Sisters Meet First Time in 30 Years

One of the happiest family reunions occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Stark last Sunday, October 18, when they celebrated in honor of Mrs. Birdwell of the state of Washington, a sister of Mrs. Stark's, whom she had not seen in thirty years.

Mrs. Birdwell's marriage was one of those romantic runaway marriages at the age of seventeen and she and her young husband left the next day to make their home and fortune in the far away state of Washington and has only visited in Texas one time since then, but at that time Mrs. Stark was living in the state of Missouri and was unable to make a visit to Texas. Consequently they have been separated for a period of thirty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Birdwell expect to spend a year in travelling and will visit all of their brothers and sisters and near relatives as well as other places of interest.

A delicious turkey dinner was served to the relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. Birdwell, W. R. Smith of Georgetown, Mrs. C. R. Simmons of Sweetwater, Mrs. Sewell and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Clark of Abilene and A. B. Stark and family of Coleman.

The cost of war must be paid for years to come. And no material music accompanies the taxpayers' parade.

Installing New Round Bale Press

Yesterday work was underway hauling and installing a new round bale cotton press at the Farmers Gin Co. No. 2. This, we understand, is a $10,000 press, and with no unforeseen delays, the company expects to have the press in operation sometime during the first part of the coming week, so Mr. Cook, the affable and efficient manager of the concern informs us.

Thorobred Co Distributes $100 In Prizes

The Thorobred Cottonbreeding Industries, Inc., of this city announced last spring a list of prizes totaling $100 for the best stalks of cotton grown from Thorobred seed, and last week at the Runnels County Fair the winners in this contest were announced as follows:

J. A. Lambreth	$50.00
Marion Berry	25.00
W. F. Meadows	15.00
Adolph Minzenmayer	10.00

The stalks were of such quality that it seemed a shame all of them couldn't win. But there had to be a best even among such competition, and the judging, of course, was absolutely impartial. The judge was an expert outsider who knew few if any of the contestants and the stalks were entered by number, the name of owner being in a sealed envelope which was not opened until the winning numbers were announced. From the number of people who are asking about the conditions of the contest for next year and are announcing their intention of entering, we are afraid that the Fair officials will be compelled to build one or two more buildings to take care of the entries. It seems that nearly everybody has the conviction, deep in his heart, that given the right kind of seed, he can grow the best stalk of cotton the world has ever produced.

We are glad to have them all interested—lots of them not even farmers but people living here in Winters who saw the Thorobred exhibit at the Fair—and we understand the Thorobred people contemplated repeating the contest on a larger scale next year.

SERVICES OF FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY

We are requested to announce there will be services of the First Christian church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon to be held at the Queen Theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Collingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Patrick were week-end visitors to the State Fair at Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walker of Bronte, visited the family of Riley Clark a brother of the latter, this week. While here a message stating their son, Homer, a student of Simmons University was dangerously ill, called them to Abilene. The report however, was exaggerated and they found the boy recovering nicely from an attack of appendicitis.

Legion to Make Membership Drive

Brownwood, Oct. 19.—The district meeting of the American Legion, seventeenth district was held here Sunday. Eastland was selected as the place of meeting the third Sunday in January, 1926. Coleman wants the second quarterly meeting in 1926. Chairman Buie in a spirited address asked that special efforts be made to secure every eligible man in every county in the district as a member of the Legion during the coming year. Miss Mildred Powell, chairman of the auxiliary made the same request with respect to the auxiliary.

The post at Eastland wants 1,000 Legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary to attend the meeting in that town in January.

Henry C. Fuller, city editor of the Brownwood Daily Bulletin was appointed manager of publicity in the seventeenth district.

Blizzards to Coleman Today

In view of the fact that Winters High School has played only one game this season in football with a member school of her own district a change of schedule was decided upon, whereby this afternoon instead of meeting the Stamford High eleven at Stamford the Blizzards will invade the gridiron of Coleman High at Coleman. Another factor which marks the remaining part of the football season look promising is the hopes which Coach Smith entertains of being reinstated in the district championship race which will be known probably tomorrow, together with the fact that only too games will have to be won to enter the game deciding the district championship.

As the schedule stands at present Merkel will come to Winters next Friday, which, if the game is won this p. m. at Coleman, will be the only one to win making Winters eligible to play the district finals in class B. football should the Blizzards be reinstated in the race.

The Winters delegation has suffered only one defeat this season out of the four games played and from this indication of the last game Winters is going to give somebody a race this year. Eldorado has a real team and succeeded in holding the grey sweaters to a 14 to 0 score. Only on the good defense of the Blizzards was Eldorado kept from scoring at two different stages of the game although Eldorado succeeded in completing a great many passes only to be offset by a hold for downs and a good return punt by Robertson. "This is the first real game of football we have seen this year," was the remark made by several fans on the sidelines.

So far the Blizzards have not used a great variety of plays but are fast becoming acquainted with a few ones excellently executed as was shown in the last game. It is very evident that Coach Smith goes on the theory that a few plays well digested will mean more than a great many which are half-baked.

In the opinion of a great many fans the last of the season will develop into a real machine of eleven men who will be hard to hold. Although raw material comprises a larger part of the line it is plainly seen that the fronts are getting in shape for a perfect scream for an ambitious backfield to work behind later in the year. It may come too late but the results of hours of drill and practice will crop out along about November 25th when Winters meets the Ballinger eleven in the annual game of a "tussle for the pigskin."

The Turk is still Turk—or, at least a lot of him is.

Thorobred Scores In the Big Test

At the County Fair at Ballinger, which closed last Saturday, the exhibit there by Thorobred Cottonseed Breeding Industries, Inc., of this city, created quite a bit of favorable comment. The Fort Worth Record, commenting on this exhibit, says:

"... The Thorobred Cottonbreeding Industries of Winters and F. Y. Little of Valley Creek, experimental cottonbreeder and type tester, have remarkable displays. ..."

Mr. Little had a very nice exhibit near the Thorobred booth representing, among other things, the result of his year's experiments on seventy-five different varieties of cotton. The Thorobred people are very pleased, not to say a little flattered, at what he has to say of the results. The following quotation is taken from a letter to the Thorobred people from Mr. Little:

"I, Felix Y. Little, an experimental cotton breeder and type tester of several year's experience, have tested out seventy-five (75) varieties and types of cotton.

"I can say, to the best of my knowledge, that I have found Thorobred Cotton to be the best for the West Texas farmer."

What Mr. Little means is that, in West Texas, Thorobred makes more money for the farmer than any other variety. And, in West Texas, a cotton is grown under conditions which demand its very best efforts. So you can depend on it that what is true of West Texas is even more true of the more temperate main cotton belt. We think the Thorobred people have a right to exhibit a pardonable pride in their seed.

In fact, whatever the conditions and wherever the cotton is grown, the cotton which will make the most money in any section over any given number of years is the cotton which will best meet all conditions which may arise during that period of time. And, as one period of years is a great deal like any other period of years, (some wet some dry), this simply means that the best cotton for any section is the cotton which combines the qualities which can best take advantage of dry years and wet, of good seasons and of bad.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Skaggs and Miss Gladys Oliver were visitors in Dallas the past week, attending the State Fair, and while in the city Mr. and Mrs. Skaggs will buy new merchandise for their store.

Mrs. Lee Johnson came home last Sunday from the sanitarium at San Angelo, where she underwent an operation several weeks ago. We are glad to report she is doing nicely.

Will Buy Anything Baled Except Hay Baled Round

Last week a cotton buyer friend of ours rushed into the office and informed us that there was no market for snapped cotton and that it would probably be well if the farmers were advised of the fact. Since that time we learn that what he really meant was that some buyers have instructions to turn down snapped cotton and that it would grade much lower than picked cotton, therefore would bring a lower price.

In talking with Mr. C. Kornegay, he informed us that he had a market for anything that could be called cotton and that he would "buy anything except hay baled round."

He also states that he had equipped his gin especially to handle snapped cotton and bollies, and as long as it could be called cotton, he had a market for it.

The All-West-Texas Exposition at San Angelo, October 26 to 31 inclusive, is aptly described by its president, W. E. Blanton, as the "Show Window" of the great district it represents. The fair is of and for the immense territory from the South Plains to the Rio Grande and the free will donation of $10,000 by San Angelo business firms, is the city's annual contribution to the advancement of the empire called West-Texas.

This year, keeping pace with the phenomenal prosperity and growth of the country, the All-West-Texas Exposition is offering the most varied and elaborate program of education and amusement in its history. Every thing to delight a West Texan is provided—horse races, twenty-five of them; polo games; college football; roping contests; wonderful music all the time by the famous McKenzie's Scotch Highlanders; lavish vaudeville programs; the South's greatest mid-way show company; a horse show; a $50,000 style show; a magnificent pageant; four great firework programs.

There is not a dull instant in the whole six days and every day's program has its significant feature. Tuesday, for instance, is Cattleman's Day and Press Day with a special rodeo program, five fast races, hippodrome acts and the West Texas Horse Show at night. Wednesday is West Texas Chamber of Commerce day when the first district convention of the Southwest Texas district will be held in San Angelo followed by a great track and grandstand program. It is also Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association day when the organization's executive committee will be entertained. Thursday is San Angelo day when all stores close at noon, and Friday is Oil Day with special trains bringing West Texas' newest developers from the western fields. Friday is also Children's day and every school child is admitted to the grounds free all day, regardless of residence. Saturday is Football day when the teams of Texas Tech and Sul Ross Normal clash, but for good measure there is a complete race and track program thrown in.

"Come one, come all; and help boost your country," is the invitation issued San Angelo for the week, Monday, October 26. Room reservations in advance or during the fair may be made at the Board of City Development office in the St. Angelus Hotel building.

R. L. Mosely and family left for Plainview last Tuesday to make their future home. We regret very much to lose this estimable family, but wish for them great prosperity and happiness in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Shepperd were business visitors to Dallas the past week-end and incidentally took in the State Fair.

Dr. Tinkle Adds New Equipment

In keeping abreast of the times, Dr. Tinkle has just installed an Alpine Sun Lamp, which is used in the treatment of skin diseases, tuberculosis and many other human ailments.

The electrical equipment of this new machine is used in the treatment of rheumatism, high blood pressure and many other diseases.

This machine costs about $1500.00, and it is seldom that such equipment can be found in the smaller cities of the country.

The doctor now has one of the best equipped offices to be found in this part of the state, and as the new devices come out to help relieve suffering humanity, Dr. Tinkle will always be found in the forefront in securing the new equipment.

"SON OF HIS FATHER"

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., and the "Wisconsin Idea" are very much in the public eye just now, as a result of the young man's election to the Senate of the United States by a vote that made the whole country marvel. Whether one agrees with the La Follette policies or not, one must admit that young Bob's victory was clean-cut and convincing. Scarcely a political history has any state given such whole-hearted endorsement to one of its citizens, and seldom, if ever, has the son of a noted man received it. In all American history the only man elected to the United States Senate at as early age as Robert M. La Follette, Jr.—just inside the age limit for senators, 30 years—was Henry Clay. But not until he gets down to work in the Senate in Washington can we know whether the junior La Follette is a chip off the old bloc. The Badger state has given the "son of his father" a great send-off, and all wish him well.

Henry Ford believes the United States is entering a period of prosperity that will endure for "a hundred years." The members of the American Bankers' Association recently in session at Atlantic City, made no long-term predictions. Nevertheless, members of the association are convinced that business is good now, and is going to be better in the future. They think this betterment will last for at least six months.

The world trade of the U. S. in the last six months was the greatest since 1920 and the balance of trade is favorable. Cotton and corn, the two crops that have the greatest influence on business confidence, are ample this year. A deep cut in taxes has been announced.

Today the outlook is for a sound and abiding prosperity.

Gratton Davenport, Irion county stockman, did not go on trial in the Fifty-First District Court here Tuesday, October 20th, for the second time, on a charge of murder growing out of the killing at Mertzon in February of Sam Rodgers, foreman of one of J. H. Suggs' ranches.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Davenport on the ranch about three weeks ago and Mrs. Davenport, witness for the defense, would be unable to attend the trial if it began Tuesday, as scheduled. This was set forth in a motion presented Wednesday afternoon by W. A. Wright, of defense counsel. Both Oscar Frink, District Attorney, and Alex Collins, special prosecutor, agreed that the grounds for continuance were valid and Judge J. F. Sutton continued the case until the next term.

As a result members of the special venire of 200 men summoned for the trial did not report Tuesday and have been excused for the term, it was announced. Davenport has been in jail since shortly after the killing. His first trial, ending May 24, resulted in a hung jury. Insanity was the plea entered for the accused.—San Angelo Standard.

The lavishness with which brave men are called upon to risk their lives calls for a new form of economy.

SAVE THE BIRDS

We need the birds. A farmer in the middle west grieved that the pheasants ate his corn. The Iowa game department had a couple of the birds killed and examined. They found the remnants of nearly 200 cutworms, but no trace of corn. Even the crow is not as black as he is painted. He will not touch corn if he can get anything else. He is after the insects all the time. Were it not for the birds the land would be eaten up with its many insect pests in a few years.

TAX CUT FORECAST

Representative Longworth, who will be speaker of the house in the next congress to convene in December, predicts that the tax reduction which will be authorized by congress will be about 400 millions, naming that figure as the amount which can be lopped off without causing harm. This will be very cheering news from one end of the country to the other. There would be no kick from the taxpayer if the axe of congress should slip and cut 'em out altogether.

THE HOLY TERROR

Speaking of insects, another Detroit manufacturer is promising a tiny metal bug that can be herded in an eight-foot parking space and flutter fifty miles on a gallon of gas. It is hard to say whether this is an enterprise of a crime.

Industry is Doing the World's Work

—The people who know most about industry are those who are in industry. In addition to knowing about industry people who are in the public service industry know about the interest that all the rest of the people have in that industry.

—The public utility industry—for instance the service of West Texas Telephone Co., is peculiar in that it can do well only as the people served by it do well. It is an essential service, and experience has shown that an industry which is affected with a public interest serves well only through co-operation between the service and the people served.

—The spirit of co-operation for the benefit of both the service and those served is the spirit that inspires this company to look always to the welfare of its customers and of the community it serves.

Gibson's Newest Picture Delightful Entertainment

"Say, that guy ain't a ball player. That's Hoot Gibson. He's a movie cowboy. He's a swell rider, but I'll bet he couldn't hit a ball with a board—"

Crash!

And the kids in the bleachers saw their motion picture cowboy smash a fast one deep into center field for three bases.

It was during the filming of a scene of "Hit and Run," Gibson's newest Universal starring feature, that the boys had their illusions about Hoot's baseball ability shattered. Gibson and members of his troupe were playing in the Vernon baseball park and several fans were scattered along the bleachers to watch the picture people play. Hoot had come with the express superior notion of giving the actors a hard "razzing."

The Gibson film, which comes to the Queen today and tomorrow, relates the experiences of a western cowboy who is the heavy slugger of the sagebrush country and who clouds his way into the major league. Edward Sedwick, Gibson's director and former professional baseball player in a southern league, evolved the story, with Raymond I. Schrock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Davis had as their guests last Sunday their children, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Davis and son of Menard, Mrs. M. A. Patterson, son and daughter and Mrs. J. CHAPEL, WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 21, 1925

Brother Stephens, the Baptist minister, gave us a very interesting talk on Opportunity. His text was taken from the 9th chapter and 10th verse of Ecclesiastes.

We all agree with Brother Stephens that the opportunity of going to school comes only once in a lifetime. It must be taken when it can be had. We all enjoyed his talk very much and hope he will come and give us another talk some time.

BLIZZARDS DOWNED ELDORADO, 14-0

The Winters Blizzards won the most brilliant victory of the season last Friday at the county fair. The fast little team from Eldorado came and gave the Blizzards their hardest fight of the season. Both touchdowns were made in the first half and after that the game was like a tug-of-war in which neither side gained. From the time the whistle sounded for the battle to begin until it signalled to quite, the game was as interesting as if it were some great University game. The blue and white eleven played the fastest game they have played during their entire football career. Neither team used a variety of players, but were mostly end runs and plunges through the tackles. The Blizzards did not complete a pass during the game.

First Quarter

Robertson kicked to Eldorado's 30 yard line, it was returned 2 yards. Eldorado tried a center rush but Winters held the line. They tried an end run but they lost 3 yards. Eldorado completed a short 4 yard pass. Anthony was put out of the game for unnecessary roughness on this play. Eldorado punted to their 45 yard line.

Bailey, of Winters, tried left end but he did not gain. Bailey then broke through Eldorado's defense and made a 20 yard gain around right end. Fields made 3 yards around right end. Phillips smashed through right tackle for 4 yards. Fields gained 7 yards around right end. Bailey went through center for a 4 yard gain. Robertson gained 4 yards through the line which put the ball over the goal line. Robertson also kicked the free point.

Eldorado chose to receive and Robertson kicked to their 25 yard line, but it was returned to the 32 yard line. Eldorado made their first down when they completed a 10 yard pass. They gained 3 yards around left end. They again tried a pass, but it was not completed. They gained 4 yards through center. Eldorado gained 3 yards around left end. This gave them 10 yards again. They began their new attack by making 1 yard through left tackle. They gained 3 yards through left tackle on the next play and the same amount around right end. Eldorado then punted to Winters 30 yard line and an Eldorado player covered the ball. They again tried a pass but it failed. They fumbled the ball on the next play and Campbell, our right guard, broke through and covered the ball.

Phillips gained 4 yards around right end. Fields started around left end but he was cut off from his interference and lost 8 yards. The Blizzards tried a pass but it was incomplete. Robertson punted to Eldorado's 30 yard line, the ball made a bad bounce and rolled back to the 10 yard line, the safety was downed before he could return the ball any. Eldorado punted to their own 30 yard line, Phillips catching the ball but he was downed in his tracks. Fields gained 4 yards around left end. When the quarter ended it found Winters in possession of the ball on Eldorado's 27 yard line.

Second Quarter

Fields opened the second quarter by gaining 7 yards around left end. Phillips gained 2 yards through center. Phillips then made 8 yards through left tackle. Robertson gained 8 yards through right tackle. Bailey was thrown for a loss of 3 yards. Fields then went through right tackle for 4 yards. The ball liked about yard going over the goal line and Bailey carried it across on the next play. Robertson kicked the

Wins First Prize For Theme on Fire Prevention

During Fire Prevention Week the Owens Drug Store offered a prize to the grade school student writing the best theme on "Fire Prevention." There were a large number who prepared some worthy articles on this subject, and all were given to competent judges to declare which was the best.

After carefully reading them all, the judge awarded the first prize to Miss Clara Nitsch, a student of the low seventh grade. It follows:

Fire Prevention

There are two different kinds of matches. The safety or strike-on-box matches and the strike anywhere matches. There are three things that you produce when striking a match. These are danger, light and heat. Be careful, always watch the brand and if you buy the strike-anywhere matches be sure that they are the kind that have the black bulb around the top. This bulb keeps the heads from flying off. When striking a match strike away from yourself. Be sure also to have the box shut before striking. When matches are spilled do not fail to have them every one picked up at once. Rats and mice might take them in a warm place to build a nest. It is not very likely that they would strike them. A child should never be allowed to carry matches. Even if he is careful he might give one to a careless child that is not. Smokers are often careless. They don't care where they throw matches and cigarettes away without putting them out. Keep matches in a metal box out of reach of children.

A candle is very dangerous, especially if it is not watched. Never set a candle in a bottle or on a board and be sure that the candle stick is round enough at the bottom so that it will not turn over. Many valuable papers can be destroyed in this way and many homes can be burned.

When using lamps do not use a glass one but have a metal one. Always be sure that the wick is trimmed and the globe is clean. Fill the lamp in daylight because it is dangerous to fill it at night. When filling it at night you always have to have a light. Maybe you will strike a match or use a candle. Do not set it at the edge of the table but set it in the center. Because it is easy to knock off. Be sure that the light is extinguished before leaving the house.

Gas lights should have a globe because a curtain can blow against it. Do not have a paper lighter because this is also an easy way to set things on fire.

Stoves should not be allowed to get red hot. Kerosene oil should not be kept near the stove. Never pour kerosene on a fire. Don't polish a stove when it has a fire in it.

Bonfires are dangerous. They should not be set afire unless absolutely necessary. Don't say, "I guess it's all right."

Frozen pipes should be thawed with hot water and not flames.

When grease is spilled, never pour water on it because this spreads it. Try to smother it. When using wax to polish with only use a small quantity and keep it away from the stove. Don't smoke around gas, it is really the most dangerous light that we have. When gas is smelled open all the doors and windows. Then search for the leak. Not with any flames but with a flash light or by the use of smell. Soap suds may also be used. Never use cheap rubbed tubing but have good, metal tubing.

Always watch smokers and warn them. Stamp out matches and cigarettes. Never pass a fire without putting it out. Always have an extinguisher near at hand and everyone should know where it is.

Auto Production Methods Shown

The marvels of modern automotive precision and production methods are depicted in a series of 42 enlarged photographs now being shown to the public at the salesrooms of all American and Canadian Chevrolet dealers.

The photographic series covers the same interesting operations in the manufacture of Chevrolet cars which would be shown a visitor at the factories.

One of the most spectacular pictures shows a huge drop forge hammer weighing 140,000 pounds. Hammers of this type are used to make the Chevrolet crankshaft. The falling weight is a three-ton block of steel which is lifted by steam. It is so responsive to the touch of the skilled operators that they are able to place a watch on the bottom die block and strike it with the hammer so delicately that the crystal remains unbroken. Each hammer will forge 880 crankshafts during a ten-hour day.

Other striking features of the exhibit are pictures of a monster machine which uses 300,000 amperes of electricity to weld the Chevrolet one-piece banjo-type rear axle housing; a machine which drills 32 holes simultaneously in the bottom of the Chevrolet cylinder block; a rotary milling machine which finishes at one operation the lower sides of six cylinder blocks and a 62-ton press which forms a Chevrolet fender at one stroke.

The individual grinding of valves, the delicate balancing of pistons so that every piston in each motor weighs the same and many interesting micrometric inspections also are illustrated in the remarkable exhibit.

The Davis-Patrick Motor Co. have just received one of the new Ajax cars, their latest sales acquisition in the motor car line. This car will be used as a demonstrator only, and Mr. Patrick says that he is ready and anxious to show this new car to anybody at any time.

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes: "After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during ... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house. "I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. "My side hurt less and I began to improve in health. ... The Cardui acted as a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all. "I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui." NC-160

Diversification Key Sells-Floto Shows To Success are in Abilene For Friday Only

Hereford, Oct. 15.—A perfect example of what the diversified and intensive farming program advocated by Col. R. Q. Lee is presented by J. E. Cockerell, a tenant farmer living seven miles northeast of Hereford in Deaf Smith county. Cockerell's case is a living example of the live-at-home plan that is being talked all over Texas.

Some five years ago, J. E. Cockerell had nearly enough money saved up to buy a farm. He kept putting it off, and a hard year struck him, and soon his savings had all been spent for food with which to feed the family. At the time the Cockerells had not started the method of producing one bit of food they ate. After his surplus cash had been exhausted, Cockerell saw that he must arrange some way for his living if he was ever to save money for future needs.

About two years ago, the Cockerell's decided to adopt the live-at-home plan. They started in to produce everything they ate right there on the farm, and to eliminate the grocery bills just as much as possible. During the summer all kind of food produced were canned and stored away for the winter. Last winter the average cost per month for the family of six and a school teacher who was staying there was $12.50. The same menu that was used daily would have averaged $75.00 per month, at any grocery store. Did they have very much to eat? I am sure a number of readers are wanting to ask this question.

Here is a list of the canned products that were put up during the summer, and all were actually produced right there on kinds of that reduced right there on the farm: Beef, corn, beans, tomatoes, three kinds of peas, sweet potatoes, cabbage, beets, fruits, and preserves. In addition were cured pork, lard, eggs, poultry, butter and milk. How many city people have such a variety of foods for their menu?

It is quite natural for all the neighbors to adopt a plan that is working so admirably for one good farmer. Last spring after Cockerell's record became known, the progressive community organized a community canning club, erected a house and equipped it with a 100 quart pres-

The Sells-Floto Circus, second largest show in the world, will be in Abilene, on Friday, October 23rd, certainly information that will please residents here.

Because of the popularity of this great circus the crowd in Abilene on circus day will be a record breaker and that many hundred from this vicinity will be in the great throng goes without the saying.

Thousands of dollars have been expended by the Sells-Floto organization that the show might be enlarged to its present size. Additions include a host of feature acts from all countries of the globe, trained animal acts and many wild beasts from the jungles of Asia, India and South America, as well as from our own Rocky Mountains.

Presented as a special feature will be the gorgeous scenic spectacle "The Birds and the Beasts," one of the most elaborate efforts of all time, and far beyond anything ever attempted by the most noted producers. More than 1,000 are included in the cast of this magnificent and colorful production, which is barbaric and typical in character. In the ballet alone there are more than 1,000 young women, who in their dancing bring out a gorgeous riot of beauty and perfect poetry of motion.

Twenty-four elephants, including the baby "Charlie Ed," are carried by the circus, and all of these big fellows are trained to perfection for their parts.

sure cooker and other necessary material. Mrs. J. E. Cockerell was made president of the organization. The work of this club is attracting much attention all over this section. During the past five weeks, the organization has canned 3200 quarts of home grown produce.

Such is the record of J. E. Cockerell who is a tenant farmer of Deaf Smith county with hopes of saving enough money with his plan to buy a good home. This will be accomplished within the near future is the prediction of those who know him.

General Motors Corporation Start New Industry

Announcement has been made today by the officials of the General Motors Corporation that they have selected Pontiac as the home of another important industrial enterprise.

There already has been appropriated $3,000,000 for the original expenditure in this city for machinery and physical equipment.

A new light six car is to be brought out on a basis of first year production never before attempted. The program in all its various ramifications has been under way for more than two years. The engineering reached a stage of completion some months ago.

Carefully adopted after a full canvass of all the factors the plans call for the production of 60,000 cars the first year. The materials entering into production have been purchased and details largely arranged for this vast enterprise.

The magnitude of the venture, the breadth of the conceit and the extensive operations outclass anything previously undertaken in so far as it applies to rapid development and heavy production in the first 12 months. Only a corporation possessed of unlimited capital and one in which the officers were familiar with big undertakings and with a record of outstanding industrial achievements could be in a position to carry through to a successful completion such an ambitious program.

Pontiac has drawn another prize in the industrial world.

This car will be made in the Oakland plant in conjunction with the present Oakland and will be an entirely new addition to the General Motors' line of passenger cars.

"Employment will be given to upwards of 2,000 men," stated General Manager A. R. Glancy of the Oakland to The Daily Press this morning, "and the new, unnamed light six will be officially christened just prior to the New York automobile show in January."

The new car will be known as a companion car to the present Oakland which has been meeting with such great favor throughout the country, and will be handled by the same dealer organization.

Expansion of machine shop and assembly line facilities has been going forward for some time, so that the new car can be put into production in December. It will be shown at the January show in New York, when for the first time the name, specifications and price of the new car will be disclosed. The only announcement made in the letter to dealers is that Fisher bodies will be used and the price will range between the Chevrolet and the Oldsmobile lines.

But in the meantime there is taking place the most far-reaching preparation for production of 60,000 cars the first year. The plant will have a capacity of 300 a day for the new car in addition to the large output of Oaklands, which is even now far behind in demand.

Announcements are to be made nation-wide this week of the intention to bring out the new car. It is introduced to the public as a "General Motors product, from Oakland Division, the result of 20 years General Motors experience."

Dealers throughout the world are being notified of the double franchise that will be offered them, and an enthusiastic response is looked for. Those dealers who have been shown the experimental cars of the new line are reported to be highly confident of an amazing reception by the public.

The production of 60,000 cars the first year on the new line, in addition to heavy Oakland production, will not represent the full capacity of the facilities provided for by the Oakland Motor Car company, however. The new engine plant can turn out 500 motors a day if required, without going into overtime shifts, so that as the demand grows it will be possible to handle it by making further assembly arrangements, according to Mr. Glancy.

Preparations for this new industrial enterprise have been going forward at the Oakland plant while at the same time every effort was being bent to keep up with the demand for Oakland cars. The factory has been unable to keep pace with the orders and Mr. Glancy states that the schedule for October calls for over 8,000 completed cars, a record for the factory. The present indications, he said, are that the rush of production will continue through the balance of this year. With the new cars put into production about December 15, there is little likelihood of any cessation of activity, he pointed out.

"We expect the new car to startle the automobile world," said Mr. Glancy, "and every indication is that we will not be disappointed."

"Just to show how carefully the General Motors Corporation has gone into the minute detail pertaining to the new project," said Mr. Glancy, "I can do no better than to cite the facts dealing with the amount of money that has been put into this new car."

"Taking into consideration the necessary inventory, machinery and equipment required, experimental costs and expansion to subsidiary companies about $15,000,000 has gone into this newest venture and I am very happy to think that Pontiac has been selected as the home of the giant new industry."—Pontiac Daily Press.

George Speer will have the Winters agency for this new car. Mr. Speer was telling us yesterday that he had on the road and will arrive Monday, the first shipment of large cars to arrive in Winters—and say, bo, they're all already sold, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheridee of Abilene, while passing through Winters last Tuesday, stopped over for a few hours visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Jordan.

Many friends will be glad to know that Miss Opal James of Wilmett, who was operated on last Sunday in the local sanitarium for appendicitis, is doing nicely.

Freedom is a glorious thing.

Will Barrett of the W. B. Barrett Grocery Co., who advertised last week that he would give dishes to those who purchased a certain amount on Saturday, says that the sales were a "knock-out" and that his supply of dishes was exhausted long before the day was over. To the one purchasing the largest amount on this day he gave a 42-piece dinner set, and Mesdames Chas. Wimberly and Guy Mullins purchased the largest bills, and their bills were so close together that both were given a set.

Rising Star Man Who Dies on Coast Is Buried at Home

H. E. Anderson, 70, who recently died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Higginbotham, in San Francisco, was buried at Rising Star, where his father opened the first store which he later acquired. He was born in Hempstead county, Ark., May 3, 1855. With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Anderson, he moved to Rising Star in 1883. Upon arriving there, the elder Anderson, with his son, Will, opened the first store in Rising Star, which was taken over by H. E. Anderson after he had spent a year farming there. He entered the mercantile business in 1884. He was also postmaster, as was his father, the latter being Rising Star's first postmaster. Anderson continued in business until 1909 when he and D. M. Jones sold their store to Higginbotham Bros. & Co., after which, he with Mrs. Anderson, went to Gainesville, where they made their home.

Anderson was one of the founders of the Rising Star Methodist church, and as long as he lived in that city was one of its most active and influential members, for many years being the superintendent of the Sunday school. He also took active interest in all affairs of the city and was numbered among its leading citizens.

Anderson is survived by his widow, three sons, Fred of Gainesville; Sid, who is a missionary in China, and Willie of Alpine; also one daughter, Mrs. Higginbotham. Three brothers survive, W. W. and Newt of Rising Star, and C. E. Anderson of McLean.—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

Girls Organize A New Clubs

On Wednesday, October 14th, eight girls met to organize a club. They decided to call the club the "O. I.'s," and as for the meaning of O. I., well, that's a secret. Some of the purposes of the club will be:

1. To entertain out of town school teams.

2. To learn to combine school and fun in the right way.

In order to accomplish this every girl must pass in four subjects before she is eligible for membership. Anyone failing for two successive months forfeits her membership. Anyone making low grades are heavily fined. Entertainment will consist of candy pullings, forty-two and theatre parties.

The charter members are: Alleene Jones, Gladys Bourne, Star, was in the city the first of the week a guest of her son, Lanham Brown.

Lucile Hartzog, Bendena Spill, Marie Griffin, Marie Hill, Fannie Joe Bartlett, Leon Campbell.

The sponsors of our club are Miss Ruth Jones and Miss Vera Wilson.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dinwiddie and daughter, Edith, left Wednesday for Los Angeles, Calif., where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Dinwiddie informed us that doctors advised a change of climate in the hope that it would benefit his wife's health, thus the change. He stated that he would always have a warm place in his heart for Winters and her people, and were it not for his wife's health, he would not think of leaving. We regret very much to have them leave our city and assure them a hearty welcome when they desire to return, and wish for them the greatest happiness and success and the restoration of Mrs. Dinwiddie's health in their new home.

Miss Eura Bibb, who is employed at Schindler's Variety Store, was a visitor in Drasco last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Jordan received a message Wednesday from Norton stating that Mrs. J. H. Clark was found dead. Mrs. Clark was an old friend of the Jordans and has many friends here who will be shocked to hear of her death.

Mrs. Alex Orr spent Wednesday in Abilene, the guest of Miss Lois

Riddle, who is a student in Simmons University.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Briley are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the arrival in their home of a nine-pound boy who arrived last Tuesday. Mother and son are doing nicely.

A Prize Winning Essay on Fire Prevention

During fire prevention week Mr. E. A. Shepperd offered a prize to the high school pupil writing the best essay on the subject, and the prize was awarded Gladys Lehman, a senior in the W. H. S. Following is essay:

Fire Prevention

Fire is all right in its place, but altogether to be dreaded where it can burn people or destroy property. So those persons who know what to do and have presence of mind to do it are invaluable when clothes catch fire, the lamp upsets, the chimney or curtains are alight, or the house ablaze.

Carelessness is the cause of fires in almost every instance. Matches are too carelessly thrown about in our homes. People do not realize the great danger that their lives and property are in by being so careless with matches, cigarettes and other ways that cause fires. Matches should be kept in a mouse-proof container. Matches should be kept out of the reach of children. Little children are sometimes burned to death because they make a plaything of fire. They like to get hold of a box of matches and make a bright light by striking them. Their clothes may catch fire or else they may thoughtlessly set fire to a building or other property.

What is there to do to prevent fires is a great question to be answered. There are many ways that fires may be prevented because carelessness is the cause of most of them.

Another way to prevent fires is to cause the cigarette smoker to be careful where he throws his cigarette snipe or the match that he uses in lighting his cigarette.

Fires are caused by matches being left in clothing that is hung in clothes closets. For mice are usually everywhere and should one nibble a match in a pocket he might instantly cause a fire. Therefore we should be very careful about leaving matches in our clothing.

People who have their homes wired with electric wires should have them regularly inspected because mice may gnaw the insulation from the wires and thus cause a fire with loss of property and probably loss of life.

Chimneys that are allowed to accumulate soot cause fires. When soot catches fire in a chimney it burns rapidly, and may cause the house to burn. Then it might be said that keeping chimneys clean is a prevention against fire.

A great percentage of fires are caused by people leaving their homes with a fire in the stove or forget to turn out a burner on the oil stove or forget to blow the light out at night and the wind may cause the lamp or oil stove to run up or explode. Then another way is where people leave their little children alone with a lighted, common kerosene lamp. Innocently they play and accidentally turn over the lamp throwing flaming oil over themselves and the furniture. A fire in this instance is almost always the cause of loss of life and of property. This is a carelessness that can be easily prevented.

Lamps should not be placed near thin, flimsy window curtains, because a small breeze might blow the curtain over the lamp and cause it to catch fire and they burn so easily.

A match should always be extinguished after it has been used. For a small spark has been the cause of many fires. The "Chicago fire" was caused by a cow kicking a lantern.

Never start a fire with a big can of oil. And never throw oil on a flame. Because it may cause the person that is using the kerosene to catch fire.

A person that is cleaning clothes with gasoline should be very careful that there is not any fire about. And when clothing is pressed that have been cleaned with gasoline, they should be thoroughly aired so the gasoline will be evaporated. Fire should never be near anything that will burn easily.

Then after all precautions have been taken to prevent fires, there are still other things to do to prevent loss of life should there be a fire. If we are in a school or a public building which catches fire, there is danger of being burned, but the risk of being crushed and trampled on when the crowd rushes wildly to get out through one or two doors. In schools fire drills are often held, and the children march out exactly as their teachers tell them to do.

Everyone gets out in the shortest time possible, and there is no blocking of passage; but when panic occurs in a hall or public room and people hustle and press toward the door, it is wise to look out for another way of escape, for there is one usually—a back door or side door, or window to be reached. If we are in the middle of a panic-stricken crowd we are safest if we keep our heads up, our arms doubled up in front of our chests, and our elbows to our sides. That gives us the best chance to breathe and resist pressure on the ribs.

It is found that an average of five schools burn per day, and millions of dollars worth of other property are burned. But above all thousands of human lives are snuffed out by fires yearly. This is entirely too great a loss of life and property, when so many of these fires are caused by carelessness. For the good of all, let's prevent all the fires that we can with, "God's Divine Help."

OBITUARY

The following obituary of James C. Green, is taken from the Lampasas Leader and being reproduced here because the deceased has many acquaintances and friends and a daughter, Mrs. J. D. Smith, in the Winters Country:

"James C. Green was born Dec. 25, 1836, in Corroll County, Tenn, and on Sept. 10, 1925, his spirit left this tenement of clay for the paradise of God, there to await the resurrection of his mortal body.

"He had made preparations for this great time, in early manhood, accepting by faith the gift of eternal life and uniting with the Baptist church.

"Bro. Green was married three times. There was one child, a son, by his first marriage, Joe Green of South Dakota, and eight by his second marriage, five of whom are living: Mrs. J. D. Smith, Winters, Texas; Mrs. Lula Ulmer, San Angelo, Texas; Mrs. Lee Smith, Lubbock, Texas; H. A. Green, Adamsville, Texas; J. A. Green, Lometa, Texas. He also raised an orphan boy, Sid Seldon, of Ballinger, Texas. He is survived by his companion to whom he was married on Dec. 6, 1887, and two step-sons, W. A. and J. V. Piper, Adamsville, Texas. He came to Texas about fifty years ago, living a short time in Williamson county, the remainder of his life in Lampasas county and Coryell county. His remains were laid away in Hines Chapel Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Elder W. L. Rodgers, assisted by Bro. Johnson, Sept. 12, 1925.

"He served 14 months in the Civil War, during 1862 and '63. He was corporal of Captain A. W. Hawkins' company, 7th Regiment of Tennessee Cavalry.

"He, with his companion, spent the last two years of his life with his step-son, J. V. Piper. He was confined to his bed the greater part of the time, all the time the last ten months. His suffering was great but he bore his pains without murmuring.

"To his children we would say emulate the example of your father that when you are called from labor to refreshment there will be a glad reunion.—His friends and former pastor,—D. W. White."

Quality Buying Makes Lower Prices Possible

Some Liars I Have Met

By JOE SAPPINGTON

(Editor's Note.—Joe Sappington, one of the best-known humorists of Texas, whose articles have been widely published over the State, is seriously thinking of coming to Winters to make his home. We've known Mr. Sappington for many years and always enjoy his humorous articles, a sample of which is reproduced below, and it is quite likely he will become a regular contributor to The Enterprise.)

I candidly believe I have met more and a greater variety of liars than any man of my age in the entire state of Texas. Before I was through shedding my milk teeth, people began lying to me and they are still at it. The first day of the first school I ever attended proved conclusively to my young mind that every blame boy in my class was a barefaced liar. They said if I would take the piece of asafetida my folks had hung on my neck to ward off measles, whooping cough, croup, mumps, etc., and put it in the teacher's pipe, they would suffer death by slow burning rather than tell on me. I had no more than put the stuff in the pipe when the teacher discovered it. "Who put this stuff in my pipe, boys," he asked, and every one of them stood up and pointed his finger at me.

After wearing out the dogwood switch on me that one of the boys has hastily procured for the occasion without being solicited, the teacher made me sit on a bench by myself, claiming that it was not right to make good and truthful boys sit by me.

By the time I quit wearing dresses I bet I had wasted a barrel of salt throwing it at birds' tails, since a lot of liars had made me believe that was the way to catch them. No telling how many times I have gone in search of the financial end of a rainbow where I was assured by some old long-whiskered liar a large pot of gold would be found.

About the time my voice began to change and whisker bumps to pop out on my fuzzy chin, I began meeting the more versatile and accomplished liars, both male and female. For instance I gave a dark complected stranger wearing a derby hat and sideburns, $3.50 and my note for $7.50 due in sixty days, for a recipe guaranteed to grow whiskers on the most youthful chin in the short space of two weeks. It was my idea to stick around home while my whiskers were growing like a green bay tree and when they had reached my waist line I was going to dash up to the Cave Creek meeting house on my pony and have everybody guessing who the handsome bewhiskered stranger was. But alas my whiskers hung fire and said dash was never made.

I hate to say it, but one of the biggest liars I ever met was a grass widow older and larger than myself and the mother of three promising children. It was a case of love at first sight with us, or at least it was with me and I didn't only lavish my boyish affections on her, but at least twenty pounds of stick candy, to say nothing of the gold-filled engagement ring that cost me a dollar and a quarter. We were to be married in the fall or just as soon as I could get out a bale of cotton to buy my wedding outfit and enough furniture to start keeping house. But alas! Yea a whole lot of alases! She deceived me most cruelly, in fact, lied to me and married a one-legged sewing machine agent with a cataract in his left eye.

Yes, indeed, I have met first and last all sorts of liars: met the fellow who broke a faro bank; the liar that caught the monster fish that got away; met the dern liar whose grandparents owned so many niggers before the war that no one could count them; have come face to face with the fellow who refused to marry the young and beautiful heiress because he didn't love her, but married a large, heavy set woman with two big hairy moles on her chin and with no dowery worth speaking of but a paint filley and the family organ, just because he loved her, and have met liars literally by the hundreds whose children were mental prodigies.

Meeting so many liars as I have from early childhood up to the present writing, it's a thousand wonders I have not drifted into the lying habit myself. The only way I can account for it, is that I was just naturally born truthful.

Zulus Drown As Miracle Fails to Part Sea

A recent attempt to perform a miracle similar to one described in Exodus and shown in the Paramount picture, "The Ten Commandments," ended disastrously, according to a cable dispatch from London which reads:

Fifty Christian Zulus drowned in a spring torrent when they attempted to apply the Hebraic miracle of the Red Sea to modern waters. Coming to the nameless torrent, the natives recalled the Biblical wonders of the parting of the Red Sea to permit the fleeing Jews led by Moses to escape the Egyptians. The native leader called his men to join him in prayer. On the bank the Zulus prayed to God to stay the waters so that they might go home. Then the leader advanced to the bank and struck the water with his walking staff, commanding the flood to recede. The fifty walked boldly into the water behind their leader and were drowned.

In "The Ten Commandments,"

which will be shown on the screen at the Queen Theatre, a modern miracle actually is performed. As the Hebrews reach the Red Sea, the Egyptian charioteers are almost upon them. A wall of fire is thrown between the two forces as Moses calls upon God to help his people in their distress. By means of a modern miracle of photography, a tremendous upheaval divides it before your eyes and two huge walls of water form a dry path between them. The Israelites pass safely to the opposite shore, but as the Egyptians attempt to follow, the waters come together and they are drowned in the deluge. These stirring scenes are among the many thrills in "The Ten Commandments."

This remarkable picture has already been shown to about five million people, and it being such a long picture we will only be able to give the people of Winters and community four shows daily on Nov. 2 and 3.

Shows will start daily at 2:15, 4:30, 6:45 and 9:30 p. m.

We also urge all that possible can to attend the matinees and avoid the night crowds.

Miss Jewel Harris of Santa Anna, Mrs. Ray Garrett and Mrs. Taylor of Cross Plains, were guests of Mrs. Dewey Speer and Miss Carrie Flynt last Sunday.

It seems as if the Navy can't get rid of that jink.

JOHN W. NORMAN RESIGNS HIS PLACE IN BANK TO ENTER BUSINESS FOR SELF

John W. Norman, who has been with the National bank since its reorganization as assistant cashier, has resigned that place and will take an interest with his brother, Harold Norman, in the mercantile establishment of Norman-Smith at Winters. While the business at Winters has only been going a few weeks, it has already become so large that Harold wants the assistance of his brother; and so bank clerk will leave the posting machine and take up the yardstick and assistant managership of a mercantile concern for his future venture in the business world.

John has a friend in everyone who knows him, and they all know him, for he was born and reared here, and has been active in every forward movement in both school and civic life. He will be a big asset in the life of Winters, and to the business he has attached himself to, as soon as he has become acquainted with the people and the town life. We hate to have him go away, but we are always glad for our friends to do better for themselves.

The place made vacant by his leaving the National bank will be filled by David Norman, who has been bookkeeper for Norman Brothers during the past several months, and who is every way competent to fill the place. The place of bookkeeper at the Norman store is to be filled by Ben Norman, who has already taken over the job and is making good. The advancement of these young men, all of the same name, is another proof that there is room at the top for any boy who will prepare himself for responsibility when it comes his way.—Killeen Herald.

The Dog Poisoner And An Opinion

Dr. Roy Maddox lost by poisoning one day the first of this week a very fine German Police dog, valued at $150, and later in the day he lost his bird dog, valued at $100, also by poisoning. Several other very valuable dogs have been reported to have been killed recently. The following is the opinion of a dog fancier in the State of Washington, published in a recent issue of Outdoor Life of dog poisoners:

"Someone murdered our five-month-old English setter pup, Teddy, by throwing poison in our yard.

"Some years ago I had another dog of this same breed and family named Don. He was given to me when a pup by the same person who gave me Teddy. Don was the best dog I ever saw; loving, faithful, intelligent. Ever since he died I have longed for another like him, and Teddy gave high hopes of developing into as good if not a better dog than Don. But now he is dead, murdered secretly and cowardly and without cause, for he never harmed anybody or anything.

"It was heart-rendering to see the little fellow suffer so intensely—convulsion after convulsion—until finally relieved by death. We called a doctor and did everything possible to save him, but all in vain. Dog poisoner, think of this, sneer at it too, if you will; such action will coincide with your pitiless nature.

"Love is engendered by association and we had learned to fondly love this intelligent, confiding, faithful being.

"The Creator contrived them and gave them their nature to become man's companion, and they size up to be the object of their creation full and well. The man or woman who has no love for a noble dog is made up wrong. He or she who cannot respect and admire companionship, faithfulness, devotion and courage, whenever found, lacks an element of true manhood and womanhood, is utterly devoid of an attribute of humanity.

"The sneaking, secret murderer of our puppy still lives. I may never know to a certainty who he or she may be, but I want this person to know that I look upon him or her as the lowest, vilest, foulest and most cowardly of all creation.

"The murderer may be a male creature and walk upright on two legs, but he possesses none of the attributes of a man, and ought to be compelled to crawl on his belly in the dust throughout all the years of his existence. He is a reptile of the lowest order, lower than the rattlesnake that has courage and exercises it by giving warning before striking its fangs into its victim, while this miscreant, the dog poisoner is the assence of cowardice personified.

"It may be female—if so, she has none of the natural qualities nor even instincts of a woman, and I would not debase the best of God's creation by applying to her the name woman. She is lower and more loathsome than the infanticide or the woman of the brothel who makes commerce her sex. She is a being without love, without sympathy, without mercy. She is cold and stinking as the hyena.

"The miscreant may escape being found out and properly punished, but the hellish qualities of his nature will grow and gradually show in his countenance and in his daily intercourse with his fellow men until he will be looked upon as a cold selfish, heartless, cowardly creature whom no one loves or respects and whose friendship and civility none desire.

"No genuine man or woman would trade with, have anything to do with or even touch the hand of the dog Austin Myers thar thar taharodaroda poisoner if they knew him or her."—Austin Mires.

LADY VOTERS DEMAND MORE LEGAL RIGHTS

Legal disqualifications that women in Texas are subjected to both under the common law and statutory enactment evoked several spirited comments at the opening session of the sixth annual convention of the Texas League of Women Voters in Dallas this week.

"Men and women should have equal rights on the score of equal taxation alone," declared Miss Florence M. Sands of Dallas, commenting on the address of Mrs. Grace N. Fitzgerald of Dallas, who had enumerated the legal disabilities under which Texas women suffer.

"It is a slap at woman's intelligence that she should lose control of her property after marriage," she said. "Take that part of the marriage vow which reads, 'and with all my worldly goods I thee endow,' which the husband makes to his wife; what does that mean, if anything, in Texas? Under our laws it means, I suppose, that she can have old shoes and what not. And if it doesn't mean anything, can the rest of the vow have any meaning?"

"I don't blame some women for insisting that the word 'obey' be struck from the wedding ceremony," she added.

Mrs. Fitzgerald referred to "the fiction of the law that man and wife are one and that the man is that one." After pointing out the abject legal condition of women under the English common law, which prevails in Texas except where otherwise enacted by statute, she recited six specific cases where, in her opinion the legal status of women in Texas should be corrected.

One of these was that grounds for divorce should be the same in Texas for both man and wife.
