City is awarded $250,000 grant

Officials at the City of Plains were recently notified that the City has been awarded a grant in the amount of $250,000 for sewer treatment facility improvements.

This grant is made available through the Texas Community Development Program. The City was one of six entities in the South Plains Region to be funded. A total of 20 applications were submitted for a share of the $1,220,825 allocated for this region.

In 1989, the City was cited by the Texas Water Commission for exceeding the maximum flow rates permitted for the present wastewater treatment facility. These grant funds will be used for improvements to the treatment facility to meet these flow requirements.

Construction for this facility will begin once an amendment to the City's wastewater permit is obtained. Permit amendments can take anywhere from six to 18 months.

The City will apply for additional community development grants for water storage in the near future.

Texas A&M Computer Center offers course on 'Quicken 6'

"Producers wanting to learn more about developing financial statements to improve their record keeping should sign up now for a course to be taught June 3 at the Texas A&M University Computer Training and Education Center in Halfway," says Terry J. Millican, Yoakum County Extension Agent-Agriculture. This course will utilize Quicken 6, a low cost, easy-to-use cash record keeping system that continues to be popular among South Plains farmers.

"With the decreasing cost of computers and the improvements in low-cost, high quality software, computerized cash record keeping is an option for more and more farmers, said Dr. Jackie Smith, economist and management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock. With increasing demands for record keeping in agriculture, it becomes even more important to have information at our fingertips, he said.

Participants in the course need to be familiar with Quicken and have used it enough to be comfortable with transaction entry. The course will begin with an overview of financial statements and their purposes and a review of the basics of Quicken. Further review will include using other asset and other liability accounts to handle inventories, growing crops, depreciation and family living withdrawals. The afternoon will be spent using Quicken to develop cash flow balance sheet and income statement.

The course will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The cost for the session will be $50, which includes workshop materials and a catered lunch. Couples are encouraged to attend, and will be charged only one registration fee if they share a computer.

Registration is limited to 14 to ensure hands-on participation. The deadline for registration is May 27.

For more information contact your local county extension agent or telephone Dr. Jackie Smith at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Lubbock 806-746-6101.

Reading program is topic of Tsa Mo Ga

Sarah Jane Shelton presented a program for Tsa Mo Ga Study Club members Monday. Sponsored by the GFWC president, the program is Stories Offer Adventures in Reading (SOAR). Adult volunteers are encouraged to participate in reading programs for young children, such as the story hour each Wednesday at Yoakum County Library.

Mrs. Shelton shared the story of Willis Kylestewa, a young boy on the Zuni Pueblo in New Mexico. He has been sponsored by Tsa Mo Ga this year and writes letters to club members describing his school and activities.

Sit Jones told the historical story of the first homesteader in Yoakum County whose line-shack is now located beside the Tsa Mo Ga Clubhouse, used as a museum. She said the story has entertained four generations of children in her family.

Ruth Taylor read three biblical passages about children.

Club members discussed possible fund projects that might help defray the cost of electrical repairs to the clubhouse. A raffle during the old settlers reunion is probable.

Members who owe dues or fines should contact Dolores Davis immediately. Members are also asked to donate cobbles and potato salads for the noon barbecue during the old settlers reunion.

Sixteen members attended. Peggy Squyres and Hazel Lowrey served crackers, taco dip, strawberries and cookies.
