NEW CHEVROLET CAR MEETS A SURPRISING RESPONSE FROM PUBLIC

DETROIT, Mich.—A surprising public response to the first showing of new Chevrolet "Standard Six" models last Saturday was disclosed here in wires from dealers received by H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager of the company.

Despite the existence of a national bank holiday, dealers almost uniformly reported attendance beyond expectations and all reported retail sales in limited volume, many deals involving payment in gold or bills of the old large size denomination.

More than four hundred unsolicited wires came from dealers everywhere, and, the tenor of all, Mr. Klingler said, revealed the field force confident of a spurt in sales.

The dealer at Cleveland, Oklahoma, wired that the "Standard Six" introduction created the only excitement here in two weeks. Constant stream of visitors flowed through showrooms first day.

One Buffalo dealer reported 6,000 showroom visitors and fifteen orders; another 1,500 people, 65 appraisals and five orders. One Philadelphia dealer sold three Standard and two Master models the first day; another at Richmond, Va., had 1,000 visitors, made 68 demonstrations and took three orders for Standard and one for Master models.

At Reading, Penna., two orders were taken the first hour, and York, Penna., reported five orders the first day. At Evansville, Ind., one dealer sold three cars and delivered two the first day. A Charlotte, N. C., dealer had 4,000 people, and one at Charleston, W. Va., reported good crowds and three sales.

One Atlanta dealer had more than 1,000 people, made 300 demonstrations and 50 appraisals, and another said both "public interest and attendance exceeded our expectations."

Lenoir, N. C., reported not one single criticism of the new car; Delhi, N. Y., reported twice as many people as expected, and Oneida wrote three orders. On the West coast the earthquakes interfered seriously with the announcement in Southern California; but Portland, Ore., reported attendance, appraisals and sales almost up to the announcement of the Master line in December.

"One gratifying phase of their wires was the large number who liked our going ahead with our announcement despite the bank holidays. The move, they pointed out, helped put confidence into their own organizations and their own customers. Confidence begets confidence, and it is our hope that the announcement may aid in crystallization of forward national thought and action."

TO EVERY VOTER IN THE CITY ELECTION APRIL 4, 1933

About the close of the last day for registering, totally unsolicited, I registered to have my name put on the ballot as a candidate for alderman.

I did so for the following reasons:

First: Because I want to advocate and vote for a reduction in our water rate. I favor reducing the minimum charge and cutting out the sewer charge altogether. Why charge for sewer connection and then charge for the water run through that connection?

Second: Because I want to advocate having, and vote to have our vacant lots and parts of lots, especially in the down town district, cleaned up and then kept clean.

Third: Because I can use the salary.

Fourth: Because I believe I am qualified to fill the office.

On July 5, 1901, I became a home owner resident and have been a home owner here ever since, though away once for 5 months and 4 days and another time for 21 months and one day.

Sept. 1, 1901, I began keeping books and collecting for the Water Company, Light Company, and Telephone Company, all under the management of Robt. M. Webb and worked for him six years.

Our city was incorporated in 1907. Oct. 9, 1907 I was appointed assessor and collector of city taxes; and Sept. 21, 1908 was appointed City Secretary-Treasurer. I served in the above capacity until May 15, 1913.

I have not personally solicited the vote of any one except my wife, and she did not promise to vote for me. She said, "You got enough 'cussing' when you held office before." But, with all that, if I am elected, she will help me to serve you to the best of my ability.

YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE EARNESTLY SOLICITED.

ERNEST KEATHLEY, adv.-lthg.

MOVIES

"Rackety Rax" coming to the Palace Theatre, Thursday and Friday, is a piece of farce comedy that has everything necessary to make people laugh. Against the elaborately modernistic background of the McGloin Enterprises, it satirizes the commercial aspects of all sports. Knucks McGloin (Victor McLaglen) is the super racketeer. He has a finger in everything. Fighters, wrestlers, social welfare workers, politicians, bootlegging—all have an efficiency system that puts the best conducted businesses to shame. It will keep you in spasms of laughter. Victor McLaglen is supported by eleven stars, including Greta Nissen, and Nell O'Day.

"Riding Toronado" coming to the Palace Theatre Saturday brings Tim McCoy to the Palace screen for the first time in months. His absence from the program has been noted by the Saturday patrons and his return will probably get a big hand. The picture is full of exciting episodes and is based on a story that is thoroughly western in every aspect. Nothing has been omitted in this picture to give the patrons good entertainment.

SPECIAL MIDNIGHT MATINEE

"The Mystery of the Wax Museum," a special, all Technicolor, Warner Bros. thriller, comes to the Palace Theatre Midnight Matinee, Saturday at 11:30 P. M. Novel though somewhat gruesome, this picture, never-the-less, is a picture that contains plenty of entertainment, not only for horror fans, but for the general rank and file of patrons.

as well. Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray, Glenda Farrell, and Frank McHugh head the cast of this exceptional and gorgeous Technicolor Picture.

Film fans who have expectantly awaited Clara Bow's new picture, will be amply rewarded when they see her in "Call Her Savage," showing at the Palace Theatre, Sunday and Monday. She is lovelier than ever, more poised, dignified, and has a certainty and confidence which should really reestablish her as the really one great star of the screen. Through flirtatious courtship days, a hasty and repentant marriage, and the reckless, carefree escapades thereafter, Clara leads three men a merry chase in the picture. Gilbert Roland, Monroe Owsley, Anthony Jowitt, Thelma Todd, Estelle Taylor, Willard Robertson, and Weldon Heyburn are contained in the supporting cast.

"Night of June 13" is a clever picture, well acted and smartly directed. It comes to the Palace screen on Regular Bargain Nights, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is a mystery picture for the cast. The audience is in on the mystery from the first. The mystery centers around the murder of a jealous wife, and her husband who is unable to furnish an air-tight alibi. Just when things are at the blackest, the small-town neer-do-well, who through a lot of fine comedy, gives everyone connected with the crime the jitters, finally drops information that clears the crime. The cast is of the best, headed by Clive Brooks, Adrienne Allen, Mary Boland, Charles Grapewin, Charles Ruggles, Frances Dee, Gene Raymond, Lila Lee, and Richard Carle.

The most famous detective in the world, Sherlock Holmes, stalks the desperate band of American racketeers in London, in "Sherlock Holmes," coming to the Palace Theatre, Thursday and Friday, April 6 and 7, and featuring Clive Brooks and Miriam Jordan. The modern London setting brings the methods of American racketeers into the scope of criminality of Morarity, who imports international criminals, including a Chicago gangster to introduce the store-keeper "shake-down" into London. The illustrious "pineapple" with its explosive tendencies, and the high-powered car and machine guns come to London. This picture offers good entertainment to the public.

LET'S PAVE HIGHWAY 101

Directing officials of the chamber of commerce are to be congratulated on the added impetus recently given campaign to build a paved thoroughfare over designation of Highway 101, extending north and south through Colorado.

The chamber of commerce is now advancing hope against hope that the Federal government, through authorization of the RFC Board, may be induced to finance labor expense incident to building the highway.

Whether the Federal government would consent to such a project remains as yet a mooted question. Uncle Sam might steer around the prevalent barrier of red tape attending progress on public improvement projects and pass the required financial allotment.

But there is nothing to be gained by passing time without consistent effort to get the government definitely at work on this project, whether it be through the RFC Board or the State Highway Commission.

In looking to a new source as the cooperative medium in assisting the State Highway Commission in building this highway the chamber of commerce does not turn a rebuking hand toward that great division of the State government. It is all being done in the spirit of loyal cooperation, extending whatever facilities the organization may command to both the State and Federal agencies in a movement out of which all concerned would become the benefactors.

Mitchell county sorely needs this highway. The Record believes the State Highway Commission realizes the need involved and we offer no criticism in continued delay at Austin. Perhaps the State will get around to the day when construction will be authorized—and begun.

ENUMERATE YOUR CHILD

With the work of enumerating scholastics nearing completion the appeal is extended every patron to insist that every child within the prescribed ages be enrolled on the census record. Mitchell county should not overlook one single enumeration.

Friday, March 31, is the last day in which these enumerations may be made under the law. In addition to losing opportunity of receiving a certain allotment from the State, there is the additional feature of transferring from one district to another. The scholastic not registered on the school census cannot, under the law, be transferred to another district, without carrying the burden of a legal demand that tuition be paid.

Your school needs your cooperation in this matter. Make it your duty as a citizen to ascertain whether the census taker has overlooked some one. If so, have them enumerated before Friday has passed.

THE PARK DEDICATION

The best feature of program attending official dedication of Rud-dick Park Thursday afternoon and evening will be the barbecue served at 6:30 o'clock. Not that the band concert will not be of special interest nor the oratorical deliberance of Judge Charlie Thompson, Mayor Hutchinson and perhaps others will be up to their usual standard, but there is to be no funds realized from the latter.

The barbecue while affording the Colorado citizen a wholesome meal for himself and members of his family for the nominal price of twenty five cents, will also be aiding the park committee in liquidating debts incurred in the improvements made there. There ought to be two thousand people at the barbecue.

The word "Beer" has in recent days become as commonplace in newspaper phrasology as the words "Hammer Murder" and "Lonely Country Lane." You know, to kill 'em with a hammer or pull a crime in some unfrequented country road adds zest to the story—as the ordinary correspondent sees things.

The good citizenship contest opened Monday morning among students in the seventh grade should receive liberal support of parents and public school officials. The American Legion is again asserting its right to claim championship of Americanism by sponsoring such a program.

No, there was no earthquake on the Towle farm southwest from Colorado the other day. That hole in the ground came simply because an underground cavern caved in, contrary to thesis advanced by certain citizens of Colorado.

Now that the chamber of commerce has taken up proposal to improve Highway 101, we are hoping the organization will stay on the job until something tangible is accomplished. Colorado and West Texas needs this road and should have it.

NATURE

A violet pressed its way through tangled growth to peek out on the bright world beyond the hedge's top. Dainty and modest, it had no language save in its sweet face, expressive love thoughts shown, appealing to tenderest sympathy. It was bedded in warm, soft earth and all around it nature's children grew, some uncouth and rugged, others frail and gentle as itself, but not one did lend a helping hand to guide it perchance away from stubborn thorns blocking the way.

Differences may be ever so slight, yet the displacement of a pebble changes the equipoise of the globe. A right thought paves the way to health and happiness, an unjust thought deranges all.

Astride a bareback mule, a sack of corn slung across its withers, a red-headed boy went to mill. Going to mill was a pastime separate and apart from work, a monthly pilgrimage. Husking corn was something else. That was a role which left the initiated, with reddened palms, an abstraction from thoughts of play.

Fancy a more languid, more entrancing, beguiling of time than a boy atop his mule, threading his way leisurely along a rude highway.

Hear that whistle mocking the partridge, that bark calling the squirrel, and note the nonchalant swish of switch at overhead leaf, his feet dangling at old Kit's flanks, teasing her homeward—just youth in nature.

In every day life as in nature, in byways lurk the ugly with the bewilderingly beautiful. The dainty wild aster, dust-laden and despised of many, did not sow itself. A supreme mind bade it come, fairy of a flower world, to adorn all nature.

SUCCESS

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much. Who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children, who has filled his niche and accomplished his task whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul. Who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it, who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had. Whose life was an inspiration and whose memory a benediction.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED

Fifty years ago women wore hoop skirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings, high buttoned shoes, ruffled cotton drawers, flannel nightgowns, puffs in their hair, did their own cooking, baking, cleaning, washing and ironing, raised big families, went to church Sundays and were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square and derby hats, ascot ties, red flannel

Today women wear silk stockings, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear, have bobbed hair, smoke, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs, go in for pol-
