THE DAIRY COW.

The dairy cow does more than bring financial success to the dairy farmer. She makes him a better citizen than he would otherwise be. Her influence upon home conditions is a most pleasing contribution to those factors which are responsible for the changed conditions which prevail in the farm homes of today. Thousands of these homes are now characterized by comfort and happiness where formerly they were blighted by drudgery and unhappiness.

Better financial conditions have contributed to this change, and the dairy-cow has been in no small measure responsible. She has contributed in still another way. The dairy cow teaches kindness. Her owner soon learns that by only treating her kindly can he secure the highest possible returns from her, and she responds quickly to kind words and proper care. Her disposition is one that the human family might well emulate. She is patient and long suffering, acquiescing mutely in the arrangement made by her owner for carrying on the dairy business, striving at all times to repay him for the effort made for her care and comfort.

The members of the family as they come, in contact with her and her kindly disposition, are influenced for good. As they appreciate the financial benefit to come from caring for her well, they take a deeper interest in her. In doing so they unconsciously cultivate those qualities which make them better citizens.

The dairy cow—the prototype of man's best friend—is wielding greater influence than she is generally credited with. She has always been found in the front ranks in the march of civilization and no agricultural country can long prosper without her. She is a potent factor in the upbuilding of such a country, financially and socially and a wise people will appreciate her and encourage the industry of which she is the foundation.

Whooping Cough.

It is an old saying that whooping cough must run its course, but the use of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey has demonstrated beyond a doubt that such is not the case. It can be cured by the use of this remedy.

Dam Lone Wolf.

One of our business men received a letter this week from H. C. Spiller & Co., at Boston, Mass., saying: "We are in the market for a water power with a development of 400 horse power or over. If you have any thing to offer, please advise with particular and price."

So you see if we had a dam across Lone Wolf creek, or better still across the river, we could possibly sell it for more than cost. Colorado had better get busy.

Despite the bad weather a goodly number of friends assembled at the home at the appointed hour. The house was tastefully decorated with flowers and mistletoe and green vines while the gloomy wintry look of the outside was dispelled by the warmth of the stove and lights within. The "bride to be" was late on arriving and when met by Mrs. Gregg and ushered into the room where all the guests were awaiting, was greatly surprised as well as pleased with the many pretty gifts which hung on a clothes line across the room. After the gifts were admired and appreciated, the guests were ushered into the dining room, where delightful refreshments were served and toasts to the bride elect were given. After this sweet piano music was rendered by Mrs. Dell King and Miss Lee Kelly. Those present were: Mesdames Blume, Summers, King, Gregg, Gunn, Hall, Cranfill, Bennett and Avant. Misses Greggs, Toler, Kelly, Marlar, Thompson, Templeton, Dees, Hall and Porter.

The Secret of Youth

Do you ever wonder how you can remain young, or why other women older than you, look younger than you do? The secret can be put in a few words: "Preserve your health, and you will preserve your youth."

By "health" we mean not alone physical health, but nerve health, as, sometimes, magnificently strong-looking women are nervous wrecks.

But whether you are weak physically or nervously, you need a tonic, and the best tonic for you is Cardui.

It builds strength for the physical and nervous systems. It helps put flesh on your bones and vitality into your nerves.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"My mother," writes Mrs. Z. L. Adcock, of Smithville, Tenn., "is 44 years old and is passing through the change of life. She was irregular and bloated and suffered terribly. My father stepped over to the store and got her a bottle of Cardui, which she took according to directions and now she is up, able to do her housework and says she feels like a new woman." Try Cardui in your own case.

Early Texas Masonry.

Outside of the order, few people know what a factor the Masons were in the revolution which finally issued in success at San Jacinto. Sam Houston, W. B. Travis, Stephen F. Austin, Colnel Jack, Wm. H. Wharton, B. R. Milam and Anson Jones were all Masons and while Texas was in the throes of the struggle for independence, a group of patriots met in a grove of trees on the banks of the Brazos river at the old town of Brazoria, in the first formal Masonic meeting in Texas. This was in March, 1835 and one of the things done at this meeting was to petition the grand lodge of Louisiana for a dispensation to organize a lodge in Texas. As a result of this petition, Holland lodge was organized in December of that year and became the first Masonic organization in the region then known as the Mexican province of Texas. Originally located at Brazoria, this lodge was later moved to Houston and its organization has continued today, probably without parallel among Masonic lodges in this country. Holland lodge existed in the Mexican province, in the Texas Republic, in the American State and in the Confederate state and in the restored state of Texas.

It is even more interesting to know that the Texas flag has a Masonic origin. When you ask how it came to be that the lone star in the blue field with the two bars of red and white was chosen as a symbol of the new Republic, the usual vendor of information will tell you that it was a design borrowed from the United States.

"The Texas patriots were all or nearly all—from the United States," he will say, "and it was but natural to adopt the design suggested by the stars and stripes. Texas could have but one star, as there was but one state and there could be no symbolism in multiplying the stripes beyond the number necessary to give the two colors, red and white."

Probably the United States flag was in the minds of the designers of the Texas flag. It doubtless had its influence. But recently and interesting account of early Masonic history was given, which relates how large a part of Masonic influence had in planning the Lone Star flag. This account was given by Judge Jacob C. Baldwin of Houston, at Dallas on the occasion of the visit of the silver trowel of modern Masonry to that city a few weeks ago.

Judge Baldwin tells of the Masonic connection of a number of the leaders of the Texas revolution, and of their faithfulness to the principles of the ancient brotherhood. This was a time when all Master Masons understood the meaning of their obligations and they were proud of the opportunity of being able to assist each other—even at the cost of their own lives." To continue from the address: They adopted for their banner, a five pointed star, known as the star of Hope, which was unfurled by the hand of a pure maiden with the declaration that as the Star of Bethlehem led the wise men from the East to the West so should this star lead all lovers of political and religious freedom to its protection. This flag of the five pointed star was adopted as a gentle reminder of their obligations to each other and in order that all their Masonic brethren might be constantly reminded of the five points of fellowship represented by the five pointed star.

The official action taken by the Holland lodge in adopting the flag with the five pointed star is now unknown, because the Mexican troops destroyed the official records of the lodge. But there are writings made by members of the lodge at the time, which have come down, and it seems fairly well established that the new flag was generally accepted by the Masons for the reason that it was symbolical of the five points of fellowship. At this time Holland lodge, the only Masonic organization within the region of Texas had adopted a marshal's Jew and its design included a flag with the five pointed star.

EVE'S SECOND HUSBAND.

A New Serial Love Story by the Author of a "Circuit Rider's Wife."

When "A Circuit Rider's Wife" was published a year ago the whole country sat up and took notice. The Post sold like hot cakes everywhere. People could not wait until Thursday came. Now you see what we mean, when we say "EVE'S SECOND HUSBAND" will be a record breaker.

Everybody will want to read this great serial which begins in the issue dated December 3rd. Eve's Second Husband is by the author of A Circuit Rider's Wife. It is a wonderful story of a remarkable woman and her second marriage. The characters are original but real, and the whole story is unique in every way. Nothing just like EVE'S SECOND HUSBAND has been published.

The whole town will be talking of Eve's Second Husband as soon as it is started and everybody should read it so they can discuss it with their acquaintances.

Suppose Theodore Roosevelt did dodge the tariff and keep the issue down for seven long years? Was he not square-dealing in other directions?

The question now arises, can John D's. charity trust give it back to the people as fast as the Standard Oil Co. can take it from them?

CONSTIPATION.

Its Cause and How to Cure it.

Eat too much, Stomach feels bloated, All out of sorts, Don't feel like work to-day. Guess 'tve another case of biliousness. "Take anything?"

"Yes; some pills, but no results; suppose I'm getting ironical. Sometimes I double the dose, then they physic me so hard I'm too weak to work. Think I'll have to try something new."

"Ever try Prickly Ash Bitters?" "No; I've heard a good deal about it, but never tried it."

"Well, you'll be pleased with the results."

The purgative action of Prickly Ash Bitters not only removes hard impactions, gas and impurities, but it strengthens the muscular action of the bowels which causes them to move regularly. Prickly Ash Bitters is a bowel tonic and regulator in the truest sense. It promotes daily evacuations, establishes healthy movements and is the best known remedy for disordered digestion, flatulence and a constipated habit.

D. M. Blackwelder, of Litchfield, Ill., says in the Litchfield News: "I am perfectly willing, in fact glad to testify to the value of Prickly Ash Bitters as a medicine for the kidneys, stomach and bowels. I have used it whenever I needed anything of the kind for the last fifteen years and it has always given satisfaction."

T. J. DAVIS IN CALIFORNIA

San Diego, Cal.—Received last week Record today and perused it with a great deal of interest. Will write a short letter telling of things that are of the most interest to me.

First, all kinds of vegetation grows here if you give them a chance. When one crop is off, you can plant another. I visited a garden near the city and saw vegetables in great profusion.

Cauliflower waist high and ready to head and cabbage in all stages of growth. Saw a tomato vine twenty feet high, with considerable fruit. Nine tomatoes picked from that vine weighed fourteen pounds. This particular garden is very rich being located near the bay, which was once a lagoon. All kinds of vegetables are in market now. The grape crop is gathered, though we have them in market from cold storage. I got to gather some grapes. The grapes are raised without irrigation and they certainly are good.

When raised with irrigation they do not make good raisins. Truckers tell me that you can raise anything you want to, some soils and exposures being better adapted to certain kinds.

No farming here on a large scale. Out several miles a considerable acreage is planted to small grain and cut for hay. On high ground people are dependent on the flume for water, which costs about seven dollars per acre for a year. In the valleys water may be developed from wells, prices of land runs from forty to two hundred dollars per acre, and you develop your water. Lemon growing is the leading industry, followed closely by the olive. Some oranges and other fruits are grown. The scale has to be that when the prices are good they make some money, but when low they lose.

The poultry business seems to be the most inviting of any, provided that you are so situated that you can raise your own feed.

The berry business ought to be profitable. I have not seen any vines. Strawberries are selling for one dollar per gallon at present.

We have had some light rains, the last few days. One coming here in poor health, should wear flannel in the winter on account of the humidity. My health is improving and from what they tell me it is more pleasant in the summer than in the winter.

We have all kinds of isms in politics and religion. Probably no more than some other places. One coming here with his head full of errors will not be cured of his errors.

The improvement of public highways adds three times their cost to adjoining property and every argument that applies to the improvement of public property will apply with multiplied force to the improvement of private property and especially to public highways as everyone must use the roads. Build roads and increase the value of your property.

WRITE FOR A MAP.

The Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association has prepared a road map showing the number of miles of public highway in each county, the number of miles improved; the annual expenditure on public roads other than bond issue and the bonds issued during the past twelve months.

The reports show we have 140,161 miles of public highway in actual use in the state; 4,652 miles of improved public highways. We spend $2,235,468 annually by regular taxation, in construction and maintaining our public highways. we issued $4,015,000 of bonds during the past year. We are now preparing to spend 25,000,000 on our public highways in 1911. The average cost of public highways is $13.05.

Interesting tables bringing out distinctive and instructive features of road building are also shown. Tarrant county is the banner county in miles of improved public highways and Ellis county leads in bond issues, having issued $865,000 bonds within the past year. Hill county has the largest mileage of public highways, having 2,500 miles. Morris county spends the largest amount by annual taxation per annum, the amount being $250,000. El Paso county has spent the greatest amount per mile, $450 per mile. Col. In county has the largest mileage of public highway per sq. mile, 3.6.

These maps are for free distribution and can be secured on application to the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association at Fort Worth.

"Great is Mitchell County, and The Record is its Prophet!"

COLORADO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25.

To Voters in Precinct No. 2.

Mitchell county Road Precinct No. 2 which comprises the greater portion of Commissioner's Precinct No. 2 are striving to have a road bond election and have petitions out for signatures.

A wrong impression has gained circulation in that precinct as to the law. There is a law on the statutes which says: Sec. 30, page 149, General Laws 21st Legislature.

SEC. 30.—When the petition praying for the establishment of an improvement district is filed with the county commissioners' court it shall be accompanied by two hundred ($200) dollars in cash which shall be deposited with the clerk of said county commissioners court, and by him held until after the result of the election for the creation of said improvement district has been declared and entered of record by the commissioners court as hereinbefore provided, and should the result of said election be in favor of the establishment of such district then the said two hundred ($200) dollars shall be by the said clerk returned to the signers of the said original petition, or their treasurer or attorney, but should the result of said election be against the establishment of said improvement district then the said clerk shall pay out of the said sum of two hundred ($200) dollars, upon vouchers signed by the county judge, all costs and expenses pertaining to the said proposed improvement district up to and including the said election, and shall return the balance if any, to the signers of said original petition, or their agent or attorney.

This law in no way applies to road districts, but is meant for improvement districts for drainage or levees, etc. to prevent overflows.

The above is published for the benefit of Precinct No. 2 voters and on the advice of a good attorney here.

Uncle Rastus entered the Tribune office yesterday. "Boss" he said, "I have heard that a contraption dat kin pick cotton equal to ten niggers will be at the Cotton Palace. How'll it pick cotton in dat house." He was told that the machine would demonstrate in nearby cotton fields. "I want to see it," he said. "White folks may git a thing that will beat a nigger pickin' cotton, but I'll never believe it till I sees it. De Lord made de nigger to pick cotton and made cotton to give de nigger a showin'." He may upset his work, but I don't believe it. And many white men are inclined to share the view of Uncle Rastus. They will have to be shown. But Dr. Hall and Captain Harris say they believe the cotton picker is coming, due here a long time before the millenium.—Waco Tribune.

Why did the Congress of the United States enact the present oleomargarine law which provides for an internal revenue tax of ten cents per pound on artificially colored oleomargarine? Was it to permit the butter producers of the country to exact a high price for butter as has been claimed? To make such a claim is a pretty serious indictment of our Federal law making body. Of course butter is higher in price than it was ten years ago but so are other necessities of life. The percentage of oleomargarine now being put on the market bears a higher ratio the amount of butter consumed than it did ten years ago. This coupled with the fact that less than 3 per cent of the oleomargarine sold is taxed at ten cents per pound proves that the oleomargarine law has absolutely nothing to do with the price of butter.

Congress enacted this law to prevent fraud sale of oleomargarine. The law was never intended to prevent the honest sale of oleomargarine or to enhance the interests of the butter producers of the country, but rather to protect the one against fraud in the purchase of butter or oleomargarine and the other against the competition.

Saturday Evening Post at this of- fice, also back numbers.

The 32nd Legislature will be absolutely free from corporate influences and they will also constitute one of the most capable, intelligent and progressive bodies of law givers that ever assembled at the capitol. In fact we are so confirmed in our anti-corporation tendencies that political porch climbers have in the past run for office on anti corporation platform and it is doubtful if the most courageous present day statesman would have the temerity to run for office on a platform that favored corporations. It is safe to say that the 32nd Legislature has not a single representative of a corporation in it; yet the Corporations pay 55 per cent of the state tax, general revenue, and the battle cry of the Fathers of American Liberty during the Revolutionary war was "Taxation without Representation is Tyranny." The Corporations in Texas put up millions for revenue but have not a word to say on legislation. Have we exchanged the spirit of '76 for the big stick of the present day?

The Texas corporations own 16 per cent of the property and pay 55 per cent of the state tax. Whether these inequalities in our revenue system are due to brain fog, frown of power or the absence of a genuine case of chronic honesty in its acute form is beyond the jurisdiction of this discussion; what we say is that Texas Legislatures are absolutely free from corporate influences and the records prove it.

The above is sent out from headquarters to the papers over the state to be used as an editorial and it is so used by many papers. Do any of our readers believe for a moment that the corporations will have no representation at Austin when the 32nd meets.

THE CREAMERY

The successful operation of a creamery depends very largely upon the farmers of a community. Some farmers are natural dairymen, and become much interested in the production of milk; while other men are naturally averse to the thought of milking cows, and would never make any success whatever in an enterprise of this kind. The most successful creamery enterprises in the country are those which have been established by farmers, who are natural dairymen and are interested in the financial success of the creamery enterprise. Where a creamery is started by a few business men in the city, it has oftentimes been a failure on account of the fact that farmers for those benefits it was established, do not appreciate the benefits which will come to them from the success of the creamery and take no interest whatever in its welfare.

The creamery relieves the farmers wives of the irksome duties of making butter, and furnishes a ready market for all butter fat that can be produced on the farms. Some men can produce good butter on the farm, but have great difficulty in getting rid of it, especially in the summer months and become very much discouraged in the dairy business. The successful creamery takes the cream in the summer as well as in the winter and on account of the fact that they have sufficient amount of butter to supply a large amount of trade they have comparatively very little difficulty in getting rid of their butter.

The Coahoma correspondent to the Big Springs Enterprise says:

Johnson and Sons are about to close out their hardware and implement business here to parties in Colorado for a large and valuable tract of irrigated land. If the deal is made Coahoma will lose one of its best citizens.

The Enterprise also says: A deal was closed this week through Harris and Lightfoot in which A. L. Wasson sold A. E. Pool a tract of land in Dawson county at a consideration of about $30,000.

A chaff is no stronger than its weak link and a mud hole or a hill between a farm reduces the carrying capacity of the wagon to the level of a bog or grade. Build roads and haul fewer loads and better loads.

AS VIEWED FROM ELPASO

"The greatness of Texas is a burden" says J. A. Happer of this city in discussing the varied natural resources and commercial advantages of Texas. "The rugged mountains that surround El Paso on the east are capable of pouring into the channels of trade a stream of Mineral wealth that will surpass the total agricultural production of the state and I want to say that there is as much prosperity in a dollar taken from the mine as there is in a dollar taken from the farm.

The State has given away 78,970,440 acres of its best farm land to settlers and a prospector of mineral wealth is as much a developer as a settler of the farm lands and is entitled to the same encouragement, but about the only legislation on our statute books affecting mineral production at present is special taxes laid upon the output, although the products of the farm are exempt from all forms of taxation. The State owns millions of acres of mineral lands, which, in their undeveloped state are worthless and the law gives a prospector, who locates the minerals no equity for his labor. We need liberal mining laws, such as apply to government lands and then you will see the El Paso section blossom like a rose. The State very properly appropriates funds to maintain our agricultural department, experimental and demonstration farms and we also have a department of fisheries, but what has the State ever done towards encouraging the development of its mineral resources."

Our representatives in the Legislature from this section of the State have repeatedly introduced laws that encourage mineral development, but have never been able to get them on the Statute books. We are strictly a mining country and the apparent indifference of the State to our welfare sometimes makes us wish that the Rio Grande River would change its course and take us out of Texas, but patience is one of the cardinal virtues and we El Pasoans possess our share of it and we know that if the members of our Legislature would only study Texas diligently, they would give us needed relief. Texas is a big State and its interest so varied that it takes a big man in the Legislature to fulfill the responsibilities of the position.

What is said to be the largest farm in the world belongs to a Mexican named Don Luis Terrazas at Chihuahua. It comprises 8,000,000 acres, and a passenger train is more than half a day in crossing it. The proprietor of this ranch is a little uncertain as to the number of cattle he owns, but he guesses it more than 1,000,000 head, while he owns 100,000 horses and his sheep number 700,000 head. Every year about 250,000 calves are marked with his brand. At his own packing house, near Chihuahua City, Mexico, there are slaughtered annually 250,000 cattle, about as many sheep and a great many more hogs. On his ranch live 40,000 people, mostly helpers, while it requires a thousand cowboys to look after his cattle.

Good roads continue to be the leading topic of the hour in Texas. Rarely is there assembled a body of men in convention either agricultural, commercial or political, but that question of good roads finds a place on the program. The business man is joining hands with the farmer, the capitalist is cooperating with the industrial interests, the banker and the broker, the farmer and the laborer are all working together in the interests of good roads. Get in the procession and build good roads.

Aaron Coffee, the "old cotton planter of McKinney, Texas, after inspecting the Price Campbell cotton picker and taking particular note of its operations, has pronounced it an unqualified success. He says in writing to the Texas Stockman and Farmer, that it is able to pick about 10 acres a day and at about 50 per cent less cost than by hand. It will thus be seen at a glance that the new contrivance will be the means of doing the work of thirty-five men. In other words that it will supplant about that number of persons engaged to pick the staple by hand. If that is true it will revolutionize in a very short time this branch of farm industry. Its advent and successful utilization will fall heaviest upon the negro men, women and children of the South, who depend, in a large measure, upon the open fields of cotton for their livelihood.—Itasca Item.

The idea seems irradicable that labor saving machines knock many people out of employment. The truth of the matter is, that labor saving machinery only reclassifies labor. Take for example, the self binding reaper, and linotype machine. While the reaper deprived ten thousand men, who wielded the cradle of employment, it required ten times that number to handle the output of the machines. While the linotype machine knocked eight or ten men out of a "sit" there were more men in other departments required to feed the machine and handle its output. These inventions are primarily the result of an urgent demand. The old way required too long to harvest a wheat crop, issue a newspaper and gather a cotton crop. Conditions demand quicker results, and for every laboring man these machines took off one end of the bread line, there were ten on the job at the other. All the people the cotton picker knocks out of the field can find higher class employment, handling the product. This world never moves backward.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

Friday, the girls of Mrs. Clayton's Sunday School class met with her in their class meeting and surprised the hostess and teacher, with a shower of beautiful flowers and useful handkerchiefs which were quite as beautiful as flowers. It was decided in this meeting to devote their class funds to the orphan's home collection, $5.25 being given by these girls Sunday. This shows what an organized class can do and how soon the pennies, when saved become dollars. After a pleasant social session, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Phenix was hostess for the Hesperian Club Friday and at the close of the business session asked for a leave of absence. This was granted also to the Misses Dry who are visiting in Mineral Wells, and to Mrs. Broadus who continues to feel badly. The club will miss all these members, but will look forward to having them back again after Christmas.

Mrs. Arbutnot entertained the Bay View Club and Mrs. Riordan the Standard, this week, thus making a neighborhood affair of the club meetings.

Thursday afternoon the Daughters of the King Sunday school class met with their president, Mrs. McCall in a business session. It was decided for the class to entertain during the holidays, the lady teachers of all the Sunday schools to be their guests and tell of their methods of teaching. This will be made instructive as well as a social affair. The next business meeting, will be with Mrs. Merritt, the open one with Mrs. McCall at Mrs. McGill's.

The young ladies' "forty-two" club was entertained Thursday by Miss Eva Hamner at the home of Mrs. Arnett. There were five tables of players and a jolly good time enjoyed in spite of the fog and cold. The delicious chicken salad, hot coffee and accompaniments that closed the evening's pleasures indeed tasted good this dreary day.

Saturday the Juvenile Missionary Society met with the Lady Manager, Mrs. Merritt and began the study of Korea or Cho Sen, as Japan has christened it. The books to be studied had not arrived, but readings were given by several of the girls upon the country. It was decided to have an open meeting the first Saturday in December at which time the mite boxes will be opened and the pledge money sent off. At the close of the meeting all were invited into the dining room and hot chocolate and cake served. Mrs. Carter and Mrs. King were enjoyed visitors.

Sunday at the Baptist church the Sunday school pupils brought a Thanksgiving offering for Buckner's Orphan's Home. There was flour, bacon and canned goods of every description and all of the other good things that go to make up a Thanksgiving dinner. The Methodist pupils did the same thing for their orphanage, but smaller gifts were asked for. Sixteen dollars in money was contributed and enough packages to fill a good sized box. One class of ten girls and their teacher, each gave a pair of stockings, and another gave money, while the rest brought such things as they pleased. These youngsters will better enjoy their Thanksgiving dinner, for knowing that they have helped these orphans to a happy time.

STUDY CIRCLE
The Study Circle of the Methodist church met Monday with Mrs. Hall, all the ladies of the church being invited to be present.
Beautiful clusters of chrysanthemums were pinned on each as they entered. The study of Western Women in Eastern Lands was begun, it proving to be the most interesting of any Mission work yet taken up. The hour was most pleasantly and profitably spent. Grandma Sneed was present and her interesting reminiscences of early days were greatly enjoyed, it being in keeping with the chapter study which was "What our Mothers Have Told Us." Mrs. Blandford is the leader for next month.

The Baptist Aid met Monday with Mrs. Hooper in a business session to fully arrange for the bazaar to be held December 9 and 10. The ladies have a big affair on their hands and are going to be very busy until it is over.

Pre-Nuptial Shower
A beautiful and delightful affair was the shower given, Monday by Mrs. J. R. Collier in honor of her friend Miss Maude Simpson who is soon to become Mrs. Pond.

The dining room into which the guests were ushered was very festive in its trimmings of autumn leaves, foliage and fruit. The white cloth of the dining table was covered with golden leaves, in the center was a bowl of yellow flowers over which trailed the graceful love vine. The buffet and china closet were each banked with a different kind of foliage, each a little more graceful and prettier than the other.

Upon the arrival of the fair honoree a matrimonial council was held. Mrs. Collier asked the married ladies each to give some advice that might help Miss Simpson in managing her husband. The ladies were very slow to do this, none having succeeded entirely to her satisfaction in the managing of her own lord and master. The bride to be was then blindfolded and led down "Lover's Lane" by Miss Bellah the rest of the company following. This proved to be a devious way, hard to follow, even with the eyes open, but as is well known, "love is blind" This lane ended in the parlor where the honored guest was seated in a chair and the bandage removed from her eyes and before her was a table heaped with lovely gifts, handmade embroidered articles for personal adornment, that were the envy of all present. Each gift had a personal touch and thought. They were opened by Miss Bellah, who read the names for the blushing bride. After all had been admired the guests returned to the dining room where the hostess and Mrs. Nettles passed the daintiest salad sandwiches, pickles and the most delicious hot coffee.

This was indeed a most pleasant finale to a most pleasant evening.
Miss Simpson has many friends here who wish her every joy in the new life into which she is about to enter. May the dainty little love vine which adorned every plate, take root and grow into one strong vine of marital happiness, with tendrils reaching out to embrace each of her friends and draw them ever nearer to her is the wish of all.

About thirty of the Baptist ladies met Tuesday with Mrs. Webb for the Mission Study meeting which proved very interesting. The roll call, Name of Missionary was responded to by almost all. Mrs. Meeks had a fine paper on our Correlated schools; Mrs. G. W. Smith, a good one on the schools, not correlated, while Mrs. Gustine told very interestingly of the Baptist Memorial Sanitarium. This place is of great interest to our people as we have a girl there, Miss Kate Justice, who is making a fine record as a nurse and Christian student. Mrs. Ratliff made a splendid leader for this lesson which all enjoyed. At close the hostess served appetizing croquettes, pickles, crackers, coffee and tea. The ladies will meet next month with Mrs. Ratliff.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Jackson and her Philathea Class sold candy at Tables covered with pretty crepe paper and vases of flowers held the candy which was temptingly arranged on crystal plates. There was a splendid variety and it went like hot cakes and before six o'clock the stock was sold out and the busy young ladies rushed home to make more, advertising to begin selling again at seven o'clock.
There was nine dollars in the treasurer's purse at the close of the afternoon and it is not known how successful the evening sale was.

Monday, the Northeast circle of the Baptist church was entertained by Mrs. J. L. Allen. The ladies gathered early with their work and spent a pleasantly busy time upon bazaar work. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served, which only occurs when they are invited out. So invitations are always in order with them.

Choral Society.
On the night after Christmas, Dec. 26 the Choral Society will open the holiday festivities by giving St. Cecilia's Day.

The members have been rehearsing this Cantata for some time and hope to do credit to their conductor, Mr. Thos. Dawes and also give pleasure to their friends. The choruses are bright and musical; the special solo work will be rendered by Miss Byrd Adams. We bespeak a musical treat for all who attend. We hope the date will be kept in mind and nothing prevent making this a grand success.

The G. F. C's will not meet this week on account of Thanksgiving and their day for meeting the same. The new president, Mrs. Vivian Shropshire will be hostess for the next meeting.

The W. F. G's met with Mrs. Clayton, Friday afternoon at four. After the program which was very interesting, Mrs. Clayton left the room and when she returned, the table was covered with many beautiful handkerchiefs and flowers. After this all repaired to the dining room where chocolate and cake were served. The table was decorated in autumn leaves and a large bouquet of flowers was in the center. Souvenirs of autumn leaves were given. It was decided to meet every other Friday instead of every Friday.

THE JURY RETURNS UNANIMOUS VERDICT.

(By a Staff Correspondent)

A jury consisting of some of the most distinguished chemists of America has returned a unanimous verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Kaecker et al. vs. Coca-Cola. It will be remembered that some time ago a report was circulated to the effect that Coca-Cola contained injurious materials and was, therefore, harmful in its effects upon the human body.

The rumor was originated by an unscrupulous competitor of Coca-Cola the popular temperance drink spread rapidly and found some credence among those who did not know the origin of the report.

The jury finds that not only does Coca-Cola contain nothing harmful, but that it is much superior to tea and coffee in that it is free from tannic acid and therefore promotes digestion instead of retarding it. Each of the distinguished chemists reported that he had made a careful chemical analysis of Coca-Cola and found it to contain no "dope" of any kind. If you would like to see copies of these letters written to the Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Ga., for a free copy of the booklet entitled "The Truth About Coca-Cola."

The jury was as follows:

1. John M. McCandless, State Chemist of Georgia.
2. B. B. Ross, State Chemist of Alabama.
3. Dr. A. I. Metz of Tulane University.
4. Prof. W. B. Burney of South Carolina College.
5. Prof. C. H. Palm of the University of Texas.
6. Dr. Wm. H. Taylor, State Chemist of Virginia.
7. Dr. Louis Schaefer, President of Schaefer Alkaloid Works, Maywood, New Jersey.
8. Prof. Emerson R. Miller, of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.
9. Dr. J. C. Mims, Chemist of the Board of Health, New Orleans.

Cottolene Perfect Piecrust. A lady recently visited a friend in Keene, N. H., whose husband was very delicate, and yet she noticed that he could eat all the pie he wanted. She began to wonder how it was that he could do it, when she had to give up this delicacy because of disagreeable after-effects. She writes as follows: "I found it was because the pies were made with Cottolene; and as I am a great lover of pie, I began using Cottolene, and have never had a bit of lard in the house since that time. I now enjoy my pie, as it does not give heart-burn as formerly." Cottolene makes crisp, flaky, digestible piecrust, that tastes good, and that can be digested by any stomach. The reason is that Cottolene is a pure, vegetable oil product, containing no hog-fat. Cottolene shortens your food—Lengthens your life. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY

MEMORIES OF YOUTHFUL DAYS.
(B. Broome.)

There is a magical isle in the river of time. Where softest echoes are straying. And the air is as soft as the musical chime. Or the exquisite breath of a tropical clime. When June with its roses is swaying.

O! this beautiful isle with its phantom-like show. It's a vista exceedingly bright. And the river of time in its turbulent flow. Is oft soothed by the voices we heard long ago. Where the years were a dream of delight.

The sentiment of this poetry streams into the soul like the mystic strains of a far-off harp. The rolling river, breaking through the rapids, smoothing into the wider calm, mirroring the hills, threading the continent from mountain to sea, whispering in the hush of peaceful waters, roaring in the rush of thunder; is but a parable of the mysterious phantom, which breaks upon earth's bosom, glides into fitful course through its shadows and disappears forever—known as human life.

This river, likened unto time has for its drops, moments; its ripples, hours; its waves, days; its billows, years; its surges, centuries; expressing in its course the limit of human life. Far down the stream typifies the murmur of tottering age, with muffled moan, gliding into the shoreless sea. Far up the river is the symbol of infancy in its break and hurried rush "floating as emerald in the distant sheen of gold, is youth, charming youth, the unblown beauty of human life. Adown the river, which presents age, with its sweetest memories and the magic lisp in the upper stream, expressing youthful experience, we have our theme conveyed in the thrilling thought of the Bard: "Memories of Youthful Days."

To the aged mind youthful days are separated from all others. This isle is girt with ceaseless ripples of gold; lit with the splendor of suns that never set; spread with flowers that ever bloom, and filled with music that never ceases. It is the enchanted land, trod but once and seen forever more. In the faraway waters the dim sight of the eye catches glimpses of its glory and dreams of the youth that was and that age now forever gone.

These days are charms of universal experience. All men have paused upon life's slippery descent to catch once more, a glimpse of their glory and hear again their strains of music, whose wondrous cadence never die. "When I was young" is the joyful echo that comes from all climes; a thrilling note sounded by all ages; the bubbling outburst that fills all skies and thrills all hearts. Their enchantments fascinate alike, the king upon his throne and the beggar in his hut, the Caucasian beneath his tropical sun, and the Eskimo in his subterranean home. They are the music of the universal harp, swept by the fingers of time.

These days are experienced but once. Their delight is quaffed and the chalice is broken forever. Time flows not back in its flight.

"Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight, Make me a child again, Just for the night. Mother, come back from that echoless shore, Take me again to your heart as of yore."

Is the wall of age, mocked only by the echo of its own sad refrain. The sports of those days were real. The bounding ball, the siling of the bat, the defeats and triumphs of the play ground, and the nursery baby-goblins were all real. That the charm of the substantial reality could be broken had not smitten the dream of youth. Though the charm be broken, yet the dream may linger in the dusty halls of memory and gladden the decaying fancy of tottering years. Though the illusion be broken, let the birds sing their same old song, the flowers bloom, the waters ripple, the children prattle and mother's voice hushed forever on earth, speak again, all as in the days of yore. Though a broken delusion and a childish fancy, we joyfully live them over and over again. Age has sweet memories of youthful days, because their anticipations of the future wear vivid and bright.

The vista of coming days was lit with the halo of thrilling splendors. The sky of far away years was cloudless and bright. No mist of tears trailed in the light. Enchantments wild and sweet, trooping along its way and life was but the high wrought imagery of an unbroken day.

Calamity's storms and sorrow's night had made no foot prints in its track, but affections strong, and friendship dear thronged in visions rich and rare. The hollow world was still robed in light and we saw the elysian beauties of full blown life and caught the fragrance of its refining beauty and glimpses of gathering glory. The charm only of the youthful eye, a charm though broken by age is yet sweet, even in its delusion.

Again they are sweet because the sainted dead are there. Memory restores our loved ones to our embrace and in visions of rapture, the treasured past floats upon us and throngs us with joy and fills us with song. Memory alone links us to our dead and admits us to the sweet shade of buried years, when they come back to us in rapture of a rarer sphere and the bliss of a brighter world.

Again they are sweet, because they are forever ours. While we grow older and the world waxes in age around us, this isle far up the stream of time retains still the freshness of its growing beauty and the magic of its ever increasing charm. The distant murmur of its voices in startling echoes steal away from its buried years and sweep into cadences wild and sweet, and down the corridors of memory, and thrill the soul afresh with the raptures of youth and again renew the spell of its fading hope. It fringes in deeper crimson, the glow of life's setting sun, and will at the last be the richest flashlight that spreads its sheen over its dying luster.

In conclusion, these memories in the growing magic of their charm are but the figure of that youth that grows not feeble with age, and that renews its beauty in the fadeless light that mantles the green fields and floods the rivers of gold in the far away home of the soul.

AN UNUSUAL GUARANTEE.

It is very unusual to guarantee a cooking fat, but your grocer is authorized to make you this unqualified offer—if you do not find Cottolene perfectly satisfactory, he will cheerfully refund your money.

There is a reason why he can do this. Cottolene is purer and more wholesome than lard or other cooking fats; moreover, it is packed in air-tight pails, which keep it fresh indefinitely. You wouldn't buy so-called "fresh" eggs when you could get "guaranteed fresh" eggs at practically the same price. Why, then, take chances with other cooking fats, when Cottolene is absolutely guaranteed?

JESSE H. BULLOCK
L. S. Clerk, District Court, Mitchell County, Texas

By EARL JACKSON, Deputy.

He Prefers His Own Home.

Editor Record: Several weeks ago you published an article signed "A Renter's Wife" in which she laboriously tried to show that it is better to rent a farm than to try to own one. She closes her remarkable letter with the following paragraph:

"We are only renters, but the best magazines lie on our study table, which is covered with a blackboard cloth to enable the youngsters in the pursuit of arithmetic and spelling. Every Sunday the surrey takes us to Sunday school and church and sometimes to a teacher's meeting. We dress plainly, but well, believing that the cheapest things are not always the best. One of our boys is an enthusiastic farmer, all are happy, hungry inquiring youngsters, that will compare favorably with the dull listless machines owned by one who is buying a home, but who had better be renting."

I am a renter too and will tell you why I am not satisfied on the farm.

I would have you know that at home I am not clasped with the chronic grumbler, but I can give you my reasons for not liking the farm. I am a boy, though a married one. I started out this year, with nothing except a wife and baby and a good credit, and it has cost me in "round credit" over $900 to make two hundred bundles of feed and seven bales of cotton, so you see plainly that there is no money to my credit on that deal.

I love farming, if there was even a little comfort attached. There is no money in feeding a hog on six bit corn in a cold two by four pen. The man who makes money on hogs is the man who has a hog pasture and invariably he is not a renter. If you find a farm to rent, it is either a poor farm with some pasture—not hog proof, however, or a good farm with no pasture. Often you buy your own wood and haul it for miles. To pay $50 for a cow and feed her the year round on cotton seed (on credit) at $25 a ton don't seem like living cheaply to the fellow who tried it.

If I work a hundred acres of land, I must work clay, gulleys and all and plant at least seventy-five acres in cotton. If the housetop is bad and leaks, it must do another year, as the landlord is not able to have it repaired. If a dozen window lights are out, you must tack your cotton sack over them or freeze, while old Pete stands shivering in the lot, with not one plank to shelter him and no hay to feed him on for you have no shelter for that.

Such is the life of nine tenths of the one-horse renters in Texas, but I am not complaining for I can quit it and I expect will, when I go broke.

Yours Truly,

ONE-HORSE RENTER.

DEATH OF C. G. BIRDWELL

With sorrow and regret the Times records the loss of one more pioneer citizen in the person of C. G. Birdwell, who passed away at 9:25 o'clock on Sunday evening at San Antonio. He had been taken there several weeks ago in the hope of improvement of his health from the change of climate. His disease was too far advanced however and he steadily declined until the end came.

The remains were brought home for burial, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Willie Fai, who had been with him during his last hours. B. A. Irwin and Gorman Birdwell went to Dallas to meet them and the funeral party arrived here Monday night. The funeral services were held at the home Tuesday, conducted by Rev. S. M. Tenney of Troup.

From the house the services were taken in charge by the Masonic lodge of which the deceased was a member and the burial was with Masonic honors.—Big Sandy Times.

In 1906 Mr. Birdwell was in the Grocery business here in Colorado and moved back to Big Sandy, the latter part of that year.

The Beacon Shoe Is Built on Honor

That is why the Beacon is a successful shoe. It has style—the kind you see on the fashionable thoroughfares of New York, London and Paris.

It fits the foot gracefully, gives genuine comfort, because it is made on a last that is patterned after a perfect human foot. It outwears the ordinary shoe, because it is built to give long service. Made by the Goodyear Welt process.

You will like the Beacon very much. After you have worn one pair of them, you will want more Beacons.

FAIR EXCHANGE
A New Back For an Old One. How It Can Be Done in Colorado.

The backache at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the regions of the kidneys and again the loins are so lame to stoop in agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to a back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Colorado residents would do well to profit by the following example:

S. P. Dailey, Big Springs, Texas, said: "About two years ago the contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of a severe case of rheumatism. Last winter when I began to suffer from attacks of backache and a dull soreness across my kidneys, I at once thought of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply. After using them a short time the pain in my back disappeared and has not returned since. I have recommended Doan's Kidney pills to several of my neighbors and shall continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
