the official calls before he goes to school and she goes to work, in "Lullaby of Broadway." But evening brings no peace; he even plays taps before going to bed.

Gertrude Michael, who has appeared in so many pictures, is being featured in several "Fireside Theatre" productions for television. These half-hour dramatic shows are filmed in Hollywood, which is a break for the rising young actors who want to break in. Many of the stars hustle to New York between pictures, eager to make a name for themselves in the new medium.

On the new "Bert Parks Show," on television, there was to be a demonstration of how to roast a turkey in the oven of a gas range. The show was on the air when they found that the prop man had supplied an electric stove!

Ardon Cornwall, who has composed original music for "The Cavalcade of America" for the past decade, met his wife some years back when she was doing piano cues for the program. Now she writes lyrics for the music he composes.

Patricia Joiner, aged 21, got the biggest role of her screen career in "The Enforcer," opposite Humphrey Bogart. And she reported for work with the worst cold she's ever had, on the day when she was to play a close-up with him. Director Bretaigne Windust leafed through the script and substituted a scene where she is shown walking down a sunny street; her sniffles wouldn't matter.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Dorothy Kirsten, Met opera star, doesn't sing a single aria in "Mr. Music"; just does a pop duet with Crosby. David Wayne and Mitzi Gaynor will play opposite each other in 20th Century-Fox's "Will You Love Me in December"; the studio thinks maybe they'll develop into a new comedy team. . . . Nine-year-old Gigi Perreau makes her 21st film appearance in "Never a Dull Moment."

Tight Rope

By Allison L. Burks

Dorinda considers abandoning the masquerade and returning to her own station of life and her own identity. She is lonesome in her role as Dorinda La-Croix and wants to return to her own self as Stella Moore, secretary. She has consented to play the part of a dead girl in order to help keep alive that girl's grandmother who, she is told, might die of shock if she knew the real Dorinda was dead. At Edward Thorndyke's insistence she decides to remain and play out the part for his mother, Dorinda's grandmother. Edward declines to let Dorinda attend the movies with nurse Carol, which the former resents. Cleve Adams gives Dorinda a puppy to keep her company.

CHAPTER VI

"You know I haven't any rouge. Cleve, he's adorable." She set the little dog down on the ground where he promptly pounced upon one of her feet, worrying her shoe-string and growling with mock fury.

"Three months old, sound in wind and limb, housebroken and possessed of exceptional intelligence," Cleve said proudly. "Do you want him?"

"Do I want him? Of course, I want him. He's the very nicest present I've ever had in my whole life."

"Well, you didn't come after him, Dorinda, and somehow I had a feeling you never would come." Cleve sat down on one of the brick steps, his back against a white pillar. "I thought perhaps you needed a lift after what happened yesterday, so here I am, me and my dog—your dog, I mean."

"Cleve." Dorinda's voice was only a whisper. The laughter had faded from her face. "They found he—Taylor—had taken some kind of a sleeping medicine before he crashed. Hawley phoned and told Uncle Edward."

Cleve whistled. "The devil he did! What do you suppose Taylor did that for?"

Edward Phones Hawley About Taylor Inquest

"I don't imagine they think he did it intentionally. It wouldn't make any sense. I think they believe that girl—the one that looked like me—gave it to him in his drink."

"So then it's murder!" Cleve said softly.

Dorinda's hand pressed against her mouth. Cleve had said it—the word she wouldn't let herself speak. He threw a quick glance at her face.

"It's a horrible thing. But people are murdered every day, Dorinda. And we didn't know him."

"Oh, well, the sheriff himself will be back in a few days. Poole's a different dish of tea. A shrewd guy though I'm not sure how he will stack up in a case like this."

"Let's talk about something else, honey. I have a message for you. As I mentioned a few minutes ago, I had a feeling you'd never come over to my place after that pup, or for any other reason. So my mother has issued a special invitation to you to come over for dinner. And that, from her, is equivalent to a royal command. I want you to meet my mother, Dorinda. When can you come?"

Dorinda bent over the dog, her loosened hair hiding her face. "That's nice of you, Cleve. I'll let you know. I must ask Uncle Edward—I wouldn't want to interfere with any of his plans."

"What a dutiful child you are. A rare specimen in this day and age. When you get married, Dorinda, are you going to obey your husband as you do your uncle?"

"No, indeed. A husband is, as you say, Cleve, a different dish of tea."

"I might have known it," Cleve grumbled. "But I suppose a fellow can't have everything." He glanced down at his watch. "I'm supposed to be in town right this minute. I've got to step on it." He gave one of her curls a yank before he stepped into his car. "Don't forget that invitation."

Carol called to her softly from the hall. "Do you know where Mr. Thorndyke is? His mother has been asking for him."

"If I'm not mistaken, Uncle Edward and Fay are driving in the gate now," Dorinda said. She was glad of the interruption.

Taylor had been killed early Tuesday morning. The inquest was held the following Thursday. No one from Thorndyke House attended. But early in the afternoon, Edward telephoned to Hawley.

He had hesitated about doing this. "Perhaps it's better to stay entirely clear of the matter," he said uneasily. The three of them, Edward, Fay and Dorinda, had lingered over luncheon in the gold and white dining room on the west side of the house.

In spite of Edward's decision, he telephoned Hawley some time later in the day. Fay had left the house and Dorinda had taken her dog and gone down to the beach for a romp in the sand. Edward met her as she came up the wooden steps, the puppy at her heels.

"Nothing new came out at the inquest," he told her abruptly. "The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that death was caused by the automobile crash, said crash being the result of the drug Taylor had taken. They recommended investigation be continued to determine whether the drug was self-administered, taken by accident or was given him by someone else, possibly with homicidal intent."

Dorinda's brows knit in a puzzled frown. "Why do you think about it, Uncle Edward? Maybe it did seem queer—Taylor recognizing me that day and then dying that night. But it can't be anything but a coincidence. Let's forget it."

Edward's gaze was on the far horizon. "Forgetting—that's a thing more easily said than done."

He was right, Dorinda found, when she went to the village late that afternoon.

There was a new alertness in the faces that looked back at Dorinda as she walked down the village street. Eyes filled with questioning, with surmise, as they met hers. She thought of what Edward had said, "What one person in Trent-

Dorinda stepped back to admire the picture that Mrs. Thorndyke, leaning back among her pillows, made.

ville knows, the whole town knows."

She found Anne frankly inquisitive. But somehow she didn't resent it in Anne. In fact, she found it a relief to hear spoken the thing the whole town was thinking.

"Oh, Dorinda, isn't it exciting?" Anne bubbled. "They say you were questioned by the police. Weren't you thrilled? I do believe you're a femme fatale—one of those women who attract strange and fascinating adventures."

Dorinda laughed in spite of herself. "Anne, you do, how do you run on. By the police, I suppose you mean Mr. Hawley."

Anne grimaced. "Well, perhaps he is a little lacking in lurid qualities. A nice boy, though rather inclined to blush. I imagine, without hair trying, you wrapped him around your little finger and reduced him to an abject mass of apology."

'Grandmother' in First Probing of Dorinda

"I didn't even half try," Dorinda sat down in the Windsor chair beside Anne's desk. "And the apologies were all to Uncle Edward for daring to connect his precious niece 'even in thought'—quotation marks—with a man like Taylor. Seriously though, Anne, I didn't think it funny."

"I've never told this to a soul, Dorinda," she said in a conspiratorial whisper, "but that night after you'd been gone for about half an hour, Taylor came in here. He pretended to be interested in the books but what he really wanted was to ask questions about you. How long you'd been here and if you had money, oh, a lot of things."

Dorinda's slim fingers gripped the book she held in her lap. "Did you tell him?"

"Not much. I told him I knew practically nothing about you. He'd never lived in a small town or he wouldn't have swallowed that tale. What do you suppose was the idea? Do you think he had aspirations to marry the village heiress?"

"Your guess is as good as mine," Dorinda countered.

"Dorinda," Anne said excitedly, "maybe he was a Nazi spy—or a Gestapo agent. He might have followed you from France."

"Oh Anne, we're not at war with Germany. Not yet. Anyway, it wasn't that important."

"You're destroying all my romantic ideas," Anne said ruefully. "Getting down to brass tacks, I suppose Taylor was just a wolf trying to make a pretty girl."

"Thanks for the adjective."

"It is eerie, isn't it? I can just see Taylor stalking you through the twilight." Anne shivered. "Gee, I'm scaring myself. Here's a new novel your grandmother will like, Dorinda. Just came in this morning."

Outside the air had grown cooler. The wind brought with it the chill from the sea. Trees against the sunset cast black bars of shadow across the road, and in the fields the poppies closed their brilliant petals against the coming night. Dorinda was glad to see the dark facade of Thorndyke House loom up before her. After all, it was, for the time, home. As much of a home as she could have.

Carol was passing through the upper hall. "Tell Grandmother I'll bring her book in to her in a few minutes," Dorinda called.

She picked up the library book in its brown-jacket and went down the hall to Mrs. Thorndyke's room. Grandmother's face brightened as she saw her.

"How pretty you look, Dorinda." Her thin fingers touched the bright folds of the red dress. "I like colors with vitality in them." Her eyes, meeting Dorinda's, held affection and a touch of wistfulness.

"You're looking extremely elegant yourself, Grand-mere." Dorinda stepped back to admire the picture Mrs. Thorndyke, leaning back among her pillows, made. "Like a French marquise—the way they're popularly supposed to look, I mean."

"Carol dressed me up. Sometimes I think she treats me as if I were a life-sized doll."

"A woman of my years wearing lipstick!" Grandmother scolded. "Carol bought it—a new shade, 'Ash Geranium,' she called it. Light rose with a hint of mauve."

Dorinda Asked to Show Childhood Cut Scar

"I like it," Dorinda decided. She smiled at Carol who sat sewing under a shaded lamp, the light touching her bent black head.

"In my youth, only women of a certain class used rouge and lipstick," Mrs. Thorndyke asserted. "But, old as I am, I can still accept new ideas. Especially when they become me," she added, with a twinkle. "Tell me what you've been doing with yourself, Dorinda."

So Dorinda told her of Cleve's visit the day before, of his gift of the wire-haired pup—"His name is Randy, Grandmother, and I'm bringing him in to see you as soon as he quiets down a bit." She told of her walk to Trentville that afternoon, of the acacias in bloom, of Anne at the library.

There was a light knock, followed by the opening of the door. Fay came into the room. She was dressed for dinner, poised and lovely as she always was, her cool beauty without a flaw. She smiled at Mrs. Thorndyke, a smile which curved her lips but did not reach her eyes.

"Dear Aunt Lucy," she said softly. "I didn't know you already had company. You mustn't let Dorinda tire you."

"Dorinda never tires me," the older woman said shortly. "Don't stand there, Fay. Sit down."

Dorinda sat close to the bedside. Fay moved to a chair a few feet away. She sat down and leaned against the cushioned back, her slim hands folded in her lap. She did not, Dorinda noticed, wear the diamond ring Edward had given her.

"I love this room," Fay said. "It's a perfect setting for you, Aunt Lucy." She looked about her, her gaze lingering on the papered walls, the polished furniture. Her eyes swept past Carol as if the young nurse did not exist.

Mrs. Thorndyke was speaking again. "Dorinda and I were talking over old times," she said sweetly to Fay, and looked back at Dorinda again.

"You were a dear little girl, though naughty sometimes. Like Laura, I thought then, though you've changed since. Do you remember when I visited you and your mother in Paris? It was spring and the chestnut trees were in bloom. Paris—will it ever be the same again? At least I'll never see it."

Her face grew bright once more. "But one thing I wager you do remember, child. I hadn't thought of it myself for years. The afternoon your mother left you with me and I dozed off in my chair. When I woke you were gone and I started to search for you. I found you in your mother's room—you were standing on a chair in front of her wardrobe to reach the flask of perfume you had wanted and which she had hidden from you on a high shelf. When I came in, I startled you and you fell. I'll never forget—the room so strong of rose scent, broken glass on the carpet, blood everywhere and you screaming. I was really frightened." She shivered, living those moments again.

"It was a bad cut, Dorinda. I thought it would never stop bleeding. And it left a bad scar on your wrist." She laid her hand over Dorinda's. "Is that why you wear this heavy bracelet, my dear?" Her fingers fumbled at the clasp. "Let me see, Dorinda. Proof of your grandmother's negligence?"

AMERICA'S NUMBER ONE ANTIHISTAMINE

Clarence L. McKinsey, 727 South Ludlow Street, Dayton, Ohio, who is night supervisor of hospital attendants at the Ohio State Hospital in Dayton, says a man has trouble getting used to working nights and sleeping days. And if a man isn't getting the proper rest it not only makes him groggy on the job, but also makes him feel poorly the rest of the time. This will never happen to him again, says Mr. McKinsey—now that he is taking HADACOL. His system lacked those necessary Vitamins B, B, Iron, and Niacin, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mr. McKinsey's own statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I had a great deal of trouble with a nervous stomach. I had an awful hard time sleeping—I would just roll and toss all night. It affected me during my working hours, too—I was restless and nervous all the time. My nerves were so jumpy that the least little thing would put me on edge. I was just beside myself in knowing what to do. Then I heard how other folks that were nervous and rundown were being helped by HADACOL. I decided to try HADACOL. Now, after 10 bottles of HADACOL, I feel fine; in fact, I think so much of HADACOL I would walk 5 miles for a bottle of HADACOL—I'm not exaggerating. Why, the way I sleep and the appetite I have are marvelous. The best thing is that my nerves are calm as they can be. I just can't praise HADACOL enough."

Thousands Have Been Helped by HADACOL whose systems lacked Vitamins B, B, Iron, and Niacin. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomach distress, certain nervous disorders, insomnia due to upset stomach, nagging aches and pains, and a general run-down condition when such troubles are caused by such deficiencies.

Give HADACOL A Chance . . . to help you, as it has helped thousands of others if you suffer such deficiencies. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL doesn't help you, you get your money back.

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied.—Adv.

Veterans' Questions And Their Answers

Q—My uncle, a World War II veteran, died in 1947, leaving my aunt a $10,000 GI Insurance policy paid in a lump sum. The policy also listed two contingent beneficiaries. My aunt died in 1949, before receiving the special NSLI dividend. To whom will the dividend be paid?

A—The dividend will be paid to your aunt's estate, and not to the contingent beneficiaries. When your uncle died, your aunt was vested with the right to all benefits of the policy, including the dividend—thus precluding the possibility of the dividend going to the contingent beneficiaries.

Q—I was in the Army for only two months, when I was discharged for a service-connected disability. Am I eligible for VA hospital care?

A—Yes. Apply at the nearest VA regional office.

Q—I am an ex-WAVE, in need of hospitalization for a non-service-connected ailment. There are no beds available for me at the VA hospital near my home, and my physician says I am in no condition to travel long distances to another VA hospital. What can I do?

A—Contact your VA regional office. VA may authorize treatment for women war veterans in a private hospital without regard to service-connection, if beds are not available in a VA hospital.

Q—Should a claim for disability compensation ever be filed by a veteran with a dishonorable discharge?

A—A veteran always has the privilege of filing a claim. In this case, to show entitlement, he would have to prove he was insane at the time he committed the act for which he was discharged dishonorably.

This business of old-age security seems to have in the past few years taken hold of the American people, and more than ever we find them by the hundreds figuring out how they could manage a secure old age. Even the government was trying to help. But the situation of the world today seems to make it more imperative that we give emphasis and attention to the problem of security for the youth of tomorrow, who have been carrying the burdens, the hates, the woes of the world. There are the lives that are being spent on battlefields all over the world. For what? Time alone can answer. But the promises of the Master still ring as true now for the future as they have done for mankind in many other ways.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Here's An "Expert" Example!

When our Main Street parking problem cropped up again, we announced a strict one-hour parking policy, and swore in extra deputies to enforce it.

We also sent over to the State Capitol for a traffic expert, to give us pointers. He turned out to be real helpful—spent a whole afternoon with us talking about zoning and such. And when he left the building he found a ticket on his car for overtime parking!

Could have gotten sore, I guess—or asked us to "fix" the ticket. But instead, he insisted on going over to the Sheriff's Office and paying his fine.

From where I sit, it's good to know people, like that young fellow, who refuse to be treated any different than anyone else. City people and farmers—those of us who prefer cider and those who'd rather have a cool glass of temperate beer—we're all entitled to the same privileges. That is, so long as what we do doesn't conflict with the law of the land.
