VILLA AGENT SEES REVOLT SHOULD U. S. ACCEPT CARANZA

Urquidí Declares Northern Leader Would Strengthen Forces When Opponent Is Recognized—Predicts Speedy Collapse of First Chief's Government.

New York, Sept. 19.—The flat statement that rebellion would follow any action by the United States and A. B. C. mediators to recognize the Carranza government was made today to the International News Service by Francisco Urquidí, consul general for Villa.

Following a conference with Secretary of State Lansing at the Biltmore yesterday it was strongly intimated that Carranza was favored for indorsement by American republicans.

"Such action on the part of the A. B. C. mediators would mean the strengthening of the forces of General Villa," said Senor Urquidí. "It would be immediately followed by a revolution against Carranza so strong that the recognized government's position would be untenable."

"An embargo upon arms and ammunition from the United States would have no effect upon the revolutionists. General Villa now has plenty of guns and an ammunition factory has been established which can turn out all the shells required to overthrow Carranza."

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN.

Interesting Program—Short Addresses by Friends of the School—Bright Prospects for Successful Year's Work.

The yearly opening of the Colorado Public Schools is always an event anticipated and enjoyed by patrons and pupils alike. More interest than usual was felt Monday morning, because of a new superintendent and an almost new corps of teachers. The Auditorium and adjoining rooms were filled before the hour for beginning with an appreciative audience, nor were they in any way disappointed in the program which filled the next two hours. Seldom have our schools opened more auspiciously, nor our people listened to more instructive or entertaining addresses, readings and musical numbers.

The invocation was made by Rev. R. A. Clements after which America was sung. Bro. Clements then talked upon the benefits to be derived from the public schools; the need of hearty co-operation of parent, teacher and pupil. He complimented the new teachers, having known most of them before they came here. He felt sure that all of them would do their duty and urged the patrons to show their interest by leveling up the yards, cleaning the weeds out, and make it as decent as our own back yards at least.

Miss Whipkey gave a beautiful piano solo. Mr. Porter was asked by Mr. Judd to make a few remarks and he delivered a helpful speech. He spoke of the interest felt by the trustees in the school and on their behalf he welcomed the new teachers, saying this was a day long looked forward to by the board, who had honestly done their best to make the school for this year better than that of preceding years. He took as his motto, "Help," and urged the pupils to help each other, the parents to help the pupils and the teacher and the teacher he felt sure would help the pupils. He spoke of the large enrollment, the auspicious financial condition, saying Nature and the Democratic party have given us such a good start that we could surely be carried safely through 1916.

Miss Smith, the teacher of Expression, gave a delightful negro dialect reading which was so much enjoyed that she was called back and gave a cute little child's reading. Dr. Phenix coming in just at this time was asked by Mr. Judd for a speech. He insisted that this was so sudden like, but consented and made a fine talk, the key-note of which was "Opportunity." He told the boys and girls that opportunity was not waiting for something to turn up but something they made themselves—vim. He spoke of Mr. Edison, the greatest scientist in the world, that none ever thinks of him as a millionaire but as a benefactor to mankind. Lack of funds does not deter a boy from making a success; it's more often unfortunate to be a poor rich boy. Learn the lesson of self-reliance, don't get the idea that you can't. A "Canter" is sure to be a failure.

The teachers were then invited to speak. Mr. Park said the men who had spoken had said what he would say if he were to make a speech. He asked for the co-operation of the parents in his work. Mrs. Judd expressed her disappointment about the playground at the Central Ward, saying play was an essential factor in the primary grades. The rest of the teachers were too modest to say anything, so the superintendent made his address. He said many helpful things. In behalf of the teachers he welcomed the parents, said the school is to you and your children the most important factor in your community. The school is a business in which everybody has a part, and it was expected that it would be conducted upon business principles. The one who is truly happy is the one who is busy, the most sublime lesson is the lesson of industry, the most heinous crime is lack of a business; the person who enjoys life is the person who has something to do. Said each child would be given something to do and expected to do it. It was his idea to train children to go out in the world fitted to make a living when through with school. The child who is master of five grades is better able to cope with the world than the one who has finished all without knowing any. The great indictment against the public schools is lack of thoroughness, but it was his purpose to remove this indictment from our school. He said that he and Mrs. Judd had been given a most cordial reception and felt sure their work here would be a success—they were going to make it a success. He invited the parents to visit the school and hoped there might be a parent-teachers organization. He next spoke to the children, urging them to do their work well, the pupil who is happy in his school is the one who does his work well. Don't go to sleep on life's wayside, told the story of Rip Van Winkle, who had gone to sleep and was out of joint with his environment. Don't go to sleep for twenty years, one year or a day. Every child should have a personal pride in the school, it is theirs. Don't judge one child by another, it does not matter how much we do but how well we do it. It takes a long time to get an education, don't get impatient. Woodrow Wilson spent forty years getting ready for the work he is now doing. The world wants men and women who can do things and do them well. At the conclusion of this talk Little Miss Inez Payne sang "Texas," and on being encored gave "The Little Ford, It Rambled Right Along," which was most amusing.

The teachers were invited to the stage and formed a reception line and all got to speak a personal word to them. The parents then returned to their homes and the real business of school began.

Aside from the regular teachers, it was announced that Prof. Dawes would teach music at his conservatory. Miss Whipkey would teach music at her home; Miss Dry would teach art; Miss Smith would give lessons in expression; Miss Mabel Smith would teach the under-ages at her home and Miss Jo Dry the under-ages at her home.

SMITH HAD VIEWS; HE PENNED THEM.

Editor, Fort Worth Record:

Colorado, Texas, Sept. 15.—I am herewith inclosing copy of a letter I have just mailed to the secretary of the treasury, presenting to him a question which I think is of much public interest at this time, and well merits public discussion.

If the "open market operations" of the Federal Reserve banks were enlarged to include "notes" as well as "bills of exchange" of the kinds and maturities eligible for rediscount with or without the indorsement of a member bank, there would be no trouble about placing 6 per cent money in the hands of those cotton producers who cannot get it from member banks. It could be done direct by the Federal Reserve banks themselves. Yours very truly, W. R. Smith, M. C.

Letter to McAdoo.

Colorado, Texas, Sept. 9, 1915.—Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.—My Dear Sir: According to press reports you have within the last few days deposited in the Federal Reserve banks of the districts embracing the cotton growing states, the sum of $15,000,000 government funds, to be loaned on cotton; and that if and when found necessary you will deposit in these reserve banks another installment of like amount for the same purpose. It is said to be the plan of yourself and the Federal Reserve board that these funds shall be loaned to the cotton producer through the regular channel, provided by the federal reserve act, viz: through the member banks which shall get them from the reserve banks by the rediscounting process. As I understand it, the Federal Reserve board has reduced the rate of rediscount for these operations to 3 per cent, and that in order to secure any of these funds from the Federal Reserve banks the secretary has imposed upon member banks the condition that they must loan the funds so secured to the cotton producer at a rate of interest not to exceed 6 per cent per annum.

I express no opinion as to the legal authority of the secretary to impose such conditions, but I am sure that the very unfavorable situation of the cotton farmer at this time, due to the loss of much of his market as the result of the European war, fully justifies the secretary in going to unusual lengths in supplying him with funds at an unusually low rate of interest in order to save him from direct, and the public from indirect losses. The damage and loss he is about to suffer is exceptional and I therefore think our government may well extend to him exceptional aid. Therefore, I want to commend you most heartily for your efforts in this direction.

But my fear is you are going to fall largely to accomplish what you intend. We may assume that you have the right to require banks utilizing any of these funds to loan them at a rate of interest not exceeding 6 per cent, yet all must admit that no bank can be required to take and loan this money at all unless it choose to do so, and this is wherein your plan is going to fail. I have made some inquiry and I find that where banks have been accustomed to loan money at a higher rate than 6 per cent they are not disposed to participate in your plan. They contend they cannot loan to one class of customers at a lower rate of interest than to another without permanent injury and loss of profit in their business. Therefore, they refuse to take any of your government funds, and the cotton producer who is dependent upon such banks must go without relief.

It is a pity that the federal reserve act does not confer upon the Federal Reserve bank authority to loan money direct to the farmers upon their cotton in such circumstances. Where member banks fail in their duty, why should not the Federal Reserve banks be permitted to step in and serve the public? I am sure it will not be contended that a Federal Reserve bank could do a safer business than the business of loaning money on notes secured by warehouse receipts on cotton safely stored and insured. If these banks were authorized to engage in such business they could and no doubt would reach out and extend relief to every cotton producer at a low rate of interest, who needed it and who could not get it from his local bank at a satisfactory rate.

This extra authority could be conferred upon the Federal Reserve bank by the insertion of the one word "notes," in section 14 of the federal reserve act, which defines the open market operations these banks are authorized to engage in.

In the last congress I introduced a bill proposing this amendment, and if it had been passed I believe it would have enabled you to fully meet the emergency which now confronts the cotton farmer and which can be met only partially by the authority you and the federal reserve board now have.

I shall introduce a similar bill in the next congress, and I am writing you at this time again calling your attention to it, in the hope that your experience in the present situation and your want of power to give full relief, will lead you to give it more careful consideration and that as a result I may have the support of the administration in my efforts to have the proposed amendment adopted.

Yours very truly,
William R. Smith, M. C.

SUIT ENTERED FOR LOSS OF TWO BUFFALOES.

Animals Supposed to Have Gored Each Other To Death While En Route.

J. B. Slaughter, Post City, Texas, ranchman, expects to receive $1,000 for his two buffaloes which died while being handled by the Ft. W. & D. and Orient railroads on July 7, 1915. Claims to this amount have been filed with Claim Agent A. T. Davis of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient of Texas, headquarters at San Angelo, it was learned Thursday, Mr. Slaughter wants $500 for each animal.

The buffaloes gored each other and it is presumed they died from these injuries. Three were shipped from the buffalo ranch of Col. Goodnight, on the Ft. Worth & Denver City Ry. in the Panhandle, to Mr. Slaughter at Post City. At Chillicothe the animals, all in one car, were transferred to the Orient, but instead of being switched to the Santa Fe at Sweetwater, as they should have been, they were brought on to San Angelo. Two animals were dead when the car arrived here.

The fight in which both met death is thought to have occurred on a siding in the yards at Chillicothe. The Orient had both heads mounted by a local taxidermist. They are still here.—San Angelo Standard.

WEEKLY ITINERARY OF COUNTY DEMONSTRATOR.

Monday visited D. L. Beeman. Mr. Beeman believes in deep breaking and intensive cultivation. He had one of the best crops in the county until June 16th, when the crop was destroyed by hail. He has a fine June corn and feed crop; cotton being late has been damaged by worms; has a fine bunch of hogs for meat and some to sell; is raising some fine mule colts and some good calves. Mrs. Beeman has 150 turkeys for market this fall.

Mr. B. F. Roney has a fine feed crop; cotton is late on account of being planted over after the hail and badly damaged by worms. Mr. Roney is one of our best farmers and believes in deep breaking and intensive cultivation.

Mr. Britton, on the Judge Bullock farm, has a fine feed crop; cotton late on account of being planted over after the hail and damaged by worms; has hogs for meat. Mrs. Britton has a fine bunch of chickens. It is wonderful to see the amount of feed and June corn that is being made in the Longfellow community; all having been planted after the hail of June 16th.

Tuesday visited R. C. Mogan, Colorado Rt. 1. Mr. Morgan's entire farm is being worked under demonstration methods; ground was all broke deep, soil mulch maintained throughout the season and the crop speaks for itself. Mr. Morgan has a good hog pasture, fenced, and one of the finest bunches of hogs in the county. The herd is headed by a fine Duroc-Jersey male. He is raising some fine mule colts, nice Jersey cows and Rhode Island Red chickens.

J. A. Short has a fine crop, a nice bunch of hogs, herd headed by a fine Poland China boar.

Mr. Baker and Mr. Carey, both on the Looney farm, have fine crops, hogs for meat. Mr. Baker expects to ship a car of hogs in the near future. Mr. Baker thinks that the best way to market feed is to feed it to hogs.

Wednesday visited Jeff D. Roberds. Mr. Roberds is following government methods and has one of the best feed crops in the Lorraine country. Cotton is late, having been planted over after being killed by hail. Mr. Roberds has hogs for meat and a nice bunch of Jersey milk cows. Visited truck farm of Rev. W. M. Bennett. This is a crop that was also destroyed by hail. It was planted over to June corn, peas, beans and turnips, all of which are as fine as I ever saw grow. Visited C. M. Thompson. Mr. Thompson is following government methods and has a fine crop of cotton. June corn and feed; has a fine herd of hogs, headed by one of the best registered Poland China boars in West Texas. He also has a fine orchard and vineyard and has enough canned fruit in his cellar to last him two or three years.

Visited the farm of H. Ohlenbuch, Lorraine, Thursday. Mr. Ohlenbuch is one of our best farmers, believes in early and deep preparation and intensive cultivation, and alternates his feed crop with cowpeas, peanuts and beans. On his demonstration plot last year with five acres of milo maize he gathered 2,500 pounds to the acre and gathered $100 worth of peas, beans and peanuts on the same five acres. Mr. Ohlenbuch raises his own meat and has some fine Jersey milk cows and one of the prettiest flocks of White Leghorn chickens that I have seen in the county.

W. M. Richards follows government methods, uses the wide row system. I always find this farm well worked. Visited the farm of J. M. Compton. The crop on the Compton farm is in fine condition. Farm well managed. K. C. McAdams on the S. A. Compton farm follows government methods. His crop is in fine condition, with plenty of hogs for meat.

Friday visited W. E. Williams, Lorraine. Mr. Williams is following government methods and his crop is fine as can be desired. W. D. McAdams is following government methods and has the best all round crops to be found in Mitchell county. He has hogs for meat and some to sell and is raising some fine mule colts and Jersey cattle. He and Mr. W. E. Williams have installed a large cane mill and have made about 1,000 gallons of syrup and will make about 1,000 or 1,500 gallons more. Visited the two Mr. Lee's on the Judge Looney farm. These crops are fine, having been well worked and well managed. Visited the home of J. R. Porter. Mr. Porter believes in diversification and early breaking and intensive cultivation. He has one of the finest pieces of corn planted in the alternate row system, and made a fine wheat and oat crop, has fine cotton and a nice piece of alfalfa, also has a bunch of hogs for meat and some to sell.

H. C. TOWNSEND DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Brother Will Recently Died—Resided In Texas For Many Years.

The countless friends of Harrie C. Townsend will be shocked to learn of his death, which occurred at 12:30 yesterday. He was the surviving member of the old Townsend Sporting Goods Co. and widely known and much beloved throughout the State. Coming so close upon the heels of the death of his older brother, the ever-mourned Will D. Townsend, which occurred just prior to the late holidays, the blow comes with redoubled force.

Harrie Townsend was 55 years of age, having been born in Wisconsin, December 12, 1860. He was the eldest son of Mrs. Charles H. Townsend, relict of the late Captain Charles H. Townsend, who had resided in Omaha for considerably over a quarter of a century, and was a popular man among all classes of people. Before coming to Omaha to take a partnership in the sporting goods house of W. D. Townsend, Harrie resided in Texas for a number of years.

He had been an invalid for something like fifteen years, but was in apparent fair health up to six weeks ago, when he caught a bad cold which developed into pneumonia and resulted in his passing away at noon yesterday.

The surviving members of the family are his mother, Mrs. Townsend; Addison, the youngest son, now a resident of New York, and a still younger sister, Mrs. Bessie H. Bothwell. Harrie also leaves a devoted wife, formerly Miss Carrie Hill, and two daughters by his first wife, Mrs. Homer Shearer and Mrs. Paul Havens, all residents of Omaha, and all of whom were at the bedside in his last illness.

Harrie Townsend was as popular in social circles as he was in those of business, was a member of the Masonic brotherhood, Nebraska Lodge No. 1, under whose auspices the funeral will be held at a date not yet determined. Mr. Townsend, while the late head of the Townsend firm, was a charter member of both the Field and Seymour lake clubs, as well as a director, and much of his time in the past few years has been devoted to these two organizations. Like his lamented father, Captain Townsend, and his brother, Will D., he was a man of many rare and intrinsic qualities, and much beloved by all who knew him.—Omaha Times-Herald.

Mr. Townsend at one time lived in Colorado, in the furniture business and having a local newspaper connection. His mother was sister to Mrs. Sherwin and Mrs. Riordan. He is remembered by many of our citizens as a genial associate and efficient business man.

After taking a dose of it I had not long to wait for relief as it benefited me almost immediately." Obtainable everywhere.

GERMANS ATTACK SERBIAN FRONTIER; WIN FIRST CLASH.

London, Sept. 20.—German troops have reached the Serbian frontier and were victorious in their first clash with the Serbs.

This was officially announced by Berlin today. The announcement is believed to presage the long expected Teuton drive through Serbia, having for its object the relief of the Turks.

Coincident with this news Bulgaria let it be known that all restrictions against the passage of goods through that country to Turkey have been removed. Berlin's interpretation of this statement is that Bulgaria has definitely decided to ally herself with Germany, Austria and Turkey.

ESTIMATES TEXAS CROP AT 3,000,000 BALES.

Austin, Sept. 20.—Texas' 1915 cotton crop will not exceed 3,000,000 bales, according to an announcement made today by Commissioner of Agriculture Fred W. Davis. This estimate, he said, was made after receiving many reports from the cotton producing counties of the state, and also after personal inspection.

BILLIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feelings caused by billiousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. The search will be kept up, however.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES A SLUGGISH LIVER.

Crashes into sour Bile, Making You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children they like it.

The flood in the Colorado river last week put the dam at Austin to as severe test as it will ever be likely to endure. The test put to rest all fears and criticisms for and of that great work.

If the Allies anticipate having Turkey for Thanksgiving, they must needs hurry up and kill the chary bird first.

Luckily for the farmers, quail can now be legally killed only during two months of the year—December and January.

A lady solicitor for the Texas Shirt Company dropped in last Monday morning and sought to sell us "a shirt," with bearing down on the "a."

The generous offer of Germany to pay 15c for delivered cotton has its counterpart in an anecdote frequently told by Private John Allen, of Mississippi, who seeing a kid driving a pair of goats and hauling a keg of water, accosted him with: "Say, sonny: I'll give you three dollars for that pair of goats if you'll deliver 'em at my home in Tupelo, Mississippi."

War is many kinds of hell to the wealthy people of Great Britain. There are thousands in mourning for sons who have died in the trenches in France or Belgium or the Dardanelles, and the largest incomes are taxed as high as 27 per cent, while from 12 to 15 per cent is by no means uncommon.

With cotton bringing a far better price than either the producer or juggler thought possible one year ago; with the seed as legal tender as $25 in gold per ton, say nothing of the reduced price of picking and ginning; it does look like we should ease up on our chronic bellyache long enough to thank the Good Lord for His unmerited blessings in giving us ungrateful and degenerate creatures peace and plenty at home.

There is already an active demand for farming land for next year's crop. There have been several applications at this office for information in this particular. This is a gentle hint to those farmers and real estate men who have land or farms to rent to get in the game and help the Record do business for Mitchell county.

When we read of the terrible carnage in Europe, we rejoice that we are alive on this side of the big pond, and in reading accounts of the running fights and ambushes along the Rio Grande, we are thankful that the wood, water and condition of servitude right here in old Mitchell county, so graciously agrees with our constitution.

The Record is but voicing the wishes of hundreds and probably thousands of the readers of the big city papers when it protests against sticking the name and date tag right in the face of the most readable matter in the papers. In this respect many religious papers are rank offenders.

HEADING WEST THIS YEAR.

Westward the course of the Drifter drags its weary way. No better nor more reliable index to the conditions obtaining in West Texas can be found than the heading of the caravans of the chronic drifters.

With no fixed habitation, they take roots in no section, but like the migratory birds come and go with the lean and fat years. The fertility of the soil, the attractiveness as a home, the advantages of educational and religious institutions, the hospitality of the people—none of these things have the power to fix them in a permanent abode and become an integral part of the forces that subdue and develop a country.

The sweet potato crop of Mitchell county this year of grace has been something great, and during the coming fall and winter months will give old man H. C. Living a staggering blow; and what little fight and wind the potato crop may leave in him will be wholly knocked out by the canned fruit and corn meal produced at home.

MITCHELL COUNTY IN SAME BOAT

We said last week that the Nolan county court house made a bad impression on visitors. The same week the editor of the Snyder Signal who had been visiting the water carnival poked fun at our court house and suggested that we build a new one.

What the Times says of the Nolan county court house; what the Sweet-water Reporter so heartily endorses and the Snyder editor made a joke of, is the one sorest spot on the physical body of Mitchell county. Think of it! Since the organization of the county in 1880, one splendid court house was built and torn down; the present architectural spasm erected and allowed to literally rot into pieces, while the county jail built in 1881, and which with anything like decent care had endured till the crack of doom, has been torn down and re-erected with the very same material.

To say that such condition of our county affairs is useless extravagance is simply complimenting it. It is chargeable to either inefficiency or willful neglect. The measure of any community's civic pride is the condition of its public buildings. And what must be the impression on visitors of the civic pride of our county, when their eyes are offended by the sight of our present court house?

DIVIDENDS ON KINDNESS.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Miss Florence Moberly, a trained nurse, faithfully attended the Rev. Dr. Batterson, and later was equally kind in nursing Mrs. Batterson. Now comes the reward of $60,000, which is left to her by the will of the clergyman's wife.

A modest railroad brakeman aided an elderly lady from a train, and she was so pleased by the kindness that she told her son about him. The son happened to be H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, and the young railroad was lifted from one place to another until he became an important man in the business world.

There are a few men right here in Colorado who could earn one dollar if they were to employ half the time and energy they expend in trying to borrow a "quarter till tomorrow."

WHERE IS DANIEL?

There seems to be a municipal fly in the passenger station park ornament. Representation has been made to the railroad authorities that in the event they would donate the land and lay out the site of the park and furnish the piping and fountains, the city government would gladly donate the water.

Great quantities of grain are being shipped to the mines through Galveston. Much of this grain is raised in Texas.

JUNBO DISTRICT CANDIDATES.

The Abilene Reporter in quoting a part of a speech Hon. J. M. Wagstaff made at San Angelo last week, gave the following: "Mr. Wagstaff said of the 270 members that it had been stated that 260 were candidates for Congress and that the other ten were seeking jobs."

From Judge Wagstaff's talk we draw upon our imagination, and calmly await results. Judge Wagstaff says that of 260 out of 270 members the reports goes that 260 are candidates for Congress while the other ten are seeking jobs. Surely Judge Wagstaff is not seeking a job so we will place him in the 260 class and stretch our imaginations some more.

True, the rebuilding of the county jail attests a belated recognition of the long neglected need of the county in the safe keeping of its prisoners; the partial rehabilitation of the park and replacing the dead trees, evince the stirring of the ghost of our vanished pride; which marks of recrudescence give us hope that before the present disintegrating pile collapses and incidentally causes the passing of a few of the county's best men, ways and the means may be provided for the erection of a court house reflecting the dignity, agricultural assets and prosperity of Mitchell county.

These voices coming out of the home county of both Hon. John Wagstaff and Judge T. L. Blanton, are assumed to carry some tincture of speaking by the card. The Mail "popularly supposes" that Hon. W. R. Smith will again be a candidate to succeed himself, while it takes the candidacy of Judge Blanton to be "likely." Jes-so.

Some men are good only when an indictment is hanging over them. This applies in the present instance to the spectacle of John Rockefeller, Jr., donning overalls and doing a vaudeville mining stunt down in one of his Colorado coal mines, where only a few months ago his hired assassins shot down men, women and even children, kith and kin of the same miners whom this week he addressed as "bothers and partners."

Bob Henry says that O. B. Colquitt does not agree with President Wilson on scarcely anything and does not believe that the ex-governor is in accord with the Democratic party.—Ex. If our memory serves us, this same Bob Henry pulled off a spectacular and four-flushing insubordination stunt at the beginning of President Wilson's term of office, but found himself so woefully unpopular that he fairly fell over himself in taking it back.

Commissioner Johnson says the Chalk Creek mudhole isn't a "patch-in" compared with the one on the Colorado road near Iolanthe. He says he has been trying to get it fixed for some time, but has failed so far. Capt. Johnson says that as soon as Lowe Slaton finishes a barn at the HS ranch that he and Geo. McEntire are to haul material for the Chalk Creek mud hole, and that as soon as this is done, the concrete work will begin.—Sterling City Record.

In Iceland

MOST of us are inclined to associate Iceland with the Eskimo and the reindeer. That is what makes the news of a shipment of Texaco Oils to Reikjavik, Iceland, interesting.

This shipment included a quantity of Texaco Motor Oil, showing how far the automobile has gone to the very rim of civilization, and giving some idea of the extent of Texaco Service.

We are told that Icelanders are careful buyers. They have to be, for it is a long time between boats, and should any mechanical trouble arise, they would have a serious wait for parts or repairs.

That is why they buy Texaco Motor Oil and other lubricants to keep their engines in top-notch condition, and as free from wear as possible.

These same qualities will aid in the efficient operation of your automobile, tractor, ice machine, separator, or any other kind of machine.

A PRETTY GOOD WORLD.

This world's a pretty good sort of world,
Taking it altogether.
In spite of the grief and sorrow we meet,
In spite of the gloomy weather,
There are friends to love and hopes to cheer,
And plenty of compensation
For every ache for those who make
The best of the situation.

There are quiet nooks for lovers of books,
With nature in happy union;
There are cool retreats from the noon-tide heats,
Where souls may have sweet communion;
And if there's a spot where the sun shines not
There's always a lamp to light it,
And if there's a wrong we know ere long
That heaven above will right it.

So it's not for us to make a fuss
Because of life's sad mischances,
Nor to wear ourselves out to bring about
A change in our circumstances,
For this world's a pretty good sort of world
And he to whom we are debtor
Appoints the place and supplies the grace
To help to make us better.

Mrs. A. L. Whipkey, the efficient and ever dependable local and social reporter of the Record staff, left last Friday for a visit with her niece in Dallas. In the absence of Mrs. Whipkey the duties of her position will fall into the experienced and capable hands of Mrs. G. Merritt, who served the Record for several years in this capacity. All courtesies shown Mrs. Merritt in connection with the Record will be duly appreciated by editor and management.

HOME WEDDING.

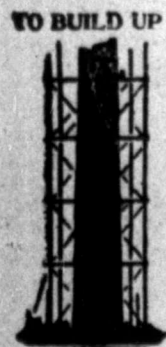

On Wednesday morning, September 15th, at 7:45 o'clock, Miss Ollie Pritchett and Mr. L. S. Girvin were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pritchett, Rev. R. A. Clements officiating. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The house had been beautifully decorated for the occasion by loving friends. The large columns between the front hall and parlor were twined with green and white and banked with ferns. In the dining room a large pink and white wedding bell was suspended over the center of the table with streamers of tulle reaching to the four corners and held in place by bunches of white flowers, while all over the house ferns and golden rods were seen.

At the appointed time as Miss Lela Whipkey played Mendelssohn's wedding march Little Ben Lee Costen, cousin of the bride, dressed in white and bearing the ring in a white rose, marched in followed by the bride and groom who took their stand between the beautifully decorated columns and were met by the pastor who pronounced them man and wife.

After the ceremony refreshments were served to the guests by Misses Ethel, Pauline and Cleo Pritchett, sisters of the bride, and Messrs. Richard Pearson and Robert Brennan.

The bride was dressed in a blue coat suit with accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of Bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ollie was reared in Colorado. She graduated in the public school here three years ago and has been a successful teacher since. It was while teaching at Girvin last year that she was won by this young man, and thus another of Colorado's jewels will

SUNBEAM BIRTH-DAY CELEBRATION

One year ago Mrs. R. B. Terrell organized among the tiny tots of the Baptist church a Sunbeam Band which has spent a happy, successful year carrying light and happiness to others. Sunday evening they celebrated their birthday with a most interesting program in the church.

This was opened by singing Bible day hymns. Then the leader, Mrs. Terrell, said: "We meet tonight, dear friends, to celebrate the first anniversary of this Sunbeam Band. The Great Master and Teacher when on earth made a plea for the children when he said, 'Feed My Lambs.' Children should be gotten hold of and trained early for Christ. They are the ones to take our places in after years. Fifty years ago these children's bands were known as Little Reapers and Busy Bees. It was in the year 1882 that the name of Sunbeams was given and Sunbeams they really are. The bright faces that meet one each week and the eagerness with which they watch and listen while one talks to them, truly they are Sunbeams sent from God to man. Seed sown in childhood will bring forth fruit for eternity."

"An angel paused in his onward flight,
With a seed of love and truth and right,
And said, 'Oh, where can the seed be sown?
That will bear most fruit when fully grown?
To whom must the seed be given,
That will yield most fruit for earth and Heaven?'
The Savior heard and said as he smiled:
'Place it at once in the heart of a child.'
The angel whispered this blessed truth
To a weary teacher of precious youth.
Her face grew bright with a heavenly light
As she led their feet in the paths of right."

Mr. Keathley led the prayer and a scripture lesson from Heb. 13:1-8 was read. Elizabeth Terrell made the speech of welcome which was just as cute as could be. The older Sunbeams sang. Then five of the band gave a splendid recitation. Miss Elsie Hooper sang her very sweetest; Richard Pearson gave a recitation; Mr. Bullock made a short talk which was followed by a recitation by Sterling Keathley. The smallest Sunbeams had a song; Charley Pierce a recitation. The offering was taken for the Orphan's Home and $5 received. Mary Terrell gave a recitation, "Little Sunbeams" was sung and the congregation dismissed with prayer by Bro. Robinson.

RETURNS FROM NEW YORK.

From a Decatur paper we take the following highly complimentary notice of a former Colorado young lady, who is now teaching music in the public schools of that city:

"Miss Risinger finished an advance course in musical instruction under one of the most noted musicians in the United States. Before going to New York Miss Risinger was recognized as one of the most proficient piano instructors in this section of the State, but her ambition to thoroughly master the art, prompted her to take further training under the country's best; so she went east and devoted the past three months to work in the studio of Karl V. Lackmund, recognized head of the profession in the United States. Being far advanced, Miss Risinger experienced little difficulty in finishing the prescribed course, and now returns to her work in the music department of the Decatur High School equipped to instruct her pupils in the most modern method."

After a summer vacation the Card Club resumed its meetings last week. The first session was with Mrs. Stone-rod. The meeting this week was with Miss Bernice Terrell. The prize was won by Mrs. Floyd Beall. Miss Earnest is hostess Tuesday.

To Drive Out Malaria And Build Up The System Take The Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out malaria, the Iron builds up the system. 50 cents

The fresh joyousness of seventeen and twenty was never better reproduced than in the hands of Lois Meredith and Owen Moore in the idyllic love story, "Help Wanted," the next release of the Marocco Photoplay Company on the Paramount Program. Opera House Sept. 28.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST SERVICE.

Rev. T. C. Hart will preach at the East Colorado Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning. The public generally is cordially invited to attend this service.

The engagement of Oscar Graham and his company which is to be at the Opera House Wednesday, September 29th, is one which is always anticipated with pleasure, for no company that comes here is more generally liked and appreciated than these talented artists. This company remains practically the same in personnel year after year and coming here each year as they do, they have made many friends who anticipate their arrival with much pleasure. Each year they strive to do even better work than the preceding year; that is why Mr. Graham's productions have always been so thoroughly satisfying. Indeed, it is a pleasure to be able to attend a performance and know beforehand that one is going to, so to speak, renew old and tried acquaintanceship, to know that across the footlights are people who are thoroughly in earnest in their endeavors to please, and whom we are glad to have with us. "A Soldier of Japan" is the play Oscar Graham is presenting this year. It is safe to say that it will be thoroughly worth while.

Her death occurred during Saturday morning. She was occupying a sleeper and as her little son went to her to call her, he found her dead. SYNOPSIS.

Professor Stilliter, psychologist, and Gordon Barclay, millionaire, plan to preach to the world the gospel of efficiency through a young and beautiful woman who shall believe that she is a heaven-sent messenger. They kidnap the orphaned little Amesbury girl, playmate of Tommy Steele, and conceal her in a cavern, in care of a woman, to be molded to their plan as she grows up. Fifteen years elapse, Tommy is adopted by Barclay, but loses his heirship and on a hunting trip discovers Celestia. Stilliter takes Celestia to New York. Tommy follows, and goes away from both of them, and her real work begins. At Barclay's invitation she meets a dozen of the business barons who are converted to her new gospel. She attends a ball and makes an impression on the society world. Tommy joins the labor ranks. Tommy plays Joseph to the wife of a modern Potiphar and is rescued from a lynching party by Celestia, who under Stilliter's influence, refuses to speak to him. She prevents a massacre of strikers.

ELEVENTH INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER XVIII.

That so many of the strikers had had the narrow kind of an escape from being blown to pieces by dynamite did not make their feelings for Kehr and his men any friendlier, but one thing was certain, if harm came to the girl who had risked her life to warn them of their danger it would have to come to her over their dead bodies.

Wherever she went among the strikers she was welcomed with a kind of gallant adoration. Something about her seemed, when she entered a room, to pull the rudest and the most ignorant men to their feet. Everywhere she went she preached her gospel, softened hearts and made men and women hopeful of better things. And presently only those who were naturally bloodthirsty and who loved violence for its own sake talked openly of attacking the stockade. It seemed to Celestia that the strikers' demands were not unjust, and she determined to end the strike by persuading Kehr and the men he represented to meet their demands.

Elections were coming on, and the best way to secure the labor vote was to see that labor's envelope was better filled than ever before. With a new form of government in control of the nation's most disinterested and able men there would be such a saving of national waste that doubling the pay of every laborer in the country would be but a drop in the bucket.

Tommy could not see any possible good in Celestia's form of millennium. He felt that, innocently, of course, and with the best intentions, she was trying to betray labor into the hands of capital, and he fought her doctrine tooth and nail. But what she seemed to offer was so glittering and alluring to the poor and needy that Tommy's opposing arguments found few listeners in Bitumen.

Celestia preached that government of the people by the people and for the people had been proved a gigantic failure, for two excellent reasons (1), it isn't by the people, and (2) it isn't for the people. The fathers who set down some very noble aspirations in black and white were instantly succeeded by politicians, who twisted their aspirations to their own ends. We are today a government of the people by the politicians and for the politicians. Patriotism, if it isn't dead, has gone to sleep. There are patriotic Virginians, patriotic Vermonters, too, but there are very few patriotic Americans.

No business run as this United States is run could possibly be a success. No employee of such a business could be blamed for failing in respect for his employers or in loyalty to them. So, do we want our country to be respectable and a success or don't we? Let it be run with the same American efficiency with which the Standard Oil company has been run, and nobody will be poor and no part of any city will be dirty and full of disease.

If there were no waste there would be plenty of money for everybody, or at least of the things money can buy. Celestia was insistent on this, and personally I am hanged if I don't think she was right. We waste everything—raw material, finished product, health and brains.

In the face of Kehr's stubbornness it was not easy to make progress toward a settlement of the strike, and at last Celestia telegraphed to Gordon Barclay and asked for definite power to speak for the coal companies and treat with the labor leaders.

His answer was a flying trip to Bitumen.

He was very sharp with Kehr, humbled him and browbeat him, caused Gundorf and the other leaders to be released, and then, after a long, secret conference with Professor Stilliter, he gave Celestia the power she asked for.

Before returning to New York he sent for Gundorf et al, made a personal peace with them, and obtained their political allegiance.

"Celestia," he told them, "is right. The troubles between labor and capital are only the symptom of the great national wastage that has gone on since the beginning of things. We must give up electing men to high office as promises of efficiency, and elect only men with records of efficiency. We must be a nation, and no longer a collection of states pulling the government every which way for local interests. We must see to it that the country is run like a trust bank or a great industry."

And he showed them how he believed that Celestia's system in question would wipe discontent from the face of the country.

"Celestia," he said, "has been empowered to settle this strike. In her judgment you are entitled to what you have asked for, and you will get it. But labor will find no permanent content under present conditions. I look to your individual and collective support for the new constitution. I believe that as a platform it will sweep the country in November, for its advantages to both labor and capital are so obvious that these two will be on the same side for once and henceforth, and when they are on the same side there is no resisting them."

CHAPTER XIX.

Only Tommy and Mrs. Gundorf held out against Celestia's influence. Tommy had never been affected by her hypnotic sway, and Mrs. Gundorf had devised a trick to thwart it. Having learned that there was something in Celestia's eye, some power which she could neither fathom nor resist, Mrs. Gundorf maintained her own independence in thought and action by the simple expedient of never meeting Celestia's eye.

Mrs. Gundorf was violently opposed to Celestia's theories. This opposition was not arrived at by elaborate mental process. The two women loved the same man. And the man very obviously loved Celestia (for when he wasn't with her he was trying his best to be with her). This was enough to place Mrs. Gundorf on any side of any question if only it was the opposite to Celestia's. Twice, when Celestia was addressing meetings of strikers (in interest of peace and progress), Mrs. Gundorf succeeded in creating such violent disturbance that she had to be removed forcibly from the room.

The strikers' favorite place for meeting was a large, shabby dance hall, in the meanest and most squalid section of Bitumen. Having been ejected from this hall, Mrs. Gundorf stood upon the outer steps, a picture of impotent and jealous rage.

A young woman, who, from her plain, neat costume rather suggested that she might be a lady's maid, and whose features were not distinctly visible owing to a thick veil, turned from perusing a bill poster which announced to the passerby the purpose of the meeting, at that moment in progress, to look at Mrs. Gundorf.

Mrs. Gundorf in turn eyed the stranger, and her rage gave place gradually to curiosity. Neatly and smartly dressed young women were very rare in Bitumen.

"Is the meeting over?" asked the stranger presently.

Mrs. Gundorf shook her head.

"Nor likely to be as long as there's a fool left to listen. When she gets through speaking they yell for her until she has to speak again. Ever her her?"

Mrs. Gundorf shrugged her vigorous shoulders with contempt.

"I never have," said the stranger.

"I think I don't want to."

"Then what brings you to Bitumen? People are pouring in from all around to hear what she says. There don't seem to be any reason for coming to Bitumen."

"But she doesn't seem to have impressed you favorably?"

"Me! Hush! I didn't say she hasn't got good looks of a kind, but what a man can see in a namby-pamby, goody goody like her gets me. Well, I'm going to move on. So long!"

The stranger hesitated, then simply followed and overtook Mrs. Gundorf.

"Do you mind if I walk with you? I—I was going your way."

"How do you know which way I was going?"

"I mean the way you are starting to do." The stranger laughed frankly. "And that's not the whole truth. I came to Bitumen to find out certain things. I'm a sort of reporter and new at the business. The boss told me there was a big story here and for me to go and get it. He only gave me a few hints to go on, and—"

"You want to ask me some questions? Is that it? Well, fire ahead."

"Of course," said the stranger, "anything to do with Mr. Gordon Barclay is a headline for the newspapers, especially now that he has taken up with the girl from heaven, and is advocating her policies. You must know all about everything that goes on. You see, it means such a lot to me, getting this story. Can't you help me out?"

"Are you a friend of Tommy Barclay?"

"After hesitation, the stranger said: 'Yes.'"

"So am I," said Mrs. Gundorf, "and that being so, I guess we've got a talk coming to us. Let's go in here."

A moment later Mrs. Gundorf and the stranger faced each other across a dirty table in a dirty windowed room that smelled of drink, and a bartender with an evil face had served them with a horrible mixture of whisky and water. Mrs. Gundorf gulped down a large mouthful with apparent relish, but for the stranger one small sip seemed to be enough.

"We can talk straighter," said Mrs. Gundorf, "if you'll lift that veil."

The stranger hesitated, then obediently turned up the veil.

"I guess," said Mrs. Gundorf, after a moment of admiring scrutiny, "we'll unswallow the story about your being a reporter. You're a friend of Tommy Barclay and you belong in the same walks of life that he does."

Mary nodded.

"Well, I'm Mrs. Gundorf. I'm the woman that tried to put him in Dutch."

Miss Elackstone's eyes blazed with sudden interest.

"But you—you don't hate him any more?"

"Me. I hate him just the same as you do. Neither more nor less. But I'll tell you we do hate, if you don't know. We don't hate each other because he's passed us both up. We're in the same boat. We hate her."

"We have good cause to."

Mrs. Gundorf's shapely hand shot across the table, and Mary Blackstone clasped it for a moment in hers.

"I've told you my name," said Mrs. Gundorf.

"I am Mary Blackstone."

"Gee!" exclaimed Mrs. Gundorf, "but I thought she'd be dressed different. How do I know you're not stringing me again?"

"These are my maid's clothes," said Mary. "I didn't want to be recognized."

Mrs. Gundorf still looked a little doubtful. And Mary, smiling a little, touched the neck of her dress and disclosed a string of pearls, each pearl perfect and not much smaller than a cherry.

"I believe you," said Mrs. Gundorf. "But cover that thing up. You don't want anybody in Bitumen to know you've got that."

"If I lost it," said Mary, "and the right person found it, I wouldn't care." She spoke in a cold, defiant sort of way, and then fastened her dress once more over the necklace.

"You think," said Mrs. Gundorf, "that if it wasn't for her—you'd stand a chance?"

"Don't you feel a little that way, too, Mrs. Gundorf. You are wonderfully good looking, you know; and Mr. Barclay seems to have cast in his lot with labor. It looks as if you'd stand the better chance of us two, doesn't it?"

Mrs. Gundorf shrugged her shoulders.

"We couldn't stand any less chance that we do now. And the oftener he sees her, the less that chance gets."

"If she really comes from heaven—"

"The quicker she goes back the better."

Mary laughed a cold little laugh.

"I'd not be the one to hold her back by the skirts."

"Nor I."

"But," said Mrs. Gundorf, "if she went to heaven, and anyone in this town had a hand in sending her, and got found out"—she shuddered—"that person would be torn to ribbons."

"Where does she live?"

"They've fixed tents for her and her party just outside the town. They call it 'Headquarters of Celestia—the Girl From Heaven.'"

"Who is her party?"

"There's Professor Stilliter—I guess she goes to him when she's in a fix for what to say next. There's a kind of half-witted fellow, named Douglas. She keeps a couple of secretaries going day and night. There's a cook and servants, lots of people. Wouldn't be easy to come at her."

"Have you any idea," asked Miss Blackstone, "how much these pearls I showed you are worth? No idea? A woman could live on the income. She could wear pretty clothes and have a servant. If she had a husband she didn't like, she could afford to divorce him. Do you know what I'd do if anyone should come to me and tell me that a certain person was never going to get in anybody's way again? I'd give those pearls to that person gladly, or I'd lose them where that person could find them."

"What's the use of wishes when your heart's sore?"

"No use at all," admitted Miss

Kehr Had Assented to the Settlement of the Strike.

Blackstone, "and still I'd rather be rich and heart-broken than poor and heart-broken, wouldn't you?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Gundorf, thoughtfully, "I would."

Miss Blackstone rose, her hand at her throat where the pearls lay.

"I hope," she said, "that I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again—soon. What do you think?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Gundorf, "I shouldn't wonder."

And she, too, rose from the table, with a look in her eyes at once troubled and resolved.

CHAPTER XX.

And now the town of Bitumen became, as one paper put it, the center of a new world.

Kehr had assented grimly to the settlement of the strike on Celestia's terms. He had come out for Celestia's policies. And because of his very grimmness and stubbornness his late enemies began to see that he would be a tower of strength to any cause which he should espouse. In that town, where a week ago his life would not have been worth a moment's purchase, he was already being talked of as the next United States senator from Pennsylvania.

Special correspondents had begun to flock into Bitumen. Many who came to jeer stayed in a state of great wonderment, and began presently to number themselves among the faithful.

Stop for a moment and try to realize the power for good or evil, the collective power, of the newspapers of America. If they are not the whole voice of the people, they are alone that part of it which can make itself heard. If we have any wisdom as a nation, we owe it to the newspapers. Likewise we owe it to them that we are not always wise or on the side of righteousness.

Celestia then began to develop strength in the newspapers. She was to develop so much before her course was run as is hardly believable. Already the idea of changing our government was no longer a news headline, but a definite and by no means uncomfortable thought in the minds of men. Some newspapers detested the thought because it was new; others welcomed and embraced it because it was new. Still others, and in the end these became her most powerful supporters, took some such attitude as this:

"You may argue for the new gospel; you may argue against it. You may call it treason; you may call it progress; but when all is said and done, certain facts will shine out clear as crystal.

"As a people we ought to be happy; we are not. Millions who ought to be clean and healthy are dirty and sick. There is enough money for everybody. A very small portion of this is in the hands of the efficient few; the rest is nowhere, being lost, wasted, thrown overboard.

"In those whom we elect to high office two qualities only seem necessary—inefficiency and selfishness.

"What are we going to do about it?"

CHAPTER XXI.

A certain scientific gentleman (of fiction), having constructed a very large monster, in the image of man, brought it to life—and it got away from him and raised all kinds of Cain. Celestia was no Frankenstein; but Professor Stilliter no longer found in her the apt and docile pupil of earlier days. He found it harder and harder to control her. More and more she thought for herself. If Stilliter could have been entirely eliminated from her life, her life at least for a time must have gone on very much as it was going on. She believed firmly in what she preached. She believed that she came from heaven, and that she had come to make the world better, safer to live in, cleaner and happier.

Tommy argued with her so incessantly and often so intolerantly that if she hadn't been in love with the mere sound of his voice she couldn't have stood it.

One afternoon she came home to her little city of tents, very tired, and lay down in a hammock under a shady tree to rest. In spite of her celestial origin, Celestia was very human, and just as attractive to a sticky house fly as any other human being. Such a house fly made a dead set for her, and she found it impossible to rest. She went into the headquarters tent, which was the biggest and coolest, and the day's work being over and the secretaries gone, tried to rest there. And couldn't. She was tired and discouraged. She was tired because she had been doing too much, and she was discouraged because she was tired. Tommy had an uncanny faculty for dropping in upon her when she was in those moods. Possibly Freddie, the Ferret, had something to do with this faculty, for he worshipped Tommy. Be that as it may, Freddie was about the tents when Celestia came in, tired. He vanished presently, and a little later Tommy appeared, looking very brown and manly and refreshing.

Celestia heard his voice and called out to him, a little petulantly perhaps. Tommy poked his head in through the door of the big tent and greeted her loudly and joyously. The moment she saw him she felt a little rested.

Meanwhile Professor Stilliter, in his tent, reading a deep and thick book on "The Psychology of Government," heard the two voices—and couldn't read another word.

"Celestia," said Tommy, "you look so little and helpless and unprotected, curled among those curtains, that I'm tempted to pick you up, put you in my pocket and take you somewhere where you can't get into any more mischief."

"I dare you to try!" exclaimed Celestia.

Then they both laughed and Tommy advanced into the tent.

So much articulate speech Professor Stilliter overheard, but no more. After that there came to him only the murmurs of one voice or the other, sounds which to a jealous man were more provocative of impotent rage than actual words would have been.

He stared at the book in which he was no longer able to read a word and "ate his heart out," as the saying is.

"One of these days," he thought, "she'll say 'yes' to that meddling fool and leave all my fine schemes high and dry. If I really thought that, and sometimes I really do think it, I'd—"

Now the professor took off his eyeglasses and thought very hard indeed and looked very horrid and blind and evil. Every now and then he murmured to himself: "My God, why not?"

"So you dare me to try, do you?" said Tommy.

Her eyes sparkled now; she was feeling very much rested.

"Yes, I do."

Quick as any cat the young man leaped over and picked her up from the midst of the curtains as easily as if she had been a kitten, and so held her almost at the level of his chin. And now Celestia felt completely rested. It was as if she had received refreshing strength from Tommy's strong arms.

"Oh," he said, "if a deluded nation could behold you now!"

"Put me down," she exclaimed, "somebody might see us."

"Of course they might," comforted Tommy. "The tent flaps are wide open. But I don't care if I never put you down."

"Tommy!" she exclaimed.

"I should worry!" said Tommy, but when she began to struggle he put her down.

"And what did you mean," she asked, her great eyes flashing, but not with anger, and her cheeks flaming, "by a deluded nation?"

"You don't look as if you could," said he, "but you've deluded several million people out of a hundred million, and it looks as if you were going to delude the rest. But you'll be sorry enough for yourself when they find out they've been deluded! Celestia, I've the most love for you that anybody in the world has for anybody. Isn't that enough? You love me, don't you?"

"Yes, I do."

"You ought to trust the man you love. You ought to trust his judgment."

"I do about love. But—"

"Oh, I know the rest that is coming. You think you see clear, but you don't. You're blind as a bat. But some day you'll see—you'll see when your own chance of happiness is gone forever and your theories have brought more evil on mankind than it endures now."

"Tommy," said Celestia with a shudder and great seriousness, "how can you love me and think me evil?"

"You evil! You precious lamb!"

She waved aside the arms that had gone impulsively out to her.

"If in your judgment I am going to bring more misery into the world than I am evil in your judgment. How can you reconcile that with loving me?"

"Celestia," said Tommy, "if you select such a man as my father (much as I love him) president, give the power of making the laws to such men as Kehr, whom you are talking of for senator—why, he's placarded all over town—why, you'll have an efficient government, I don't deny that, but mark me, it will be an efficiency that will begin at home! Those who are rich now will be richer, and there will be more of them; those who are poor now will be poorer and more wretched."

"You assert and assert and assert, but you don't reason."

"I don't reason! Well, I like that."

"Give me just reason then for thinking that too much efficiency is a dangerous thing."

"That's a challenge," said Tommy. "I accept it, and here's one good reason. The first thing a government that was too efficient would do would be to muzzle the press, so that nobody could complain of its efficiency. When you muzzle the press you extinguish liberty. And I tell you that a man rarer would be poor, filthy and free than a rich slave. There's only one real difference between an aristocracy and a republic. The newspapers of a republic print the news and the newspapers of an aristocracy don't."

"According to you I'm not fit to live."

"Oh, Celestia."

"If you even own that I was going to ruin the world and that my death would leave the world as it is, would you wish me dead?"

"What an awful thought, Celestia!"

"Would you?"

"I would wish you somewhere where you could do no harm. I would keep you always in my arms and never let you go."

"Tommy, dear, you're so tiresome sometimes."

It was almost dark when Tommy tore himself away and went back to the town. Celestia would have liked to have sat on and on in the darkness, thinking long thoughts. But her reverie was interrupted by a voice, which its owner, without great effect, was evidently striving to make agreeable.

"Are you ready to talk a little business now? May I come in?"

"Yes, come in."

There was a reluctance and petulance in Celestia's voice which did not help to assuage the jealous frenzy which possessed Professor Stilliter.

"Celestia," he said, "look at me and listen to me."

She looked and listened.

"This folly of yours, this weakness, is going to imperil the cause—"

The words meant nothing to her. He was trembling with a passion growing more and more careless of consequences, he was exerting all the powers of his will to subdue hers.

She Looked and Listened.

Presently her eyes faltered and half closed; her head dropped. An equally extraordinary change came into Stilliter's voice. It became at once greatly softer, caressing and triumphant.

"Come to me. Come close."

It was now very dark in the tent.

"Kiss me! Kiss me!"

At that moment from far off there sounded the whistle of a departing train. On one of the platforms stood a young woman, thickly veiled, who might have been mistaken for a lady's maid. She was waving one hand to a friend, who waved back, with the other she appeared to be somewhat significantly tapping the neck of her dress.

The friend on the platform looked surprisingly like Mrs. Gundorf.

ENGLISH TOLD TO LEAVE MEXICO.

Britain and France Warn Subjects to Quit Country—Fear Foreigners Will Be Harmed.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Great Britain and France have followed the lead of the United States and have taken steps to get their subjects and consuls out of the northern part of Mexico.

The gravity of the situation is admitted. Fear is entertained that American, British and French citizens will come to harm and that their vast property holdings will be despoiled in the disturbances which are expected to attend the fighting between Villa and Carranza forces.

The French ambassador, M. Jusserand and Colville Barclay, the counselor of the British embassy, called at the State Department today to discuss the outlook. Afterwards it was learned that Great Britain has instructed her consuls and trade agents to advise with American officials in Mexico and to use their discretion about warning British subjects to leave and about the advisability of taking their own departure. France has taken similar action.

It was estimated by officials of the State Department today that about a thousand American citizens are affected by the order to leave the country. It was also suggested that if these citizens should obey the orders of the State Department, property worth at least $250,000,000 would be left at the mercy of bandits and brigands.

Citizens Make Inventory.

The State Department furnishes no plan by which this property may be protected. All that can be done, officials say is that citizens may make an inventory of their property and file it with the American consuls and vice consuls. These inventories will be valuable only in case an agreement should be forced on Mexico in the final

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutriment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol.

settlement to pay claims for damages. During the Taft administration consuls were instructed to get such inventories of properties and file them at the consulates. It is regarded likely that the American consuls will get the latest information on the subject.

An official of the department said today that great destruction of property is to be expected. He said that the advance of Oregon's army would be through a territory about seventy-five miles wide, that the Villistas would probably retreat and that on either side of the regular lines of advance guerrilla warfare would proceed for a month.

There was no way, he said, of protecting American citizens and their property rights except by the withdrawal of the consuls and making memoranda for future claims for damages. The department expects an exodus from all the towns except Monterey. Villa is now at Torreon and civil war is to begin in earnest in Northern Mexico.

AN APPRECIATION FROM HIS HOME

We take the following appreciation (?) of governor-elect Theo. G. Bilbo from a paper published in his own state. It may be inferred, however, that the paper from which this notice is excerpted, did not tear its best Sunday shirt in furthering his race.

Although he is a party nominee for the highest office within the gift of the people of Mississippi, our opinion of Theodore G. Bilbo remains unchanged.

He is still a self-accused bribe-taker, a self-accused grafter, a foul-tongued slanderer, an unmitigated liar, and a contemptible crook.

The robe of office cannot hide the bar sinister across his forehead.

It is an unhappy day for Mississippi, and there are many unhappy days ahead for our beloved commonwealth. A majority of the voters, fooled, deluded, blinded, lost to all reason, have said by their votes that they would rather wallow in filth than walk on clean ground.

So be it! It is a nasty, nauseous dose, and we cannot swallow it without gagging, but there's some consolation in the knowledge that it will not make us any sicker than it does those who are responsible for placing this unspeakable person in office.

Only two things remain to be done in recognition of the new era we are entering. The blow has fallen, the die has been cast. At the very moment when Theo. G. Bilbo takes the oath of office as Governor of Mississippi we should substitute a carrion crow for the proud bird of liberty on the Great seal of the commonwealth, and remove the great golden eagle from the dome of our capitol and place a puking buzzard in its stead.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

John Dorn, who lives by himself in the north part of town, was the victim of an assault that came near costing him his life. Early Friday night a young man called at Dorn's abode and asked permission to stay all night, saying his feet were too sore to walk to his home several miles from town. His request was granted and some time during the night he assaulted Mr. Dorn, who is past 70 years of age, and beat him up in a horrible manner, breaking one wrist and dislocating the other, beat him over the head, face and chest, and it was thought the wounds would prove fatal, but the old man is improving with chances of recovery good.

Dorn gave the name of Reese Hildreth as his assailant and he was arrested Saturday. Hildreth waived examining trial and his bond was placed at $2,000, which he failed to make and was remanded to jail to wait the action of the grand jury. The weapon used in the assault was a piece of an iron singletree.—Big Springs Enterprise.

BERNSTORFF GIVEN POWER TO SETTLE WITH UNITED STATES.

Has Authority to Negotiate Adjustment of Entire Submarine Problem.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—A full settlement of the submarine problem can probably be arranged by negotiations in Washington. Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to the United States, is in possession of complete information regarding the wishes and policy of Germany, so the Associated Press is informed, and has been given power to negotiate terms of settlement with the United States, subject only to final revision and approval by the home Government.

A long report on the submarine situation was received here from Count von Bernstorff Thursday and an equally long message of instructions went forward to the Ambassador this morning. Both dispatches were of a nature which seems to make officials confident that the whole submarine problem can be speedily and safely settled.

The form which the negotiations are now taking goes to strengthen this optimism, for in such conversations Count von Bernstorff is in a position to communicate many things not adapted to inclusion in a public note, but which are of a nature to convince the American Government of the good faith behind Germany's assurances and the Government's settled determination to remove the sources of the conflict on the submarine question.

STEFANSSON DISCOVERS NEW LAND IN ARCTIC REGION.

New York, Sept. 17.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, commanding the Canadian Arctic expedition, announces the discovery of new land in the Arctic. It is the first word from the explorer since April 7, 1914, when his supporting party turned back and left him to continue with three companions his journey over the ice. Great anxiety has been felt for Stefansson and in many quarters he had been given up for lost. The party has returned to Banks Island. From there he will begin another year's exploration to determine more about the new land discovered.

Mr. Stefansson places the new land at 77 degrees 43 minutes north latitude and 115 degrees 48 west longitude.

DUMBA TO LEAVE U. S. FOR HIS COUNTRY SEPTEMBER 28.

New York, Sept. 20.—Dr. Constantin Dumba, the Austrian ambassador whose recall was asked by the State Department a few weeks ago, has reserved passage on the steamer Rotterdam which arrives here today.

He will sail for his country Sept. 28th, it was learned today. This indicates that the statement issued by Ambassador Penfield at Vienna a few days ago was correct and that Austria has recalled the ambassador.

The autumnal equinox brought a decided norther to this section with indications of more and worse to follow. Monday, about midday, the wind veered to the north and brought down from Amarillo a frigid breath of arctic temperature. By night short sleeves and diaphanous waists had been covered with wraps and coats, while a single blanket brought but tolerable comfort. Tuesday morning was decidedly cool with lowering clouds and promise of still lower temperature. But it was all just as our friend and co-prophet, Rev. Hicks, presaged more than a year ago.

"THE WOMAN."

"The Woman" is recognized as one of the most forceful dramas ever presented by Daniel Belasco and is by many considered the masterpiece of its author, Wm. C. DeMille. The picturization, offered by Mr. Lasky and Mr. Belasco, is said to be even more tensely dramatic than the play itself. Moreover, the photodrama cast, including Lois Meredith, Mabel Van Buren, Theodore Roberts and James Neill, is one of the few genuine star organizations, and gives the production added note.

"The Woman" is a drama showing the manner in which domestic scandal may be used as a political weapon. A young "insurgent" is opposing a certain "grab" measure which the members of the "ring" are endeavoring to put through congress, with such evidence of success that the "machine" politicians endeavor to discredit him with the public by exposing an "affair" of his early life. The story concerns the manner in which this effort is defeated by the courage and nobility of a girl telephone operator.

OPERA HOUSE WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 29.

A Soldier of Japan—A Japanese West Point Cadet.

The military training school at West Point is considered one of the finest in the world; that is why not only Americans are educated there but in many cases well-to-do men of other nationalities send their sons there also.

A young Japanese was fortunate enough to have received his education at West Point and afterwards returned to his own country, there to become a captain of artillery. An intense desire to achieve something that would be a great benefit to his country, was the outgrowth of his military training, and after fifteen years of patient toil, study and experimenting he succeeded in inventing two things which would tend to revolutionize modern warfare. The spy system of other countries learned of his invention which made the safeguarding of the details a grave problem.

The story in connection with this is one of vital interest, especially his ultimate decision as to what constituted true success and patriotism. "A Soldier of Japan," Oscar Graham's new and inspiring comedy-drama tells this story in a play that is big with action, heart interest and clever comedy. It will be presented by this well known company at the Opera House Wednesday, September 29.

Earl Jackson and family returned last Saturday from a ten days' outing on the Concho, near Christoval. They report a most magnificent time and are in love with the hospitality and attractions of that place. They also report that our old friend Frank Van Horn, is pre-eminently genius loci of that thriving community. He runs the newspaper, is head of the school board, main driving rod in the railroad promotion and chief auger in the oil business, betimes doing the suaviter in modo to the big visiting list. Van Horn is all to the good—one of the select bunch of thoroughbreds who stand without hitching.

BIDS ON HOTEL WANTED.

The Colorado Chamber of Commerce, Colorado, Texas, will receive bids until 1 o'clock p. m. September 28th, 1915, for building a hotel at Colorado, Mitchell County, Texas. Plans and specifications can be seen at office of Colorado Chamber of Commerce. Usual rights reserved. 9-24

HELP WANTED.

The Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company in assembling the cast for its forthcoming release of "Help Wanted" fortunately was able to secure Lois Meredith for the same role in which she was starred in the original production. Another veteran from the legitimate is Miss Lillian Elliott who appears as the German mother, the part she created in New York.

Owen Moore, Hobart Bosworth, Adele Farrington, Herbert Standing and other notables of pictureland complete the list of principals.

Lois Meredith and Owen Moore fit each other beautifully in the above love idyl which runs like a golden thread through the sinister but timely drama provoked by the satyrlie pursuit of the innocent stenographer by the millionaire importer.

Hobart Bosworth as the millionaire hits some effective details, such as the perfume spray and the oft combed mustache, and the keen portraiture of the character in his hands recalls the fine old school method which achieved masterpieces like the famous Baron Chevalier of Richard Mansfield. The photoplay throughout is beautiful.
