Hormone Herbicide Meeting

April 19th, 7:30 p.m., Commissioner's Courtroom, Court House, Plains. Those present were: Loren Gayle, Deryl Hobbs, Chip Bennett, Martin Welch, Leo L. White, Paul Cobb, C.M. Thompson, Robert A. Long, R.M. Gass, Roy Guetersloh, J.R. Gass, Lewis Walker, Truett F. Jones, H.C. Cotton, Vance Brown, William Worsham, and Gene Bennett.

The objective of this meeting was to establish guide lines to govern application of hormone-type herbicides to crop land.

No bond or permit will be required for making applications of hormone-type herbicide with ground equipment. It is the recommendation of this committee for Yoakum County farmers to use only ground equipment for the application of hormone-type herbicides. Buy chemicals from reputable dealers, and get a good quality material for most effective results. This committee desires to make an all out effort to educate the users of hormone-type herbicides to the potential of 2, 4-D, and 2-4-5-T whether good and/or bad. Be sure you are right in putting hormone-type herbicides down, if in doubt DON'T! If you do, follow directions that are read from the label on the material.

A person is just as liable for misuse of chemicals, whether County is under herbicide law, or whether it isn't.

Lets take care of our own needs and regulations before an outside agency comes in to control it for us.

We need to check alternative possibilities, and use the type of chemical that gives best control without a drift problem.

When you do use hormone-type herbicide make sure that conditions are right, such as follows: temperature 70° or below, wind velocity under 5 miles per hour, low volatility material, pressure on nozzles 18# or less, 15 gallons of water to acre and in accordance to manufacturer recommendation on material used, wind direction will be to the opposite of nearest cotton, humidity, as high as possible; use ground rigs with directed type spray, not fogger type; recommended height of boom, no higher than 24 inches with nozzles not to exceed 40 inches apart; or such distance that gets proper coverage.

Rangeland; For rangeland use adequate precaution in all spraying. Most of the time this spraying is before cotton comes up. Most of rangeland is not in close proximity to cotton land.

If aerial application is used in any case, whether cropland or rangeland, use extreme precaution.

Always use good judgement and be aware of the possibility of damage to your neighbor's crop. Thus avoiding a nys possibility of a law suit which could sever friendships not to mention damage to financial condition.

Yours for better farming practices in Yoakum County.

Local Residents Guests At Famous Plantation

ST. FRANCISVILLE, LA. -- Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Milstead and Pat, of Plains, Texas, were recent guests at Rosedown and Pat, of Plains, Texas, were recent guests at Rosedown Plantation and Gardens in St. Francisville, Louisiana. Rosedown is a restored plantation in the Felicianas, the region where the artist-naturalist James Audubon painted more than thirty of his famous birdlife studies more than a century ago. Their visit coincided with the bloom of ancient Azaleas and the first bloom of Roses.

Rosedown was built in 1835 by a wealthy young planter for his bride at a time when cotton plantations along the Mississippi were creating the country's greatest fortunes. As a well-to-do plantation owner, young Daniel Turnbull had the means and the taste to create a home of impeccable beauty. Martha Turnbull, who had an eye for both design and beauty, devoted nearly sixty years to developing Rosedown Plantation Gardens. By the mid-1800's these magnificent 17th Century French landscape style gardens were the showplace of the Mississippi.

Rosedown, after years of neglect in the wake of Civil War, was rediscovered in 1956 by Mrs. Milton Underwood of Houston, Texas, and restored to its original grandeur. Today, this lavish plantation house and gardens are once again the showplace of the Mississippi. The grounds contain many rare shrubs and trees, some almost a century and a half old, among them most authentic restorations and will stand forever as a lavish museum of the romantic Old South at the height of its glory.

CANCER CRUSADE MONTH

The theme this year is "We want to wipe out Cancer in your lifetime", said Mrs. P. W. Stroman, Chairman of the Crusade of the American Cancer Society in the Plains area. The crusade fund drive will get underway the week of April 26th.

The House to House canvass will be April 27th with Mrs. Jim Barron as chairman. Workers are asked to pick up their packets at the Tea Mo Ga Club house at 5:00 p.m. Mrs. Barron extends an invitation to all interested persons to come and help with the fund drive.

Mrs. Barron and Mrs. Stroman said, The 1971 Crusade of the American Cancer Society begins the most important era in the history of the Society. We have just entered a new decade-- the decade in which a cure for cancer can and must be realized. Today, cancer cures are much more far-reaching than ever before, and American Cancer Society volunteers have helped establish this fact.

"They have served patients, educated people and raised the money to make these and other programs possible. Some of the recent progress made in the battle against cancer is that surgeons can now remove cancers they could not touch 20 years ago; radiologists can now destroy tumors that once were immune to X-rays; and there is a whole new area of treatment that did not exist before 1947---chemo-therapy, the chemical treatment of cancer.

"Tremendous advances? Yes, and we can take pride in having been a part of these successes. We can continue progress by having a successful 1971 Cancer Crusade in Plains and the rural area."

Certification Of Wheat Acreage

By W.M. Overton, CED

Wheat acreage may be substituted for grain sorghum or cotton for allotment or base history purposes under the 1971 farm program. This makes it especially important that all farmers who have wheat planted and all farmers who have a wheat allotment whether they planted wheat or not certify their acreage not later than May 3rd. Wheat not certified by the above date cannot be counted for these purposes.

Wheat planted but destroyed by drouth, sand or other abnormal weather disaster will qualify if supported by execution of Form ASCS-574, Request for Acreage Credit. These requests should be made as soon as possible. File requests before wheat is plowed under, but in no event later than the Final Certification date.

Weather conditions later in this acreage of wheat would be needed to prevent a reduction in your cotton allotment, feed grain base, or wheat allotment.

Wheat Acreage should be measured and the exact acreage the year might cause you to change cropping plans so that ge turned in not later than May 3rd. Don't forget this final May 3rd date if you have wheat.

Set-aside acres may not be harvested in any manner and not grazed between April 30-October 1 in Yoakum County. Since grazing dates vary between counties, farmers that have farms in other counties should check with their county ASC office where the farm is located.

Producers that wish to leave small grain for cover on set-aside or normal conserving acres must file intentions in writing prior to May 1.

Texas Water Plan

There is always an abundance of frightening expressions and superlative slogans for any preposterous proposition when it is necessary to hoodwink the public into voting affirmatively for its passage.

It is extremely doubtful that such right of way would be obtainable other than under federal compulsion or prohibitive cost.

On August 5, 1969 Amendment number two of the nine amendments presented the voting public was thoroughly defeated.

This money was to be turned over to the Texas Water Development Board to be expended at their discretion with virtually no governmental control.

If this fantastically extravagant Governor and Legislature cannot finance the State without searching every nook and cranny for a taxable item...

It may require a law that all tips on the best and surest buys on the stock market that are furnished the high officials in Austin be furnished all taxpayers simultaneously.

Parents Know the Drug Threat

The Child You Save May Be Your Own

By Vernon Townes County Attorney

Today's Subject: The Appeal of Drugs to Teens

Here are some of the reasons given by youthful drug users for taking drugs, in a series of national surveys of young people in the high school-college age groups:

- 1. It is a way of "hitting back" at parents — getting even with them for the 1001 things parents do and make their children do in the growing-up process.
2. Taking drugs is a means of feeling love — love in general terms, not physical necessarily — drugs are a way of returning to the basic fundamentals of life.
3. Some students said they felt drug experimentation was in this modern day, a means and part of growing up.

Naturally, to combat the drug problem, we must know facts about drugs, but perhaps even more important is knowing some of the basic reasons why youngsters are using drugs in this beautiful land of opportunity we call America.

In trying to analyze drug misuse we must certainly bear in mind that children today are raised in a chemical society. They have come to know, from infancy, they can go to the doctor and get a shot for this ailment and a pill for that; it follows then that there is a good reason why children have built the impression they can be doctored chemically for any physical or emotional problem.

It has been reported that some of the best children, the articulate child who brings home good grades and may often be a student body officer... even these youngsters are high on the list of drug abusers.

Some experts in the field of drug abuse say that it is time for the "generation gap" and all such nonsense to come to a dead halt. In other words, now is probably the best time for parents to take the reins once again and find out what is going on among the children.

There are many professional people, doctors, ministers, family counselors, and your public services, that stand ready to help you solve problems BEFORE they become catastrophic in nature.

Next week there will be another article for your consideration. Thanks for being with me.

Controlling Weed With Chemicals

BY LEO WHITE

A great deal of interest has been shown recently in regard to chemical weed control. Most of this interest has been generated because of some incidents in 1970 where the use of chemicals caused some unwanted effects on susceptible crops for several miles from the treated area.

Most of the grain sorghum producers in Yoakum County have recently received a publication from the County Extension Office called a "Production Guideline for Grain Sorghum" or "Keys to Profitable Grain Sorghum Production in the Southern High Plains Plains".

This is the time of the year when home owners are wanting to control unwanted weeds and grasses from their lawns. Broad-leaf weeds can be controlled in lawns with several different chemicals.

2, 4-D is the chemical that is likely to be most readily available, and it may be on the dealer's shelf under one of several trade names. For dandelion control, good results may be obtained by using 2, 4-D as a spot or individual plant treatment.

Best results will be obtained by using 2, 4-D in the early spring or late fall when temperatures are between 70 and 85 degrees. Higher temperatures not only increase the hazard of drift, but it causes a tip kill on the dandelions before the material can penetrate to the entire root system.

Almost all herbicides will cause some injury to the grass. Well established grasses will usually overcome the injury and regular irrigations coupled with frequent fertilizer applications will shorten the recovery period.

BOOKS

There is a great effort being made to help people learn to speak English that use the Spanish language only. The literary material is authored by Frank Laubach, and it is reported to be a great source of information. The Readers have been placed in the Yoakum County Library and can be checked out by the students. Also, the citizens helping the Spanish speaking students to learn English, are now trying to learn to speak, read, and write Spanish.

Our Judge and Commissioner's are assisting in helping with this project which is a great thing and can help our community to enjoy and understand each other much more than before.

Some of the new books we have received in the library to help the people learn Spanish are "Spanish Made Easy" by Jackson & Envio, "The Berlitz Self-Teacher" Spanish by Berlitz, and "New Spanish Self-Taught" by Lopez-Morillas. These are a Unique home study method, a quick practical way to learn to read, write and speak Spanish. This is of course the less importance of the study. We realize it is much more important to develop our English Language. This will help our stores, doctors, law officers, teachers, and many other places having a difficulty interpreting these people.

Also, listed are some books for the reading enjoyment of everyone. "Then Signs My Soul" by George Shea, "The Woman at the Well" by Dale Evans Rogers, "The New Song" by Pat Boone, and "Mine Eyes Have Seen" by Anita Bryant. Each of these books have something to offer the world.

Written in memory of Iva McDonnell
who passed from this life January 20, 1971

Once we had a friend named Iva,
One whom we all loved
Now she's gone to be with Jesus
Around the Great White Throne above
She was a friend to all who knew her
With her smile upon her face
She was just a lovely person
A sinner saved by God's grace.

We will miss you so much, Iva
As down the road of Life we roam
But you are safe in the arms of Jesus
Happy around the Great White Throne
You were a wonderful wife and Mother
To the ones you loved the best
Now you are free from pain and sorrow
For you have surely stood the test.

"Fear not the grave" we are told in God's word
For it is only a gateway to Heaven, to those who love the Lord
So loved ones, shoulder your burden. Take them to the Lord in prayer
Then your burdens will be lifted, for we know our Savior cares,
So we day farewell, Iva Our trials will soon be o'er
And we hope to meet you in Heaven, where sorrows will be no more.

KEEP IT CLEAN
by Virginia M. White

DEAR VIRGINIA WHITE: I live in an industrial area, and I am just sick about the air pollution. Our clothing is sooty and reeks with an unfindable odor. I refuse to pollute our water by using detergents with phosphates, so I have been using soap, but my clothes are just not clean. What can I do?

IRATE HOUSEWIFE

DEAR IRATE: Many of our cities, realizing the threat of air pollution, are working to eliminate it. The public is also fed up with water pollution. Many housewives have gone back to using soap, but unfortunately, soap will not remove heavy soil and stains. The detergent industry has been phasing out phosphates from their products, and now there are phosphate-free detergents on the market... especially formulated to clean clothes effectively while at the same time being safe for our environment. One such product is Miracle White Non-Polluting Detergent. It contains no phosphates, enzymes or NTA.

DEAR READERS: We live in a "plastic" world. Many items we use are packaged in plastic for safety and convenience. Help clean up our environment by reusing empty plastic containers. Cut the tops from bottles and use to store hair rollers, rubber bands, scraps. Reuse plastic butter containers for refrigerator storage. Plastic pill bottles make fine holders for toothpicks, straight pins, etc.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

It has been my observation that traveling anglers prefer to take their own tackle rather than rent it at the scene of the fishing. I can't say I blame them. A man feels at home with his own equipment.

When you drive your own vehicle on an angling trip you can carry plenty of gear, but when you must depend on public forms of transportation, especially the airlines, traveling with tackle becomes an art.

The fact is airlines have made it increasingly difficult for flying fishermen to carry rods aboard commercial flights. All airlines I have flown on recently permit you to carry aboard only one rod broken on a commercial flight. This happened when the top to the rod case was jammed, and the tip of the longest rod was broken off. It's easy to eliminate this danger by keeping a sturdy broom handle, just a bit longer than the longest rod, in the case.

In order to fit in a case, rods must be of the type that break down into at least two parts. Some little one-piece, ultra-light rods will fit, but other one-piece sticks will be too long. Consider this fact when you are purchasing tackle.

If you anticipate light fishing, then consider purchasing a pack rod—a rod that breaks down into small sections, usually four, and fits snugly into your suitcase where it is safe from harm. (I always use a rigid suitcase rather than a duffle or soft-sided cast to protect such items as cameras, binoculars, pack rods and so on. I also recommend extra straps around the suitcase as insurance against broken locks and hinges.) Some pack rods have remarkably smooth action despite their succession of ferules.

Reels are obviously less of a problem to transport than rods. A large, usually canvas, reel bag is ideal for carrying not only reels, but extra lines, leader material and other bulky tackle items.

A tackle box is a worry and a pain in the neck while traveling. But when you get to where you're going it's a good feeling to know you have extra snaps and swivels, leaders, lures, etc.

After you give your tackle box to the airline representative don't expect to get it back in the same order. Tom Paugh, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of SPORTS AFIELD Magazine, thinks airlines have a little man who rides in the luggage compartment and whose sole job is to turn tackle boxes upside down and shake them. There isn't much you can do about this—except be sure your box is tightly closed and taped. At least that way everything will stay inside. Don't forget to bring along enough tape for the return trip. Your rod case should be taped tight also. And be sure your name and address is on all your cases.

If you are traveling light, an assortment of clear plastic boxes on the market will fit snugly into your suitcase and will permit you to take along a few tackle necessities. That, plus your pack rod and one reel is really all you need—just keep telling yourself.

An interesting way to prepare a tomato aspic: Pour a thin layer of the tomato gelatin mixture into a mold and allow to set. Add a layer of cottage cheese mixed with minced chives and then pour on the rest of the tomato gelatin mixture. Chill until set. Unmold before serving and garnish with salad greens and pimiento-stuffed olives.

SALT SCOOP

by Rosanne
We all know that salt is essential in the diet, but do you know why?
Each living cell in our bodies is bathed in a sodium chloride solution. The liquid part of the blood, called plasma, is nine-tenths water. This carries everything the body requires.
Sodium enables the red corpuscles to carry vital oxygen to the tissues and carbon dioxide away. Glands take salt from the bloodstream and convert it to hydrochloric acid, necessary for digestion. Sodium helps transmit nerve impulses which contract the muscles.
The level of salt in our blood must remain nearly constant. Our systems carefully guard against too much or not enough. Heavily salted food is unpalatable, but a modest amount enhances flavor. While the stomach rejects an overabundance of salt, the kidneys keep all they can.
Because of the danger of not enough salt, a salt-free or low-sodium diet requires medical supervision. Symptoms of sodium deficiency are weariness, dizziness, heat cramps and, in the extreme, prostration. Even death can result.
Those of us living in various parts of the country also depend on iodized salt as a source of iodine to prevent endemic goiter. Choose the blue package that says iodized. Both are available nearly everywhere and cost the same.
For a free copy of an interesting 20-page booklet on salt's value and uses, just write me and request "Salt."

Tax Man

Sam Sez:

Almost 2/3 of our American taxpayers get a refund of income tax after they have filed their income tax return each year. A large part of the refund filers have their tax return go through without a hitch and within an average time of five or six weeks after they file. The real early filers often get their refund check within three weeks after filing, but the April 15 group (which is a lot larger than you would think) have to wait quite a bit longer. The taxpayers who make mistakes have to correct their error before they get their refund.

If you have moved, don't forget to let IRS know where you wnet so they can remail your refund check. In the Northern half of Texas there are about one million taxpayers who will receive over $200,000,000 in refund checks. You can be sure the IRS Taxpayer Service Representatives will hear "Where's my refund?" many times between now and July 4.

The question which arises from this is whether the average taxpayer, or the average business, could engage the Internal Revenue Service so persistently in a judicial battle. Usually, when Internal Revenue has a bone to pick, the matter is settled rather promptly, and the taxpayer -- more often than not -- yields to the extra assessment. But if the more affluent can better fight Uncle Sam's tax collectors, then the system is subject to the charge of rich man's justice.

Of course, every taxpayer has the right to take his argument before the U.S. Tax Court. And every year, thousands do. And some even find that they can beat "city hall."

But the legal expense, time and inconvenience discourage many average taxpayers from opposing IRS. Even when they are really steamed up. (And, going back one step, many cannot afford tax accountants and lawyers to make sure they are

4-H Field Crops Science Program Challenges Urban and Rural Kids

Can a youngster living in an inner-city high-rise find true happiness growing crops in a windowbox?

The Cooperative Extension Service thinks so--especially if he has the opportunity to carry out some interesting, fun-to-do experiments with seeds, plants and soils.

There are over 105,000 4-Hers enrolled in the field crops science program, many from metropolitan areas. Now they have available to them a new series of educational materials providing a wide variety of exciting projects dealing with growing plants and soils.

The 4-H field crops science program is sponsored by Amchem Products, Inc., for the fifth consecutive year. The company provides incentives and recognition as well as financial support for the new materials developed by representatives of the Cooperative Extension Service and the National 4-H Service Committee.

Currently in use are educational materials on plant reproduction, soils and plant characteristics. An introductory unit briefly covers the broad areas of plant and soil science.

Still to be released are educational materials on growing and using plants, field crops production and research.

Incentives and recognition offered through Amchem Products sponsorship include four gold-plated medals of honor for outstanding members in each county. The state award is an expense-paid trip to the 50th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28-Dec. 2. From these winners the Cooperative Extension Service will select recipients of six national educational scholarships of $700 each.

For more information about the 4-H field crops science program and how to participate as a member or local 4-H leader, contact the county extension office.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Gory Story

Witness by witness, exhibit by exhibit, the prosecutor was building his case against a woman accused of slaying her husband. But when he tried to bring in the victim's blood-stained garments, the defense attorney raised a vigorous objection.

"Your Honor," he said, "there is no question that the man was murdered. The only issue in this case is whether my client did it. I see no justification for bringing in all this gruesome clothing."

The court saw no justification either, and held the evidence not admissible. The judge said: "These bloodstained garments could in no manner identify the murderer. We can conceive of no other purpose than to excite the passions and inflame the minds of the jury."

It is on this ground that courts generally take a dim view of gruesome evidence. Nevertheless, the fact remains that trials often must deal with dreadful events. Evidence is not disqualified by gruesomeness if it is really useful.

Another case involved manslaughter by automobile. Here, the prosecutor wanted to show the jury a battered shoe -- its laces torn -- that had been ripped from the victim's foot when he was struck by the car.

This time, one of the issues was how fast the car had been traveling when it hit the victim. Since the shoe did cast light on this issue, it was held to be admissible evidence. Even if it was inflammatory, said the court, it could still help the jury reach a just verdict.

A similar rule applies to photographs. In another murder case, the prosecutor wanted to show the jury a picture of the victim's body, lying on a table at the mortuary. Over defense objections, the court allowed the prosecutor to go ahead -- because the picture gave valuable assistance in showing the location of the fatal wound.

As one judge put it: "Courts and juries cannot be too squeamish about looking at unpleasant things, especially if truth is on trial."

The Litter Critter Says...

Washington AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Rich Man's Justice

A battery of lawyers for U.S. Steel is continuing a battle to obtain a $35 million refund in Federal income tax and avoid another $200 million which the government contends is owed.

Ordinarily, this might not be significant beyond the $235 million involved. But what is especially newsworthy is that the dispute goes back 20 years, and is based on the Korean War Excess Profits Tax Act. Although a judge recently ruled against Big Steel, the case is going to be appealed.

The question which arises from this is whether the average taxpayer, or the average business, could engage the Internal Revenue Service so persistently in a judicial battle. Usually, when Internal Revenue has a bone to pick, the matter is settled rather promptly, and the taxpayer -- more often than not -- yields to the extra assessment. But if the more affluent can better fight Uncle Sam's tax collectors, then the system is subject to the charge of rich man's justice.

And there's no need to go to Washington, either. The Tax Court will periodically sit in more than a dozen major cities.

All of which means that there should be more justice for the little man who doesn't know a deduction from an exemption, or how to claim a casualty loss. Or what line 16 on schedule D means.

Now, if Congress would consider Sen. Bible's Small Business Tax Reform and Simplification bill, and find simpler means of separating the taxpayer from his hard-earned money, it might help improve the nation's mental health.

To Take Care Of Your Yard Take Care Of Your Tools

Accidents around the home cause millions of injuries every year and many of them happen out in the yard. Rakes, shovels, hoses, ladders and other equipment should always be stored after they're used.

When using any type of power equipment, the manufacturer's instructions for proper operation and maintenance must be followed carefully to avoid accidents. Although any tool, powered or not, can be hazardous if used incorrectly, most new power tools have safety design features. Typical is the new line of Diston cordless lawn care products -- three models of grass shears and an innovative hedge trimmer.

The housings of all these tools are made of the same type of strong, high impact synthetic materials used for football helmets. Switches are spring-loaded to automatically shut off when pressure is released, and can be locked in the "off" position when the tools aren't being used.

Because the tools are powered by rechargeable batteries, the possibility of getting shocked while using them is eliminated. The cordless lawn care tools come with complete recharging units that plug into ordinary electrical outlets.
