Classes will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. A tentative schedule has been set up for two classes each morning, however, more sessions will be added if necessary.

Measurements Of 1957 Cotton In County To Begin

Measurements of 1957 cotton will begin soon, it was reported by W. M. Overton, ASC office manager here, and crop reporters will call at farms in the near future.

As in the past, reporters will use aerial photos to map out the cotton fields and the acreage will be computed in the county office. If all of a permanent field is in cotton, no measurement will be made in the field, Overton explained.

It is suggested that each farmer go along with the reporter when he makes the measurements to check them and make comparisons.

Areas of land in the cotton field that are not in cotton may be deducted, provided they are at least 2 chain wide and contain at least .1 acre, Overton reported. The width will be measured from a point one-half the row width from the stalks of cotton.

The measurement of cotton acreage is a joint responsibility of the farm operator and the reporter checking for the county committee, Overton explained.

The City Council in a Monday night meeting authorized the operation of the electrical plant for inspection by the citizens of the City. The plant will be open and in operation from 10 a.m. until mid-afternoon Saturday, June 15th.

The action was taken by the Council in response to a number of questions raised about the plant and the importance of the plant in the election of Saturday, June 22. On that day, the people of Plains will be called upon to decide a $35,000 bond issue for the completion of the distribution system so that the plant might begin full time operation.

On hand as operator of the plant will be Mr. Bennie Jones of Brownfield who served as construction foreman in the installation of the plant in the City of Plains. Mr. Jones has had 18 years experience in the operation of electrical generating plants with Magnolia Oil Company during which time he served as chief operator for a number of plants along the Gulf Coast. Mr. Jones, as a partner of the Company which constructed the plant, has stated that the plant is in excellent condition and the company has escrowed $4500.00 with the City of Plains for an unconditional guarantee on the motors, generators and switchboard for a period of one year, although most new plants carry a like guarantee for only ninety days.

The importance of the coming election to the people of Plains was stressed by the Council and in that regard have asked every person in the City to go by the plant Saturday in an effort that all information might be made available.

Begin Search for County "Miss Golden Jubilee"

The search for a "Miss Golden Jubilee of Yoakum County" is now underway, and entries in the competition are currently being accepted, according to Mrs. Sherm Henard, general chairman of the contest.

Naming of a "Miss Golden Jubilee" is being done in connection with the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Yoakum County, to be held the latter part of August here.

Any single girl between the ages of 15 and 19, who resides in Yoakum County, is eligible to enter the contest, it was reported.

The winner will be determined by the number of votes she receives. Votes will be a penny each, and may be purchased in any quantity to support a favorite candidate. Entries may be sponsored by any business or firm within the county, and also may sponsor themselves, it was pointed out.

Each candidate for the title will "electioneer" for her own votes, turning them in to the contest headquarters at the close of each week. Results of the contest as it progresses will be posted in several prominent places, and will also be published from week to week in the county newspapers. Photos of the entries will also be carried in the papers.

Any candidate wishing to enter the contest may do so by contacting Mrs. James Warren in Plains, Miss Ozella Hunt in Denver City, or the general chairman, Mrs. Sherm Henard.

Entries will close on July 4th, it was announced, and all votes must be turned in at the Tsa Mo Ga Club house here by 9 a.m. August 24. No entrance fee is required.

Commissioners Appoint Paul New As County Judge

Paul New, former county attorney who recently returned to Denver City, was appointed as county judge of Yoakum County to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge H. K. Benton, in a special session of the commissioners' court held Friday morning.

The action came more than three months after the sudden death of Judge Benton. During that time, the court appeared to be hopelessly deadlocked on the issue. Numerous applicants filed for the appointment, with several names actually being brought to a vote, but all failed to secure the necessary majority.

The appointment came as the result of a motion introduced by Commissioner Gene Payne and seconded by Commissioner Vance Brown, with Commissioner H. C. Cotton also voting "aye" after declaring that while he still favored an election, he was casting an affirmative vote due to the fact that he believed the candidate to be well qualified, and that the county badly needed a county judge. Commissioner Clyde Trout was not present at the session.

New attended the meeting in person, and also presented a written application, which read:

"As has been previously announced, I have moved back to Yoakum County and formed a partnership for the practice of law with Vernon Towles on June 4, 1957.

"I respectfully submit my request that you as members of the Commissioner's Court of Yoakum County appoint me as county judge of Yoakum County. I would also like to say I make his application only to fill the unexpired term of County Judge and that I will not be a candidate for the office.

RUFUS AYLESWORTH

Gifted Pianist Recalls Life with "Uncle Sam"

"Pray for me! Pray for me!" and they looked me squarely in the eyes. They said it out loud and didn't care who heard it. I have never forgotten and I never will."

These were the words Rufus Aylesworth, pianist during the special preaching services at the Christian Church, heard from the Negro cooks at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, each day as he passed through the lines for his meals during four months there as assistant to Chaplain Amos F. Ledbetter when he entered the military service for the Korean War.

When Aylesworth left Amarillo one Friday he did not know where he was going or what he was going to do "in this man's war." He arrived at Camp Chaffee early Sunday, and that evening went with others to the chapel for religious services. The chaplain paused a moment and looked the worshippers over quietly. "Can anyone here play the piano?" Before Aylesworth realized what was taking place his right hand went up and he was soon at the piano. After the brief chapel service he thought, "How can I ask to be assistant to the chaplain?" While thinking this over in his mind the chaplain soon asked him if he would like to be his assistant.

At the close of four months basic training at Camp Chaffee Aylesworth was sent to Camp Crowder, Missouri, and was assigned to Chaplain Gerald C. Dean. There Aylesworth was the assistant. He played the chapel organ, and as receptionist screened those who thought they had problems to talk over with the chaplain, and he was also in charge during the absence of the chaplain.

This proved to be one of the most important assignments he had and one of the most valuable from the viewpoint of experience, because it was from Camp Crowder that he went to Korea and spent his first Christmas Day away from home on board ship out in the Pacific. Christmas Day, 1951, was also his twenty-first birthday, but he

Ross Stotts Tells of Week at Boys' State

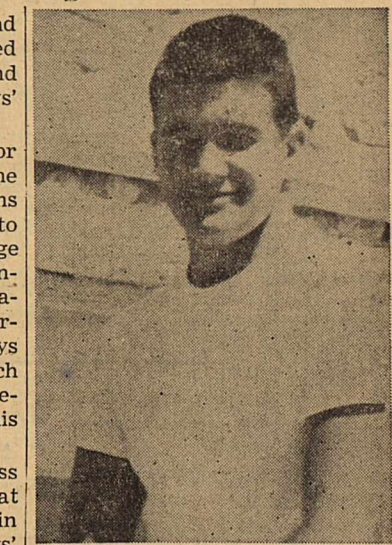

Ross Stotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stotts, returned Tuesday after an eventful and educational week spent at Boys' State in Austin.

Ross, who will be a senior student this fall was sent to the annual event by the Plains American Legion. In addition to gaining a first hand knowledge of the workings of our government through actual participation, Ross also had the opportunity of meeting 530 other boys from all over the state, each one chosen for the honor because he was outstanding in his own community.

Leaving here June 4, Ross joined others from the area at Lubbock for the trip to Austin by chartered bus. The Boys' State activities centered on the University of Texas campus.

Two political parties, the Longhorns and the Pioneers, were formed, and an intensive campaign conducted by candidates for the various offices. Although Ross did not seek an office, he was active in the pre-election campaigns. Among distinguished speakers heard was Governor Price Daniel.

A typical day began at 6:15 a.m. with reveille, followed by the raising of the flag and 10 minutes of calisthenics. Breakfast over, the boys met for a speaker or program, and at 9:30 they gathered at campaign headquarters for a rally.

Following dinner at noon, planned recreation was the order of the day until 5:45 when the flag was lowered and supper served.

Father's Day

In the memory of every child is enshrined the thoughtful and devoted, self-sacrificing, happy comradeship of a GOOD FATHER. It doesn't make any difference what your trade is, you are all the FATHER your child knows. Dad doesn't ask for a special day but let's give him one... pour on the attention and season it with tenderness. Surprise him! Catch him with the guards of age and dignity down. Let him be the center of all your plans on this one big day... Father's Day. He may be gruff, and steady, and firm but he is an easy victim of love's attack. An x-ray picture of his heart would reveal true concern you never dreamed could be there. Take him to church this Father's Day. Gladden his heart this one day by making all your plans his plans.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Better Range Management Means More and Better Grass

Mrs. Tom Warren visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Holleyman in Brownfield Sunday.

Leather Craft Is Started By Club

The Turner Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday afternoon, June 5, in the Club room in the old Courthouse with Mrs. I. L. Smith as hostess.

Roll call was answered by 17 members with "What I would like to make in leather craft."

Mrs. Allen Rollins gave the council report and Mrs. Ray Jones, president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Ray Jones and Mrs. Dale Hughes are leather craft leaders. All 17 members started some kind of leather craft. Belts, billfolds, one small purse, one pair gypsies, and one photo album were begun.

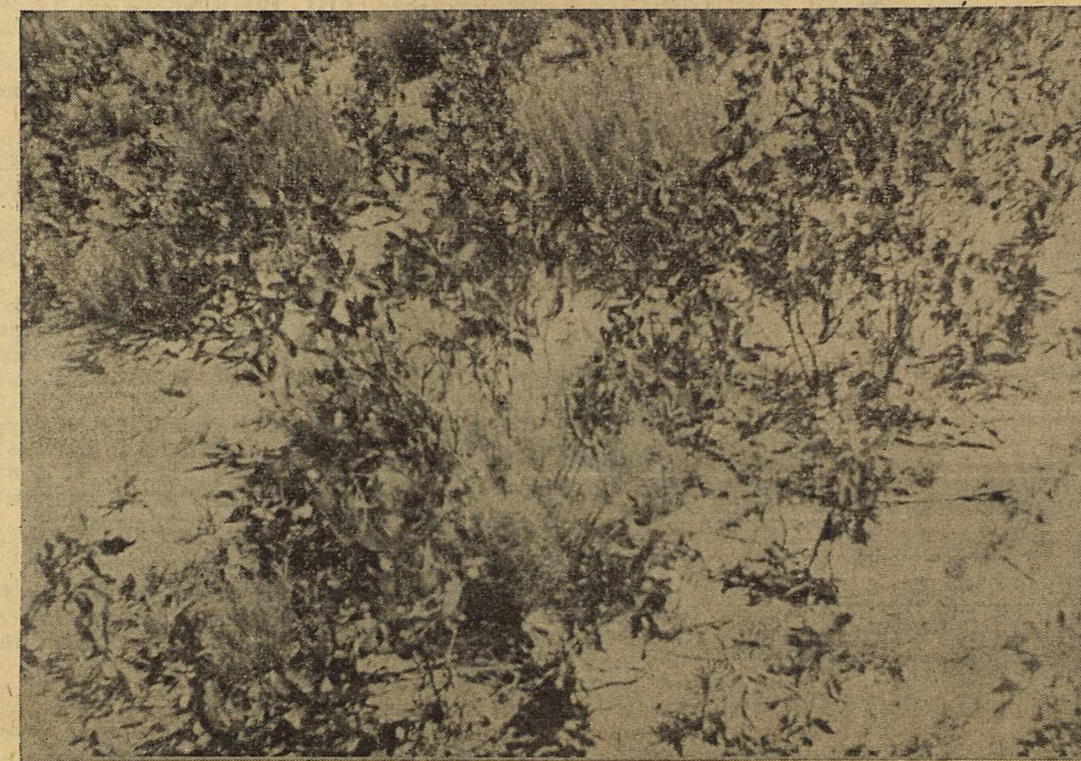

As Mrs. I. L. Smith was ill, her daughters, Pat and Sandra served the refreshments of little cracker sandwiches, cookies, coffee and tea.

The next meeting will be an all day meeting June 19, in the Club room and a covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

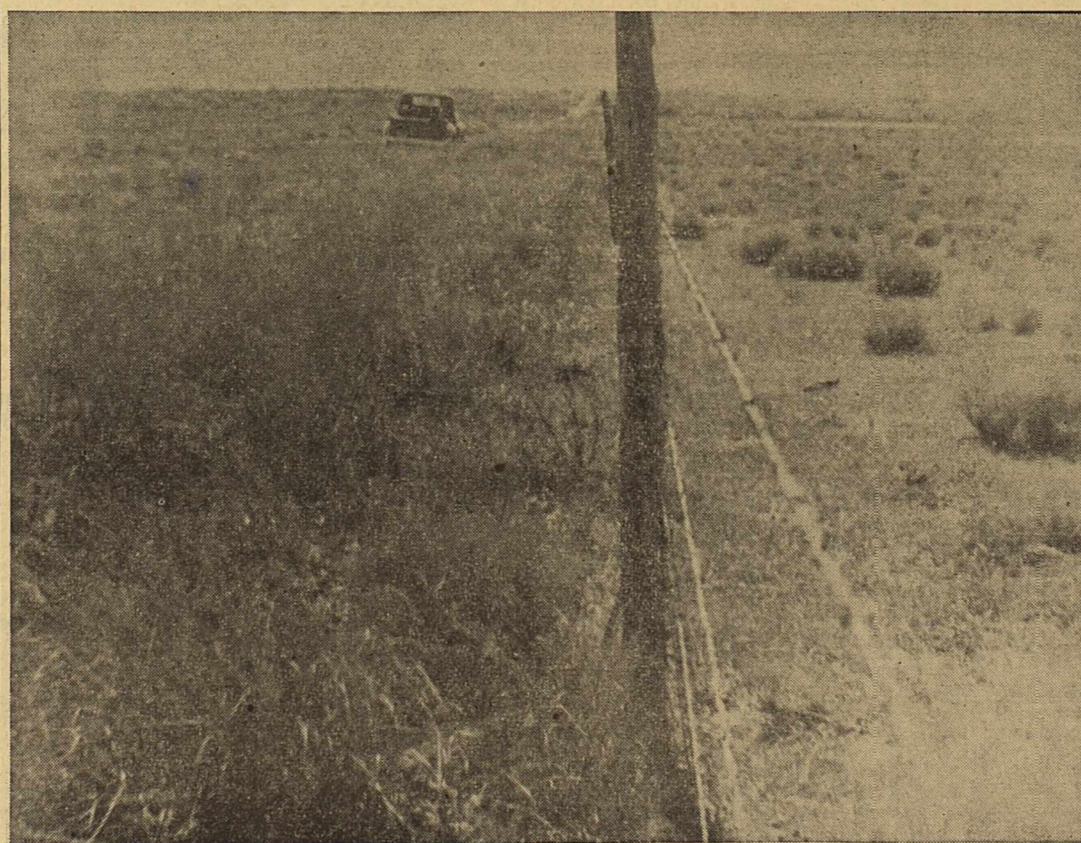

LOCAL RANCHERS cooperating with the Yoakum Soil Conservation District are using many methods to improve rangelands in the district. Some of these conservation methods are deferred grazing, proper use of rangelands, and planting pastures of improved grasses. Good range management can mean the difference between having grass and not having grass.

NATIVE SHINNERY RANGELAND in the Yoakum SCD. This rangeland contains such grasses as little bluestem, cane and silver bluestem, and sideoats grama. Proper management practices such as deferred grazing and proper use can help to maintain pastures in this condition.

NATIVE SHINNERY RANGELAND as most of it appears today. Most of the better grasses have been killed and all that remains is inferior grass, weeds, and brush. Pastures in this condition produce very little forage.

FENCE LINE CONTRAST showing the effect of misuse. On one side of the fence is good grass — cane and silver bluestem, sideoats grama, blue grama, and buffalo grass. On the other side of the fence only small amounts of grass remain. Many of the better grasses have been killed out. Notice the increase in turpentine weed on the range which has been heavily used.

General 4-H Club Elects Officers

In a meeting of the Yoakum County General 4-H Club last Monday night, Miss Darlene Snodgrass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Snodgrass was elected to serve as president of the club for the coming year. She replaces Miss Patsy Smith who was elected when the club was organized a year ago.

Jay Bryson, the council delegate for the past year, acted as chairman during the business session last Monday night in the absence of Patsy Smith. The vice president for the last year, Ross Stotts was also absent because he was attending Boys State at Austin.

Other officers elected for the club president were: Jay Bryson, 1957-58 year besides Darlene as vice president; Zoleta Brantley, Secretary - Treasurer; Brenda Suddreth, reporter; Jeanine St. Romain, council delegate and Jim Barron, program chairman.

Introduction Tea Is Held Here Monday

An introduction Tea honoring Mrs. Claude Chapman of Denton, Texas was held in the Community Room in the Old Courthouse Monday afternoon, June 10. Mrs. Chapman is an applicant for Home Demonstration Agent in Yoakum County.

Iced tea, coffee, and cookies were served to twenty-six club women of the county, Mrs. Russell of Lubbock and Mrs. Chapman.

Only a DAD! but the Best of Men

Only a dad, with a tired face
Coming home from the daily race;
Bringing a little of gold and fame
To show how well he played the game,
But glad in his heart that his own rejoice
To see him come home and hear his voice.

Only a dad, of a brood of four,
One of ten million men or more,
Plodding along in the daily strife,
Baring the whips and scorns of life
With never a whimper of pain or hate,
For the sake of those who at home await.

Only a dad, neither rich nor proud,
Merely one of the surging crowd.
Toiling, striving from day to day,
Facing whatever may come his way;
Silent, whenever the harsh condemn,
And bearing it all for the love of them.

Only a dad, but he gives his all
To smooth the way for his children small;
Doing, with courage stern and grim,
The deeds that his father did for him.
These are the lines that for him I pen;
Only a dad, but the best of men.

Immediately after the appointment was made, New was sworn in by Commissioner Cotton, who had earlier been named as acting county judge for that session. New has already assumed his official duties.

The commissioners also approved the payment of $312.50 to Jerry Paquin for his services as special county judge during the month of May and through June 7th.

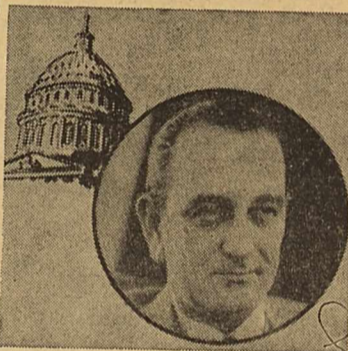

In a regular meeting Monday of the court, monthly reports of the county auditor, county clerk and county treasurer were approved as submitted, and $5,000 was transferred from the general fund to the hospital fund. Present for the meeting were County Judge New, and Commissioners Brown, Cotton and Payne.

Tuesday, the commissioners held their annual meeting with the tax representatives of the major oil companies represented in the county, unofficially setting valuations on their properties.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

By Sen. Lyndon Johnson

Dear Friend:

The Administration's Foreign Aid Bill will come to the floor of the Senate soon. The entire record of the foreign aid program should be studied carefully in order to find the best course for our country.

Two types or assistance have been included in our economic aid programs since the end of World War II: direct grants in which we simply give another country money or goods; loans for which we expect repayment.

Personally, I believe that nations are like people. At times a direct grant may be necessary to someone who is suffering and in distress. But, generally speaking, people who are in trouble prefer a loan that helps them get back on their feet.

THE U. S. is collecting on time on practically every loan it has made since the end of World War II. The Treasury has been enriched by $127,000,000 in interest payments on 1948 loans to foreign countries. In other words, we have helped these countries and in the long run they will feel better about it and our taxpayers will not suffer.

On April 26, speaking in San Antonio, I said:

"We are NOT seeking to buy friendship or to create a system of satellite nations... We seek rather to help people become self-supporting. And gifts, however well intended, rarely accomplish that end."

"A shift from grants to a loan program will help other people help themselves. It is a concept I have long favored."

I was pleased to find the same thought in the President's message to the people explaining his program. He said:

"In this program, we do not seek to buy friends. We do not seek to make satellites. We do seek to help other peoples to become strong and stay free."

The President's shift to this concept is realistic and wise.

Random Notes

More homes will be built as a result of the Housing bill passed by the Senate last week. The Administration's budget has been cut $4 billion, or about 7.2 percent, in the first 11 appropriations bills passed by the House. The Senate has passed four bills, making further reductions. Small business received only 16.7 percent of the $12.7 billion in military contracts awarded during the first seven months of fiscal 1957.

did not let anyone know it.

After leaving Camp Crowder (the troops stopped briefly at Camp Stoneman, California, and three weeks later were on the U.S.S. General Anderson en route to Yokohama, Japan. A top sergeant spotted Aylesworth on board and yelled: "Hey, kid — I am going to make you press my pants, and shine my shoes, make up my bunk, and do everything for me." Early the next morning he awakened Aylesworth, and softly whispered, "Kid, I have the easiest detail on ship for YOU." When the trail led by the sergeant finally reached the detail it was the toilet in one of the favored spots of the ship. When he had finished with the toilet he was through for the day. So he thought.

At the early morning chapel the senior Naval chaplain paused and looked the waiting worshippers over as had the chaplain back at Camp Chaffee. Then: "Can anyone play the organ?" For the 11 days at sea Aylesworth played the organ at four church services, directed two choirs—one for enlisted men and one for 600 women and children—and directed three talent programs for the 2,000 aboard ship. The services lasted only fifteen minutes, but Aylesworth played fifteen minutes before the services began at 7:00 A.M. and he had all of the detailed preparations to make and everything had to be ready to go on time.

Later at Tague, Korea, at the Eighth Army Headquarters the personnel chaplain asked: "Do you know any chaplains in Korea?" "Yes, sir, Chaplain Ledbetter," answered Aylesworth. A check was made by the personnel chaplain and Chaplain Ledbetter was found to have an assistant. But what he did not know was that the assistant had been killed the day before and the report had not as yet reached headquarters.

Aylesworth was assigned to the 21st Evacuation Hospital. When he reported he found Hospital Chaplain H. A. Mercier lying on his cot. He did not get up, said nothing, just nodded his head in reply to everything this new assistant said. Finally he got up, and said, "That is your office in there. You will find a cot. We sleep here. We don't do much." Then he turned and walked out.

From him Aylesworth "learned much more Christianity than from any other man I ever met." He was from Boston, measured five feet and four inches, and was a dynamic speaker. In the pulpit he could speak if there were but two or the chapel full. He believed the words of Christ, "Where two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in the midst of them." Other chaplains would not preach a sermon if there were less than twenty-five present. After one year with Chaplain Mercier, Aylesworth finished his time of enlistment and returned home to Muleshoe. One Christmas later he received a card from Chaplain Mercier. He was out at White Sands Proving Grounds. Aylesworth went out for a visit. Today the Chaplain is at Scofield Barracks Army Post in Hawaii.

Two rather interesting experiences brought laughter to Aylesworth as he related them. A young first lieutenant chaplain was assigned to temporary duty at the hospital. Back home he had been rather restricted in his social life and limited in his financial status. When he enlisted in the service he undertook to make up or all of this. As assistant to the chaplain it was his duty to drive the jeep for the chaplain and to remain with it while the chaplain was stopped. Jeeps are not very comfortable at any time and in Korea they were much less so. This young chaplain would always carry a small inner tube as a cushion, and try to make himself comfortable at all times and in all places. He soon became known as "The Bishop of Pusan."

According to military regulation the jeep driver is in command. One morning about 8:00 A.M. this young chaplain called Aylesworth and said: "Drive me to the post office." From the post office he went from place to place until he had gone 45 miles and made fifteen different stops. Around 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon he decided he would stop at one of the commissaries for something to eat. Aylesworth leaned over and said, "We are going back to the hospital," and started. The speed by military regulation was ten miles an hour. The jeep began to make fifteen, then twenty, and then twenty-five. The young chaplain grabbed a tight hold on the leather strap attached to the windshield and began to yell at Aylesworth in typical army language. Aylesworth leaned over and quietly said: "I am driver of this jeep. Shut up!" Back at the hospital the young chaplain turned him in for excessive driving. Later Chaplain Mercier spoke "to that reckless young driver" about his excessive speed. When he learned why he walked away and never again mentioned it.

Aylesworth had to take his turn at guard duty—six hours— from midnight to 6:00 A.M. There were eleven general orders he had to commit to memory: "I will walk my post in a military manner, always keeping alert," etc. Another general order was "I will challenge every one," etc.

His first night was dark with just a few stars. One of the rooms of the hospital building he had to pass, back and forth, was the morgue. Around the hospital building was a high wall ten feet high, with a four foot barbed wire on top. The only other person near was the switch board operator inside one of the other rooms. As the sergeant of the guard left him to walk his post, he said, "You have one order. If any face appeared over that wall shoot to kill." Aylesworth smiled as he related this incident and said, "For one who had never killed that was quite a job." With the morgue as a background for six long hours he watched for the face that never showed up.

One morning in the early part of this week while he was talking about these things he would like to forget more than he can, one of the boys working nearby the chapel stopped his work and came to listen to Aylesworth in his morning workout. "I came to hear you play" softly said the boy. The pianist turned slowly to the piano and played an old favorite of the church, "Never Alone" with all of the variations. The boy stood silently, listening intently, and then said, "Thank you" and slipped away just as two as his young admirer slipped quietly as he had come.

Aylesworth sat a moment or away, and then turning slowly on the piano seat said, "That song helped me keep my sanity. Whenever the going got hard I always played it. It was my communion with God. When others over there were around I always tried to entertain."

Mrs. Ramond Chaffin and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Burrows of Big Springs are visiting relatives in Utopia this week.

ACROSS THE Cattle Guard

By LEO W. WHITE
County Agent

I want someone to tell why it would not be a good idea to do some plowing in some of the sandy pastures in this country. What I am thinking about is getting a better stand of grass without giving the pasture an opportunity to blow away. I know that most of the sand pastures are so rough that the normal farming equipment cannot do a good job on the first plowing and I know that it would not be a good idea to plow it solid and take away all of the cover that would provide some protection for the seedling grass plants. If there were some places in the pasture that a farm tractor could go over without too much difficulty, then why not use the regular three row equipment with sweeps on the beams instead of lister bottoms. This would cut many of the shinnery roots and would clear a six or eight inch path out of every forty inches.

Once it has an established root system and does not have to rely on the surface moisture. After the grass is established in rows then the same equipment with sweeps could be used to destroy the native vegetation in between the rows.

Everyone knows that shinnery will not be killed just by dragging some sweeps down through the pasture a few times. They also know that some six or eight dollars will be spent on every acre that is treated in this manner over a two or three year period. The next problem would be figuring out a way to get that money back and maybe a little interest along with it. Naturally it would have to be with increased carrying capacity. It would have to furnish grazing for six or eight more cows to the section in order to pay back the investment over a ten year period.

I would not suggest that anyone try this method on a very large scale but there might be someone who would go to the trouble of handling a small plot in this manner just to see if it will work. I think we have tried deferred grazing and reseeding without cultural practices long enough to know that the grass does not become established. Perhaps we can improve our pastures by using some cultural practices along with the reseeding practice. I would certainly welcome the chance to work with anyone who would try this method or any other method that has not been proven to be unsuccessful.

Final Services for L. G. Chambliss Held on Friday

Final services for L. G. Chambliss of Brownfield, who was fatally burned in an explosion and fire last Thursday morning, were held Friday in the First Baptist church at Brownfield. Rev. Jones Weathers, pastor, officiated and burial was in Terry County Memorial Cemetery under the direction of the Brownfield Funeral Home.

Chambliss was a member of the First Baptist Church. Survivors include his wife, Billie; two children, Pamela and Monty, at home; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Chambliss, the maternal grandmother, Mrs. L. D. Chambliss, the paternal grandparents, L. C. Ward and Mrs. Lee Smith, all of Brownfield; two brothers, Lewis and J. C. Chambliss, Brownfield, two sisters, Margaret Chambliss, Brownfield and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Denver City. He was also the nephew of County Sheriff Robert Chambliss.

Exact cause of the explosion is still not known, according to officials of the Honolulu Oil Company, by whom Chambliss had been employed for the past year.

The explosion took place in a company pumping station on the Alexander B-4 lease seven miles north of Tokio. Chambliss was alone at the time. He died in a Brownfield Hospital a little more than an hour after the accident, suffering from third degree burns on 90 per cent of his body.

Rescuers reported Chambliss was found in a conscious state some 25 yards from the flaming structure when they arrived. The sheet metal building was gutted by flames. Though no definite cause of the fire could be determined, workmen theorized that leaking crude oil ignited as Chambliss threw the switch to stop its flow.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kennedy and her son, Felton Riggs, of Gomez spent the weekend fishing in Lake Thomas. They also visited her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Riggs and another son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Riggs, both of Midland. They were all fishing in Lake Thomas.
