

MOORE Or Less

by Johnnie Moore

The hardest way to learn to drive a car is by accident.

I don't know why everybody's criticizing our foreign policy. We're still getting along with Bermuda.

For the first time in a real long time I had to turn on my windshield wipers this week. I had forgotten where the switch was.

We heard about a speech recently made by an advertising man which, it is reported, had none of the blah-blah of a commercial. His words jumped, we are told. He dealt only in cold facts about the cold war.

Charles H. Brower, president of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne, shook several people up when he said that for every dime the USA is spending in the international struggle for men's minds, the Communists are spending four dollars.

Then he made these telling points:

1. "We do not have a department dedicated to selling the United States to the rest of the world."

2. "The struggle is for the cooperation of over a billion people, the population of the so-called uncommitted countries of the world. They are the balance of power. They are more people than we have on our side right now."

3. "Conservative estimates of Communist expenditures on propaganda put the figure at more than $4 billion a year."

4. "They have 80 to 100 times as many people at work as we do."

5. "The Communists spend more in Latin America than we spend in the entire world."

6. For those who shudder at the word "propaganda," Mr. Brower points out that "although propaganda has somehow become a dirty word in the United States, it started off in life well enough--having been coined by the church to mean 'propagation of the faith.' As far as I know it's the only word in the language that combines the ideas of education and persuasion."

Actually, Mr. Brower is plugging for the nation to name a Secretary of World Affairs with Cabinet status to head up the government's world-wide selling operation.

We won't predict that that would be the cure-all. But sure as cold-war shooting, we know that now is the time for each one of us to focus our energies on the problem of selling America. It's our collective job to tell people around the world the truth about our way of life. They'll reach their own conclusion. But, let's tell them.

Today is "Flag Day".
Look at "Old Glory".
Long may she wave.

Citation To M.W. Luna

Muephy W. Luna of Plains Friday was presented with an award from President John F. Kennedy for long service without pay to the government and people of the United States, (Brownfield Rotary Club at noon)

The award was in the form of a Presidential citation and certificate of appreciation, plus a silver lapel emblem.

Colonel Morris S. Schwartz of Austin, representing the President and Governor Price Daniel, handed the award to Mr. Luna at a meeting of the Brownfield Rotary Club Friday at noon. Colonel Schwartz is State Director of Selective Service.

Mr. Luna's award from the President is for 20 years of uncompensated service as a member of the area draft board, which now consists of Yoakum, Terry, and Hockley counties.

Mr. Luna, as of the present, has actually served in excess of two decades as a member of the local board, officially representing the people of Yoakum county.

He was first appointed as a member of the board November 25, 1940, by President Roosevelt, upon the recommendation of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel. He later continued his service under President Truman and Governor Coke Stevenson.

Original plans for the World War II draft law contemplated pay for local board members. When General J. Watt Page,

It Rained

"Well, it didn't completely forget how to rain," was the sentiment expressed by many Yoakum County dwellers this week.

Following a dry spell that has, excepting a few isolated areas in the county, lasted since October of last year, the rains which amounted to three inches and upward as of Wednesday of this week, were a welcome relief for area residents and definitely a boon for area farmers.

Coming just in the nick of time as far as planting cotton is concerned, the rains were hailed by many as possibly being the difference between having and not having a crop this year.

One minister in Plains voiced the opinion some days ago that "possibly people just aren't paying the preacher enough." He got a real rapid reply that "it just might be that we're either paying the wrong preacher or else he just isn't turning it in." Whatever the case, the rains were a welcome sight to about everybody concerned.

Some very slight amounts of hail fell with the torrent of rain that came down on Tuesday night, but as of this writing, damage was thought to be slight.

Several Plains and area residents experienced varying amounts of water damage to dwellings and a few places of business.

Some Plains citizens became quite alarmed Tuesday night as along with the great amount of lightning and high wind, the sound of a car horn constantly blaring could be heard above it all.

Seems as though it wasn't anything to be alarmed about as the wind-swept rain had just shorted out the wiring on an automobile horn and it was several minutes before the owner could be found to unlock the car so that it could be shut off.

Derby Hats Go On Sale 1st

A new twist has been added to the 9th annual version of the Plains Rodeo.

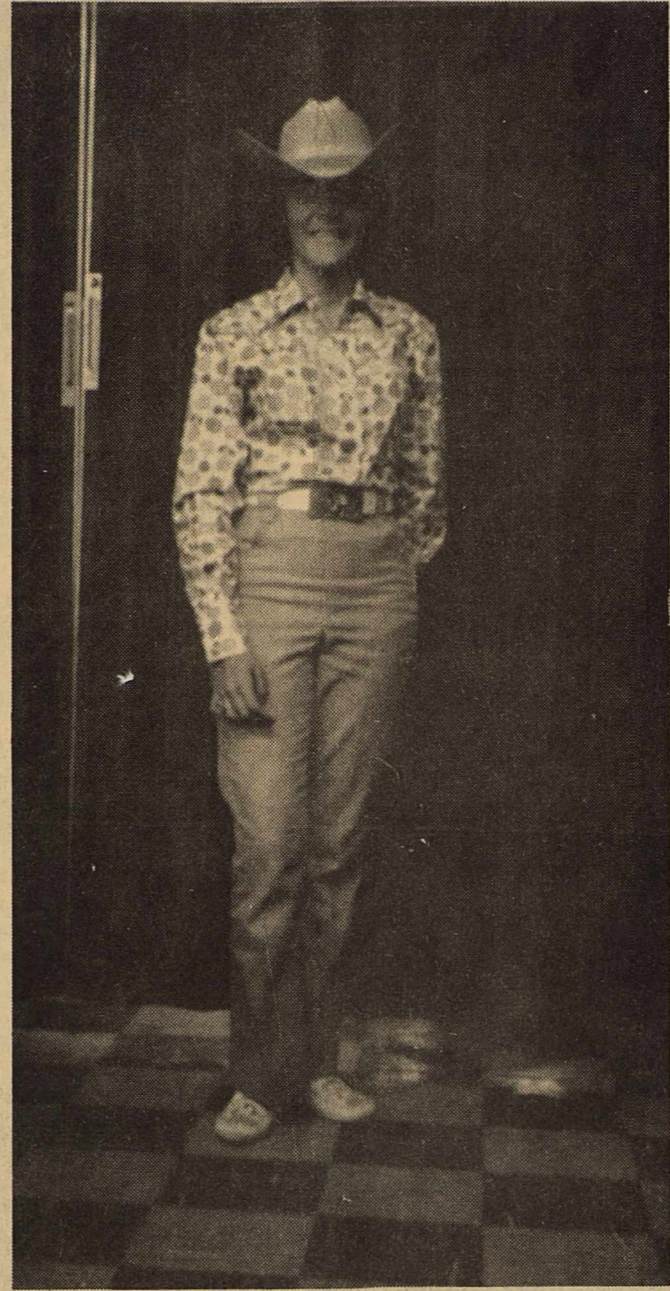

The beard-growing contest is being done away with, and in its place, contestants for Rodeo Queen will be selling black felt derbys.

The derbys are to go on sale on July 1, and will sell for $2 each. Any and all citizens of Plains caught without their derbys after that date may be assessed a $1 fine in exchange for one queen's ticket from any and all the candidates running this year.

A permit may be purchased on the other hand, and in fact, are already on sale, for $5 in candidates from one queen, which also entitles the purchaser to a permit saying that he is exempt from wearing the derby.

Queens tickets officially went on sale this week, following a dinner for the contestants and their sponsors at Alma's Restaurant on Monday evening.

Candidates for Rodeo Queen for this year are Sylvia McGinty, sponsored by the Roping Club; Marsha White, sponsored jointly by Plains Lions Club and Plains Chamber of Commerce; Brenda Hickman, sponsored by the Plains Volunteer Fire Department; and Jana Warren, sponsored by Plains

JANA WARREN -- has been selected as Rodeo Queen Candidate and is being sponsored by the Plains Dirt Gardeners and Fine Arts Club. Jana is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren and is a Junior in Plains High School.

Annual Chamber Banquet Success

Around 100 persons attended the annual Plains Chamber of Commerce Banquet which was held in the School Cafeteria last Friday evening.

A meal of barbecued chicken, ranch style beans, potato salad and all the trimmings was served to the group by Underwoods of Lubbock.

Invocation was given by Rev. Johnnie Moore, pastor of First Christian Church, and the benediction by Rev. James L. Bozeman, pastor of First Baptist Church.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Mr. Rod Duff.

Presenting the annual award "Plains Citizen of the Year" to Johnnie Moore was Mr. Bob Loe.

Moore was named for the award this year for his work in the Boy Scouts, Little League, Salvation Army, Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce. He is pastor of two churches, First Christian of Plains and Seminole and is publisher of The Record.

D. N. Taylor introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. Melvin T. Munn of Pampa, Texas.

Munn gave a very entertaining talk and one filled with a great deal of food for thought. His subject was "Your Home Town."

Dinner music for the affair was provided by Miss Marsha White and special musical numbers for the evening were vocalized by Miss Carol Maloy, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitlock and by Joe Dan Cooke.

Others honored at the affair were the Plains High School's volleyball team, who won the state championship this year, James Tippett who won State Class A in the UIL Science contests and Jeff Smith who attended the state track meet in the track events.

Also given special recognition was Mr. M. W. Luna, who last week received a citation from the President of the United States for his long and faithful service on the local draft board.

Mrs. Mollie Courtney was also recognized for her outstanding work as secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Lea Co-City Dispute Left Up In Air

"Court a plenty" was the order of business this week in the Yoakum County Courthouse in Plains.

In addition to the regular Monday session of Commissioners' Court, there were sessions of County Criminal Court, the Grand Jury met, and the civil portion of District Court was in session.

The Grand Jury, not yet finished with their session, have returned several indictments, including a twin bill charging the two suspects in last month's attempted breaking and entering into the Curry-Edwards Pharmacy, with attempted burglary.

County Commissioners' Court attended to the regular agenda of business, which, this week, included consideration of some additional recreational equipment for the county park in Plains, with the possibility of adding a smaller slide for smaller children to use. Also, additional road building equipment was purchased by Precinct No. 2.

Commissioner Bookout, Precinct No. 3, reports intention to seed the two ball parks in bermuda grass as soon as the current season is completed.

In county criminal court, all cases, with the exception of four were given continuances for various reasons. In the four cases actually tried, the defendants pled guilty in each case, making jury duty unnecessary.

As for the civil session of District Court, all cases with the exception of the dual suit between Lea County Electric Cooperative, Inc. and the City of Plains, were settled out of court, also making it unnecessary for Yoakum citizens to serve on jury duty.

In the Lea County - City of Plains dispute, exceptions filed in the suit and cross suit by attorneys for both concerned parties were sustained by Judge Ledbetter, which in effect, left the case exactly where it started some months ago.

In the suit filed by Lea County Co-op, they were asking for an injunction against the City of Plains, which would force the City to grant them a rate reduction.

In the cross-action filed by the City against Lea County Co-op, the contention was put forth that the Co-op did not have the legal right to supply power within the municipality of Plains.

Salvation Army Drive Going Well

With several workers still to report and turn in their collections, local officials of the Salvation Army report that thus far a very successful drive for this year is in the offing.

A goal of $500 was set for this year to be collected by the volunteer workers who met on Monday morning at Alma's for coffee and an information session, along with the passing out of assignments.

With approximately 10% of the names turned in, the reports show that slightly over $200 has been collected to date.

Several appeal letters were also sent to members of the community and the surrounding area asking for donations for this year's drive.

It was pointed out by local officials, that a large amount of work is done each year on the local basis with the money received in the once-a-year drive. During the past year over 100 persons were given assistance by the local unit ranging all the way from food to gasoline, and medical attention.

This year also, two boys from Plains will be sent to the Army's boys camp at Midlothian, Texas for a week of camping and fun in the out-of-doors.

Any persons, who were not contacted, who would like to contribute to this very worthy cause, are asked to contact Johnnie Moore at the Plains Record, Moore is Treasurer of the Local Service Unit.

trial are presently in the mill. Shockley, also arrested in the New Mexico city, reportedly in a back alley, under somewhat suspect circumstances, is out on bond from Yoakum County waiting his impending trial. He is also out on bond from Level-land on a similar charge, as he also was at the time of the attempted break-in in Plains.

Roberts, it is reported, evidently has no previous prison record, but Shockley, arrested and convicted in Plains in 1955 for theft, is a three-time visitor to the state penitentiary.

Grand jurors, newly appointed and having met just this week, returned an indictment on both Shockley and Roberts for the attempted breaking and entering.

Trial date in District Criminal Court will be announced in the near future.

Aerial Mesquite Control Recommended For Texas

College Station -- May - There are several methods for controlling mesquite, but one of the most economical and practical for Texas is the aerial application of 2,4,5-T. This method is usually used on relatively pure stands of mesquite, explains G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist.

For the aerial application of 2,4,5-T to produce the desired results, several factors must be present. There should be plenty of soil moisture to make the mesquite grow vigorously and produce a dense foliage. At the time of spraying, the foliage should be dark green. Hoffman says that this year the mesquite foliage is in the best condition in several years, and good results should be obtained from aerial control provided the moisture situation remains favorable.

Also, if rain falls during the spraying season, it is advisable to wait until the new leaf tip growth has turned dark green. This usually takes about two weeks.

The chemical mixture to use for aerial control of mesquite is 1/2 pound of 2,4,5-T, 1 gallon of diesel oil, and enough water to make 4 gallons of mixture. This four gallons of chemical mixture should be applied to one acre in a manner that insures complete coverage of the foliage.

Hoffman says a miracle should not be expected. The total root kill under ideal conditions is 25 to 35%. The initial control will last from 5 to 7 years before spraying of the regrowth is necessary.

After the spraying, the pasture should be deferred to allow the grass to re-establish. Graze it during the winter, defer it the second growing season, then use it properly. The extra grass is what pays for the brush control practice.

If it rains in the mesquite country within the next two weeks, it may be advisable to spray every acre of mesquite in Texas, says Hoffman.

For more information on aerial control of mesquite, contact your local county agent.

A new observation well for the artificial groundwater recharge program will soon be added at the High Plains Research Foundation.

James Valliant, Associate Water Engineer, stated the new observation well was being added to better study the effect of recharge upon the underground formation. The well will be used to study ground water movement; the effect of suspended solids in recharge water upon the formation; and the effect of acids and detergents on these solids.

The well will be cased with 6 5/8 x 0.188 inch casing down to the red beds with perforations beginning approximately 10 feet above the static water level. The observation well will be located 200 feet southeast of the recharge well.

Casing for the new observation well was presented to the Foundation by four Lubbock pipe firms interested in the development of the recharge program. Two four-inch observation wells not located 200 and 100 feet northwest of the recharge well are being moved to the southeast for additional testing of underground water activity in connection with the new observation well.

The research on recharge wells has been conducted since the Foundation was first organized in January 1957. The Foundation is one of the national leaders in this field of research, and the work will be continued as a major part of the overall research program at Halfway.

GOOD HABITS

Sound teeth, sound bones, good muscles, strong body — all of these things are in large measure dependent upon the good habits a parent cultivates in his child when she is very young. But even more important than a strong body is a strong spiritual understanding of life, which depends in large measure also on her early habits. Start building in your child now the good habit of regular worship of the God who gives her her very life. Go to Church with your child this Sunday and every Sunday.

Is something wrong with your life — an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provisions and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

Health And Safety Tips

The tragedy of the thousands of persons who drowned last summer is that many lives could have been saved if a rescuer or bystander had known how to apply artificial respiration.

The important things about artificial respiration are: Know how to do it; start applying it immediately after the victim has been removed from the water. Don't wait for an ambulance or for help to arrive. It probably will be too late.

The American Red Cross of first aid courses in live saving that include artificial respiration. But, even without formal training, most people could manage to give assistance to the rescued swimmer.

There are two methods of artificial respiration currently being taught: Mouth-to-mouth, and back-pressure, arm-lift. Of the two, first aid experts usually agree that the mouth-to-mouth, or mouth-to-nose method is the most practical, in the absence of special equipment.

In the mouth-to-mouth method, first clear the air passages by drawing the tongue forward with your fingers. Place the victim halfway between a face-up and side position, tilt the head well back to insure a clear air passageway. Take a deep breath, place your mouth over the victim's nose or mouth, and breathe into his lungs until you see the chest rise and feel the lungs expand.

In mouth-to-mouth, pinch victim's nostrils shut while breathing into his lungs. Remove your mouth and let the victim exhale. Place your hand between the ribs and navel and apply slight pressure to expel all air. Repeat the cycle 15 times a minute.

The manual method should be used if for any reason the mouth-to-mouth method cannot be used. Place the victim in a face-up position. Place something under the victim's shoulders to raise them and allow the head to drop backward. Grasp victim's arms at the wrists, crossing and pressing victim's wrists against the lower chest, immediately pull arms upward, outward and backward as far as possible. Repeat 15 times per minute.

For either method, there are some basic rules. Start immediately. Check mouth for obstructions. Loosen clothing and keep the victim warm, but don't delay artificial respiration to do this. After the victim revives, be ready to resume respiration if necessary. Have someone call a physician. Don't stop and don't give up unless you're positive the victim is dead.

If an accident occurs at a public pool or public beach, there likely will be a trained guard present to take over artificial respiration. If you are called on to help in a rescue, keep calm and move quickly to try to get the victim breathing again as soon as possible.

Wright Slants on Washington

TWO THINGS are always with us, said the pundit: death and taxes. The latter became the subject of a little action and widespread speculation in the Congress last week.

Folks who travel by bus, train or airline will rejoice that the House voted Wednesday to let the 10% wartime excise tax die completely on Dec. 31 on all passenger travel but airline fares, and to cut the tax on these in half.

In a statement portending much more sweeping change, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon announced that the Administration is readying a proposal to cut income tax rates "from top to bottom" next year.

ON THE surface, this sounds like wonderful news. It's a tempting morsel. Heaven knows this country could stand a tax cut. Since World War II, the American people have borne a heavy tax load. A well-planned reduction could release money for investments and consumer buying.

For an office-holder, it offers an attractive bandwagon.

There's a temptation for a Congressman to rush to the nearest mimeograph machine and issue a statement whooping and hollering and saying boy! a reduction in taxes is exactly what this country needs! And hooray! It's on the way!

Politically, I guess, this might be pretty smart. For the public dearly loves anybody who talks about cutting taxes and can make it sound convincing.

THE ONLY trouble is that I'm not sure how feasible . . . or even possible . . . this will be. To raise false hopes would be cruel. It would be untrue to oneself, much more to those who look to him for leadership and honest counsel. For the time being, I would like to reserve judgment.

For even though I do indeed believe we individually and nationally could profit by a substantial tax cut, there are things I think we need still more. We need fiscal responsibility. We need to begin paying off our burdensome national debt, on which interest alone gobbles up 11 cents out of every dollar the government takes in.

If we can begin to rid ourselves of this dead weight, then a tax cut will eventually take care of itself.

We need to start removing this cruel burden with which we have saddled our children and our children's children and our children's children's children. We need to begin paying as we go. If an immediate and temporary tax cut is to be purchased at the price of more deficit financing and an even higher debt, then I would be against it.

TODAY this debt is approaching $300 billion. We haven't made a payment on the principal in 13 years. We've extended and increased its ceiling five times in the past seven years. This, on the face of it, is ridiculous.

What family would expect to occupy a house for 13 years and pay to the mortgage holder only the interest on the debt? What intelligent family would want to do so, earning no equity whatever and still owing as much as on the day they moved in?

As every family knows, the time to pay debts is when you have money . . . and the best way to pay them is to budget them systematically. This nation has been more prosperous during these past 13 years than any nation in the entire history of the world. Yet we have paid nothing on the national debt. One cannot help but wonder if we ever intend to do so.

DURING the last Congress 31 of my colleagues and I introduced identical bills to commit the Congress to a systematic program of debt retirement. These measures have failed so far to get the required support in the Ways and Means Committee.

This is why, to me at least, talk of a major tax cut has a somewhat artificial ring until we first begin to live within our federal income annually and initiate a regular program of debt reduction.

Since coming to Congress I have kept careful record of the expenditures for which I have voted and the proposed reductions in those expenditures which I have supported, and have balanced this against the taxes and revenues for which I have voted. If every member of Congress were to do this . . . voting only for those items which can be paid for out of revenues he personally supports . . . debt reduction would become a simple matter.

IF WE can all adopt this policy, live within our annual income and make a start toward paying off this tremendous debt, and still reduce taxes, then by all means let us do so.

In that happy event, let us start by increasing the unrealistically low figure of $600 for individual exemptions on our income tax. Do you know of anybody in this country who can live today on $600 a year? I don't.

Next I think we should provide exemptions for those parents who are sending their sons and daughters to college. For the average family, this creates a real financial crisis. It results, I fear, in many families regretfully failing to encourage their children to complete their education. Some indeed are not able.

In these days, when the fate of our nation may depend literally on the quality and quantity of education we give our children, we cannot do too much toward providing an incentive for our young people to go to college. A reasonable tax exemption would do this.

TO SUMMER CAMP -- Wayne and Charles Wason will travel to Midlothian next week to take part for one week in the Salvation Army summer camp located there.

News From Plains Dirt Gardeners

Executive Committee of Plains Dirt Gardeners met on Monday, June 4, in a short business session, as a request had been made that local clubs and civic groups sponsor queens for the annual rodeo. It was agreed to co-sponsor a queen with the Plains Fine Arts Club.

The two committees met and selected Jana Warren as their candidate.

Jan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren and is a junior in Plains High School.

Also, Plains Dirt Gardeners, under the able direction of project chairman, Mrs. J. M. Tippet, participated in the Clean-Up Campaign of June 4-10 sponsored by the City of Plains.

The work was begun at the cemetery on Tuesday morning and concluded on Friday evening when the group cleaned all the trash and weeds from the triangle at the west entrance to town as well as the property belonging to the state highway department.

One of the aims of all Garden Clubs is civic beautification, and the Dirt Gardeners secured permission from Phillips '66' to plant flowers and low-growing shrubs on the company property last year. In spite of adverse weather conditions, some of the plants have managed to stay alive and bloom.

George Blount, the gas station operator, has agreed to water the plants during the summer months.

Yoakum SCD News

By C. Murrell Thompson
Writing of Conservation Plans, both regular, District Plans and Great Plains Contracts continues to be our main job. Application work in the form of grass planting, brush control, and many other conservation jobs are still being applied.

Ty Fields has sprayed about 6,000 acres of Shin oak with aerial application of chemical. Due to the extreme dry weather very little other brush control work has been done and it looks like most of the work will be postponed for a year. Moisture and growing condition of the plant and soil must be good to get good brush control.

Gene Bennett is building about 1 1/4 mile of fence as a part of his conservation program under the Great Plains Program. Gene will have a 2 section pasture fenced off to spray and defer next year.

New conservation plans were mailed to the Area Office for typing on the J. A. Peabody farms, west of Plains. A new plan on the Oran Hickerson place that is farmed by R. G. Hartman was also completed this week.

Work on a Great Plains contract on the J. D. Jones farm west of Denver City was completed and sent to the Area Office for review and typing. Planning on the H. W. Nelson farm west of Plains operated by Hayden Box was completed this week also, this is to be a Great Plains Contract as well as a regular District Conservation Plan.

Maps on the Carl Lowery, J. W. Watkins, E. D. McMillan, and Lomas Freeman places are on hand and initial planning will be completed on these places

American Cotton Congress News

Harlingen, Texas, June 7 - (Special) - Cotton must return to a one-price system as quickly as possible, Col. Burris C. Jackson, Hillsboro, stressed today in an address soon. Grass planting on W. B. White, Darwin Hobbs, Henry May, A. L. Pace, R. W. Kelley, Johnny Sims, Olen Cox and a host of others is either completed or under way.

keynoting the 23rd Annual American Cotton Congress. Colonel Jackson is general chairman of the Congress and president of the National Cotton Council.

Pointing out that U. S. cotton is hard pressed in its competitive fight with foreign grown cotton and with substitute fibers, he called on the industry and the government to work together in solving the problem. If the American cotton industry is permitted to go down the drain, he emphasized, it would be a staggering blow to the economy of the United States.

"The urgency for stepping up every effort to become truly competitive has never been more evident," the keynote speaker warned. "It is accented sharply by what happened last year. We saw a rise in the price of cotton. Rayon came back to life on the domestic market. It made the greatest competitive gain it had ever made in a single year.

Referring to "cotton's international situation," theme of the Congress, Colonel Jackson said trade is vital to the strength and unity of the Western world, expansion of our economy, growth of industry, and to our efforts to curb inflation.

the Texas Adjutant General, told Mr. Luna in September 1940 that it was the sentiment of Congress that board members should serve without compensation, Mr. Luna immediately agreed to serve without pay.

He served throughout the administration of the World War II draft law, which terminated in 1947.

He has since served continuously under Governors Allan Shivers and Price Daniel and Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy.

Prior to making the award in Brownfield Friday, Colonel Schwartz, the State Selective Service director, said:

"Mr. Luna has served his area, state, and nation all these years without pay or thought of pay. It is my pleasure to carry out the directions of the President in presenting Mr. Luna's award to him."

Lea County--

By sustaining the exceptions taken in the opposing parties case, the ruling in effect, says that Lea County Co-op does have the right to operate in the City of Plains and that the City has the right to regulate the rates within its corporate limits.

Further action is expected on the part of the attorneys for each of the two parties involved.

It is expected that Calloway Huffaker, attorney for the City of Plains will make a list of the points of law on which he has based the City's contention that Lea County Co-op is operating illegally in Plains and that Jim Milam, attorney for the Lea County-Co-operative, will then make his exceptions to each of those points of law. In turn they will ask for a ruling from Judge Ledbetter on each of these points and exceptions. After this is accomplished, the attorneys for both interests will determine whether or not to appeal the case to the Court of Civil Appeals for further study and action.
