VETS QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q — I am a nonservice-connected World War II veteran. Can I be admitted to a VA hospital?

A — A war veteran requiring hospitalization for nonservice-connected illness or injury may be admitted to a VA hospital if a bed is available and if he signs an affidavit that he is unable to pay for hospitalization.

Q — Do veterans with mental illness have a special priority for admission to VA hospitals.

A — No. But veterans with service during World War II or the Korean Conflict who developed an active psychosis within two years from the date of their separation from service are deemed to have incurred the disability in active service. Therefore, they are in the first priority group for VA hospitalization.

Q — I have been getting extra compensation because of my son who is under 18 years of age. He has now gone into the service, though still not 18. Will the extra compensation payments continue?

A — Yes, payments will continue until your son is 18.

Vets Questions And Answers

Q — I am a World War II veteran and believe I may be eligible for a pension. What is considered income for determining this eligibility?

A — Income is all the money you receive during the year. It includes wages, salaries, dividends, interest, profits, annuities, pensions, Social Security payments; in fact, everything that is not specifically exempted in the following seven items: (1) Compensation or pension payments from the VA. (2) Donations by or from public or private relief or welfare sources. (3) Government life insurance payments and payments of servicemen's indemnity. (4) Social Security lump sum death payments. (5) Armed Forces payments of the 6-month death gratuity. (6) Proceeds of fire insurance policies. (7) Payments to the amount contributed to the plan by the individual now receiving the payments.

BOBWHITE QUAIL PRODUCTION METHODS ANNOUNCED BY A&M

COLLEGE STATION - Bobwhite quail are one of the most popular game birds in Texas. They are found in almost every area of the state, but some individual farmers complain about not having any on their farm. Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist, says that if you like to have quail around the place, provide them with food, cover and protection. The cheapest and most effective method of providing bobwhite quail with food is to disc strips in old fields and along fence rows. Discing, says Cooper, is often all that is needed to get a good stand of choice quail food.

such as dove-weed and partridge pea, growing. This practice is inexpensive, but it gives the quail food plants a chance to compete with the more vigorous ones. An application of fertilizer, the same as is used on pastures in the area, will greatly increase the amount of food produced.

Research has shown that long strips of disc land, at least 20 feet wide, are better than square blocks. The best time for carrying soil should be cut only deep enough to turn the grass. Discing once every three years usually produces the best results, Cooper explains.

The disc strips should be near low-growing brushy cover so the birds will have protection from their natural enemies. Cooper emphasizes that quail may not use the choice foods if cover is not available nearby. Also, he adds, it is easier, cheaper and faster to grow food plants near cover than it is to develop cover near good food supplies.

Livestock usually will not graze the type of plants which will grow on the disc strips, but if domestic food crops are planted, fencing is required. Native plants are preferable because their seeds usually last longer, Cooper continues. This is important because quail need the food more in winter and early spring when domestic plant seeds have shattered or rotted.
