OUR 34th YEAR

NUMBER 41

Cowboys Travel To Sundown

Plains Cowboys squeaked by the Post Antelopes last Friday night by a mighty narrow one-point margin.

Post fielded a real tough, in fact probably the toughest team, the Cowboys have faced so far this season.

The first quarter of play went by very quickly, with neither team being able to score or to make even a penetration. The ball went back and forth between the two teams with neither one being able to get an advantage over the other.

The third quarter was about like the first, with neither Post nor Plains able to hit pay dirt. It was Post this time that broke loose and scored. It was on a three yard dive by Owens. The Antelopes added two points on a pass to Ayala, tying up the game at eight all.

Plains then scored again in the last period on a 34 yard keeper by Lowe, which was well set up by a fine punt return by Gregg Jones and some really fine inside power plays by Joe Dan Cooke.

Lowe got a muscle kind on his touchdown run, but Butch Gayle substituted admirably for him by going into the game and adding the point after on a fine kick.

scoring stopped with Plains 15 and Post 14.

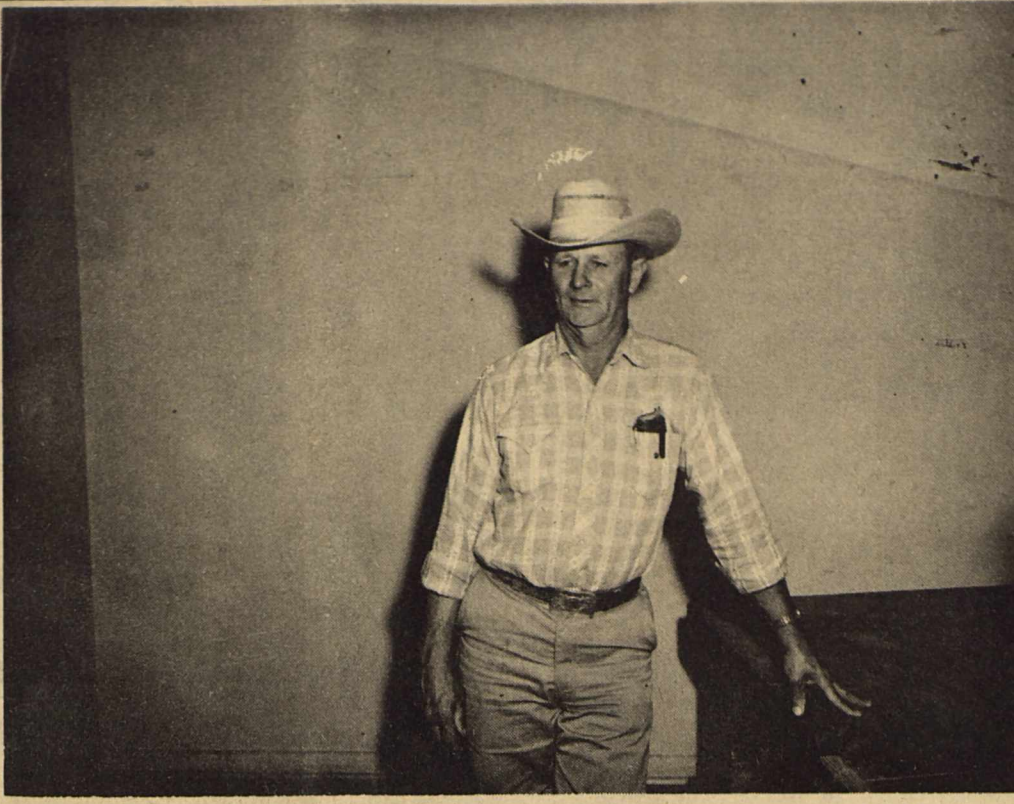

When the final whistle blew signalling the end of the game, the Antelopes were just lining up for a field goal attempt. They were in perfect field position on Plains' three yard line, but the play was stopped just as the Antelopes were coming out of the huddle.

This Friday, the Cowboys are travelling to Sundown to do battle with the always-tough Roughnecks, who are no longer in the same district with Plains as they reverted back to class B status this year.

However, this is Sundown's homecoming game and they are reported to be ready and waiting for the Cowboys.

It should, to all appearances, be a real fine game.

Game time is 8 p. m. this week, but beginning next week when Plains meets Tahoka here for the Plains homecoming, all the balance of the season's regular games will start at 7:30.

JUST ELECTED---E. W. New who farms southeast of Plains was elected as Yoakum Soil Conservation District Supervisor for Zone 1 in a special election meeting held last week. He succeeded Emmitt Campbell who had held the post for the past five years.

Dirt Gardeners Set Flower Show

Seventh Annual Flower Show of Plains Dirt Gardeners garden club, entitled, "Beauty From the Good Earth," will be staged Saturday, October 17, in the Plains High School Cafeteria and will be open to the public without admission charge from 4 to 6 p. m.

Members of the club will display exhibits showing some results of the year's work in the areas of horticulture, conservation and artistic design.

The conservation exhibit, under the supervision of Mr. Murrell Thompson and Mr. Wilson Duke, Yoakum County Soil Conservation Office, is entitled, "Our Soil-Our Strength."

All club members are required to exhibit in the show and to assist with the arranging and dismantling.

Advance entries will be accepted by entries committee, Mrs. Eddie Taylor, Mrs. Mollie Courtney and Mrs. Robert Chambliss until 6 p. m. October 14. Entries will be received from 9:30 to 11 a. m. Saturday, the 17th, and be ready for judging by 12:00 noon.

Other committees named are as follows:

General: Mrs. Bill Overton, Mrs. Robert White, Mrs. J. M. Tippet, Mrs. Eddie Taylor.

Staging: Mrs. Leon Lewis, Mrs. Jim Brown, Mrs. J. E. Ashburn.

Placing: Mrs. Robert White, Mrs. Alvie Faulkenberry, Mrs. Jay Earl Bryson, Mrs. Sallie Forrest, Mrs. Robert Young, Mrs. I. L. Smith, Mrs. Hayden Box, Mrs. Mae Loyd.

Judges: Mrs. Wilson Duke, Mrs. Foy Cogburn.

Hospitality: Mrs. Joe H. Thompson, Mrs. C. C. Perkins.

Publicity: Mrs. J. M. Tippet.

The Dirt Gardeners held their first meeting of the club year, Saturday, September 26, with Mrs. Wilson Duke presiding.

This meeting was an all-day workshop featuring Mrs. Char-nell Jobe of Lamesa, National Flower Show Judge, Mrs. Jobe's program consisted of grooming of horticulture and basic lines of design. She also gave some very interesting hints on the drying of materials to be used in flower arrangements. Mrs. J. D. Smith of Lamesa who recently won the Award of Distinction for her outstanding dried arrangement at the Dawson County Fair, accompanied Mrs. Jobe.

The workshop was under the direction of Mrs. W. M. Overton, chairman. 14 members and 2 guests enjoyed a salad luncheon with hostesses, Mrs. Cogburn and Mrs. Duke.

Booster Meeting

Plains Booster Club met on Tuesday night in their new meeting place, Alma's Restaurant, and had a fine crowd on hand.

Secretary, Cordell Huddleston reported that the club now has the largest number of paid up members that it has ever had. According to Huddleston, the club now boasts an even 50 members for this year.

Booster president, Tom Warren reported that plans are now in the making for this year's athletic banquet which will be held right after the close of the football season. More particulars will be reported later on about this big annual affair.

Letter To The Editor

Plains, Texas
October 5, 1964

Dear Editor:

Last week's confused patron has mixed me up considerably regarding the relationship of homework to Wednesday night Church attendance.

If parents and children are forced to stay home on Wednesday nights because of excessive homework, what keeps them home during the summer months? In fact, when we compare summer attendance with winter attendance we are made to wonder whether homework might be conducive to mid-week church attendance.

Or, could it be that church-going teachers make the difference? It is doubtful whether many people who stay home on Wednesday night hide behind homework assignments.

Evidently the fifty families contacted by the confused patron are not very regular in mid-week church attendance. Our ministers would be elated to see this many families at Wednesday night services - even during the summer months when there is no homework.

Did last week's confused patron ask members of the fifty families contacted how their children use the time prior to Wednesday night services and whether it would be unreasonable for some of the older children to study some after church? Perhaps it would not be unwise to keep the TV switch turned OFF on Wednesday nights.

I, for one, appreciate the fact that we have such a great number of church-going teachers. I feel that if we parents attended church as well as our teachers our attendance would be much better than it now is. I sincerely hope our teachers will not take offense to the confused patron's implication.

Some parents feel that for good teaching, homework is necessary. I agree that it should not be excessive. Having had children in several different schools, I feel that our teachers, on the average, do not give homework assignments in excessive amounts. Many of us would yell LOUD and LONG if our children were not given homework.

Surely last week's writer was not sincere in feeling that homework assignments on Wednesday nights could possibly have any connection with the closing of church doors - certainly not completely responsible for such. If church doors are closed it will not be due to homework assignments given our children. I again suggest that we count mid-week church attendance during the summer months and attempt to determine what seems to be trying to close the doors during this season of the year. It definitely could not be homework.

This is not an educated answer as requested in last week's letter, but a reply by a mixed-up parent who believes that Wednesday night's church attendance is not determined by our children's homework assignments.

An Astonished Parent

The above map shows the proposed unitization that is to take place within Yoakum and Gaines County. This is to go hand in hand with Shell Oil Company's proposed project to water flood the San Andres formation in the Denver Unit which will be noted in the above map with Shell under it. Usage of water (fresh water) from the Ogallala Sand formation has stirred up quite a controversy in the area, where the amount of water, due to a lack of recharge from any source, is considered to be a critical and vital matter to the economy of the area. Readers are invited to examine other articles and diagrams on page 5 of this issue, information for which was furnished by Shell Oil Co.

W. G. "Bill" Gray in a pasture of Sandlove grass, sometimes known as ice cream grass because of the palatability. Livestock like it so much that grazing must be very carefully controlled. Bill planted this grass in 1963 and received only six inches of rain that year and less than five inches in 1964. It isn't claimed that this or any other grass will grow without water, but it is evident this grass made good use of the moisture it received. Bill has about 300 acres of planted pasture, including Weeping love, side oats gramma and sand love grass planted according to his Great Plains Conservation program.

A letter to our Congressman from JOE B. PHILLIPS
 The Hon. George Mahon
 Congressman
 19th District
 1211 New House Office Building
 Washington 25, D. C.
 Dear Mr. Congressman:
 Because of your busy schedule and the fact that you are unable to be in the district during much of the campaign, I am taking this opportunity of requesting your convictions upon some of the vital issues which concern the voters in our area.
 I want to acquaint you with mine.
 I believe that the power of God is paramount to the freedom of man, and that our founding fathers created a government to preserve the God given rights of man.
 Because I believe in these rights, I think that the children in our public schools must be allowed to pray, each according to the dictates of his own conscience.
 I have the conviction that we should uphold the separation of church and state, not the separation of the state from God.
 I believe that the words "Under God" should remain in the Pledge of Allegiance and the phrase "In God We Trust" on our coins.
 It is my opinion that Chaplains should be sustained in the military service and in Congress.
 The U. S. Government is confronted with one of the most critical periods of its history, as it faces Godless, atheistic communism. As God fearing citizens of this nation, we must stand up and be counted in this time of crisis.
 Very truly yours,
 JOE PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
 By C. WILSON HARDER
 This, of course, is the silly season, when political charges and counter-charges rend the autumnal air. It is perhaps difficult for many people to know who's on first with all the ballyhoo with cliches, slogans, and other loud assertions. And the advent of the electronic media has made the situation even more perplexing, inasmuch as even the most absurd slogan, repeated often enough over the air, somehow takes on an aura of credibility.
 It is possible if the founding fathers had visualized the advent of radio and TV they would have made Presidential and Congressional elections come in different years.
 Actually, from the standpoint of business welfare, economic futures, et al, the most important decisions people must make this November are the elections to Congress.
 Yet due to electioneering via electronics, certain pat things are sold. One side attempts to say the other party is composed of extreme ultra-liberals. The other side labors to impute everybody in the opposing party is reactionary to the core. This, of course, is not true.
 For example, one party is attacked for extremism.
 Yet, there is perhaps no more of a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat than Rep. John Dowdy of Texas. But it is interesting what he recently had to say about "extremism."
 He recently said "when at a loss for words to describe a man one does not like, political concepts with which one disagrees, of the fellow who borrows books and never returns them, it has become a popular pastime to hurl the charge "extremist."
 He went on to say "There seems to be no agreement on a definition for "extremism." It would appear to me that such a thing as a $325 billion Federal debt is extremism; it would also appear that the U.S. Supreme Court saying how several states shall elect their legislatures is extremism." Rep. Dowdy also went on to say, "Figuring prominently in recent 'extremists' actions have

SHELL'S FIGURES--- Table at top of page shows Shell's figures on their approximation of the amount of fresh water that will be used in the controversial water flood project they are presently preparing to undertake in Yoakum and Gaines Counties. Lower figure shows the way in which the water flooding is supposed to work to enable them to recover an estimated 860,000,000 barrels of oil that otherwise they could not pump out. The article at the upper right side is one which appeared in a recent edition of the Lubbock-Avalanche Journal. The Record is publishing these articles in an effort to acquaint the area citizens as much as possible with all the sides of the question of water flooding, and especially with the use of fresh water.

Fresh Water Use In Waterflooding Program Aired

Questions have been raised, pro and con, about a waterflood program planned for a 25,114-acre section of the Wasson Field in Yoakum and Gaines Counties.

Unit and flood plans have been presented for approval to the Texas Railroad Commission by Shell Oil Co. operator of the cooperative venture.

Involved is approximately two-fifths of the 63,500-acre oil reservoir. The unit will take in the entire southern section of the field along with a portion of the Russell pool. Both fields produce from a common San Andres reservoir.

The operation has been designated Denver (San Andres) Unit.

Water for the flooding project will come from the Ogallala reservoir. Injection of fresh water will be into 88 in-pipe wells located around the periphery of the unit.

The program, of course, on the part of the oil industry is for recovery of oil.

Objections to the use of fresh water for the water flooding program have been advanced. Depletion of the Ogallala water from which irrigation water on the High Plains is obtained, has been listed as the chief objection.

Saturday in Lubbock, representatives of Shell Oil Co. from Midland, advanced pertinent facts from their standpoint regarding the proposed water flooding program.

In the main, their presentation is:

"In Shell's application to the Railroad Commission to inject fluid in the Denver Unit at Wasson, we estimated the maximum rate of injection to be 1,500 barrels per day per well. But even if this maximum per well figure was applied, only 441,000 gallons per well would be required weekly.

"The maximum input by Shell in the Denver Unit will last only 1 to 2 years, after which injection rates will decline. The total water usage for Shell's Denver Unit over its life of at least 50 years is estimated to be 116,000 acre-feet. As a comparison, the latest Texas Water Commission records available to use indicate that 267,000 acre-feet of water were produced for irrigation alone in the year 1961 in Gaines and Yoakum Counties. These records also indicate that the total supply of fresh water in the Ogallala formation in Gaines and Yoakum Counties in 1958 was 13,589,000 acre-feet. Thus, the ultimate total usage by Shell in the Denver Unit over the life of the waterflood will be equivalent to about five months' production for irrigation in Gaines and Yoakum Counties and will be only 9-10 of 1 per cent of the total supply of water in these two counties.

"The total water usage for flooding all known reservoirs at Wasson over the life of the floods is estimated to be about 300,000 acre-feet. This 300,000 acre-feet for the whole field will be equivalent to about 1 year's production for irrigation in Yoakum and Gaines Counties and will be only 2.2 per cent of the total supply in the two counties.

"We will not deplete the area where we propose to develop a water field for Wasson. Our agreement with the landowner limits the maximum compares favorably with typical pumpage rates from irrigation wells in the High Plains. Our current plans for development of the Wasson Water Field call for only one well per full section of land, which compares to typical well development on an irrigated farm of about eight wells per section. Also, under our agreement the landowner will retain water rights under a portion of his land so that he will end up with a checkerboard of rights for other needs.

"Let's look at the water situation in the eight counties of the Southern High Plains where waterflooding operations by the oil industry will begin in a number of fields in the next 15 years. The eight counties considered are Andrews, Gaines, Yoakum, Terry, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock and Lamb. We estimate that over the entire lives of the floods in these counties, about 1,000,000 acre-feet will be required. If we assume that all of this water would come from the Ogallala fresh water formation, this 1,000,000 acre-feet would be 2.2 per cent of the total supply of fresh water stored in the Ogallala formation in the eight counties of the Southern High Plains. This total supply was reported in 1958 by the Texas Water Commission to be 45,296,000 acre-feet. This same 1,000,000 acre-feet total oil industry usage for waterflooding is less than 3-10 of one per cent of the total supply of 357,256,000 acre-feet of fresh water stored in the Ogallala formation in the 48-county High Plains Area.

"Shell, as well as the other oil operators, intend to use brackish or saline waters for waterflooding wherever such use is reasonably economical. As an example during 1964, as a result of studies by the oil operators (including Shell) in the vicinity of Odessa in Ector County, installation of the West Texas Water Supply System was begun to carry brackish water from the Capitan Reef west of Kermit to waterflood projects in Ector and surrounding counties. In the case of the Wasson Field, a similar study of water sources was made. No adequate source of saline water was found near the field; and the salt water produced with the oil will be utilized for injection, but the amount is small. Also the price of piping water from the Capitan Reef to Wasson was unreasonably high. Studies of recovering additional oil from Wasson by injection of gas instead of water indicate that gas would be far less efficient."

Warren-Townes Vows Exchanged

In a double ring ceremony held at the First Methodist Church in Plains, Miss Carolyn V. Warren and Ralph E. Townes, Jr., pledged their wedding vows at 7 p.m. Saturday, October 3.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom D. Warren of Plains. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Townes, Sr., of Denver City.

The double ring ceremonies were performed by Rev. Walter Driver of Plains. The altar was decorated with an arch of foliage flanked by baskets of white glads and two sets of candelabras holding taper lights.

Viva Hale sang "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Gene Young, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Warren chose a formal floor length gown of chantilly lace and silk over taffeta. The dress featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline, long, petal-point sleeves, and a bodice of chantilly lace. Panels of the matching lace over-lay on each side of the silk sheer. The skirt extended into a full, pleated, bouffant chapel train. The veil was made of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses centered with a white cattleya orchid.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white glads and orchid chrysanthemums. Mrs. Suzanne Duvall registered as maid of honor. Other attendants were Ann Lattimore and Frances Porter. They wore identical dresses designed with skirts, fitted bodices and necklines. The dresses were made of orchid brocaded taffeta. Their headpieces were seed pearl coronets with orchid abbreviated veils.

Best man was Roy R. Edwards of Denver City. Groomsmen were Tommy Warren and Weldon Brown. Ushers were Charles Phipps and Charles Rohman. Kimberly Vandiver, the flower girl, carried a white basket filled with trimmed in orchid.

The couple will be at home at 201 5th Street in Denver City following a wedding trip to El Paso and Dallas.

Mrs. Townes is a 1963 graduate of Plains High School and Jessie Lee's Hair Design Institute. She is employed at Gieger's Salon of Beauty in Denver City.

Her husband is a 1960 graduate of Denver City High School. He has served in the army and has attended Texas Tech. Presently he is employed at the Oil Well Supply Company in Denver City.
