FOR OCTOBER

October.

O. T. Roosevelt has come back to the West!
Of all the rough riders, his luck was the best.
He rode from Dakota to San Juan Hill.
And he found him the Spaniards, he wanted to kill Shouting, "Into 'em Teddy,
An' into 'em deep!"
And the men of Granada
Went down in a heap.

He rested his broncho and fed him his fill, and then he rode yelling up Capitol Hill. He wasn't expecting or asking a thing, but he landed right in the political ring, shouting "Into 'em Teddy, and into 'em plumb!" and the poor politicians went down in a lump.

He watered his pinto and fed him some oats,
And then he remounted and hunted for goats.
He found him some people who didn't agree.

With all of his notions and gave a whoop-pee.
Yelling, "Into 'em Teddy,
An' into 'em hot!"
And he knocked them all into
The pittonless bot.

He hobbled his charger and gave him some grass and then he went after some one in his class. He put up a lion with blood in its eye, and he clapped on the spur with a terrible cry, saying "Into 'em Teddy, an' into 'em hard!" and the lion passed on to his final reward.

He breathed his good mustang and looked him around.

But further adventure was not to be found.
So he pulled up his trousers and pulled down his vest.
And slowly rode back to his old-time West.
Shouting, "Back to 'em, Teddy.
An' back to 'em proud!"
And they gathered about him
And solemnly bowed.

He rode in his saddle and rode on his head, and he put all the tender feet under the bed. He dashed to the east and he dashed to the west, and he halted before them, expanding his chest, saying, "Three cheers for Teddy, the pride of the west!" and they took a great pleasure in doing the rest.

October is from the Latin octo, meaning eight, and it was formerly the eighth month of the year. This brought the football season around at a time when there was grave danger of being suffocated before the ball was even put into play, and there was a great deal of dissatisfaction at the old Greek and Roman universities. A change was frequently talked of, but it remained for Numa, Pompilius, who was one of the early friends of education, to do anything about it. In 713 B. C. he moved October along to its present place in the calendar, and now the quarterback on a football team always says, before snapping the ball,

Numa, Numa,

B. C.

Come seven.

One, three!

After which the rooters, who reached a very high state of proficiency in the latter days of Numa, recite,

Numa, Numa,

Boomalooma,

Come Seven.

One, Three!

B. C.

Whoopee!

Siwash!

or whatever the name of the school is, as you may hear them doing any time this month by following the riot wagon when it passes.

Until the 23rd. of the month, October will be under the influence of Libra, the Balance, which is the seventh sign of zodiac. This will enable everybody running the office to keep on the fence pretty well as to the real issues of the campaign, but when the sun passes out of that constellation on the following day they will begin drooping on one side or the other, and it will be easier to make out who the true friends of the people are. After the 22nd., we will be influenced by Scorpio, the Scorpion which is almost meaningless now, but in early times typified the manner in which the north wind stung the old Greeks, who were in the habit of going until very late in the season without having on any wear to speak of, either over or under.

A bit of Fall is as nice a thing
As I know anything about—
When the pumpkin pie is ripening,
And the time is opportune for kraut.
When the hunter gets his trappings out.

Awakened by the time of year,
And the farmer, furious without,
And hot within, begins to shout,
"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here—dadbline your skin!"

Ah that's the proper time to sigh—
When the squirrel gets his goodies in
Against the winter, by-and-by.
When the bending reaches of the sky
Are very soft and very near,
And the farmer with his watchful eye,
Begins to hop around and cry,
"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

Get ou-u-u-u-t of here, you blanky-blank!"

Ah, that's the season of them all—
When winter hangs upon the flank
Of the wild goose passing in the fall.
When the plaintive quail begins to call
Across the golden fields and sere,
And the farmer bursting from the tall
With leaps and bounds begins to bawl,
"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

The melancholy days will come and the pheasant will intone his drum upon the sad and drowsy wind in the solemn manner of his kind. The booming frog will sniff the breeze and fall to digging on his knees, and the buck-wheat cake will take a crack at this fool thing of coming back.

It may be Jeffries and his strain are never quite themselves again, but the pickled pig's foot and the rest are always equal to the test. They never dissipate a bit, but spend the summer prime and fit and let the frost succeed the dew, and they're there, you bet, as good as new.

The doughty oyster on his shell, the chitlin looking strong and well, and clear and resolute of eye, the hardy brands of winter pie. The apple butter, juice and flake, the same that mother used to make, and the crackling of our youthful lot the cock and captain of the pot.

The foot-ball season will revert, and the center rush will paw the dirt. He'll wake the natives with his roar, and bawl for victory and gore. The piled up dyin' and dead will mass against his butting head and he'll spin the planet in his rage, just like a squirrel in his cage.

Alas for those who calmly sit devising to denature it, and all the college renegades, who think to temper it for maids! The students and the teachers howl and the rooters and the bleachers yowl, and damned be he who does not rise and kill somebody twice his size.

The aeroplanes will cruise the air above the old time county fair, and the lucky winner, will be he, who wins the best two falls in three. The farmer in his limousine, will tot around upon the green, and the hired man will seize the chance to wear his other pair of pants.

The softer weather will defy

The blandishments of June.

And the month will give us by and by

The office-hunter's moon.

A chop will cost four bits a pound,

And beef, a buck a bite.

And the wolf will wear a groove around

The cabin every night.

The 418th anniversary of the discovery of America, by Christopher Columbus will be celebrated on the night of the fourteenth by the seven Guggenheim brothers.

Mr. Roosevelt will be stage manager again this month. The villain will be the Demon Rum. Mr. Bryan will be the father of the stolen child and Mr. Cannon, who made the password Hell last month, will change it to read Hell-p!

And then November will return

With cold and chilly draft.

And the wild goose going down the line

With winter biting aft.

Ladies—We have an unusually attractive chance for a bright, energetic woman, well and favorably known in this community. For details, address, enclosing stamped, self addressed envelope to Manager, Lock Box 750, St. Louis, Mo.

MRS. STREIGHT AND MRS. NEFF INDICTED.

Waco, Texas, September 29.—The Grand Jury of McLennan County returned a number of indictments today and adjourned for the term.

An indictment was found against Mrs. Minnie Lee Streight, who is charged with killing her husband T. E. Streight, editor of the McGregor Mirror. This killing occurred June 18, last, at the Streight home in McGregor.

Waco, October 1.—This morning Mrs. Pattie Neff, indicted by the recent session of the Grand Jury as an accomplice, before the fact in connection with the killing of the late T. E. Streight at McGregor, June 18, formally surrendered to the authorities here. A writ of habeas corpus was sued out by her attorneys. By agreement with the State Mrs. Neff's bond was fixed at $5,000 which she immediately gave.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus having for its purpose the securing of bond for Mrs. Minnie Lee Streight, charged with the murder of her husband was prepared today by city attorney Lud Williams, leading counsel for Mrs. Streight. The petition will be presented to District Judge R. I. Munroe, and if the writ is granted and bail refused, it will at once be carried to the higher courts.

The application alleges that Mrs. Streight is being illegally restrained of her liberty.

$50,000 Policy

G. B. Harness, one day last week, wrote one policy of insurance for the paltry sum of $50,000.00 and still some people call Colorado a village. The premium on this was between seven and eight hundred dollars.

It's so, if you saw it in the Record

A BEAUTIFUL ROSE WEDDING

On Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, October 3rd., at the Presbyterian manse, Miss Daisy Crump, sister of Mrs. W. M. Elliott, was quietly married to Mr. W. B. Painter of Merced, California, in the presence of a number of friends of the bride and of the family of Rev. Elliott.

The drawing room was tastefully decorated in white and green, across the north end of which were erected three arches, and from the center of each, white marriage bells were suspended, the middle one being much larger than the others.

To the stately measures of the wedding march played by Miss Hallie Dupree, Rev. Elliott entered, followed by Mr. Reeves Coleman and the groom after whom came the bride supported by Miss Elinor Van Tuij, both of whom carried handsome arm bouquets. On arrival at the central arch, the contracting parties consorted and faced the minister, who in the impressive ritual of the Westminster faith, made the happy twain one flesh.

After congratulations and well wishes for all that fortune and Providence had for those who deserve their richest blessings, refreshments were served and a pleasant time spent in social converse. The popularity of these young people was attested by the number of handsome and useful presents they received.

Just as the minister began the recitation of the ceremony, a mammoth night blooming cereus, growing in a pot and placed just behind the bridal party, slowly began to blow, in sight of the guests, and in a few moments there were seven mammoth blooms, with their wax like petals, fully unfolded, and bathing the rooms with heavy fragrance. The incident incited much comment, and speculation ran riot as to its ominous significance. But the thought was unanimous that it portended a united life of full blown usefulness and fragrance. And so let us hope and believe.

The happy couple left on the 9-08 westbound train for their home in California, accompanied by the prayers and good wishes of all who had known them.

Bond Issue Carried.

The election Monday to determine whether or not an issue of $100,000 worth of bonds for road purposes be authorized, resulted in a victory for the bond issue by a vote of 24 for and 123 against. Work on the roads will be commenced as soon as all necessary arrangements can be made. The money for which the bonds will be sold will be worth a great deal to our country at the present time by giving employment to the farmers who failed to make crops this year.—Enterprise.

His Business Grows

Eight years is not so long for one to be in the same business, but when in that length of time the business has multiplied five times, and become the largest of its kind, in a domain like West Texas, its remarkable features become apparent, and the inquiry as to the causes of its growth and uninterrupted success, is natural.

During the eight years, Mr. G. B. Harness has been in the insurance business, he has paid many losses, in some of which has there been the slightest peg on which to hang a possible law suit or suspend the payment of a claim. Such a record is indeed remarkable. He represents his patrons as well as the insurance companies.

In addition to his insurance business, he has the most complete set of abstracts in the county, and with the assistance of an expert in this line, who does nothing else but look after this department of the business, accuracy and promptness have become fixed habits of this business. Your interests will be served by applying to Mr. Harness, when in need of either insurance or abstracts. He represents 25 of the best insurance companies in this country.

HETTY GREEN'S EXAMPLE

Hetty Green's plainness of dress, her great wealth and some marked personal eccentricities, have combined to give her unenviable notoriety as a hard, selfish woman. Are those characteristics so much worse, than the extravagance and frivolity displayed by some other wealthy women in New York? The question is pertinent, because some remarks she made to a newspaper reporter the other day.

"Don't you think it is a great deal better for me to live simply, as I do, than to spend my time playing bridge and drinking champagne as they do in society?" she inquired. "I am not a hard woman, but because I do not have a Secretary to announce every act I perform, I am called mean and stingy."

There is this much to be said in favor of her manner of life. It does not lead to scandal or the divorce court, even if it does not contribute material for the society columns of the New York papers. There is, of course, a happy medium, but if one must go to extremes, Hetty Green sets a less demoralizing example than some members of the other class.

Western Texas Rich in Mineral

Making a close examination of the oil fields at Edith, Dr. W. R. Phillips, of the Geological department of the University of Texas, returned to San Angelo Friday night and when interviewed by a Standard representative in regard to the prospects was rather reticent.

"I have made a close investigation of the prospects and I will soon have a report made, but right at present I can't say a single thing in that line for publication," declared the genial geologist. "I will say this much, however, I am certain that this section of the country is very rich in minerals. But as to specific places, I am not in a position to say."

"I have always maintained that West Texas is a section replete with minerals, if the saving hand of the developer should ever be turned to labor. I believe that the fuel question here will be solved some day—mind you, I don't say how soon—and oil discovered in considerable quantities."

"I have never hitherto made as thorough an investigation as I would like to have done, but I am still certain of my ground. I had a little experience with a rain in Concholand on my trip to Edith this time, being caught in an open buggy, while the rain came down in torrents. But it was worth getting wet to see how grateful the people were to receive the rain. I will likely be in San Angelo, until Sunday afternoon."

MONEY IN FARMING

An octogenarian in Indiana who has made a fortune by farming urges young men to follow that pursuit instead of seeking to enter the overcrowded professions. This well-seasoned and successful agriculturist is quoted as saying that if the young man will "mix brains with his farming" a few acres will suffice; that forty acres in this day and time is too much for one man to handle; that twenty acres is enough; that in France, more than 5,000,000 freeholders own fewer than four acres apiece; that near Indianapolis, a five acre farm devoted to hot house products yields an income of more than $3000 a year, etc., etc.

In general this advice is excellent, although the size and character of farms must inevitably vary according to circumstances, including the distance from markets. Some one has said that there is more in the man than there is in the land, and it is true; everything depends on the industry, good sense and judgment of the farmer.

The Indiana authority should have cited Japan as the best example of the marvels of intensive farming on small areas. "Japan," says a recent writer, "supports a population of 51,000,000 on an area of arable land that could be contained in a circle with a radius of 75 miles—considerably less than the distance from New York to Philadelphia. There are more farms that are called 'worn out' in England and the Middle States than would equal the whole of the tillable surface of the Japanese islands. Our lands are 'worn out' of course, merely because our scant skill and feeble patience are exhausted, and not because they do not contain under their hide bounds sods, the making of the food for millions. The teeming little farms of present-day Japan were cropped a thousand years before the Pilgrims landed on the Plymouth sands."—Macon Telegraph.

The Chinese Method of keeping eggs for many years, by enclosing them in clay is not so expensive and probably is quite as effective as our cold storage method.

THE SCHOOLMARM.

The teacher in the country school expounding lesson, sum and rule, and teaching children how to rise to heights where lasting—honor lies; deserves a fat and handsome wage, for she's a triumph of this age. No better work than hers is done beneath the good old shining sun; she builds the future of the state, she guides the youths who will be great; she gives the childish spirit wings, and points the way to noble things. And we, who do all things so well and of our "institooshuns" yell, reward the teacher with a roll that brings a shudder to her soul. We have our coin done up in crates, and gladly hand it out to skates who fuss around in politics and fool us with their little tricks. In congress one cheap, common jay will loaf a week, and draw more pay than some tired teacher, toiling near, will ever see in half a year. If I were running this old land, I'd have a lot of statesmen canned; and congressmen and folks like those, would have to work for board and clothes; I'd put the lid on lots of snaps and pour into the teachers' laps the wealth that now away is sinned for words and wiggle-jaws and wind.—Walt Mason.

SUMMERS IN TEXAS

"I spend my Summers in Texas", said J. B. Johnson, a wealthy merchant of Ann Arbor, Mich. I pass a great many Texas citizens going north to spend their vacations and I marvel at their preference. I do not see how any man who has lived in Texas can voluntarily leave it for another state or country. The delightful nights afford a splendid respite against the noon day sun while in the north, the temperature is equally as oppressive during the day and the nights afford no relief. The cool gulf breeze tempers the sun's rays, and soothes and quiets the overworked nerves. In fact the State is nature's Sanitarium.

"Then the watering places possess remarkable curative powers for most every disease the human flesh is heir to; the fish and game are abundant and all out of door sports are well patronized; amusements are refined, society is cultured and magnificent sermons are preached from the pulpits every Sunday. Texas is not only a State of great industrial opportunities but it is a good place to live," said the merchant from the badger State.

DISEASE AMONG FOWLS

M. Scarborough, Colorado's poultry fancier, gives us a remedy which he has tried very successfully among his chickens, being a cure for the sore head, while the part of the prescription for drinking water is a very valuable preventative of disease among fowls.

"Get some two-decimal tablets of bin-iod-of-mercury, and for large birds give two tablets, night and morning." In the drinking water use per-manganate of potash. Get some of the crystals and dissolve them in a bottle of water and then put enough of the solution in the drinking water to make the water quite purple. Continue this latter medicine for a week and it will take the disease, sore head, out of the whole flock. It is only the worst cases that will need the bin-iod-of-mercury.

TEXAS DEVELOPMENTS

"We are accustomed to hearing Texas spoken of as a land of magnificent distances and the immensity of its area can hardly be comprehended without riding through the state, but I consider your citizenship the biggest thing in Texas," said C. R. Wilson of New York City, who is touring Texas, investigating opportunities for investment. "Take your Galveston sea wall, which is the engineering marvel of the age and the causeway you are now building and the gigantic industrial enterprises I see in course of construction in my travels through out the State and it requires large minds to conceive and execute them. It makes one feel bigger and broader to come in contact with your colossal activities and I find I already have a well defined case of Texas fever, and I am going to make heavy investments in Texas properties," said the Eastern financier.

"The improvement of public properties distribute unearned values to adjoining properties in the respective communities and taken in the aggregate will amount to quite an item in Texas in the course of a year. With $25,000,000 bond issues in prospect for the improvement of public highways Government and local improvements on waterways; millions invested in municipal improvements; railroad construction; manufacturing and industrial activities that are going on everywhere in the state will increase the value of all property and taken as a whole, Texas is the most inviting field for investment in the union," said the noted capitalist.

W. H. GOODWIN IS DEAD.

So few people knew that Mr. W. H. Goodwin had been sick, that the news of his death, which occurred Sunday night at 12 o'clock, came as a decided shock to the community. Mr. Goodwin had been a citizen of this town and community many years, and had been a moral force in its development. He was a prominent member of the First Christian Church, and one of the foremost of our citizens in every good work.

On the 22nd of this month he and Mrs. Goodwin would have celebrated their golden wedding, and arrangements had begun looking to that happy consummation.

The funeral services occurred at the Christian church, at four o'clock Monday, conducted by Rev. Bledsoe of Big Springs; after which the remains were CONSTIPATION.

Its Cause and How to Cure it.

Eat too much.
Stomach feels bloated,
All out of sorts,
Don't feel like work to-day. Guess we've another case of biliousness.

"Take anything?"
"Yes; some pills, but no results; suppose I'm getting ironclad. Sometimes I double the dose, then they physic me so hard I'm too weak to work. Think I'll have to try something new."

"Ever try Prickly Ash Bitters?"
"No; I've heard a good deal about it, but never tried it."

"Well, you'll be pleased with the results."
The purgative action of Prickly Ash Bitters not only removes hard impactions, gas and impurities, but it strengthens the muscular action of the bowels which causes them to move regularly.

Prickly Ash Bitters is a bowel tonic and regulator in the truest sense. It promotes daily evacuations, establishes healthy movements and is the best known remedy for disordered digestion, flatulence and a constipated habit.

D. M. Blackwelder, of Litchfield, Ill., says in the Litchfield News: "I am perfectly willing, in fact glad to testify to the value of Prickly Ash Bitters as a medicine for the kidneys, stomach and bowels. I have used it whenever I needed anything of the kind for the last fifteen years and it has always given satisfaction."

taken in charge by the Masonic fraternity, of which he had long been an honored member, taken to the cemetery and there interred to await the great resurrection morn, when they shall be raised and become as incorruptible as his soul. Truly a good and useful man is gone. He is survived by a wife, two sons—George and Charley Goodwin and two daughters—Mrs. A. B. Maxfield and Mrs. J. L. Ross, now living at Big Springs.

ELECTION WILL PROBABLY BE CONTESTED

It does look as if our public school affairs, so far as getting anywhere with the construction of a new high school building, were hoodooed—there must be a Jonah aboard. The recent election was ordered, and the propositions stated in due form or law, and was regular in every detail. There were two separate and distinct propositions on which the people were asked to vote. The first was the abrogation of 18 cents of the tax now levied, and a reapportionment of that amount—ten cents for the interest and sinking fund to provide for the old issue of bonds, and eight cents to provide for the interest and sinking fund of the bonds voted on at the same election. The second proposition was for or against the issue of $10,000 in bonds. The declared result of the election was a clear majority of 6 for both propositions.

But it developed that there were thirteen ballots so marked as to indicate the abrogation of the 18 cents of the tax already levied, but against revoting the tax and bonds. These votes, it appears, were not counted, but put into an open envelope and turned in with the tally sheets and ballot box. As a result it is quite likely, the election will be contested.

And say, how many boys in Colorado between the ages of twelve and twenty can you mention who say "yes and no sir," "if you please" and "thank you"? They may say "yes sir" to their fathers or those in authority over them; but how many, of their own initiative, prompted by the innate dictates of kindness and good breeding, observe such refined and polite amenities? Echo and the whole town ask—how many?

KILLING AT POST CITY.

Last week Contractor Peterson disappeared from his camp near Post City and the officers arrested his wife and placed her in jail. After being put in jail the woman wrote a letter to parties on the outside, and the letter was read by the sheriff, who immediately arrested two men, Pete Hanover and Bob Prior as being connected with the disappearance of Peterson.

It was learned later that he had been killed and his body buried in a railroad dump.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble and you should seek a remedy that is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Colorado residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

Mrs. M. J. Gollightly of Merkel, Texas, says: "I had trouble with my kidneys for the past five years. There was a dull ache across my hip and loins, at times extending into my limb as far as my knees. The secretions from my kidneys were also unnatural. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they did me so much good that I gladly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn, Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

More jobs and positions have been lost by lack of good manners and address than for incompetency, while good manners and polite address have secured and kept jobs that ability alone could not hold.

I have been writing fire insurance more than two years. Have I written any for you? I shall be pleased to write some of yours and since we all charge the same rate, why not let me renew one or more of your policies.—Ernest Keathley, over Jake's restaurant.

GREAT IS TEXAS.

A Department Store in Which Everything is Obtainable.

According to dispatches sent out to Eastern and Northern papers, Texas has the most varied soil and climate of any state in the Union, and all crops known to the United States are assured in Texas.

Comparing the state to a huge department store which can supply its customers with every necessity of life from the things they eat to the clothes they wear, they declare that Texas can furnish the right kind of soil and climate for the successful growing of most any fruit, vegetable, or grain known to the soil of any other portion of the United States.

They further state that the vast area of land within the borders of this state makes it possible for Texas to offer better inducements in the way of cheap lands, etc., to homeseekers and this, together with her varied soil and climate, they say constitutes the reasons why Texas is the best place on earth in which to live.

Texas as a fruit growing section is rapidly coming to the front and the Elberta peach is a favorite in the Northern markets and there is quite a demand for fruits and vegetables grown in our gulf coast country. The fame of Texas Bermuda Onions is well known and Texas grown cabbages are insisted upon by many buyers of the northern and Eastern markets.

The mild winter climate in some sections of Texas is especially adapted to the growing of early vegetables, and tomatoes, beans, okra, cucumbers, and other vegetables grown on Texas soil are shipped to northern markets at all seasons of the year and command top prices.

THE PHILOSOPHER AND THE FROG

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Dr. Safford, for many years professor of chemistry in the Medical College of the University of Nashville, used to tell his students a fable—the moral of which was "prove it." Certain wise men were gathered together to ascertain the explanation of a statement that when two glasses of water of equal weight are balanced on the beams of a balance scale and a frog is then put in one of the vessels the balance remains the same, thus attempting to prove the assertion that a frog has no weight when immersed in water. Each wise man had his own explanation, and there was much heated argument and discussion. At length one of the wise men said: "But is your statement true? Let's prove it." Of course when it came to proving it, they couldn't.

So when you hear people say that Coca-Cola is injurious, just ask them to prove it. They can't. Nobody can, because it is not injurious. But on the other hand it can be proved that it is not injurious by chemical analysis. Or if you are not a chemist yourself, why not accept the verdict of every competent chemist who ever analyzed it? Eminent College and University Chemists, Commercial Chemists, Government, State and City Chemists—all have analyzed Coca-Cola and not one has ever been able to find anything injurious in it. The
