HOTEL WINTERS OPENS TUESDAY

Cream and Poultry Business Overcoming Depression

Despite the fears that our country is "going on the rocks," actions depict quite the contrary if the production of poultry and dairy products are to be taken as a criterion of the times. For during the past two weeks the poultry shipments from Winters have been enormous, while the cream receipts are growing by leaps and bounds. The Winters Ice & Fuel, with their new equipment for handling cream in a sanitary manner is adding much to the activities along this line.

In handling both sweet and sour cream they are able to give the farmers and all producers of cream their choice of price. In grading the cream, or rather the sweet cream, they class it as No. 1 sweet which is cream that is not over six hours old at the time it reaches the plant. No 2 sweet is cream that reaches the plant by the time it is 12 hours old. Producers who wish to get a higher rate should try to produce a better article and get it to the plant while it is fresh.

From the standpoint of poultry, the demand is shown by the fact that the Runnels County Hatchery has been forced to put in another mammoth Buckeye incubator with a capacity of 12,500 eggs. This is the second of this size now in operation and Mr. Robertson states that both machines are booked solid for some time yet. The Winters Hatchery, with a capacity of 10,500, is also running full. Hatches are turning out splendidly. With these three giant machines, Winters is able to turn out over 35,000 baby chicks every twenty-one days with the commercial incubators, to say nothing of the large number of small incubators privately owned and operated and the day and night work of "Biddy the Hen." All this speaks of better times for our section.

E. E. Turpin, in charge of construction work on the new high school building, was transacting business in Dallas the past week-end. He was accompanied home by F. A. Mote, of the Mote Construction Co., who have the contract for erecting the new school building, who transacted business here a few days the first of the week.

Lyric Theatre to Open Here Today

The Lyric Theatre, one of a chain of amusement houses, owned and operated by the Hodge interests, will open here this (Friday) evening, featuring Jack Hoxie in one of his latest western productions, "Hidden Loot," with a good comedy and serial in connection. The Hodge interests formerly operated the Mission but discontinued it, and opened the Lyric in their own building, formerly occupied by the Hub Dry Goods Co., on North Main. Workmen have just completed the remodeling of the building, both inside and out.

This is one of the nicest little exclusive picture theatres in the country. It has a large balcony that will seat over 100 persons, and the lower floor has ample incline which will enable the audience to get a full view of the screen.

The Lyric will show mostly western pictures and will run only on Fridays and Saturdays of each week during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hall and daughter, Loretta, of Edinburg, came in Tuesday for several days visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rodgers, and other relatives.

Field Demonstration of John Deere Plows Today

The special representatives of the John Deere Plow Co., who are here this week demonstrating every farm implement made by this company and used in this territory, will give a field demonstration of the John Deere tractor and tractor plow on the farm of Chas. Chapman just north of the city, this (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Many farmers have been interested spectators at the demonstration being conducted under the auspices of Higginbotham Bros. & Co. here all this week.

Every farmer is urged to attend the tractor and plow demonstration this (Friday) afternoon and see these implements put to the real test.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

—Courtesy Star-Telegram.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Stokes, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary December 21, 1926. They were born in Alabama in 1853. Mr. Stokes will be 74 in September while Mrs. Stokes was 74 January 8, this year. They married in Pike County Alabama, in 1876 and came to Texas January 8, 1877, locating at Mexia, where they lived 33 years. Later they moved to Winters, where they have lived for the past 15 years. They have seven living children, as follows: Lynn and Grady Stokes of Ballinger, Homer Stokes of Houston, Will J. Stokes of Wilson, R. L. Stokes, Mrs. J. C. Meredith and Mrs. W. T. Sudberry, this city, and 26 grandchildren.

J. I. Street Adding Hardware Line

Workmen have about completed the interior remodeling of the building occupied by J. I. Street, tinner and plumber, on East Dale street, preparatory to adding a new line of shelf hardware and tools.

Mr. Street is expecting the new line to arrive every day now, and when it is installed he is anxious that his friends and the general public call and see the new arrangements and when in need of anything in shelf hardware or tools, he will be glad to show his line.

Fire Department Elects Officers

The Winters Volunteer Fire Department met in regular session last Friday evening for the purpose of electing officers for the year 1927, with P. G. Garrett in the chair. The session was held in the chamber of commerce hall.

The following officers were elected for the year: P. G. Garrett, president; M. R. Chapman, vice-president; J. C. Meredith, secretary-treasurer; Frank Williams, chief; B. G. Owens, assistant chief; E. A. Shepperd, recording secretary; Mrs. B. G. Owens, sponsor; Rev. Gid J. Bryan, chaplain; Eugene Williams, mascot; Sarah Lou Owens, junior sponsor.

The following membership committee was elected for the year: I. M. Preston, M. R. Chapman and H. H. Williams.

Dick Sullivan and Haywood Springer were elected to membership in the company.

John Shipman, who had been a member of the company for some time, requested that he be retired. His request was granted and he was made an honorary member of the company.

Companies Nos. 1 and 2 and composed of practically the same members as last year, with the exception of new additional members.

The company went on record as favoring Louie Cohen, chief of the Ballinger Fire Department, for Fourth Vice-President of the State Firemen's Association, and pledged their undivided support to Mr. Cohen.

One of the subjects discussed, but nothing arrived at definitely, was the return banquet to be given the Ballinger fire boys. The date of this banquet will be announced later.

Dr. P. C. Anders, who has been visiting relatives here for several weeks, left Tuesday for his home in North Port, Ala. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pumphrey. This is their first visit in forty years back at the old home, and we are sure it will be a pleasant one.

Public Invited to Attend Opening Party

Local Lions Hear Address on Washington Tuesday

One of the best programs that we have ever been privileged to attend was held by the Lions Club last Tuesday. Every Lion and visitor went away saying that he had been well repaid for his time and money that he had put into the club for the past year.

The program was opened by the "Ball Bearing Quartet" which rendered two splendid numbers which were well received. The quartet was composed of Messrs. Bacon, Gambill, Burton and Bedford.

Lion H. H. Stephens was introduced by Toastmaster R. Q. Adams. Lion Stephens spoke five minutes exactly on the subject, "Some Suggestions for the Good of the Club." Taitwister Shepperd called a halt at the expiration of the time, but Lion Stephens paid a fine for the privilege of finishing the sentence which he was speaking.

C. R. Robertson introduced Dr. E. D. Salkeld, pastor of the First Christian church of Abilene, who spoke upon "The Life of Washington." The speaker in a forceful and pleasing manner, stressed the character of Washington as the one thing which makes him the outstanding American not only of his own generation but of every succeeding generation up to the present time. He was strong in his belief that, like Washington, this generation should be more respectful and amenable to our duly constituted authorities and superiors. He stressed the fact that every citizen should always give his best to every worthy task. Never has it been our privilege to hear a more pleasing and instructional address upon the life of any great man. The speaker cited incident after incident which proved beyond question that he was a close student of our great patriot. Dr. Salkeld is a forceful speaker, a clear thinker, and an orator of no little force.

George Hill announced the opening of the drive for band uniforms for the Junior Band, which Carl Davis and his committee are making this week. The guest list included Messrs. Vaughn and Dodd, John Deere representatives, guests of G. E. Nicholson; Mr. Dunn, auditor of the West Texas Utilities Co., guest of V. Vanzandt; Messrs. Whitsett and Brown, Ford representatives, guests of S. H. Nance; G. A. Cresswell of Abilene, guest of Dr. Maddox; C. W. Lehmburg, county farm demonstration agent, guest of B. G. Owens; H. H. Williams, assistant local manager of Wm. Cameron & Co., guest of R. E. Bacon.

President Nance appointed Lions Gid J. Bryan, A. L. Barlow and Carl Davis as a program committee for the next meeting.

Cars Collide Here Tuesday

Miss Winnie Mae Jeffries was painfully injured Tuesday afternoon when the car she was driving collided with another car which was being driven by Miss Nola Fay Woodroe. The accident occurred at the intersection of Truett avenue and North Main street. Miss Jeffries sustained painful cuts about the face and head from the glass of the broken windshield, while Miss Woodroe received no serious injuries. Both cars were badly damaged.

About the first of the year, the old Rock hotel building was purchased by T. B. Poe and Miss Pauline Jones and since that time the entire building has been completely remodeled, repapered, repainted and furnished throughout with new and modern furniture. The hotel will be known in the future as the Hotel Winters and the opening will take place next Tuesday evening, from eight to ten o'clock, at which time the general public is invited to visit and inspect the new institution. Refreshments will be served the guests and special music will be rendered.

The entire work of remodeling, papering and painting was done by local contractors and the furnishings were bought through local dealers. W. W. Nance had the contract for the construction work, while M. M. Snelling was the contractor for the paint and paper hanging. J. I. Street, local plumber, equipped the building with modern plumbing fixtures, and each room is supplied with hot and cold running water and is also piped for gas.

The furniture, rugs, draperies and other furnishings were bought thru Higginbotham Bros. & Co. and Spill Bros. The mattresses were made of long lint cotton by the Winters Mattress Factory.

Winters has long since felt the need of a modern hotel and one that we may speak of with much pride and in the new arrangement of Hotel Winters this long-felt need has been filled and in the future Winters citizens need not hesitate in answering any inquiries as to hotel accommodations in our city. The management has kept this thought in mind and has spent both time and money in remodeling and refurbishing the building and invite the public generally to be their guests at the informal opening Tuesday evening.

On entering the lobby one is at once impressed with the neat, home-like appearance and the cheerful atmosphere which prevades. French doors lead into the dining room and a drummers sample room.

The dining room, a special feature of the hotel accommodations, is finished in blue and grey with draperies and other furnishings in harmonizing colors, and is equipped with green-lined vitrified china and community plate silver. Meals will be served either family style or individually.

In passing up the stairway to the bedrooms above, a sense of pride is felt by the modern air of the entire building and that it is up to the standard of modern hotels in comfort, appearance and furnishings. There are seventeen bed-rooms, each equipped with lavatories and both hot and cold running water, and are furnished with Simmons beds and springs and walnut dressers with the exception of three which are neat oak dressers. The draperies, rugs, bedspreads and blankets are all in harmonizing colors and each room presents a home-like appearance of comfort. About half of the rooms are furnished with private or connecting baths.

The proprietors are to be congratulated on the careful arrangement of the entire building and we can assure the public a rare treat and much pleasure in making the hotel a visit next Tuesday evening. Radio programs, special music, refreshments are planned for the opening.

Mrs. J. C. Watts of Drasco, was shopping here Monday.

Hart Phillips returned the first of the week from Lubbock, where he was called by the serious illness of B. F. Godwin, Mrs. Phillips' father. Late reports from his bedside, are quite favorable, but Mrs. Phillips is still with her parents.

In Your Own Interest BUY AT HOME

Buying at home involves several things that are of value to the customer as well as the business man and the town. As you will notice in the full page ad on another page in this issue, the merchant is the man who makes the imperfect merchandise good. There are bound to be faults in all merchandise at one time or another. The local merchant is always ready to make adjustments when they are called for. He is your neighbor and he wants to hold your friendship as well as to merely hold your trade. He is the man to whom you can go for adjustments. The traveling peddler is not accessible even if he was willing to make corrections.

If home institutions are worthy institutions and are run upon the right basis they will succeed and they will receive your patronage. The local merchant must remember that there is a code of ethics for him as well as for his customer. He should buy his supplies for his home, his family, as well as for his business, as long as he can do so, at home. If he wants loyalty he must give the same to his fellow merchant, whether it be in buying bread, sporting goods or automobiles. TRY WINTERS FIRST!

The interior of your home is gutted and flooded—just the shell remains. What is to be done?

Why, rebuild, of course! Use the money provided by your foresight in buying proper insurance in the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, before fire ruined your home. Get your policy here, now!

STATE PRESS AGREES WITH THE ENTERPRISE

A few weeks ago the following paragraph appeared in The Enterprise editorial columns:

"About the first of the year a man said he believed he wouldn't take the Enterprise this year, as he wanted to save the $1.50 on account of the scarcity of money. He couldn't be budged from his decision by the editor, so his name was dropped from the list. But only a couple of days ago he brought in the price of a year's subscription and said his wife had changed her mind. The good lady told him that she could more than save the price of a year's subscription by reading the ads every week."

And here's the comment on the above paragraph by State Press of The Dallas News:

"The women know. They know because they have tried both plans, the plan of doing without the paper and thereby missing the ads, also the plan of having the paper and thereby getting the ads. They know that the cost of subscribing to the paper is insignificant and the value of its contents, including the ads, is more than can be reckoned in dollars and cents. Modern life scarcely can be lived without a modern newspaper, but there are some intelligent people who are forever experimenting with uninformed living. Not women—women have a certain faculty called intuition, which means acute perception of real and false values. It is this faculty that makes women good subscribers, as publishers long ago found out. This newspaper, for instance, The Dallas Morning News, can be had a whole year for the price of four real silk stockings. There is not a woman in Texas who would swap twelve months of The News for two pairs of stockings. There isn't a woman in Texas who wouldn't rather go without stockings half the time than miss her favorite newspaper all the time. When stockings of the better quality cost four dollars a pair and up, any woman can save the cost of a newspaper for a month in the price of a pair of stockings bought at a bargain sale advertised in the paper. In that one transaction she more than pays for the paper and gets her reading free. Just as advertisers know how valuable advertising is, so do women know how valuable advertisements are. It is only the dealers who don't advertise and the buyers who don't read advertising who think advertising doesn't pay—and just look at 'em!"

WHY WORRY

Physicians who study the nerves of men and women say that needless worry is to blame for most of the mental ills of America. People worry themselves pale when they really have nothing to fret about.

If folks would only analyze their troubles or take them very flimsy. No dog loses any sleep through worry over the planting of his bones. Not even a squirrel will worry over his store of acorns.

But man, who is supposed to have a throne for his reason and a noodle for solving problems, will worry himself to suicide over the possession of a few puny dollars.

DON'T NEGLECT 'EM

"The best thing to take for a bad cold is two days," advises a prominent doctor. This means, of course, two days of complete rest in bed, at an even temperature, drinking much water and eating as little as possible. It is reported that Europe's influenza epidemic may come here. No need to be panic stricken, but don't neglect colds.

JUST IMAGINE

It's a mighty good thing that we have the Volstead law, now that we have so many automobiles," comments a daily newspaper.

And doubtless if we didn't have the Volstead act there would not be nearly so many autos, and more of those that we do have would try to climb telephone poles and hospital beds would be at a premium.

NEEDS HIS HEAD

George Young, seventeen-year-old swimmer, faces a tougher job than navigating the Catalina channel. He must assimilate success. With a $25,000 prize to start with, the youngster is swamped with opportunities to make more money. The business of being a hero—and capitalizing on it—is tricky enough for anybody, let alone a youth who finds himself overnight in the dazzling glare of the spotlight.

MALICIOUS GOSSIP

A few years ago we were afflicted with "muck rakers." Just now we are troubled with despoilers of the dead. Washington, Gladstone and other distinguished members of the human race are having their reputations assailed by lesser breeds, who seek to capitalize the malicious gossip which always hounds great men. They will not profit by this ungracious task.

One young man confessed to having stolen 230 automobiles last year. He must have been crazy for a ride.

Court Disposes Criminal Cases

Ballinger, Feb. 16.—The criminal docket of the district court for the spring term was completed here Tuesday afternoon when the last of the 25 cases on the docket were disposed of.

O. L. Chapmond of Winters, charged with driving a car while intoxicated, was the last defendant called for trial. He was given a fine of $75 and five days in the county jail.

Other cases disposed of were as follows:

There were twenty-five cases pending on the February term of the criminal docket. Thirteen cases were continued, five cases were dismissed, one defendant's bond was forfeited, one case retried, four pleas of guilty entered, verdicts were returned by juries in each case and one defendant pleaded not guilty and was given three years in the penitentiary.

Judge Woodward left for Coleman Tuesday afternoon but will return to Ballinger next Monday to complete court work here. It is understood that there is one jury civil case to be called for trial next week. A motion for a new trial will also be heard here Monday.

The offer of a billion dollars cash for the Ford stock was not made by any newspaper man, so far as we know.

Death Claims Aged Citizen

After an illness of several weeks, Thomas L. Chapmond, familiarly called "Uncle Tom," died at the family home Saturday evening, February 19th.

Deceased was born Sept. 15, 1850, at Washita, Ark., and at the time of his death was seventy-six years, five months and four days old. His first marriage was in 1873, and born to this union were three children, A. B. Chapmond, Winters; Dora Chapmond Witt, deceased; Lura Chapmond Burnett of Mena, Ark. His second marriage was in 1882, and four children were born to this union, Earl Chapmond, Winters; Eva Chapmond Taylor, Ardmore, Okla.; Oscar Chapmond, Winters and Delsie Chapmond Ogden, Ardmore, Okla. All were present at the funeral except Mrs. Burnett, who arrived too late.

Uncle Tom moved to Winters in 1907 and has lived here continuously since that time. He was friendly and kindly disposed toward every one with whom he became acquainted, a kind and affectionate father and a progressive citizen, always assuming his part of responsibility in any movement for the upbuilding of the community in which he lived. He became a member of the Church of God about twenty-five years ago. Truly, Uncle Tom will be greatly missed by his friends, children and other relatives.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the old cemetery, conducted by Rev. Hal F. Smith.

Spill Bros, funeral directors, prepared the body for burial and were in charge at the cemetery. Pall bearers were C. Kornegay, Bert E. Low, Jake Emmert, H. K. Ried, R. L. Stookesberry, John Dry, J. V. Davis, James W. Smith and Albert Spill.

Tenderest sympathy is expressed for the lonely and sorrowing loved ones.

envelopes, folders, etc., are extremely large or very small, while in other cases they are of triangular, circular, or other irregular shape. It is frequently necessary to cancel the postage stamps on such matter of unusual size or shape by hand, as the matter can not be run through the canceling machine. In many instances the matter does not fit the separating cases and can not be tied with the ordinary packages of mail without being folded or cut by the package string. This imposes additional and unnecessary labor upon the postal service, prevents the expeditious handling of the matter and often results in it reaching the addressee in a mutilated condition.

"In other cases envelopes, folders, cards, etc., are made of such dark-colored stationery or bear on the address side so much printed matter in addition to the address that they contravene the provisions of paragraph 3, section 457, Postal Laws and Regulations, which provides that space must be left on the address side of all mail sufficient for a legible address and for all directions permissible thereon, for postage stamps, post-marking, rating and any words necessary for forwarding or return."

"Not less than 3 1-2 inches of clear space should be left for such purposes at the right end of the address side of all envelopes, folders, or wrappers of mail matter. Envelopes, window and ordinary, folders, cards and wrappers should not be of such dark-colored stationery or bear on the address side so much printed matter in addition to the address as to contravene the foregoing provisions. It is preferable that all envelopes be made of white paper; when paper of any other color is used for envelopes, cards, folders, or wrappers, it should be of very light tints of yellow, pink or manila."

Experience has shown that a very large portion of the objectionable matter can be eliminated, and that business persons and concerns, as a rule, are willing and glad to cooperate with the postal service when it is pointed out to them that it is mutually advantageous to themselves and the postal service if they will procure envelopes, folders, cards, etc., which may be handled with ease and expedition. To this end it is suggested that whenever practicable the

Ray Griffith a Man of Mystery

Could you solve a murder mystery in which your own life was jeopardized in twenty minutes? Raymond Griffith does it in one of the cleverest rapid-fire comedies that has ever been thrown on any screen.

As a coroner, Griffith, silk hat and all, finds himself forced to either unravel the mystery or miss a good show. And, any man who owns a "topper" has never deliberately missed a theatre engagement.

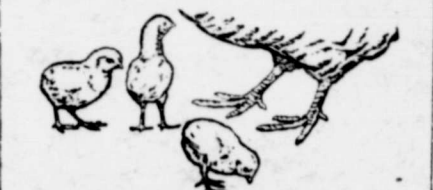

Ray diagnoses the houseboat theft and murder but while doing so meets a girl who makes him forget all about the play he failed to see. A riot of humor from start to finish, "You'd Be Surprised," which shows at the Queen Wednesday and Thursday, March 2 and 3, has never been excelled. Dorothy Sebastian supplies the "heart balm." Earle Williams and Edward Martindel have important roles in the picture.

The star has asked those who see "You'd Be Surprised" to refrain from revealing its ending to their friends. The film is the funniest thing Griffith ever made. Arthur Rosson directed.

If you have an electric washing machine, says the United States Department of Agriculture, be sure to pull out the electric plug when leaving the machine between wash days and coil the connecting cord where it will not collect moisture and dirt. Do not lubricate or adjust any part of the washer while the cord is connected to the current source. Proper insulation of all wiring, cords and electrical devices is especially important in the laundry, where the worker often touches them with wet hands and where the floors and walls are damp.

Proof that the Junior Class were good losers and represented the true sportsmanship of Winters High was demonstrated last week at the close of the popularity contest in which the Senior candidates, Marie Hill and J. D. Robertson, were victorious.

Never was there a more interesting inter-class contest held. The Seniors have succeeded in receiving this honor, and as previously brought out, is the banner class at the head of the school. The Juniors were winners, too, because they extended congratulations to the Seniors and ended the cost with a yell for their fellow classmates.

This is a revelation of what Winters High is made of—pure, clear grit, sportsmanship and upholders of their school, its many organizations and the best little city in the West—Winters.

Good losers is one of the most important elements in making life happy and worth while; means more to the student, class or town than any other single virtue. It reveals the true spirit of a student, class or town, and shows that they are honest, loyal and above all, good sports.—J. C.

THE TYPEWRITING CLASS

One of the best classes in W. H. S. is the present typewriting class under the direction of Mr. Wood, the commercial instructor.

They have accomplished many things in the affiliation of the commercial department of the school and it is expected that they will receive the half credit in affiliation this year, which is given in typewriting.

Without doubt the class has performed all of the required work to be done and a majority of the class have typed their papers neatly and accurately.

Typewriting is very valuable and necessary in our high school work. This has been proven by the fact that many of the students have gotten up their English, History and Science notebooks on the typewriter. These are very neat and aid in the betterment of the school in that they receive more consideration at the state department than those written in ink or pencil.

Not only is typewriting an important subject in this respect, but it aids the student in carrying out his future plans. Many students of high school do not have the opportunity of going to college and if typewriting is not offered in the high school, they fail to learn its operation. It is generally known that the ability to write upon a typewriter is required by the modern business world; that is, the modern business world's transactions are carried on through the use of the typewriter. Thousands of letters are written daily upon the typewriter which brings the business world into closer contact.

The typewriter is of unlimited value to the journalist and, in fact, to every form of modern industry in which any one might engage.—J. C.

THIS AND THAT

Monday and Tuesday of this week were given over to examinations. From a view of the grades, fairly good work had been done the past six weeks period of the second semester. However, many have not quite "come up" to the standard of Winters High. It is hoped that a larger number of students will make higher averages next month.

Last Saturday night the members of the Freshman Class, accompanied by their sponsor, Miss White, enjoyed a theatre party at the Queen.

The student body is proud of the fact that the Cyclones won the precinct championship and intend to win the county as well as district, by-district, etc. The student body is for the Cyclones, even though they do not show it.

Work is progressing nicely in track and the Blizzard tract boys intend to win county, district and state championship for the Blue and White.

WEEKLY CHAPEL CALENDAR

Wednesday, Feb. 16.—Rev. H. H. Stephens, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave an interesting and inspiring talk to the student body. Mr. Smith announced that the Pastor's Association had turned over a "new leaf." The pastors may feel assured that all intellectual talks are appreciated.

Thursday—Announcements and physical education.

Friday—As usual, Friday was a day of singing, so the student body, under the direction of Mr. Wood, sang.

Monday.—The student body was entertained with a Washington program by the pupils of the Primary Department under the direction of Miss McElroy. The entertainers proved of great amusement as well as a demonstration of the work being done in the grammar grades of the school.

Tuesday. — Announcements and physical education.

THE POETS CORNER

WHO WON?

Say, who won the popularity contest? The Seniors.
 We congratulate you upon your success.

Dear Seniors,
 You may think that we envy you,
 But we don't.
 We are glad that you won, it is true,
 So we want
 Get mad, that isn't our style,
 Not at all.

We are kindness itself, with a smile,
 If you recall.
 Remember you were Juniors before "us."

Were you not?
 It isn't necessary to start a fuss,
 'Tis all rot.

We think you should have the best,
 Wishing you well.
 You're the "choicest" of all the rest,
 You can not tell,
 This is your last year in W. H. S.,
 We'll miss you.

We wish you joy and success,
 Really, we do.
 —Erline Brown.

TO THE JUNIORS

Don't be discouraged Juniors, only wear a cheery smile.
 Don't cause hard feelings and we'll be winners after while.

We can not always be winners, we will often meet defeat,
 Because we do not win is no reason we should take a seat.

That is the time to go to fighting, always do your best.
 Prove yourself worthy and bravely, joyfully stand a test.

Treat your schoolmates as you would have them treat you.
 In the future you will find it is the best thing to do.

Juniors, we'll be Seniors next year, don't you really guess?
 And one thing sure we will show our classmates the best.

Wherever you go, whatever you do, don't forget this rhyme,
 And I'm sure in the future, we will win all the time.
 —Erline Brown.

IDEAL SCHOOL SPIRIT

If you intend to Succeed in school,
 Then you should have the spirit,
 That, you know should be the rule.

Be a business student,
 Yes, that is what I say;
 But divide your life equally—
 First in work, and then in play.

Be a good school sportsman
 To your friends and your school;
 Act with courtesy to every one,
 With a mind that's polite and cool.

In our famous ball games,
 Now, you must not refuse
 To be courteous to the other team,
 Whether you win or whether you lose.

Doyle Adams (Freshman).

Johnny Hines Idol of American Youth

Johnny Hines, who comes to the Queen Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, February 28 and March 1, in "The Brown Derby," a First National picture, is the prototype of the typical American youth. Having lived and been brought up in a small town where a boy is free to play, Johnny has managed to instill in his comedies the many spontaneous tricks that the average kid is usually up to. He plays just the sort of pranks any average boy would play on his teacher, at a party, or on his boss. He is one of those who in his fun-making can take a joke upon himself as well.

He has surrounded himself in "The Brown Derby" with such star performers as Diana Kane, Ruth Dwyer, Bradley Barker, Harold Foshay, and a host of others who are known for the excellence of their screen characterizations. They are all players of reputation, and while Johnny is the star, he delights in seeing others share with him in his success.

In "The Brown Derby" Johnny will not only add to his youthful fans but will undoubtedly make great appeal to fandom in general, since this vehicle is reported to be the best thing he has done in his highly successful career. "The Brown Derby" comes to the Queen Theatre heralded as a feature comedy of unusual laugh provoking power.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

The Intermediate, Young People's and Adult C. E. Societies each met at their usual time and place last Sunday evening with good programs, using the topic, "Christian Citizenship."

Plans have been made to send a delegation from each society to the district convention which meets in San Angelo Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. Twenty or more Endeavorers are expecting to leave Winters Friday afternoon in cars to reach San Angelo in time for the opening of the meeting. Each one is going with the anticipation of returning home a more earnest and enthusiastic Endeavorer than ever before.

Clara Nell McAdams was hostess to the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church Thursday evening, the occasion being a George Washington birthday social.

The little ladies were quaint in their colonial dresses. The "Patriotic Grip" furnished much amusement. As each guest entered the room a paper bag was placed over the right hand and tied around the wrist with a red string. Instructions were given that the only way in which the bag could be removed was by wearing it out shaking hands. And they did!

Contests, games and radio programs filled the evening with much enjoyment. Dainty refreshments were served to the following: Thelma Harrison, Irby Key, Evelyn Davidson, Mozelle Wilson, Irlie Dry, Margaret Nicholson, Ruth Woodrow, Clara Nell McAdams, Venetta Davidson, C. T. Rives, John Q. McAdams, Mary Ethel Clift, Clara Giestman, Mrs. Smith, Loreta Hall of Edinburg.

Alex Orr of this city will leave tomorrow for Mineral Wells, where he will join the Dallas Steers in their spring training camp for another chase after the Texas League pennant as well as the flag of the Dixie series. Orr has made quite a reputation in semi-pro circles of Texas and had a try with the Steers the latter part of last season, but due to the fact that they were being crowded in the race by other clubs, Orr got very few chances to show his stuff. We are expecting him to win a regular berth with Conley's steers this season.

WHO Makes Good -on the Goods that Go Wrong?

NO man-made product can be unfailingly perfect. The best of manufacturers at times have sub-standard products; the keenest merchants make errors of judgment in buying; unforeseen defects will creep into goods, unintentional mistakes will occur.

And it is just such things that give your local merchant the opportunity to show his fairness and eagerness to make good--to rectify and satisfy the unguarded customer.

But what chance have you on the "come back" with the transient trader who is here today and gone tomorrow?

His goods may go wrong, too. From the very nature of his "one-time" transactions quality need not be so strictly safeguarded.

And when his goods go wrong as they are more apt to do than the careful merchant, where's your redress?

YOU CAN'T GO BACK AND MEET HIM "FACE TO FACE—HE'S GONE. YOU CAN'T FIND HIM AND HE SURELY WON'T SEEK YOU.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PAULINE Malligate has been strangely absent from her home in London for 18 months. Communication with her mother and sister, Lorna, has been by means of a forwarding address in Paris. And now HENRY Emerson, her stepfather, has left a summer resort near London under mysterious circumstances. Following his disappearance

DR. JULIAN Emerson, who claims to be a relative of the stepfather, has removed Lorna and her sick mother to a strange country house where they are held virtually prisoners.

JULIAN has told Lorna that her stepfather had no right to marry her mother because he was already married. But Mrs. Emerson has been made to believe that Henry Emerson is seriously ill in London. GERALD Craven, Lorna's lover, has hurried to London from the seashore, but continued efforts have failed to locate his sweetheart. He has turned to Mrs. Bertha Northwood, a mutual friend, who arranges for a full discussion of the situation at luncheon in her hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

MRS. NORTHWOOD was staying in one of the larger hotels in London, a very fashionable resort, and, although it was after the season, and most people were scattered, the restaurant was full.

Just as luncheon was half way through, two people got up from a table not far from Mrs. Northwood's party and passed quickly out of the restaurant. As she caught sight of them Mrs. Northwood uttered a muffled exclamation and half rose in her seat. Craven saw instantly that she was excited, if not agitated, but she gave him a smile, sat down again, and the luncheon went on.

It was not until they had parted from the others that Mrs. Northwood had a chance to explain to Craven why she had seemed to startle.

"Do you know who I saw passing out of the restaurant? Pauline Malligate! You have never seen Pauline? Lorna's sister, I mean?"

"Oh, why didn't I know!" exclaimed Gerald Craven. "Of course, I've never seen her, but I might have hurried after her and spoken to her."

"I wanted to follow her myself," said Mrs. Northwood, "but that was not possible without attracting a great deal of attention. She didn't see me, or perhaps she did, and that was why she hurried past so quickly. But wait—I will make some inquiries."

She then asked the waiter who had brought their coffee to have the head waiter come and speak to her for a moment.

The man, an Italian, hastened to obey. He was very courteous, but he did not prove of any assistance.

She sat on the bed and tried to still the trembling of her hands as she held the telegram in front of her.

"I am afraid I don't recollect the young lady of whom you speak . . . Malligate? No I have never heard that name."

"She was sitting at the little table to my left just behind one of the pillars," Mrs. Northwood explained. "I didn't notice her while I was here; it was only when she was going out."

"The table behind the pillar?" said the waiter. "Oh, that was booked by telephone this morning, by a certain Mr. Greswold. Do you know the name, madam?"

Mrs. Northwood shook her head. She looked across at Gerald Craven. "No, I have never heard the name before."

"It was not anyone you knew by sight?" said Mrs. Northwood.

"No."

"So sorry to have troubled you, Signor Petri."

When they were alone, Mrs. Northwood shrugged her shoulders.

"Really, that's quite a blow," she said.

The head waiter came hurrying up to them again just as they were about to rise and leave the restaurant. He carried in his hand an envelope which had been opened, and on the back of it were penciled various figures, evidently the times of departure of certain trains.

"This was found on the floor under the table you indicated, madam. Would it be of any assistance to you?"

Mrs. Northwood took it eagerly. "Thank you so much."

She glanced at the name and address, and it ran as follows:
To Mrs. Greswold,
The Moat, Barnsley-on-Moor,
Yorkshire.

"I will keep this if I may, Signor Petri," Mrs. Northwood said, and then she and Craven passed on to the car that was waiting. As she got in and sat down, Mrs. Northwood said:

"This is certainly a clue, Gerald, and I shall take it up at once. Barnsley-on-Moor is, oddly enough, only a mile or two distant from my own place in Yorkshire. It is rather a rough bit of country, and a village consisting of some cottages and a store, which is the postoffice for the neighborhood. My household gets some groceries and odds and ends from this queer little store.

"I will get into communication with my butler, and I will get him to find out all he can about this Mrs. Greswold and The Moat.

"Parsons, of course, knows all about the house called The Moat, and he will look into the matter right away and will communicate with me. Now, as you are feeling very depressed, dear boy, come along and dine with me."

Gerald Craven thanked her warmly.

Lorna slept but little that night. But that little refreshed her. And when she started up in bed, her first clear remembrance was her mother.

Slipping on a dressing gown, Lorna almost ran into her mother's room, and then she gave a great sigh of relief; for Mrs. Emerson was sitting up in bed, a dainty breakfast tray was on the table near her, and she was reading a long telegram. As she saw Lorna, she stretched out her hands.

"Darling," she said, "I wouldn't let them wake you, because I knew you were worn out. But I am so glad you have come! Read—read, Lorna; this is from Henry! Oh, it has taken such a load off my mind! Only I wish he would let me go to him! If he is ill, I should be with him, shouldn't I?"

Lorna took the telegram from her mother's hand. Before she read the message, she studied it. It had been sent from London late the night before, and had apparently not been delivered until this morning. The envelope, the official indications, were all correct.

She sat on the bed and tried to still the trembling of her hands as she held the telegram in front of her. It ran thus:

"Am terribly grieved have had to leave you so suddenly, my dearest, but I know you will forgive me. Have been suffering a good deal, but did not want you to know. Operation only slight, but very necessary. Shall rejoin you before long. Know that you are in good hands with Julian, and entreat you to remain where you are until I send for you. Please give my fond love to Lorna and tell her I leave you in her charge.—Henry."

Before she had dropped to sleep, Lorna had prepared herself for every sort of eventuality, but this telegram swept her into a fresh maze of doubt and very real trouble.

Not for one instant did she convince herself that this message had come from the man who was supposed to have sent it.

She disguised her feelings cleverly. Going forward, she wrapped her mother in a tender embrace.

"Darling," she said, "I am so glad poor stepfather is all right. I suppose it was necessary for him to have this operation right away. But wasn't it brave of him not to tell you anything about it?"

"Brave—yes—brave!" said Mrs. Emerson in a soft voice, with tears running down her cheeks, "but how thoughtful—but that doesn't surprise us, does it, Lorna? Only I wish I could be with him. I shall be so anxious. You will let him know how anxious I was, won't you, Lorna? I don't feel I can write—my hand is so weak—and I am so stupidly sleepy."

She closed her eyes as she spoke and her head rested almost heavily on the girl's shoulder. As Lorna spoke to her about having some breakfast, she said:

"Oh, I have had coffee and toast.

You must have some food, dearest. Give me the telegram, Lorna. If I have that in my hand I shall be quite content."

Lorna took her bath and dressed as quickly as possible. She was thrilling with indignant anxiety to come face to face with Julian Emerson.

Before going downstairs, she tiptoed into her mother's room, and found that she was once again asleep, with the telegram, that lying telegram, clasped in her delicate hand and there was a smile on her lips.

Mrs. Brown was moving about the room softly.

"Would you like your breakfast upstairs, miss?" she queried. "The doctor has had his some time ago."

"Can you tell me where I can find Dr. Emerson?" Lorna asked.

"Oh, he has been called to London, miss. He hold me I was to tell you he has to get news of his uncle, and that you will be hearing from him later in the day."

The color rushed into Lorna's cheeks. "Gone to London!" she said. Then she took a bold step. "You know, of course, that Dr. Emerson is a complete stranger to us, Mrs. Brown?" she queried, "and that we have been brought here without any reference to our wishes?"

NEXT CHAPTER: Julian deceives Mrs. Emerson.

Ballinger Fire Chief Offering For State Office

The Ballinger Fire Department is announcing their chief, Louis Cohen, for the office of Fourth Vice-President of the State Fireman's Association of Texas. This is a very commendable step on the part of the fire fighters of Ballinger, for Mr. Cohen has served long and well in the capacity of fire chief. For the past twelve years he has served the Ballinger Fire Department in the capacity of chief and previous to that time was chief of the Rosebud Fire Department. This makes a total of twenty years that he has been fire chief in Texas. Eight years prior to the time he was made chief at Rosebud, he served as a volunteer in the fire fighting game. Mr. Cohen has the remarkable record of having attended nineteen annual conventions of the State Firemen's Association and well does he deserve the honor that his fellow townsmen are seeking for him.

People of Winters know him as a genial "Jew Fire Fighter" who has served well and we sincerely hope that he will be accorded the high honor of being elected as Fourth Vice-President of the State organization. "We are for Louie."

Death of Infant at Bradshaw

Wednesday morning, February 17, the death angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Newby at Bradshaw and took their tiny baby girl. She came to brighten the home just seven days prior to her death when God saw best to take the little one to a better Home where there is no suffering or sorrow, for He tells us that His kingdom is of such.

Funeral services were held Thursday, the 18th, and the tiny little babe was laid to rest in the Bradshaw cemetery.

We extend to the bereaved parents our deepest sympathy in their loss. May God comfort and cheer them.

FLOUR DEMONSTRATION HERE THIS WEEK

Many ladies of Winters took advantage of the opportunity to learn more about the art of baking by attending the free demonstration of White Crest flour at Spill Bros. furniture store Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Kent, employed by the Walker-Smith Grocery company, wholesale distributors of White Crest, is an artist and gave some very valuable demonstrations in the baking of cakes of all kinds, lightbread, rolls and biscuits, and making icings.

Sacks of flour were given away each afternoon and the Parent-Teacher Association realized a neat little sum of money from the sale of flour during the three days.
