LIGHTING...

Incandescent bulbs are readily available and inexpensive. They're interchangeable (a 100 watt bulb can be replaced by a 25 watt bulb), so light intensity may be changed without changing the fixtures. But, they're very inefficient and dissipate much energy as heat rather than converting it to light.

MRS. KIM BOB HARRELSON

Miss Cheatham, Mr. Harrelson Say Wedding Vows Saturday

Wedding vows were solemnized Saturday evening, June 21 at 3 p.m. in First Baptist Church for Miss Laurie D'Lyn Cheatham and Kim Bob Harrelson.

The Rev. Norton Scrimshire officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Cheatham of Tokio are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrelson of Crane.

Mrs. Margaret Liles played "Somewhere My Love" and other traditional music as guests were seated. Cherese Felty, accompanied by her husband Craig Felty on the guitar, sang "Evergreen" as Garrick Engle lit the candles. Mr. and Mrs. Felty sang "The Twelfth of Never" as the mothers were seated and "Just You and I" during the ceremony. Mrs. Liles played the traditional wedding marches.

Two spiral candelabras, providing the setting, were adorned with greenery, lavender and white silk flowers and lavender bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lace and satin gown fashioned with fitted lace bodice featuring a v-shaped neckline and full puffed sleeves embellished with hand sewn pearls and sequins. A lace bow was sewn onto the back of the bodice as a good luck charm. Designed and made by the bride's mother, the dress also featured a satin skirt which flowed to a chapel length train adorned with lace, pearls and sequins encircling the hemline.

The bride wore a wreath of flowers which held her floor length veil and blusher which was made for her by an aunt, Mrs. Willie Mae Engle. She carried a bouquet of white silk roses with accents of lavender flowers and white satin streamers. The bouquet was designed by an aunt, Mrs. Velma Dearing.

For "something old", the bride's mother placed in her shoe an Indian head penny that had belonged to her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.N. Addison. Her gown was "new". She "borrowed" a gold ring that belonged to her mother and a string of pearls belonging to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Estelle Cheatham of Brownfield. Her blue garter with a traditional six pence attached was made by her aunt, Willie Mae Engle.

Donna Jo Timmons of Brownfield, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Debbie Harrelson of Odessa, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore full skirted tea-length dresses of lavender watered taffeta and matching lavender shoes. Their dresses were designed with scooped necklines and puffed sleeves. They carried nosegays of purple and white wild flowers with various shades of lavender satin streamers and wore matching wild flowers and ribbons in their hair. The bride's aunt, Velma Dearing designed their flowers.

Nieces of the bride, Danya and Taryn Timmons of Brownfield, were ring bearer and flower girl, respectively. They wore tea-length dresses of lavender batiste with a pattern of white dots and large white collars trimmed in lace. They wore barettes decorated with lavender silk flowers and satin streamers.

Danya carried a heart shaped pillow fashioned from every fabric used in the bride's dress. It was trimmed with a butterfly, pearl hearts and white satin streamers and was made by Mrs. Engle. Taryn carried a white lace basket filled with lavender flowers and shades of lavender streamers fashioned by Mrs. Dearing.

Fred Harrelson served as his son's best man. Greg Ellis of Midland was groomsman. Guests were seated by Mike Cheatham of Lubbock, brother of the bride, and Marvin Dearing of Tokio, cousin of the bride. Garrick Engle of Plains, cousin of the bride served as candlelighter.

The groom and his attendants and the bride's father wore light gray tuxedos, pale gray shirts, light gray bow ties and light gray shoes.

The bride presented her mother with a white rose before the ceremony and presented a white rose to the groom's mother after the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cheatham wore a gray silk dress with gray accessories. The groom's mother wore a pink sheer dress with pink accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mock champagne punch, cake, fresh fruit and vegetables, finger sandwiches, nuts and mints were served to guests by Kristy Hancock, cousin of the bride, Kathy Jones and Judie Cheatham, sister-in-law of the bride.

The top tier of the cake was accented with lavender roses which cascaded down the middle and bottom tiers. Four Roman columns separated the second and third tiers to form a gazebo for the bride and groom music box figure which topped the bottom tier.

Paula Cullin, Melody Record and Mrs. Engle served as members of the house party.

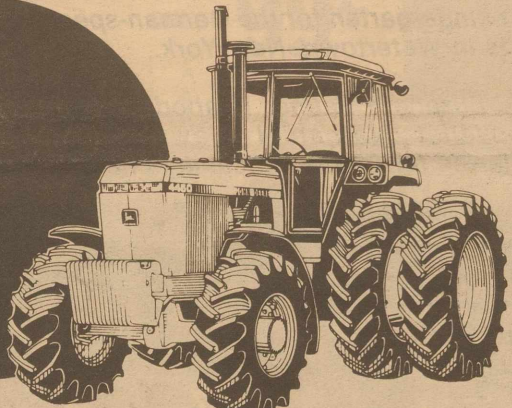

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. Kim Harrelson are at home in Crane.

A graduate of Plains High School, South Plains College and Texas Tech University, the bride is a fifth grade English teacher employed with Crane ISD.

The groom is a graduate of Crane High School. He is employed with ARCO in Crane.

The marathon race was originally 26 miles. It was increased 385 yards in the 1908 Olympic Games so King Edward VII could see the finish from the royal box.

Plains Independent School District

From The Superintendent's Desk

DEAN ANDREWS

This week we will continue with our review of some of the important historical dates in American education beginning with the year 1836, the year of Texas Independence.

1836 — William McGuffey, president of Cincinnati College published the first in a series of readers for elementary and secondary pupils. The series, which eventually grew to six books, included works by some important American and English authors, and taught moral values as well as reading skills. By 1920, 122 million copies had been sold.

1837 — Massachusetts established the nation's first state board of education and appointed 31-year-old Horace Mann as secretary. During his 12 years in office, Mann worked for a statewide system of free public schools, compulsory school attendance laws, and a unified curriculum that would provide a common education experience to all students.

Buffalo, New York, and Louisville, Kentucky, appointed Superintendents to administer their school systems during 1837.

1839 — Upon the urging of Horace Mann, Massachusetts established the first state supported "normal" school for training teachers.

1852 — Massachusetts passed the first state compulsory school attendance law.

1855 — Mrs. Carl Schurtz, wife of a German immigrant, established the first kindergarten for the German-speaking children of other immigrants in Watertown, New York.

1860 — Elizabeth Palmer Peabody, sister-in-law of Horace Mann and novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne, established the first kindergarten for English-speaking children in the U.S.

1862 — The Morrill Act authorized states to sell 10 million acres of federal land and use the money to establish public colleges for agricultural, military and mechanical learning. Ultimately, 70 "land grant" colleges were established.

1864 — President Abraham Lincoln signed a bill authorizing the establishment for the nation's first college for the deaf. The first president of the college was Edward Miner Gallaudet, the 27-year-old son of Thomas Gallaudet, for whom the college was eventually named.

1865 — The Federal Freedman's Bureau was founded. The bureau provided education to more than 250,000 freed slaves in the south - both children and adults - before it was abolished in 1870. Virginia Union and Shaw colleges were founded to provide higher education for black students.

1867 — Congress created the Department of Education as an independent federal agency authorized to collect and disseminate information on American education. In 1868, the Department was downgraded to a bureau of the Department of Interior.

The New York legislature voted to establish a free public school system throughout the state.

1870 — Only 2 percent of all Americans age 17 and older were high school graduates.

1873 — St. Louis added kindergarten classes to its public school system.

1881 — Booker T. Washington, age 25, established the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute.

1890 — The typical school year was 135 days long. Most American still lived on farms, and students were needed to help their families plant, tend, and harvest the crops. About 44 percent of the population between the ages of 5 and 17 were enrolled in public schools. There were 3,526 public high schools in the U.S.

JULIE STICKROD

Julie Stickrod
Completes Training
As Registered Nurse

State board exams are all that remain for Julie Stickrod before she sees the realization of a dream and lots of hard work. Her exams July 14 are the final steps before becoming a Registered Nurse.

Mrs. Stickrod will begin work in gynecology next week at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital. Having just recently graduated from Methodist Hospital's School of Nursing, she received the Inez Hines Award as Best All Around Nurse.

Prior to enrolling in the School of Nursing, she completed two years of pre-requisite courses at Eastern New Mexico and South Plains College. Year-round, she then spent the next two years - year-round - in training at the School of Nursing. Those daily commuting trips put 98,000 miles on her car's speedometer.

The Stickrod's will be moving to Lubbock in August and "it will be Jerry's turn to commute" says Julie, as he continues to teach special education in Plains High School. Julie and Jerry are parents of three children - 15-year-old Krissy, who will be a sophomore at Coronado High and 13-year-old Jenny and 10-year-old Amy.

"My entire family sacrificed and helped make this goal and dream a reality for me," says Mrs. Stickrod.

"Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won."
