Cotton industry moves West

FROM THE FIELD TO THE GIN . . .

FROM THE GIN TO THE BUYERS . . . Cotton plays a large role in the economy of Plains and the South Plains area.

The cotton growing industry, once known for its resistance to change, has turned about-face—especially in the West Texas area. This change not only applies to the geographic change, but also to the cotton growing methods.

In reports over the last eight years Yoakum County cotton production has been on the increase. In 1952 there were approximately 14,169 bales ginned in the county. In 1953 there was a drop to 10,644 bales, but in 1954 cotton production leaped past the old record to 16,562 bales ginned. Since 1956 cotton production has stayed around 26,000 bales and this year's production is expected to be about 27,000 bales.

Our neighbors to the east, Terry County, will have an approximate 100,000 bales this year compared to 22,478 bales ginned in 1926-27.

It is estimated that in a few years, 18 counties centered around Lubbock will produce one third of the state's total cotton crop. Nowhere in the world, experts say, has there ever been so great a concentration of cotton production in so small an area as here.

Cotton is a newcomer to West Texas and the South Plains. It was not until the late 1920's that cotton was grown on large productive scale on the South Plains.

In its geographic move, cotton has headed west and southward, leaving the eroded and leached soils of the old established cotton belt. The Blackland Belt, centered in East and Central Texas, was the leader in cotton production until the last 15 years.

Cotton has spread westward to the rich lands of the South Plains and the Rio Grande Valley and as it is resistant to drought it has become a leader in cash crops.

In recent years nearly half of the cotton produced was grown on irrigated lands.

Cotton production has become a selective farming product. In 1926 to 1927 Texas produced an average of 4,611,000 bales annually from an estimated 16,667,000 acres. In the past five year period of 1952 to 1957 Texas produced an average of 3,900,000 bales annually from an estimated 7,130,000 acres.

Cotton one of earliest crops known

Cotton has come a long way since it was first used by man. It is believed that cotton was one of the first crops planted by civilized man. The earliest record of cotton was recorded around 1500 B. C. when it was regarded as a sacred plant. The Egyptians made use of the plant and fiber and probably was the first irrigated cotton farmers.

Wild cotton was first noticed in the United States by Cabeza de Vaca in his wanderings through the Southwest in 1527. The first commercial origin of cotton in Texas was in the early 1820's after Austin's colony settled on the fertile banks of the Brazos. There is evidence of earlier scattered productions around San Antonio missions in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

The first cotton census around 1850 showed that Texas had a crop in 1849 of 58,073 bales. Following the Civil War there was a rapid development until the peak years of 1926-27 when over five million bales were produced.

The first cotton gin which separated the seed from the cotton was invented by Eli Whitney in 1792 who applied for a patent on June 20, 1793. His model was stolen and was manufactured by dishonest interest before Whitney received his patent in March 1794. Whitney formed a partnership with Phineas Miller and manufactured cotton gins. The invention was so valuable that redress was unobtainable and his patent was now renewed due to the power exerted by those had been enriched by his invention.

The first cotton picker, (mechanical), of importance was Rust Cotton Picker, horse drawn picker, built by John Rust of Weatherford, Texas in 1928. In 1929 it was rebuilt into a self-propelled model powered by a model "T" motor. An improved model was in service in 1937 which could pick 13 bales a day.

Sunray spots Clear Fork production

Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Company No. 1 Mattie Powell, Yoakum County project, has indicated Clear Fork production, flowing 183 barrels of oil from perforations at 6,592-6,608 feet in 15 hours.

This gauge came after the formation was washed with 5,000 gallons of acid. The 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom at 6,700 feet.

Livemore and Welborne of Lubbock swabbed 349 barrels of new oil from the San Andres in No. 1 Boyd, six miles southwest of Plains in Yoakum County.

The recovery came from perforations at 5,282-5,310 feet after fracturing with 15,000 gallons. Swabbing continues.

Cowboys keep perfect record

Mayor, secretary attend meeting

Mayor and Mrs. Roger Curry and City Secretary Bob Loe and Mrs. Loe attended the annual convention of the Texas Municipal League in Galveston October 2 through 4.

According to Loe, a great many topics were discussed relative to growth of cities and the problems incurred. Loe said that it was brought out in discussion that cities could not expect to grow unless they have constant planning and work for the future.

Some of the topics discussed were "Scheduling Municipal Debt Issues", "The City of Tomorrow", and "Good Public Relations."

A highlight of the convention, Loe reports, was an address by Paul Harvey of the American Broadcasting Company. Harvey pointed out the dangers of Americans expecting too much from the Federal Government. He said, "America can have big government or big people but they cannot have both". Loe added that the speaker was given a standing ovation by the 3,500 delegates attending the luncheon.

The Farwell Steers, crippled with injuries, went down in overwhelming defeat Friday night at Cowboy Stadium. A host of fans were on hand at the Homecoming game to see the Cowboys roll to a stunning 67-8 victory. The Plains record now stands at six wins and no defeats, and the local eleven is ranked among the top five Class A teams in Texas.

On the flip of the coin the Cowboys elected to receive and defend the west goal. Hendricks, on the kick-off, toted the ball from the 12 to the 24. Cooke, on a hand-off from Culwell, ran for 35 yards on the third play of the game to set up the Cowboys on the Farwell 20. Big Joe Don Morrow drove for four yards to score the Cowboy's first touchdown with only two and a half minutes gone in the first quarter. Try for extra points failed.

The Steers kept the ball for four plays after the ensuing kick-off, but were forced to punt and the Cowboys returned the favor after they failed to make a first down.

Farwell, on their second play, fumbled the ball in the backfield and the Cowboys recovered. On the first play Culwell threw a 25-yard strike to Hendricks, who ran 45 yards for the second touchdown. The Cowboy line showed their mettle as they closed the backfield to the Steers, giving Culwell plenty of time to get his pass away. Hendricks kicked the extra point and Plains led 13-0, with only six minutes gone.

A pass interception by Ethridge turned the ball over to the Cowboys but a fumble on the next play gave the ball back to the Steers. Farwell managed to make two first downs but a penalty backed them to the wall with 2 and 15 to go. In the second play a fumble by the Steers was recovered by Meixner on the Steers 31 yard line.

In the next series of plays by the Cowboys, Dick Cooke set up a first down on a long 30 yard run down to the 5 yard line. Morrow on a handoff to Culwell went over his right side for the third Cowboy touchdown. A pass from Culwell to Jerry Warren gave the Cowboys two extra points. At the end of the first quarter the score was 21 for Plains and 0 for Farwell. The next Cowboy touchdown came three minutes in the second quarter as the Cowboys in a series of hard driving plays closed down on the Steer's 5 yard line. Cooke on a hand-off from Culwell skirted over for the touchdown. Try for extra points was no good.

Hendricks on a pass from Culwell set up the next Cowboy touchdown as he ran 35 yards. Culwell on a keeper rolled over for the pay dirt. Extra point attempt failed and the score with 5 minutes remaining in the second quarter stood 34 to 0.

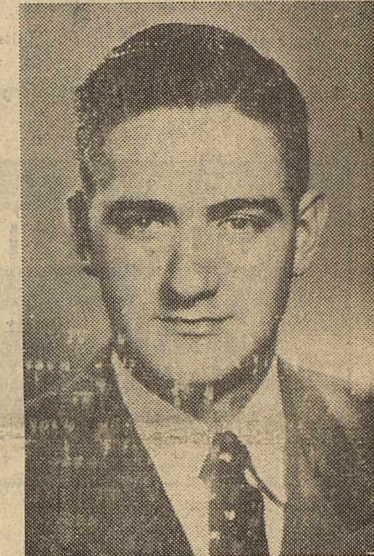

A fumble recovered by Todd was made good use off as the Cowboys in a series of runs and passes closed in again near the

J. D. Campbell, ex-band director, dies in accident

A former Plains High School band director, J. D. Campbell, 25, was killed Saturday evening in a crash of his station wagon and a trailer pulled by a truck east of Rankin. Cause of the accident had not been determined at our latest report.

Mr. Campbell died about an hour and a half after arriving at a Big Lake hospital by ambulance. Four of the seven passengers in his car were injured. Jimmy Jr., 3, taken to a Rankin hospital, was critical injured but was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday after undergoing surgery Monday for a brain concussion in Big Lake hospital where he was transferred.

Mrs. Campbell received a broken collar-bone and multiple cuts and bruises and was resting under sedation Tuesday. The Campbell's year old son, Mark, was only slightly bruised.

Also injured and hospitalized at Rankin were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black of Ozona, where

Accident claims life of Trout boy

Tragedy struck our community Friday afternoon about 4:00 when Monte Troyce Trout, 18 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Trout, suffocated as he fell head downward into a cesspool at the family home north west of town.

The mother, upon missing the baby who had only minutes before been playing with a five year old brother and two and a half year old sister, found the tot and grasped him from the pool. After trying unsuccessfully to revive him, she carried him to the Chris Geutersloh home a quarter mile away. Bob Blundell, aided by Mrs. Geutersloh, administered artificial respiration then rushed him to Plains Clinic where he was pronounced dead.

The father had gone to Level-land for machinery repairs. Two older brothers had not returned from school.

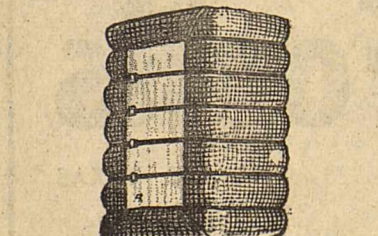

Graveside services, under direction of Brownfield Funeral Home, were conducted at 4:00 p.m. Saturday in Plains Cemetery by Rev. Calvin Beach of Tokio.

Monte is survived by his parents; a sister Rhonda Sue; three brothers, Reg, Boyce and Lowell; grandparents, Mrs. Nona Trout, Plains, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sms, Bronco; and a host of aunts, uncles and cousins.

Pleasant Hill built to aid in industry growth

To take care of the expanding growth in the cotton industry the Pleasant Hill Gin was constructed this year 10 miles south of Tokio. Modern equipment consisting of Murray gin equipment and Tandem Moss Lint Cleaners was installed this year in time for the cotton season.

Hardwick - Etter overhead cleaning systems were installed to produce cotton of the highest standards. Manager of the Pleasant Hill Gin is E. D. Camp and bookkeeper is Shirley Campbell. Owners of the gin are O'Neal, F. D., and W. O. Spencer.

To insure quick service, the gin has bracer and native crews and a complete new line of trailers.

Mr. Campbell extends a hearty welcome to all area cotton farmers to drop by and inspect the new gin and to discuss his cotton ginning needs.

Only 10 major league players have hit four home runs in one game.

MR. AND MRS. W. O. SPENCER, owner and bookkeeper of the CG&S gin are shown in their office.

CG&S Gin starts sixth year of cotton ginning

Starting in their sixth season of cotton ginning, the CG&S gin located 16 miles northeast of Plains has gotten off to a big start. Manager of the gin is W. O. Spencer who owns the gin with his father, O'Neal Spencer.

The gin is equipped with Continental equipment with a double Moss lint cleaning system. Spencer said the gin was also equipped to by-pass any cleaning equipment that was demanded.

He added that CG&S had over 300 square feet of cleaning surface, and that all ginning equipment necessary for a good job of cotton ginning was there.

A stick and green leaves machines are available to insure cleaner samples from strippers, hand-pulled, and machine picked cotton.

Situated near the gin is housing for approximately 225 braceros. Spencer added that the gin had both native and bracero workers. The company added new cotton trailers this year also.

"Our business is built on grades, turn-out and services",

Spencer said. He invites all area farmers to drop by and inspect the plant and to discuss their cotton ginning needs.

Drilling remains stable in county

Rotary drilling activity in Yoakum County last week remained stable, although a general decline was noted in drilling throughout the Permian Basin. Reed Roller Bit Co., Midland, which prepares the weekly report of active units in the West Texas-Southeastern New Mexico area, listed seven active units in Yoakum County, the same number as the previous survey.

Throughout the Basin, however, drilling declined from 230 active rigs on September 30 to only 214 units "making hole" on October 7. Last year at the same time, there were 320 rotary drilling.

Lea County, N. M., with 29 rotary drilling, continues to pace activity in the area according to the company's Friday survey. Andrews County maintained second place in the survey with 18 working units, followed closely by Winkler County with 17 active rigs. Crane County counted 14 units and Eddy County, N. M., had 13 for fourth and fifth places, respectively.

Reed's count includes only rotary drilling at the time of the survey.

There are 36 known ghost towns in Arizona.

AUSTIN, Tex. — City officials of Texas are serving notice on the next Legislature that "something's got to give."

"Three-fourths of the people live in cities, and they should have three-fourths of the vote," said Deer Park Mayor Jimmy Walker after being elected president of the Texas Municipal League Mayors, Councilmen and Commissioners Association.

Walker referred to votes in the Legislature, due for re-districting since the 1960 census. In the past 10 years Texas has had a sharp population shift from rural to urban which is not reflected in the make-up of the present Legislature.

Give representation according to their populations, the city officials believe they can "cure many inequities."

One of the first things they would like to have is broader taxing powers. State law now restricts cities to the property tax.

Many city officials believe that the pyramiding growth and expenses of urban areas make new revenue sources necessary.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH UPHOLD — State Supreme Court has reaffirmed its own earlier ruling of "accidental death" in the case of a man who died from a blood clot on his brain after watching his office records burn.

This means two insurance companies must pay double for policies on the man's life, which provided for double indemnity in case of accidental death.

Decision was 5 to 4 by the court.

Majority opinion said that the "viewing of the fire produced a wholly unexpected, unusual and unforeseen catastrophe."

Dissenting opinion said that the case would bring up all sorts of confusion, such as whether a heart attack caused by excitement from watching a football game or TV show was "accidental death."

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR SA — Supreme Court ruled that the City of San Antonio has the right to make another try in court for water from the Canyon Dam Reservoir.

San Antonio's effort to get some water from the dam being built by the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority has been going on for years.

State Water Board turned down the city's request which is vigorously opposed by GBRA. San Antonio appealed the Water Board decision to district court which rejected the appeal, saying, in effect, that it was too late since construction of the dam already had begun.

Supreme Court held that San Antonio was entitled to a trial of the case on its merits in district court. If the district court should decide that the city should get some of the Canyon Dam Water, the case will go back to the Water Board to decide how much it should get.

"SALOON CLUBS" UNDER FIRE — State Liquor Control Board has set a hearing Oct. 24 on proposed new regulations for private clubs selling liquor by the drink.

Bona-fide private, non-profit clubs are not the target of the proposed new rules, said Liquor Board Administrator Co. E. Stevenson Jr.

It's aimed, he said, at "fly-by-night operators" who give away membership cards or have only the flimsiest sort of organizational set-up as an excuse for selling liquor by the drink.

New rule would require all clubs to have a private club registration permit, to be renewed annually. To get the permit, the club would have to have dues or fees, exclusive of liquor charges, sufficient to pay rental, insurance, taxes, repairs, etc., on its premises.

Liquor dealers would be forbidden to deliver liquor to any club without a permit.

Stevenson said there are probably more than 1,000 clubs providing liquor by the drink in Texas.

TEXTBOOKS CHALLENGED — "As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined" — which led a group of citizens from over the state to come to Austin to challenge proposed public school textbooks they felt might in-

J. Evetts Haley of Canyon headed the group called the "Texans' Committee for Educational Textbook Committee. Haley, an arch-conservative, ran for governor in 1956.

Haley's committee objected to references in the proposed texts to persons they regarded as "subversive" and to what they called "left-wing comment." Some books, they said, encouraged "government doles" by picturing farm subsidies in a favorable light.

Members of the State Textbook Committee, made up of teachers, said that any favorable reference to proven subversives would be taken out of any books recommended for state adoption.

TEXAS-ALASKA AGREEMENT — Texas and Alaska, the big two of the United States, have worked out a "visiting privileges" agreement for motorists from the two states.

Texas vehicles can operate in Alaska up to 90 days without additional registration charges, and Alaskan cars, trucks and buses may do the same in Texas.

State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer announced the agreement. He said Texas now has reciprocal passenger car agreements with all other states and truck and bus agreements with all but six states.

SHORT SNORTS — Governor's Advisory Commission on Finance knocked down one of the favorite themes of the optimistic — that the state has enough money in special funds to offset the shortage in the general revenue fund. Month by month, the balances in the statutory special funds would not cover the general revenue fund deficit, said a commission report.

Land Commissioner Bill Allcorn has announced the appointment of Jack Giberson as chief clerk of the General Land Office. Giberson was serving as legal counsel for the land office. . . . Howard L. Arno will become engineer of secondary roads for the State Highway Department beginning Oct. 15.

He succeeds Percy S. Bailey who is retiring after 36 years with the Highway Department. . . . Texas Employment Commission notes a drop both in job holders and job seekers. Unemployment dropped by 3,800 to a 176,700 total, says TEC, while total employment slipped by 23,600 to 3,504,100.

Becoming more and more important to the outboard motor user is the storage battery.

This is true for several reasons, but mainly because more than one-third of the outboard motors now being sold are electric-starting.

Although marine batteries are similar to the automotive type, their use, and abuse, is quite different. Boats often lie idle for several weeks at a time. Sometimes for the entire winter. Marine batteries also are subject to more bouncing around than are car batteries. This due to more frequent periods of "rough riding."

Another factor is this: Often the boat motor is directly exposed to the elements for long periods. Much of the time is sits uncovered for weeks, even months, in the hot sun. In many cases the boat battery is connected to a generator less motor. As a consequence it is used without being recharged until its power is completely exhausted. This is highly injurious to the battery.

All these factors mean that the marine battery gets the roughest treatment.

Habitually the motorist will have his car battery checked regularly . . . or the service attendant will do it for him without being directed to do so.

But seldom if ever does the boat owner think to add water to his marine battery, much less take time to have it recharged. Nor does the filling station man check it when the motorist drives in trawling a boat. In fact we've yet to see a station attendant inspect a boat battery . . . or a boat owner ask that it be done.

Marine batteries are taken for granted, seldom inspected accessories. Not only are they subject to rougher treatment . . . they also get less attention.

Often we've wondered why some Texas manufacturer didn't come up with a specially built storage battery for outdoorsmen . . . specifically designed for electric-starting outboard motors.

It seems that the Reliable Battery Co. is just that. They now have factories in three cities -- San Antonio, Houston and Dallas, plus another in New Orleans, La.

They have been making "Sea-Going" batteries for diesel engine starting, auxiliary power and stand-by service, for many years . . . for systems up to 120 volts. But only recently have they gone in for marine batteries for small craft.

Their small marine batteries -- in 6, 8 and 12-volt sizes have extra heavy plates, especially built for tough marine service. Tests prove that they will retain 98 per cent of their charge after four weeks and more than 80 per cent after 14 weeks. That's over three times as long as government requirements.

Manufacturers claim that the longer life is due to larger plates, massive grids, extra heavy cross bars and permalife insulation.

Nothing could sound sweeter to the boat owner who has had the sad experience of readying for a pleasure cruise only to encounter a balky battery -- or worse yet, a dead one.

Regardless of the make of battery you use, it deserves more care than it's getting.

Mercury outboard authorities, sensing the need for more attention to marine batteries, offer some recommendations.

They suggest that you purchase an ordinary hydrometer, available at auto stores for about a dollar, and check your marine battery regularly.

If the hydrometer test shows a reading of 1.150 it means that your battery is almost dead. A reading of 1.250 indicates a half-charge state; and 1.280 means it is fully charged.

You can bring your battery up to full charge on any slow charger of appropriate voltage. Rate of charge should not exceed six amperes, and charging should be discontinued when the hydrometer reading reaches 1.280.

Check the battery's water level often and add distilled water as needed. But don't overfill.

Outboard battery trouble often is traced to poor connections at the terminals. When installing your battery, scrape or sandpaper the terminal metal to get a bright surface. A little grease or petroleum jelly, spread on the terminals after tightening does much to deter corrosion.

Brush a mixture of baking soda and water over corroded terminals to clean them. Anytime you remove the battery rinse it off thoroughly with the solution.

Although your marine dealer will store your battery with your motor, for the winter, you can keep it at home in a cool, dry place. Put it away fully charged and bring up the charge at 60-day intervals. If you allow it to drop down to the fully discharged state repeatedly, its life will be materially shortened.

Now, as cooler weather approaches and you go pleasure boating less frequently, your marine battery needs closer attention.

goal. Culwell to Morrow gave the Cowboys another 6 points and Hendricks kicked for the extra point. At the half the score was 41 to 0.

In the third quarter Dick Cooke intercepted a pass and ran 15 yards to set the Cowboys in motion again. The ball went over to the Steers on downs. Farwell kicked with Cooke taking the ball for 23 yards. Hendricks then carried the ball on a long 75 yard run over for a touchdown.

Extra point try was good and the score stood 48 to 0.

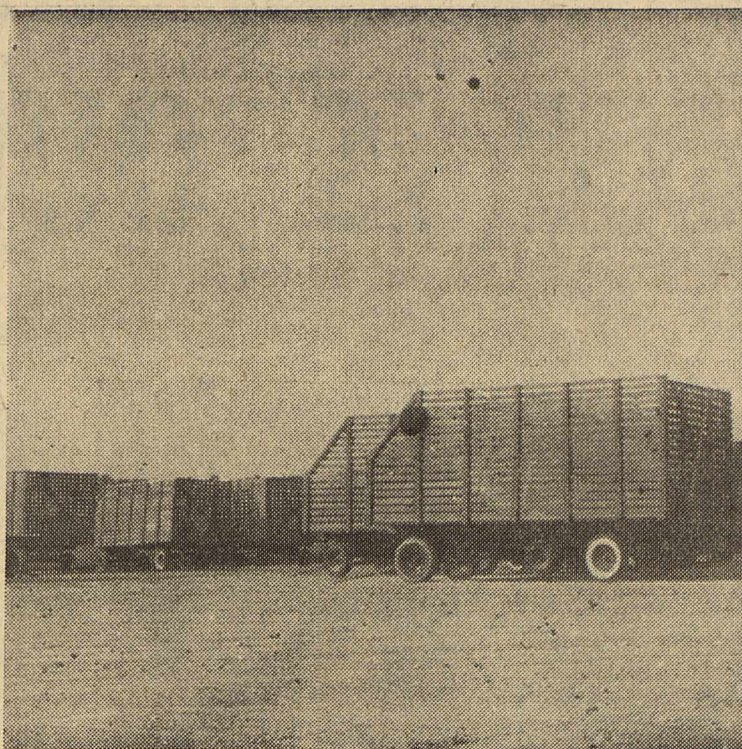

Sink and Warren, for the Cowboys, try was halted in their attempt to score again as penalties erased yardage made by the Cowboys. The ball went over to Farwell but Doug Todd recovered a fumble to return the ball to Plains.

Sink on a keeper went over the left side for another Cowboy touchdown and the kick by Hendricks was good.

A fumble by Farwell was recovered by Clarence Todd and the Cowboys made good use of it. Sink, after having one called back, scored pay dirt again on a keeper. With 4 minutes left in the game the Cowboys were 61 to Farwell's 0.

Tommy Warren recovered a fumble by Farwell on the kickoff. Sink passed to Tidwell who scored again for Plains.

With only seconds left in the game Jerry Loveless put on the

Newsom's Gin ready to serve cotton producers

Located just outside of the Plains business district is the D. C. Newsom Gin, owned and operated by D. C. Newsom and his son, D. C. (Hoss) Newsom, Jr. The ginning firm has been in operation at the same site since 1951.

Newsom's Gin is equipped with the Hardwick-Etter ginning system with four 90 saw hot rolls. To give one of the finest jobs in lint cleaning, steam and rolled over for a Steers touchdown. At the end of the game the score stood 67 to 8.

This Friday the Cowboys will meet Frenship at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

Lowest altitude in the United States is Death Valley in California, 282 feet below sea level.

Experts estimate that colds cost the United States about five billion dollars a year.

Newsom's has Moss lint cleaners in Tandem followed by Hardwick-Etter Clean Master equipment. This system, Newsom said, added up to a triple lint cleaning system.

To insure cleaner staple the gin has a Hardwick-Etter stick and green leaf machine.

Newsoms have the most modern in lab equipment so as to always keep their ginning equipment in the best running condition and to gear the equipment to fit each cotton farmer's needs.

Mr. Newsom Sr. has had over 42 years' experience in the ginning business. His son joined the firm since it has been in Plains.

Native and bracer field labor is available, and a large number of cotton trailers.

The Newsoms invite all their friends and interested cotton farmers to come by and inspect their plant and to discuss their cotton ginning needs.

TRADEMARKS

Our government has tried to encourage enterprise by rewarding good work. It does this by protecting a good name through our trademark laws.

From the time the clock starts your radio until night when you switch off the electric light, you surround yourself with things which you buy by their advertised brand names.

A trademark may be a word, emblem, or other device. Brick markers of old Egypt the lam markers of Athens, and English helmet makers used them.

In a market, a trademark sets off one maker or seller's goods from those of others.

You may be the first to "think up" the idea of using a given trademark to identify certain goods. But that alone does not give you a property right in the trademark or make you its owner. The maker or seller who first adopts and actually uses a trademark on a line of goods, becomes its owner.

The law protects ownership of trademarks. In doing so, courts will order a late-comer to stop using another's trademark. It will award damages if the owner has suffered.

Kit Carson once declared of Arizona "A wolf couldn't make a living in it."

First, to keep the buyer from being deceived and to make sure that we, the public, get what we want. Second, to prevent piracy of the trademark and the goodwill which its owner has built up in the mark through making, selling and advertising such goods.

A trademark may be a firm's most valuable asset. It stands for the firm's goodwill and good name. So choose a trademark with care. It must not be too much like any other trademark.

When you have chosen a word or symbol, you must then use it to properly with the goods for it to become valid. Once in use, guard it. For a trademark may lose its legal safeguard if you or the public do not use it properly.

To be valid a trademark need not be registered in any state or federal agency. But registration makes protection easier to enforce and may afford other advantages.

Charlie Gillis is named to county service post

Charles R. Gillis, proprietor of Western Auto Store in Denver City, on Monday was named Yoakum County Service and Welfare Officer. Gillis succeeds the resigned Buford Dulin.

The Denver City man was named to the position by the County Commissioners on a split vote, with County Judge Don Hancock casting the tie-breaking ballot which assured the appointment for Gillis.

Motion to name Gillis was made by Commissioner H. C.

(Doc) Cotton and was seconded by Commissioner Vance Brown. Commissioners Paul Lee and Gene Payne voted against Gillis' appointment and Judge Hancock cast his vote in favor of the Denver City man.

Commission set Gillis' salary at $393.75 per month with an additional $75 monthly for car allowance.

The county group also directed that a library conference table be transferred from the Denver City library to the Denver City Chamber of Commerce office for storage.

One other action taken by commissioners was authorization for the purchase of furniture and fixtures in the County Service Office at Denver City from Dulin for $400.

Commissioners also authorized issuance of five road warrants totaling $15,000 to mature on October 15 of five consecutive years, beginning in 1961. Money will be used to purchase one motor grader from Patton Equipment on a low bid of $21,780 less $6,780 trade-in.

Tokio Gin constructed on site of earliest gin

The Tokio Gin is located on the site of one of the first gins in the South Plains area. Built when little cotton was grown in the region, it has progressed with the cotton industry. A completely new gin was constructed last season, and is equipped with 6-80 Murray and Tandem Moss cleaners.

Green leave and stick machines were installed for this season to insure cotton farmers better grades for their cotton.

Located one mile north of Tokio, the gin is situated in Terry County but draws its many customers from all over the area.

Owner and manager F. D. Spencer with his partners O'Neal and W. O. Spencer, is ready to serve cotton farmers on their ginning needs.

Bookkeeper for the firm is Mrs. F. D. Spencer.

County, schools name appraiser to handle county job

Southwestern Appraisal Co., Inc., of Stamford and Dallas will be hired for a complete re-evaluation of real property in Yoakum County.

A contract with the firm is due to be signed late this week by the county, after which Plains School District and Denver City Independent School District will follow suit.

The three taxing bodies agreed earlier this week to enter into the contract with the firm for the complete appraisal program in the county. Cost of the job will be $45,000 with the county to pay one-half and each of the school districts to absorb one-fourth of the total cost of the appraisal.

It is estimated that the actual appraisal program will get underway within days after actual signing of the contract with the firm, possibly as early as the middle of next week.

Directing the team of appraisers which will be working in the county will be Maburn L. Harris, general manager of the firm. It was reported on Wednesday that several county people will be hired by the firm to assist in the tremendous task.

The three taxing districts involved have been told by the firm that the job will be completed by August 1, 1961, to allow adequate time for preparations of 1962 budgets, boards of equalization meetings, etc.

Lela Parks becomes bride of Jim B. Warren

Miss Lela Rosita Parks became the bride of James William Warren, Jr. on September 28 at eight o'clock in the evening in the Chapel of the University Baptist Church, Abilene.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Maple L. Avery before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and candleabra which formed an archway.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Parks and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Warren, Sr.

Miss Karen Carpenter, Snyder, accompanied George Archer, Memphis, as he sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Mrs. Harold Armstrong of Brownwood served her sister as matron of honor and Miss Janelle Parks, of Brownwood — sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Attendants wore identical street-length dresses of turquoise taffeta. Dresses were fashioned with sabrina necklines, bouffant skirts, and sashes accented with a fabric rose. Headpieces were black velveteen bows with attached veils. They carried cascades of turquoise and white carnations and white satin ribbon.

Jerry Bob Warren, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Harmon Meixner of Abilene was groomsmen. Ushers were Jack Cobb and Donnie Kissinger of Brownwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace and cotton satin styled by her mother. The fitted bodice was designed with a high neckline and long petal-point sleeves. Stemming from the waistline in the back of the dress was a large bow and panel of lace accenting the bouffant street-length skirt. A crown of lace and seed pearls caught her fingertip veil of silk illusion and the bride carried a bouquet of roses and carnations atop a white pearl Bible. She wore pearl jewelry.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of iridescent turquoise and black taffeta with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a blue wool dress with black and white accessories.

RECEPTION

A two-tiered wedding cake was the focal point at the reception held in the church parlor. A lace cloth covered the bride's table which was highlighted by an arrangement of turquoise and white carnations and turquoise candles. Miss Linda Fitzgerald presided at the guest book on a table decorated with turquoise taffeta roses and turquoise candles.

The bride attended Plains High School where she took part in all activities. The bridegroom graduated from Plains High School, attended the University of Texas, and is currently enrolled in McMurry College.

For traveling, the bride wore a black velveteen suit with red and black accessories and white rose corsage from her bouquet. The couple is now at home in Abilene at 1809 South Third Street.

Which Democratic Platform?

Which do you prefer: the socialistic, anti-Texas platform of Kennedy — or the Nixon Platform that more nearly conforms with Texas principles and ideals as expressed in the State Democratic platform?

The Kennedy platform is against nearly everything Texans are for — it is for nearly everything Texans are against.

What will be your choice? It is between a party label and the best interest of Texas and the Nation.

Allan Shivers says:

"I'LL TAKE TEXAS. I accept the Texas Democratic platform and will work for it. I repudiate the other — the Kennedy platform. I will join with my fellow Democrats to work and vote for men of maturity, experience, responsibility, and a fearless dedication to this country's best interests.

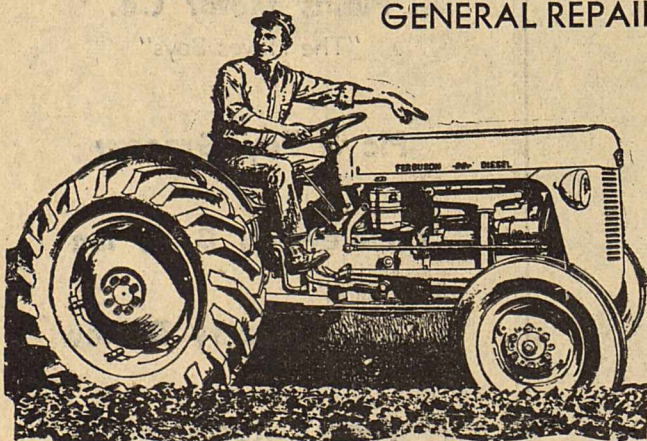

"I will vote for Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge."

Plains Gin opens doors for '60 cotton season

Among the newest and most modern gins in the Plains area is Plains Gin, located four miles west on the Lovington highway. The new gin was started in March and completed in time for this year's ginning season.

The gin is equipped with the Hardwick-Etter ginning system, with one of the newest Hardwick-Etter lint cleaning systems. This triple lint cleaning system, according to Gayle Craft, manager, is similar to the Revelation-Moss system. He added that the Hardwick-Etter lint system combined with the Revelation Moss system gives the gin one of the best cleaning systems to be found in any gin in this area.

The latest in drying equipment has also been installed and is completely automatic to keep from over-drying or under-drying cotton.

All the equipment is the most modern developed in the ginning field.

Mr. Craft added that Albert and Wade Williams ginned the first bale on September 20. The bale weighed 515 pounds and was purchased at a premium of 50c per pound. The cotton was Blight - Master variety, going strict-middling at 1 and .32 inches.

The gin is owned by C. E. Hilburn and Verlon Hilburn, with Gayle Craft serving as manager and Paul Cobb bookkeeper.

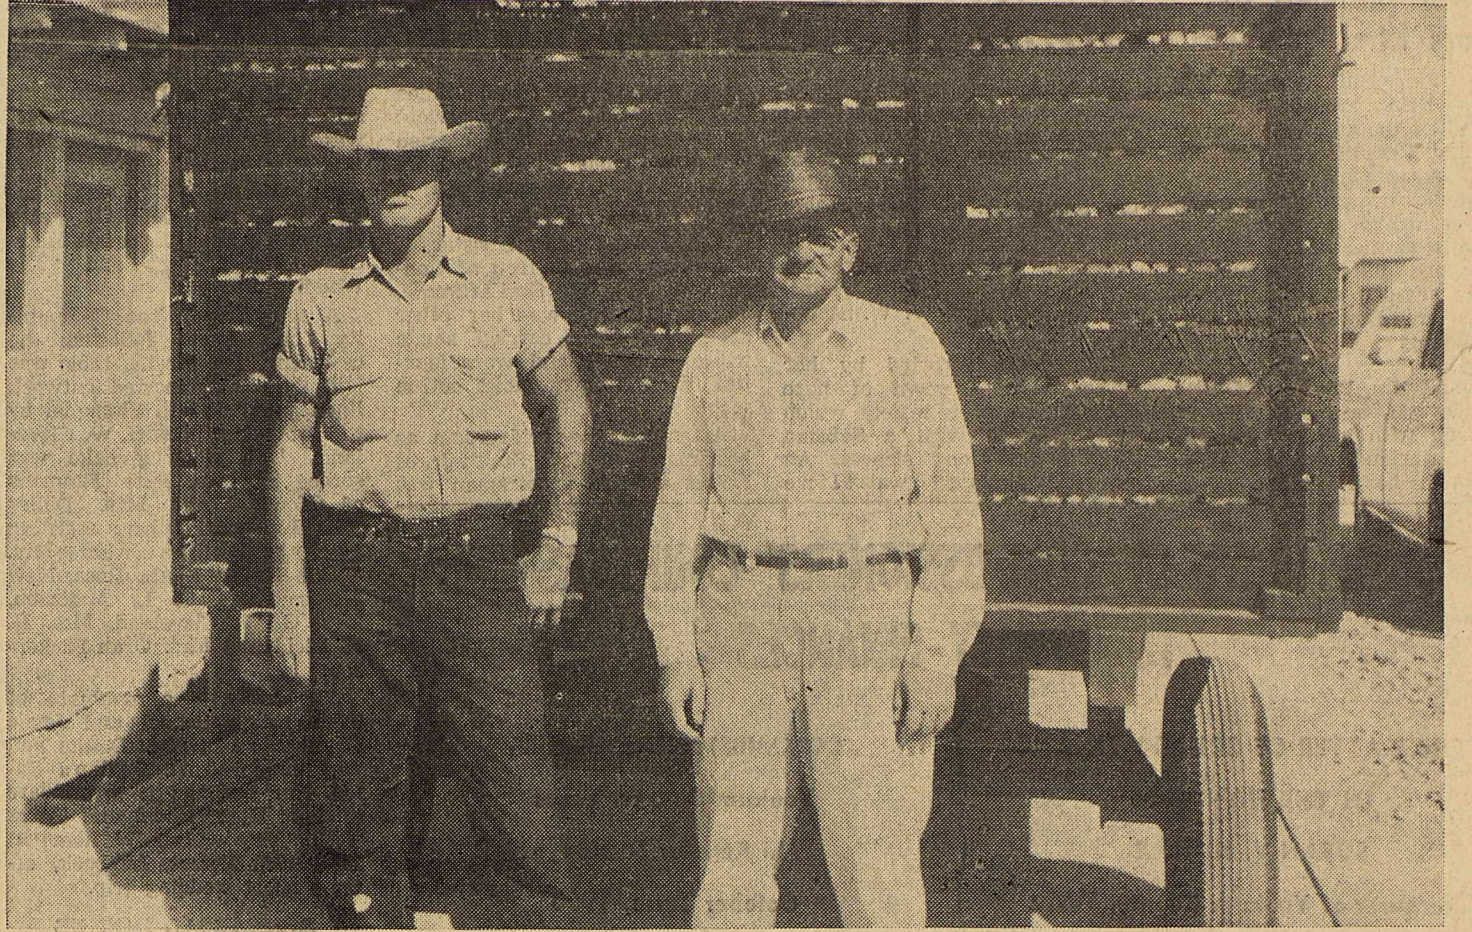

Dale Carnegie alumni to meet for program

The Dale Carnegie Alumni Association will hold a meeting Monday evening, October 17 in the Club Room of the old courthouse with a full and entertaining program planned.

The program beginning at 7:00 p.m. will feature impromptu speeches of 2 to 3 minutes by graduates of the Dale Carnegie Course and members of the association, a 10-minute break at half-time for refreshments, election of officers, and awarding of best speech award.

Appearing on the program will be Travis Boyd, Bill Loyd, Johnnie Fitzgerald, J. E. Cooke, James Anderson, Buster and Jeaney Kennedy, Elsie Nordyke, Rudy Heald, Harold Hyde, Roger Curry, C. L. Faubus and P. W. St. Romain.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sims visited his mother in Ropes Sunday. The spry little lady who pieces quilts and other fine needlework, does anything to be done around the house and enjoys life to the fullest was celebrating her 90th birthday. There was a host of relatives and friends present including one of her four great-grandchildren.

First bale of cotton ginned at the Tokio Farmer Co-op was brought

Tokio Co-op Gin to hold open house this Saturday

One of the area's newest gins is the Tokio Farmers Cooperative Society gin two miles west of Tokio and twelve miles east of Plains, owned by sixty-three stockholders from both Yoakum and Terry Counties.

C. C. Perkins is president of the society, and Amos Smith is manager of the gin. Bookkeepers and weighers are Grady Nelson, a farmer, and Travis Jones, a 1958 graduate of Plains schools.

The new Continental equipment includes four gin stands with individual lint cleaners, a Super Constellation Moss lint cleaner, an all-steel automatic press, two 24-shelf tower dryers, two 3-million BTU burners for dryers, two 14-foot burr extractors, two 96-inch incline cleaners with automatic floor control for suction, a Crowe Seed-o-meter and platform type scales with weight-o-graph.

Benefiting the farmer is the Lab-Quip cotton sampler which insures truer samples. This automatically takes samples as the cotton is being ginned. Installed this week is a Bruton Green-boll Trap to insure cleaner cotton.

In addition to the gin itself, a modern office building has been constructed and three new houses have been erected for Mr. Smith, the ginners and families.

In addition to Mr. Perkins, other officers and directors of the society are: T. J. Bearden, vice-president; Claud Buchanan, secretary; I. L. Smith, treasurer; O. A. Pippin, Wilborn Bailey and Bonard Stice, who with Mr. Smith invite the public to attend their open house and grand opening Saturday, October 15. Barbecue will be served at the noon hour at the gin.

Tsa Mo Ga bazaar termed success

A record crowd enjoyed the Tsa Mo Ga Cracker Barrel Bazaar Monday night at the club house. Guest purchased fancy hand-made gifts of many varieties.

The "Tasting Bee" was really humming with everyone tasting and buying recipes of the tasty goodies that club members had for tasting and buying. Another corner of the club house was busy too, selling home-made candies, pies, cakes, breads and even country butter. Everyone enjoyed the unusual display of Hallmark cards that depicted Christmas and birthday cards from around the turn-of-the-century.

The winner of the "George Washington Plume" quilt was George Blount, which was readily accepted by Jimmy, his wife.

The Girl Scouts were cleverly displayed and they wish to express their appreciation to the Tsa Mo Ga Club for letting them have a part in the annual Bazaar. Also the Auxiliary Poppy sale was a success. Those wishing to give to the Veteran's gift box, please contact Mrs. McCargo, Mrs. Bill Loyd, social chairman and her social committee served coffee, cold drinks and cookies to everyone present.
