Soil Conservation District News

In the near future most of the irrigation wells in the district will be going. When irrigation is started it is well to know just how much water the system is delivering in order to determine whether your sets are too long or too short.

Many conditions can change over the winter so it is a good idea to check your system early in the season so that you know how much water you are getting on your crop. Pressure gauges that have constant pressure on them are subject to error and may not be too accurate. If you want to know just how much water each sprinkler is putting out put a hose over each nozzle and measure the discharge in a can. If you use a 5 gallon can you can divide the number of seconds it requires to fill the can into 300 and arrive at the gallons per minute. Since there is pressure loss down the sprinkler line the discharge will need to be checked at both ends of the line as the discharge will change as the pressure changes. A fairly close average discharge can be determined by taking two of the discharge at the far end and the one discharge on the near end and dividing by three. This is necessary because the major part of the loss in pressure is in the first one-third of the line.

Personnel at the Soil Conservation Service office in Plains will be glad to help you check the drawdown on your well, the operating pressure and discharge and help you decide the length of time each set needs to remain and the distance to move to do the job you want to do.

Funds are still available for contracts under the Great Plains Conservation Program. These funds are available for cost-sharing for various conservation practices. If you want to do a first class of fixing up everything on your farm or ranch this program may be of assistance to you. Contact your Soil Conservation Office for details.

Some cooperators are trying different rates of fertilizers both on irrigated and dryland as well as some trials of trace elements and potash. We may learn that we need other elements besides the usual nitrogen and phosphorus. One thing we have to remember is that we cannot buy all our fertility in a sack. Crop rotations that maintain or increase our organic matter are needed to give us something in the soil to help hold the soil nutrients and to hold water.

PHS Seniors Take Annual Trip

By Carol McRae

THE YOAKUM COUNTY REVIEW

We left Plains at 11:45 p.m. May 22, 1958. Our bus driver was Jerrell Faith from Lubbock, Texas, and our sponsors were Miss Shirley Havens, Billie Joe Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sims.

Mr. Taylor's last wish was that no one go to sleep until the following night. This certainly was true. The early hours of the morning of May 23rd were spent singing songs, laughing waking anyone up who dared to sleep and cutting up. We had a rest stop in San Angelo at 4 a.m. and decided to go on in to Brady for breakfast.

We ate breakfast in Brady about 6:30 and by 7:30 were on the road again. One or two seniors were fortunate enough to get at least 2 or 3 hours sleep. Mr. Campbell pointed out the type of vegetation and geographical formations of the regions into which we were traveling.

We arrived in Austin around 9 a.m. feeling dirty and sleepy from traveling all night. We were very disappointed to find out that our rooms at the Terrace Motel would not be ready until 1 p.m. How did we spend the next four hours? We drove around in downtown Austin, went to see the university of Texas museum, found a huge grocery store, and our sponsors went in to buy the poor, starving seniors some food. We had a wonderful picnic lunch in Zilker Park. After lunch we wandered over to the nearby Barton Springs swimming pool and watched some lucky people swim to their heart's content.

Time dragged until it was time to go to the courts. Part of the rooms were ready, so we just piled all of our luggage into the rooms that were ready and prepared to go swimming.

Our swim was certainly a relief. We spent the afternoon unpacking, exploring the motel ground and making plans for the night. Some of us walked downtown (it seemed like three miles.) We were about dead by the time we got back, but the pool looked so inviting and we went swimming again. We went to bed fairly early because we had a lot of traveling to do the next day.

We visited the Capitol and left Austin about 10 a.m. We ate lunch in Columbia. The waitresses at the cafe where we ate said that we were the quietest and nicest group they had ever served. We purchased some tempera paint and really gave the bus a going over.

We were really grateful for the air-conditioner in the bus, because it was so hot outside. The further south we went, the hotter it got.

Upon our arrival in Houston, we were lost. We spent an hour trying to find the right road to the San Jacinto State park. Our visit to the Battleship Texas and San Jacinto Monument was very inspiring and interesting. Mr. Campbell explained to us about the reflector pool in front of the Monument. We left Houston about 5:30 p.m. and arrived in Galveston at 6:30 p.m.

We checked into the Coronado courts which was in an excellent location, close to the $2 million pleasure pier and amusement park. The courts are right across from the ocean. Several other senior classes were there at the courts. There were classes from Daingerfield, Texas, DeLeon, Texas, and Arkansas.

We spent that evening sight-seeing, swimming, and riding the ferris wheel and roller coaster. Sunday morning we went to church and to a show in the afternoon. That night we had a picnic at Stewart beach and went swimming.

Monday morning we got up at 5:00 a.m. and prepared to go fishing. We left the dock at 7:30 on the MISS ANNIE. We made up a pot of $5 for the biggest fish and $2.50 for the second biggest fish. The majority of us caught channel cat. We used baby squid and shrimp for bait. Zelda Smith got the $5 prize and our bus driver, Jerrell Faith, got the $2.50 pot. Jerrell also caught the most fish. On board the MISS ANNIE, we had a chance to see the large ocean tankers, wharves, jetties, pilot boats, shrimp boats, and the beach front. We saw a few sharks and a lot of porpoise.

Back at the courts, we rested and went swimming, the rest of the evening. Billy McGee, Jackie Bass and Carol McRae cleaned the fish. Mr. Campbell prepared for supper. That was the best meal that we had on the entire trip. It was delicious. We spent our last night in Galveston taking one last fling at the Pleasure Pier, amusement park and beach.

We left Galveston at 9 a.m. the next morning, bound for San Antonio. We arrived in San Antonio weary but eager to go swimming in the Casa Manana courts swimming pool. We considered the Casa Manana courts the best of the three motels we stayed in. The only thing wrong with it was that it was 8 miles from downtown San Antonio. This caused more driving for Mr. Faith but he eagerly obliged.

Some of the seniors went into San Antonio to "do the town" while the more weary ones started to unpack and rest. Wednesday morning we loaded on the bus to go and visit the Lone Star brewery (it's certified) Ronnie Paper was our guide and directed us through the brewery. The Lone Star Brewery purchased the Buckhorn saloon and move it into the brewery. The collection of horns and mammal trophies are amusing, as well as interesting.

We went to see Mission Conception and Mission San Jose (Queen of all missions) after we left the brewery. Then we went out to Breckenridge Park for an hour to see the zoo and the sunken gardens. Mr. Faith took us back to the courts and we cleaned up. The bus left for town about 7 p.m. We went in groups to see a movie.

Thursday we slept rather late. We got on the bus about 10:00 a.m. and drove by La Valita, the little town of the Spaniards. The bus stopped at the Alamo and we were given instructions for the day. The bus went back to the motel carrying the ones who didn't want to stay in town. The rest of us went shopping and to a show in the afternoon. We returned to the motel by cab and dressed for the evening. The bus returned to town at 6 p.m. to pick up those who wanted to go back to the motel. About 10 of us had decided to go dancing and Mrs. Sims found us the ideal place. It was open air and very nice. We danced about 2 hours and then went downtown to pick up the seniors who had stayed in town. We got back to the courts about 11 p.m. and packed our suitcases and visited with each other until a little after midnight.

Early the next morning at 5 a.m. the desk clerk rang us and we began stumbling out of bed. We were ready to leave the Casa Manana courts at 6 a.m.

We took our last look at San Antonio with the realization that we were on our way home full of wonderful memories. Some were rejoicing to come home, while others hated to see our wonderful week come to an end. We had breakfast in Fredricksburg and had a rest stop in Brady. The trip home seemed short to some of us. We ate lunch in Big Springs, and arrived in Plains, about 4 p.m.

To show our appreciation to our wonderful bus driver, Mr. Faith, we are giving him a watch. Each of us wrote a short note of appreciation to him and the president, Jim Barron, gave it to him when we reached Plains. We returned tired but full of everlasting memories of our wonderful last week together.

The seniors of 1958 appreciate all of the co-operation and support given them by the public which made the senior trip possible.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dittmore Sr of Dallas spent the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dittmore Jr and Martha.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Sims of Seminole were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Copper.

BRETHREN BE NOT WEARY IN WELL DOING—2 Timothy 3:13

A robust man you are today,—Full of vigor, vitality and vim;
But through some common stroke of fate,—You must depend only on Him. Yes, when your stretcher rolls into the room,

The physicians will do their best; Their skills and tools will work in rhyme,—But remember Brother,
It Takes God Every Time.

God's assistants are brothers of well doing but they would be the first to join the Psalmist of old that It Takes God Every Time.

You may find Him at the little church on the corner...
Have you Tried?

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Social Security Man to be Here Next Thursday

Most married couples in the Lubbock area now receive their monthly social security payments in the form of one check for both people according to John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock social security office. The change from individual checks to combined checks is part of a nationwide plan to improve service with a cash saving.

Under the new combined check plan banks and post offices have about 1,700,000 fewer checks to handle during the first of the month rush period and for that reason are able to give better service. In addition, the social security trust fund is saving about $1 million a year in the cost of postage, check stock, envelopes, manpower, and other supplies and equipment.

Mr. Hutton pointed out that most couples in this area find the combined checks satisfactory and convenient; however, if there is any reason why such combined checks would result in an inconvenience, it is possible to receive them separately upon request.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Plains on June 12, 1958, at 1:30 p.m. at the County service office at the courthouse and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

Fish Parasites Are Described

"Ever clean your string of fish and see small, whitish dots on the liver or other internal organs?" asks Dr. R. J. Baldauf of Texas A&M College in the May issue of TEXAS GAME AND FISH. In his article, "Of Fish and Snails," Baldauf explains that these white dots are parasites flukes which take away the appetite of a bass although they do not otherwise harm it.

Biologists at A&M discovered a fluke, nicknamed "Posty," in a largemouth bass Baldauf explains. Then they began an extensive search to find out how to get rid of it. To destroy a fluke, first biologists must learn where it spends each phase of its life cycle. In this case, the fluke's hosts were fish-eating birds, then snails then fish, and back to the birds again.

"The weakest link in the chain seems to be the snail," Baldauf says. "The parasite cannot complete its cycle without the snail, and the snail can be eliminated from a pond by chemical treatment. Methods for killing off snails can be improved and is one of the problems now being studied by the research team at A&M."

"But don't worry Mr. Angler," he continues. "The presence of 'posty' in a string of fish in no way makes them unfit to eat. Remember, the parasite cysts are located in the soft organs of the fish, the parts you throw away when the fish is cleaned."

Strange things are happening to agriculture yet when you look deep down into the inner workings of the agricultural machine, they may not be so strange after all. Various agricultural bills are pouring into the nation's capitol asking the government to do this or that for agriculture during 1959. Farm organizations are going to bat for the farmer in Washington but some of the things these organizations are asking for are not what the farmers in certain areas feel that they want. The farmers in each area are trying to look out for themselves so they are organizing the various commodity groups. The High Plains Cotton Growers Association was the first of the commodity groups to be organized in this area.

Following fresh on the heels of the High Plains Cotton Growers Association is the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. They are now organized in 17 counties of the Texas Panhandle and they are seeking expansion. This group is sponsoring a bill in Washington that may appeal to the farmers in Yoakum County. If it is passed according to the plan submitted grain sorghum producers would have a grain sorghum allotment in 1959 just like the cotton allotment which they have grown accustomed to. The acreage of grain sorghums would be cut by about 20 percent on each farm. The amount of grain sorghum produced on the remaining 80 percent of the acreage would sell for a much higher price and the farmer would wind up in the long run with a lot more money from 80 acres of grain sorghums than he would normally get from 100 acres.

Then in addition to this extra money from less acres each farmer would have a normal yield established for his farm and that figure would be used to figure his rebate of the 20 percent of his grain sorghum acreage held out of production. His rebate would be in grain and not cash and he would get one half of his normal yield from that acreage in grain from carryover stocks. He would not be allowed to sell it on the open market but he could feed it or sell it to his neighbor to feed. It could not be sold at all as grain.

If this bill passes and becomes effective in 1959, there is one thing that strikes me as being important. Every farmer who produces grain sorghum under this plan will have some grain to feed. He will need a place to keep it and he will need some livestock to feed it to. If the price of grain sorghum goes from $1.50 up to $2.50 then no farmer will want to sell his feed grain for less than the going price. Surely he will be able to get that much for it by feeding it. We will need to watch the turn of events in Washington and if it going to be necessary to have some grain stored on the farm because of the new farm program, then we will want to use the most practical and economical means of storing grain.

The most economical consumer of grain is hogs so if this bill is passed it will mean that there will be hogs on almost every farm. The cheapest way to get into the hog business is to grow into it so there will be a number of farmers starting out with a few small gilts as soon as they learn that the feed grain program is in effect.

It is not for me to say whether the program is good or bad. I am sure it has some merits and I am also sure that there will be something distasteful about it. The thing that I am interested in is whether or not the grain sorghum producers in Yoakum County will want to affiliate with this organized commodity group. In case they are interested in setting up a county organization, I would be glad to help in the initial phases of getting started. I understand that in other counties, each farmer pays 2 pounds of grain sorghum for each 1,000 pounds that he produces into the organization and the local elevators are the collection agencies.

Mrs. Dovie Moreland, County Pioneer, Still 'Going Strong'

In some West Texas areas, being a pioneer is not always a matter of having reached advanced age.

Mrs. Dovie Moreland of Plains, who was the first newspaper publisher in Yoakum County and one of its first school teachers, is one who proves that statement. Widow of Judge R. D. Moreland, who served Yoakum County as county judge from 1917 to 1927, Mrs. Moreland has lived in Yoakum County almost continually since she received a B. A. degree from Baylor-Belton now Mary Hardin-Baylor College in 1914. In the fall of 1914, she came to Yoakum County from her home in Llano to teach in the school at Glen Park a small community east of Plains.

The next year she returned to Llano and taught school there one year, then returned to Yoakum County in September, 1916, to teach in the Plains High School. The next May she and Judge Moreland who had become Yoakum County judge in January, were married. She continued to teach in the high school for two years, then retired to rear a family of two sons and daughter.

In 1930 she decided that a newspaper was needed in the then sparsely settled county. That was before the oil discoveries in this region had set off booms, then steady growth for a wide area in this part of West Texas.

The present Yoakum County Review was the result of Mrs. Moreland's vision and ambition. She was its first publisher and editor and tended it carefully for six years. In the fall of 1936, she sold the paper to W. J. Hale, professional newspaperman and returned to her first love, the elementary school room. She taught in the Plains Elementary School

Once in a while someone catches a gasper gou on an artificial lure. Usually such catches are within the range of a pound or two.

But there are exceptions! For instance: A few days ago Billy Disch Jr., of Austin and his wife were fishing for white bass on Lake Buchanan in Central Texas. They had a pretty good string of whites, taken while trolling and jiggling.

They were using Dixie Jet lures with two hooks snipped off, just to make the fishing more interesting. Mrs. Disch was using a Mitchell 300 with 6-pound test line. Suddenly she thought she snagged a log. But it started up and she began yelling for help.

Billy was manning the motor and their daughter was sitting in the middle of the boat. So the Mrs. just had to land the fish. After a 10-minute play she boated a big old gasper. It weighed 14 pounds after it was gutted! Some catch.

HE TELLS HOW—Recently a friend of mine spent a half-day fishing with Dave Hawk, maker of the famous Pico perch. Hawk has just published a book about bass fishing. The guy has some very definite ideas on the subject. Some of them you are inclined to argue about. However, when a man is good you've got to admit he may also be right.

Hawk takes very positive positions about certain things. For instance, he says that using a beaded chain snap swivel on a lure is like tying a log chain to it. Also he likes to fish with a black line. He thinks it is about the only thing that will catch a fish. As to rods, Hawk announces just as strongly against a rod longer than 5 feet. He says they are like buggy whips.

All this reminds us of the story about the mule trainer who was called in to "move" a balky mule. He said the first thing you had to do was to get the mule's attention. He did. And it moved.

Well, after Hawk gets you a little riled up and you are paying full attention to what he says he gives some sound advice for catching bass.

For instance what he says about using a leader from 15 to 20 feet long makes a lot of sense. By using the long leader, when you get a fighting fish close to the boat the connection between line and leader already has been wound on the reel. If anything breaks it's the leader, not the knot. And that is less likely to happen.

BOOK OF MAMMALS—Anyone interested in wildlife will appreciate the Palmer's Fieldbook of Mammals, just released by E. P. Dutton. This book has illustrations of more than 300 mammals of the world, both wild and domestic.

The author is Dr. E. Laurence Palmer, professor emeritus of Nature, Science and Conservation Education of Cornell University.

This is a concise, popularly priced, pocket size field book of the mammals of America. It has been arranged for practical use on field trips. It contains diagrams of tracks, teeth, skulls and other aids to identification. It is an especially valuable book for Boy and Girl Scouts, and teachers who take classes afield. Dr. Palmer has been a member of the Boy Scout national council for 36 years.

IT'S TARPON TIME—Look to the salt water now for some of the big fish stories of the year. The migration of bill fish is under way. Tarpon and sail fish will be caught almost daily along the Texas coast. They have moved up from the warm waters of Mexico. This year it looks like they will be plentiful. Last year at the Tampico rodeo only a dozen tarpon were landed. This year 200 were brought in. A good indication that there'll be a big crop reaching Texas shores.

Better make arrangements to enter one of the coastal rodeos this summer. If you don't get a tarpon or sail fish you'll yet enough king mackerel to fill the ice chest.

LEGAL LIMITS—There is a mild argument going on along the Texas coast about creel limit on salt water fish. Some people, mostly business men, are afraid fishermen may deplete the supply.

On the other hand biologists say that normal fishing never will clean out the fish supply of either the bays or the Gulf. They say pollution can, however. Unscrupulous netters also can play havoc with the fish population.

Right fishing also has come in for considerable discussion. There seems to be no complaint about the man who takes a Coleman lantern onto the water and catches a nice mess of trout. However, there is criticism of the man who takes a portable light plant down the lagoon, fills a couple of boats with trout and then peddles them.

Anyway the matter now is under study by the Valley Sportsmen's Club and in time perhaps some recommendation will be made.

NOVEL LURE—Ever talk to a fisherman who couldn't tell you something you'd never heard before?

We have yet to find a fisherman anywhere who couldn't tell us about some new product or some old trick we'd never heard about.

Up here on Lake Travis a few diversionists are having fun with an Alkasetzer lure. Ever hear of it? Neither did we. That is, until an oldtimer told this tale.

Well, here's how it works. You take an old spring-type clothes pin. One of the long, flat kind that looks like a miniature pair of pliers. Only it's made of wood, and a spring provides the grip.

Well, these guys attach a swivel to the short end of the clothes pin top side. Then they screw triple hooks onto the other end and tie on a bucktail to hide the hooks.

Usually they paint the clothes pins to serve their own tastes—and the fishes' of course—yellow, black, spotted, etc.

When it is time to fish they hook their line into the swivel located in the nose of the clothes pin. Then they are ready to cast.

BUT, just before they "heave to" they squeeze the tail of the clothes pin, open the jaw, and insert into the mouth of the clothes pin an Alkasetzer tablet. Yes sir—an Alkasetzer tablet.

Well—when that contraption hits the water there's the damndest spray of bubbles around that lure that you ever saw.

And the fishermen tell me the fizz attracts the fish, the fish strike—and lo and behold, you have a catch.

Makes a good story anyway—doesn't it?

You might give to a try, and see if it's a true story. Could be.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Longbrake and family spent from Friday till Monday in Carlsbad, El Paso and Ruidoso.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cheek and children of Corpus Christi, are visitors this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cheek.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore, Jr. attended the Fall and Back-to-School Market of the American Fashion Association in Dallas, May 25-30. More than 1000 lines of women's and children's apparel were exhibited during this important market, held in the Adolphus and Baker Hotels.

A Fashion Clinic and show was held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker Hotel on the evenings of May 26 and 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore report that the loose silhouette in dresses and suits is still very much in evidence for fall. There are many variations to the new look, nearly all of them eased at the waistline, and widespread acceptance and approval of the fall fashions is now evident, following a season of controversy on the subject of the chemise.

Mrs. Gene Johnson underwent surgery Tuesday in West Texas hospital in Lubbock. She is reported to be doing well and it is hoped she will be able to home this week.

STATE CAPITAL
Highlights AND Sidelights
by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.—During coming months Texans will ponder and argue the wisdom of adopting sweeping changes in election procedures.

If adopted the changes recommended by Gov. Price Daniel would alter campaign procedures more drastically than anything since the Terrell election law became effective over a half century ago.

Governor Daniel's proposals are (1) to abolish precinct conventions and, instead elect county convention delegates at the first primary and (2) to hold primaries in May and June instead of July and August.

Such ideas are grist for mills that grind slowly. They'll be debated, pro and con, at the party conventions this summer and, probably again by the Legislature next year.

At the June 9 meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee, the resolutions subcommittee will recommend support of the changes. Sub-committee members announced they agreed with the governor that a direct primary vote in the precincts would insure wider participation and do away with the "ugly contests, rump delegations and bitterness" that have characterized Texas party politics all the way to the national convention.

Support from the State Committee was to be expected since a majority of its members are friendly to Governor Daniel. Opposition is anticipated, down the line, from people who regularly participate in precinct meetings. They—or at least some of them—contend the neighborhood gatherings provide the citizenry with a sort of democratic "town hall" experience. Others object to earlier elections on the grounds they would prolong the "lame duck" period for defeated incumbents.

Defenders of the anti-precinct convention plan declare it's the next logical step in a long-range trend. Before the adoption of the Terrell election law state officials were nominated by political parties at their state conventions. Beginning in 1907 voters were given a more direct say by the use of one primary and a convention vote if no candidate received a primary majority. In 1918 this was amended to provide the present two-primary system.

"CODE" FORTHCOMING—SDEC's resolutions committee also promised to meet DOT's challenge for a "code of ethics" for conducting party conventions.

The Committee said it did not feel privileged to dictate procedures from the state level, to precinct and county officials, "the overwhelming majority of whom can be trusted to function—with the highest ethical considerations." But it said it would recommend a "declaration of principles which will insure—majority determination" at state conventions.

A "fair play code" has been a rallying cry for the liberal Democrats of Texas led by Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston.

ANTI-TRUST INQUIRY—When a city or county needing supplies or equipment gets sealed bids identical to the fraction of a cent, there's a possibility the bidders got together beforehand and agreed on a jacked-up price.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson says that his office has had several reports of identical bidding. He is making an intensive investigation. Suits will be filed after evidence is complete, probably within six to eight weeks.

Contracts under study involve sales of electric transformers, chlorine for swimming pools, and lime and oyster shell for street topping.

A conspiracy among bidders to raise prices can cost taxpayers in the multi-millions, Wilson commented.

HOLES IN THE NET?—With the state facing a sizable deficit next year, the Senate general investigating committee is seeking to discover if the state is getting all the tax money due it.

Members of the State Comptroller's Department, chief collecting agency, told the committee, in effect, that the collecting net was a little skimpy for the potential catch.

They're way behind in their audits of large companies, said Houston area supervisor Harvey J. McKinzie. Reason, he said, is that low state salaries have caused the staff to dwindle from 14 in 1948 to 5 at present.

An audit, said McKinzie, sometimes results in recovery of large sums of additional tax money.

BACK AGAIN—Texas officials are making another attempt to get the Supreme Court to say who's "boss" of insurance liquidation.

Both the State Board of Insurance and the judge of the local district court handling the liquidation cases have had a hand in selecting liquidation attorneys during the past few years. In a recent test case the Supreme Court said the Board had the first responsibility for naming the attorneys and setting their salaries, but that if it failed to act, the judge could step in.

Now, the attorney general is pressing for a more definite ruling. Acting on behalf of the Insurance Department he has asked the court to set aside a recent order by Dist. Judge Charles O. Betts raising the salaries of three liquidation attorneys.

Wilson's petition contends that, in changing the salaries of men already appointed by the Board, the judge is overstepping his authority.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

LEGAL TERMINOLOGY SOME TIMES NECESSARY

Many persons feel that the "whereases," "aforesaid," and other legal verbiage used by lawyers are intended only to confound and confuse the layman.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities. In the last analysis, a legal document means what some court at some future time shall declare what it means. As a consequence it is the lawyer's duty to his client to attempt to draft the instrument in such a way that it can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of non-legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the "deed aforesaid." He is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he prefaces a legal document with a long list of "whereases," he is simply reciting pertinent facts for the benefit of the court to show the facts of the situation that lead to the execution of the instrument.

The difficulty with drafting a document in layman's language is that to the trained analyst such language is susceptible of several meanings, and consequently is likely to lead to litigation. It is the draftsman's purpose to avoid litigation which is usually expensive for the client.

Another reason why lawyers use legal language is historical in nature. Thus most deeds declare that the grantor "by these presents does grant, sell, and convey" the land in question to the grantee. Each of the words recited has a technical meaning. The words together have frequently been construed by the courts and consequently the lawyers know in using them that their meaning is settled, and that they will operate to properly transfer the title. He would be inviting litigation for his client, if instead of using those words, he devised new language to express the same purpose. He could only say, "While I think the language that I have used will accomplish the purpose, I cannot be sure of it."

As a consequence, the lawyer, in the interest of his client, naturally uses the time-tested language instead of experimenting with new language.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

WELL AT FORT STOCKTON BREAKS WORLD RECORD FOR DEEP DRILLING

The world's record for deep drilling, established in Louisiana in 1955, has been broken 13 miles east of Fort Stockton, Texas.

The Phillips Petroleum Company's University "EE" Well No. 1 reached the former record, 22,570 feet and was heading for greater depths.

The hole broke the Texas state record 21,687 feet, on April 28.

For the job Phillips selected its Rig 27, a National Supply Type 130 Rig which it had previously used in Alaska. The only unusual piece of equipment was a hydraulic table developed by Phillips, which is used to cushion the shock caused by stopping the drill pipe as it is being run and to prevent a squeeze as the extreme weight of pipe is fitted into slips or clamps.

Power is provided by three LeRoi L-4000 Engines, through a 3-section National Supply drive group. Other National equipment includes an E-700 Slush Pump, a C-350 Slush Pump, an MS-27½ Rotary, an N-815 Swivel, a Micromatic Drilling Control and a 654-F 450 Universal Hook-block.

The 136-foot Lee C. Moore derrick rests on an 18-foot substructure. It has a total load capacity of a million pounds.

The well is on art 8,100-acre block. Drilling began in October, 1956.

Because of the extremely hard formation drilling is proceeding at about two feet per hour. Bits last 75 to 80 hours, after which the entire string of pipe must be pulled and then re-run with a new bit, taking about 12 hours.

Approximately 17,600 feet of pipe fell into the hole last February when drilling had proceeded to 21,396 feet. Part of the string was recovered by fishing, but it was necessary to leave 39 stands of pipe in the hole, and drill around it, starting the new hole at 19,965 feet.

Twenty-inch casing was set at 1,480 feet, 13¼-inch at 6,020 feet, and 9 5/8-inch at 10,996.

National Supply has designed special wellhead equipment in case the deep well becomes a producer.

The deepest production in Texas is at about 15,000 feet, in the Puckett field, 20 miles away, where Phillips is the principal operator.

Over a long period, the world's depth records have repeatedly been made with National Supply rigs. Recent records include 20,521 feet, made in Wyoming in 1949; 21,482 feet, in California in 1953; and 22,570 feet in Louisiana in 1955.

The world's first oil well, drilled at Titusville, Pa., in 1859, was only 69½ feet deep, and it was not until 50 years later that a rig drilled to 5,000 feet. The 10,000 foot mark was passed in 1931, the 15,000-foot mark in 1938 and the 20,000-foot mark in 1949.

Power Mowers Need to be Used With Caution

AUSTIN, June 5—"Power mowers are a real boon to father's back, but if they are improperly handled they can be more of a hazard than a help." J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, made the above statement today as he warned Texans to take extra common sense precautions in handling power mowers and edgers.

"Such power tools have not been in use long enough," he said, "for us to have any accurate accident data, but we do know that thousands of persons are injured, and several hundred killed, each year as a result of unsafe handling of power lawn tools."

Musick offered the following twelve safety suggestions as an aid to reducing hazards to a minimum when working with power lawn equipment:

1. Never permit pre-teenage children to operate any kind of power mower, edger or clipper.
2. Know how to throw mower out of gear quickly.
3. Know how to stop engine or motor immediately.
4. Allow for gas expansion when filling tank and be sure engine is turned off and cool before refueling.
5. Use approved fuels and store them in safe containers.
6. Clear yard of debris before mowing; i. e., sticks, bones, etc.
7. When starting mower maintain your balance and have solid footing.
8. Do not allow pets, children during operation. This will prevent their injury by objects or other bystanders near mower thrown from the mower blades.
9. If using an electric mower, be sure motor is grounded and wiring is in perfect condition. NEVER mow when grass is wet.
10. Maintain firm control of mower. Mow hills sideways—not up and down.
11. Disconnect spark plug, or electric plug, before working on mower's parts or while oiling. Always keep hands away from blades or other moving parts if possible.
12. Be AFRAID of all power mowers and other tools—you are not as apt to become careless.

Homespun Hints

By Myrna Marshall
County H. D. Agent

Broilers and fryers are popular spring and summer main dishes. Here are some signs of quality to look for when buying chickens: Flexible breastbone—indicates a young bird; pliable skin with few pinfeathers—a "meaty" look.

Avoid chickens that have a hard breastbone—are bruised—have dry or purplish skin—or scaly legs.

For something different in picnic fare try beef kabobs—You don't need a recipe. Just cut beef into inch-size chunks and stock an assortment of mushrooms, onions, tomatoes and what-have-you. Spear the ingredients alternately on meal skewers or long green sticks about one-fourth of an inch thick. Broil over hot coals until done. This way, everyone does his own cooking.

Want a low-calorie salad dressing for your spring green salads? Mix together ½ cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons lemons juice or vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard 1 teaspoon grated onion and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Store, covered, in the refrigerator. Shake well before using. One clove may be added if desired. The entire recipe contains 25 calories.

Buying cotton Knit clothing may be a problem because of shrinkage after washing. Buy cotton knit garments that have firm even knitting. When shopping ask the clerk to stretch the fabric a little and hold it over a contrasting background to help see the looks. Long stretched loops will shrink when washed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bandy and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bandy, James and Juanell of Meadow drove to Lubbock Saturday night, where they helped celebrate the birthday of Mrs. A. T. Bandy with barbecued supper on the lawn. Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Lovelace of Tokio, parents of Mrs. A. T. Bandy were also present.
