OUR 35TH YEAR THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1966 NUMBER 29

Plains Prepares for Annual Rodeo & Old Timers Meet

Plans were nearing completion for the big parade and the 13th Annual Old Timers Reunion and Rodeo to start in Plains next Thursday with the parade at 5:00 p.m. Dick McGinty parade marshal, announced the parade will assemble in front of the school and will proceed at 5:00 p.m. west to the Francis Hotel, and will turn north one block and will then turn west and pass in front of the Record and Farm Bureau Buildings and continue until the paved road which is the one going on the west side of the swimming pool. The parade will then turn south and go to alma's Restaurant, turning east and continuing until it reaches the Pic and Pay Grocery.

Dick McGinty said he expects a number of floats to be entered in the parade and that many riding groups will be active in the parade.

State Representative Jessie T. George will be present and will ride in the parade with Mayor Billie Ray Kennedy and County Officials. Rep. George said he is always happy to come to Plains. At a Farm Bureau meeting last spring, the Texas solon announced his re-election in Plains. He was unopposed this time.

Gene Bennett announces that the stock is good this year, and that the people attending the rodeo can expect one of the best shows yet. Bennett said the competition will be close as always, and that the biggest crowd is expected in the 13 year history of the rodeo.

The Bar B.Q. is slated for Saturday noon in Stanford Park and many old timers have expressed their desire to get to the park in order to visit with old friends. Many former residents return to Plains each year for the event and the Bar B.Q. is one of pleasant reunion of friends.

Bennett urged area residents to make a last effort to help the Queen contestants in selling their tickets for the saddle which will be given away Saturday night at the last performance. The saddle is on display at Moore and Oden's Department Store in one of the show windows.

Rodeo officials expressed thanks to the sponsors of the belt buckles and those who have contributed money, effort and time to make the 13th Annual Old Settler's Reunion and Rodeo what they hope will be the best one in history.

ASC Market Rules

A simpler method of operating the cotton marketing quota program will go into effect this year when farmers start taking their crop to market, according to T.A. Elmore, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, County Committee. The new method discontinues the use of marketing cards as a means of identifying cotton for marketing quota purposes. It applies to 1966 succeeding crops of both and extra long staple cotton.

The Chairman explained that through the years, few cotton farms were "overplanted", and such penalties as were applicable were collected without difficulty. Doing away with the cotton marketing cards, the white ones for penalty-free cotton, will save thousands of dollars in administrative costs.

Starting this year, then, ASCS county offices will maintain a list of overplanted farms within the county as well as farms from which the cotton is otherwise ineligible for a loan because program provisions were not met fully. Notices listing the names of producers and the farm numbers of overplanted farms will be furnished to surrounding

Saddle Display

The official rodeo saddle which will be given away next week at the last performance of the 13th Old Settlers Reunion and Rodeo is now on display with all of the belt Buckle awards at the Moore and Oden Department Store in Plains in one of their show windows. The saddle was purchased at the Cowboy Store in Levelland.

The donors of the buckles for the events include: Bull Riding, Woody Wilmet Hdw. and Oil; Team Roping, Kenneth Burns at The Border Bar; Bulldogging, Alma's Restaurant; Team Roping, Cogburn Young True Value Store; Queen's Buckles, The Plains Record and Hawkins Food Market; Bareback Riding, Plains Oil Company; Calf Roping, Pic and Pay Grocery; Barrel Race Curry Drug and Joe's Long Branch; Jr. Calf Roping, Moore and Oden; and Team Roping, B and D Flying Service.

The public is invited to stop by Moore and Oden Department Store to see the display.

Club Will Paint

Members of the Plains Garden Club are painting welcome Rodeo visitors signs on business windows in Plains again this year. The price is nominal, and it is one of the annual fund raising projects for the Garden Club.

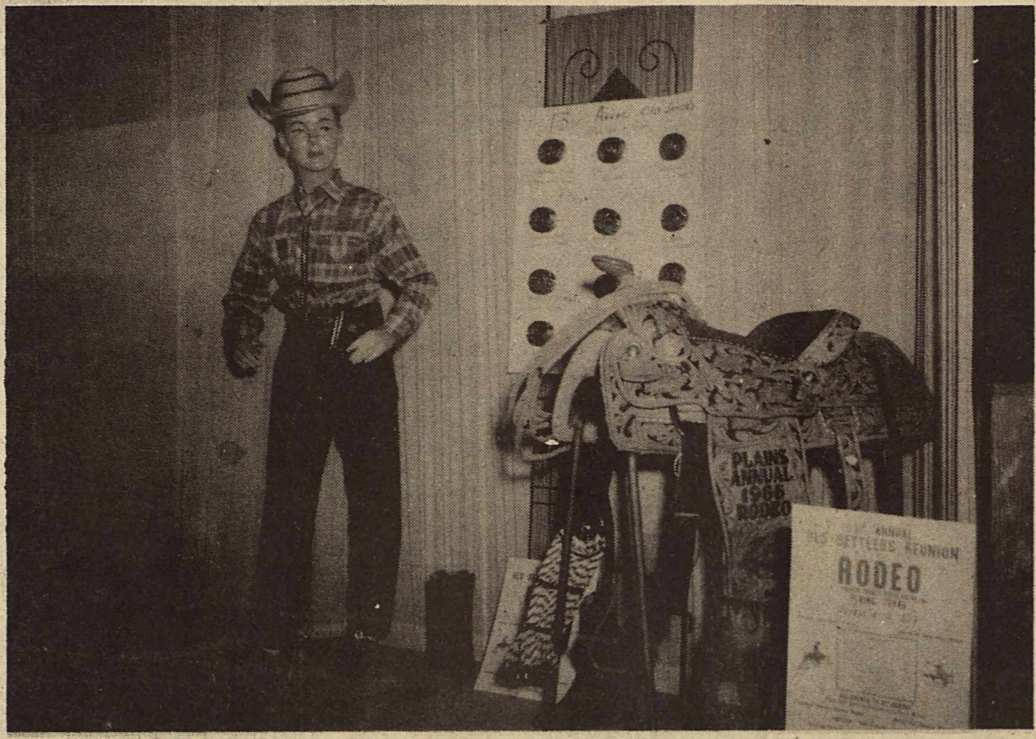

Businessmen interested in getting one of the attractive signs painted on their store windows may call Mrs. Bill Overton or Mrs. Wilson Dake for information.

Mrs. Overton will be happy to bring the patterns to individuals desiring one of the paintings in order that they may select their pattern. Help the Garden Club and dress Plains up, by letting them paint an attractive picture on another store window.

All Stars Lose 3-0

The Plains Little League All Stars lost in a close game with Brownfield at the Seagraves Tournament last week. The Brownfield team scored three runs to shut out the home team 3-0 in a defensive battle.

The local All Stars out hit and had the initiative the first three innings, retiring the first nine Brownfield batters, but were unable to score, having six men to die on bases the first three innings. The fourth inning was the big inning of the game. One Brownfield man walked, and they connected three hits in a row to push in the winning runs. Levelland went on to defeat Seagraves 3 - 2, Brownfield 2 - 0, and Denver City 1 - 0.

Saddle and buckles which will be given away during the Yoakum County Rodeo are on display in the window of Moore & Oden. Support your Queen Candidate! Buy a ticket!

Joyce Warren Runs For Queen

Joyce Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren, is the Lions Club candidate for Rodeo Queen. Mr. Warren owns the Warren Oil Company here. Miss Warren is 15 years old, and will be a sophomore in Plains High School this year.

The Lions Club candidate is very popular in Plains High, being one of the cheer leaders and is a member of the ever popular Plains Volleyball team.

Joyce was the Freshman twirler for the Plains Cowboy Band and plans to continue her twirling during the coming school term. A few of her activities besides twirling are water-skiing, volleyball, and dancing. Miss Warren has also received several honors in U. I. L. participation.

Joyce belongs to the First Methodist Church and is active in her church work. She likes sports, clothing fashions, and is interested in her school work. The Plains sophomore asks the help of the community in electing her the queen of the 13th Annual Old Settler's Reunion and Rodeo. She extended her appreciation to those who

4-H Show Set

Two Yoakum County 4-H Club Boys are entered in the District Two 4-H Horse Show held at Tulla on Thursday, July 28. Alton McGinty and John Gray are the two boys representing Yoakum County at this event. Both boys have entered their horses in the halter class, the barrel race and the pole bending. They were allowed to enter only two performances classes so they chose to omit the western pleasure class and the reining contest.

If either or both of them rank in the top twenty of the district show they will qualify to go to the State 4-H Horse Show held in San Antonio in August. There are 77 horses entered in the district made up of twenty South Plains Co.

This is the second year for District 2 to have a 4-H Horse Show. Last year the show was held at Levelland with 93 horses entered and it required the full day to complete the show. This year there will be more judges and less animals so they should be able to announce the winners by 2:30 or 3:00 o'clock. This would give the local contestants plenty of time to get back to Plains for the 4-H Play Day which begins at 8:00 p.m.

Yoakum County 4-H members had an opportunity to combine education and recreation at the annual 4-H camp. Front Row: Glen Bickel, Southwestern Public Service, Leo L. White, Mark Warren, Craig McPherson, Jackie McDonnell, Sudie M. Thompson, Donna Warren, Nancy Long, Patricia O'Keefe, Vicki Rucker.

Bronco Man Not Guilty, Threaten Perjury Charges

Judge Bandy presided in Justice Court in the Yoakum County Courthouse Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. while a large crowd of spectators and witnesses were present in the case of Gene Schoenrock, Bronco stockman and farmer. Schoenrock faced charges brought by Roland and Dillard Mills alleging that Schoenrock had waved a gun at them in a drunken and disorderly fashion. After lengthy testimony and cross examination of seven Bronco residents who were called to the stand a verdict of not guilty was returned by Judge Bandy.

Roland Mills was warned by Vernon Townes, county attorney and Assistant District Attorney, that he was under oath and that Mill could face perjury charges if he did not straighten out this testimony. Townes said conviction meant 2 to 5 years in prison. Mills had omitted the fact that he had pulled a knife on Schoenrock and threatened to use it. Mills admitted after extensive cross examination directed by Cleatus Phelan that he had said to Schoenrock that he would 'cut your fat guts out.' It was then that the County Attorney threatened to bring perjury charges against Mills because he had failed to tell the prosecutor that he had drawn a knife on Schoenrock and had threatened him.

Both Roland and Dillard Mills testified that Schoenrock had drawn a pistol on them on the evening of July 18th and had threatened them in a drunken and disorderly fashion. Other testimony pointed out the fact that Schoenrock was not drunk and did not draw the gun. The pistol which was alleged to have been used was at Schoenrock's home according to several witnesses.

The Mills work for Anita Field of Bronco, who has been filed on for contempt, but has not been served because of her absence. Both men denied the Miss Field instructed them to cause trouble in the community. Vernon Townes stated, 'there seemed to be two factions in Bronco, Anita Field and the rest of the community.' Judge Bandy urged all parties involved to settle their differences out of court.

It was not known at press time if the county attorney will seek a perjury indictment against Mills.

Visitation Rights

When Alice divorced Jim, she was given custody of their three-year-old son. However, Jim had visitation rights every Sunday afternoon. He would call for the boy at 3 p.m., take him out for a few hours, and then return him at dinner time.

But one thing rankled Alice. "It's those between-meal snacks," she complained in a court hearing. "Jim never fails to feed the boy something while they are out. That is bad for his health. Therefore, I would like to have Jim's visitation rights ended."

But the court decided her complaint was not serious enough to justify such drastic action, that the "punishment" was too great for the "crime."

CARL C. WOOD

If more folks are stung by the honey bee than by the wasp, it could well be that it is because the bee has something we want.

Generally speaking, the law prefers—primarily for the sake of the child—to keep parental ties intact. While visitation rights are often modified, they will not be cut off altogether without a compelling reason.

What is a compelling reason? Here are three cases in which the court did decide to bring parental visits to an end:

- 1) an embittered father made a calculated attempt, during these visits, to turn the child's love for his mother into hatred;
- 2) a quarrelsome mother used her visits to create violent scenes that left her small daughter in torment;
- 3) a hard-drinking father not only used vile language to his three young children but also plied them with whiskey.

But minor grievances—such as a mother's complaint that the father's visits "annoyed" her—won't suffice. Furthermore a court that does cut off visitation rights may well restore them later if the offending parent mends his ways.

For example: A court revoked its ban against a mother who, although once an alcoholic, had quit drinking, found a good job, and gained a respected place in the community.

In fact, even if a parent has been barred because of flagrant adultery, visitation rights may be restored when there is enough evidence of reform and repentance.

Thus, an adulterous mother who remarried and led a blameless life for several years was able to regain the right to visit her children. The court said:

"A child's welfare is best served by fostering the virtue of filial piety, even toward a parent who once had erred, but who has long since reformed."

CAYCE'S CORNER

What used to be called a sanctuary for the human male has given way with change and is now a Mecca for the fairer sex.

A fellow could pick up his golf clubs and head for the links without a thought in his mind about the lovely creatures invading his domain. In fact, outside of Canadian and British Pubs, it was about the last preserve left for a fellow to go and not trip over the powder puff parade, but when the Yoakum County Golf Club opens play tomorrow, I will bet the fairer sex will be represented by more dames than N.A.A.C.P. sends in a freedom march.

The men saw the handwriting on the wall a number of years ago, and made room for the good old janes. Even though most men are advocates of segregated courses, they are happy that the women are not leading freedom marches on the courses and joining other hep minority groups demanding equal rights.

Yes boys, lets fact it, the gals are here to stay, and we will just have to accustom ourselves to getting hit with golf balls, and occasional clubs. We may sit on a lighted cigarette at the next hole and burn our bottom off, or we may repair scores of greens (not mentioning our clubs and equipment) but we may be assured that even if we did protest just a little bit it wouldnt do an iota of good, because we are dealing with the age of emancipated women and must ignore the fact that not one woman in a thousand knows a thing about Golf Etiquette.

And another thing boys, we can forget all about that new set of clubs to replace the ones that we battered and broke in learning the game, because mamma and daughter will have to get their clubs first.

Back in the good old days when Pabst won the blue ribbon it was a man's world. But this has been a century of changes. In fact it has been the age of the woman when she announces that she can swing a club as good as a man, then by all means don't aggravate her or arouse her temper, because she will probably swing a pretty hot club in the direction of our head.

Bear up men, it could be ruffer than you think, because when Jane will come to play she will probably bring her mother with her, and brother that will be the day, but men,

The trouble with thinking we are right all the time is finding someone to help us prove it.

Don't worry — if we miss our station in life someone is likely to tell us where to get off.

Sometimes it takes a lot of courage to speak up, and then again it takes a lot of wisdom to shut up.

The man who knows why he is where he is usually knows how to get where he is going.

When two people strike their match it doesn't take too long to start a fire.

A good sign that we are growing up — When we slow down on blowing up.

Storming about the way things are . . . Will seldom get one very far.

That the dove of peace which we sent out . . . Sends back his bill there is little doubt.

To be rated as a deep thinker one should wear dark - rimmed glasses — listen to all manner of twiddle - twattle, and then say nothing.

If about our life good things be said . . . Our heart should be softer than our head.

WASHING TON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Throughout the land is heard the unbelieving and exasperated query of Mama Housewife when the Bureau of Labor Statistics announces that the consumer cost of living has only gone up one-half of a per cent, or some such similar rise.

"How come," they ask, "if the cost of living has only gone up that much that the pot roast I paid 79 cents a pound for three months ago is now 98 cents? How can you get a half per cent jump out of 19 cents more?"

What Mama Housewife does not know is that through a mathematical legerdemain only known to bureaucrats, the so-called consumer index of the cost of living does not actually reflect the true cost of living. Some 200 different items and services are part of this index. Each item is weighted by some process known only to bureaucrats, as obviously the Almighty would have nothing to do with it, and this determines the cost.

Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio recently threw some interesting light on this subject. He points out that between 1958 and 1964, the price of refrigerators in the consumer index increased $237. But after the bureaucrats got through with their weird exercises in arithmetic, the consumer index actually showed that the cost of refrigerators had dropped 11 per cent.

New the reasoning here is quite interesting. Even if the

by Betty Crocker

Planning a summertime frolic for the lively teen-agers? Why not go "a go-go" right in your own backyard! Turn the patio into the dance floor, decorated with leftover bird houses filled with garden flowers — or colorful hi-fi jackets tacked to the side of the house. Use current hit records for spinning the swinging sounds. Then for a feast that's teen-irresistible, serve juicy, Glorified Beefburgers. And, of course, chewy, crunchy Go-Go Fudge Squares for dessert — what else! With potato salad, cherry tomatoes, dill pickles, ice cold pop sandwiched in-between. And you've created a magnificent midsummer night's dream, Mom — teen-age style.

GLORIFIED BEEFBURGERS

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/4 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons horseradish
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients. Shape into 6 large patties. Broil over hot coals about 6 minutes on each side until browned outside and medium inside.

To test the heat, hold your hand palm down over the grill near cooking level. If you can keep it there 3 seconds, the heat is right. Buttered buns can be wrapped in foil and heated alongside sizzling burgers. And to fashion fudge squares, fan-tabulous, here's the secret formula.

GO-GO FUDGE SQUARES

- 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/4 cups Bisquick
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/4 cup soft butter
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 squares (1 1/2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate

Heat oven to 350°. Melt 2 squares chocolate and 1/4 cup butter in saucepan. Mix in granulated sugar, eggs, Bisquick and nuts. Spread in greased square pan, 8x8x2 inches or 9x9x2 inches. Bake 30 to 35 minutes. Do not over-bake. Cool. Blend 1/4 cup butter, the milk, confectioners' sugar and vanilla. Spread over fudge squares. Melt 1 1/2 squares chocolate; spread evenly over top. Chill. Cut into small squares. Makes about 4 dozen. Just watch these fudge squares go, go, go!

FLB System 50 Years Old

Fifty years ago this month, on July 17, 1916, farming in the U. S. 'went into business.' On that day President Woodrow Wilson signed the Farm Loan Act which created the Federal Land Bank System. Through the 12 district Banks of the system, farmers were at last able, by 1917 to borrow capital for production on equal terms with city businessmen.

Today, according to Hal Weatherford, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, the Land Banks play a leading role in the financing of agricultural enterprises of all types—from dairy farms to fruit orchards, cotton farms and cattle ranches.

'Half-century ago, farmers had almost no access to capital for growth,' he said. 'When they could borrow money, they usually had to pay 10% annual interest on it or more. And they had to repay the principal in five years or less. They were regarded as poor credit risks.'

'For them, capital was an oppressive liability—not a production tool. And their production reflected it. There were twice as many farmers then as there are today, yet they produced only half as much.'

Presidents prior to Wilson were aware of the situation. In 1908 President Roosevelt appointed the Country Life Commission which held 30 public hearings into farm problems. The Commission found 'a lack of any adequate system of agricultural credit, whereby a farmer may readily secure loans on fair terms.'

In 1912, President Taft asked the American ambassadors in Europe to report upon rural credit systems of the principal European countries. In that same year, the Republican, Democratic, and Progressive parties all adopted planks in their platforms favoring improved agricultural credit facilities.

More commissions were formed and were sent to Europe to study farm credit operations.

The system which was eventually adopted and which became the basis for the Farm Loan Act of 1916 was the 'Landschaft' of Germany, which had operated successfully since 1769.

The Farm Loan Act authorized 12 district Land Banks, each to serve a geographical region. The Houston Land Bank, established in April, 1917, was formed to serve the State of Texas.

Each Land Bank, in turn, was (and is) made up of farmer-owned local Land Bank Associations. Through these Federal Land Bank Associations the Banks make long-term, low-interest real estate loans to farmers. Upon becoming a borrower the farmer also becomes a stockholder by taking 5% of his loan in FLBA stock.

The farmers thus own the Associations, which own the Land Banks themselves.

While the Federal government was at first financially involved in the Land Banks—it subscribed about $8.8 million of the original $9 million needed in 1917—there is now no 'government money' in the Land Banks, and there hasn't been any since 1947, when the last of the federal subscriptions was repaid to the Treasury, Mr. Weatherford says. All 12 Land Banks went into operation in 1917. Farmers who had been paying as much as 10% per year or more interest for loans stood in line for Land Bank loans at 5% per year. By November 30, 1917, local FLBA throughout the country had made 14,000 loans totaling $29,824,656. A year later, loans reached a total of $147 million.

There are seventy-three Federal Land Bank Associations in Texas. All are solidly solvent and prospering. And while their fundamental purpose is to provide a service to farmers, with profit a secondary consideration, the FLBAs in the Houston district showed a total net worth of almost $50 million at the end of 1965.

Operations of the 12 Land Banks are supervised by the Farm Credit Administration, an independent agency of the Federal government paid for completely by earnings of the banks.

Since 1917, the Federal Land Banks have loaned in excess of $12 billion to farmers. The (district) bank, according to Mr. Weatherford, has loaned more than $1.1 billion. By the end of 1965, the 12 Land Banks had made nearly two million loans.

No farmer has ever lost a dime he has invested in association stock in this district, Mr. Weatherford said. Even during the depression years, when some of the associations' stock became impaired due to financial difficulties, every stockholder ultimately received full payment for his stock.

The Land Banks haven't cost the government, and thus the taxpayer, any money either, he said. For a period during the depression the government advanced money to the Land Banks to help some of its members hold on to their farms. Every cent of that was repaid.

As owners of their FLBAs, farmers have received good returns on their stock.

The investing public which has bought Land Bank bonds over the years had done well, too. All bonds sold by the 12 Land Banks (which consolidate on bond issues) are supported by first mortgages on Agricultural real estate. Land Bank bonds are generally classed as non-risk assets, and fit into a category of investments regarded by many as comparable in quality to Government securities.

These bonds are sold nationally through security dealers and dealer banks. The 12 Land banks, overall, paid out $17.9 million in dividends in 1965, $2 million more than in 1964.

Nationally, the 12 Land Banks had 384,246 loans for $4.3 billion outstanding at the end of 1965. The loan volume was up 15.1% from the previous year.

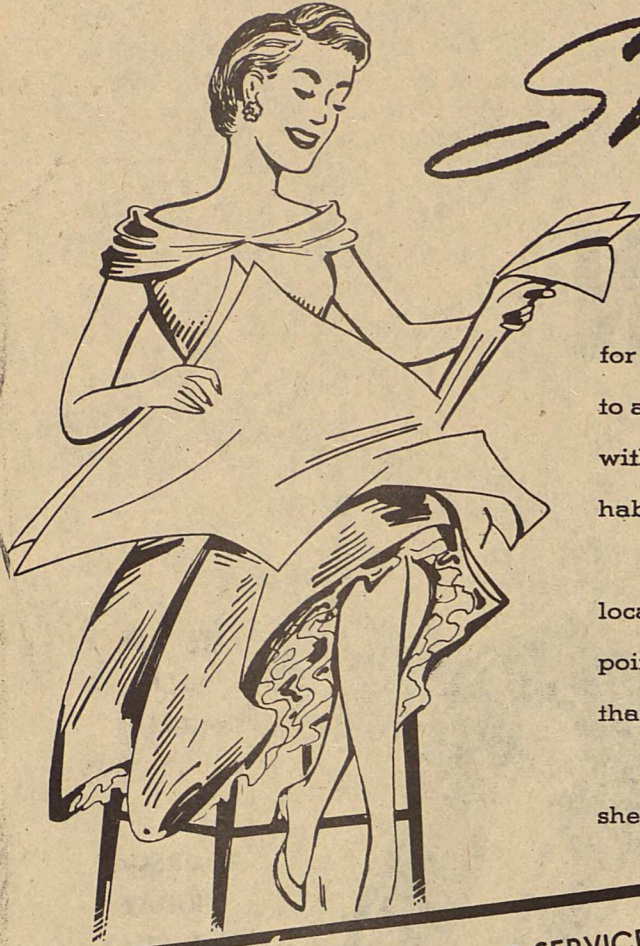

While the 50-year-old Farm Loan Act changed farming from a way of life into a business, its effects upon the American economy and everybody's way of life have been even more profound, Mr. Weatherford believes.

'If the farmer hadn't been able to change his ways, he wouldn't be able to feed his share of a population of 200 million today. A lot of us might not be eating very well. And if he hadn't been willing and able to use capital and technology to keep up with the times, food prices would be a good deal higher.'

'But he has more than kept up. One farmer today produces enough for 33 people. As recently as 20 years ago, he wasn't producing enough for 15.'

'That's a rate of progress few industries can match.'

She reads the Ads

According to the U. S. Bureau of Advertising, ADVERTISING ranks first with women, over all other newspaper content, for interest and readership! Women actually read ads in preference to anything else in the newspaper. (For that matter, ads rank third with men for readership!) And reading the newspaper is a favorite habit with American women.

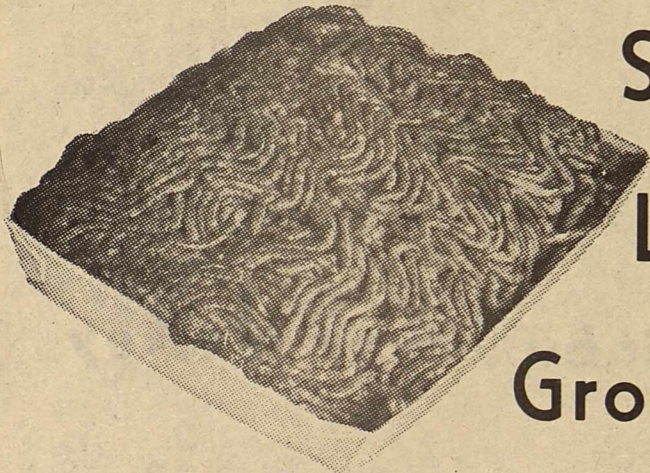

So, if you have a product to sell—display it in an ad in your local newspaper. If it's for the home, write it to the housewife's point of view. For, more than anyone else, she'll read it. And, more than anyone else, she's the one who does the buying for the family!
