The vice-president presented the press book which she had been preparing, the treasurer reported a donation of $71.00 had been turned in this month for memorials and crusade offerings. Mr. Taylor announced the Annual District Meeting will be Wednesday, June 22nd of this year. Also, the legacy program will be stressed. Midland and Sweetwater Units will be included along with this unit, and special sessions for the Committee Chairman, and special sessions for Officers will be held. Dr. Squires gave a discussion of Yoakum County facilities for X-ray specialist and pathological services. He announced he might be able to secure a pathologist to speak before the Cancer Organization in a future meeting.

Mrs. Bickley announced the service committee had met and made six dozen bandages this includes collecting material, washing, cutting, folding and organizing, since the last meeting. Plans were made at this time for the Advanced Gift Crusade. New officers were elected for the ensuing year and they are as follows: Mrs. Bickley, President; Mrs. P. W. St. Romain, Vice-President; Mrs. Burton, Memorial Chairman for Denver City, and Mrs. Hunter for Secretary-treasurer. Also, the film stressed the importance of records of old and new prospects. The monthly meeting for April will be held in Plains in the Club room on April 12th.

Livestock Board Calls Meeting

Johnnie Fitzgerald, Yoakum County Livestock Association president, announced that a meeting of the association has been called Monday March 28th at 8:00 p. m. in the district courtroom of the new courthouse. Five directors will be elected at the meeting, and the livestock association spokesman urged the membership to attend.

The Livestock President extended his appreciation to the many area residents who purchased their 1966 membership cards during the recent Yoakum County Junior Show.

Fitzgerald stated that the association will also solicit stock awards for the 1067 Yoakum County Junior Livestock Fat Stock Show. The prizes are given annually to winners of showmanship in the stock show.

G.I. Benefits Explained

One of the most important things Congress has done this year is to give approval to a new G. I. Bill for our fighting men. I had introduced a Vietnam G. I. Bill more than a year ago, and Congress enacted the provisions of that bill, expanding on it to extend coverage to all Cold War veterans. Here are some questions I often am asked about the new G. I. Bill and the answers.

When can veterans start drawing education benefits? June 1, in time for summer school.

How does a veteran apply for these benefits? By filling out a form furnished by the Veterans Administration.

Just who is eligible for benefits? Any veteran of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force or Coast Guard who has served since the last G. I. Bill expired on Jan. 31, 1955, who was on active duty for at least 180 days, and who has a discharge other than dishonorable.

How are benefits paid? A monthly check, mailed directly to the veteran, while he is attending high school, college, graduate school, just about any type of institution that offers education at the secondary level or above.

How big a monthly check? Single veterans going to school full time get $100 a month. Those with one dependent get $125; those with two or more dependents, $150.

How long do benefits run? That depends on how long the veteran was in service. The general rule is that he gets one month's benefit for each month on active duty, with a maximum of 36 months of benefits.

How is the monthly payment figured for the part-time student? If he takes 7 to 9 semester hours, he receives half the full-time benefit. That would be $50 a month for the single veteran. If he takes from 10-13 hours, he receives three-fourths of the full benefit.

Just what kinds of courses can a veteran pursue under the G. I. Bill? Any that meet his goal for a general education or for a career or job.

Does that cover courses at trade or vocational schools? Yes. Approved business and correspondence schools, too.

Can a veteran collect while he's getting on-the-job training? No, that's excluded by law.

Will a veteran taking high-school courses have to go to a regular high school with students who may be many years his junior? Probably not. In some areas, high schools will offer special classes for veterans. In others, a veteran will be able to take courses of high-school level through adult-education programs offered by local agencies.

Can a veteran collect benefits if he takes a few spare-time courses even if he's not working toward a degree? Without a doubt, if he's trying to improve his job or career skills.

The following cases are set for trial at 10:00 o'clock A. M., Monday, April 18, 1966 in Plains, Texas. Announcements will be called for at 10:00 o'clock A. M., April 18, 1966: all motions, exceptions, etc., will be heard at that time. The Jury will report at 1:30 o'clock P. m. on April 18, 1966.

The Court should be notified immediately of any case, herein set, being settled, or for any reason why the same is not ready for trial by Jury on April 18, 1966.

Social Security Changes Made

An estimated 200 area persons age 72 or older who can qualify for social security payments under a recent change have not yet applied, according to Mr. John G. Hurton, social security district manager in Lubbock, Texas.

A little-known amendment allows persons now 72 or older to qualify for a special benefit with less work credit than is required for regular benefits. For example, a man who was at least 73, in 1965 has to have only about nine months of covered work credited. Also, a widow who was at least 72 in 1965, whose husband either died or became 65 in 1954 or earlier, is eligible if her husband had a bout nine months of covered work.

This special benefit is a flat $35 a month. Mr. Hurton said wife's benefits of $17.50 a month are payable at age 72 to a woman whose husband is entitled under this provision, if she reaches 72 before 1969.

Mr. Hurton advised these persons to get in touch with the Lubbock, Texas social security office as soon as possible. They can apply for payments and enroll for Medicare at the same time.

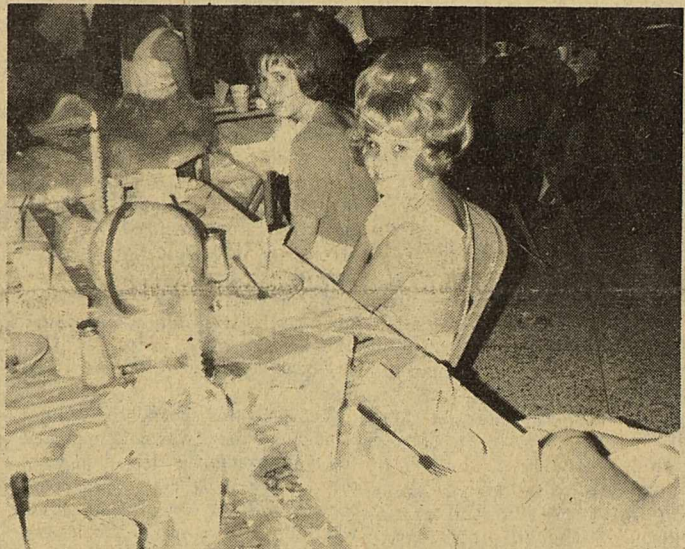

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Denver City on Friday, March 25, in the Library at 10:00 a. m.

Farm Bureau News

Officials of the Farm Bureau announced that their membership drive has met with success in the past two weeks. Approximately 40 new members have been signed in the drive. The Yoakum County Farm Bureau recently was awarded membership trophies for their success in securing members in Yoakum County at the State Convention. The total membership of Yoakum County Farm Bureau is now at about 225 showing a big increase over last year.

Spokesman for the Farm Bureau invited all members and interested people to drop by the office in the Don Hancock building to meet Mrs. Nancy Wilson, new secretary for the association. Mrs. Betty Livesay resigned last week to accept a position at the City Hall.

Medicare Data Stressed

Postmaster Hayes of Plains announced today that application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at the window of the Plains Post Office.

The application blanks are being made available as the Social Security Administration seeks to contact 3.1 million senior citizens before a March 31 deadline imposed by the Medicare law.

President Johnson has proclaimed March as "National Medicare Enrollment Month". He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in enrolling senior citizens in the program.

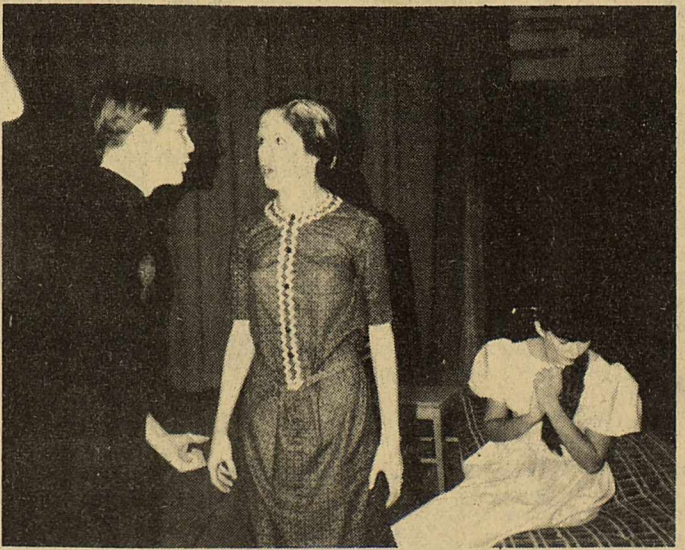

Initially, some two and one half million application blanks were distributed to nearly 34,000 main Post Offices throughout the 50 States. Additional forms are available as needed.

Through direct mailings and other means, the Social Security Administration has had contact with 16 of the 19.1 million citizens who will be 65 or over on July 1. Of the 16 million who replied, less than one million said they did not want to sign up for the supplemental program.

The supplemental program costs $3 a month and provides doctor bill and other benefits. Everyone 65 and over is eligible for the basic hospital benefits under Medicare.

A copy of the application blank is displayed on the lobby bulletin board of the Plains Post Office.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two year delay if they do not sign up by March 31. The application forms are preaddressed to the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Maryland.

CAYCE'S CORNER

The boys at the Chamber of Commerce breakfast Monday morning told a good one on Paul Cobb and Jim Bozeman. The story goes something like this: Paul - Jim, I think I've got the call to preach. Jim - How do you know Paul? Tell me how you feel. Paul - Well preacher it seems that all I want to do these days is eat and sleep! (Jim didn't have a come back out that one.)
 If the bank examiners would have been in town Tuesday during the West Texas rainstorm they would have thought that banker Bill had called in the mortgages on a farm or two, with all of the top soil that would have been settling around them.
 Speaking of the big blow, it seems that Buster Graham asked Cleatus Phelan what happened to his big sign in front of the lawyer's office, and Cleatus casually remarked, its gone with the wind.
 A progressive candidate for office in the interesting election exchanged greetings with the editor down at Joe's Drugstore Tuesday, and the editor said, "You have promised to do everything else why don't you do something about the weather today?" The alert politician remarked, "Look editor, I have only promised the moon, I didn't say a thing about the wind." The editor went away thinking, No Bud you sure didn't, but so much hot air is circulating in the air about the election that I really do wonder a little bit at times.
 In thinking of politicians, as most of us do this time of year, I am reminded of one in New Mexico who I believe to be truly an honest politician. He used to say that he was the best politician that money could buy. By golly he was sure honest.
 Back to politics on the local scene, I was drinking coffee at the Drugstore and looked at all of the candidates' cards which are in a row on the ridge of the booth. One card was conspicuously stuck between Cleatus Phelan's and Johnnie Fitzgerald's. I read, See Skupin Pest Control for quick service.

One kind lady wrote in asking that we give reports from time to time on the grandchildren. . . . I am so glad she brought that subject up and am most happy to oblige. . . . The youngest, who is hardly two years old, is showing a remarkable aptitude for music. A bit like his old grandfather. . . . Anyhow when Porter Wagner comes on television he makes a fast wobble for his toy guitar, and when the coming six year old plays one of Norma Jean's records on the hi-fi he begins hollering "Jeanie". . . . The connection is that at an early age we could beat out some kind of time on a tin bucket. . . . Later in high school we went out for snare-drummer and we could still beat out only some kind of time. . . . Only thing was the director didn't seem to appreciate it. . . . Little Dave must have some lessons.

Along the same line my wife's little six year old grand-niece had just recently spent a profitable weekend with her grandparents. Her purse was running over with small change. . . . Someone asked what she was going to do with all that money to which she readily and diplomatically replied, "Why, I'm going to save it for my grandchildren." I thought this remark very precious and I am really glad to claim little Deanna Kay as my own grand-niece too.
 One politician wrote out his campaign speech, trying hard to go down in history with some good line, gave great emphasis to these lines: "Know the truth and the truth shall make you free." After election he said, "Those seemed like good lines they sure won't get one elected."
 To be devoted to the one God—to be devoted to the great God who created us; and the one who can help us to know a better life, and can prepare a future for us can mean everything to our life. But, to be devoted to a religion, to be filled with its teachings, bound by its rules, dedicated to converting others to its way of life, could well lead us into serious problems; even to mental breakdown and as is often the case suicide. . . . The world over many people are willing to die for some false religion, and are often frantic when the holy fire will not come down to accept their sacrifice. . . . Our belief in the True God, the One who holds even the future of the little bird in His hand, should surely bring joy, peace and security to all who have this faith.

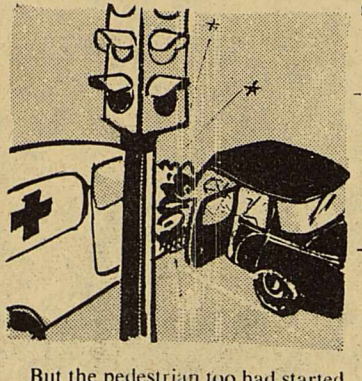

Some time back we sent a good friend a free subscription to a paper which carried our column hoping he would read it. . . . Last week he hurriedly thumbed through it and when he missed seeing it all but demanded his money back. . . . We felt so complimented that we almost felt like giving it to him. . . . However, we settled for free coffee for the crowd when he found it on second look.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"The Light Was Green"
 At busy corners all over the country stand familiar machines, designed to help automate justice. We call them traffic signals, and they deliver a clear and simple rule of law: green means go, red means stop.
 Unhappily, justice is far too complicated for total automation. The signals do help, but they cannot give a final answer. In fact, they are sometimes no more than a starting point in the process of telling right from wrong.
 For example:
 A motorist, sued for knocking down a pedestrian, offered this defense in court:
 "The light was green when I entered the intersection, so I had a right to go through."
 But the pedestrian too had started across lawfully, on a green light. The motorist was held liable for relying blindly on the signal, not giving the pedestrian a fair chance to complete his crossing. As one judge phrased it:
 "A green light is not a command to go, but only a limited permission."
 In another case a motorist was held negligent, again in spite of a green light, for colliding with an ambulance. Evidence showed that the ambulance had its siren on, that others heard it plainly, and that the motorist's window was down and his radio off.
 Nor does a green light, beckoning in the distance, justify bad driving in an effort to get there before it changes.
 One motorist, with that in mind, crowded close behind the car ahead of him. When the light changed to amber, the front car was able to make a proper stop. But the following motorist could not. Result: a bad crash, for which the impatient driver was duly held liable.
 Just as green doesn't always mean go, neither does red always mean stop. For instance, emergency vehicles are often given the right by local law to go through a red light.
 Yet even this special right is not clear-cut. Thus it was held negligent for an ambulance driver to race through a red light at a dangerous corner, without sounding his siren, when there was no medical need for haste.
 The court held that even an ambulance must respect the one bedrock rule that underlies all the rest: SAFETY FIRST.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
 By C. WILSON HARDER
 Inasmuch as the United Nations is largely supported by the taxes of American small businessmen, even before Russia reneged in making payments, it is perhaps well to review the UN situation.
 Rep. H. R. Gross, Iowa, recently commented on the fact that only by the barest of margins was Red China kept out of the UN, and Nationalist China thrown out, in 1965.
 He feels that this situation may not prevail in the next vote.
 UN was launched with worldwide hope to found an effective way of preventing the world wide anarchy of war. The charter provided that nations should act in concert to stop aggressive acts between nations, but should not interfere in matters essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state. Since that time, however, there has been appended to UN some 14 different agencies such as the International Labor Organization to "promote social justice" and the UN Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization, which seeks control over schools all over the world. Thus, it has become quite active in meddling in nation's internal affairs.
 Yet as the record since 1945 shows, the UN has been a substantial failure in achieving its main purpose, maintaining peace. This tragic failure is perhaps largely due to failure of world leaders to utilize UN for this purpose.

Editorial

The whirlwinds of an election campaign are upon us and we will soon face what should be a serious task of selecting those who will serve us in the city, county, and at our school. Since the school trustee elections come first, then our thoughts must be paramount to it, and we should take first things first.
 One primary responsibility of a local newspaper is to urge the electorate to consider the issues and those who seek office in a responsible manner. Your local paper cannot urge its readers enough to be unbiased and maintain an open mind and be willing to separate fact from fiction and qualifications from personality, before the ballot is cast.
 In small town America a school board election becomes more heated than an election for President of the United States. We are given to spreading and listening to wild rumors and this is wrong. If there are issues, and Plains is no exception to any other community, then we should examine the issues and then cast an intelligent ballot.
 Let us examine the words of Theodore Roosevelt when he said, "The first requisite of a good citizen in this Republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his own weight." Let us also consider Thomas Jefferson's comments when he said, "When a man assumes a public trust, he should consider himself as public property."
 Then let us turn the pages of time back to the present and consider our own election campaign. If we elect a man who is afraid to stand for a principal, or a person who is of the opinion that a public office should not be placed under the microscope of the community, then he is the wrong man to entrust with a public office. But then if he is a man of principal, unafraid to take a stand, and a man who will be a servant of the people, then he deserves your consideration as a qualified candidate. We believe that the voters in Plains are intelligent enough to determine these and other essential qualifications, therefore we endorse no slate of candidates, but rather appeal to the community to vote for the best qualified person for the board of trustees without regard to political party, race, or religion.

These contracts call for grass planting and installation of under-ground pipe as part of the conservation program for the farms. Conservation cropping system, crop residue management, cover crops, irrigation water management, proper pasture management are some of the other needed conservation measures that are called for in their programs.

T. J. Bearden, Conservation farmer West of Plains is shown in a field of Grain Sorghum stubble that is being managed to protect our soil from wind erosion and conserve precious moisture.

Future Homemakers of America

BETTER LIVING FOR FAMILY AND COMMUNITY

Texas' 72,019 Future Homemakers join their half million sisters in observing National Future Homemakers of America Week, March 27 through April 2, announced Ruth Huey, director of home-making education, Texas Education Agency.

During the week, Future Homemakers of America chapters throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands plan a different activity for each day, striving to emphasize the goals of the organization.

These activities are designed to focus public attention on the objectives and accomplishments of Future Homemakers of America in meeting the responsibilities of today and preparing for the challenges of tomorrow.

This national youth organization of homemaking education students in junior and senior high schools provides opportunities for developing individual and group initiative in planning and carrying out homemaking activities.

Future Homemakers of America is a non-profit, self-supporting organization, officially sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association. High school homemaking education teachers serve as advisers to the 11,000 local chapters.

Under the supervision of these advisers, the young people carry out a program of work designed to improve personal, family and community living. The program includes nine major projects under the headings of: (1) Individuality Counts; (2) Good Health, A Valuable Asset; (3) Jobs, Career and You; (4) Morals and Manners; (5) Good Family Relations Through Communications; (6) Citizenship Challenges You; (7) Your Neighbors Near and Far; (8) Make Your Money Behave; and (9) Leisure Time, So constructive Time.

These enthusiastic young women are responsible members of their families today, learning to be creative leaders in the homes they will have in the future. They have set a high goal of creating secure, stable homes in this complex, unsettled world.

Six thousand officers, delegates and sponsors of the Texas Association will convene for their 1965 state meeting in San Antonio April 29-30, announced State Adviser Josephine Pazdral.

Yoakum County Young Homemakers

Members of the Yoakum County Young Homemakers were shocked to learn they had been manufacturing "death-dealing" cleaning components when the skit "Foolish Kates at the Pearly Gates" was presented at their meeting Monday night, March 14. The story portrayed five foolish, careless women who had killed themselves when they mixed household cleansers, making a toxic gas. They explained what they had mixed and the final results. The 14 members present were glad to learn that you should never mix chlorine bleach with toilet bowl cleaners, ammonia, lye, rust removers, vinegar or oven cleansers.

During the business meeting Shelia Stephens was elected treasurer, replacing Linda Huddleston. Martha McGeehee resigned as reporter and that position was filled by Beverly Cross.

The club received an invitation to attend a salad supper sponsored by the Home Demonstration Clubs, Thursday, March 17. Speeches will be given concerning medicare, need for wills and other legal papers.

The annual John Deere Supper, Friday, March 11, was catered by the club. It was decided each member will make an apron with the club name on it.

During the meeting Shelia Stephens was presented a baby gift from the club.
