"A pooling bill will encourage a more efficient and more equitable approach to devel-opment of our oil and gas

resources. A measure, supported by all segments of the Texas petroleum industry after two years of intra-industry conferences and study, was re-cently introduced as Senate Bill 2 by Senator Galloway Calhoun, Jr., of Tyler, and as House Bill 2 by Rep. Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge.

Sewell stressed that the measure does not affect normal leasing and voluntary pooling arrangements between landowners and operators, nor does it affect in any way reservoirs discovered and produced before March 8, 1961 (date of Supreme Court decesion that wells on small tracts could not produce at rates disporportionately higher than adjoining tracts).

most finance companies.

It also was announced that last year's slate of officers was re-elected and that they in-

States. "I came to this country to study, and after having completed my training I returned to the Philippines. But once back home, I found I didn't fit in. I missed what I had here in America. I want to stay in the U.S. permanently because I could never again work and live at home.'

The Filipino girl's story is told many times each day by countless other foreigners who want to stay in the U.S. or to immigrate here.

This desire of many people to come to the U.S. has led to a move aimed at changing America's immigration laws so that the "have not" countries could have a greater share of U.S. immigration quota than they presently en-instance, between 1957 and 1961, 1,800 (repeat 1,800) engineers emigrated from Asia to the U.S. - most of them coming from India. In the same period, Asia exported to these shores 231 chemists, 61 physicists and 40 biologists — for a grand total of 2,132 highly-trained people who left countries where their skills are badly needed.

This situation has become a bit ludicrous because the U.S. taxpayer is constantly being soaked for foreign aid projects aimed at training foreigners to help their native countries. In addition, American private foundations make huge expenditures toward this end. However, many of the people trained as a result of U.S. expenditures do not want to use their training as was originally intended (i.e. in their native countries).

The "brain drain" problem of the underdeveloped countries might not be so bad if the U.S. agreed to accept only illiterates and people who could not make a living in their homelands. But the administration does not want to add to its "poverty problem" by allowing poor, badly trained immigrants into the country. Even with the proposed liberalization of the immigration laws, only the best people would be allowed to come here - thus hurting their native lands and undermining the purpose of much American foreign aid.

When the "brain drain" problem is taken into consideration, it should be incumbent upon the Administration to stop playing politics with our immigration laws. As for the sentimentalists, they should face up to the fact that the alternative to changing our quota system is to take only the dregs or to accept that the "have not" countries will always be mired in poverty because of lack of trained personnel.

JANUARY 27, 1965

It is with a deep feeling of responsibility and gratitude that I begin the first of a series of comments to you concerning the issues of the 59th Session of the Texas Legislature. The organization of the House, following the appointment of Speaker Tunnell to the Railroad Commission and election of Speaker Ben Barnes was done in an orderly fashion. Immediately after his election, Speaker Barnes began the task of committee assignments with individual conference being held with each legislator concerning his committee preferences. Suspense ended with announcement of committee assignments Monday, several days before the move was expected.

I will be serving on the following five House committees: (an account of George's appointments may be seen on page 1 of this issue).

With the traditional receptions and the inauguration of Governor Connally and Lt. Governor Smith behind us, the real course of legislative action and responsibility is be-

Gov. Connally addressed a Joint Session today in a far-reaching and admirable approach to the problems that confront Texas citizens. The Governor promised surprises in his legislative proposals, and these were evident in his Highlighting his proposals and recommendations was a compromise measure concerning a pay raise for public school teachers. The Texas State Teachers Association is asking for a $45 per month pay increase for all teachers. Governor Connally has proposed an across-the-board increase of $486 for classroom teachers with bachelorsdegrees spread over a period of ten years. This, in effect, would up salaries $90 in 1965-66 for teachers with bachelor's degrees. Additional proposals included raises for administrotors and others holding a master's degree. The inclusion of the Governor's proposed teacher pay bill would boost his originally proposed balance budget approximately $12 million above the amount of general revenue available for appropriation. To provide this amount, the Governor recommended an increase of one cent in the present eight cent per package cigarette tax and a revision in the state inheritance tax laws.

Connally received a round of applause when he urged the Legislature's support to a proposed federal amendment to the Constitution permitting one house of the Texas Legislature to be apportioned on factors other than population alone. This was in reference to a Supreme Court ruling requiring both houses of state legislatures to be based solely on population.

To meet the state's future water needs, the Governor recommended reorganization of some state water administration functions. In the field of mental health, he asked for the authorization to create a state department of mental health and legislation to provide state financial assistance to community and regional cental health cen-

Further recommendations were presented to improve and initiate gains in the fields of tourism, women's rights, recreation, highway safety, and vocational training. I will be happy to send a detailed account of these proposals to any group or individual who, is desirous of receiving them.

These proposals by the Governor will require the utmost consideration and study by the Legislature as we attempt to solve these problems and make further gains in those areas where we are now lacking.

I welcome your opinions on these vital issues, both individually and collectively, in order that I might know the feelings of the people whom I represent. Through the co-ordinated efforts of the Legislative Community Councils, I am sincerely hoping that a more comprehensive and detailed analysis of state affairs will be presented to the people, and in turn, that better government, understood, written and initiated will ensue.

My best wishes to each of you as we face the tasks before us with forethought and optimism.

You probably agree that cleaning old wax off the kitchen floor isn't the gayest of household chores, so you'll be happy to hear that Johnson's Wax has come along with Super Kleen Floor. It's both a wax re-mover and cleanser in one and makes things easier. We had about given up on the tile in our back entrance hall, but one goround with this product brigh-tened it so beautifully we won't have to replace it after all. Super Kleen Floor comes in a jug with a handle you can really get a good grip on, not to mention an easy-pouring School, Tonya has attended not to mention an easy-pouring spout that will keep you even-tempered throughout the Canadian-style bacon always seemed out of line pricewise with other types of bacon and made me feel a bit 'spendthrifty' when I bought it. My budget conscience has been eased no end, though, since I found out that the Canadian-style isn't bacon at all. Actually it's one of the choicest cuts of pork, the loin. When you think of it as pork loin that has been trimmed, cured and smoked, you realize Canadian style bacon is really a good quality buy for the money — which makes it taste even better than before.

Nowadays I make it a point to buy cottage cheese in plastic containers. I like their fresh, snowy white appearance and the smooth feel when I spoon out the cheese. These packages seem to keep the product fresh longer, too, so I can be sure of the quality when I pick up cottage cheese in plastic tubs. And I have yet to run out of re-use ideas. The latest one is using the one-pound size as a small mold for gelatin salad. It takes up much less space in the refrig-erator than individual molds and with its lid on, it will keep the salad extra fresh until you're ready to use it. You may want to make several salads at once, put the lids on the containers and stack them in the refrigerator to use as you need them. It's not necessary to oil the cartons; the salads will unmold easily with just a little help from a knife.

Try this quickie salad made with the new mixed vegetable flavor gelatin salad mix. Prepare gelatin according to package di-rections, but use ½ cup less water. When thickened, fold in ¾ cup chive cottage cheese, then turn into a one-pound plastic cottage cheese container and chill

Royal was selected for the honor after the 1964 Long-horns capped a 9-1 regular season record with an impressive 21-17 win over National Champion Alabama in the Orange Bowl. A close 14-13 loss to Arkansas kept the 'Horns from repeating their 1963 National Championship

Although the 1963 'Horns were the first national champs in UT's history, Royal's eight teams have rolled up a fantastic record of 69 wins, 15 losses and three ties.

Eleven years as a college coach has brought 86 victories, only 28 losses and three ties for Royal's teams. He was head coach at Mississippi State in 1954 and 1955 and at Washington in 1956.

Prior to his head-coaching positions, Royal was assistant coach at North Carolina State, 17-5 record in 1953.

Noted for rugged defense, efficient offense and sound kicking game, Royal's Long-horn teams also have that something extra — ability to win big ones. This they have proved with seven straight victories over Oklahoma and pres-tige wins over Mississippi and Navy when the No. 1 spot was at stake.

Royal, a native of Hollis, Oklahoma, played college foot-ball at the University of Okla-homa. An all-around star, he excelled at quarterback, punter and defensive halfback.
