SBA Official Tells Countians That New Industry Requires Effort

"It takes effort to get new industry" interested county residents were told at a special information meeting Wednesday morning at the courthouse. Financing new industry in Eastland County was the subject, and M. Ray Smith of Dallas, loan officer for Industrial Development loans of Small Business Administration, was speaker. He was introduced by O. M. Boyle, local Farmers Home Administration supervisor, and chairman of the county Technical Action Panel.

The small Business Administration's local development program is based upon a simple philosophy—self-help, Mr. Smith said.

SBA's local development company loan program is based on the principle that each community bears a major responsibility for its own health and economic growth.

It is designed as much to help the progressive community move forward, as it is to help the depressed community rebuild its economy and grow stronger, he added.

It was authorized under Section 502 of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958. Under this program, SBA loans are made exclusively to local development corporations chartered under state laws for the primary purpose of assisting small businesses, the speaker noted.

A local development corporation is formed by a group of citizens and its main objective is to attract new industries to the community or to expand existing ones, creating jobs and stimulating the local economy.

Program requirements require that at least 75 per cent of the corporation's stock must be owned by the townspeople. In addition, the corporation must provide at least 20 per cent of the cost of any project it undertakes. This means that for every $2 of local money provided, the development corporation can borrow $8 from SBA.

The maximum amount SBA can lend is $350,000, at 5 and one-half per cent interest for as long as 25 years.

Loan funds may be used to buy land, acquire or build a plant, convert, modernize or expand plant facilities, or purchase machinery and equipment. The loan proceeds cannot be used for debt payment or working capital.

Some 25 persons attended the meeting, which was sponsored by Eastland County Newspapers Inc., in cooperation with the Technical Action Panel.

Before building their first airplane, the Wright brothers were in the bicycle business.

Elephants, alligators, turtles and poll parrots have an average life span of 100 years or more.

Diverted Acreage May Be Grazed

Farmers have been reminded by Jesse G. Meredith, office manager of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, that acreage diverted under the 1967 feed, grain and cotton programs may now be grazed. The dates were changed from Nov. 1 to Oct. 1, but no hay can be harvested from the area. He added this grazing provision does not apply to soil bank or cropland adjustment programs.

ASCS regulations require that in order to maintain full history for peanuts, 75 per cent of the allotment must be picked or threshed in the current or either of the two preceding years, Mr. Meredith said. If this provision applies to a farm in 1967 and failure to plant or pick and thresh was due to abnormal weather conditions farmers may request a waiver of this provision not later than Dec. 1, 1967.

Producers who overplanted their 1967 peanut allotments are reminded again that the area must be disposed of before harvest, in an acceptable manner in order to prevent marketing quota penalties and loss of price support. It is most important that this be

Short Course On Measuring Set by Farmers

The regular meeting of Eastland County Young Farmers was held in the Olden Community Club House at 8 p. m. Thursday, Sept. 25 with 16 members present.

The president was in charge of the business meeting. Minutes of the previous session were read by Don Massengill. It was agreed to sponsor a short course on proper measuring for the benefit of area farmers after Jan. 1, 1968, date to be announced later.

Speaker for the evening was Gilbert Meredith, county office manager, A.S.C.S., who gave a detailed explanation of the new certification program of measuring acreages in the county.

Meredith released interesting statistics concerning Eastland County farmers. He cited the fact that the average age of the Eastland County farmer is 54 years; that one-third of the county's population is employed on its 2,327 farms where they cultivate 39,000 acres of peanuts, 27,000 acres of feed grains, 6,000 acres of wheat and 2,000 acres of cotton.

Charles Veale gave a summary of the Area IV Young Farmers Convention held in Abilene on Tuesday, Sept. 23, which included a tour of Dyess AFB and a banquet during the evening.

During the afternoon business meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Vic Isham of Gustine; Four vice presidents, Dick Talmore and Willy Perry of Hamilton, Mike Eagan of Ballinger and Don Adams of Ranger.

Highlight of the meeting was an address by Dr. J. K. Justice, of Abilene Christian College, who discussed "The Future of Agriculture."
