FRENCH AT VERDUN LAUNCH HEAVY ATTACK.

The French at Verdun last night launched a heavy attack on the German lines in the Avocourt woods. The force of the attack was sufficient to drive the Germans from a part of their positions, according to the reports issued from Paris today. The Germans promptly made counter attack, but were driven back with losses.

The German statements say that the French positions north of Malancourt several lines deep, along a 2,000 metre front, have been stormed by the Germans.

Desperate fighting is reported on the Austro-Italian front and Rome reports that the Italians have been victorious in a forty-hour battle at Grafenberg, in northwest Gorizia.

The vote on the 28th instant in Nolan county on the issue of $100,000 in bonds to build a new county court house, was handsomely in favor of the issue. Outside of the towns of Sweetwater and Roscoe, the bonds received only 59 favorable votes. The town of Sweetwater cast 626 votes of which number there were only 53 adverse ones. Roscoe voted 162 for and 54 against the bonds.

Quiet prevails in Tampico and the oil camps in that vicinity, according to Americans who arrived at Galveston March 29th, on the Morgan liner Topila from Tampico. They say that there have been no disturbances of any kind and that no anti-American disturbances have occurred.

Who keep the tongues of discontent busy? It is the men.

COURTHOUSE BONDS IN SUM OF $100,000 WON IN COUNTY OF NOLAN.

Sweetwater, Mar. 29.—With only three small boxes to hear from it is indicated that the election held in Nolan county yesterday to decide the issuance of $100,000 bonds for a new court house resulted in a vote of about 140 majority for the bonds. Sweetwater, out of 626 votes, cast only 53 against the bonds, while Roscoe voted 162 for and 54 against.

Outside Sweetwater and Roscoe the bonds got only 59 favorable votes. Nolan county rejected the courthouse and good roads bonds some months ago by a big majority.

Be sure you hear Dr. S. P. Brooks at the tabernacle next Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Brooks is one of the eight candidates for the United States Senate, and represents the prohibition sentiment without any qualifications, exceptions or tentative conditions. He is not a lamb of the sacrificial breed when it comes to the gentle process of elimination. He is in the race for keeps and will appear in the final returns. He, like Woodrow Wilson, is a new element in Texas politics. He is bound by no former political obligations nor hampered by any previous record in office seeking. He is able, clean and has the courage of his own convictions. Whether you vote for him or not, you will be entertained and informed by hearing him speak next Tuesday afternoon.

Hear Dr. S. P. Brooks speak at the tabernacle next Tuesday afternoon.

CHAPTER CLASS EXALTED.

Colorado Chapter of Royal Arch Masons exalted a class into its shikni mysteries last Monday night in conformity with the ancient landmarks and festive trimmings. Not only was there an unusual number of members of the local chapter on hand, but delegations of visiting companions from neighboring jurisdictions, were on hand and contributed much to the success of the evening.

The class consisted of R. P. Price, Harry Givens and R. A. Northcutt. The ritualistic work was done in the most approved manner, with all the pomp and ceremonial circumstance that surrounded the institution of these degrees. After the immediate practice of the esoteric rites, the chapter was regaled with refreshments of ice cream, several varieties of cake, etc. The visitors on this occasion were: Dr. J. W. Warren, B. Palmer, A. S. Brown, L. T. Stimson of Snyder chapter; R. W. Hall, J. L. Ross, H. C. Howard, A. Levy and Guy E. Morris, of Sweetwater; L. D. McDonald, Round Rock; H. Winkler, Ballinger; J. C. Moore, Cisco; Carter Cox, Cisco; G. C. Rafter, New York; A. J. Herrington, Hamilton; D. M. Logan, Big Springs; I. A. Griffith, Abilene.

This was one of the most enjoyable occasions the Masonic fraternity of this place has ever promoted, and all the visitors were loud in the expressions of appreciation of the local hospitality and praise of the ritualistic expertise of the local chapter. Such occasions do much to promote the growth of the organization and im-

"CYCLONE" DAVIS' REFERENCE TO JEFFERSON DAVIS RESENTED.

(By Upshur Vincent.)

Texas once had a citizen named Davis. He hailed from Nueces county and bore the initials E. J. In 1861, after our state seceded from the union, he slipped across the border to Mexico and gathered a band for service in the Union army. Later he became colonel of the First Texas General cavalry, put in the field by General Butler of infamous memory.

On Jan. 17, 1870, this Davis took the oath as "provisional" governor of Texas.

Most Texans know the story of his administration. No man will ever be hated in Texas as he was then, nor will our history ever record a blacker page than that given over to his administration.

For another Davis of that stripe Texas waited—not with longing—for many years. At length he came, South Carolina (God save the mark) he claims as his native state, and, strange to say, he acknowledges no kinship to E. J. Davis, but in actions and in speech he might be the younger brother of that reconstruction governor.

As far back as his earliest political campaign, memory fails to recall a single speech when "Cyclone" Davis has not reviled southern democracy.

Shockingly deficient himself, it is little wonder that he cannot appreciate the finer points of conduct—but even a boor must not be allowed to soil, unquestioned, the skirts of splendid men in whom the South will ever believe.

Too long sons of this Southland have allowed calumnies heaped upon their illustrious ones. Too long have they stood abashed while praises were sung to men too low for just revilement.

But that a congressman from Texas, a man born in South Carolina, should be allowed in one breath to traduce Jefferson Davis and in the next to praise Nelson A. Miles—and that in the publicly printed and disseminated Congressional Record—this is too much!

Yes this is what J. H. (Cyclone) Davis did. Read, you old Confederates! What think you of his words, you sons of Confederate veterans? And you gentlemen, everywhere, in the North and in the South, can you bear such calumny upon the heads of that other gentleman—the tenderest and bravest that ever lived?

Here are some of the words your representative—and mine—in congress used:

"When W. L. Yancey, Robert Toombs, Jeff Davis and others met to extend slavery by the annexation of Mexico and Cuba as slave country south of Mason and Dixon's line, and later to secede from the Union to save their special privilege to appropriate the labor of slaves as legal, they never had a more damnable design on American liberty than that bunch. * * *

When the slave masters met they, with complacent aristocratic minds, covered their sordid, knavish designs under the sweet and sacred terms of states' rights."

And this from a South Carolinian, now a congressman from Texas! How low has our country fallen that in those halls where in other days have stood men like Calhoun and Clay and Toombs and Hill and Stephens and Reagan and Davis, today is this man—the author of words so false, so vile, that every gentleman must blush for them.

Of what must Cyclone Davis have been guilty to make him hate his native land and her traditions and her men with a hatred so deep? What were his people doing while those to the manor born were battling for the breath of life and for decent white supremacy in the South?

Why should any Texan of today hate and vituperate and vilify any man whom the entire South honored with high regard and affection?

Why should his venom spit out, at least provocation, and on all occasions, against the one splendid gentleman who typifies the South's ideal of courage, gentleness, honor and personal bravery, purity and fortitude?

And why should one who tramples and besmirches that which the South cherishes be placed where his splutterings can be heard by the world?

L. C. DUPREE KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Every member of this community received a shock last Friday afternoon when Mr. Ed Dupree received a telegram that his brother, L. C. Dupree, had been killed by a railroad train in Chicago that afternoon. The message was forwarded from that office at 2:22 o'clock, and the presumption is that he had met his death but a short interval before. There were no details of the tragedy beyond the bare statement of the fact.

The body was ordered to be shipped to his old home at Mount Vernon, Texas, to which place his wife and daughter went from California, being joined here by Mr. Ed Dupree. Interment occurred at Mount Vernon on last Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Dupree was about 63 years of age at the time of his death. The earlier part of his life was passed at Mount Vernon, going thence to Sterling county, where he resided until moving to Colorado about ten years ago. His wife and daughter had gone to California for an indefinite visit, while he had recently gone to Chicago on a matter of business, and was yet in that city when he met such an untimely and tragic death.

This writer had been more or less intimately acquainted with L. C. Dupree since he came to Colorado, and found him a man of the most generous impulses and comprehensive sympathy. His ear and hand were ever wide open to the cry of distress. His charity was greater than his means, and he possessed an engaging personality.

He had in common with us all, his peculiar vagaries—and it behooves those of us alone who are without blemish, to cast the first aspersions. Our common frailties should plead for him who can no longer defend himself.

Who safeguard the home and mould the members of the family circle? It is the women.
