ORGANIZATION OF CLUBS FOR 1932 BEGUN BY THE EXTENSION SERVICE AGT

Active Unit Organizations To Be Perfected in Every Rural Community

Miss Abbie Sevier, home demonstration agent, announces that organization of clubs for major projects during 1932 are getting under way. The first of these clubs was perfected at Iatan last week with election of Mrs. J. M. Hahn, president. Other officers are Mrs. Jack Gullett, vice president, and Mrs. J. W. Munn, secretary. Mrs. B. Walker was named 4-H pantry demonstrator; Mrs. J. T. Hillhouse, clothing demonstrator, and Mrs. C. E. Taylor, bedroom improvement.

Three major demonstrations are to be sponsored by the clubs. These are to include 4-H pantry work, clothing and bedroom improvement. The clothing department will include the keeping of records, making of clothing and the problems of buying. Bedroom improvement will include the complete improvement of the bedroom, with certain amount of this work done by all members of the club. The 4-H pantry work is to include food preservation, food preparation and gardens.

Miss Sevier is busy in organization of other clubs this week. She stated Friday that she hoped to complete organization of all clubs in the county within the next two weeks.

Next year is expected to be the banner year for home demonstration club work in Mitchell county. Women in ever increasing numbers are interesting themselves in the work, due to success of others in preserving home grown foods, improved gardens and saving in family clothing expenses.

West Texas Oil To Have Even Better Times Before Long

The outlook for West Texas is becoming more encouraging daily and there is no occasion for worry now, was the comment of E. A. Dierdorff, district superintendent of Shell Pipe Line Co., as he discussed the West Texas oil outlook here Friday. Dierdorff had recently returned from an inspection tour of company properties near the Texas-New Mexico State boundary.

"Our company, along with some of the other major oil corporations, recently posted an increase in crude prices in some of the West Texas producing territory, an indication that the industry is taking on new confidence," he said. Dierdorff stated the company pipe lines in his district, embracing West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, continued to be operated at capacity.

NEVER MISSED A COPY OF THE RECORD SINCE SUBSCRIBING IN 1906

"The Colorado Record is the best weekly newspaper that we know anything about and we would be at a loss to know what to do should it fail to make regular appearance in our home," was the statement of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kueck of near Loraine, here Friday afternoon.

They called at The Record office to renew subscription to the paper for the twenty-sixth consecutive year. They have read their county paper since becoming citizens of Mitchell county in 1906.

Along with their favorite county newspaper, Mr. and Mrs. Kueck subscribed for a daily under terms of The Record's special clubbing offer.

R. A. M. CONVOCAION MEETS THURSDAY P.M.

Convocation of Colorado Chapter No. 175, Royal Arch Masons, was to have been convened at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, at the Masonic hall. E. J. Mooser, H. P. and Charles Mooser, secretary, issued joint invitation to members of the fraternity Monday night urging them to attend.

CHRISTIAN PASTOR

REV. G. T. REAVES (Story in Next Column)

CALVES FROM RANGES OF MITCHELL COUNTY EXCEL OTHER MARKET OFFERING

Kansas Buyer Takes 14 Cars Heifers From Ellwood During the Week

That Mitchell county ranchers are offering the buyer a better quality of feeder calves was attested by W. S. Jones of Lebo, Kansas, who Wednesday shipped 14 cars of calves from the Rendlerbrook Ranch to pasture in Kansas. The shipment approximated 800 choice heifers purchased by Jones recently from W. L. Ellwood, owner of the ranch.

"This is not the first time that I have come to Mitchell county when looking for the best offerings the Texas market has to offer in select calves," Jones said. "Kansas buyers have realized for several years that no part of the West Texas produces a higher type of range cattle than your local breeders."

Buyers from Kansas and other States in the Middle West corn belt frequently purchase Hereford cattle from local breeders. As a rule the shipments are cows and calves and heifers. Many of the animals are sold to farmers in those States as breeding stock.

Methodists Again Pay All Claims In Full For The Year

"Everything paid in full." That will be the report of Rev. L. A. Webb, pastor of First Methodist church, when his statement of finances of his church is read before annual meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference, now in session at Vernon. Announcement was made Tuesday morning by officials of the church that every financial obligation had been met.

Colorado Methodists in sending such a commendable report to the annual meeting merely acted to maintain a distinction the congregation has ever held. The local Methodist church has always paid out in full before convening of the conference.

The church expects that Rev. Mr. Webb will be returned to Colorado for another year. He has just concluded his first year as pastor here and his work has been outstanding.

COLORADO MAN NEW HEAD OF LAUNDRY MEN'S ASSOCIATION

J. Ralph Lee, owner and manager of the Colorado Laundry, was named president of the West Texas Laundry Owners' Association during the closing session of the organization's two-day convention in Midland last Saturday. Mr. Lee was vice president of the association last year and has for some time been prominent in affairs of the organization.

Other officers elected were John Wallace of Stamford, vice president; Paul Pond of Wichita Falls, secretary-treasurer; Jno. Burnside of San Angelo, L. E. Shaw of Brownwood, and Harry Grey of Wichita Falls, directors.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH GROWS UNDER PASTORATE OF REV. GEORGE REAVES

Popular Minister In Second Year's Work With Local Congregation

Rev. George T. Reaves has been identified with the ministry of Colorado less than two years, but there is not a pastor in the city more universally esteemed than he. He came to Colorado March 1, 1930, from Ballinger to accept pastorate of the First Christian church.

This pastor and his wife, the latter often referred to among members of the congregation as the assistant pastor, have endeared themselves to members of the congregation by their untiring efforts in entire program of the church. They work hand-in-hand in many of the major and minor activities sponsored by the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Reaves does not claim any large membership gain record for his church since he became pastor, but it is evident that interest and attendance have each registered an increase of one hundred per cent under his leadership. Among his first efforts after coming to Colorado was organization of a great mid-week service, he realizing that progress of Christianity in the community depended largely upon consecration and prayer among the church people. In this he has been most successful, building up an attendance of some 200 people.

And this achievement was not realized through the giving of banquets or contests. He sought to interest his people through giving illustrated Bible stories on the screen. He has taught almost the entire Bible by this method on Wednesday evenings. He has two stereopticon slides that he uses in these services. He states that the most impressive of these was given at dawn last Easter. Attendance at this service was so large that seating facilities at the church were inadequate to take care of the crowd.

For the past three years Rev. Mr. Reaves has served as president of district convention of his church. During the two summers he has spent in Colorado he has acted as general chairman of special union religious services held by several congregations of the community. Attendance upon these services have reached 2000 people at times. He is vice president of the Colorado Ministerial Association and ever active in religious programs in the community.

Sunday morning, after adjournment of Sunday school he will organize a Junior church as a further step to make for progress by the First Christian church. The Terrell Daily Tribune recently said of him, editorially:

"He is not spasmodic in his manner or methods, but those who follow his leadership will follow a man who is going somewhere and knows how he is to attain his goal, without display, but according to routine. His churches grow, not by leaps and bounds, but by slow, steady process, and the growth is normal, lasting."

Colorado cannot claim a more loyal worker in her civic and benevolent programs than Rev. Mr. Reaves. He finds his membership in the Lions club of much value and is always present when not unavoidably detained.

A visit to the First Christian church will convince that a most cordial welcome awaits, not alone from the pastor, but from among the membership as well.

Their beautiful church plant, located at East Fourth and Elm streets, is among the largest and most modern houses of worship in Colorado. The building was erected and equipped during the past few years.

LONE WOLF FARMER'S HOME, CONTENTS LOST

The farm home occupied by J. W. Burrier of Lone Wolf Mountain community, was burned to the ground Wednesday about noon. The household effects of the family were also destroyed.

The home, a four-room structure, was on farm owned by C. M. Adams of Colorado. Mr. Adams reports that no insurance was carried on either the building or contents.

Relative Colorado Druggist Killed In Waco Plane Crash

J. G. Lancaster, 38, Waco business man, and Ed Ockander, flying instructor, were instantly killed at a Waco flying field Friday morning at 9 o'clock when the plane in which they were passengers crashed from an altitude of about 1,000 feet.

Lancaster was a brother-in-law of J. A. Sadler, Colorado druggist, and Frank Dunn, cattlemen of 25 miles northwest from Colorado. He had recently purchased the plane for his son, Gray Lancaster, 19, a flying student.

Mr. and Mrs. Sadler and Mr. Dunn left for Waco Friday afternoon to attend the funeral services, conducted Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church, Waco. They returned to Colorado Monday morning.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON AT SPADE FOR C. O. WHITE

Aged Farmer Dies Following Stroke of Paralysis Six Weeks Ago

Funeral services for C. O. White, 66, prominent citizen of the Spade community for 25 years, were held from the Spade Methodist church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Rev. J. M. Shuford and Rev. George T. Reaves, both of Colorado, officiating. Burial was in the Spade cemetery.

Mr. White died at his farm home near Spade Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, following an illness of several months. A year ago he was stricken with paralysis. He slowly improved during the months to follow until six weeks ago when he suffered a second stroke. He gradually grew worse until death.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. C. O. White, and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Northcutt of Spade.

Mr. and Mrs. White moved from Palo Pinto county to Mitchell county 25 years ago and had made their home there continuously since.

Youth Injured In Traffic Accident On West Highway

Charles Stephens, 12, son of Mrs. Josie Stephens of a few miles west from Colorado, was painfully injured Saturday afternoon when run over by a large motor car on the highway near the western city limits. He sustained head bruises and lacerations.

The youth, in company with other boys, was riding on a farm wagon coming into Colorado. Opposite the Colorado Compress Company plant they jumped from rear of the wagon and started to run across the highway. Driver of the motor car did not see the boy until too late and did everything possible to avoid the accident by driving his machine into the ditch.

The motorist, enroute to Portland, Oregon, stopped to render aid to the injured boy, who was unconscious when brought to the office of Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Coleman.

The visitor declared that conditions were evidently better in Colorado than anywhere in the country of which he knew. He attested that the Broadway of America highway, passing through Colorado from east to west, was the most popular and the best international motor route in America. "This highway is a greater asset to Colorado than many of you might believe," he said.

Westbrook Farmer Grows Sweet Spud Weighs 5 Pounds

Announcement in The Record last week that Tom Baker of a few miles east of Colorado had harvested a 3½-pound yam potato caused Burton Hines of Westbrook to send in a five-pound spud to the newspaper office.

"Tell Mr. Baker that this five-pound potato is a fairly sized specimen of the kind of spuds we grow out at Westbrook and that if he is not satisfied we will produce a larger one," was the message sent into the office by Mr. Hines.

COUNTY GIN RECEIPTS AT NEAR 25,000 BALES WHEN WEEKLY REPORT IS MADE

Staple and Lint Quotations Register Upward Trend During the Week

Total gin receipts for the county was reported at 24,246 bales Thursday at noon in weekly report issued by The Record. The week's receipts of 3,262 bales, was 602 bales less than total reported for the week previous, when 3,864 bales were ginned.

Plants at Colorado, Westbrook, Loraine and Buford were running steadily and ginners expressed belief that total county receipts would reach 30,000 bales, as the minimum. It was believed that the 25,000-bale mark would be reached by Friday at noon, should favorable weather conditions prevail.

Colorado continues to lead all others receiving points in the county with a total of 12,605 bales received. That figure is slightly more than one-half of the total county receipts.

Loraine, with 6,455 bales ginned, continues in second place. At Westbrook the two gins reported 3,161 bales received. The two gins there have been running close throughout the season. Thursday at noon one of the Westbrook gins had received 1,576 bales and the other 1,585, a difference of only nine bales for the season. Buford, with one gin, reported 2,025 bales received.

The Colorado office, Texas Co-operative Cotton Association, had received 5,300 bales. Member farmers continue to place their cotton in the associational seasonal pool, according to statement of J. M. New, manager.

Both the staple and seed markets at Colorado registered an upward trend in quotations during the week. Cotton was quoted at from 5.75 to 6 cents at noon Thursday. Seed was selling at $13.60 a ton.

Little Business Is Passed by Council Meeting Monday

Regular bi-monthly session of the city council Monday night found Mayor Hutchinson and members of the council with but a small list of business matters demanding attention. Passing of current bills constituted most of the session.

The officials entered into discussion of the gas rate controversy but made no progress in advancing further the dispute between the city and the Community Natural Gas Company over domestic rate schedule here.

'DEPRESSION NOT TO BE FOUND HERE,' IS BURCHARD'S MESSAGE

"I am at a loss to know what I should talk about. As a rule we talk depression everywhere we go, but I have failed utterly in finding any depression in Colorado."

Roland Burchard of Sacramento, California, made that statement in a brief address at the Lions club Friday. With his family he was here to spend a visit in the home of Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Coleman.

The visitor declared that conditions were evidently better in Colorado than anywhere in the country of which he knew. He attested that the Broadway of America highway, passing through Colorado from east to west, was the most popular and the best international motor route in America. "This highway is a greater asset to Colorado than many of you might believe," he said.

SAN ANGELO EDITOR IS THOMASON'S AIDE

Robert Jackson, editor of the San Angelo Morning Times, has been named congressional secretary by Hon. R. E. Thomason, of El Paso, congressman from the 16th Texas district.

Jackson is to assume his duties as manager of Congressman Thomason's Washington office next month.

Dr. Patrick Henry, Leader in Program Of Church, Speaks

Dr. Patrick Henry, Fort Worth, director of special work sponsored by the Christian church in Texas, delivered a sermon at the First Christian church here Sunday morning. He was here in interest of the churchwide campaign to develop a greater appreciation of the church and the tenets for which it stands.

"Success of the church depends not upon the amount of finance its treasury may handle, nor upon the material things of this life, but upon the hope of the Kingdom of God," he said. "Everything we possess, even this life itself, is fragile. Only the Word of God and His eternal Kingdom shall stand."

Dr. Henry lived in Colorado as a youth. He spoke of some of his experiences while a school student in Colorado and stated that it afforded him genuine pleasure to come back to the old home and meet again some of the close personal friends that were his years ago.

He left by train Sunday afternoon for Houston to attend conference Monday.

WEAKENED WOLVES SCORE TWO TOUCHDOWNS ON SAN ANGELO CLUB THIS WEEK

Sweetwater Mustangs Defeat Big Spring in March To District Pentant

With Skeet Harkins, fleet back, out of uniform due to a broken arm, and Captain Joyce limping under the handicap of a badly sprained ankle the Colorado Wolves went into another conference tilt Armistice Day when they met the powerful San Angelo Bobcats at San Angelo. The locals, playing against one of the strongest football clubs in the district, were enabled to hold the Concho City club to a score of 57 to 12. Stagner and Viles accounted for the two touchdowns by the Wolves.

The Wolves' most effective weapon was in forward passing. The locals were not outclassed in this department but could not overcome the powerful wall built up by Harry Taylor's strong defensive and offensive machine. One of the Wolf touchdowns resulted from a blocked punt from behind the Colorado goal.

While the Wolves were making things somewhat interesting for the San Angelo Bobcats, Sweetwater forged ahead in march to the district championship by defeating the Big Spring Steers 7-0 in one of the most spectacular football games of West Texas, played at Newman Field, Sweetwater, before an Armistice Day throng of 5,000 people. Colorado furnished several hundred of the number.

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT INJURES SNYDER GIRL

Miss Mary Margaret Towle, 13, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. H. G. Towle of Snyder, was painfully injured Thursday of last week when she fell from running board of a moving automobile. The accident happened as she was riding with others to school. She was unconscious several hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. T. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Greene and Mrs. Pearl Shannon, relatives of the family, were called to Snyder following the accident. The child was not seriously injured.

WOLF HUNTERS BRING IN ANOTHER COYOTE

The Colorado Wolf Hunters' Association returned from the chase at an early hour Friday morning with another big coyote, reports Dr. P. C. Coleman, who usually accompanies the sportsmen when these expeditions are made.

"He was one of the largest wolves we have taken in this county in a long time and the race, lasting three hours, was among the most interesting," the veteran hunter exclaimed.

COL-TEX REFINERY TAKES INITIATIVE IN RESTORING CONFIDENCE IN BUSINESS

Seventy-Five Extra Men Go On Corporation Payroll During the Week

The Col-Tex refinery, among the larger and most modernly equipped petroleum plants in West Texas, has assumed the initiative in restoring business confidence at Colorado.

Last week seventy-five extra men were placed on payroll of the corporation, boosting total number of employees to 205. It is apparent that the enlarged payroll is to be continued indefinitely.

Confidence in future permanence of producing fields in this territory from which the crude oil for operation of the plant is taken, and the ever-increasing demand for Col-Tex petroleum products throughout the country prompted directing officials to authorize another enlargement program. For the present, additional storage facilities are being constructed on hill south of the plant. Five of the 55,000-barrel capacity tanks are to be built, making a total of twenty-two of these tanks in use there.

The refining industry was begun at Colorado in 1924 in organization of the West Texas refinery. After operating a few months, the West Texas Producing & Refining Company was organized and took over the plant. In 1925 the Col-Tex refinery came into being and purchased the property.

From the time the present corporation has owned and operated the plant, this industrial enterprise has gradually expanded until today it has capacity of 15,000 barrels daily. The plant holds distinction of manufacturing more petroleum by-products than any other West Texas refinery.

L. W. Sandusky, general attorney for the corporation, stated Thursday morning that during the seven years the plant had been in operation, the Col-Tex had never become involved in a lawsuit nor paid a claim, he speaking fairness under which the corporation operates.

L. C. McCloud is superintendent of the plant and has had many years successful experience in the refinery industry. He succeeded George H. Burruss, who last year was transferred to Oklahoma City. John Ertes was the other man to hold office of superintendent at the local plant.

HE GREW NO COTTON; HENCE THIS FARMER HAS NEW MOTOR CAR

"No, I do not claim to be prospering this year, but I will tell you just how I came to buy that new automobile. It is because that I did not grow any cotton this year."

That was the statement of G. W. Womack, Cuthbert farmer, here Tuesday. He had just parked a new sedan at the curb.

"This is the first year since I have been farming, however, that I did not plant some cotton," Mr. Womack continued. "I am happy that I left off that crop this year and devoted my attention to other crops. Had I planted the usual acreage to cotton it is apparent that I would not be driving the new car to town."

COUNTRY CLUB HOLDS 'BARN DANCE' PARTY

The Country Club was the scene of merry-making Tuesday evening, when a large number of guests were entertained at an old-fashioned barn dance scheduled to usher in another Armistice Day social calendar. Overalls and aprons were in regulation vogue. Decorations strongly suggested both the patriotic and autumn seasons.

Hyman Happenings

By MRS. EDGAR ANDREWS
Miss Sevier met with the Home Demonstration club last Friday at the home of Mrs. Frank Andrews. Members present were Mrs. Edgar Andrews, Mrs. Roy Davis Colier, Mrs. H. H. VanZandt, Mrs. I. Smallwood, Mrs. Carl Lowery. Mrs. T. P. Smallwood was a visitor. At the social hour the hostess served delicious cake, peaches, whipped cream and coffee. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Coles on November 20. Mrs. Coles requests that all come prepared to quilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke entertained the young folks with a party Saturday night.

Mrs. Emmie Minor and Terrell and Lee, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Andrews, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otha Woodard were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Reynolds.

Misses Edna Duke, Elsie Vanzandt and Ruth Jeffs were Sunday evening visitors of Miss Mira Smallwood.

Herman Minor spent Saturday night with Hoyt Andrews.

School started here last Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Andrews visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. VanZandt Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Andrews and Mrs. H. H. VanZandt were among those who attended County Federation meeting last Tuesday.

State newspapers contained the information a few days ago that wheat raised at Hyman brought as high as 70 cents a bushel in Chicago on account of its superior grade.

This was cheering news to Hymanites, but many farmers are now figuring how much money they would have saved had they held the wheat until now.

SHERIFF'S SALE

STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF MITCHELL
By virtue of an execution and order of sale issued out of the Honorable Special District Court of Mitchell County, on the 3rd day of November, 1931, by the Clerk thereof, in the case of E. H. LONE STAR TWINKLINGS

By ETTA LEE MARTIN
Lone Star school opened Monday morning with a large number of patrons and visitors present.

Several interesting talks were made, which were very much enjoyed. The school started later this year than it has in many years, in order that pupils might help pick cotton.

Most all the cotton is out of the fields now and about 100 pupils are enrolled. The faculty consists of four teachers, the same who taught last year.

There was Sunday school at the regular hour last Sunday. A nice crowd attended. In the young people's department it was voted that each month a social be given. Our class is divided into two groups. The winning side must gain more new members and visitors. All the young people are urged to attend.

The young people enjoyed a singing at Miss Velma Howell's Sunday night.

Maurice Miller of Brownlee community and Miss Maud Walker motored to Ardmore, Oklahoma, Sunday afternoon and were quietly united in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Walker. Both the bride and groom are well known. We wish them success.

Several young people of this community attended the musical at Mr. Cleve Robins' Saturday night.

JOHN GARNER MAY BE NEXT PRESIDENT SAYS 'SOONER' REPUBLICAN

A Republican member of the last congress from Oklahoma predicted Saturday that if Congressman John N. Garner of Texas becomes speaker of the next House, he will be the Democratic nominee for president in 1932.

This former Congressman, Charles O'Conner of Tulsa, said Garner would be "unbeatable" for the Democratic nomination if elected speaker and he can demonstrate his leadership under the very difficult if not almost impossible situation that will exist in the coming term.

As reasons for his opinion, O'Conner declared there is no one else among the candidates mentioned "who begins to have the understanding, knowledge and experience of national affairs possessed by the Texan."

"The people have come to realize that one of the chief tasks of the president is to work with the Congress and the departments as they are, and his ability to do this and secure a major portion of his program is the test of the success of his administration."

DUCK SEASON OPENS AT 12 NOON MONDAY WITH FINE PROSPECTS

(By United Press) DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 12.—A great offensive will get underway at noon Monday, November 16 in Texas as hunters shoulder arms and go forward in their annual war against ducks.

For the first time in history of the duck season, the month of hunting will begin at noon instead of midnight. The season ends December 16—just one month.

Those who have observed the movements of the ducks claim that the outlook for the season is better than in the last 10 or 15 years, Wallace Moore, connected with a local sporting house, declared there are pre-season indications of the best year in history.

Sporting goods houses over the State have reported a large demand for hunting license, guns, shells and other hunting equipment. Much enthusiasm has been shown.

The Federal law has ordered the season to begin at noon because it is contended that many ducks are shot on the night before the actual season begins, and before game wardens have time to check up on the hunters. It is also believed that there will be less accidental shooting if the season opens at noon instead of midnight or daybreak. The ducks also will be given a better chance to get settled with the season opening at noon.

The fact that this section is a better feeding course for ducks and geese than the Atlantic, Western or Rocky Mountain areas has made this a good place for ducks to collect.

The comparatively warm Falls of Western Texas also have caused a great many ducks to settle here.

The ducks this year are said to be larger than those of last year, scouts report. There are supposed to be more geese, also.

The bag limit per day for ducks this season again will be 15, with not more than 30 allowed to be in a hunter's possession at any time. The snipe, gallinules or Mudhens are 25 a day or 50 a week of all varieties. The limit on geese and brant are four a day, or 12 a week, or not to possess more than eight any time.

It is unlawful to hunt, shoot or kill any wild ducks, wild geese, wild brant, or any other wild waterfowl from and after 12 o'clock noon, each day until 30 minutes before sunrise in Harrison and Marion counties.

Fortunate "breaks" for the hunter are said to be the fact that the fowls are reported to be stopping at lakes and various places, instead of continuing their flight further to the south. Another factor is that the ducks have been protected from gun fire on their flight this far and are free from the wild tendency that ordinarily makes them leave.

The deer season also opens on November 16, but does not close until December 31. The bag limit is two bucks a season. Blacktail or mule deer west of the Pecos river is limited to one a season.

Hunters have been warned that it is unlawful to kill doe deer, fawns or spike bucks; it is unlawful to shoot any gun or firearms in, along or across any public road in the State; it is unlawful to hunt, kill or possess game-birds, game animals or other birds and animals except where provided by law; it is unlawful to hunt from a motor boat, sailboat, boat under tow, automobile or airplane of any kind.

Other "Don'ts" are: Don't hunt on State game preserves; don't hunt, kill or take any duck, goose or brant by any other means than by ordinary gun, not to exceed 10-gauge, capable of being shot from shoulder; don't use or possess a headlight or flashlight at night in a territory where deer are known to range; do not use a deer call, except deer horns, which may be rattled.

Small Grain Crops Growing Off Well, Reports Indicate

Small grain crops of the county are growing off rapidly and the young growth is in excellent condition, according to finding of a representative of The Record who this week visited in several rural communities of the Colorado Territory.

As a rule the acreage sown to winter grain is in small plots. In only a few instances was it noticed that considerable acreage was devoted to the crop on any one farm. In numerous instances the grain is growing in fenced-in patches near the house or chicken range as a convenient range for the poultry to feed upon.

"This winter grain is going to be the most economical feed that I could have possibly expected to grow," remarked one farmer some 15 miles southwest on the Robert Lee road. "The seed cost me 25 cents a bushel and the crop is up to a perfect stand."

Texas' Contested Truck Law Upheld By Appeals Court

Enforcement of House Bill No. 335, requiring truck operators to hold permits from the State Railroad Commission, was upheld Saturday in the Tenth Court of Civil Appeals at Waco, in an opinion handed down by the unanimous vote of the Judges.

The decision dissolved injunctions issued by Judge H. F. Kirby in District Court at Groesbeck, which restrained peace officers from arresting violators of the law. At the same time, it upheld an injunction issued by Judge W. C. Davis in District court at Bryan restraining the truck owners from violating provisions of the law.

Justice George Barcus wrote a digest of opinions on the decision, saying in part, "The Court of Civil Appeals held that since the Legislature has specifically required truck owners to obtain permits from State Railroad Commission before using the highways for said purpose, and making it a crime to operate their trucks without said permit, that no judge or court could by injunction or otherwise restrain the peace officers of the State from enforcing the penal provisions of said statute."

All communities of the county are urgently requested to send their singers to Colorado Sunday afternoon, November 15, to join in a musical program. The singing will begin promptly at 2:30 p. m., and will be held at First Baptist church auditorium.

Program of Music Is Announced For Sunday Afternoon

This is expected to be one of the best programs of the season, according to Chester Thomas, as musicians from all parts of the county are expected to take part. Places will be arranged for representatives from each community to put on a special number.

The regular meeting of community singers will take place as usual at 7:30 Friday evening at the Baptist church, at which time the Sunday program will be arranged.

Everybody is invited to attend, especially singers.

REGIONAL EXECUTIVE VISITS LOCAL TROOPS

What?
a telephone in the KITCHEN?

Forget to order something?
If you're like lots of women, you may find you're out of something right in the middle of preparing dinner. That's when the handy kitchen telephone meets another emergency.

Or perhaps a portable telephone
It plugs into the wall like a lamp. Move it from one location to another as you need it. Ask for details at the telephone office. Extra charge for installing sockets.

Like to sleep late?
Folks may think you're lazy . . . but why not make or answer calls from your bed? Mighty nice when you're sick, too . . . saves jumping up from afternoon naps . . . adds a distinctive touch to your bedroom.

For sale . . . One step saver
One man stayed with the baby while his wife went shopping. Before she got home he'd ordered an extension telephone. "Saves at least a mile a day," he declares. An extension telephone saves many, many weary trips.

Taylor County To Conclude Work of Agents On Dec. 1

The Taylor county commissioners met Tuesday confirmed its action a month ago in voting to discontinue with services of the county agents and the home demonstration agents. The order is to become effective December 1.

The court action, taken during a session of the court at Abilene, followed an urgent appeal for termination of the extension service program, directed by Miss Caroline Chambers and C. Metz Heald. Some citizens, most of whom were men, were in Abilene to personally urge the court members to rescind the services of the agents.

Miss Chambers, who has been the home demonstration agent in Taylor county for several years, went to Colorado to Abilene. She is a sister of Mrs. R. H. Looney of Colorado and was prior to her association with the extension service of A. M. College a member of the Colorado schools teaching faculty.

Rogers Ramblings

Everybody is invited to attend a supper and auction sale at the Rogers school house Friday night, November 13, for the purpose of raising needed funds for benefit of the school. It is necessary to get some money to purchase needed equipment for the school to meet the State requirements. If you are interested in the Rogers school and want it to be a better school, come out Friday night and do your bit.

The good merchants of Colorado have generously donated many valuable articles of merchandise to be sold to the highest bidder, funds to be used for the school. This proves that the business men of Colorado are trying to help us improve our school in every way. They have given us articles that will be needed in the home every day. The following business firms contributed: J. P. Majors, Colorado Record, Safeway Stores, Riordan Hardware Co., Ben Franklin store, Candy Kitchen, Sam Majors, Corner Drug Store, West Texas Dry Goods Co., the Red and White Stores, Candler & Neff Tire Shop, Max Berman Department store, Crosthwaite Drug Co., Piggy Wiggly, Clyde Bynum grocery.

It is to be noticed that the major portion of cotton being received at Colorado gins is "bolles." Farmers are evidently gathering the cotton in order to facilitate work of harvesting the crop.

C. A. Taylor, Early Business Man Here Buried at Midland

C. A. Taylor, who was among the first business men to locate in Colorado, died at his home in Midland Wednesday morning. Funeral services were held at the First Methodist church, Midland, Thursday afternoon with the Rev. L. A. Webb of Colorado, a former pastor, officiating.

Mr. Taylor came to Colorado from Waco in 1880 and engaged in the drug business here. In 1885 he moved to Midland, where he had since made his home. He was 79 years of age at the time of his death.

Rev. Mr. Webb, while pastor of the Midland church twenty-six years ago, officiated at funeral of Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor, nee Miss Irene Wood, and Mr. Taylor were married here in 1882.

Texas Couple Take Up Work on Movie Lot in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Billingsley and son have arrived from Colorado, Texas, to become affiliated with this city's movie colony. Mr. and Mrs. Billingsley are here on contract with Radio-Keith Orpheum studios.

Mr. and Mrs. Billingsley are from a small inland village near Colorado. They are natives of West Texas and already have made themselves popular among co-workers in Hollywood.

They were brought to Hollywood under a six-week's special contract. Friends of theirs back in the old-home town may soon be seeing and hearing them in the talkies.

FARMER LEARNS THAT HIS NECK WAS BROKEN SEVERAL MONTHS AGO

G. W. Garner, pioneer farmer of Scurry county, discovered last week that his neck had been broken five months before.

Mr. Garner was in a car wreck last May and for several weeks was laid up in a hospital with broken ribs and other injuries. Since June he had been living the life of an average man. A few days ago he decided to stop at a Lubbock hospital to learn the cause of a persistent burning pain in his neck and shoulders.

An X-ray picture showed clearly that his neck was broken. He was bound from waist up in a plaster cast. Now he is back on the streets of Snyder, "looking like a mummy," he says, "but feeling fine."

W. W. CAGLE RETURNS AS MEMBER OF LIONS

IDAHO SPUDS SHIPPED TO TEXAS IN COTTON BAGS

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 10.—The first of several carloads of Idaho potatoes to be packed in standard 100-pound cotton bags for shipment to Texas has been received here by the McKinstry Produce Co.

Approval of this form of packing is shown in the rapidity with which retail buyers are taking the initial shipment, according to R. C. Wilson, manager.

Marketing of potatoes in cotton instead of jute bags is a part of the south-wide movement to increase domestic consumption of cotton, now being sponsored through a national organization formed for this purpose and aided by Federal government.

General use of cotton for moving the potato crop would mean home consumption of some 50,000 bales of low grade cotton annually, according to J. E. McDonald, State commissioner of agriculture and president of Texas division, National Association for Increased Use of Cotton. McDonald expressed the belief that once started, public demand for cotton as a container for potatoes and other products now sacked in jute will bring about the desired change.

The first carload of potatoes came from Pocatello and consisted of 300 bags. The cost of packing the spuds in cotton instead of jute amounted, to $3.60, or a penny a bag.

Cleaner, more attractive appearance, as an aid to merchandising, far outweigh the slight difference in cost, he declared.

Financial Giant Well Likened to Lightning

When George Baker, the banker, died, ninety-nine people out of every hundred exclaimed "Who was he?" and yet Baker's fortune ranked with that of Rockefeller and like the oil king, he made it himself. Of course, Wall Street and the inner circle of finance had always known Baker, but to the general public he was a stranger.

Baker's passing recalls an encounter in which he, Tom Lawson and H. M. Rogers are said to have participated at the time the country was seething with frenzied finance.

Rogers, according to the story, was protesting against a certain exposure that Lawson had threatened to make, and Baker might be termed to encrow in the affair. And it was Baker who laid down the law.

"I don't care what you say!" stormed Lawson. "I'm going through with it."

"Oh, very well, but remember what I have told you," replied Baker mildly, and that ended the interview. Rogers hastened to tell his friends that everything was all right.

"But how do you know it's all right?" asked a friend. "Lawson still declares he's going through with it."

"But he won't," predicted Rogers. "Always remember—blunder makes a great big noise, but it's the lightning that really counts. And Baker is lightning."—Los Angeles Times.

Yom Kippur Judaism's Day of Self-Research

Yom Kippur is the Jewish Atonement day. The American Hebrew says: "Judaism lays emphasis on the call to the individual sinner and transgressor for a direct, personal straightening out of his moral and ethical account with men and with God. This is the reason why fasting became one of the chief observances of Yom Kippur. Let a man realize what a puny weakling he becomes when self-deprived of food and drink for 24 hours and he will be more likely to confess his wrongdoing; to repent the damages his selfishness and acquisitiveness may have visited on others, and repair them; to seek and to grant forgiveness. Let him for the space of consecutive hours in the atmosphere of a house of worship meditate on his deeds and misdeeds of a 12 month that is past; devote himself wholly to a contemplation of the numerous opportunities for well-being and well-doing which he cast aside for whatever reasons; place himself frankly before the bar of his own conscience, being at the same time his own accuser and his own judge, and, at the end of the Atonement day, he will emerge a better, a finer, a more sanctified spiritual being."

Food in Middle Ages The instinctive feeling for color characteristic of the Middle ages is seen in the concern for coloring foods. Saffron was naturally a popular coloring material but other ingredients served for red or green foods, and some dishes were even parti-colored. But, despite this appeal to esthetic tastes, it is obvious that people in that far-off day were coarse feeders with palates dulled by spice, pepper, mustard, ginger and cubebs. Our Neo-medievalists who look back to the "great centuries" through the rosy glasses of romance would have had an uncomfortable time at a medieval banquet and a more uncomfortable time afterward. There were giants in those days and they possessed pantagruellic appetites. But the average expectancy of human life was short.

Climb Up to Fiesole When in Florence, climb the hill to little Fiesole, above the Arno, says a traveler. Watch as you go along on the right for the monastery of St. Domenico, for that is where Fra Angelico once lived. Look out also for Bocaccio's villa, although its American owner will probably not let you in. Read again Browning's "Andrea del Sarto," for it has scenes of this place. Visit the Villa Bondi for its Dante memories, and then go on to the little Franciscan monastery on the top, behind the cathedral, if you are looking for curios which the Franciscan missionaries have sent from many lands. Best of all, look for its bird refuge, where the feathered songsters keep the monks in mind of St. Francis.

Orchids in Newfoundland Many to whom the word orchid suggests tropical climes and hot houses may be surprised to learn Newfoundland boasts of many varieties, says Nature Magazine. The old favorite of the woodland, the pink lady's slipper, is fairly common, and Calopogon and Arctostaphylos, rather rare forms, but known to many who search the treasures of Newfoundland meadows, are among the more beautiful frequenting this island. The northern green orchid, Habenaria hyperborea, denizen of the cold, wet woods, whose dense, narrow flower-spikes sometimes grows to be 12 inches long, is plentiful.

Not to Be Ignored Only a three-year-old could so appreciate her own cleverness that she would interrupt an adult conversation about a party in order to have it told. Mother and Mrs. K. were planning their bridge party when the little miss finally raised attention. "And, mother," she said, in a grown-up way, "tell her the cute thing I said the other day."

China's Flood Toll One of World's Greatest Human Sacrifices

Starving flood sufferers rush into water to get food.

A situation of star, horror now prevails in the flooded areas of the Yangtze Valley where the record-flood waters are creating havoc that beggars description, according to a report received by Dr. David A. Brown, Chairman of Flood Relief in China, from the National Flood Relief Commission in China.

Flood Relief in China, an organization jointly formed by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, and China Famine Relief, U. S. A., is seeking $2,500,000 to buy food and medicine for as many as possible of the tens of millions of men, women and children facing starvation, disease and death as a result of the catastrophic floods.

In order to avoid a conflict with the country-wide campaign for funds for the relief of the unemployed in the United States, as well as with the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, Dr. Brown has informed Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief, that Flood Relief in China's fund solicitation would be limited to mail appeals only now, and will be resumed after November 25th, the date fixed for the close of the unemployment campaign. In reply, Mr. Gifford has expressed his appreciation of this act.

Millions of refugees, rendered homeless and completely destitute by the floods, are living under conditions which give promise of nothing but death, according to the report of the National Flood Relief Commission.

Because the vast Yangtze Valley has been inundated, most of the richest crop-bearing territory in China will produce nothing this year, thus creating an inevitable famine. In addition, the flooded districts must cope with problems of epidemic prevention and rehabilitation.

On the basis of a nation-wide survey of the extent of the damage done by the floods, the commission reports that millions of farmers find themselves homeless and without seeds to plant their crops and buffaloes to till their fields. Almost insuperable difficulties confront the relief workers in the prevention of disease among the refugees who are huddled in improvised camps, where without the slightest attempt at sanitation, an epidemic may break out at any hour and spread like wildfire among people weakened by privations.

With millions of Chinese fighting for their lives over the thousands of square miles devastated by the swollen Yangtze River, the National Flood Relief Commission, composed of Chinese and prominent foreigners resident in China, is seeking financial assistance from the people of the entire world in order to cope with the present situation.

"While the task is not beyond human effort," the commission declares, "it is of such magnitude that only the co-operation of the people of the world can insure its success."

National Headquarters for Flood Relief in China have been opened in New York City at 205 East 42nd St., where contributions are being received for dispatch to China.

MITCHELL 4-H CLUB GIRL PROBABLE ORIGINATOR OF
NEW INDUSTRY FOR TEXAS

Pimientos Grown by Loraine Girl Excel Best From A. & M. Gardens

Hilda Ohlenbusch, Loraine 4-H Club girl, who recently attained State-wide recognition due to her outstanding work, has received additional commendable note from the A. & M. College at College Station.

O. B. Martin, director of the Extension Service of the college, in a recent letter to Miss Abbie Sevier, Mitchell county home demonstration agent, makes the statement that the pimientos grown by Miss Ohlenbusch were better than those produced in gardens of the college and would compare in every respect with the select imports from Spain.

"If our club members and demonstrators put up products like this it will not be long until they have started a new industry," Mr. Martin declared, indicating that the Mitchell county club girl had no doubt originated a new era in vegetable culture in the State.

The letter from the Extension Service director follows:

"I have your letter of October 10. I also received the pimientos, green, ripe and canned, sent in by Hilda Ohlenbusch. In the first place I want to say that her pimientos are much larger than mine. It appears that we used the same kind of seed. I put mine in a hotbed and started early, but as a rule mine did not develop to full size.

"Hilda's canned pimientos are of high quality. They are just as good as those imported from Spain or anywhere else. We used to buy a lot of imported pimientos when we lived in Washington. If our club members and demonstrators put up products like this it will not be long until they will have started a new industry."

LOOT OF GUN WIELDER

A lone bandit walked into a Breckenridge jewelry store Monday morning, wielded his gun, trussed up two employees and walked out with diamonds and other jewelry valued at $25,000. He drove away in a motor car that had been left parked nearby and in which a companion waited.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Burchard, who are guests in the Dr. P. C. Coleman home, have been honored during the past week with a golf tea at the Thos. Dawes farm on Saturday, and a dinner in the Smoot home on Wednesday.

Rural Recreation
Training Schools
Holding Sessions

Farm folks are to sing and play their way, if not to prosperity, at least to better times, in the training schools in rural recreation scheduled in various sections of Texas for November, December and January. Miss Mildred Horton, State home demonstration agent of the extension service of the Texas A. & M. College and the United States department of agriculture, says. In cooperation with W. P. Jackson of the National Recreation Association of New York City, the second-year program of the rural recreation institutes, begun in Texas in 1930, will be carried out in twelve four-day schools. Enrollment is open to all farm people, but is limited to 50 to each school, to permit of intensive training of leaders. The sessions will be under direction of Mr. Jackson, with local arrangements in charge of county and home demonstration agents.

Included in the programs will be training for song leading, play and character building, social games, games with music, story telling, dramatic games, charades, pantomimes, shadowgraphs, singing games, campfire stunts, family recreation and home play activities, folk dances, children's games, and children's singing and folk games.

In 1930 Texas people received similar but simpler recreation programs with enthusiasm, not only because of the personal enjoyment derived, but because of the impetus they gave to community cooperation. There was a total enrollment of 547 in 48 counties. Many of the leaders trained continue to call their communities together for play purposes.

Revenge Prompted Murder Attack On
Ft. Worth Citizen

W. L. Ray, Ft. Worth service station manager, murdered by unknown assailants on Monday, November 1, lost his life through revenge, according to belief of Fort Worth police working on the case. It is believed that members of a gang, two of whom were wounded by him in an attempted hold-up in El Paso last year, are responsible for the crime. Ray's badly decomposed body was found Friday in a ravine in southeastern section of Fort Worth by two small boys. He was garrotted with a short piece of rope and his skull was fractured. He was never seen alive after leaving his home at 5:30 Sunday morning to open the station of which he was manager. Ray was the son-in-law of Mrs. C. C. Blandford, formerly of Colorado. The family is well known here and relatives reside in Colorado.

AUTOMOBILE WRECKED

SEVERAL FARMERS SOWING ACREAGE TO SMALL GRAIN

Several farmers of the county are sowing small grain and it is probable that more would be devoting acreage to this crop if demand for feed supplies were as strong as last year, according to E. Barber, Spade farmer, here Saturday. Barber has sown small grain on his place and stated that other farmers of the Spade community had seeded acreage to the crop.

CARL HARKINS HOPED TO ENGAGE ANGELO'S
CLUB ARMISTICE DAY

"I do not mind this pain nor the thought of having a broken arm. The only worry that I have is in fact that I must be out of uniform when we play San Angelo on Armistice Day."

It was "Skeet" Hawkins, fleet back on the Wolf squad talking. He was addressing his remarks to his coach, Hardy Pearce, who spent all day Sunday in Big Spring to be with the lad who is in a Big Spring hospital. Doctors at the hospital found last week that the arm, broken during the Colorado Big Spring game, must be re-set. A part of the bone was removed and a silver plate set. The wound is healing satisfactory now and Harkins should be able to return home within the week.

Pearce entered the San Angelo game with another of his strong men out. C. L. Joyce had not been in uniform since the Big Spring game, due to a badly sprained ankle.

Home Improvement
Specialist Planning
Visit To Colorado

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement, extension service department, A. & M. College, is to spend next Monday in Mitchell county.

The morning will be spent in conference in the Home Demonstration agent's office concerning plans of work for the coming year. During the afternoon Mrs. Claytor and Miss Sevier will visit some of the living rooms, improved two or three years ago. Mrs. Claytor is anxious while visiting a number of counties to check up on the work done in the past to learn if this work is really standing up or done temporarily.

Living rooms to be visited are those of Mrs. Frank Andrews, Hyman; Mrs. A. J. Hooks, Buford, and Mrs. J. M. Byrd, Conaway.

Bedroom improvement is being done throughout the State this year. Mrs. Claytor will discuss this work with the following demonstrators while here: Mrs. M. L. Adrian of Landers; Mrs. Frank Andrews, and Mrs. Carl Lowry, Hyman.

Colorado Baptists
Attending Meeting
In Waco This Week

Rev. Oren C. Reid, pastor of the First Baptist church, with other Baptist leaders in Colorado, are in Waco to attend annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, opened Wednesday morning at Waco Hall, the new auditorium of Baylor University. The Colorado church carried to the convention a most optimistic report covering progress during the past fiscal year.

Enroute to the convention city, Rev. Mr. Reid preached in Brownwood Sunday. He will be back in his own pulpit for all services Sunday. The convention will be closed Friday.

Officers of the convention are as follows: President, Dr. L. R. Scarborough, president of Southwestern Seminary, Fort Worth; J. E. Nunn of Amarillo, W. W. Chancellor, Ministerial Wells, and Harlan J. Matthews of Marshall are vice presidents; J. L. Truitt of Whitehouse and D. B. South of San Antonio are recording secretaries, and Robert H. Coleman of Dallas is secretary of the association.

In addition to the Baptist General Convention, proper, two other large Baptist bodies met in Waco immediately preceding the convention. The W. M. U., representing the organized Baptist women of Texas, opened its session at the First Baptist church, Waco, Monday afternoon, and the Pastors' and Laymen's Conference held a one-day session on Tuesday.

VISIT RURAL SCHOOLS IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Minister Jim Harvey, roll call chairman, and Jim Greene, chairman of the Mitchell county chapter, American Red Cross, visited several rural schools of the county during first of the week to complete organization of forces to direct annual roll call, opening Wednesday morning.

Harvey is optimistic in the belief that Mitchell county citizens will over-subscribe quota of six hundred members.

CONTRACT TO RETAIN TWO EXTENSION DEPT. AGENTS
RENEWED BY THE COUNTY

County Commissioners Court Unanimous In Order To Continue Work

Both agents of the Extension Service department, A. & M. College are to continue their work in Mitchell county under provisions of an order passed unanimously by commissioners' court here Monday.

"All members of this court are in full harmony with work of the agents and we expect to lend every support to Mr. Foster and Miss Sevier," states a paragraph entered in minutes of the court over signature of Judge A. F. King, posted immediately following a record of the order retaining the agents for another year.

Action of the commissioners' court in renewing contract with the Extension department to employ the two agents for another year did not come as a surprise to interested citizens, according to popular belief here. Judge King and the four commissioners had familiarized themselves with work of Mr. Foster and Miss Sevier and were understood as being heartily in favor of lending official cooperation to continuation of their services in the county.

Both the agents have announced tentative plans for major objectives another year. They are building the most pretentious program ever attempted by the department in the county, including expansion of 4-H club and home demonstration work, improvement of rural home conditions and the development of added interest in diversity on the farm.

Model Shop Opens
Final 'Close Out'
Sale On Thursday

John Summers, owner and manager of the Model Shop, Colorado's distinctive store, announces that his last and final closing out sale was opened Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

"Every item of merchandise in the store has been marked down to even lower prices in order to move this merchandise during the next 30 days," Summers said. "We expect to close out the last article within a month."

The store is still well stocked with seasonable merchandise and every article will be sold under the Model Shop guarantee of entire satisfaction. Price schedule and further announcement of the sale is given in the store's display advertising space in another column of The Record.

Dairying Problems
Will Be Discussed
In Meeting Friday

Mitchell county dairymen and farmers who produce dairy products for market are reminded of importance of address to be delivered at the court house Friday night by E. R. Eudaly, dairy specialist of A. & M. College. The specialist is being brought to Colorado through influence of the county farm agent.

Mr. Eudaly will speak on the subject, "Ways to Increase Profits of the Dairy Cow." Following the address a general discussion of problems faced by the average dairy man and dairy farmer is to be taken up.

W. S. Foster, county farm agent, stated Tuesday that it was of importance that interested farmers and dairymen hear the address of Mr. Eudaly.

BAPTIST MINUTES ARE ISSUED AT COLORADO

Minutes of the 33rd annual meeting of the Smith County Baptist Association, held at Tyler on October 13-14, were issued from the Whipkey Printing Company press this week. The local concern annually handles scores of such church contracts.

BIG SPRING LAWYERS ATTEND GRID MELEE

Judge Fritz R. Smith, holding court at Big Spring, recessed his sessions for Wednesday in that lawyers and other attaches might attend annual Big Spring-Sweetwater grid battle. The court left the matter to a vote of the lawyers and they voted unanimously to recess district court for the day.

Mrs. Esther Green of Fort Worth, formerly Miss Pauline Felker, was a week-end guest of Mrs. Cug Wheeler. Mrs. J. A. Ferguson, Misses Lilian Pond and Ruebelle Smartt attended the Legion dance in Sweetwater Saturday evening.

Vote on Liquor Asked in Colorado In 1907; First Snow on November 10

An interesting bird's-eye view of the citizenship of Mitchell county 24 years ago would be afforded if there were room to reprint the list of names signed to a petition asking for an election to "determine whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in Mitchell county" in November, 1907. The petition and its signers are copied on the front page of the Colorado Record for Friday, November 15, 1907.

A surprising number of the names are still being signed to petitions in Colorado today, and several have been associated with the business world of other towns and counties for several years. A large number appear no more, but are written with epitaphs in some cemetery.

That year the first snow of the winter had visited Colorado ere it was this late in the fall. The Record says:

"Up to Sunday morning (November 10) the fall weather had been mild as a lamb and gentle as a spring zephyr. The woodyard philanthropist had begun to regret his piles of useless fuel and merchant repent his heavy investment in winter goods. No one anticipated a norther until it came, and then everybody had been expecting it just when it came, as was proven by the fact that nobody was prepared for it when it came. But it came all right Sunday morning. By noon it was blowing and raining, with the cold increasing hourly. The rain turned to snow Sunday night and continued until Monday noon."

The highlights of the social life in Colorado during that week had been a reception given by Mrs. John Person on Thursday and the first open meeting of the Card Club at the home of Mrs. Gus Bertner.

At Mrs. Person's reception, Mrs. Robert Terrell welcomed the guests at the door, and Mrs. M. Carter introduced them to the receiving line, which consisted of Mesdames Person, Hart, McDonald, Eugene Payne, J. T. Harness, T. C. Mullin, T. J. Payne, Johnson, and D. N. Arnett. Mesdames Bertner, Griswold, Waldo and Brennan assisted in entertaining in the parlor. Mrs. Blandford and Mrs. A. J. Payne ushered the guests into the dining room. Misses Terrell and Rogers, together with Mrs. Jim Smith, Mrs. Shropshire, Mrs. Earnest and Mrs. J. T. Johnson, served refreshments.

Mrs. Bertner's entertainment of the Card Club was lauded: "One of the sweetest functions ever given in Colorado." The guests were met by Misses Isia Wulfjen, Maggie Smith, Martha Earnest and Bessie McMurry. The receiving line consisted of the hostess, Mrs. Brooks Bell, and Mrs. Radford. Both prizes were won by Wes Allen.

Mrs. Shropshire had entertained on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Vivian Shropshire, Mesdames Hart and McDonald of Missouri. Mesdames Bailey, Adams, Earnest, Waldo, Bertner and Allen made up the house party at this affair. Musical selections were given by Mrs. John T. Johnson, Misses Blandford, Pearl Ruddick, Ralph Dallman, Eloise Shropshire, and Jessie Person.

The Record contained the following local items:

"Mesdames Hart and McDonald of Missouri, who have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Payne, left Tuesday night for their home."

"Mrs. and Miss Rix of Big Spring are visiting Mrs. C. M. Adams."

"Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Payne, after a visit to the home folks, have returned to their home in Garza county."

"Mrs. M. Phelan, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Landers, returned home Tuesday."

"Through the kindness of Howard Hookers and John Whitten, a large number of students and three teachers were transported to Seven Wells last Saturday. The two big black teams had about all they could do to pull the merry crowds through the sandy roads, and several buggies brought up the rear."

"Young Herbert Hazzard, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Hazzard, has been transferred from El Paso to Colorado, under the civil service regime."

"The Hesperian club met Friday with the Misses Dry. The social hour was enlivened by the presence of Mesdames T. H. Roe, T. Q. Mullin and Johnson."

"Postmaster Hazzard is off again this week, at Fort Worth attending the State Postmasters' convention. Prince is a hale-fellow well met, and we predict a good time for him at the convention."

"Judge Homan was a visitor in Sweetwater on Monday and heard the immortal Joe Bailey speak."

"City Attorney John P. Harris has decided to move to Tahoka and will leave some time next week for his new home."

of last week at Lubbock, on court and land business combined.

"The weather and money panic combined has caused us to somewhat slack up on the paper this week."

"J. T. Latham came up from Sterling this week to see the sights of a city."

"Miss Mattie Thomas, who has been visiting in Sherman, returned home Saturday."

"E. B. Chaney and family left on Monday for Colorado City, where they will make their future home. Mr. Chaney and family were good citizens and we hate to lose them."—Robert Lee Observer.

"J. A. Buchanan received a telegram Tuesday announcing the death of his father at Vaughan in Hill county. The Record man taught school at Vaughan in 1881, where the elder Buchanan was a trustee of the school, and we knew him to be a good man, one of Hill county's best and most valuable citizens."

"H. B. Smoot spent Sunday in Dallas."

"Death mercifully ended the suffering of Mrs. Bessie Morris on Wednesday morning. Funeral rites were conducted by Rev. Galbraith."

"J. S. McCall is home from the ranch."

WIZARD CONTROL IS SENSATIONAL FEATURE ON NEW BUICK AUTOS

The principles of "Wizard Control" will be demonstrated at all Buick showrooms the country over Saturday, when the new Buick Eight for 1932 is shown for the first time.

"Wizard Control" has aroused much discussion since the preliminary announcement of the coming of the new Buick. It results from a sensational new method of car control featuring a button-controlled automatic clutch, with improved free wheeling, and a new synchronous transmission with silent gear, said to represent the finest engineering Buick has ever attained in a unit of this kind.

The presentation includes an extensive line of twenty-six new models, the most complete line ever built by Buick, grouped in four series, with smart, modish bodies by Fisher and a score of brilliant engineering features.

In the new body design, a skillful handling of the radiator lines has achieved a slim, fleet beauty, enhanced by chrome beading on the radiator shutters and chrome-plated streamline headlamps with fender parking lamps in a harmonizing design. Dual trumpet-style horns, synchronized in tone and placed on each side of the radiator below the headlamps, and door-type ventilators instead of the usual louvres, give further luxuriousness to the design. The entire body, with these features, and the new smartly sloping windshield and easy flowing lines, presents a longer, lower custom-built appearance.

Led by Wizard Control, Buick offers many outstanding advancements for 1932. There is a newly-developed ride regulator, easily operated while driving, by a small handle located on the steering column. It adjusts the riding qualities of the car to any type of road surface or condition, the speed of travel and the number of passengers in the car. Marking a new trend is the instrument panel, with all instruments grouped at the left, directly under the eye of the driver.

The new valve in head straight eight engines provide optional high compression, capable of improved performance; while improved starting, carburetion and fuel supply system, and improved oil temperature regulator, and a new vacuum pump pioneered by Buick, giving positive windshield wiper action at all speeds are other important features.

Vacuum from the intake manifold always available when the engine is running, operates the automatic clutch. It is controlled by a touch of the foot upon a floor button, making possible smooth gear shifting without use of the clutch pedal, with instantaneous change back and forth from free wheeling to conventional control, as desired.

The conventional clutch pedal is retained, and yet it need not be used in shifting gears, save when making a cold start or perhaps when parking in close quarters. Free wheeling is obtained simply by depressing the button and releasing the accelerator. Release the button or depress the accelerator, and the clutch engages again, making positive connection with the engine.

Mike Mahoney likes that old, old story of the aging busybody, a fanatic on smoking, who walked up to a young man on a street corner and asked accusingly:

"Young man, how many cigars do you smoke a day?"

"Five," replied the young man.

"My, my! Why, young man, if you stopped smoking and saved you money you spend on cigars, in ten years you could own that skyscraper across the street."

"I do," said the young man.

"You needn't tell me
—I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

Never parched, never toasted

CAMELS are FRESH in nature's own mild way!

EVERYONE knows now that Camels are the fresh cigarette. They need no parching or toasting to make them smooth, palatable, cool.

If inquiry went deeper, it would reveal that Camels are the natural moisture cigarette.

That's important, because in handling fine tobaccos, when you process out natural moisture, you sacrifice freshness and flavor too.

Camel smokers needn't worry about that, because Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that are never subjected to violent processing. They need no parching or toasting to make them smooth, palatable, cool. That's why the Camel Humidor Pack is such a boon to Camel smokers—it preserves the freshness, flavor, natural moisture, fragrance that are in this fine cigarette to start with.

Camels are fresh in nature's own mild way, and if you want to see what that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

Former Colorado Girl Writes of Civic And Historic Attractions in New York

Miss Rosalie Leslie, daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. P. Leslie of Eastland, has some interesting things to say, as she described some of the civic and historic attractions in New York City. Miss Leslie is a graduate of the Colorado high school and later attended Texas State University. She is now a student at Columbia, New York.

In a recent letter to her parents, Miss Leslie says:

"I've been studying all afternoon and will relax and write you a letter. I had a glorious week-end. On Saturday afternoon we took the bus up to Tarrytown and walked a mile out to Sleepy Hollow and saw the place where the headless horseman bridge was erected and old Dutch church, and graveyard where Washington Irving's tombstone can still be seen. The leaf I am enclosing came from the walls of the old church. The woods are beautiful at this time of the year, bedecked in their autumn colors. The weather was cool and the brisk walk did us good. We got off the bus at Sunny Side Lane and walked down to the Hudson to get a look at the old residence of Washington Irving, but the foliage of the trees hid it from sight. Visitors are not allowed on the grounds. We passed the Rockefeller and Helen Gould estates and saw the Castle. The New York Central lines were moved across the road so the smoke would not come over—Rockefeller's private golf course.

"Sunday morning we took the subway down to Wall Street and walked up to the end of Ee street to Trinity Church. I paused at the entrance to the church and looked down Wall Street—so very narrow and so very dark, surrounded by tall, gray skyscrapers. The Irving Trust Company and the First National Bank, of which Geo. N. Baker was president for 50 years, are just across the street. The latter is being moved to the new City National Bank, on Wall Street, because recent excavations for the new Trust building have caused the building to sink. At intervals of 15 minutes the chimes of Trinity church tolled off the last few hours of the half-century during which the building has been occupied by the First National Bank, which was the first bank in New York City to receive a charter under the National Banking Act of 1863. The canyon of Wall Street was busy yesterday with the activities of the men transporting period furniture, desks, etc. Policemen stood guard at both corners. The thick gray walls and the heavily-barred windows and doors of the United States Treasury held a thousand mysteries for me. Yet all its coldness and somberness were dispelled at the sight of the immense statue—so appropriately large—of George Washington at the entrance. This statue marks the location of the old City Hall where the "Father of Our Country" was inaugurated first president of the United States.

"The New York Exchange Building and the more modern New York Curb Exchange building thrilled me. The gray stone columns at entrance to the New York Exchange reminded me of the Grecian temples, and I thought how far these columns were from their natural surroundings where there was no feverish rush for gold.

"I attended service at the old Trinity church. Outside, the subways, the surface cars, and the elevated trains rumbled on incessantly, but inside it was quiet and peaceful. The high Gothic arches, the beautifully stained windowpanes, the altar dedicated to the memory of the late William Astor, and the melodious anthems will always remain to me a beautiful memory. The little graveyard which surrounds the church is said to be worth millions of dollars to the capitalists, there in the shade of the financial centers of the world, but it seems to be worth much more than money can buy to others. I saw the graves of Robert Fulton, Alexander Hamilton, Eliza, the widow of Alexander Hamilton, and Lawrence, the sea captain. I found a tombstone marked 'Hannah, the wife of Will Leslie, Esq., 1780.' The rest of the inscription was too dim for me to make out. Perhaps mother, with her keen eyes, could decipher it. We shall see some day.

"West Point is an hour and a half ride on the New York Central from the ferry at Weehawkin on West 42nd street. We rode up Sunday afternoon, and the friends of a teacher showed us the places of interest—lovely little chapel where all the military weddings are performed in June, the historic Hudson, the immense mess hall where the 1300 cadets eat, the library containing the original painting of Geo. Washington by Gilbert Stewart, the artillery, the stables, and the dress parade grounds. As luck would have it, we got there in time to see a West Point full-dress parade. The regularity and precision with which each movement was made dazzled me. The band played military airs, and a cannon ball was discharged across the Hudson.

"We ferried across the Hudson after dark, and the bright lights, the silhouettes of the tall buildings and the dark waters of the river created one of the most impressive sights of all of my experiences."

Tommy—I don't know, teacher, but it's not enough to worry about.

BUILD THE CHURCH
The American Republic had its inception from the ideals of Christianity and the first building, crudely fashioned from logs felled in the wilds of an unknown forest as the Pilgrim Fathers put themselves to the task of building that first community of American civilization on the New England coast was a church house.

The Record, appreciating that the church stands for everything that is good in individual, community, State and National progress, is publishing a series of articles on the churches of Colorado and the ministers charged with responsibility of directing the church activities.

Colorado should pride in her churches. Colorado should pride in her ministry. They are united in a well-defined bond of fellowship in the general program of religion in this community. They are entitled to the active support of the citizenship.

Those not already identified with one of the local churches will find that a place awaits them in the Sunday school and other religious programs. The oldest institution of them all, and the one that alone shall never perish, is the church.

FORGING AHEAD IN 1932
The Mitchell county commissioners' court passed a most constructive and conservative order Monday, when its members, voting in unity, decreed that services of the two Extension Service agents should be continued another year.

Action of the court, in placing its official endorsement on this work and at the same time pledging its members to lend every cooperation to programs of Miss Sevier and Mr. Foster, will be accepted with satisfaction among the people of this county. It means that the commendable strides attained during 1931, in the way of diversified farm projects is to be maintained and even enlarged upon during the year to follow.

The citizenship should now rally to support of the agents stronger than ever before. The court has done its share and will of necessity be forced to curtail expense in some departments in order to continue salaries of the agents.

SPONSORING AMERICANISM
The tenets of Americanism, as enunciated by the American Legion are properly being brought to attention of Colorado school children through inauguration of another popular contest by Colorado Legionnaires. It should be the ambition of every school child to rightfully claim affiliation with a program such as was outlined in address by Thos. R. Smith at the Junior High school building Tuesday morning, in which he spoke of the ideals of American citizenship and outlined some of the objectives to which the student was being directed.

Oran C. Hooker Post, American Legion, is asserting itself in this community, as an outstanding champion to forever preserve the traditions of American patriotism and American citizenship.

OFF MAIN STREET
Under the above caption, the Albany News of last week contained the following notation:

"For several days the editor of the Albany News has been resting in the environs of the old homestead, Hill-Road place. Not so very sick, just mostly taking a much-needed rest. Dr. Buchanan says that in just a few days he will take the halter and the hobbles off and turn the old horse back on the range. During our absence from News office, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Fryar and Mrs. Richard H. McCarty are getting out the News. Sometimes it's good for a fellow to get off the tripod, and to his surprise find out that there are other newspaper folks in town—besides, he finds out he's not so darn smart as he thought."

The above serves to show that Colonel McCarty, the versatile editor of the Albany News, is getting along very nicely. Many friends over the State hope for his early and complete restoration to health and happiness.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF MITCHELL.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the Honorable Special District Court of the 32nd Judicial District in and for Mitchell County, on the 27th day of October, 1931, by J. H. Ballard, Clerk of said District Court, for the sum of Twelve Hundred Forty-five & 30/100 ($1245.30) Dollars together with interest and costs of suit, under a judgment foreclosing a lien, in favor of W. O. Kinnison, Independent Executor of the Estate of W. A. Kinnison, Deceased, in a certain cause in said Court No. 12 and styled W. O. Kinnison, Independent Executor of the Estate of W. A. Kinnison, Deceased, vs. Alvin Light et al, placed in my hands for service, I, R. E. Gregory, as Sheriff of Mitchell County, Texas, did on the 28th day of October, 1931, levy on certain Real Estate situated in Mitchell County, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: Being all of Lots Seven (7) and Eight (8) in Block No. Eight (8) of the T. & P. Subdivision of the Town of Loraine, in said Mitchell County, as laid down and described in the map or plat thereof of record in Vol. 16, on Page 602, of the Deed Records of said Mitchell County; said judgment also being in favor of T. J. Coffee, for the sum of Two Hundred Fifty-Five & 51/100 ($255.51) Dollars, with interest and costs of suit, against the defendant, Alvin Light, and being for foreclosure of a chattel mortgage lien on certain personal property situated on the above-described premises, said lien being foreclosed subject to the lien of the plaintiff, W. O. Kinnison, Independent Executor, which was made a prior lien on said property by said judgment; and said real estate being levied upon as the property of Alvin Light and Leota Light, defendants, and that on the first Tuesday in December, 1931, the same being the first day of said month, at the Court House door of Mitchell County, in the City of Colorado, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said Order of Sale and said Judgment, I will sell said above described Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said defendants, Alvin Light and Leota Light.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Colorado Record, a newspaper published in Mitchell County.

Witness my hand, this 28th day of December, 1931.

R. E. GREGORY,
Sheriff, Mitchell County, Texas.

A true definition of a pedestrian is a man with a Ford car, wife and two grown daughters.

A true optimist is a man over 60 taking the chance of a second wife.

The bullmurray gas out of Oklahoma is a no-nox gas.

Mark Twain said that when he was a boy of 14 his father was so ignorant he could hardly stand to have the old man around, but when he got to be 21 it simply astonished him how much the old man had learned in seven years.

The older Mr. Twain, from common accounts, was not a very wise man. At least not a very forward-looking one. He was a plain individual, intent upon making a plain living. But to him a genius was born without his knowing it. Mark Twain was a genius in his way, and genius has many ways of asserting itself. The young, as a rule, wonder how their seniors manage to get by, knowing so little. But when the young come into maturity they realize that the old folks were not so dumb as they seemed to be. When one first begins to wrestle with adversity, he acquires a deeper respect for those who have wrestled with that challenger for years and have thrown it as often as it has thrown them. Making ends meet, bringing, buckle and tongue into effective juxtaposition, is never accomplished by slight twists of the wrist. The thing has to be done with all one's mind and all one's strength and all one's hands—two hands at least. No doubt Mark Twain, in his years of fame and fortune, thought of his father's struggles with an awe and wonder and admiration that would have warmed the old man's heart had he lived to realize them.

All of us have noticed that rich men, and famous men, like to play at being poor and living primitively from time to time. Consider Hoover hurrying to the Virginia backwoods every chance he gets. Consider the millionaire who camps in the wilderness, eats out of the frying-pan and digs his own fishing worms every summer. It cannot but mean that they subconsciously respect those who live obscure but relatively free lives in common-place poverty.

A lady friend and reader of this column sends in this and calls it poetry:

FALL IS BEST
I hear the wind a-whistling
Around the corner of my room;
It scatters wide the petals
Of the roses late in bloom.

I love the chilling freshness
Of a "Norther" in the fall;
It chases dead leaves down the walk
And o'er the garden wall.

I love the haze of autumn skies
When leaves are turning brown,
And the rattle of the cotton wagons
Coming into town.

I like the winter with its snow,
And the spring with foliage green,
And the pleasant days of summer
That linger in between.

Spring was made for sowing,
Winter made for rest,
But the Fall with cotton fields of white
Is the season I like best.

Joe Sheppard, one of our best Mitchell county farmers, says: "I am only a Mitchell county farmer. When wheat was $1 per bushel and I had flour and sugar in the house and cake and pie every time I wanted them, I was not satisfied and voted for a change. I wore a Hoover badge and was faithful in all things to the G. O. P. I believed in the dawn of a day I would get $2 for wheat and 20c for my cotton. Two years have gone by, never to return and I am too poor to buy the necessary Rockefeller for my Henry. I still wear a Hoover badge, but it's on the seat of my overalls. I am thankful for one thing and that is that Hoover has been able to make common rabbits taste good in the summer time and if they hold out I will not want. I am sorry that my feed would not pay the expense of gathering. No relief as the administration will continue to uphold Mellon, that he may be able to collect four years' interest on funds of his own bank for a righteous house."

Joe suggests we change the reading of the Lord's prayer to "Teach me to pray: Our Father who are in Washington, Hoover is his name, his kingdom come, his will be done, even to vetoing the soldiers' bonus. Give us this day our daily bread, that Coolidge ried to make us eat for four years and Hoover had us eating in three months and lead us not into Republican Presidency, for Hoover has all the power. Mellon all the money, Rockefeller all the oil and we have patched pants forever and ever."

Juarez, Mexico, has a unique law—no one shall kiss on the streets. Two couples recently paid a fine for violating this act. The fine was paid willingly.

ETHRIDGE HAS A DREAM
One night last week, after a hard day's work (believe it or not) Cliff Ethridge had a dream. The stillness of the night was shattered by the baying of the fox hounds and the pounding of hoofs over the hard ground. A chase was on and Cliff—his body tensed with the excitement of the chase. So clear did the sounds of the hunt come to him that he could follow every action of the hunt. They came to a gate to a fox-proof fenced pasture. Ah! Now the sly old fox had slipped through the gate, the hounds fast on its trail, squirmed and squeezed past the barrier and then came the sound of heavy bodies taking the gate at a hurdle. The baying grew louder, and the excited yells of the men told Cliff that the chase was nearing an end. Unable to contain himself and opened the window that he might see the finish. No sooner had he raised the window than a streak of brown (the fox) left the ground and hit him full in the chest. There he was, panic-stricken, the fox foaming at the mouth, bared his teeth and snarled viciously at him. He had no protection, no gun. What would he do? Was he stumped? No—no courageous Cliff. With a display of presence of mind and fast thinking, he slammed the window shut, imprisoning the fox between the window and ledge. At this time members of the hunt came up. They retrieved the fox and gave Cliff a reward for his valor. About that time his wife woke him up for breakfast.

Some men thirst after fame.
Some men thirst after love.
Some men thirst after money.
Some men thirst after salted almonds.

Somebody cares what the day holds for you,
Somebody's wishing the best for you, too;

Time brings its changes and new ties are wrought,
But still you are treasured in somebody's thought;
All that life brings you somebody shares,
For somebody loves you, and somebody cares.

MY TRIP TO THE DALLAS FAIR
By HILDA OHLENBUSCH
Early Monday morning of October 19 I found myself up, with the happy thought of going to the Dallas Fair. I was not settled until I was on the train, becoming acquainted with my chaperon and the girls with whom I was to associate during that week.

At 2:30 p. m. we were in Dallas, delighted with the friends we met and the services offered us. We put our suit-cases on the truck and took a street car to the gates of the fair grounds. We found our suit-cases at the door of the Encampment, and then we were assigned to rooms. Supper was served at six, and from that time on we were allowed to do what we pleased until 11 o'clock. This was indeed the noisiest night of the week.

The next morning, as every morning, we were awakened by the sweet "Good morning, girls" of Bess Edwards. Each meal seemed more appetizing than the one before. The meals were furnished and planned by the Fair Association, and they were certainly well planned.

Among the things we saw on our visits over the fair grounds were county exhibits, 4-H Club exhibits, art exhibits, machinery, cars, poultry, livestock, rodeo, painting of the Battle of Gettysburg, and sewings. We could have spent a day, gazing and wondering at these sights, but the time was short and limited, so we hurried through all these. Outside of the fair grounds we visited the zoo, a show at the Palace, and "Three Little Girls."

On Thursday night, our last night together, the 23 girls in the 12 rooms presented a stunt for the other girls. These stunts were full of both humor and sadness.

After the stunts, girls began to take leave and at 8 o'clock the camp was completely broken up. To me this was indeed a sad occasion, because I know I can never attend the Encampment again as a 4-H Club girl.

I have enjoyed working for all I have gained these four years. There has been much work, but with it all there has been much entertainment and education. I wish to thank all who have helped me in any way to be a better club member and to do better work.

Miss Sevier, Miss Swift and Mr. Foster have been very patient in helping me. I realize that without Miss Sevier's extra help I could not have accomplished what I have. At home I have gained help as well as encouragement, and for that reason I am telling you of my trip this year.

Austin.—Total shipments of Texas fruits and vegetables during September amounted to 164 cars, or an increase of almost 200 per cent over loadings for September, 1930.

Visitor—Oh, what a cute little dolly. Does she say "mamma" when you squeeze her?
Little Girl—Naw! My doll is a modern doll. When you squeeze her she says "Oh, boy!"

Playing Church
Jack and Mary had just been to the grown-up's church for the first time. A day or so afterward they were found in the nursery whispering audibly to each other.

The nurse asked: "What are you doing?"
"We're playing church," Jack replied.
"But you shouldn't whisper in church."
"Oh, we're the choir."

FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM
Morning—Evening—Sunday
AMON G. CARTER, President

Buster Keaton In 'Sidewalks of New York' at Palace

The beginning of a screamingly funny talking screen story of a young millionaire's experiences in mad Manhattan:

Homer Van Tine Harmon was bitter. Life had dealt unkindly with him. On the way to the Hester street tenements, the rentals of which provided him with but one-hundredth per cent of his million-dollar-a-year income, he was saddened by the appalling destructiveness of mankind. His personal agent Mr. Henry Adamson Poggie, had reported to him that windows by the score were being broken by Clipper Kelly and his gang of young hoodlums. Now Homer was going to take matters in his own hands.

Homer had never worked in his life and would never have to work. This was lucky, as many persons said that Homer didn't have the gray matter necessary to hold down a pick-and-shovel job nor the physical strength necessary for roasting peanuts. His father had left him several millions.

The matter of the broken windows was his first attempt at tackling the problem of life.

"I think you're wrong about this neighborhood, Poggie. So far, this ride has been very pleasant," he remarked as they drove along.

Just then the car dropped into a rut—there was a bump. After Harmon had recovered his hat, he spoke to the driver through the speaking tube.

"Hawkins, please try and avoid the open sewers."

He settled back just as they dropped into another hole. After Harmon had again recovered the tube was stuck in his mouth.

"Is he driving in the street?" he asked Poggie.

"Oh, he's a very good driver—he drove a tank in the war," remarked Poggie.

"But the war is over and I'm no tank."

A brick came through the car window, breaking it.

"What is it, Poggie?"

"It's those kids fighting. Now you see why your property gets wrecked?"

"Stop the car—I'll take care of those ruffians," he exclaimed to the driver.

The car stopped. Hawkins got out, just as a kid in front of him got an awful sock in the nose. Harmon advanced toward the crowd and raised his hand.

"Come, come, my little man!"

An over-ripe tomato hit his hand. He lowered it and raised the other.

"If you do that again—"

This time a cauliflower hit his other hand. He looked slowly around to see who threw it and a bunch of carrots caught him in the back of the neck. Poggie stuck his head out of the limousine.

"Hey! Stop this—" he shouted.

See and hear the conclusion of this remarkably funny story in "The Sidewalks of New York," at the Palace Theatre, Thursday and Friday, November 12 and 13. Buster Keaton and Anita Page at their best.

'Clean Out the Arsonite,' Is Plea Of Fort Worth Newspaper in Fire Editorial

It is time for Texans to rid themselves of the arsonite, states an editorial in recent issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, commenting on the increased number of arson fires in Fort Worth, Dallas and other Texas cities.

The editorial is reprinted as follows:

Texas has an arson statute which promises to reduce the cost of fire insurance in this State. It was passed during the regular session of the 42nd legislature last spring.

Fort Worth's fire record for September was 238. Written reports are made by the fire marshal, the data being the notes made by the firemen and the official investigators. Fires have much more individuality than is generally suspected. Those familiar with the profession of fire fighting come to read the indication of the arsonite as easily and as certainly as the frontiersman came to know "Injun signs." In the Fort Worth report for September there are no less than 50 fires of undoubted incendiary origin with equally undoubted intent of "burning for profit."

Under the new arson statute those arsonites could be indicted and convicted.

Dallas has been plagued by arsonites for the past several years. When the law went into effect the Dallas district attorney's office went into action with promptness and energy. A special assistant district attorney was given the job of collaborating with the fire marshal in the investigation of suspicious fires. The Fort Worth district attorney likewise made the same provision.

The Dallas and Fort Worth examples should be followed by all Texas counties containing cities of the size most afflicted by the "burners for profit." There is no excuse for tamely submitting longer to the spectacle of buildings being burned, in a manner of speaking, by a man with one hand holding the match while the other is making the familiar gesture of contempt for constituted authority.

Clean out the arsonites!

New Fiction To Delight Local Library Members

Several books that will delight the heart of any fiction-lover have been added to the Colorado Library, situated over the city hall, in the past few weeks:

"A Lantern in Her Hand," by Bess Streeter Adrich, is probably one of the best of this number. There are two novels by Emilie D. Loring, "The Trail of Conflict" and "Here Comes the Sun."

Others in group include: "Hill-top House," by Alice Ross Colver; "Roper's Row," by Warwick Deering; "Touchstone," by Ben Ames Williams; "Make Believe," by Faith Baldwin; "Loyal Lover," by Margaret Widdemer; "Jenny," by Norma Patterson; "Miss Nobody from Nowhere," by Elizabeth Jordan; "Enchantment," by Ruth Cross; "Happy Landings," by Fanny Heaslip Lea; "Fathoms Deep," by Elizabeth Stanczy Payne.

For lovers of stories of the great outdoors and the West, there are: "Gone North," by Charles Alden Seltzer; "Chaps and Chukers," by Joseph B. Ames, and "The Valiant" by William McLeod Raine.

Membership in the library is $1 per year, and it is open on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, from 3 until 5:30 o'clock.

SPADE B. Y. P. U. NOTES

A very interesting program was rendered Sunday night on "Doctor Luke." There were 29 present; 35¢ collection.

Let's all read our Bible this week. Only a very small per cent of the members reported reading their daily Bible readings.

The lesson for November 15 is entitled, "The Holy Spirit in Soul-Winning." The program follows: Introduction—Laska Joy Hudson. The Holy Spirit and Fruit Bearing—Elva Hudson. Pentecost—Ivan Barber. Special song, "I Want My Life to Tell for Jesus." "The Early Church"—Charles Hudson. Philip the Evangelist—Minnie Lee Hood. Paul the Missionary—Ardath Byrd. The Secret of Power—Homer Salley. Special song by group, "I'll Live for Him." Let's all do our best to make this program worth while. Everyone is invited every Sunday night. Come and bring someone with you. We are very glad to have Miss Bailey back with us.

Crop Estimate Up 600,000 Bales As U. S. Report Made

The Government added another 600,000 bales to its 1931 cotton crop estimate when report was released at Washington Monday morning. The crop estimate was placed at 16,903,000 bales.

The Colorado cotton market was not effected by the adverse statement, but to the contrary posted an advance of 12 points during the forenoon. Confidence continued to dominate sellers, even the government report would be calculated to discourage an upward trend in quotations.

New Orleans cotton prices lost six points on opening, but during the day regained that decline, closing at the same figure at which the exchange had opened.

The increase of nearly 600,000 bales over the previous estimate was much larger than the private average estimates but it was about in line with expectations of a majority of traders.

The announced ginnings of 12,129,544 running bales to Nov. 1, or 2,629,857 running bales for the last period from Oct. 18 to Nov. 1 were larger than expected.

The general opinion prevailed that a big demand for spot cotton would more than offset the larger crop estimate.

Jacksonville.—Sinclair Oil Co. to begin erection of $100,000 pumping plant within four miles of city.

At The Change

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength. My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night. Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Fettle Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

WHY WE HAVE NATIONAL PROHIBITION

By W. H. GARRETT

For one hundred and fifty years people favoring temperance have encouraged every method that would tend to lessen the evils of intemperance and curb the traffic in alcoholic liquors. We have tried every plan that wisdom of men could suggest. We pledged drinkers to moderation, but found that seeds of an insatiable appetite had been planted. We pledged multitudes to the abstinence from the use of distilled liquors, but discovered that indulgence in milder liquors created the alcoholic habit. We encouraged the total abstinence movement but the growing liquor traffic debauched men faster than they could be reached. We tried licensing liquor with the result that it became entrenched in law and custom. We tried high license and found that the saloon that could pay the highest license was the saloon linked with gambling and prostitution. We tried local option. It was too local and too optional to withstand a National and world evil. We adopted State-wide prohibition, but National organizations poured a stream of intoxicating liquors across State lines, and a Federally-protected National trade used the mails to build up a great express and freight business. We passed the Webb-Kenyon bill to protect dry territory against the inroads of liquor from wet States, but the brewers and distillers sent along trainloads of it under the protection of interstate commerce laws, and their liquors mysteriously leaked out in transit. We closed the saloons in the country districts but boys and girls went to the city, met the liquor traffic there and the taxes of the farmer went to support institutions maintained for the relief of city delinquents and detectives. We tried government ownership in South Carolina, and it failed. By inevitable steps, then the issue became saloon versus no saloon. As a last step as a defense against the ravages of the liquor business we adopted the 18th Amendment or National Prohibition. With it we stand or fall.

RARE TEXT BOOKS FOR C. I. A. AT DENTON, TEXAS

DENTON, Nov. 10.—Four hundred rare text books, which were purchased earlier in the year by Dr. L. H. Hubbard, president of Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.), are now being catalogued preparatory to immediate placement on the library shelves of this college. The books were purchased from the collection of J. C. Ingram of Groveton.

The Texas Almanacs, beginning with the year 1857 when the first almanac was printed in Texas, and continuing down to the present time, represent from the point of carelessness and value one of the most outstanding features of the entire collection.

With the addition of these volumes, the Texas collection in the CIA library is placed in a favorable comparison with the old libraries and wealthiest institutions that have gathered similar collections in this State.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS

On Tuesday, Mr. Foster presented as his assembly program, Mr. Hester and the band. Several National and war songs were played. "El Capitan" march, "Over There," "Marseillaise," "Star Spangled Banner" and others.

After this program, Mary Louise Melton led some yells for the Wolves who, the next day, were to battle San Angelo.

On Wednesday, November 4, Rev. Mr. Elliott of the Presbyterian church spoke to the student body on "The Law of the Trend of Life." He showed how it was important to make the first steps of life correctly, for mistakes often mean disorder, disaster and defeat. Small mistakes often lead to greater ones, and it was because of this reason that Rev. Mr. Elliott appealed to each individual of the high school to make sure of his road and trend of life.

"Small mistakes are difficult to change in later life," Brother Elliott said, "and that is why I would say to you, let everything pure and beautiful come into your lives, and all that is not, be excluded forever."

Thursday, November 5, Miss Cooper had charge of the assembly program and, in connection with their commercial work, she explained many things which her students learned. As examples, she showed two offices, one efficiently managed and the other poorly managed.

In the scene showing the poorly managed office, Mary Francis Majors, Russell Soper, Charles Edwin Root and Gene Soper worked. In the efficiently managed office were T. Jay Goss, Wilma Barnett, Helen Hester, Guy Mosely and Homer Harris.

EDITORIAL

SCENES ALONG THE SHORE

Max Eastman in "The Enjoyment of Poetry," says that if a number of people should find themselves in a ferry boat, part of them would settle themselves indoors to await arrival at the destination. Others would climb upstairs to look out upon the water and the shore to see what interesting objects might come into view. Those intent upon reaching the other side are the practical people whose acts are performed with purposes in mind. They are the sort, one might say, who read books for the information they contain, who pursue an education so that they can make more money, who eat that they may be strong and healthy. Those who temporarily forget the destination of the trip in their enthusiasm for the pleasure of the passage are the "poetic people." They read less for information than for enjoyment; they take trips less to be transported to another location than that they may enjoy the scenery along the way; they carry on their work in school not primarily that they may attain some concrete object later in life, but rather that they may find in the studies and student activities a pleasant and stimulating way of living. They have a curiosity which impels them to seek knowledge and experience and they have an insight which enables them to extract inspiration and enjoyments from the contacts of the day. They go voyaging in the realms of literature, not that they may be guided to some safe port, but that they may find interest and beauty in the scenes along the shore.—Clipped.

HOLDING COTTON NOT PANACEA, McDONALD SAYS

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 10.—Warning that the cotton holding plan of Southern bankers does not contemplate the reduction of the available supply of cotton by a single bale is being voiced by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, in a series of addresses over the State. Commending the plan of the bankers as a boon to farmers, the commissioner pointed out that never theless the plan does not consume a single bale of cotton, and, in the final analysis, only retards its sale. Spinners know where the cotton is and the number of bales.

Success of the plan, therefore, is contingent upon two things, he said: Reduction of production, and increased consumption. Otherwise, the relief would be temporary.

"Bankers, business men and farmers alike," he said, "must remember one all-important fact in regard to the bankers' cotton holding plan. The plan does not lessen the available supply of cotton by one single bale. It does not consume a single bale. I have only commendation for the bankers' plan. But, in the last analysis, holding cotton only retards the marketing of cotton. The only thing that can reduce this surplus is consumption, aided by curtailed production.

"With these self-evident facts in mind, you can readily see the necessity of strict compliance in Southern States with laws to curtail acreage. All that is gained by this year's holding movement would be lost if next year should see another addition to our surplus. Always in the past, financing of cotton and its removal from the market has proven impractical and unsatisfactory, simply because there was no definite and positive means of curtailing the next year's production.

"Farmers are not so greatly worried as some newspaper and persons in other professions seem to be about what will be done with the excess acreage brought about by reduction of cotton," he said.

"I do not think it wise to attempt to tell the farmer what he shall do with this land, what he should plant on it, because it is an individual problem. Most farmers have in their own community the proper person with whom to advise, the county agent, working with the resources of A. & M. College at hand.

"Generally things are looking brighter right now than they have for a long time. Farmers as a whole are more optimistic. They all agree that they are going to cooperate, and work as a unit in reducing the cotton surplus to the end that values in cotton may be restored."

It cannot be disputed there is a good demand for cotton now and that the price is increasing despite the fact that United States Government report this week showed more production than was anticipated. The price of cotton advanced 18 points the day this report was made.

Divorce Mill' At Villa Acuna Being Planned, Is Report

"Step right up, ladies and gentlemen! Here's where you get them—hot from the bar! No delay. No scandalous details given out to the press! No filth, no dirt—and only a three-day residence requirement, and the fee is but $500 a clip! Step right up, gents—first come, first served!"

Such is the ballyhoo the barkers of Villa Acuna are liable to be shouting out to the multitudes within the next few months providing plans now under way to open a divorce mill in Villa Acuna materializes.

District court attaches of Del Rio divulged preparatory plans for the proposed divorce mill being contemplated for Villa Acuna, saying that during their recent sojourn at Piedras Negras they heard of the proposition.

Two Mexican lawyers from Mexico City are at work trying to get permission from Mexican authorities to have one branch of Piedras Negras District court removed to Villa Acuna so that the divorce mill can be opened for immediate operation. Fees of $500 will be charged and a residence limit of only three days will be required, according to plans now being considered by those promoting the venture.

Following closing of several Villa Acuna business firms and a gambling unit which function there a few weeks, the divorce mill is expected to revive tourist traffic into Villa Acuna and serve toward restoration of prosperity.

Mexican officials in Del Rio were silent regarding the proposed divorce mill, which would widely advertise Del Rio and compete with Reno and other outstanding "cure" resorts.

NORFLEET JOINS LAW ENFORCEMENT COMMISSION

J. Frank Norfleet, that wiry little straight thinking man, who gained world-wide fame when he ran to earth six swindlers who defrauded him of his life savings, has associated himself with the State Law Enforcement Commission which has its headquarters in Dallas, Texas.

In associating himself with this organization, Norfleet recognizes it as filling the need to handle just such cases as the case which brought him into world-wide prominence as a detective of first rank.

In discussing the need for a well-equipped organization like the State Law Enforcement Commission, Mr. Norfleet said, "There is no agency in any State that can offer rewards or follow up the commission of the swindling crime or run to earth those swindlers who annually prey upon the widows and orphans and the gullible all over the land."

The State Law Enforcement Commission is non-political and non-sectarian, and it has as its slogan, "Enforce all the laws, all the time." Everybody knows the interesting story of how J. Frank Norfleet ran down the men who swindled him out several thousand dollars in the old "drop the pigeon" game. There is no doubt that he is thoroughly schooled in the tricks and ways of criminals and will be a great asset to the law enforcement body.

Thieves in the Night Which House is Safe?

EVERY night, somewhere, evil minds are planning crimes and wrong-doings. Prevalent among the plots are those of house breaking.

A darkened home tells a complete story to the burglar—the folks are gone, it is safe to go in and leisurely ransack the place. So it is done and priceless possessions are gone forever.

Floods of light tell a different story—the folks are home, it is unsafe to enter. The thief has no way of knowing that the family is at the theater and have left their lights burning as insurance against this very thing—the cheap insurance in the world against outlawry and crime.

For a few cents a week you can protect your home against burglars—by leaving ample lights burning when you are out for the evening.

The busy man's day should end in utter relaxation. Proper lighting aids this comfortable after-dinner period.

Your lighting equipment was planned to give you ample illumination for reading, sewing, writing, studying and working. Empty sockets mean a dangerous shortage of light. Refill the vacant places with new bulbs before the strain begins to tell.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Reminiscences of His Life and Heroic Exploits

GEORGE WASHINGTON AND PEACE

Armistice Day, as the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points out, should recall to every American mind Geo. Washington as the devout believer that he was in peace. Throughout the eight years of the Revolutionary War, Gen. Washington fought with the aim of peace forever in mind. During his presidency his scrupulous efforts to keep the United States out of foreign entanglements had as their aim the single thought of peace.

For Washington, particularly in his later and more mature years, war had lost whatever glamor it may have had in his eyes. To him, peace was a personal blessing as much as a goal for the people. Peace meant to him the enjoyment of his beloved Mount Vernon with its gracious life and its warm hospitality. This right to peace he felt he had won, by whole-hearted devotion to military victory. He knew the value of an honorable peace by having paid its price in sacrifice, in trial, and even in the exposure of his person on the field of battle.

He proved the sincerity of his love of peace again and again, by the very readiness to resort to arms once more, when occasion demanded. When what is known as the "Whiskey Rebellion" threatened for a time, early in his second administration, he lost not a moment in dispatching troops to put it down. When he had retired from the Presidency to the enjoyment of Mount Vernon, he cheerfully accepted the responsibility of Commander-in-Chief once more, when our differences with France brought threat of war. Fortunately the storm-cloud passed, but Washington had proved his readiness to resort to the battle-fields had necessity beckoned.

But the necessity of war alone induced Washington to take up arms. History records what a fighter he was, when the cause was just and the fight was forced upon him. In every other respect he was a warrior who abhorred war.

George Washington had his Armistice Day when England signed articles of peace with the victorious Colonies in 1783. The moment the cause for which he had fought was won and triumph was a reality, he turned his back on military glory. As soon as decorum permitted, he resigned his commission to Congress and turned his face toward home, never again, he hoped, to be drawn away from peaceful pursuits as a private citizen. And this was the act of a man who, but a year before, had but to lift his hand to grasp the dictatorial power tendered him by an army that adored him and that raged at the neglect of Congress. His devoted officers virtually begged him to assume monarchial powers, and his only answer was indignant refusal.

So one of the greatest of soldiers remained one of the greatest advocates of peace, but, be it remembered, always the peace of honor. As head of the army he proved how honorably a war may be won; as President of the United States he proved how a statesman may preserve peace with honor. On more than one occasion the country during his administrations faced the risk of being drawn into European conflicts. Washington saved the country from the peril, but he saw to it equally well that its honor was in no way sullied.

In the great political classic he left us, the Farewell Address, delivered to the American people as he laid down the Presidency, the note of peace is sounded in lines that should be forever branded in memory:

"... nothing is more essential than the permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded; and that in place of them just and amicable feelings toward all should be cultivated. The Nation which indulges towards another an habitual hatred or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest."

The passage ends on a note which counsels freedom from these entanglements for the sole purpose of maintaining our peace.

On Armistice Day this year, the country is reminded again of those who gave their lives for country and who sleep in the peace of death. Over their bodies George Washington would pronounce his blessing. In deeds as eloquent as words, they proclaimed America's faithful adherence to the principle that he laid down for our perpetual guidance—peace as long as it is honorable, but war to the death when it is forced upon us, and always for the purpose of restoring peace again.
