Plains Community Meeting Makes Plans for Future

Citizens of Plains area gathered at the District Courtroom in the County Courthouse Tuesday night for the purpose of uniting to build a bigger and better community. The 97 people who attended listened to Cecil Williams urge residents to plan for the future.

Williams said a rumor has been spreading in Plains. The rumor is that we are dying. He denied this categorically and urged the people to leave the

The local minister challenged the audience in asking, "Why are we standing around looking at one another?"

He continued in saying there are three reasons for the recent decline in community progress and business. These reasons are lack of leadership, lack of vision, and lack of action. Williams said if we fail in meeting these three objectives that we will fail as a community.

The speaker charged the community to plan for the future by realizing we are a pioneer and frontier region for industry and processing. Williams said industry is ready to come to our county if we as a community are ready for industry.

Seven things that industry looks for when it locates in a community were given by Williams. These include power, which Plains has; labor, which is available; raw materials, which are in abundance; water supply which is at hand since the bond issue past; transportation which can be stepped up; a consuming market which grows each minute; and last and most important was the attitude of the community itself.

Williams said the success and future growth here will be based upon the coordination of efforts of the entire citizenship. In closing, the Church of Christ minister charged the key to success is for the people to use their own products such as cattle, hogs, and grain sorghums to the fullest extent in the area with cooperation in using the tools which are at hand.

Williams called for suggestions which followed for at least an hour. He denied this categorically and meeting and stop the rumor.

Mrs. Tippett told of how Tsao Mo Ga Club has started a project to help underprivileged people of the area.

The subject of cleaning up our community and making it attractive received unified support. The Plains Dirt Guardians assumed responsibility for the leadership of this project and will start a drive in April to clean up the face of Plains. Support was pledged by the fire department and the L.O.O.F. and dozens of citizens said they would help.

Other suggested that some of the old buildings and houses be razed, and the question of a city ordinance covering condemnation of these buildings was brought up. Some present believed an ordinance covers this, and most people at the meeting applauded when an interested citizen spoke up and said we can pass one if it isn't on the books.

The matter of much tax delinquent property in Plains was discussed and a suggestion was made that the city take these lots and donate them to companies wanting to locate here.

Since Plains lost its physician this week the group at the meeting were overwhelmingly in favor of uniting as a full community to secure the services of another doctor. Clubs were asked to investigate the possibility of re-opening the theater in order to give Plains more entertainment.

The meeting ended with the desire of the majority that a monthly meeting be scheduled. Williams said he would appoint a committee to set the next meeting.

Johnnie Fitzgerald, Bill Loyd, Frank Upton, Gene Bennett, Roy McGehee, Leon Lewis, and Cecil Williams were some of the many citizens that attended the recent town meeting.

Sen. Tower Gives Views on Proposed Draft Laws

We have been reading and hearing a good deal in recent days about the Draft law, the Selective Service system by which we choose the men needed to maintain our nation's defense forces.

There have been suggestions that our Draft law is not as fair as it might be. There has been considerable hue and cry that it is not "equal." It is said to impose too much uncertainty and anxiety upon our youth, their parents, their schools and their employers or prospective employers.

I think there is room for improvement in Draft regulations and procedures. But, I hope Texans will not lose sight of one important thing.

What we must remember is why we have a Selective Service system at all.

An, the reason we have one, is a matter of national defense. We select men today, as we have for years, so that our nation always will have the very best possible defense forces in time of need. It is not the responsibility of the Draft to improve youthful morality, to increase education, to upgrade physical capabilities, or to see that everybody has equal services. On the contrary, it is the responsibility of the Draft to select, in orderly fashion, the best young men available when their country needs them.

In the case of the Draft there never can be equality of risk among all young Americans, because, first, there are more young men today than our military forces need; and second, some of them are not mentally or physically able to do the jobs our defense requires.

Lions Club Plans Annual Award Today

Each year the Plains Lions Club in cooperation with the local soil and water conservation district presents a plaque to the farmer or rancher that has done an outstanding job of soil and water conservation on the farm or ranch he owns or operates. This award is rotated between the five supervisors areas to be

Each year our weapons, vehicles and communications become more complex and more sophisticated, needing more technical operation. Thus, our defense forces today must be ever more carefully selected for mental capacity, maturity and aptitude.

And, because of the recurring, unexpected, unpredictable crises forced on us by aggressive Communism, we must have great flexibility to expand our defense forces on short notice. Much of the uncertainty associated with the Draft is uncertainty caused by the international moves of the Communists.

In addition, today's Draft operates, as it has traditionally, to preserve and to reinforce the American concept of the citizen-soldier who accepts an obligation to serve in the defense of freedom and national security when needed. Americans have long understood that sometimes military service must be borne by a few free men so the freedom of all can be safeguarded.

Hey Kids !!! Easter Bunny Plans Visit For Plains Tiny Tots Soon

Hey Kids! The Easter Bunny is coming to town!

The annual Easter Egg hunt sponsored by the Plains Chamber of Commerce is scheduled to start at 10:00 a.m. on the morning of Saturday, March 20th at Stanford Park in Plains.

Roy McGehee, City Manager and past president of the Plains Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of the hunt. McGehee announced that five prize eggs worth $2.00 in trade each at any store in Plains that belongs to the Chamber of Commerce will be found in the hunt.

The Cub Scouts will assist in hiding the eggs. Cecil Williams is cubmaster in Plains.

The park will be roped off at 10:00 a.m. and no cars will be admitted after that hour until the egg hunt is concluded. McGehee said this is done each year in order to prevent accidents to the youngsters.

The annual Easter Egg hunt has been very successful in recent years and Hoss Newsom, president of the Chamber said the Chamber is happy to afford this opportunity to the small children of the community to participate in the fun which goes with the hunt.

McGehee was in charge of the hunt two years ago and he said he would name his committee this week to assist in plans for the Easter Bunny to come to Plains.

Wins Bronze Star...

Dean Light Decorated for Viet Nam Bravery

Captain Dean Light, USAF, and a Plains High graduate, received the Airman's Medal for heroism involving voluntary risk of life and the Bronze Star for meritorious service while serving at Da Nang Air Base in Viet Nam.

Capt. Light, explosives safety officer with the 35th Tactical Fighter Wing at Da Nang, received the Airman's Medal for heroism shown when he, and other explosives disposal personnel at great personal risk located and rendered safe unexploded ammunition in a Marine Corps F-8 aircraft which crashed near Da Nang last Aug. 17. His action prevented additional loss of life and property damage, according to the citation.

The Bronze Star was given for consistently demonstrated professional ability, sound judgment and great enthusiasm in overcoming the many problems associated with his duties while exposed to danger from hostile forces during the period from October 4, 1965 to September 19, 1966.

Capt. Light, who is now stationed at Ent AFB, Colorado Springs, Colo., was commissioned in 1955 through the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps program at Texas Tech. He is a graduate of Tech. Capt. Light is scheduled to receive a promotion to major Saturday.

The captain's wife, also a tech graduate, Mrs. Elsie Light is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Carpenter of Plains.

Yoakum County Clinic Closes

The Yoakum County Clinic closed this week and Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Reynolds moved to Ruidosa, New Mexico, where he will practice medicine. The local M. D. had been in Plains under a lease with the county for the clinic since January of 1966.

Dr. Reynolds announced that the Clinic would close this week and that he did not intend to re-new the lease since he has made arrangements to practice in Ruidosa. The Plains M. D. said that he owns his home in Ruidosa and that hospital facilities are available in the mountain town and that these are the primary reasons for his leaving Plains.

The local physician extended his appreciation to the many people who were helpful to him while in Plains. Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds are members of the Methodist Church, and he was a member of the Plains Lions Club. The M. D. had practiced medicine for over 25 years in DeLeon prior to coming here. Dr. Reynolds is a member of the local American Legion Post and served in World War Two in the Army.

He is a graduate of S.M.U. and of Baylor University Medical School.

Mrs. Reynolds, who is a lab technician and a nurse has assisted the physician in the clinic.

The physician and his wife extended an invitation to their friends and neighbors to stop in to say hello when they are in Ruidosa.

Coaches New Term

The Plains Independent School Board voted to extend two more contracts last week. Coach Rip Sewell was re-elected to serve as head football coach, and to serve in the same capacity as he has for the past year.

Coach John Richey was re-elected to head basketball coach and to serve in the same capacities as were outlined in his duties for this school term.

Mrs. Shirley Gross was re-elected in the first meeting of last week, but her name was inadvertently omitted in last week's paper. Mrs. Gross teaches physical education and is the volleyball coach. She was named Plains outstanding citizen in 1966.

Mrs. T.J. Miller was also employed as an elementary teacher in the first meeting last week and will probably teach the fifth grade.

Set Pickle Meet Here

A meeting has been set for 2 p.m. today at the D.C. Newsom Gin for all farmers who have signed contracts for cucumbers with Morton Food Company. Nelson Parkhill, Morton representative will be at the meeting to advise the cucumber growers the details of the program.

Those people who have signed the contracts are urged to be present at the meeting.

Over 600 acres of cucumbers have been allotted by Morton Food Company to Yoakum County farmers. Chamber of Commerce officials estimate that this will boost the economy by over $100,000.00 this year.

Doyle Newsom issued the release to the paper calling for the meeting this afternoon. Newsoms will act as receiving agent for this company again this year.

Yoakum County Sends 26 to South Plains Meet

By Leo White
Twenty-six people from Yoakum County attended the kick-off meeting of the South Plains Development Program held in Brownfield on Wednesday of last week. The meeting was called to explain this economic program to the representatives of Dawson, Terry, Yoakum and Gaines Counties. There are nineteen counties in this South Plains Area who are cooperating in this program as a means of improving the income of the area.

The SPD program was started by representatives of the County Program Building Committees from these 19 Counties when they first met in the fall of 1965. Mr. John Seibert, Area Farm Management Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service was appointed coordinator of the program. Mr. Seibert made a survey of the counties involved and the meeting last week at Brownfield was held for the purpose of hearing a report of his findings.

Mr. Seibert reported the agricultural income from the area and showed that there was a possibility in increasing the annual income from agriculture by $138,000,000. If this figure is anywhere near correct, some three or four million dollars of this increase should come from Yoakum County. Some of the methods cited were: Producing better quality cotton, increased efficiency in the use of irrigation water, feeding the locally grown feed to livestock, decreasing production costs through the use of chemicals and many other things including improved management practices.

The real meat of the SPD Program will hinge upon the work of small groups or committees who work on a community basis to improve the income and living conditions within their own local community. The meeting held in Plains on Tuesday night of this week is a sample of how these local groups work. They determine the needs of the community and select action committees who have the support of the entire organization. Their work as an action committee is sanctioned by the local group, the County Program Building committee and the South Plains Development group.

There is no end to the number of local groups which could be organized. Anything which would be considered improvement would come under this program. It might be a clean-up campaign or a beautification project. It might be a group working on industrial development, income growth, health, recreation, air pollution or any other thing that the people determine to be a need.

The South Plains Development Program is an improvement program that we will be hearing a great deal about for the next several years. The part that Yoakum County plays in this program will depend on the people in Yoakum County. When the people in Plains and Denver City become enthused to the point that they want to give of their time and their talents in order to improve their towns and communities then some results will become apparent. Some projects will be worked on a community basis. When all the people work together for the common good of all, then the desired results will come about much faster.

Complexity, challenge, progress, work, these four words are descriptive of the 60th Session of the Texas Legislature as members undertake the sometimes insurmountable solutions to the numerous and sundry problems of the State of Texas.

Issues range from such controversial measures as liquor by the drink and pari-mutuel wagering to the garnishment of wages and legislative redistricting. As your State Representative in Austin, I know your vitally concerned and affected by the many far-reaching measures which must be dealt with by your elected officials. Now that the Yoakum County Legislative Community Council has been organized and oriented on some of our more complex issues, we are all more cognizant of the need for citizen participation in our state government. The views you express by telephone, telegram, letter, and personal conversation are invaluable to the decisions which must be made in the challenging days ahead.

Through this column, I shall attempt to present to you a few of the many issues which will inevitably affect our role as citizens.

Legislative redistricting, an issue which expected to draw only minor attention, has forged to the front as a major problem of the State Legislature. The difficult situation came about through the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court which invalidated the Legislative redistricting measure passed by the Legislature two years ago. Redistricting was forced on the State Legislature at that time as a result of the one-man-one-vote principle laid down by the Court. We realized that minor changes, specifically those involving elimination of the 11 floristal districts, might be held invalid. However, as a result of the Supreme Court recent action, a minor task has now become a major task of Texas legislators.

Proposals before the Constitutional Amendments Committee, of which I am a member, include debate on such controversial issues as revision of the State Constitution, annual sessions of the legislature, repealing the section of John 10: 22 - 26 And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication, and it was winter. And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly. Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not, the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. But ye believe not, because ye are not my sheep, as I said unto you.

Don't use a quality belt knife for throwing, or in place of another tool such as a screwdriver. Don't put it into the sheath wet or bloody. At home, store it out of the sheath. Don't oversharpen.

The skunk's defensive system protects him from just about every other wild creature except the great horned owl—who apparently has no olfactory sense and couldn't care less if his dinner has the worst smell on earth.

Most of the best springtime bass coves have two common characteristics: (1) they are shallow coves with nearby drop-offs to deep water; and (2) they are coves that contain protective underwater cover, such as weed beds, brush or boulders.

The first mistake hunters unfamiliar with caribou make is to try to catch up with moving animals. Caribou characteristically feed on the move—a mouthful here, and another there, as they walk. But a feeding caribou, moving seemingly at a snail's pace, will travel faster than a man can walk.

Handle sandworms and bloodworms with care. Both have tiny retractable "jaws" with which they can inflict a painful bite on a fisherman's finger.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

A far greater menace to American industry and business than foreign imports or local gangsters is a disease called industrial sabotage.

The Wall St. Journal recently reported that sabotage is "a far bigger and more costly problem than many companies will admit. One manufacturer was unable to sell more than 25,000 refrigerators last June, largely because of acts of sabotage . . . grease and oil rubbed on cases, sand or sugar and other foreign substances dumped into . . . paint systems. . . have caused literally thousands of refrigerator cases to be rejected."

A short time ago, industrial spying—of one company upon the secrets of another—was thought to be the greatest hazard since the old threat of enemy sabotage in wartime. Today, security vigilance is mainly to prevent the damage caused by trusted employees.

The Journal reveals: "An employee angry at his foreman may leave a little sand in a delivery truck gas tank, a piece of metal to jam machinery, a faulty assembly job to insure a reject or a complaint."

An astounding 600 cases of sabotage were uncovered by an corporation within a 6-week period, probably set off by a new order for increased employee workloads.

Printing plants have had to enforce no-smoking rules for safety, and have been paid back.

Although automation has been proven to increase, not decrease jobs, it appears that the more complex, and efficient machinery becomes, the more it is resented by some workers. And the more expensive it is to repair or replace when damaged. Perhaps enforcement of existing laws, or new laws is in order to curb this wanton destruction of property, and in some cases, lives.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

In the Name of Charity

To help a worthy cause, you buy a $5 ticket to a theater party. May you deduct the $5 on your next income tax return as a charitable contribution?

No, because your payment was not all charity. You received something of value in return: the show itself. If the regular price of tickets is $3, you may deduct only the other $2—the part that was truly a gift.

This rule has wide application, not only in such frivolous areas as theater parties, charity balls, lotteries, and athletic events but also in such basic areas as health and education.

For example: A man claimed a deduction for money paid to a non-profit retirement home—in return for lifetime care.

A woman claimed a deduction for money paid to a religious society—in return for perpetual upkeep of her burial plot.

A family claimed a deduction for money paid to a church—in return for their son's education.

But in each case, the deduction was not allowed. For in each case, the payment was held not true charity but simply a purchase of services—like any other family expense.

The mere fact that your payment is in the form of a check made out to a charitable organization does not change it into charity if it really isn't.

And, by the same token, a true gift may be deductible even if it is not in the form of money at all. Thus, contributions of food or books to a qualified charitable organization are deductible.

What about services that you render? No doubt, in the scales of virtue, donating your services weighs as much as donating your money or your merchandise.

Nonetheless, services are held not a deductible contribution, perhaps because of the formidable problems of fixing their value. Imagine the difficulties of putting a price tag on the services of Mom to a Girl Scout troop or of Dad to the Community Chest.

On the other hand, if your services require out-of-pocket expenses for which you are not reimbursed, they are generally deductible.

For instance, the costs of driving to a volunteer job at a hospital, or of buying uniforms not otherwise useful, may be deducted. For, in a true sense, you are "giving" this amount to charity.

CAYCE'S CORNER

The town meeting which was held Tuesday night was something which has been needed in Plains ever since I have been here. A real attitude of cooperation and willingness to help our neighbors existed. The critics can yell all they want, but if they would have been there I believe even they would have agreed that the community association was enjoyable.

Our grandfathers settled many problems with the use of the town meeting. If you were not among the 97 people who attended we urge you to attend the next meeting before drawing an opinion of it.

Cecil Williams gave an inspiring charge to our community and aroused much interest at the meeting. The tip of the hat in the corner goes to Cecil for his fine work and to those 97 people who are interested in building our community into something more than it is.

Harmon Meixner did a great deal of research on a possible name for the community committee and we believe he came up with one of merit.

Starting with the term Optimist Meixner derived hope and Pollyanna.

Optimist—looks on the bright side, sunny and golden.

'One who makes the best of it when he gets the worst of it.'

'One who makes the most fall that comes and the least fall that goes,' Sara Teasdale.

Pollyanna means a girl of irrepressible optimism who finds good in everything.

Other words found in the study were: Aspirant; Anticipate; Contemplation; Sangrivo; Contrive; Hatch-up; Agog; Alacrity; Exalt; Vivacious; Inspiring; Confident; Auspicious; Public Spirit.

The final conclusion was: Enterpriser—(Venture)

- 1. An undertaking; a project
- 2. A bold, hard, or dangerous undertaking.
- 3. Willingness to venture on such undertaking; readiness to take risks or try something untried; energy and initiative.
- 4. The carrying on of projects; participation in undertakings.

So, while there are some technical tinkering we can undertake to improve the draft, we must constantly keep in mind this fact: the Selective Service system has passed the most important test of all, the test of battle. The Selective Service system has provided our nation today in Vietnam the very best soldiers this world has ever known.

I believe we can improve our deferment provisions as the President has suggested, maintaining undergraduate college deferments but ending graduate deferments, with those deferred liable for Draft vulnerability later upon their graduation.

And I tend to support the Presidents call for primary Draft vulnerability at ages 19 and 20, rather than through out the period from 19 to 26, with fewer years of prime vulnerability, our young men will be better able to plan for the future, much of their current uncertainty will be alleviated.

There has been a lot of talk too, about some sort of lottery selection system, I think much of this so-called dispute is semantic. It would not make sense to substitute total chance for rational selection of these key defense personnel. But, I don't think anybody really envisions that kind of national lottery.

Pineapple Glamor For Ham Loaf

Canned pineapple inside and out makes a flavorful and fancy ham loaf for spring parties. Crushed pineapple combines with three ground meats — ham, pork and sausage — to make an attractive round loaf. From another can of pineapple, use syrup for glazing and handsome slices for garnishing. Should there be any left over, this moist pineapple meat loaf is wonderful cold for sandwiches.

PARTY PINEAPPLE 'N' HAM LOAF

- 1 pound ground raw ham
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 1/2 pound ground pork steak
- 1 1/2 teaspoons dill weed
- 1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
- 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup milk
- Pineapple Glaze
- 1 (8 1/2-ounce) can crushed pineapple

Have butcher grind meat. Mix meats with beaten eggs, milk, undrained pineapple, onion, seasonings and crumbs. Blend thoroughly. Shape into 8-inch round loaf on lightly greased shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Brush with Pineapple Glaze. Continue baking another 15 minutes brushing on glaze every 5 minutes. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

PINEAPPLE GLAZE: Drain syrup from 1 (8 1/2-ounce) can pineapple slices. Combine with 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed), 2 teaspoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon catsup and 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard. Use for glazing ham loaf. Arrange pineapple slices on loaf 5 minutes before taking from oven, securing with picks. Garnish with maraschino cherries.

Junior Colleges To Take Larger Role In Education

(Levelland) Junior Colleges are a revelation in higher education. They are the hope of the future in higher education, said Dr. Jack Williams, member of the Commission of state-supported High Education in Texas, at the recent Texas Junior College Teachers Association convention in Dallas.

South Plains College has revealed to its district the importance of its role. Benefits to the community, both culturally and economically could never be estimated. The youth in areas around the institution are most fortunate in that they are privileged to receive a two-year education at a minimum cost.

Dr. Marvin Baker, South Plains College president, is one of four members of the State Coordinating Board's Committee to study the service areas of the existing Junior Colleges of the State of Texas.

Much forethought and vision are necessary in any achievement and certainly an education institution such as South Plains College which is supported on the local, state and National level, requires more planning than other enterprises.

It has long been the thinking of members of South Plains College Board of Regents and Dr. Baker to serve to the utmost the people in areas surrounding the immediate college district.

Dr. Baker feels a keen obligation to all people within the reach of the college, and when thinking in terms of just how far South Plains College can reach out, it was his idea to bring other counties into the district, establish education centers in each of the county seats of the counties coming into the district, and promote and encourage an aggressive comprehensive adult education cultural guidance program. The plan has gone to the extent that architectural drawings have been made for modern buildings in each of the county seats in the potential district with facilities necessary to carry out the program to meet et the needs of those in the areas surrounding the college. According to Dr. Baker, this is the first step from a state point of view toward district expansion.

This plan was presented some three months ago to the Board of Regents and without exception each member gave his wholehearted support to the plan.

Plans are for the centers to have two full-time educators, a counselor-guidance director, and a director for an adult educational program. The counselor would be available at all times for consultation with high school students or adults. Many young adults with only a little encouragement and the proper guidance, would join the ranks of college students and begin or continue their education. It would prove an advantage to have a place of consultation nearby.

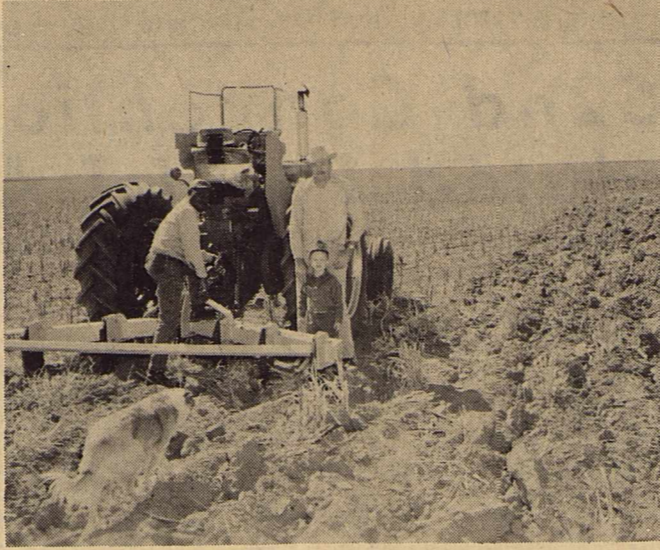

The community college has four purposes: to serve through academic, technical, vocational, and adult education programs.

Through a stepped-up program such as the one planned, some six or more counties could be included in the college district with branches reaching out in every direction from the central location.

This idea which originated with the South Plains College administrator, has met with approval by many educators over the nation. It is expected that other states and areas might pick up the plan and follow the example set by the SPC District, if, and when it becomes a reality.

This exciting movement in Junior College Education is at this time incomplete, but, as Directors of Information at South Plains College, will keep the constituents informed as to the progress. This report will be followed by others in the future.

Claude Addison, his son Timmy and Willie Wilson are shown in a field on the Addison farm where grain sorghum residue and chisel plowing are used to control wind erosion and prepare land for new crop.

Tom Warren used chisel plow to ruff the surface soil and leave all residue on the surface for protection against wind erosion.

Appointed To Five Committees

House Speaker Ben Barnes has named State Representative Jesse T. George, Yoakum County's legislator, to five house committees for the 60th Session. George will serve on the Constitutional Amendments Committee, considered one of the more important and powerful of the 44 House standing committees. A strong advocate of educational improvements in Texas, George was named Vice-Chairman of the School Districts Committee and was re-appointed to the important Education Committee. He will view measures calling for certain exemptions to Vietnam veterans, sick leave policy for all Texas teachers in the public free schools, an act to increase the supply of qualified teachers in the public schools, and supplemental retirement benefits to teachers who retired under the system prior to this time.

In making the appointments to Representative George, Speaker Barnes commented, "This representative is well-qualified to meet the challenges and problems facing our State in these areas."

also serve on the Motor Traffic and Agriculture Committees, having been re-appointed to the latter.

Included among the already 25 proposals referred to the Constitutional Amendments Committee are measures to ratify an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which provides for succession to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency and to cases where the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office. George stated that Ratification by 38 of the State Legislatures is necessary on this joint resolution of the Congress.

Other important and highly publicized issues to be considered by the Constitutional Amendments Committee include a proposal to provide a method for submitting and adopting a revision of all or part of the complex and complicated Constitution of the State of Texas. The proposal to lower the minimum age required for voting in Texas to 18 years is also among those measures to be considered by the committee.

Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated two accidents on rural highways in Yoakum Co. during the month of February, according to Sergeant A.E. Roberts, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one death, two persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $1,350.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first two months of 1967 shows a total of 6 accidents resulting in one person killed, 3 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $2,650.

Only one month remains for approximately 2,000,000 vehicles registered in Texas to secure the 1967 Safety Inspection Sticker. The period set by law for securing the 1967 sticker ends at midnight, April 15, 1967, and there can be no extension of that deadline. The Sergeant stated, "Any motorist whose vehicle bearing Texas license plates that does not display the 1967 inspection sticker after April 15 is subject to arrest by any Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff, City Policeman or any officer of the Department of Public Safety and upon conviction will be subject to a fine not to exceed $200."

Support Builds To Give Teachers Greater Voice In Making School Policy

EDUCATION NEWS SERVICE

AUSTIN — Should classroom teachers be given greater roles in developing school policies?

This question once sparked spirited debate among educators. Traditionally, school policies have been the almost exclusive domain of the school board and the superintendent.

But the debate is dwindling as more and more education groups, as well as lay citizens, conclude that teachers should be actively consulted in formulating policies which directly or indirectly affect classroom teaching.

How the consulting of teachers is accomplished is a process known as professional negotiations—or, in more accurate terms, as professional consultation.

Two Texas cities have professional consultation agreements with their classroom teachers' professional associations. They are El Paso and Fort Worth.

In both cities the persons directly involved say the agreements have paid off handsomely in the form of improved instructional programs. Morale has soared.

But they are quick to point out that the agreements have not created a labor-management bargaining situation. There is no union involved. The final decision-making power remains in the hands of the elected school boards and professionalism, rather than unionism, is stimulated.

Recently the executive board of the influential American Association of School Administrators endorsed professional consultation agreements. AASA is considered a progressive, though basically conservative organization.

Closer to home, the Texas State Teachers Association is asking the Texas Legislature to remove any lingering doubts as to the absolute legality of the professional consultation agreements.

TSTA does not want a law requiring mandatory professional consultation. It wants a law telling school districts that they may enter in agreements with teachers voluntarily and may do so within the clear framework of the state statutes.

The argument favoring professional consultation emphasizes that the classroom teacher, more than any other person within the school, is the professional on whom the schools pin their hopes for quality education.

"If you don't have it in the classroom," says Loyd L. Turner, president of the Fort Worth Board of Education, "then let's face it, you just don't have it."

Therefore, say supporters of the idea, the situation in which a teacher teaches should be developed with the teacher taking part in the planning and policy making.

The physician's ideas are sought, for example, in the design of medical facilities. But the classroom teacher is rarely consulted in planning new school buildings.

Teachers in most school districts also have no voice in formulating policies about instructional materials or about subject matter content. They also desire a voice in developing salary policies, although salaries are only a fraction in the total scope of interest that professional consultation encompasses.

Teachers and school administrators agree that professional consultation agreements can be drawn up only when there is good feeling among teachers, administrators and superintendent.

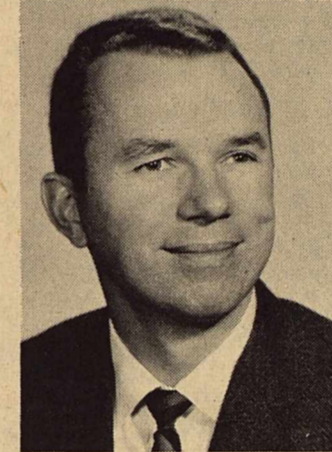

It might seem, backers of the idea explain, that when there is good feeling there is no reason for making written agreements. Bad feeling and disharmony among the school groups, most educators agree, occur when there is a breakdown in communication.

The written agreements assure open lines of communication without sacrificing the final authority of the school board.

Once written agreements are concluded the teachers, through small committees chosen by the teachers as a whole, are asked to "consult" with the superintendent in formulating a particular policy needing action.

A typical matter of consultation might be drawing up next year's school calendar, or a policy on student grades.

In the rare event of serious disagreement arising from this consultation the written professional consultation pacts usually provide that a joint committee of teachers, administrators and school board members will work together in an effort to reach agreement. The school board then makes the final decision.
