The richest and rarest treat lovers of song in Colorado have ever had, was the entertainment at the opera house Tuesday night by Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, which was attended by the utmost capacity of the house, and all were charmed to a degree of open-mouthed astonishment when she took a double high E note with the ease of a jack rabbit negotiating a two-foot ditch. Miss Yaw possesses the most wonderful voice ever known, having the greatest range, and making her lower notes in rich full tones which are so rare among high sopranos.

Easily and naturally she trips the gamut of notes, taking the highest known to the human voice without exertion and strikes each with exquisite precision. Her voice is pure, clear and altogether beyond the ordinary scope of the composer's imagination. Her singing of popular ballads was superb and thrilled the hearts of all her hearers.

No one was disappointed. Miss Yaw's voice was lovely. She selected her program from classical and time worn but favorite numbers with rare discrimination. Her voice, in technique and tone, is perfection itself.

No prima donna could have wished a warmer audience. Encores were numerous. Not only was Miss Yaw time and again tumultuously applauded, but Mr. Plowe, the flutist, and Miss DeArmond, the pianist, at once became instantaneous favorites because of their performances.

Miss Yaw's charm is irresistible. She combines with her rare voice an engaging cordiality that stamps her an artist for art's sake alone.

Her last number, the Mad Scene from Lucia De Lammermoor, was a superb piece of technique. With flute obligato her voice soared to sublime heights.

The prima donna arranged a pretty entrance. Behind the scenes, to the accompaniment of the flute, she sang a bird-like selection, and then, amid a storm of applause, made her graceful entrance.

Her costume was richly simple. She wore a blue mousseline de sole cut decollete over white, with bodice and tunic drapery of jeweled chiffon. A lone amethyst sparkled on the third finger of her left hand. Her neck was bare of jewels except one brooch set in diamonds on a gold chain.

Miss Yaw sang Verdi's Caro Nome (Rigoletto). Before the last note was ended she walked into the wings and behind the scenes finished the number, concluding with a wonderful, thrilling crescendo in which she successfully reached High E in altissimo. The encore was Coming Through the Rye.

After Miss DeArmond had played Godard's Novellozza Miss Yaw achieved her crowning triumph, the Mad Scene from Lucia. Her hearers paid her such a spontaneous tribute of applause that she appeared once more and sang Home Sweet Home.

After the concert the prima donna received a number of ladies on the stage. She was showered with congratulations.

The Miss Yaw company came to Colorado under the auspices of the Colorado Choral Society, who deserve credit for bringing such a splendid and high class entertainment to this city. The engagement fully paid for itself, we understand.

OPENING OF BUSINESS COLLEGE

In Colorado This Week a Grand Success. List of Patrons.

Prof. John T. Roberts of Weatherford, assisted by his able corps of instructors, opened a branch of the Roberts Business College in the Boren building over C. M. Adams dry goods store, Monday morning with a large attendance. In speaking of the school President Roberts stated that, "The school opened under the most favorable auspices, with a much larger attendance than the most optimistic person could have hoped for, taking into consideration the fact that ten days previous the citizenship of Colorado had not even dreamed of a commercial school, and besides very little publicity had been given the proposition either by newspaper advertising or otherwise. Each day a number of new pupils are enrolled and I fully believe that before thirty days is past the citizens of Colorado will awake from their Rip Van Winkle slumbers to a realization of the fact that Colorado has succeeded in establishing, through the efforts of the Commercial Club, and other enterprising citizens, who have the best interest of the town and the development of the country, at heart, one of the best commercial schools in the Lone Star State. Furthermore, I want to thank the patrons of the school and others who have worked so nobly in the success of this institution, and assure them that I will ever strive to merit their favor and will appreciate a continued manifestation of their splendid efforts."

Among those who have purchased scholarships at the beginning, are: C. H. Lasky, C. H. Earnest, C. M. Adams, Dr. P. C. Coleman, F. M. Burns, W. W. Watson, J. M. Greene, O. M. Mitchell, R. H. Looney, T. J. Mathews, W. H. Gardner, J. F. Clayton, J. O. McClellan, D. N. Arnett, J. L. Doss, J. A. Buchanan, J. D. Wulfjen, J. B. Ferner, D. P. Smith, Whipkey Printing Co., J. R. Altizer, Forrest Payne, R. G. Smith, A. J. Coe, H. C. Deal, E. R. Huey, J. W. Bird, W. A. Campbell, Hastings & Morrison, T. H. Roe, J. P. Majors, J. C. Prude, J. L. Shepherd, J. H. Posey, W. F. Robinson, Vance Greenfield, J. L. Phenix, Earnest Ross, Fred Glisson, Colman Smith, Clay Smith, Harry Pond, Douglas Burns, Mrs. A. J. Culpepper, Misses Ethel Greenwood, Willie Caldwell, Lena Key, Maude Simpson, Loula Merrell, Shell Merrell and others whose names we failed to learn.

Mitchell County

Cone Johnson Club

Those interested in the candidacy of Hon. Cone Johnson for Governor, and in fact all democrats who favor prohibition in Texas, are urged to attend a mass meeting of democrats for the purpose of organizing a

Mitchell County Cone Johnson Club to held at the Court House at Colorado Saturday May 14 at 2 p. m.

All indications now point to the nomination of Mr. Johnson at the July Primaries, and his friends in Mitchell County should now show their interest and do their part toward making victory certain.

Come Out and Show your Colors.

CHAMPION CHIMES.

Nearly everybody is up with their work at present and are putting in their time discussing the political situation.

The people of Champion met and organized a literary society to be held at the school house, beginning Friday night, May 6th, and to meet every other Friday night thereafter. Everybody asked to come out and help to make it a success.

The public school closed two weeks ago and Prof. Grady McTea was employed to teach a four months subscription school.

Several of our young folks attended the singing convention at Colorado Sunday, and report a nice time. John Barkley left Sunday night for Barstow. Sunday school is progressing nicely. G. C. Kennedy of Oklahoma was visiting home folks a few days ago. It seems that winter is still with us. BLUE JAY.

Notice to Sunday Schools.

We are requested to remind the different Sunday schools of the county that $100 were pledged at the Dallas state Sunday School Convention by Mitchell county for the work. The national convention will meet at Washington this month and it will be very necessary that this amount be in hand and sent to the state committee early as possible. To this end, therefore, every Superintendent is urged to make the pro rata collection on May 22nd. By order of ROBT. M. WEBB, Co. C.

Mitchell County Cattle Raisers' Protective Association.

This organization met at the Colorado National Bank Saturday, April 3rd, at 2:30 p. m. President, E. E. Ende stated that the object of the association was to discuss the building of a dipping vat, and the eradication of ticks in Mitchell County. The following committee was appointed to confer with the Texas & Pacific Telephone and get permission to build lines for dipping vat in the Colorado stock country. P. C. Coleman, Judge R. H. E. and Ben Plaster. If the committee reports favorably, the President is authorized to appoint a committee to raise funds to build the vat. A resolution was passed unanimously for the eradication of ticks, and the members of the Association pledged themselves to co-operate with the Government and State Agents in tick eradication, and to clean pastures if possible.

W. A. Wallace, government agent, was requested to describe the dipping vat to be used by the government. After giving dimensions, he suggested that all stockmen having dipping vats measure them and send them to the department for approval. In discussing this matter it developed that quite a number of the vats owned by stockmen do not conform to the State requirements, and as it is quite expensive to build new ones, it was resolved, that as a number of the dipping vats built for the purpose of 1909, were found to be in his yard that in the spring of 1909, these dipping vats were transplanted in his orchard and supplied with irrigation pipes. The trees made a fine growth and this spring were full of blooms. The blooms were large, which is a protection from frost. The trees now stand about four feet high and about three and a half feet spread, and are loaded with fruit, the peaches now being well advanced they will be watched with interest. Mr. Ende is not able to add anything of interest to our list of peaches.

J. H. T. Johnson Sr., returned Sunday morning from the reunion of the Confederate veterans at Mobile, Ala. He reports a jolly good time. While there he visited the battle field at Ft. Blakely, drank water out of the same spring whose limpid waters had quenched his thirst in the days of long lady, Chas. Mann, F. E. McKenzie, Carey & Bell, S. T. Smith, Jack Smith, N. L. Smith, C. L. Ware, Mrs. D. C. Byrne, W. C. McCallum, Dave Robinson, Hall Jarman, D. H. Snyder Jr., Ed Dupree, J. T. Johnson, Dave Bhotan and G. B. Coughran, who own ranches in Howard county, were present and endorsed all the proceedings of the Association. Government Inspectors W. A. Wallace and V. W. Allen and State Inspector, Lee Wilson, were in attendance by special invitation. As there was no other business the Association adjourned, subject to call of the president.

BROOKS BELL, Sec.

CUTHBERT CULLINGS.

It has been very dry, but last Monday night we had some rain.

Our singing class was well represented at the convention held at Colorado last Sunday by the following persons: W. R. Womack and wife, Messrs H. L. Holley, Melvin Burrus and Will Womack; Misses Julia Burrus and Cora Womack. A pleasant time was reported.

Misses Flora and Susie Bozeman returned last week from Colorado where they went to visit friends and to attend commencement exercise, of the Colorado high school.

M. L. Hill went to Loraine last Saturday. Reports an interesting and business town.

At the last meeting of the W. O. W. at this place the 1st degree team was present and helped to initiate two members into the order.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. F. M. Piercy who has been confined to bed for the most part of nearly two weeks, is not doing well. Mrs. O. Cowan is not doing well. Mrs. Henthes and Mr. Plowe failed to learn her from Freestone.

Tailored Suits at Home.

The millinery establishment of Mrs. Jas. DeMoss keeps abreast of the demands of the most particular and ultrafashionable. As a special feature of the business, an expert tailoress from Denver, Colorado, has been secured and hereafter the ladies and misses of Colorado will have the same facilities for having tailor made suits as those enjoy who live in the larger cities.

Mrs. Bodell comes with the highest endorsements and recommendations as an artist and skilled operator in her line. She knows the decrees of Dame Fashion in her most fastidious tastes; and makes a special study of every customer. She will arrive sometime next week and be a permanent feature of the business of Mrs. Jas. DeMoss, having charge of the dress making department. Colorado is indeed fortunate in securing such an institution, and the Record predicts a tremendous business in this new line of business. But this is the basal principal of this popular house—it holds that the very best is none too good for its patrons.

M. A. Dry Dead.

After an illness of only three or four days, Mr. M. A. Dry passed away Wednesday night about 1 o'clock, and was buried Friday (his) afternoon. Mr. Dry and family have been honored residents of Colorado many years and he enjoyed a large circle of friends who held him in high esteem for his quiet and gentlemanly demeanor. For the past few years his health has been poor and he had two or three spells of severe illness. He leaves two daughters in Colorado, to mourn his loss, his wife having preceded him years ago to the reward of the "pure in heart." The Record joins a host of friends in assurances of deepest sympathy for those who mourn.

LOCAL NOTES

Why not attend the night session of Roberts Business College and thereby double your salary.

A slow but steady rain has fallen during the day and as the Record goes to press, continues with every indication of a downpour. The river is on a six-foot rise, showing that heavy rains have fallen to the north and west of us. The rain of Monday night was heaviest to the north. Warmer temperature gives promise of more rain here. "Great is Mitchell county and the Record is its prophet."

Miss Stoneroad has several pupils who have finished the course in music and will play at the recital tonight. Medals and diplomas will be awarded.

While Roy Allmond, Geo. Witten and Oscar O'Daniel, three boys, were skyscraping around on the mountains west of town one day this week, with their dogs, located the den of a mother wolf, under a large rock. The had the nerve to punch her out and with the assistance of the dogs finally succeeded in killing her, when they proceeded to enter her den and take out five baby wolves.

There will be about eighty children taking part in the cantata and musical recital at the opera house tonight; go hear them.

It is the general opinion that this phenomenal weather is caused by the comet. About the time of the last appearance of this same comet, many peculiar meteorological phenomena occurred before and during its visit. In 1833 occurred the falling stars and in 1835 was spoken of as the year without a summer. People who observed this peculiar condition said there was not enough hot weather to make the grass and leaves green, but that they remained a sickly pale color, and that there was practically but little made that year in the crop line.

Don't forget the entertainment at the opera house to night. Miss Stoneroad's entertainments never disappoint an audience.

The Young Ladies Guild of the Episcopal church will give a moonlight carnival at the court house park, Thursday, May 19th. All kinds of attractions in connection with a street fair are being prepared and a delightful entertainment is promised all who attend.

An Interurban Railroad. Robert Lee to San Angelo which leading citizens are working on, and do that the utmost secrecy observed in these operations, it became known in San Angelo Monday.

A San Angelo visitor to Robert Lee, who is just returned, is authority for the statement, and no one here seems to have the least bit of doubt as to the accuracy of the report.

"As I understand it," said this man, "the plan is an individual effort of the Robert Lee citizens—E. G. Hammond and the Colorado & Concho Railway have nothing whatever to do with it. From what I was told, Robert Lee does not like the idea of being a mere station on the Colorado & Concho railroad.—The citizens want to make their town a terminal point, and that is why they want two distinct roads to end there. They think that if they don't build to San Angelo, the Colorado & Concho will."

It is understood that a committee of business men at Robert Lee is now formulating plans to carry out the project of building the line to San Angelo.—San Angelo Standard.

LORAIN LETTER

On Thursday evening, April 28th, after about ten days of intense suffering, the spirit of J. W. Smiley whined its way to God who gave it. We can truly say, a good man has Christ on his mind. He was a good Lord, a good husband and father, found his friends, true to his church, philosophy his God. He will be greatly missed, not only in the home, but the good town will miss him and mourn. The funeral services were given at the Methodist church, Friday, April 29, 10 p. m., conducted by the pastor, J. Irvin, assisted by Rev. J. C. Hays of Sweetwater, after which the remains were taken charge of by the U. D. W. lodges of Loraine and Colorado, followed by the largest funeral procession ever in Loraine, and with solemn and impressive burial services of the W. O. W. he was laid to rest in the Loraine cemetery, there to await the resurrection morning. May the blessings of our Father in heaven rest upon and comfort the bereaved ones, and may this severe trial bind them closer to heaven.

Dr. Shock and family have returned from their visit to Robert Lee and San Angelo.

Mrs. Stickney of Robert Lee is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Hall. She is accompanied by her little daughter, Clydian.

W. L. Edmondson has developed quite a novelty in the peach, breaking the record of all peachdom. In the spring of 1909, he found a peach in his yard that had come up from the seed. These little seedlings were transplanted in his orchard and supplied with irrigation pipes. The trees made a fine growth and this spring were full of blooms. The blooms were large, which is a protection from frost. The trees now stand about four feet high and about three and a half feet spread, and are loaded with fruit, the peaches now being well advanced, they will be watched with the greatest of interest, and Mr. Edmondson may be able to add something valuable to our list of peaches.

J. H. T. Johnson Sr., returned Sunday morning from the reunion of the Confederate veterans at Mobile, Ala. He reports a jolly good time. While there he visited the battle field at Ft. Blakely, drank water out of the same spring whose limpid waters had quenched his thirst in the days of long ago, went again to the old oak tree under the sheltering foliage of which he had set and penned a missive to the sweet-heart of the soldier boy. He found the breast-works he had helped to build still in a good state of preservation. The pine timber that encumbered the ground in those troublesome times had been sawed into lumber many years ago, and another growth is now almost ready for the saw. Pine trees fourteen inches in diameter are growing on top of the breast-works. Some of the old oaks are still standing and show signs of the battle.

W. B. Wimberly was a comrade of Mr. Johnson at this place, but they were not cognizant of the fact until their meeting and residence in Loraine. These old gentlemen are rich in reminiscence and can tell many a tale of exciting adventure. Mr. Johnson brought back as a souvenir a walking cane cut from the breast-works near where he stood. In 1865 he walked all the way from north Alabama to Waco, Texas, and engaged in school teaching. We could give many interesting reminiscences but space forbids.

C. P. Gary left Tuesday morning for Fort Worth to meet his father and mother who are coming to visit their sons, C. P. of Loraine, and Robert Gary of Colorado.

D. K. Wray and wife who have been visiting their daughter Mrs. S. E. Brown, returned to their home in San Angelo last Monday.

Mrs. Len Henson of Mt. Pleasant came in Tuesday night to attend the funeral of her father, J. W. Smiley.

C. W. Easterling was on our streets Tuesday.

O. Cowan of Sweetwater visited his wife and friends in Loraine Sunday.

Henthorn is off for Houston this morning to attend the State and Southern Branch of the National Dental Association.

Loraine school is busy these days preparing for the commencement. A good program will be rendered.

Miss Nell Hassell came in Monday from Oklahoma to visit her sister Mrs. W. Smiley, who is quite sick, but we are glad to state, is some better at this writing.

Miss Lois Prude of Colorado visited her aunt a few days last week. Elder Lawrence who has been absent some eight or ten days engaged in a meeting at Robert Lee, returned home Monday night.

Loraine was well represented at the singing convention last Sunday in Colorado, and a most enjoyable day was spent. Colorado royally entertained the convention, and offered a hearty welcome and an invitation to hold all future conventions there, but it was decided to hold the next one at Cuthbert.

The reception given by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Friday night, was a great success. About three hundred were present including a number from the Colorado lodge. Refreshments were served and an interesting program was rendered.

A number of Loraine boys and their best girls attended the opera in Colorado Monday night.

Miss Loraine Dees entertained Friday night in honor of Miss Lois Prude. Mrs. F. Johnigan and little sons are visiting Mrs. Johnigan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Zellner of Abilene.

Mr. Eugene Brown and family are visiting Mrs. Claude Thompson this week.

Baccalaureate Sermon

Before the Graduating Class of Colorado High School, 1910, by Rev. Holmes Nichols.

Text:—"Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like His." (Numbers 23:10).

Concerning the matter and manner of the sermon for an occasion like this, I am reminded of the words of Dr. Lyman Abbott to a group of ministerial students. He said:

"There is but one rule necessary to be observed in addressing a college audience: Have something to say, and then say it. Begin without an introduction, close without a peroration, and waste no time in ornamentation or emotional appeals."

My friends, I believe this to be a good rule, and I assure you that I have no desire to indulge in sophomoric, sky-scraping after star-dust. But I hope to bring you a message that will inspire each of my hearers to endeavor to live the life indicated by the text: "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like His."

The marginal reading of the passage suggests this simple rendering: "Let me live the life of the righteous here, and let me receive the reward of the righteous hereafter." Hence the text and the theme, have to do with the life that now is, and with that which is to come. When we come to discuss problems which deal with time and eternity, it is no time for pedantic preaching and dramatic display, but for serious thought and deep meditation, and this I earnestly crave while I answer three questions suggested by both the text and the topic.

Essential Factors.

First.—What are the essential factors which go to make up a righteous life? I answer: The three leading factors in character building are the Church, the School and the Home.

The Church.

From time immemorial iconoclastic infidels, and pugilistic pedants, have planned and plotted and prated against the Christian Church, but why do these helpless heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing? The church stands for pure politics, savory society, cultured civilizations, and clean citizenship. Daniel Webster said: "Whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens." Lord Byron said: "There was never found in any age of the world either philosophy, or sect, or law, or discipline, that did so exalt the public good as the Christian faith." William E. Gladstone said: "Talk about the question of the day, THE QUESTION OF THE DAY IS CHRISTIANITY." Speaking of the civilization of the Hawaiian Islands, William Jennings Bryan said: "The missionaries laid the foundation for the present civilization." And speaking of Christless Japan, he said: "Japan must have a religion, for no nation can avoid decay unless its morals are reinforced by religion." So the one who inveighs against the Christian church, whose founder is the Prince of Peace, is against cultured civilization, and is, therefore, an anarchist. The mission of the church is two fold: To make men right with their Master and Maker, and to keep them right in their dealings with each other. But how does the church hope to accomplish this? By calling upon man to put his trust in God, and by urging him to walk in the light of divine law.

"But," says one, "it does not make any difference what you believe just so you do right." But there is the trouble, you are not going to do right until you believe right. Righteous living is the result of right thinking. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." What about the man who believes in a pure God in his heart? Hear the old answer: "The fool has said in his heart, there is no God. But what about the character of the man with a Godless creed? The writer answers: "They are corrupt. They have done abominable works. They are altogether become filthy. There is not one that doeth good, no, not one."

"But," says another, "it is not necessary that the church speak to us of God, for all Nature proclaims His goodness and glory and power."

Yes, yes, we can stand yonder at the base of the mighty mountain, and say with Coltridge:

"Rise, rise like a cloud of incense from earth,

And tell the silent sky,
And tell the stars, and tell yon setting sun;
With her thousand voices praises God."

Or I can stand yonder by the rushing, roaring river, and say with another:

"Flow on forever, in thy glorious robe of terror and of beauty.
Yes, flow on, unfathomed and resistless,
For God doth give the power to speak of Him eternally,
And on thy rocky altar pour incense of awe-struck praise."

Israel's sweet singer, David, preached the same doctrine when he said:

"The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard."

So when I gaze up into the heavens, the blue sky, and blinking stars, the brilliant moon, and the blazing sun, speak to me of the glory of God. And when I look around me on earth, fruitful fields and fragrant flowers, and golden grain, and verdant vineyards, and beautiful birds speak and sing to me of the goodness of God.

Or if I stand yonder by the old ocean, and surging sea, and rushing river and lovely lakes, and flowing fountains, and rippling rills, they speak to me of God's power. And thus the heavens and the earth, things animate and inanimate, chime in, for one great chorus and sing to us of God's glory, and goodness, and power."

No, no "God hath not left himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with gladness." When I think of the goodness and glory, and power of God, as revealed on every page of nature, I am reminded of the words of that plain philosopher, the late Sam P. Jones. He said:

"There may be larger worlds, and grander and better worlds than this, but this is a great world. It's mountains are God's thoughts piled up; its prairies God's thoughts spread out; its rivers God's thoughts in motion; its flowers God's thoughts in bloom; its harvests God's thoughts in bread; its dewdrops God's thoughts in pearl; and whenever we look about us, every object smiles back upon us and says: "I am the gift of a gracious Father to His wayward children."

But remember, my skeptical friend, with nothing but natural theology as our guide, we would erect our altars and with the Athenians write: TO THE UNKNOWN GOD." Nature speaks to us of God's power, but not of His purity and purpose. Nature speaks of His glory and goodness, but not of His grace. The church alone reveals to us the God of Love and light and life. He who speaks from the heavenly sky also speaks from the Holy Scriptures.

I take another step; he who speaks from the skies and from the Scriptures must also shine in the soul of man. He who shines in the heavens must also shine in the heart, for out of the heart are the issues of life."

An unknown writer has well and wisely written: "Wonderful are the aptitudes and possibilities and powers of our minds. Wonderful are the products which they bring forth. They feed on stars, and turn them into astronomy; on strata and turn them into geology; on flowers, and turn them into botany; on facts, and turn them into philosophy; on principles, and turn them into religion; on God himself, and turn God into a divine life on earth."

Now, brethren, my contention is this: While all Nature speaks to us of the glory of God, the church speaks to us of the grace of God by which we are made partakers of the divine nature, which enables us to live the life of the righteous. This is what the Apostle Paul meant when he said: "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me."

The cultured, but Christless infidel, does not live, he loafs. Infidelity is a field without fruit, a vineyard without verdure, a flower without fragrance, and a fool without faith. Now the church comes to this poor deluded man on life, and points him to God and says: "There is your heavenly Father, honor Him. She points to Christ and says: He is the way, the truth and the life, accept Him. She points to the Holy Spirit and says: "He will guide you into all truth, follow him."

Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

The School.

The school is another factor in character building. It is true that the school does not enter the realm of the spiritual, but it is also true that the school stands for the mental and moral development of man. The work of the teacher and the preacher go hand in hand. I heard President Faunce, of Brown University, a Christian institution, make this statement:

"There is a verse at the very opening of our Bible that I would like to write over the entrance to every school and every church. It is the old sentence, 'Let us make man.'

"That is what every school is for, not simply to teach this branch or that branch, however important it may be, nor simply to discover some new key or decipher some old palimpsest or inscription, but to MAKE MEN. That is the object of every church as well. Church and school meet in that endeavor; to make men of clear eyes and stout hearts and strong will; men of understanding and information and resolution; men who know how to love devotedly, and hate determinedly, and act promptly and grow forever. Now in this making of men the school and the church are co-operative."

I heard Dean Kessler, of Baylor University, another Christian institution, make this statement:

"With all I have heretofore said about the Christian college, and no man believes in its mission more than I, it has, beyond question, a masterly work to do; it must touch and direct and make vital withal, not only the religious and industrial and moral, but also every other dynamic of our national life, and yet I still say that the most important school among us is the public school, which takes the child directly from the arms of its mother to mold and to shape its ideals. This school is for every man's child, and it is every man's duty as a parent and a citizen to share in the responsibilities it brings to every man's door."

See the 16,000,000 children in the public schools in the United States whose minds and morals are being molded by the public teachers, and you have some kind of a conception of the public school as a great force and factor in the development of civic righteousness. The church looks at depraved humanity, and points to the cross of Calvary, and says: "To the Christ for cleansing, and to Pentecost for power." The school looks at the cleansed man and says: "Let me assist the church in the development of your mind and morals." How fitting then that we meet here for this annual sermon. How timely that this superintendent call upon one of the pastors to conduct the weekly chapel service. And, oh, how needful that we co-operate with, and that we do not adversely criticize, these noble Christian young men and women, who have toiled and taught, worked and worried, for our good in the molding of the minds and morals of our children.

The Home.

But the home is the greatest factor in the making of the righteous life. It comes first in the divine order. It antedates the church and the school. First the home, then the church, and then the school.

As are the bones in this country, so are the citizens. The church and school are powerless as factors in character building unless they shall have the helpful hand of the home. Father and mother must translate the holy scriptures into holy living. The very translation ever made of God's word is that translation made in the home by father and mother. Mother's hand is back of every lovable child. Gentlemen, the plain unvarnished truth is this:

"They talk about a woman's sin; As though it had a limit; There is not a place in earth or heaven, There is not a task to man; There is not a blessing; There is not a whisper; There is not a life or death; That has a feather's weight; Without a woman in..."

As are the mothers of the men of the West, a mother was one of the most that ever lived, vain and vicious, voluptuous, was good as aington dis of his me poetry and what W mother righter West and n the ch

The Singing Convention.

Those who had any fears about the county singing convention being a success, must have had them completely dispelled. The crowd began to come in early and by ten o'clock the tabernacle was comfortably filled. From that time until noon the crowd was swelled by hundreds. The forenoon was devoted to singing until the noon hour, when an adjournment was had for dinner.

President Ed. W. Smith, on behalf of the commercial club invited the convention to make Colorado its permanent home, assuring the delegates that at all times they would find the heartiest welcome and co-operation. An address of welcome was made by A. H. Weston, who assured the convention the town would at all times be glad of the honor and pleasure of the convention's entertainment.

As had been previously announced, dinner was spread on the lawn in the court house park. The committee to whom was intrusted the securing of baskets, did their duty well; there was enough and to spare.

About 1:30 singing was resumed. The Colorado Concert Band also contributed much to the enjoyment of the afternoon exercises by rendering beautiful selections, alternating with the singing. It was the consensus of opinion of everyone who had ever attended a session of the Mitchell county singing convention, that this was the most signally successful one in its history, and the Record predicts it is but the beginning of a friendly rivalry between town and country, as to which can furnish the most enjoyable occasion of these singing conventions.

Prof. Holley, of Cuthbert, in responding to the words of welcome and invitation to meet at Colorado permanently, said the rural communities did not want to be denied the pleasure of return entertainments, and invited everyone to come to Cuthbert, where the next convention would meet, assuring them of the boundless hospitality, for which that community has long been noted.

The Band Boys Grateful.

We wish to thank all the different parties that so ably assisted the Colorado Concert Band in giving us a benefit play at the opera house Friday night, April 29th. The twelve ladies and gentlemen that so unselfishly sacrificed a week of their time in getting up this play without compensation, have certainly endeared themselves to the band boys and in the future they will need only to ask in order to receive any favors in our power to grant. We want to thank Miss Reville for the part she took, as we fully realize that the short space of time allotted her, made her task very difficult and Valley Farm was produced in a way, not only doing credit to each character, but we feel that should we have used a month in selecting the cast from our local talent and give them all the time they should have asked for preparation, the same could not have possibly been produced in a more efficient manner. There were about thirty ladies and gentlemen that assisted us in the sale of tickets, whom we must thank for the full house of the night. We will not undertake anything of this kind within a year any way, but will be glad to return favors to our friends, at any time. COLORADO CONCERT BAND

The Frederick H. Wilson Lecture.

A large and appreciative audience heard the dramatic impersonation of "David, Jonathan and Saul" at the Presbyterian church last evening by the celebrated tragedian, Frederick H. Wilson. He was here under the auspices of Hereford Lodge, No. 476, I. O. O. F., and a most pleasant occasion was had. The large auditorium and annex was filled and those who had the pleasure of hearing this Odd Fellow were delighted.

Mr. Wilson is an impressive speaker, reciting pathos and tragedy with equal ease. He is a gentleman of pleasant address and entertains his audience with increasing interest to the end. The Odd Fellows of the city are to be congratulated in bringing such a splendid representative of their lodge to the city.—Hereford Brand.

Mr. Wilson will appear at the tabernacle Saturday night in the above lecture, and everyone is assured of an entertaining time who attends. No admission will be charged for this lecture.

A Quiet Home Wedding.

Owing to the illness of the Record's society reporter last week, the marriage of Mr. Frank Smith and Miss Marjorie Ellis failed to receive notice in last week's issue. It was not an oversight, but purely an accident that the joining of the hearts of these two popular citizens of Colorado failed of notice in the Record.

The marriage occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ellis, in this city in the presence of a few special friends of the contracting parties, at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night of last week, Rev. W. E. Lyon officiating.

The room was beautifully decorated with flowers, while the bride in a French organdie, trimmed in valencienne lace, in princess style, looked better than ever in her life. The groom was also at his best on this most momentous occasion. The substantial presents attested the esteem in which they were held by their friends. Refreshments of cake and cream were served, after which the happy couple repaired to their own "vine and fig tree" in one of the Pond cottages in North Colorado, where they are at home to their friends.

Miss Marjorie has been in the public service, that crucible that tries the patience and souls of man and woman, for the past four years, as chief operator of the long distance phone office of the T. & P. Telephone Co., and by her sunny temperament and uniformly obliging spirit, has made a loyal friend of every man, woman and child who has had occasion to demand her services, and who wish her well in her new and larger responsibilities.

Mr. Smith has lived here many years, and is connected with the government service. He is held in high esteem by all who know him. The Record wishes for them, long life, prosperity and abundant happiness.

Married:—At Colorado, last Wednesday, Frank M. Smith to Miss Marjorie Ellis. The groom is well known here, and perhaps, there is no other man within the bounds of this county, who has as many friends as Frank Smith. We join in congratulations.—Sterling City Record.

J. M. Watson, Stoutsville, Mo.

There are so many people that make light of stomach trouble that it is time to sound a warning. Don't neglect it, don't keep on doctoring with one man or thing unless you are getting benefit. The disease will get worse. J. M. Watson of Stoutsville, Mo., lingered and delayed so that no physician could help him. Finally he took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and was cured. This remedy is absolutely guaranteed to do what is claimed and if you want to try it before buying, send your address for a free sample bottle to Pepsin Syrup Co., 119 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. It is sold by all druggists at 50c and $1 a bottle.

A Card From Mrs. Goodwin.

Dear Editor:—I wish to express my appreciation for all the help and sympathy we have received from relatives, sovereigns W. O. W., and other friends during my husband's affliction with rheumatism, which has kept him confined to the home and yard since the 23rd of February, and to his bed since the 6th of March. Now that he has been carried to Mineral Wells he is still to keep his bed, and improves slowly. I want to ask all christian readers of your paper to join me in prayer for his recovery.

Sincerely,
Mrs. C. A. GOODWIN.

School Closing Pic-Nic.
There will be an all-day picnic given at the close of the Liberty school, Saturday, May 14, twelve miles south-west of Colorado on the Sterling City road. Aside from the ordinary enjoyments which characterize a "good old summer time" picnic, there will be some special features to entertain; such as speaking, base ball game, sack racing, "old mens" race and climbing the greased pole by school boys. Everybody invited. Bring well-filled baskets.

J. M. HOOD, Teacher.

Still more business the past year for which I thank those who have spoken well of my work. Cooper, the watch specialist.

Mr. Wallace, manager of the opera house, is making not only a needed improvement in the opera house entrance, but one demanded by law. The doors will hereafter open outward, so that in case of fire or panic exit the crowd cannot be jammed against the doors so they cannot be opened. Another thing required by law, is that all such places shall have side exits also; although the probability is great that no such means of egress will ever be needed for the opera house, yet if such a contingency should arise, the owners would undoubtedly be held culpable before the law for such neglect. One human life or limb is worth half a dozen opera houses, and safety lies in complying with what the law supposes has been done.

"The Schools That Do The Work"
WEATHERFORD, MERKEL and COLORADO TEXAS

THIS IS THE season of the year when so many young people are considering with much anxiety the question of what calling they shall follow in life. They realize that there are splendid opportunities for the young people with grit and determination, but they don't know where to take hold, because they have never been trained to do one thing well. To these young people we would say: Do not attempt to grapple with the great problems of life without first preparing yourself to fill a responsible position. Start right and success can be easily attained.

The world is calling as never before for trained men and women, who not only are not afraid to work, but who have the knowledge to do the task assigned them, RIGHT.

The desire to succeed is not all that you need in this struggle of life. You need also the training and mental equipment which will enable you to work rapidly and successfully in whatever calling you may choose.

There is a rapidly increasing demand for competent bookkeepers and expert stenographers. The pay is good from the very beginning and the opportunities for advancement are only limited by one's ability and ambition.

A few month's study this summer will prepare you to hold a good position next fall. Can you afford to miss the opportunity?

Gen. Van Zandt continued as commander of the Mississippi department. New Orleans was endorsed as the meeting place in 1915, the year of the Panama canal celebration.

In his speech before the French Institute, Mr. Roosevelt said that republics were still on trial; that they had not yet proven their permanency or safety. Not Alexander Hamilton himself believed in a "strong government and weak people" more than Mr. Roosevelt. He is now more powerful than ever, and his election to the presidency for a third term, would be fraught with peril to the liberties of the people of this country. His very popularity and strength are in themselves elements of danger to a republican form of government.

The Record took advantage of the occasion Sunday and invited quite a number of representative citizens of Mitchell county to make a tour of inspection through our "county orphan," commonly known as the county court house. They were taken through the various rooms, where the valuable archives were kept, into the district court room, then into the tower where our thousand-dollar clock is being eaten up by neglect and rust. Then the question was asked them: "What is the difference between the property to fall into ruin by lack of proper care, or squandering their money? Can anyone tell them?"

With four candidates in the race, (with apologies to Cunyus and Jones), there is about as much chance for the submission of the question of statewide prohibition to the voters of Texas as there would be for a celluloid dog to catch an asbestos rabbit in hell. If the two or three fellows running are more prohibitionists than they are politicians, they would yield personal ambition to principle and let the fittest survive. As it is, if they all persist in the free-for-all scramble for place and "things," the office of governor might as well be turned over to Colquhoun now. What the prohibitionists need is a candidate who is a prohibitionist first and a candidate incidentally; not a politician who is a prohibitionist for office.

Mothers' Day.

Next Sunday will be Mothers' Day all over this nation, and special services will be held in honor of our Saint. She has not yet been canonized by any official nomenclature from Bishop or Pope, but her exaltation to that pious eminence has been accomplished in the hearts of her millions of Children. She is the greatest of all the saints in the calendar, and next Sunday morning and spend an hour in paying tributes of gratitude and love to the only earthly friend who changes not. There will be special services at all the churches of Colorado and every man and boy has an urgent and special invitation to attend the service at some church.

Doing What One Pleases.

The man who asserts that he has a right to do what he wishes seldom wishes to do right. That is an independence which puts everybody else under bondage. It is a mistaken idea of liberty that gives license. One's sphere is not altogether his own in that of some one else is in part superposed upon it. In a word of relations and connections, dependence and interdependence must be marked more strongly than independence. Any man will destroy his usefulness quickest by a disregard of the rights and desires of others.—Exchange.

He Likes Such Surprises.

He likes such surprises. The best advertisement is a pleased customer. It happens to us continually in this way: A man buys Devoe for his house—he has painted it, once in three years for a dog's age, and thinks he knows what he wants—buys 30 gallons, and has 10 left. He sees right off that 20 Devoe is as good as 30 of anything else. He likes that; it comes quick; it is a surprise; and he tells of it. The best advertisement is a pleased customer. Three years roll round. There isn't a sign that his house needs paint; he don't paint it. Next year he don't paint it. This comes slow; it is a surprise; but he has got used to it. Still the best advertisement is a pleased customer.
