

MOORE Or Less

by Johnnie Moore

Boy, it sure pays to not let your drivers license expire. I ask a certain Mrs. Moore about it. How she's got to hoe cotton this summer to make up that $16.50.

Man o man, politics sure are jumping. I even saw candidates passing out cards to one another in Plains this week.

It's almost time for us to assert one of our most basic rights as American citizens, that of voting for the people we want to form our government and to whom we want to delegate the powers that are necessary for us to have a law-abiding, properly regulated population.

We of Texas also have to vote either for or against 14, count em, fourteen proposed amendments to our state constitution. It's real necessary, I think, that we know what these amendments are before we plant ourselves in the voting booth come May 5. I wonder how many of us just go down the line, depending on how we feel, marking either all for or all against everyone of the amendments.

I do a whole lot of sounding off about the government in this column and also I might add in personal conversations that I have with people, but we do, after all, still live in a Democracy, and we do still have a say about the laws that are passed. The real problem, it might just be, is that we just don't assert ourselves on these things enough. As long as some legislation doesn't directly affect us too much, we are just complacent enough to just do nothing about it.

For this system of government under which we are living to work properly, the will of the people must be made known to the elected delegates, or else, I suppose they are at liberty to just lead us around like a bunch of sheep, not thinking or caring too much as long as we are assured of a pretty good and reasonable way of life. The thing we are talking about is how socialism gets started. When people stop thinking for themselves, someone else is just liable to take over. Where free enterprise and initiative leaves off, government control and regulation steps in.

When we ask the government to guarantee us a certain way of life or a certain standard of living, then we are asking for government control, socialism.

The people who founded this great country of ours weren't guaranteed anything but opportunity, and that's all you and I have any right to expect. Government aid means government control. They go hand in hand. Let's start using and exercising our God-given constitutional rights a little fuller. Let's stand on our own two feet. Let's all get out and vote for the candidates and proposals of our choice in the May 5 primary, the May 18th hospital bond election, and in the run-offs probably about June 2.

Vote On Hospital Bond Is Set For Friday, May 18

Calls For $325,000 Addition to Yoakum Hospital in Denver City

Election day has been set for the up-coming hospital bond proposal, submitted to the Yoakum County Commissioners' Court, asking for $325,000 worth of bonds for additions and improvements to the Yoakum County Hospital in Denver City. Date for the actual voting has been set as May 18, and as stated the election will be governed by the usual election rules and seen over by the usual election judges of Yoakum County.

The petition, asking for the calling of the election to decide on the $325,000 issue was presented to the county commissioners last week and it was moved by Commissioner, Vance Brown, and seconded by Commissioner, Mrs. Paul Loe, that the election be accepted and that the election be called, provided the proper amount of qualified Yoakum citizens had affixed their names to the petition. The motion carried unanimously in the Monday session presided over by Commissioner Brown in the absence of County Judge, Don Hancock.

Upon being checked by County Tax accessor-collector, E. W. Craig, the petition was found to contain more than enough names to substantiate calling the bond election. It was pointed out that, for a person to be eligible to sign such a petition or to be eligible to vote in such an election, that it is necessary, not only for a citizen to have paid his current year's poll tax, but that he must also have properly rendered his property for taxation to the state and county under existing rules and regulations. This necessitated checking the names against both the poll tax rolls, and the rendered property rolls of the county.

Particulars of the election and the formal "Election Order" are to be found elsewhere in this issue of The Record.

The new bonds, if voted for, are designed to provide an additional 21 bed units to the hospital in Denver City, making the present 29 bed unit into a 50 bed unit. Also, several other additions are anticipated, such as added storage facilities, facilities and additions for the installation of new and more modern equipment, nurses quarter, family room, prayer room, and the room for separating the kitchen facilities from the scullery which, at present is altogether in one room. The complete separation of the maternity ward and nursery facilities from the surgical wards and facilities was also pointed up, by hospital administrator, Mrs. Helen McMahan.

Mrs. McMahan announced also that Yoakum County Hospital will observe National Hospital Week with an "Open House" on Sunday, May 6, from 2 to 5 p.m.

She stressed that everyone in the county is welcome and that the hospital staff would be glad to show each visitor through the hospital. Refreshments will be served by the Pink Ladies, in connection with the national observance. Mrs. McMahan issued the following formal statement:

Our present day hospital care represents a unique combination of science and personal attention from each and every employee of Yoakum County Hospital.

Scientific advances have been translated into life saving equipment, medications and medical techniques, but they are passed on to the patient only because doctors, nurses and all other medical personnel are present to use them.

Each patient has special needs that can be met only by individual attention. While the scientific and technical advances contribute to a patient's recovery, they must be prescribed and provided individually to meet the patient's exact needs. To fulfill this goal, our community hospitals must have two and two-tenths employees for each and every patient.

Statistics show "one in eight persons are hospitalized each year" and each of these patients benefit from the advances of medical science and from the attention of the community hospital staff.

Hospitals are developed by public interest to provide individual care to meet the physical, personal, spiritual and emotional needs of each patient and stand ready to meet any emergency at any hour of the day or night, placing the welfare of each individual patient as the uppermost goal.

Yoakum County Hospital admitted 1,759 patients in 1961, of which 962 were medical patients, 301 surgical patients, 200 obstetrical, 90 accident patients.

Patient days were totaled at 7,490 and the average patient stay was 4.2 days. The average daily census was 20.5 patients per day.

Primaries Explained

Because primary elections are confusing to some the following explanation is printed in the hope that it will clarify some of the points about which some misunderstanding has arisen in the past years.

(EDITOR'S NOTE) THE Ad-vent of the Republican Party in Texas and in Yoakum County has caused many questions to be asked regarding the proper function of the primary elections and related political matters.

In an attempt to answer many of these questions, the Democratic chairman of a neighboring county has given the following information, in question and answer form, the interview went as follows.)

Q. Will both the Democrats and Republicans vote in the same places on May 5?
A. No, Texas elections laws require that each organized political party hold its own primary to nominate its candidates for the various offices prior to the general election in November.

Therefore, while the primary will be held on the same day and in each voting precinct or box, they must be located in different places. The Yoakum Democrats will vote in May in the same places where they have voted in recent years. The Republicans, if a Yoakum primary is to be held will vote in places to be announced shortly.

Q. Must you have the poll tax receipts when you go to vote?
A. Yes. The poll tax receipt or exemption certificate must be presented to the judge of the election at the time the ballot is handed to the voter.

The Judge will, at that time, stamp the word DEMOCRAT on the receipt if one is voting in the Democratic primary or REPUBLICAN if one is voting in the Republican primary.

This is in accordance with the Texas Election Code and is required in order to qualify the person as a member of his respective political party.

Another stamp, VOTED MAY 5, 1962, is also applied to the receipt at this time. Their procedure is to prevent a person from trying to participate in the affairs of two political parties at the same time and is used in "Texas in Lieu of the registration of voters that is used in some other states.

Lions Club Ladies Night Scheduled

Tickets for the event are now in the hands of the members of the local club, and can be purchased from them for $1.50.

Q. Will there be a "Run Off" election held, now that there are two political parties holding primaries?
A. Yes. Both parties are required under the election code to hold a second primary to choose between the two candidates who received the highest number of votes in each contested race, unless one candidate should receive a majority of all votes cast for that office.

Announce Voc. Nurses School

Mrs. Elbert E. Huffman, recently selected by Yoakum County Hospital officials to direct a 12-month course in vocational nurses training in Denver City, announced today that classes will get under way June 4.

The course will consist of classes held six hours each day, five days per week for the first four weeks and then will continue on an eight hour basis for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Huffman, who is a resident of Plains, where her husband operates the Huffman-Barrett Funeral Home, said that the course will consist of practical training as well as theory and is meant to prepare the students for State Vocational Nurse Board Examination.

All persons successfully passing these examinations would receive licenses as Vocational Nurses.

Just recently she has been employed by the Morton Memorial Hospital.

Applications for the LVN course are being taken during office hours at the Yoakum County Hospital in Denver. Mrs. Huffman said, Anyone desiring to enter the school is urged to get in touch with either Mrs. Huffman or Mrs. Helen McMahan, Administrator of the hospital, at the administrator's office.

Classes will be conducted in a dwelling which has been reserved for the classroom training sessions, Mrs. Huffman concluded.

Men! If you are 62 or older, you may be entitled to social security benefits now.

This reminder comes from Mr. John G. Hutton, District Manager of the Lubbock Social Security Office who explained that, as a result of the 1961 changes in the social security law, it is now possible for men as well as women to draw reduced benefits at age 62. The effective date of the change was August, 1961.

When asked if all men should file for benefits at 62, Mr. Hutton pointed out that most men who are over 62 are still working for high earnings would be better off to wait until they are 65 to file for full benefits.

Doctor's Office To Open Next Week

It was revealed this week that further correspondence had been received in Plains from Dr. Marvin Goldberg, who is planning to open an office practice in Plains in the very near future.

Site for the clinic is the house located one block north and one half block west of the courthouse in Plains. It is the house at one time used as a residence by Dr. Bill McCollough.

Mr. Joe Curry, owner of the property, said today that quite a bit of remodeling was necessary to outfit the house suitably for the clinic and that the builder, Mr. Alvie Faulkenberry reports that the work should be finished on the clinic by this Friday or Saturday.

Dr. Goldberg stated in the correspondence received this week that he and his wife Dorie, plan to be in Plains to begin trying to establish their practice by the first part of next week.

Mrs. Goldberg is just finishing a term of college in Sherman, Texas, and it is reported that she must take final exams this week in order to receive credit, but that as soon as she finishes her tests, they will travel to Plains to set up their office and equipment.

Dr. Goldberg has recently taken a trip to Dallas and another to Chicago to secure the necessary equipment to set up and equip a clinic, facilities which will include, reports are, even X-ray facilities.

Dr. Goldberg has, for the past several months, been pursuing an office practice in Commerce, Texas.

Plans for an 18-bed clinic have been approved by the State Hospital Board, and its construction is expected to begin in the next few months. The clinic is planned to be built out of private capital, no bond issue or taxes for its construction, and will be built and equipped for Dr. Goldberg and one more Doctor, a surgeon, still to be named.

Public Can Censor TV, Author Says

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — A top writer of detective stories believes the little knob which turns a television set on and off is the ultimate form of censorship which can tone down sex and violence in adventure programs.

Frank Kane, author of the Johnny Liddell detective novels and many of the Mike Hammer television scripts, said script writers turned to sex and violence when they ran out of other elements to shock and interest their audiences.

"It was like taking dope," Kane said. "Every show you had to increase the dose. That is apparently how it got out of hand."

Kane said it will stop when the public wants it to.

"When you get past the limit of good taste, the public will turn you off," he said.

Kane, who also wrote scripts for Claims Agent, Lawless Twenties, Nick Carter, the Fat Man and other television and radio private eyes, believes pressure from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) will not reduce significantly the amount of sex and violence on television.

He referred indirectly to demands of FCC Chairman Newton Minow that television become more cultural.

"You can fill the air waves 24 hours a day with elevating and uplifting material, but if the public doesn't want to be elevated and uplifted, they won't turn you on," he said.

Kane said television got the way it is because of the "frightening" volume it has to turn out and because producers and directors stifle the creative freedom of writers.

On the latter point, Kane said: "Television isn't written, it's re-written."

He said a television writer submits a story idea, gets it approved in a conference with the show's producer and director and writes it in the way they all agree.

SOIL Conservation NEWS

This week saw the beginning of grass planting along with a lot of regular crop planting, cotton and grain sorghums. Many crops are being moved to a new or different part of the field as a part of a good conservation crop rotation.

New Conservation plans signed this week were H. L. Romans, Leo Holmes, J. W. McCan, R. D. Kelly and Bob Jones. These land owners and operators are beginning with a blue print for Conservation by using a Conservation plan on which to base their land use.

Work continues on planning with R. M. McSwain, L. L. Freeman, John C. Devitt, and many others. Gene Smith started sodding Bermuda this week, C. A. Dulin started last week and a number of others are getting land prepared and making arrangements for sprigs. Dorman Scott plans to sprig about 40 acres on the Huffacker place, as a part of his District plan.

Under ground high pressure pipe lines were checked out on Gene Bennett, A. O. Williams and Wallace Randolph while C. O. Head is starting the installation of about 1200 ft. of pipe. A. O. Williams says he is well pleased with his under ground irrigation pipe as it is saving a lot of water for him.

Work continues in the form of revising old conservation plans. There are a large number of conservation plans that are out of date and need revising. Some of those revised of late are Ralph Jeter, Ty Fields farm, R. M. McSwain, Leon Clananhan, Mrs. N. C. Clananhan and R. N. McGinty ranch. Revising old plans usually brings about renewed interest and a determination to do a better job of conservation farming.

Miracle Diets Sicken Reporter Who Thickens With the Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — I'm fed up with diets that don't work. Included are the low-fat, the high-fat, the prune-grapefruit-steak diet, the all-banana diet, the calorie-counting diet — ad nauseam.

What we hefty females need is a pill that fattens the will power. If the men of science can give us that, they can leave the dieting to us.

For nearly two years now, I have tried a day or two at a time practically every diet that's recommended. My blubber remains undented. I'm still flabby because my will power's still flabby.

Oh, I can push myself away from the table, eat smaller portions and skip desserts. What happens before I get to the table the next time is the main trouble.

I've tried all sorts of psychological tricks — including tricking myself into believing I'm starving.

Two days in a row I tried my miracle two jelly bean breakfast diet — and managed to last until lunch.

On this diet you have two jelly beans with your fruit juice and coffee. Or two peanuts. Or two of something a person on a diet isn't supposed to eat. This gives you a psychological lift. Having just two of the untouchables demonstrates will power.

The lift broke down the third day. I had four jelly beans. But that didn't matter. By then, I was trying out a new diet.

Some trickery, practiced frequently enough, probably would work — provided that will-power pill came along.

Before the two jelly bean breakfast diet, I was on a tomato-juice supper diet. What you do is sip juice — a quart or more — while the rest of the family eats supper. This fills the stomach.

The trick is to get to bed and go to sleep before the tummy becomes empty again. This is easy if you are tired.

It's easy also if the house is very cold by the time hunger pangs awaken you in the middle of the night. You just stay in bed and starve rather than make the trip to the kitchen and refrigerator, risking the chance of catching the death of cold.

Mentally, I've also found that a female on a crash diet can get a lift if she uses a scale that doesn't work too well. You know, the kind that can't be used where legal weights matter.

I once found I could lose two pounds a day just by standing on such a scale a different way. If I stood on it with heels rather than toes pointed to the dial, I lost just one pound. But by standing on old unreliable on tip-toe I shed all of two pounds in a wink.

I understand that if one is willing to put one's unreliable scale in the car and drive to the top of a mountain, one can lose even more weight.

That's because the pull of gravity is less on a mountain top than it is at sea-level.

Apparently there's only one solution for us women who can't get out of the alarm zone — 10 to 15 pounds overweight.

That is — starve it off, even if we have to wear masking tape over the mouth.

That's what my doctor suggested the other day.

"It's simple," he said, "You've just made too many deposits and not enough withdrawals. Live off your savings for a while."

Siegfried Line Is Now Just an Expensive Mess

By JOHN A. CALCOTT
United Press International

BONN (UPI) — Adolf Hitler's haunted Siegfried Line now is nothing but a troublesome mess of derelict ruins mostly overgrown with grass and trees.

The 500-mile long line of reinforced concrete bunkers and mah-high tank traps cost millions to build and today is costing millions to demolish.

It was a complete waste of money, anyway, because American troops advancing into Germany in 1945 just went around the West wall, as the Germans called it.

The Siegfried Line begins near Aachen on Germany's border with Belgium and Holland and runs all the way along the French border to Switzerland.

Its destruction began immediately after the war but still is far from complete. Some 300 above-ground and underground bunkers have been blown up, with 200 more to go. It costs between 10,000 and 30,000 marks ($2,500 to $7,500) to destroy one bunker, Government officials said.

Blowing up bunkers is only half the problem. Between each of them run 20-yard wide strips of "dragon's teeth" tank traps, all firmly entrenched in the ground. Each concretefang takes time to demolish. The massive chunks of broken concrete then must be removed or broken into smaller pieces for road building.

Wife Of Candidate Kept Busy

Don Hancock, Plains aspirant for the office of State Senator, 8th District, reports that he has been managing to stay real busy during the weeks of campaigning that have led up to the May 5 primary election thus far.

Don has been engaged in speaking engagements, T. V. appearances, candidate speakings, box suppers, pep suppers, benefits and every other kind of imaginable gathering where people come together.

Don went on to say that all the activity certainly wasn't only on his individual part, but that a great many people, interested in his candidacy, had contributed a great deal of time and effort to his "politicking".

"The one outstanding supporter that I have," says Don, "and the one that has, in a large measure, kept the machinery running, is my wife, Shannon."

The amount of things that need to be done and that have to be done to wage a good and honest campaign for an office that covers as much territory as does the job of state senator, Don reports, is really unbelievable. And a great many of the details have fallen on my wife.

Shannon has been responsible for so many things, and has carried them off so well, that I hardly know where to begin. First and foremost, of course, because of the large amount of time which it has been necessary for me to be gone from Plains during my campaign she has carried, with my secretary, Mrs. McConnell, a large share of keeping up with my local appointments and the county business that needed to have my attention on my return home.

Shannon, on many, many occasions, has been present right along with Don, or sometimes in his absence, to hand out candidate cards and to talk with and shake hands with voters throughout the entire district. She recalled one occasion in Lubbock, back in the early days of the campaign, when she was standing by the entrance to the coliseum proper handing out cards, smiling and greeting everyone she possibly could. It seems that some fellow behind her said to his friend rather low, "I wish it was possible to go just any place nowadays without being handed one of these... campaign cards."

Mrs. Hancock reports though, that all - in - all the campaign has been a very pleasant and rewarding experience and that most people contacted so far have been very courteous and very nice to talk with.

On another occasion Mrs. Hancock was stranded for several hours in a neighboring city when the ignition system on their automobile burned out and it had to be towed to several garages before it could be repaired.

She has made one speech on her own, has handed out thousands of cards, has greeted countless hundreds of voters in the area, has kept up with all Don's appointments and speaking engagements and has traveled with him as much as it has been possible and still let the children, Steve, Scott and Kim, live as normal a life as possible under the circumstances.

"I think that sometime during everyone's lifetime, they ought to go out and actively campaign for someone seeking public office," concluded Mrs. Hancock.

Still remaining in the days before May 5, are many more days and nights of activity and responsibility in the campaign. Some of the things on the planned agenda include, more T. V. appearances over the Lubbock stations, flying over the area towns dropping handbill leaflets and the thousand and one other things that go to make up a complete and comprehensive political campaign which gets the candidate, the issues and platforms before the public.

April 30 Deadline For CCC Cotton Loans

The deadline for tendering cotton to Commodity Credit Corporation for the loan is April 30, 1962, according to a notice from the Commodity Office of ASCS. The cooperative loan agreement on eligible cotton will expire on that date.

"Several qualities of Plains cotton are now priced in the market at less than loan value," says Dan Davis, general manager of Plains Cotton Cooperative Association at Lubbock. After the loan support expires, it is possible that prices of "free" cotton could decline further.

Farmers holding cotton will do well to investigate the possibility of receiving the support price prior to the April 30 deadline. Any cooperative gin or other CCC Servicing Agent can assist growers in placing their eligible cotton in the loan, Davis said.

Vermont Offers Farm Tours for City Slickers

By ISABELLE McCAIG
United Press International
MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Bored with the glassy stares of sophisticated gamblers at Monte Carlo? Trade them for the sweet-sad depths of a cow's eyes.

Are the bikini-bared curves at Acapulco beginning to pall? Switch to the pastoral calm of a field of sheep grazing on a grassy hillside.

Has the cuisine at Maxim's lost its appeal? How about fresh-picked strawberries floating in heavy cream, country eggs and spicy sausage.

These are among the homespun delights offered by one of America's truly off-beat vacation treats. It's kind of a do-it-yourself vacation, aimed at the bored city dweller or the vacationer who wants more than just a change on his annual respite from work.

What is it? A visit down at the farm—an ordinary, old-fashioned Vermont farm.

This year some 50 farms will participate in the program. One plans accommodation for overnight guests. Gil Parker of the state Agriculture Department says the Henry Sherry farm at Danville, Vt., is snowed under with requests for accommodation and he'd like to see more farmers enter this field.

The Farm Host Program, inaugurated four years ago, caters mostly to city dwellers who want to see a farm in operation or try their hand at milking a cow, feeding livestock or plowing a field.

To date legal involvements and licensing requirements have prevented more farmers from accepting overnight and weekly guests. The day-long farm tours are free.

Parker says the department is flooded with requests for such accommodation, both for tourists and for parents who would like to board their children on a farm for their summer vacation.

Participating farms are close to the main highways so tourists can find them easily. The Danville farm which takes guests is off U.S. Route 2, just west of St. Johnsbury in the so-called Northeast Kingdom.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Schools need to polish the image of scholarship if today's teenagers are to figure that learning earns them status.

So said James S. Coleman, associate professor and chairman of social relations at Johns Hopkins University.

Reporting on a study in 10 American high schools, Coleman said he found basic interest in learning declining — even among adolescents where a majority of the students were looking toward college.

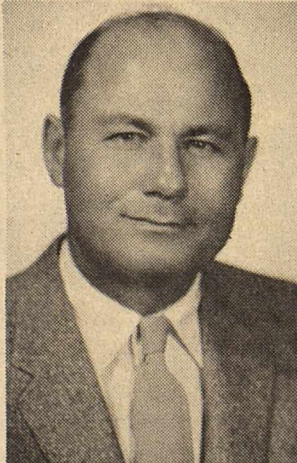

Coleman, in a report in the PTA magazine published by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said he had expected to see an expressed interest in learning among brilliant students in the suburban schools studied.

He related his findings of teenagers' lack of interest in scholarships to the following pattern of family life.

Teenagers associate scholastic achievement with adult domination, studiousness with obedience to adult demands. They distinguish sharply between achievement in schoolwork and achievement in areas they regard as more nearly their own — athletics and extracurricular activities.

"Unless something changes," he warned, "the adolescent community will turn more and more against the scholastic preparation that is so important to the future of many of its members."

Book by Bud Collyer Wins Wide Response

Genial TV host Bud Collyer has acquired a distinct and responsive new audience through the medium of the printed page this Spring, with the publication of an inspirational book, Thou Shalt Not Fear.

A hyoant expression of personal faith, Thou Shalt Not Fear features messages composed and originally presented by the popular television emcee in an active life as Christian layman — a dedicated off-stage role hitherto little known by the millions who regularly follow his weekly telecast, "To Tell The Truth."

Across the nation, interest in the Bud Collyer book has quickly established it as one of the year's foremost inspirational titles. Since its appearance in mid-March, Thou Shalt Not Fear has been in demand at the rate of some 1,000 copies a day, reports the publisher, the Fleming H. Revell Company of Westwood, New Jersey.

SCIENCE and GOD

Not too long ago, a man determined from accounts in the bible that oil could be found in certain areas of bible lands . . . now this country is rich in oil wells. In the past, vigorous arguments arose between some scientists and bible scholars, however with the passing of time, new discoveries in science have helped us to have a better understanding of God's word and now most scientists and bible scholars are in accord. God's word has not needed to be proved, for it will stand forever.

"For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea." ATTEND CHURCH AND STUDY GOD'S WORD.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

This church feature is published each week with the aim of fostering that which is good in family and community spirit. This page is a public service of these sponsors . . . contributed to the religious life of Yoakum County

A new event in 4-H work was held last Tuesday night. Nineteen acts; songs and skits were presented by thirty nine 4-H members. These members were from the Eager Beaver, Shamrock, Lucky Clover and Blue Sage 4-H Clubs. Taking the highest honor was Sue Cooke singing "Y'all Come." She will compete May 5 in Lubbock at the District II 4-H Elimination Contests. Sue is in the Junior division.

Also going to Lubbock for contest will be Linda Blair and Debbie Thompson giving a Dairy Demonstration: A delicious tasting strawberry shake. We're betting that there is plenty of calories in the shake. La Juna Jones, Senior, will give an individual dairy food demonstration with a congealed salad.

Mrs. A. J. McClellan and children spent the holidays in Albuquerque helping her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bingham celebrate their 45th anniversary. Rev. and Mrs. E. L. The meeting began Monday and concluded Thursday.

19,000 Brave Elements During Six Flags Opening Days

Intermittent rain, thunder showers, high winds and over-cast skies plagued the four-day opening festivities at SIX FLAGS Over Texas, but 19,000 hardy souls who braved the elements were treated to a spectacular show as the 10.5 million dollar Park launched its second season of operations.
With typical Texas fanfare and flourish, the big tourist attraction opened on April 20 as many local and state dignitaries, including Governor Price Daniel, participated in the opening ceremonies.
Hundreds of visitors were in attendance, along with more than 500 of the Park's costumed hosts and hostesses, to hear the Governor emphasize his tourism program for Texas. Governor Daniel lavished high praise on Angus G. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, for "building this attraction, a place of entertainment and recreation stressing the wonderful heritage we are privileged to enjoy in this state. SIX FLAGS should inspire all of us to build a bigger and better Texas, and because of the Park's history and entertainment, far more people are coming here to visit than any other place in Texas."

Mr. Wynne welcomed the visitors, outlined the 1/2 million dollar expansion program, and gave credit to the "wonderful SIX FLAGS hosts and hostesses who make the Park what it is".
Following the ceremonies Wynne, who is also president of SIX FLAGS, conducted the Governor, his family and other platform guests on a two-hour tour of the facility pausing first to witness 10,000 beautiful white Easter lilies which were in full bloom around the Star Mall.
Most pleasing to SIX FLAGS officials was the goodly number of out-of-state license plates which is due to hit an estimated 12-13% of the total number of visitors to SIX FLAGS this season, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Illinois, Oregon, Idaho, Pennsylvania, New York, Utah, Nevada, California, Montana, Wyoming and Missouri were all represented during the four-day opening period.

Despite the rain swollen clouds that emptied their loads on the crowds during the Easter holidays, Mr. Wynne, together with other SIX FLAGS officials, look towards the forthcoming week-ends of operations until May and followed by a summer long daily operation, with much favorable anticipation. "A 1.5 million attendance is predicted this year and with a little more cooperation from the weather-man, we'll make it quite handsomely," said Wynne.

CHICAGO (UPI) — So you're going to buy a piano? Here are some tips from Mrs. Fay Templeton Frisch, a music education consultant, on what to look for.

Mrs. Frisch, who is with Wuritzer, suggested that before you begin shopping, determine the best place in your home for the piano and measure the space available. Chances are you'll find the space will accommodate only a spinet or console. Grand pianos are the first choice of accomplished pianists, but take a great deal of room.

Compact pianos, on the other hand, are now barely 35 inches high and 50 inches long — small enough to fit in almost any niche. Yet a new design principle used in the scale of strings and soundboards makes their tone comparable to that of larger instruments, Mrs. Frisch said.

To check for tone and key action of a piano, depress a key several times to see if it bounces back instantly. Repeated striking of the key should produce clear tones and key action should be uniform from bass through treble notes.

For good tone in compact pianos, look for soundboards of spruce, used from the time of early violin makers, to insure the best projection. Ask about soundboard shape, too. A hexagonal soundboard provides eight to 10 per cent more sounding area than a rectangular shape.

What should you expect to pay for a piano? Look in the $500-$900 range for a good spinet or console. Grand pianos start at $1,500. Differences in cabinet work account for much of the price range.

Cabinets are available in Early American contemporary, French Provincial, Italian Renaissance, Danish modern and other styles and periods. Woods used include mahogany, cherry, walnut, maple and oak.

Fisherman's Paradise

YANKEETOWN, Fla. (UPI) — Many years ago, when Yankees were something of a curiosity in Florida, this little town was settled by an Indian.

Alighting from a train at Dunnellon, northern visitors inquiring for directions to the little hamlet of Knotts, founded by A. F. Knotts of Gary, Ind., were greeted by natives with: "Oh, you mean that Yankee town on the Withlacoochee river?" The term stuck and when the town was incorporated in 1925, it was called Yankeetown.

The quaint fishing haven with 500 permanent residents is gaining favor with tourists. Off U.S. highway 19-98 at Inglis, its location on the river and the Gulf give it a lush tropical beauty.

Cypress trees and tall palms border the river banks. The back country is thick with hackberry, basswood, hickory, cedar, sweetgum and magnolia.

The Izaak Walton Lodge on the river banks offers comfortable accommodations. There also are motels, fishing camps and a trailer park.

chie Glover, Barbara Smith, Idell Murphey, Emma Lewis, Dorothea Gray, and Elsie Carpenter.

"Fierce is not the word," said the other. "Why, I typed so many letters yesterday that last night I finished my prayer with 'Yours Truly'."

The Case Against Race Track Gambling

Texans on May 5 will vote their opinion "for" or "against" legalized gambling. The primary ballots of both parties will carry the question. We who are against legalized gambling urge every thoughtful man and woman to vote "against."

Not one valid argument can be advanced on gambling's behalf. The total experience of mankind argues eloquently against it.

Is gambling economically justified?

Virgil W. Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, testifies "Gambling drains the salaries, savings and investments of a community into a business enterprise that serves no human need. Those who benefit from gambling profits are almost without exception members of the underworld who invariably control the gambling business."

Gambling is the biggest single cause of such crimes as embezzlement and invariably brings in its wake a mounting stack of unpaid bills, skipped installment payments, repossessed automobiles and furniture, and lapsed insurance policies.

Since some people gamble anyway, shouldn't we make it legal in order to police it?

The Chairman of the United States Senate Investigating Committee says no. "No plan for legalized gambling that was presented to us seemed to carry any guarantee of success."

Isn't race track gambling a good source of tax revenue?

Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin says, "The idea that legalized gambling will be a revenue-raiser is an illusion. Every dollar raised from such sources means five dollars spent in higher police costs, higher court costs, higher penitentiary costs and higher relief costs."

But after all, isn't pari-mutuel gambling pretty harmless? So a guy loses two dollars.

This is the same, tired, fallacious combination of words mouthed by every gambling profiteer from Al Capone to Benny Binion.

The sad fact of gambling can be told in four words of Damon Runyon, "horse players die broke." A two-dollar bet is murder. Gambling . . . two dollars . . . ten dollars . . . a hundred to recoup . . . is a cause of broken marriages, neglected children, poverty and sometimes suicide.

Ask a bank examiner. Ask a divorce court judge. Ask a probation officer. Ask your retail credit association. Ask the relief people. The easy money boys won't give you the answer.

Small wonder that the three D's of gambling have been described as Debt, Degradation and Death.

You won't succumb to the fever, nor will we. But frankly we don't want our kids to be exposed to such characters as Hot Horse Herbie, Harry the Horse, Bookie Bob and John the Boss.

We don't want our kids to grow up around a race track.

Do you?

S-S Officer--

He explained that high earnings would prevent payment of reduced benefits.

The primary purpose of the new provision, he stated, was to enable workers who retire between 62 and 65 or workers in the age group whose earnings are low for any number of reasons to start receiving benefits immediately. This is in line with the basic social security philosophy which is to partially replace lost income as a result of retirement or disability.

Mr. Hutton went on to say that once a man elects reduced payments, his benefit rate will remain reduced even after he reaches age 65. However, for most men it will be many years before they would lose money by filing early. Most men feel that the immediate income outweighs any possible loss of benefits in the distant future.

Each man has to make his own choice either to file early or to wait until he is 65. Hutton said that the staff at the Lubbock Social Security Office will be able to give each man detailed information on the amount of benefits he would be able to receive and give other facts to assist men in making their decision. He urged all men under 65 who feel that they may qualify for reduced benefits to come to the office. There he can discuss his individual case with an experienced member of the social security staff.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Plains on Thurs. May 3rd in the Co. Service Office at 1:30 p.m. and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore Sr. and Elaine of Muleshoe attended the Candlelight Communion Service at the First Christian Church last Friday evening.

The above and foregoing order having been read, it was moved by Commissioner Cotton and seconded by Commissioner Bookout that the same do pass. Thereupon, the question being called for, the following members of the Court voted "AYE": Commissioners Brown, Cotton, Bookout and Loe; and none voted "NO."

Troop 778 To Take Part In Camporee

Members of the local unit of the Boy Scouts of America, Troop No. 778, will travel to Brownfield on the evening of Friday, May 11, to take part in the Quannah Parker District's annual Camporee.

The Camporee is a day of contests and field trials to determine the amount of scouting skill that each unit in the district is actually teaching the scouts that comprise the individual units.

The local unit will travel to Brownfield, pitch camp on Friday evening, and then participate in the events until right after noon on Saturday the 12th.

Expectation in the local troop is that several blue ribbons will be brought home to be added to the several already garnered by the troop in the past year, since it has been reorganized. An estimated 20 to 25 scouts is expected to participate from the Plains troop.

Events will include such things as signalling by the use of flags using the International Morse Code, first aid relay, fire building and water boiling, tent pitching, log pulling, knot tying, stretcher relay, nature relay and other items and events relating to scouting skills.

Much of the judging will be based on such things as skill, cooperation, leadership, and scouting spirit.
