NEEDLE WORK GUILD.

The Colorado Branch of the Needle Work Guild of America has just completed its work for the year 1913 and feel the following report will be of much interest to the large number of contributors. 555 new garments and bed linen were collected by the Directors and distributed to the following charities in the State:

Presbyterian Orphanage, Itasca; Buckner Orphanage, Waco; Juliette Fowler Home, Grand Prairie; St. Matthews Home, Dallas; Virginia K. Johnson Home, Ft. Worth; Presbyterian Sanitarium, Austin, Texas; Mexican Institute, Kingsville.

During the past year the work has grown. Our president, Mrs. B. S. Van Tuijl organized branches in Abilene, Lorraine and Big Springs, thus creating interest and adding many new garments to the various charities. For the past two years it has been our custom to have a public exhibition downtown at Mr. Hutchinson's store, and we have appreciated this favor, as it has given many an opportunity to learn more of the importance of this work by coming there and seeing for themselves. We hope to have this exhibit again next year.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

REPORTED IN WASHINGTON HE WILL RESIGN NOV. 1.

Mayor Kelly of El Paso is Suggested As His Successor.—Probably Several Will Be in the Race.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Commissioner Judson C. Clements of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will soon retire because of having arrived at the retirement age, and some of the more ardent friends of Congressman William R. Smith, of the El Paso district urged his name in connection with the successorship. Congressman Smith admitted tonight that he had been approached on the subject, but declared that he was not in any sense an applicant for the appointment.

That he will accept the high honor offered him by the president is generally understood, but he said that he was well pleased with his service as a member of congress from Texas and that he had expected to be a candidate for re-election.

That Judge Smith is preeminently qualified for efficient service as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission will not be questioned. By temperament, equipment, training and experience, he is particularly well fitted for the character of work devolving upon members of the commission and there is no doubt that he will find the duties very congenial.

The friends of the El Paso congressman are delighted with the new honor that will be given him. There are residents of his district here now who state that while the city of El Paso and the entire district will lose an excellent representative, yet the interstate Commerce commission will gain a talented member who will be in a position to see that justice is done the southeastern country.

It will be necessary to call an election in the El Paso district for the purpose of naming Congressman Smith's successor. It is believed here that Mayor C. E. Kelly of El Paso will be sure of election if he can be induced to run and his friends are already beginning to plan for him.

The information with reference to Congressman Smith's new appointment while not official is authentic and other congressmen have confirmed the report.

Judge Smith expressed keen regret tonight at the action of the house in knocking out of the urgent deficiency appropriation bill Senator Marcus A. Smith's amendment appropriating $72000 for the payment of claims growing out of the shooting of Americans on the Mexican border at El Paso and Douglas, Ariz., in 1911. He made a gallant fight to have the amendment retained.

WILL BE IN THE RACE FOR CONGRESS.

In view of the wide-spread rumor that Judge Smith had resigned his seat in congress to accept a federal appointment, we republish the following from the Abilene Reporter, and which is authentic:

The press dispatches from Washington Sunday which stated that Hon. W. R. Smith would soon resign his seat in congress to accept a United States Judgeship, created considerable stir politically in Abilene.

During the forenoon it developed that in case Mr. Smith does resign that Hon. J. M. Wagstaff will immediately enter the race to fill out the unexpired term. Judge Thomas L. Blanton was also mentioned as a probable candidate, but when seen by a reporter for this paper did not commit himself definitely as to his intentions.

Hon. B. A. Cox wired Judge Smith Sunday afternoon for confirmation of the dispatches and received the following message:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1, 1913.
B. A. Cox, Abilene, Texas.
"No foundation for report. Am a candidate for re-election to congress."
W. R. SMITH.

No Foundation For Report.

Quite a ripple of interest was created here last Monday by the rumor that Judge W. R. Smith had resigned his seat in the lower house and accepted a place on the interstate commerce commission. The basis for the rumor was doubtless a dispatch in the El Paso Times from Washington to the effect that it was possible Judge Smith might resign his present office and accept the higher one, but the dispatch contained no intimation from Judge Smith as to what he would do. He did not even say the place on the commission had been sought by him.

The report at Abilene was to the effect that Judge Smith would resign his seat in congress to accept a federal Judgeship. In answer to a wire from B. A. Cox of Abilene, as to the truth of the dispatch, Judge Smith replied: "No foundation for report. Am a candidate for re-election to congress."

WOODMEN UNVEILING.

Large Crowd Attend Exercises at Odd Fellows Cemetery—Impressive Ceremonies and Ideal Weather.

For some weeks before the local camp of Woodmen had looked forward to and prepared for the unveiling of the monuments of several deceased members, on last Sunday afternoon. The weather conditions were ideal for outdoor exercises, without any dust or wind. The camp met at Woodmen Hall at one o'clock, and marched to the union tabernacle, where the preliminary exercises were held.

"Blest be the tie that binds" was sung by the large congregation, after which Rev. A. D. Leach read a scripture lesson and led in prayer.

Dr. N. J. Phenix spoke of the certainty of death and the satisfaction while living, and comfort of those left behind, in carrying a certificate in the Woodmen of the World.

At the conclusion of the exercises at the tabernacle, the Woodmen, accompanied by a large crowd, went to the I. O. O. F. cemetery, the degree team of the order, marching in procession horseback, under the direction of Van King, as master of ceremonies.

Short talks at the cemetery were made by T. F. Baker and Mrs. Etta Cromer. The unveiling ceremonies followed and the monuments of Sova G. P. Davenport, S. T. Shropshire, W. H. Gardner and W. T. McAfee, were unveiled. At the request of relatives, the monument of Mrs. Hattie J. Maxwell was not unveiled.

The crowd on this occasion, was perhaps the largest ever assembled in the Odd Fellows cemetery, and the impressiveness and solemnity of the exercises made a deep impression on all, and brought out to the notice of the uninitiated, the spirit and benefits of Woodcraft.

NOT EVEN A SHOT FIRED.

Acquaintance with the Mexican at close range and familiarity with his habits and excitement, afford a fairly good standard of the bloodshed and carnage in the present war in that country. Which wise observations are based on the excitement a few angry words mixed with the show of a gun produced last Tuesday morning on the Hagler place, near Buford, among a crowd of Mexican cotton pickers.

A phone message came in to Sheriff Coughran that one Mexican had been killed, another shot, and the bloody work was still in progress—come quick. Which Sheriff Coughran, did, and on arrival on the alleged scene of battle, found no dead Mexican laying around, but the few live ones he did unearth from their hiding places, were really more dead with pure scare than bullet wounds.

A Pecord man saw Mr. Chas. Hagler and gathered from him the following facts in the case: A bunch of Mexicans had been employed to pick cotton on the A. J. Hagler place, under direction of a Mexican boss. The other Mexicans objected to picking the cotton as it run, but wanted to pick only where the cotton was good. This didn't suit the boss. Argument led to hot words, and hot words prompted one of the cotton pickers to get a gun from somewhere. When the boss saw this gun, he imagined the entire artillery of Mexico had been turned loose on him and broke for Mr. Hagler's house, telling them fighting was going on in the field and to telephone for the sheriff at once. Someone in the house, ignorant of the true state of affairs, telephoned what the Mexican boss had told to the sheriff, who went out fast as an auto could carry him, and found there had not been a gun fired. Two or three of them were brought into town to explain the gun etc. And so, the dead and wounded Mexicans blew up into a big scare and a good run.

TEXAS COMPANY LEASE ELLWOOD PASTURE.

Will Prospect With Deep Well For Oil or Gas.

The one greatest difficulty in the development of anything, particularly of an engineering nature, by a community, is that the project must succeed "first whirl out of the box," or not at all. In other words, there is always so little capital available that if success does not attend the first efforts, it is well nigh impossible to get the money for a second or third attempt. Individuals, or a few average business men, can not afford to send good money after bad, and must quit, no matter how promising the prospect. They must either abandon the enterprise or give it into the hands of men who have ample money, in which case, the small promoters lose out eventually. Many enterprises have been undertaken in West Texas with no other capital except that derived from the sale of a few shares before work was begun. When that was absorbed, the first buyers of stock would be unwilling to sink more money, and their unwillingness would deter outsiders from investing. And so, everything would come to a halt, with every dollar invested a clear loss.

It is another story when an established company with ample money in search of further development in its line, takes hold of any proposition. The cost is not considered in view of the ultimate result they hope to attain. If such a concern were in search of water, and believed it could be obtained only at great cost, the latter would be but a negligible quantity. What they want is water, and it would be cheap at any price. This is particularly true in water, gas and oil developments. Only corporations with plenty of money can put them through without numerous interruptions, crises and obstructions. When they decide to do a thing, the cost is not counted. They are willing to spend much money to be certain about any proposition.

It will be of no small interest to the people of Colorado and Mitchell county, therefore, to learn that the Texas Company, one of the biggest oil companies in the nation, has secured a lease on the Ellwood pasture and will prospect for oil. This information was given by Mr. Ellwood himself, when here a short time ago. He did not indicate when or where the company would begin operations, but from what we know of the lay of the land in that part of the county, would imagine that part of the big pasture laying along the Coke county line, the most inviting for such an enterprise. Weight is given this surmise by the fact that there was quite a little excitement and talk some time last year about the oil prospects at Edith, which is not far from this locality. Possibly the same company took leases on a large quantity of land in that neighborhood, and work was expected to begin in a short while afterward. Drilling and the locating of an oil field is no indication of great and immediate development. Oil companies spend much money in locating a field which will be abandoned for years, or until it needs to draw on that particular reserve supply.

But the success of this venture would mean a great deal to Mitchell county. If a good oil field should be developed in that part of the county, there would be good reason for believing it could be found in other parts of the same county. It would solve the doubts we have entertained about something more valuable than salt underlying Colorado, and it would be easier to raise money or interest some company with money, to put down an experimental well here. The Record wishes the enterprise the greatest measure of success, and would rejoice to witness the development of one of the greatest oil fields in Texas, within the borders of our own county.

A SAD DEATH AT LORAIN

When the announcement was made here last Monday that Mrs. Alfred Kidd of Lorraine had taken her own life, a shock was mingled with regret and surprise. That a young wife and mother just arrived at the most useful and happy period of life, should by her own hand send the spirit before its time into eternity, is inexplicable. Recent ill health and consequent despondency is the only explanation for the rash act. Mrs. Kidd was the daughter of Mr. Ed Leggett, and was reared in the Lone Wolf community, where she married Mr. Kidd. Besides a heart-broken husband and little children, she leaves a host of friends who deplore her act and most deeply sympathize with the bereaved ones. Interment occurred at the Lone Wolf cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, in the presence of sorrowing friends and relatives, services being conducted by Rev. Leslie of Hermleigh.

"Are you going to the Fair" is the popular interrogation and morning salutation, this week. The big show opens tomorrow and promises to eclipse all previous efforts to make the Dallas state fair the biggest promotion of its kind in these United States. When such an enterprise as this fair can and does clear above $100,000 every year, it must be in the hands of competent business management and among people who are loyal to their home enterprises.

DECIDE YOURSELF. The Opportunity Is Here, Backed By Colorado Testimony.

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement. Read Colorado endorsement. Read the statement of Colorado citizens. And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it: J. W. Nunn, Colorado, Texas, says: "Some years ago I suffered terribly from disordered kidney and nothing did me any good until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in the local papers and got a box. Their use soon cured me. Since then on several occasions I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and have always found them good. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

OTHERS THINK SAME THING.

The following paragraph, which appeared in the editorial columns of the Record several weeks ago, we have seen copied in half a dozen leading papers, and most heartily commended by them all: Irrigation, the silo and Jersey cow will do more to redeem this country from the strangle hold of one-crop system, than all other things combined. A few acres well irrigated; a silo well filled, and a few Jersey cows well tended, will give an added industry which will pay for the start. Colorado was about ten years too previous with its creamery. It logically, should have been founded on the success of the dairy business. We can only learn by living.—Colorado Record. Plenty of water, a silo, and a few Jersey cows will redeem any country if taken care of. The trouble is that in the old time cow country whether in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona or Oklahoma, top many men who had been used to doing everything on horseback are trying to farm the same way. Intelligent industry with water, soil and sunshine will fill the silo and make the Jersey cow a money maker.—El Paso Times.

If the Record had never been the author of another paragraph than this one, the paper would not have lived in vain. It has stimulated others to advocate the things, which their better judgement has perhaps suggested for some time but which they deemed too far in the distant future to be discussed now. The sooner we throw off the yoke of the one-crop tyrant, the sooner will we arrive at freedom and independence. So long as we submit to the yoke of landlord dictation; we defer the day of our deliverance from the thralldom. It is not to the best interests of the landlord that tenants aspire to a little home of their own, where they can raise just what they wish, in just the way they want to raise it, and where every lick struck for the improvement of the place enhances its value to the owner and more firmly establishes a man's own castle. But so long as the tenant can be held to the one crop system of business these visions and dreams of a home of his own and independence, will remain but dreams, and very idle ones. Begin with but a few acres, well watered and well cultivated. Save the summer's waste for winter's feed in silos. Provide a few good cows and treat them well. This will assure a living to begin; and when one owns his own home and the big leak of rent is stopped, he will insensibly accumulate around him many things of usefulness and value that tenantry did not allow. Like the snow ball, his business will gather size merely by going along. Two years should double every thing in the stock line on his place and enhance every foot of ground he owns. Only "stop the leaks and it takes very little water and time to fill the pail."

If the Record could induce only one man to break away from the old moorings and establish successfully a little independent home of his own, of which he would be the "captain," it would consider itself not at the foot of that list of workers who have made two blades of grass grow where but one grew before. Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines. If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicines that contain codeine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. SAVE TIME AND MONEY. As a concrete example of the money and time saving features of good roads, we cite the bringing into market last Monday from Cuthbert, fourteen bales of cotton on two wagons; each wagon had seven bales besides several gasoline barrels and some other truck that made tonnage. These wagons were drawn by the average weight and weight horses, none of them weighing, we imagine, over 1200 pounds. The trip was made from Cuthbert to Colorado in about three hours or a trifle more, arriving here well before noon.

If this trip had been made four or five years ago, it would have required four horses to each wagon, and even with this doubled motive power, the time consumed would have been much greater—probably not arriving in Colorado till the middle of the afternoon. There was no accident to wagons or teams; no blacksmith bill to foot; less feed for the teams consumed, as well as for the drivers, say nothing of the great saving of time, which just now, with the fields white with open cotton, is veritable money saved in the farmer's pocket. The aggregate saving by reason of good roads, on this one trip to market, we dare say, is much greater than the additional tax for roads, this farmer has to pay. This is only one example of the economy of good roads that daily occur in the county, and more frequently, in this special road district. The distance of every farm on one of these improved roads, from market, is practically cut in half. Rent places are made more eligible and more reliable tenants are attracted to them. This necessarily enhances the value of every acre of land situated on a good road, and renders land investment more stable and profitable.

SICK SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR GAS

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage— do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what become of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, suriest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

At a wireless signal between President Wilson in Washington and Col. Goethals at Panama, the former pressed a button at 2 o'clock Saturday, and released the electric current that travelled over land, under sea to the Gamboa dike on the canal, and exploded tons of dynamite that destroyed the last barrier between the waters of the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. This allows the waters of Gatun lake to enter the famous Culebra cut, where they will join the waters from the south, which was allowed to enter from the Pacific side some weeks ago. This practically finishes the digging part of the canal. Soon as the water in the cut is deep enough, many powerful steam dredges will be floated in and put to work clearing out the slides that have been allowed to fall into the cut. They can be dredged out cheaper and quicker than they could have been removed by steam shovels and carried away on dirt trains. It is also the opinion of the engineers, that when the canal prism in the cut is filled with water, its weight will do much to counterbalance the unequal weight of the banks, and stop the slides. At any rate, the canal can be kept clear of these obstructions by having dredges constantly at work until the angle of repose is reached by nature itself. Small vessels can now go from the Caribbean sea to the Pacific ocean but some months will be required for the lake to reach the 85 foot level; and more months will be needed to thoroughly drill the force which will permanently operate the canal during the passage of vessels, so that there will be no human probability of an error or an accident.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS.

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic.

Get a 10-cent box now. Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gasses; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drugist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleaning, too.

Not unlike the wine served at the marriage feast at Cana, the best of the watermelon crop seems to have been reserved for the last of the season. Several wagon loads of the fine melons have been brought in the past week, as can be raised anywhere. Not alone are they of large size and good color, but the quality is fully up to their looks. There were many unusually fine specimens for sale on the streets Friday and Saturday. All that lacks to make Mitchell county one of the leading agricultural propositions in the Southwest, is water at the time nature needs it most, and just in the right quantity. If such a melon crop could be produced with certainty every year in this country, it would soon rank with the best of the melon growing sections and put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the pockets of the growers, that under the present hazard of crop making, can never get there. And of course, that means irrigation, which means a certainty of water for all crop purposes, whenever the crops need it.

It Always Helps says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give GARDUI The Woman's Tonic a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good." Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't Hesitate! If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Ablene will soon be supplied with natural gas piped from the Moran fields, a distance of 30 miles. A contract was signed last week to this effect by the Pioneer Gas Company, a Texas company, and the Abilene Gas and Electric Company. The high pressure pipe has been shipped from Fort Worth and active work of laying the line will soon begin. The price of this fuel will be the same as obtains in Dallas and Fort Worth.

CUTHBERT CULLINGS.

On the 10th inst, the Scurry county commissioners came down to receive the bridge recently built on the Colorado river between Cuthbert and Ira. A long felt want is now supplied by this bridge and is worth a day's journey to any Mitchell County school boy to see. It is built on the suspension plan and is 14 feet wide. The main span is 230 feet long, with 40 feet approaches the bridge is held up by two cables, each composed of 300 strands of steel wire and each strand of wire tested to a breaking strength of 1500 pounds, making a total of 900,000 pounds or 450 tons for the two cables.

COMMISSIONERS COURT.

Monday of this week the County Commissioners met in regular October meeting.

Quite a number of bills, including rabbit and wolf bounties was before the court, and were allowed to the amount of $9.45. G. G. Reeder's butcher bond of Loraine was approved.

A. W. Crawford, Hartnett & Bradford, P. C. Coleman, Burns & Coe and J. A. Copeland were all before the court or were represented to have the tax rendition adjusted and certain taxes transferred and cancelled etc. to get certain titles straight etc. The court entered into a year's contract for all printing supplies etc, with the Bennett Printing Co. of Paris, Texas at certain scheduled prices submitted. A clause in the contract reads that all work that can be done in Mitchell County will be let here at competing prices etc. The court thinks they made a good trade as prices submitted were nearly one half cheaper than they had been paying for blank books and office supplies.

A petition was presented to the court numerously signed asking for a county election to determine whether or not the people wanted to vote out pool halls in the county. The petition was carefully examined and the same granted and the election set for Saturday the 8th day of November, next. Nothing further coming before the court they adjourned with out day.

COLORADO, TEXAS, OCTOBER 17, 1913.

Now that the world's series of ball games has been played and the Athletics are the victors, the national game will go back to the inside pages of the daily papers till next spring.

The Stanton Reporter came to us last week in special edition dress. It was a five-column, sixteen page paper, printed on super-calendered paper, and replete with interesting reading matter relating to the Stanton country, illustrated with many fine half tone engravings. The paper would do credit to any office in West Texas.

The announcement in another column from Washington, that Congressman William R. Smith would likely resign his seat in congress on November 1st, to accept a place on the interstate commerce commission, will be quite a surprise to his friends in this district. Should Judge Smith decide to accept this place on the inter-state commerce commission, there would be a prolific crop of candidates to fill his present place.

Here's a "dead quiet" tip to the end that more interest may be developed in the building of silos in Mitchell county: Silage is preserved because of fermentation in the vegetation; fermentation develops alcohol. And so it is, that the juice excreted from the fermenting mass inside the air-tight silo contains the veritable article that always has inebriated. We have never tried it, but have heard that in the absence of everything else of the kind, would save a rounder's life. It is also said that the juice must come from one's own silo. That from Brown's silo would have no effect on Wiggins, only to make him sick. Now, ye knights of the "insatiable thirst," build silos.

At the very first signs of the least stagnation in business, or on the occasion of the first industrial disturbance in the manufacturing centers, there will be a howl go up from those who opposed the Underwood tariff bill, that this measure was the whole cause of it. The thousands who have not done a lick of work in many months and who do not want honest work, will suddenly find an excuse for their idleness. The new law did it—threw husbands out of jobs and caused the hunger of thousands of children. The crowd who will raise this hue and cry against the tariff law, have never been regularly at work. They have loafed for years, but now the politicians can use them and solidify this gang of indigents into campaign forces. There has been an unprecedented demand all over Texas this fall for men to work in the harvest fields. In Colorado alone the sum of nearly $800 was made up at one time by the farmers to pay transportation of cotton pickers from El Paso to this place. Like propositions were doubtless made by other communities to get men out of the cities to pick cotton, which is very remunerative work at prevailing prices. There have been strikes and capital and labor clinched; each wants all it can get and a'ways wants more than its getting. They have no relations to the tariff. However, if the things necessary to the comfort of the working class can be gotten cheaper under the new tariff law than before it went into effect, the law will indirectly tend to lessen the frequency of strikes and walkouts.

Chief Tanner of the Dallas police force, admits, that after eleven weeks' investigation, during which one hundred clues have been run down, the circumstances surrounding the murder of Miss Florence Brown, remain as inscrutable as ever.

Few—very few—boys ever run away from the right kind of a home. The boy knows more about it than all the community put together.

TAKING UP LOST MOTION IN PICKING COTTON.

When this writer was a boy, although raised in the heart of the greatest cotton producing country of the world—the Mississippi bottom—350 to 400 pounds of cotton a day, was considered expert work. Once in a long while there would come down the pike, still greater artists who would bring along a reputation of having picked even 500 and sometimes, more pounds a day. This too, was where the cotton grew high as a man's head, and in overflow years, still higher. Five hundred pounds of cotton picking a day was a fine record for a grown man in those days. No wagon was taken into the field as is done in Texas. The cotton was picked and put in small sacks that were not long enough to touch the ground when the picker stood up. When the sack was full, it was emptied into white oak baskets at the end of the rows, which, when full and "tramped", held about 200 to 250 pounds. A good picker could fill one of these baskets by noon, when it was taken to the cotton "pen", weighed and emptied. Usually, a big basket would hold the average picker's day's work. When the pen was full, the cotton would be hauled off to the gin. There was much lost motion and waste of time in this system.

Now, the wagon bed is made to hold a bale and more. It is driven afield and when filled is taken to the gin. Pickers use sacks nine feet long and drag them along till the weight becomes an impediment. Knee pads are used so that the picker can crawl along on his knees without lifting his sack, which when full, is emptied into the waiting wagon. The amount of cotton picked now is quite double the general average of that during the seventies. Just last week, several young men came here from Buffalo Gap to pick cotton. One of them picked in one day, on the Miles Everett place, south of town, 813 pounds, while a young boy not over 15 years of age picked 525 pounds. And the work was well and cleanly done. The great difference in the amount of cotton picked now and in earlier days, is not due to greater energy or higher skill, so much as to system and the taking up of lost motion and doing away with friction. Every lick is now made to count in pounds of cotton.

If every farmer in Mitchell county had his acreage cut down to one-fifth what he is now cultivating under the "hit or miss" method, and those reduced acres put under practical irrigation, does anyone doubt there would be far better crops made in the county, at less expense of time, seed, cultivation, doubt and worry? Under the present system, the farmer loses the very cream of the profit of his cotton in paying to have it gathered. Think of what it means to pay $1.00 per hundred to have cotton picked and pay for the board of the pickers. The saving of this would mean a fine bank balance. Irrigation would do that very thing.

You can't beat the Standard Oil combine. Its money can command the best brains in existence. It would not be to the interest of this company for someone else to discover a cheaper substitute for gasoline for motor engines. Unable to do so themselves, they have gone into the automobile manufacturing business and will put out an engine guaranteed to consume not more than one gallon of gasoline per fifty miles. If the Standard Oil company can do this, there will be little need of discovering a cheaper substitute. The economical thing to do will be to buy a Standard Oil Car.

Hon. J. M. Wagstaff, now a representative from the Abilene district in the legislature has ambitions for congress, in the event Judge Smith should revise his decision to make the race for re-election next year.

ITS THE DOCTRINE—THE GOSPEL.

The Reporter is not alone in urging the benefits of the silo and creamery. The Colorado Record is working along the same lines and is doing its country a faithful service. Every man who puts in a silo and buys a few good cows and mares is stepping along towards easy street and an independent living.—Abilene Reporter.

Had the esteemed Reporter read the Record the past three years, it had known our weakness for irrigation is the result of no new illumination. But the past two years have impressed the truth upon us, that irrigation is the hope of our salvation. It would be the less of two calamities could we have a decided failure followed by an equally bountiful harvest, than to prepare and hope for a good crop every year and then gather only an indifferent one—neither good nor very bad. Just enough good to inspire hope for a better one next year, without being bad enough to discourage and disgust sufficiently to pull up and move. So, we just keep digging and hoping, without getting anywhere; only falling back a few notches every year. A decided failure might put us where we had to do something or go back. Under present conditions we are given just enough hope for next time, to make us put off doing what will have to be done before agriculture is on a sure and bankable basis. This depending on things being better next year has been the bane of the West Texas farmer. They'll be better permanently only when we make them better.

A word of warning is being spoken by the irrigationists on this point. Many farmers who had decided to begin some system of irrigation for next year, are getting cold feet on account of the recent general rains. The spectre of drouth has just dodged behind the door; he has not gone away, by any means. There is no human reason to believe that next year will be any more propitious than the passing one. There might be abundant rains next year up to the most critical period of crop development—when just one good rain is of vital importance. Then, if the spectre came upon the scene just once, the whole prospect would fall. We have certainly learned that bright prospects mean nothing in the face of uncertain drouth. Ten days' lack of rain at the critical period can knock the brightest prospects to flinders.

It is the elimination of this very uncertainty that irrigation seeks. It is the only thing that will "cast the devil out for good," and those who have contemplated the installment of some system of irrigation for next year or have already begun to establish it, will be very shortsighted to their own interests, if they allow any number of rains to scare them out of the judgment of their experience. If they should lose another crop by procrastination, it will only be the harder to break away from the old system the next year. Rain or no rain, the installment of a system of irrigation that will give water when needed, is the best investment. If it doesn't rain, you are saved by irrigation; if it does rain, your irrigation system has been the same as an insurance policy.

The Record's conversion to the gospel of the silo is of more recent date. Since the failure to make the creamery plant here pay or even go at all, this paper has been reading up on the dairy and creamery business in all the journals given to that industry, that reach this office. We soon found there was something very important behind the dairy and creamery business, and that something was wholly lacking in Mitchell county. That was cheap and abundant feed for the cows. We learned that green feed was very necessary for dairy cows. This introduced us to the silo and silage and led to the reading of the experience of those who had made success of the dairy business with silage and good cows. Its advantages apply to all kinds of stock as well as to cows. If there had been only one dozen silos in this community when the creamery was established here, it would not have fallen through and proven a failure. We were a little too previous and hit the cart before the horse; which mistake should not make it more difficult hereafter to establish one. Next time, the creamery will be the result of an insistent demand from the dairy people, as a market for their product. Just a few years ago there was not a creamery in Western Kansas, but there were plenty of stock for which feed was often very shy in winter. The silo was suggested; the majority discredited it, but a few experimented and found the solution of the problem of winter feed for cattle and other stock. Today that section of Kansas is the most certain of any part of the state for crops. Irrigation, the silo and good cows, did the work of regeneration. The dairy business is the second biggest thing in this nation's commercial assets. Its product is a necessity; the poorest and richest must have it, while the demand grows daily. Very few local country markets are supplied equal to the demand. The Record has said it several times before and purposes to keep saying it, that on some system of irrigation, the silo for winter feeding, and the development of the dairy and creamery industry, the "arrival" of West Texas depends. It will build sure-enough in the country, and make for a contented, because of a prosperous citizenship.

The recent developments in Mexico clearly prove the long-headed wisdom of President Wilson in his address before both houses of the national congress in August, he declared that true condition in Mexico would soon manifest itself, and the part of wisdom would be to wait. Those nations which hastened to recognize the Huerta government, now find themselves in a position where they must tacitly endorse the methods of Huerta or withdraw their recognition of him. We would not be surprised any day to hear of his violent death and the assumption of power by some new usurper. Events will likely move fast in that country from this time forward.

IT COVERS THE COUNTY.

The Record management arranged with some of the merchants of Colorado recently to give the paper for three months to each of their customers. If the customer was not a subscriber to the paper, he would receive it three months free, by which time we expected him to feel that he should be a regular subscriber to his home paper. It would also help the merchant to thus compliment his customers, while doing them a real service. Incidentally it would help the Record in its subscription list.

Happening into one of the stores with which this arrangement had been made one day last week, the proprietor said, "Why, we can't even give your paper away to anybody." We have tried to send it to eighteen different men, and not a single one of them wanted it. "Well," we answered him, "did they assign any reason why they did not want it?" "Yes, they made no bones about the matter, but plainly gave their reason." "And that was—" "They were taking it already, and had been for years. We found everyone of the first eighteen customers we asked, already taking the paper. If this is any indication of how the list will run, your claims of going into 85 per cent of the homes of the county are too modest."

The Record does claim to cover Mitchell county as thoroughly as any paper can without the aid of some mercenary and catch-penny scheme, where the people take the paper in order to get the cheap premium. Relying solely on its intrinsic merits as a home paper devoted to the upbuilding of Mitchell county and town of Colorado, it employs no special solicitors at a bankrupt commission nor offers cheap premiums to catch that class who care nothing for the paper, who never read it and frequently never carry it home. The circulation of the Record is a paid one, and people who pay for a paper as a rule, read every word in it. We don't believe any country newspaper ever had a more loyal clientele than the Record. The paper certainly appreciates its readers and friends.

Despite the appalling tragedies on the high seas, statistics prove that ocean travel is the safest time in one's existence. It is true, when accidents do occur with so many people crowded in so small a place as a ship, they all share the same fate and an unusually large per cent are lost. But in proportion to the number of people carried and the infrequency of such accidents as befell the Titanic and Volturno, the general average of loss of life is small. Many more people are killed in their own homes per thousand, than are lost at sea.

The silo, with forage crops under irrigation, cattle and swine raising, with a proper rotation of crops, should be considered as the second important enterprise of this section. The first industry is, of course, farming—cotton and feed stuff for man and beast. But the urgent and increasing demand for beef and pork raises this industry to as great importance as legitimate farming. The prudent and provident farmer is he who on a small farm combines the two, providing for his own family consumption while having both stock and farm products for the market.

The baneful effects of the cattle tick are felt in the leather trade as much as elsewhere. The bite of the tick leaves puncture marks in the hide of the animal, which when finished into leather, will not produce that chrome stock, which is in much demand. Fine grain and close texture are found especially in southern hides, and unless the tick is eradicated, there must soon be a tremendous shortage in the shoe leather stock of this country. It is estimated that fifteen states have suffered during ten years the loss of one billion dollars, through the ravages of the tick alone.

Advertisers Ask Only A Fair Trial

By HOLLAND.

ADVERTISERS do not attempt to make you agree to buy their goods for the rest of your life. They only want you to give their wares a trial, to subject them to actual test by actual use, and then be guided by experience.

Could anything prove more clearly that the advertiser has supreme confidence in his product, that he is absolutely certain that it will please you, that it will be all he says it is?

It would indeed be foolish to spend money to induce you to buy an article that would prove unsatisfactory and would result in your telling friends and neighbors of your experience. Advertisers spend millions making their trademarks known, and in order to make their trademarks valuable they must stand for a certain standard of worth. Having made their trademarks known, manufacturers exert every effort to keep the goods up to the expected high grade.

GIVES MIDNIGHT ALARM

Farmer Stout was awakened from a sound sleep by the ringing of his telephone bell. The barn of his neighbor, three miles down the turnpike, had been broken into and a driving horse stolen.

The horse-thieves were headed toward the Stout farm. Calling his hands he armed his forces, lined them upon the turnpike, captured the thieves and held them until the arrival of the Sheriff.

DRUGGIST GIVES MONEY BACK.

When an article is sold a druggist who is willing to give it his personal guarantee it's a mighty strong proof of real merit.

That's exactly the case with Dodson's Liver Tonic. It is a pleasant, vegetable remedy for a slow and sluggish liver. Since Dodson's Liver Tonic came on the market the sale of calomel has gone way down. The reason is simply this: Dodson's Liver Tonic is safe and harmless and guaranteed to be satisfactory. Calomel is often uncertain, sometimes dangerous, and no druggist wants to guarantee that it won't knock you out of a day's work and maybe send you to bed.

Floyd Beall sells Dodson's Liver Tonic and guarantees it. For you and for your children, it's a good thing to keep a bottle always in the house.

Floyd Beall will give you your money back if you think Dodson's Liver Tonic is not worth the price. "Keep Your Liver Working and Your Liver will not keep you from working." is good advice to go by.

Eaves-Webb Sanitarium

ACCORDING to our announcement, we have opened the Sanitarium, and on our first day had four (4) applications for examination. One began treatment, while each of the others will begin at an early date.

We are proud that the people of Colorado, appreciative of our efforts, and with the encouragement we have had from so many of the best people, we feel that we are performing a duty that will not only be appreciated by the sick, but by all.

Owing to the scarcity of labor we haven't been able to carry on our work as fast as we contemplated; however, we are doing so as fast as possible with the amount of help we are able to get.

We are submitting only a few testimonials herewith, as we desire to get some from home people as soon as possible.

We have here one from Mr. A. J. Hamilton of this city, who began taking treatment Monday, and he has derived the benefit here stated by Wednesday. His own words tell the result.

Colorado, Tex., Oct. 8 1913. This is to certify that I have suffered with chronic rheumatism for five years and have tried most everything I could hear of without relief, and since last fall have been unable to use one of my hands, it being badly swollen and stiff. While I have only taken a few treatments at the Eaves-Webb Sanitarium I have greatly improved. The swelling in my hand is almost gone. I have been able to sleep much better since beginning the treatment and feel very much improved and believe in a short time will be entirely well. Signed, A. J. HAMILTON.	E A V E S - W E B B - S A N I T A R I U M	Sept. 26 1913. J. E. Eaves, Colorado, Texas: Dear Sir—yours just received. I am glad you are opening-up another Sanitarium as I know you will be successful as for me will say, "I was almost a nervous wreck when I began the Drugless treatment at your place and after three weeks was entirely cured. I was also cured of the Tobacco habit while there. I can heartily recommend the treatment. Respectfully, W. H. L'CONNOR"
Sept. 28 1913. Mr. J. E. Eaves, Colorado, Texas. Am sending you herewith statement of my case as per your request: I had been under the weather for five years, suffered with severe pains in my back some time scarcely able to get up. My digestion was bad, didn't eat or sleep sufficiently, suffered nervous spells, at times almost unbearable, after fifteen days at your place I was completely cured and am well today. Wishing you the success I know you deserve, I am Thankfully, MATTIE WEST.	E A V E S - W E B B - S A N I T A R I U M	Sept. 24, 1913. J. E. Eaves, Colorado, Texas. Dear Sir—Replying to yours of recent date will say: That I had suffered several hard attacks of appendicitis and the Drs. told me I would have to be operated on. So hearing of your place and seeing a party that had been in the same condition and had been cured there without an operation I decided to try it although at that time I hadn't the least confidence in drugless methods. I was cured sound and well haven't had a return of the trouble. I now believe in your work and any one who will try it as I did will believe also. Hoping you much success in your new location, I am Respectfully, MISS ALMA HARRELL.

Now, we could if we so desired submit hundreds of such letters as these, and some even giving us more praise, but we deem it unnecessary, as this should be enough to convince the most skeptical. If, however, you desire more, come and let us show you things. We do not claim any supernatural powers, but we do claim that we understand our business and apply such treatment as each individual case may require. No hocus-pocus propositions, but simply the scientific application of such remedies as will effect a cure.

Come let us talk it over with you if you are sick; it costs you nothing to get our honest opinion. If your case is incurable we will frankly tell you so. We are able however to treat any disease, acute or chronic, and you are now invited to come get your share of health we are offering. Why continue to suffer when relief may be at your door? Remember, we employ almost every means for your benefit known to the profession—medical or otherwise.

The Husbands of Edith

CHAPTER XIV.

The Prodigal Husband.

THE unlucky Brock, wild with rage and chagrin, had paced his temporary prison in the top story of the Tirol from 11 o'clock till 2, bitterly cursing the fools who were keeping him in durance more vile than that from which they had generously released him. He realized that it would be unwise to create a disturbance in the house by demanding for freedom, because, in the first place, there already had been scandal enough, and, in the second place, his distrustful bondsmen had promised faithfully to seek out the devoted Constance and apprise her of his release. He had no thought, of course, that in the meantime she might be duped into paying a bribe to the guard.

Not only was he dreading cursing the trio, but also the addled Medcroft and his own addled self. It is to be feared that he had harsh thoughts of all the Medcrofts, as far down as Raggles. His dream of love and happiness had turned into a nightmare; the comedy had become a tragic drama of all the effects known to melodrama.

It occurred to him at 2 o'clock that pacing the floor in the agony of suspense was a very useless occupation. He would go to bed. Morning would bring relief and surcease to his troubled mind. Constance was doubtless sound asleep in her room. Everything would have been explained to her long before this hour. She would understand. So, with the return of his old sophistry, he undressed and crawled into the strange bed. Somehow he did not like it as well as the cot in the balcony below.

Just as he was dropping off into the long delayed slumber, he heard a light tapping at his door. He sat up in bed like a flash, thoroughly wide awake. The rapping was repeated. He called out in cautious tones, asking who was there, at the same time slipping from bed to fumble in the darkness for his clothes.

"Sh!" came from the hallway. He rushed over and put his ear to the door. "It is I. Are you awake? I can't stay here. It's wrong. Listen. Here's a note—under the door. Good night, darling! I'm heartbroken."

"Thank God, it's you!" he cried softly. "How I love you, Constance!"

"Sh! Edith is with me! Oh, I wish it were morning and I could see you. I have so much to say."

Another querulous voice broke in: "For heaven's sake, Constance, don't stand here any longer. Our reputations are bad enough as it is. Good night—Roxbury!" He distinctly heard the heartless Edith giggle. Then came the soft, quick swish of garments and the nocturnal visitors were gone. He picked up the envelope and, waiting until they were safely down the hall, turned on the light.

"Dearest," he read, "it was not my fault and I know it was not yours. But, oh, you don't know how I suffered all through those hours of waiting at the cafe. They did not find me until after 2. They were drunk. They tried to explain. What do you think the authorities will do to me if they find that I gave that horrid man bribe money? Really, I'm terribly nervous. But he won't dare say anything, will he? He is as guilty as I, for he took it. He took it knowing that you were free at the time. But we will talk it over tomorrow. I've just got back to the hotel. I wouldn't go to bed until Edith brought me up to hear your dear voice. I am so glad you are not dead. It is impossible to release you tonight. Those wretches have the key. How I loathe them! Edith says the hotel is wild with gossip about everything and everybody. It's just awful. Be of good heart, my beloved. I will be your faithful slave until death. With love and adoration and kisses. Your own Constance."

"P. S. Roxbury has not made a sign. Edith is frantic."

Several floors below the relieved and ecstatic Brock, Mrs. Medcroft was soon urging her sister to go to bed and let the story go until daylight. She persisted in telling all that she had done and all that she had endured.

"We must never let him know that we actually gave that wretch nearly $2,500, Edith. He would never forgive us. I admit that I was a fool and a ninny, so don't tell me I am. I can see by the way you are looking that you're just crazy to. It's all Roxbury's fault, anyway. Why should he get up and make a speech in London without letting us know? Just see how it has placed us! I think Mr. Brock is an angel to do what he has done for you and Roxbury. Yes, my dear, you will have to confess that Roxbury is a brute—a perfect brute. I'm sure, if you have a spark of fairness in you, you must hate him. No, no! Don't say anything, Edith. You know I'm right."

think I'll sleep with you." After a moment of deep reflection, she added plaintively: "There is so much that I just have to tell you, dear. It—it won't keep till daylight."

Bright and early in the morning the tired, harassed night farers were routed from their rooms by a demand from the management of the hotel that they appear forthwith in the private office. This order included every member of Mr. Rodney's party, excepting the Medcroft baby. Considerably distressed and very much concerned over the probable outcome of the conference, the Rodney forces made their way to the offices—not altogether in an open fashion, but by humiliatingly unusual avenues. The Rodney family came down the back stairs. Brock was solemnly ushered through the public office by Mr. Odell-Carney and Freddie Ulstervelt. It is not stretching the truth to say that they were sordid and sullen, but, as may be suspected, from peculiarly different causes. At last all were congregated in the stuffy office, very much subdued and very much at odds with each other. Mr. Githens was there. Likewise the gentleman from the bank and a prominent person from the department of police.

Miss Fowler glanced about uneasily and was relieved to discover that her treacherous jailer was not there to confront her with charges. It had occurred to her that he might, after all, have tricked her into committing a crime against the government.

It was quite noticeable that Mrs. Rodney and Katherine did not speak to the Medcroft contingent—in fact, they ignored them quite completely. Mrs. Rodney was very pale and very deeply distressed. She cast many glances at the red eyed and sheepish Mr. Rodney—glances that meant much to the further torture of his soul.

"I am sorry to inform you, Herr Rodney, that the rooms which you now occupy and those of your friends are no longer at your disposal. They have been engaged for from some time this day by a—"

"Look here," interrupted Odell-Carney bluntly, "if you mean that we are not wanted here any longer, why not say so? Don't lie about it. We are leaving today, in any event, so what's the odds? Now, come down to facts. Why are we summoned here like a crowd of school children?"

The manager looked at Mr. Githens and then at the police officer.

"Ahem! It seems that Herr Grabheltz of the police department desires to ask some questions of your party in my presence. You will understand, sir, that the hotel has been imposed upon by—by these people. It seems, also, that the bank insists upon having some light thrown upon the methods by which Mrs. Medcroft secures money on her letter of credit."

"You are welcome to all that, sir," declared Mr. Odell-Carney, "but I am interested to know just why my wife and I are brought into this affair."

"Because you are guests of Mr. Rodney, sir, I regret to state. We have no complaint against you, sir. You are well known here. The—the others are not. They are—what you call it? Humbugs! It may be that they also have swindled you!"

Mr. Rodney at this point leaped to his feet and rushed over to shake his fist in the face of the insulting hotel man. But Edith Medcroft arose suddenly like a tragedy queen and spoke, her clear, determined voice stilling the turbulent spirit of her outraged host.

"One moment, please," she said. "This all can be satisfactorily explained. No wrong has been done. It will all be cleared up in time. We!"

"In time?" interrupted the manager. "Madam, this is the time. You are here with a man who is not your husband, yet who purports to be such."

"It may throw some light on the matter if I announce that the gentleman in question is my affianced husband." It was Miss Fowler who spoke. Every one stared at her as she moved over to Brock's side.

"If you will look in the office you will find a telegram there for me," went on Mrs. Medcroft, pale, but absolutely confident. The manager called out through the door. Absolute silence reigned while the reply was awaited.

not yet arrived in—

"Brock!" shouted three voices in one. A tall man, forgetting his English and his eyeglasses, sprang forward and grabbed the telegrams from the manager's hand. "Holy mackerel! Give 'em here!" he shouted. Two eager, beautiful young women were hanging to his elbows as he ruthlessly broke one of the seals. "The chump! It's from Rox! They're all from Rox—and they are two or three days old!"

Just then the unexpected happened. The office door opened with a bang, and the real Roxbury Medcroft stepped into the room. He halted just inside the door and looked about in momentary bewilderment.

"This is a private!" began the manager, stepping forward. A flying figure sped past him; a delighted little shriek rang in his ears. He saw Edith Medcroft hurl herself into the arms of her own husband. At the same moment Brock bounded across the room and pounced eagerly upon the welcome intruder.

"This is my husband!" cried Edith, triumph in her voice, tears in her eyes, as she faced the astonished observers. "Now, what have you to say?"

CHAPTER XV.

What? Another Husband.

IT was a perfectly natural, but not an especially obvious question. The little manager threw up his hands and cried out in a sad mixture of French, English and Helvetian:

"What? Another husband? Madam, how many more do you propose to inflict us with? We cannot allow it! The management will not permit you to change husbands the instant a new guest arrives in the house. It is not to be heard of—no, no!"

"Are you afraid that the books won't balance?" asked Brock, with a joyous grin, a great load off his heart. "Ladies and gentlemen, permit me to introduce Mr. Roxbury Medcroft, my friend and fellow conspirator. He is the husband of this lady, not I. I am to be the husband of this lady, thank God!"

There was a moment of absolute silence—it may have been stupor. The two audiences faced each other with emotions widely at variance. It was Mrs. Rodney who spoke first.

"Is this true, Edith?" she quavered.

"Yes, yes, yes!" cried Edith, her eyes dancing.

"Then, what are you doing here with a man who isn't your husband?" demanded Mrs. Rodney, suddenly aflame.

"I can explain everything to you later on, Mrs. Rodney," interposed Mrs. Odell-Carney calmly. She had divined at least a portion of the truth, and she was clever enough to put herself on the right side. Edith cast an involuntary look of surprise at the Englishwoman.

"I have known everything from the first. Mrs. Medcroft and I are closer friends than you may have thought." She gave Edith a meaningful look and a moment later was whispering to her in a private corner of the private office: "My dear, you must tell me everything as soon as possible. I am your friend. Whatever it all is, it's ripping!"

Medcroft finally waved every one aside in the most degage manner imaginable.

press, I worked hard in your interest. Now I discover, to my gratification, you are a perfect stranger, whom I am proud to meet. Permit me to offer my warmest felicitations and to assure you that Mr. Brock will make a splendid brother-in-law." He hesitated a moment and then went on: "So you are the chap that really put in those enfolded memorial windows. 'Pon me word, sir, they are the rottenest!"

"Carney!" came the sharp reminder from his wife.

"I should have said," revised Mr. Odell-Carney, "you are the chap who played the device with the building matters in the county council. Remarkable!"

"Yes," said Roxbury, striving to grasp something of the situation as it appeared to the other. "We beat them. The bill is lost. It will never go to the council. The subcommittee will not recommend it. Thanks, Brock, old man. You have saved London a good many millions, I daresay. It was you who did it after all."

Before noon the hotel was agog with the full details of the remarkable story. Cabled dispatches in the newspapers gave the gist of the clever trick played by the Medcrofts, and the whole of England was to ring with the stories of Mrs. Medcroft's pluck and devotion.

The management of the Tirol implored the Medcrofts to remain—forever! The bank and the police were profuse in apologies and explanations, and Mr. Githens departed by the first train.

Freddie Ulstervelt, killing two birds with one stone, arranged a splendid dinner for that night in honor of the prodigal husband of Edith and also in open compliment to the vivacious Mlle. Le Brun.

Later in the day it occurred to him that he might just as well kill three birds as two, so he planned to announce the betrothal of Miss Fowler and Mr. Brock, the wedding to take place a fortnight hence in Mayfair. The Rodney's were invited to "stop over" for the spread. It is left for the reader to supply the answer to this simple question:

Did they stop over?

PLENTY OF FUN BOOKED AT TULSA, OCT. 22-NOV. 1. Amusement Section of Dry-Farming Congress Named For Noted Author.

Like every other world's fair and great exposition, the International Dry-Farming Congress at Tulsa, Oklahoma, October 22 to November 1, will have its boulevard of amusements and concessions. In this instance it will be known as the "Irving Trail," bringing to mind the historical "Tour of the Plains" by Washington Irving in 1832.

Washington Irving passed through the present townsite of Tulsa on this tour and camped on the Lost City hills overlooking the Arkansas river and valley.

On the Irving Trail will be assembled the greatest aggregation of high class shows and wholesome amusement ever seen in Oklahoma. The attractions will line both sides of the trail, and at night the boulevard fun and frolic will be a blaze of electric illumination.

Among the feature attractions on the avenue will be one of the greatest carnival companies in America; a wonderful congress of cowboys, cowgirls and Indians participating in the sports and pastimes of frontier life in the west, and a typical Ojaga Indian village, containing in primitive surroundings hundreds of men, women and children of this richest tribe of Indians on earth.

Flashing uniforms and martial music will also be marked features of the Congress and Exposition. One of the best concert bands in the country will furnish daily music. The United States government is sending the artillery band of forty pieces from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, one of the finest military bands in the service, to Tulsa for the entire ten days. A big detachment of United States troops from Fort Logan H. Roots, Arkansas, will act as military escort to visiting governors, senators, congressmen and foreign dignitaries and will be seen in daily maneuvers on the exposition grounds.

RICHER PREMIUMS; BETTER EXHIBITS

1913 State Fair Conclusive Evidence of Southwest's Growth.

EDUCATIONAL FEATURES

Rich Prizes Offered For the Work of School Children of Texas. Loan Art Display.

The State Fair of Texas at Dallas will celebrate its twenty-eighth anniversary Saturday, October 18, to Sunday, November 2, with wonderful exhibits in every line, each a conclusive evidence of the wonderful advancement of the Southwest in every branch of industry. Richer premiums always assure better exhibits, and the management of the fair, realizing this, is offering $75,000 in prizes and awards.

The art, culinary and textile department of the fair afford a great educational feature and in which every woman visitor is interested. This especially applies to the division in which the work of the school children of Texas is shown and in which handsome prizes and premiums are offered. The management of the State Fair has made provisions this year for a larger exhibit of this sort, which will include a display of manual art, drawing, arts and crafts, fine art, original school work, domestic science and the work of children of kindergarten age. Medals are offered for displays of domestic science, domestic art, wood work and metal work; and cash prizes for mechanical and architectural drawings, designs for book covers, stationery and floor plans for eight room cottage, pencil drawings, metal work and craft jewelry. In the drawing division prizes are offered for drawings in pencil, charcoal, water colors and ink. Domestic science exhibits will be more numerous than last year for the simple reason that better prizes mean more and better exhibits. The art department will be housed this year in the Coliseum, the space occupied last year in the textile and fine arts building will be devoted to a larger and better textile display. Several hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded for exhibits of breads, cakes, preserves and jellies, fancy prepared fruits and pickles. The best of these exhibits will receive a special prize of $10. Brandy preserves, pickled cucumbers, pickled onions, chow chow, pear sweet pickles, all receive a first prize of $1.50 and a second prize of $1. A general prize of $12 is being offered for the best display. Preserves of all kinds will be exhibited in pint jars and jelly in glasses. Under the head of fancy prepared fruits awards will be made for sauce, butter, quince cheese, carved citron, candied plums, peaches, apples, pears, tomatoes, grapes, with a special prize of $1 for the best general display of preserves. Jellies, pickles, preserved fruits, dried fruits and cordials.

For the last nine years the management of the State Fair has assembled for an annual exposition a showing of the best in American art. More than one million visitors have viewed these collections since their inauguration, and the influence it has had for a better understanding of the best art has been marked. In fact it has been the custom for years past and will be followed this year for the various schools of the State to give their students a day in the art gallery. The year of the State Fair is a year of art. The purpose of visiting the art exhibit. Numerous sales of paintings have been made to private collectors, the Fair Association appropriating a large sum each year to purchase paintings for its own permanent exhibit. The art gallery at Fair Park has been pronounced by experts as one of the best in America, the provisions made for a proper display being unequalled. This year the showing will eclipse even that of previous years, as Julian Onderdonk, one of the best known painters in America and who represents the management in New York, has received assurance that more than one hundred paintings from the studios of the greatest American artists will be in the collection. Colin Campbell Cooper, whose "Port of La Rochelle, France" attracted a great deal of the most favorable comment last year will send one of his best and latest paintings. Among the famous artists that will be represented are Gifford Beal, E. Lampert Cooper, Childe Hassam, Robert Henri, Paul Coneyer, Bruce Crane, Frederick Ballard Williams, Jane Peterson, Charles Melville Dewey, Carlton T. Chapman and Chas. C. Curry.

STATE FISH HATCHERIES.
Interesting Feature at State Fair of Texas at Dallas.

Dallas, Texas—The state fish hatcheries at Fair Park will be in operation by the opening of the twenty-eighth annual State Fair of Texas at Dallas, Saturday, October 18, and which will continue up to and including Sunday, November 2. The State has expended in this great project more than $20,000. A site in Fair Park was donated by the City of Dallas to the State for this purpose. The hatcheries consist of eleven ponds, 5x150 feet in dimension, and two larger, triangular in shape, 300 feet long and 150 feet in width at the widest point. These ponds slope in depth from six inches to six feet and have a continual flow of fresh water through them. Water is supplied from a concrete reservoir 100 feet in diameter and three feet in depth which in turn is supplied by a large well on the grounds. Provisions have been made to regulate the water supply in each pond so that it may be increased or diminished at will. The two large triangular ponds are used for the varieties of bass indigenous to Texas waters and in the smaller ponds are sun fish, white perch, catfish and other varieties. The purpose of these hatcheries is to propagate fish for distribution and restocking of the lakes and streams of the State which have become depopulated through the use of dynamite and seines. The fish are fed with prepared food and also graze on vegetation at the bottom of each pond. Paved driveways and walks make the hatcheries easy of access at all hours of the day.

Many of our West Texas exchanges report extensive planting of wheat. In some counties where this grain has never before been planted, quite extensive acreages will be put in, chiefly for pasturage.

AUTO POLO GAMES AT STATE FAIR

World's Most Sensational Sport to Feature Grandstand.

STARTS WITH ARGUMENT

M. A. Hankinson, Originator, Tells of Beginning of These Contests. Team at Dallas is on World Tour.

Dallas, Texas—Auto polo, a new game out of the West, will be played for the first time in the Southwest in front of the race track grandstand and at the coming State Fair of Texas which opens Saturday, October 18, and closes Sunday, November 2, said President J. J. Eckford yesterday.

"Contract has just been closed for six machines and eighteen men, who will come to Dallas under the direction of M. A. Hankinson of Kansas City, Mo., the originator of the world's most sensational sport. It is declared that this game takes more harum scarum, dare devil driving than any sport ever yet evolved by man, and the enthusiasm with which it has been greeted by thousands since the initial game in August, 1912, assures something out of the ordinary entertainment for the fair. Those who have seen auto-polo played declare there is a thrill every instant during the game and an extra thrill thrown in for good measure every other instant. The exciting display Mr. Hankinson will bring to Dallas are master hands and those who know anything of the art of driving an automobile can not fail but marvel at the skill with which the auto polo machines are driven. Mr. Hankinson, who was to confer with the fair management preliminary to closing the contract explained that auto-polo originated in an argument between two automobile enthusiasts as to which was the superior driver. A race between the two salesmen was suggested," said Mr. Hankinson, "and their respective cars were strapped to the chassis. In driving over the boulevards of Kansas City in search of a good clear road in the country, free from obstacles or interference, a race which lay in the path of one of the drivers was struck by the front wheel of his machine. The judges accompanying the drivers and who were sitting on the running boards of the two auto polo machines, kicking this way from one side of the road to the other, each driver following as accurately as possible, his aim being to place his machine in such position that the car which he was driving was offering a good opportunity for his partner to get a good kick at the can. This was followed by a game of old fashioned darts in which the can was very much battered and in which the contestants made a tie as to driving ability. Thus was originated what is now a National sport. The following day a hot ball and a couple of heavy mallets was purchased and an auto polo field was selected as an arena. The thrilling spectacle that resulted convinced those present, myself included, of the possibilities of the sport."

After the initial contest daily practice exhibitions were held for a period of five months. Various young men were given opportunities to try out as team players for the drivers, to set as their mallet men. "Many applicants for positions as mallet men were tried out and after going through their daily practice those who were more adapted to this form of sport were chosen to play the awkward and dangerous positions of hanging on to the side of a small racing auto-polo car and wielding a heavy three pointed mallet while the car was going at full speed," said Mr. Hankinson. "In August, 1912, the first game drew an attendance of 5,000 people."

Mr. Hankinson explained that auto-polo is played in periods of ten minutes each, five periods constituting one game. In the event of a tie score at the end of the fifth period, an extra period of five minutes is added, until one side has scored a winning point over their opponent. The beauty of a contest of this sort is that no two games are alike. "Each one is entirely different from the preceding one," said Mr. Hankinson, "therefore much more interesting than automobile racing, aeroplaning, motorcycle racing or in fact most any other sensational form of amusement." Several of the original players in auto-polo are now on a tour of the world. Eighteen players after making a tour of the big fairs of this country will spend three weeks in Cuba, four weeks in South America, five and one-half months in Europe, returning to the United States for one year's engagement at the Panama Exposition. Auto polo games will be played in front of the grandstand between the barns and running events. Each period will last ten minutes which will take up the intermission between the horse races. There will be something doing every minute in front of the grandstand this fall.

We are sorry to learn that the little 11 year old daughter of Rev. W. C. Hart, who was brought down and operated on some two weeks ago, is not doing well. The Record and all the friends of this family sincerely hope her condition may change soon for the better and rapidly recover. Later reports are that she is improving the past week.

GEORGE W. FILLER

Dr. Phenix finished the 175-ton silo on his irrigation farm south of town, this week, and is now ready to begin filling it. He has a cutter and plenty of power right at hand, and will begin on sorghum first. This silo is strictly of home manufacture, made of lumber and built by Mr. Chas. Sparks. About four feet of the structure is underground, lined with concrete and having a heavy concrete floor. It is octagonal in shape, double thickness of inch lumber with waterproof paper between. The bands are of heavy wooden pieces, tightly bolted together at the angles. And inasmuch as the secret and test of a silo is that it will hold water, this one should prove a decided success. Doctor Phenix is the pioneer exponent of irrigation in Mitchell county, and though his experiments and work have not been attended as yet with riches, we believe he is just around the corner from it. Others are taking up the matter and soon small irrigation plants will be seen in all parts of the county.

Chronic Dyspepsia. Notice to the Ginning Public.

It is being circulated by certain parties that we are running the gin in the interest of the Continental Cotton Oil Company. We wish to say that this report is absolutely false. This gin is run in the sole interests of the owners, who are H. Cook, C. P. Gary, H. D. McSpadden and W. H. Neely. No other person or persons or any corporation, or company, whatever, has any interest in its management or ownership. GARY GIN COMPANY.

EXCEEDS THE LIMIT WHETHER OR NO.

For some reason, Mr. Hiram Snyder has acquired the reputation of being a speeder when riding in his big Case automobile. In fact, he has cheerfully paid the penalty which the law prescribes, for proceeding along the business streets of the city at a pace regarded as "reckless, dangerous and a menace to life and limb". So apt were his little bursts of speed to attract the lynx eyes of the city marshal, who is armed with a racing stop watch, that Mr. Snyder has recently been driving at a very moderate and conservative speed.

It is not often that one is compelled to violate the plain law to preserve his own life and that of others. But on last Saturday evening, Mr. Snyder was compelled to do this very thing or have his car, containing Mrs. Snyder and two children, run down a by flying run-away team. The big gray team of horses owned by Mr. Ledbetter, took sudden and violent fright somewhere near the west end of Second street, and went down that crowded thoroughfare with the speed and force of a cyclone. Just before they reached the corner of Walnut, Mr. Snyder drove into Second only a few yards in front of the flying team. Hearing the noise of shouting, rattling harness and lumbering wagon, he looked back and saw the danger coming on just behind him. Everything gave them right of way, and to say Mr. Snyder exceeded the speed limit in getting out of the way of the running team, would be putting it mildly. He simply gave 'er juice and kept it in the street.

The team also kept to Second street, and followed closely behind Mr. Snyder's flying car to the top of the hill, where he turned in home, while the team kept on until stopped by someone this side the cemetery. No material damage was done the wagon, while Mr. Snyder was given opportunity to split the street wide open without any suggestion of violation of law. It was a pretty and exciting race, calling out everyone to witness it, and every mother's son of 'em shouted some suggestion to team or Mr. Snyder of what and how to do. The run-away team had no driver, but a few on the sidewalks persisted in yelling to the team—"put on your brakes; put on your brakes, why don't you?"

WOMEN SUBJECT TO KIDNEY TROUBLES

I beg to say that I have been a constant sufferer with severe pains in my back and was on the verge of nervous prostration resulting from kidney trouble and other complications. A friend of mine recommended Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root as a sure cure for these troubles. Acting upon her advice I began taking Swamp Root and began to improve before I had finished the first bottle. I continued its use until I had taken several bottles and continued to improve until I was completely cured. I am happy to say that I am as well as any woman on earth and have been so for the past nine years, thanks to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and I cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from kidney troubles.

Yours very truly,

We would remind our rural correspondents again, that regularity is one of the greatest virtues of the commission. We had rather have ten lines every week than one hundred lines now and then. When every correspondent sends in the news of the various communities every week, there is a kind of fraternity established between them that stimulates each to do the work regularly and well. That becomes their part of the paper, for which they are responsible, and very soon a community pride is begotten in the work.

All the newest and latest designs in Millinery at Mrs. Mills.

Rev. J. N. Campbell preached at the concluding service of the Sweetwater Baptist Association, on last Saturday evening, at Sweetwater. Six of the Colorado messengers attended during the whole time, while a half dozen others spent as much as a day there. It was a great association; perhaps the greatest hour was Friday evening, when Dr. J. D. Sandifer presented the claims of Simmons College. ECHOES FROM THE ASSOCIATION.

Quite a good representation went from Colorado to attend the Sweetwater Baptist Association which convened at Sweetwater, last week. The women had a very busy day and transacted as much business in the one day as the men did in three and had time to talk too, nearly all our ladies were on the program in some way, Mrs. J. L. Shepherd responded to the address of welcome and made us all feel glad to be from Colorado, Mrs. Hooper was chairman of the committee on resolutions and did her work properly, Mrs. Webb was chairman of the nominating committee and of course saw that good officers were elected, Mrs. A. L. Whipkey was to have represented the "Womens Work" to the brethren but being timid turned it over to braver and better hands, Mrs. Gustine ably told of the Womens training school at Ft. Worth. The Sweetwater ladies entertained us in a royal fashion and made us feel so at home that they will not soon be forgotten. Mesdames Ellis Douthitt and Edward Smith, two of Sweetwater's most cultured ladies and who were reared in Colorado sang a beautiful duet that was enjoyed by all and especially by their Colorado friends. The Association is to meet here next year with Rev. Mr. Burkett, a former pastor here but now of Abilene as moderator and our own Mr. Keathley as clerk, so we want to arouse ourselves and try to entertain as well as Sweetwater and have better reports in every way than at any previous meeting.

The ladies also had the pleasure of having the sweet spirited Miss Walker, a missionary to China who is at home on a much needed rest after seven years of fruitful labor on the field make an address.

COLORADO BOY HONORED.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Shepherd will be glad to learn that he has had the highest honor bestowed on him at the Sam Houston Normal that a teacher can bestow on a pupil, that of appointing him business manager of the Alcalde. The annual paper gotten out at that school. Robert says he intends to see to it that it is out on time this year. A thing almost unheard of before. Success to you Mr. Shepherd.

A Marvelous Escape.

"My little boy had a marvelous escape," writes P. F. Bastians of Prince Albert, Cape of Good Hope. "It occurred in the middle of the night. He got a very severe attack of croup. As luck would have it, I had a large bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. After following the directions for an hour and twenty minutes he was through all danger." Sold by all dealers.

CENTRAL CIRCLE.

The Central Circle of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Buchanan Monday afternoon with a big attendance an interesting program of bits of news from the Home and Foreign field was enjoyed. After which the ladies paid their dues which amounted to $9.45 and 69 cents free will offering. Among other items of business they did was to relieve a needy family in East Colorado and plan for a progressive Halloween party. Particulars to be announced later.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Sam Wulfjen, Vice.
Mrs. J. T. Davis, Secretary.
Mrs. W. L. Doss, treasurer.

Quite an interesting missionary quiz was enjoyed by all as well as proving to be instructive.

At the social hour the hostess served a dainty salad course with ice tea.
