Plains Talk
By Harry W. Cayce

This week some of the information in Plains Talk was taken from a story in Real West written by Eva Tubb, and part was taken from Dick McGinty concerning the late Marion McGinty who was born in Texas in 1871 and died in Plains in 1961.

Marion could be called a real wild west cowboy in every respect of the word. He rode on cattle drives in 1886 through Indian Territory and worked on some of the famous ranches of the day.

As a lad of six years old, Marion and his mother were riding horse back home with their supplies bought at Goliad, Texas in 1877 and the little fellow got his first taste of what a bronc could do. The old horse went wild and young Marion had the ride of his life but mastered the beast while his mother watched yelling ride him boy!

In 1897 Marion went to Semour to a cowboy reunion and was badgered into entering the contest for the state championship bronc riding contest. He rode the bronc until it stood dead in its tracks, and swung one leg over the saddle and reached for a bottle of beer.

Some of Marion's favorite story's of happenings in Plains included the incident at the old Air Dome, which was a community center of sorts and silent movies were shown in the thing along with theatre productions. The seats consisted of buzzard roosts like are used at the rodeo grounds today.

People still carried guns in Yoakum County until about the time of the World War. In fact before Plains had a jailhouse the old windmill which was on the square served as the local pokey.

Mr. McGinty was 90 years old when he died in 1961, and rode bareback shortly before he died, at the complete dismay of his wife Addie and the boys.

Both Marion and Addie McGinty are gone now. Both worked hard to build the South Plains into what it is today.

Sen. Tower Urges Victory In Viet Nam

By Senator John Tower

As 1968 approaches we are being besieged by rhetoric—some logical, most not—sedged to persuade this nation of the futility of winning the war in Vietnam.

But, there are good reasons why we must persevere and achieve victory. First: There are selfish reasons why we must win.

A rebuke for the communist conviction that wars of insurgency are, indeed, the wave of the future could buy 30 of peace for ourselves and our friends in Asia.

The U. S. pledge to honor its military obligations in defense of our beliefs, wherever we may have such commitments, will not long claim respect if we discard it when confronted by a difficult test.

The most severe critics of the war have failed to explain why a pacific, innocent Vietnamese people should be abandoned to the atrocity and terror of a communist regime that is determined to impose its ideology upon them.

The entire Free World ascribes to the conviction that the United States as the Free World's leader has a moral obligation to provide leadership and assistance throughout the world.

inst the enemy in Vietnam, then victory is within sight. Not the 'unconditional surrender' military victory which Americans came to expect after World War II, but the kind of military-political victory we obtained in Korea where an exhausted enemy finally decided that he could no longer afford to impose his will where he was not wanted.

The facts are that if we will quit pulling our punches against the enemy in Vietnam is reaching Cont. on Page 4

Special House Election Called Rep. George Makes Plans

Doyle Newsom, Plains Chamber President, and Nelson Parkhill, Morton Food Executive

Morton Food Brings $ Circulation Here Youth Center

Morton Food Company has shipped 3,647,340 pounds of cucumbers to the processing plant from the 900 acres of local pickle patches at press time, announced Nelson Parkhill, representative for the company.

Deposits from local merchants increased during the stay of the harvest hands in the Plains area. Service stations also reported an increase in business.

Chamber of Commerce officials were optimistic when they stated in reviewing the overall picture, the community benefited greatly from the pickle crop this year.

Mrs. Wallace Randolph, director of the Plains Youth Center, announced that passes will go on sale Friday, September 1st, for the 1967-68 year.

The Plains Youth center is located in the old courthouse, and will be open each Friday and Saturday nights for all students from 13 to 21 years old.

For more information Mrs. Randolph can be reached by phone at 456-8325. Cont. on Page 5

Representative Jesse T. George, who has represented District 75 in the Texas Legislature since 1964, has submitted his resignation to Governor Connally effective as of September 5th.

George is resigning to become the Congressional Liaison Officer for the Small Business Administration in Washington D. C.

George was listed in Who's Who in Colleges and Universities, Who's Who in American Politics and was named as one of the outstanding young men in America in 1966.

House Speaker Ben Barnes praised George for his services in Austin, saying, 'He has done an excellent job for the people of his district and I feel sure that Rep. George will continue to be successful in his new position.'

George was also praised by the Lt. Governor as a fine young legislator.

He is a graduate of Brownfield High School and was Valedictorian of his 1959 Senior Class. George graduated from Sul Ross State College in 1963 with the highest scholastic rank in his class.

Chamber officials said they would welcome Morton Food, which is a branch of General Mills, back into the community next summer.

It was felt by many local business men that Morton Food's coming to Plains not only boosted local sales of merchandise, but came at a time when business is not quite as good during this part of the year.

Mr. Parkhill expressed his appreciation to the good people of Yoakum County for doing business with Morton Food Company.

Cotton Talks Open Session

By W. M. Overton
ASCS Office Manager

A number of Yoakum County cotton farmers and others interested in cotton attended the U. S. Department of Agriculture cotton hearing in Lubbock on Monday, August 28th.

Among those attending this cotton meeting from Yoakum County were: Carl Lowrey, Ira Tidwell, Amos Smith, T. A. Elmore and wife, R. M. Jones, R. G. Hartman, Bill Overton, David Stowe, and Gayle Craft and others.

According to Bill Overton, local ASCS office manager it is expected that the cotton program will be announced near the end of September, after the series of meetings have ended, the secretary has had time to review the statements and recommendations made at these meetings which was recorded and more information will be available on the cotton production and cotton on hand.

The Agricultural officials discussed the cotton supply situation, the cotton program law now on the books and the latitude given the secretary under this law in regard to the reduction to be requested from the 16.2 million national acreage allotment and the payments to be made to farmers for diverting the requested amount of acres.

The Cotton program had not already been decided upon the program was open to the public for any statements, recommendations or questions. A number of persons interested in cotton from over the south plains did make statements and recommendations. Generally speaking, persons making recommendations at this meeting advocated leaving the program as it is and lifting the penalties or changing the method of measuring skip-row planting patterns to get the increased production needed or thought to be needed for the 1968 year.

Tokio Co-op News

F. D. Spencer announced this week that the Tokio Gin is now the Terry County Farmers Co-op Gin. The gin became a co-operative August 16, and Spencer was retained as manager of the gin.

Spencer was the previous owner of the Tokio Gin, which is located one mile north of Tokio.

Spencer says the gin has 100 cotton trailers for the use of the farmers, at no extra charge. Arrangements can be made for hauling to and from the fields.

The gin is being readied to receive picker cotton, and they are in the process of converting these needs. Spencer invites the public to visit the gin and see what all is going on.

U.S. Rep. Poage Warns Farmers

Representative W. R. Poage (D.) of Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said on August 15 that the current cost-price squeeze in agriculture is having 'distressing effects.'

Poage spoke out after returning from a 1600 mile, 11 state Northeastern bus tour made by his Committee.

'Everything the farmer must buy to make his crops and produce his livestock is going up and up and up, while farmers' prices in the marketplace are far below what they were 20 years ago,' he said.

'This is a national problem. I hope the people in the cities will assist our rural people in developing solutions within our free enterprise system.'

The Committee chairman said his group's Northeastern trip was the 'first of a series of such trips we plan to make into various agricultural areas of the nation.'

'We found in the areas we visited that farmers are desperately in need of labor,' he said.

'There is a labor shortage on farms in the Northeastern states, but the farmers are so hard pressed they are not able to pay wages that will attract workers off the relief rolls in the cities.'

'The total return to farmers simply is not large enough to provide enough income to pay wages for agricultural labor to attract workers from the cities where they can draw relief checks and do no work at all.'

'This is forcing farmers to adopt every possible mechanization to get their crops planted, cultivated, and harvested. The machinery is very costly, and is beyond the means of the smaller and medium-size farmers. They are going out of business. The larger farmers, with credit resources, and the small family groups who work for far less than a living wage, are the only ones able to survive.'

Poage said the touring Congressmen found 'distress especially in the dairy and poultry industries.'

'Lack of labor is crucial in dairying and some areas of fruit and vegetable production. We heard complaints that people simply will not work at these jobs as long as they can live on relief without working in the cities,' he said.

Mothers all over town are displaying a smile that is reminiscent of the old peevish advertisement because little Penelope and junior are back in school... just drop by the Longbranch during coffee time and see for yourself. If only the fathers could get a boost in morale it would indeed be a time to celebrate. But alas... poor old pop is thinking of how he will earn enough dough to pay for the back to school clothes and the school supplies. Cheer up pop... it should be enough to see mom smile like she has inherited a million bucks. The ladies who aren't exuberant must surely be the teachers who have a hard row to hoe this year, and who will have their nerves strained to the limit by our little dears.

If anybody wants to know how to cull watermelons just ask Bob Blundell, because we hear he had quite a lesson after taking a truck load to market down Abilene way. Be discreet though or you just might end up with a fat lip for breaching a subject which to Bob is probably undiscussable. The big rattler snake which was found coiled and poised at the telephone office this week got the intended results. But I will add that the results were not funny. There is no humor involved in scaring a person with a snake. The reptile was dead, but rattlers are not a toy to be used as a prank. They are dangerous, and at this time of year they become savage and strike without warning. We are sure that the pranksters who planted the big serpent at the telephone office did not mean any harm, but we trust that they will think before repeating the act, because nothing is more frightening than to almost step on a dangerous rattler. Fortunately, nobody who came in contact with the snake had a weak heart or high blood pressure, because if this would have been the case, it could have been a serious situation. We are not without humor at the Record, and certainly find nothing wrong with simple antics designed to get a laugh, but snakes are out of the question as a means of getting a laugh. Some people are terrified at the sight of any kind of a snake and are just as quick to become in a state of terror at the sight of a garden snake as they would a conference on crime in Morton in 1966 and it was the first local conference held in the state.

During the 59th Legislature George was co-author of the bills increasing load limit for cotton trailers, setting up the first student loan program for college students and pay raises for public school teachers. He authored a measure creating the Terry County Memorial Hospital District. He was also assistant floor leader for junior college legislation and was a member of an interim study committee called Language Disorders in Children.

During the 60th session, George was author of revisions of the Uniform Commercial Code. He was also co-author of Western Television Network Legislation. He served as vice chairman of the school district commission in the 60th legislature and was on these committees: Education, Agriculture, Motor Traffic and Constitutional Amendments.

George expressed sincere appreciation to the people of his district for their outstanding cooperation and support during his tenure as State Representative of the 70th District.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
With interest I have been reading your 'Letters to the Editor' column for the past two weeks and I resent the fact that someone (who wouldn't even sign his name to his letter) had the nerve to accuse our schools and churches of being controlled by Communists.

He states: 'Its common knowledge that our Government, Press, TV, Movies and lots of our schools and churches are knowingly or innocently being controlled by the Communists.'
If this is common knowledge then I've been out in left field, I didn't know it! I should though, for its those same schools and Churches that I will take my children to. To me the church and school is the very backbone of our existence, and I cannot believe that they are communistically controlled here in Plains, Texas, U. S. A.

Roy A. Edwards.

Dear Editor:
I wasn't the least bit surprised to read the thoughts of 'Wishful Thinker' in last week's Letters to the Editor. He's like 98% of all Americans today, worrying about his house catching fire when actually his whole country and everything our forefathers fought and worked for is liable to be destroyed all any time. He's like the jew going to Europe on a steamer, when told the boat was sinking said, 'Let it sink, what do I care? It's not my boat.'

There's so much a person can do besides vote. On the radio, for instance the program 'Lifeline' is very good and for $5.00 you can subscribe for a year to their Americanism publications. American Opinion is a very good organization to get material from and there are others. Find out, join and work for the organization that the Communists are fighting hardest. It's really not hard to find. They're doing such a good job that lots of our good people are innocently against and fighting these worthy organizations.

Problems in Jelly Making

By Sudie M. Thompson
County Home Demonstration Agent.

Many questions are being asked about the making of preserves and jellies.

For preserves, select fruit at the firm ripe stage. If the fruit is to be left whole, it should be of uniform size and good shape.

The method used for making preserves differs somewhat with different fruits.

High-quality in jelled fruit products depends on so many complex factors that it is seldom possible to give just one answer to questions about

Card of Thanks

In some small and inadequate way, we would like to say thank you to the people of Plains. Our deepest appreciation goes to those of you who helped to get Wayne to the hospital in the fastest manner possible, to those who have been so helpful in taking care of our children and also to those who have brought in food and have been so thoughtful to come and visit or to call and express your concern. May each of you accept our deepest thanks and know that if the need ever arises, we hope that we may repay all of you with the same kind deeds. May God's richest blessings be bestowed upon each of you.

Sincerely,
Wayne & Claudine

Plant the Seed

where you expect to Reap

IT'S what you might call a commonly recognized agricultural principle that if you want to do your harvesting on a particular piece of ground, that's the place to sow your seed.

Using the same general type of reasoning, it is obvious that if you want to harvest a nice crop of prosperity . . . in the form of better business, a better job, a better community in which to live . . . it's advisable to plant your trade dollars where they will produce growth for you, rather than for somebody else.

The homes we live in . . . the jobs and businesses which support us . . . the schools and churches that teach our children and enrich our lives . . . the convenient stores and service establishments that supply our everyday and emergency needs . . . none of these were built, nor are they supported by the dollars that are spent in some other community or city.

DEAR CUSTOMER:

The number on our checks (shown above) is becoming more and more important. On September 1, 1967, the Federal Reserve Bank will no longer handle, in normal channels, checks that do not have this important number imprinted in magnetic ink. ALL OUR CHECKS HAVE THIS NUMBER. Our customers do NOT need personalized checks.

Drafts (checks on which you fill in the name of your bank) and checks that are printed on one bank and changed to another bank cannot be handled by electronic equipment. They are slowing up clearing houses and money centers. Someday, there may be a charge to handle a draft or a "changed" check.

He isn't a watermelon snitcher... Philippe Waroux, European visitor sees his first melon patch.

European Visits

Philippe Waroux visited the area this week, and saw his first cotton and watermelons growing in the fields along with his first sight of grain sorghum. He had never seen an oil well or a refinery until visiting Plains. The young man is a college senior from Brussels, Belgium, who is visiting in the homes of C. M. Thompson, B. E. Loyd, and Johnnie Fitzgerald this week. Young Waroux's father is the president of the Lions Club in Belgium, and had written making arrangements for the young man to visit Texas, and he selected Plains as the place that he wanted to visit. The Belgian arrived in Canada and visited the Expo 67 Fair and then went to New England, Washington D.C., and on to Virginia and North Carolina. He arrived via Greyhound coach in Lubbock last Sunday and was brought to Plains. From here the student will go to El Paso and on to Tombstone, Arizona. He will then go to California, where he will visit Disney Land, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, before returning to Chicago and New York to fly home to Brussels.

The Belgian student is impressed with America and Americans. His interest in America started when he served in the Belgian Army in Germany with U. S. troops.

Waroux supports the U. S. INTERVENTION IN Vietnam says this is a great big wealthy land with friendly people who have been so nice to him. The young man came to this country because his father, who is an engineer, wanted him to learn about the American way of life.

Waroux speaks fluent French and Italian, and manages well enough in English. He is studying advertising at the University of Brussels.

The European visited the Plains Independent School Tuesday evening when the Lions Club treated the faculty and staff to an ice cream supper. He was given a warm welcome by the many who were present.

Now, we should not expect an actual surrender or truce; we probably will not even recognize the end when it comes, but only see in retrospect that during a particular month of the combat the enemy began to fall back. Indeed, that moment may already have been reached. It is important to note that every report currently coming out of Hanoi proves beyond any doubt that the enemy knows he cannot defeat us. He can only hope that we will despair and pull out leaving the field to him.

But none of the reasons for winning the war which I have cited thus far are as vital to this nation, and to its future, as this last reason.

It is not in its successes that a civilization, or a great nation, endures, but rather in its response to adversity. For it is in the response to challenge, rather than in easy affluence, that national sinews of strength, survivability and growth are forged.

America faces a number of crucial challenges at this juncture in our brief history. Our commitment in Vietnam is one of those crucial challenges.

If we were to turn our backs on that challenge, we would not only close our eyes to the important reasons for winning the war, but we would also level a self-inflicted blow at the very foundations of our national strength. We would weaken ourselves for the challenges and adversities of the future.

Nevertheless, some spokesmen of our so-called 'Peace' movements will continue to rationalize America out of the Vietnam war because they find it neither honorable, not just, nor moral, nor important to future U. S. and free world security and stability.

In succumbing to such a rationalization, these spokesmen duck the real issue—the Red hope that Vietnam-type wars may be too much of a challenge for American society—Mao Tse-Tung in Peking and HO Chi-Minh in Hanoi have placed their bets—have publicly staked their policy—on the firm conviction that America will not stand up to this challenge.

I, for one, do not believe that the Vietnam war is too much of a challenge for this great nation!

I believe it is important that we confront and defeat communist aggression in Vietnam and assist creation of a series of Asian buffer states around Red China which can help peacefully contain her just as we have peacefully contained Russia in Europe.

Let me make it clear that I cannot justify nor support the further committing of U.S. lives and resources to the Administration's 'gradualism' effort which practical realities have now demonstrated is, in effect, a 'no-win' policy.

But I do believe that, because our cause in Vietnam is just, honorable, moral and essential, it's high time we achieved victory by applying unrelenting military, psychological and economic pressure on the enemy.

Pete Wynn is one of the best of the best

A welder with El Paso Natural Gas Company. Pete has the high training and skills that welders everywhere must have. In addition, he has developed the special abilities of pipeline welders.

Pete helps operate and maintain El Paso Natural's facilities, using materials and procedures that are exactly right for each job. A purification plant vessel, for example, is best welded with a rod that has a lower hydrogen content than a rod used on pipelines. All of Pete's welds that are subject to significant stress are x-rayed to be sure that they are flawless.

Every six months Pete must pass a welding test in which he solves a problem that is equal to the most difficult he will ever meet. The passing grade: 100%. All of Pete's welds — and the welds of all other pipeline welders — must be stronger than the parent metal itself. Pete makes a profession of perfection.

His skills and those of the other 5,400 employees of El Paso Natural Gas Company — whose specialties range from economics to engineering to welding — are among the reasons that the West has assured supplies of natural gas.
