Low Goes With Citizen's National Bank at Abilene

Bert E. Low, who has been connected with the First National Bank of this city since 1919 when he started with the institution as teller, has resigned his place as cashier of the bank to accept the vice-presidency of the Citizen's National Bank of Abilene.

Mr. Low expects to move to that city some time between now and the fifteenth of June, having until the latter date to wind up his affairs here.

The change comes in the nature of a promotion to Mr. Low, the bank he is to be associated with in Abilene being one of the strongest between Fort Worth and El Paso, and Winters people, while regretting losing Mr. Low and his estimable family as citizens of Winters, rejoice in his promotion and assure the good people of Abilene that in acquiring them they have annexed a progressive and forward looking family who will ever be found upon the right side of every issue.

I. N. Wilkinson has been elected active vice-president of the First National Bank, while Mr. Lyle DeFebach, who has been assistant cashier of the bank for about the past year and a half, has been promoted to the cashier's place.

Mr. Wilkinson is a young man of considerable banking experience, having managed the Ovallo State Bank the past three years, while his father, who is now vice-president of the Midland National Bank, has been actively identified with the banks of this section for the past 16 years.

There was no other change in the directors or officers of the institution, Henry James of Abilene remaining president of the institution, and the only change except those stated above, being the acquiring by Mr. Wilkinson of Mr. Low's stock.

The coming of Mr. Wilkinson adds strength to the local institution and he, his wife and baby will be welcome additions to the business and social life of the city. Mrs. Wilkinson was formerly an expression teacher in the Winters schools.

Mr. Wilkinson stated yesterday that he would move his family to Winters as soon as he could make the necessary arrangements.

Wins Honors At Baylor

Dexter Eoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Eoff, who for the past four years has been a student in Baylor University, College of Dentistry, at Dallas, has won signal honors at the University.

Dexter is to receive his diploma next Monday at the commencement exercises and he is one of the five students sharing in the school honors in the form of a membership in the Omepron Kappa Upsilon fraternity which is made up of the 12 per cent making the highest average and having not conditioned or failed in any course in the four years in school.

He was one of the graduates from Winters high school in the class of 1922 and spent one year in Abilene Christian College before entering Baylor University at Dallas, and has made a splendid record during the entire time.

Mrs. M. M. Coats Dies at Token

The death of Mrs. M. M. Coats occurred at the family home at Token Saturday, May 14, and the body was laid to rest in Midway cemetery.

Deceased was 61 years of age and had been in poor health since the death of her husband last December. She is survived by several sons and daughters.

Promoted

BERT E. LOW

Who, with his family, will soon move to Abilene to make their future home. Mr. Low has accepted the vice-presidency of the Citizen's National Bank of that city, which comes to him in the nature of a well-deserved promotion.

Second Sheriff of Runnels County Dies at Abilene

John W. Clampitt, 77 year of age, second sheriff to serve Runnels county, died Friday of last week at 12:30 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. D. Dillingham, in Abilene. Funeral services were held at Ballinger Sunday afternoon from the Presbyterian church at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. Alvin O. Rue, pastor of the church, officiating.

Details of Mr. Clampitt's death are not known here. He was known to be in bad health but his condition was not known to be serious at the time of his death.

Mr. Clampitt was a member of the Ballinger Presbyterian church, having joined that faith some 35 years ago. For several years he was an active member, being a ruling elder. The pioneer was very attentive in his Sunday School and church duties and was always present when his health permitted.

Pall bearers were: M. D. Chastain, W. E. Allen, L. P. Wood, Jim Johnson, C. A. Doose, H. F. Demmer, Ralph Erwin, D. A. Cameron, N. J. Allen, D. E. Sims, D. C. Underwood, T. S. Lankford, G. G. Odom and Joe McCutcheon.

Interment was made in the Ballinger cemetery following the church service.

New Teacher Visits Winters

Miss Ethel Bob Montague and her mother from Lamesa, Texas, have been visiting in our city the past several days. Miss Montague will be one of the teachers for the coming year and will have charge of the Home Economics department. They are on their way to Denison, Texas, where Miss Montague will attend the summer session of the Texas Teachers' College.

While here, Miss Montague purchased a new car from the Nance-Brown Motor company in which she will make the trip.

Miss Montague is a charming young lady and we predict a very successful year for her. We will all be glad to welcome her and her mother back to Winters at the beginning of the new school term.

Myrtle Barber To Wed Soon

The many friends of Miss Myrtle O. Barber, former teacher in Winters high school but now teaching in Montezuma College, will be interested to know that invitations are out announcing her approaching marriage to Mr. J. W. Ware which will take place at the First Baptist church here.

Baptist Deacons Holding Session on San Saba

The first of the week notices in due form were received by all the members of the board of deacons of the First Baptist Church, summoning them to a two day's session of that body on the beautiful banks of the San Saba river. The summons did not state the exact purpose of the meeting, but from a close study of the personnel of the board it would not cause much stretching of the imagination to come to the conclusion that the finny tribe was in danger yesterday and today.

This called session of the board is being held in honor of Bert E. Low, one of its members and superintendent of the Sunday School, who is making preparations to move to Abilene at an early date.

The personnel of the board, most of whom are in attendance upon this session, follows: C. F. Pumphrey, L. E. Low, T. D. Copeland, J. V. Dinwiddie, J. W. Patterson, L. W. Mosley, J. L. Downing, R. L. Stokes, W. E. Hickman, Dr. J. W. Dixon, G. E. Nicholson, Bert E. Low and Rev. H. H. Stephens.

Speaking Dates For Miss Landon Announced Here

Speaking dates for Miss Susan Landon, educational representative of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association for Runnels county were announced today by C. W. Buchanan, field service representative for the association.

Miss Landon has been touring the state of recent months giving lectures on community cooperation and organization, rural life and rural education. Exceptionally large audiences have heard her in practically all her meetings. She will use a stereopticon during her lectures and will show a number of pictures which she took in Denmark last year when she visited that country in a study of farm life there.

The speaking schedule as announced is:

May 30, Monday night Hatchel school house auditorium.

May 31, Tuesday night, Winters high school auditorium.

June 1, Wednesday night, Wingate schoolhouse auditorium.

June 2, Thursday night, Drasco First Baptist church.

June 3, Friday night, Eden schoolhouse.

June 4, Saturday afternoon, Ballinger courthouse.

June 4, Saturday night, Norton tabernacle.

June 6, Monday night, Maverick schoolhouse.

June 7, Tuesday night Pierce schoolhouse.

June 8, Wednesday night, Crews Methodist church.

June 9, Thursday night, San Angelo courthouse.

June 10, Friday night, Rowena, Sons of Herman Hall.

June 11 Saturday afternoon, Ballinger courthouse.

The regular monthly meeting of the association will be held at Ballinger, Saturday, May 28, at 2:30, at the courthouse.

Emet Huntsman Recovering From Hurt Months Ago

According to a letter received from the family Tuesday, Emet Huntsman, who has been in a government hospital at New Orleans some two or three months, is thought now to be on the road to complete recovery and is planning a trip to Cuba, provided he continues to improve to where his condition will permit of the trip, and all of his local friends are hoping he may continue to improve to where the trip may be possible.

WORLD HAILS NEW HERO

CHAS. A. LINDBERGH

And the single engine airplane in which he flew from San Diego, Calif., to New York with a stop at St. Louis, then from New York to Paris, winning the Orteig $25,000 prize and world-wide fame. Lindbergh's youth (he's only 25 years old) and modesty have won him many friends both in the United States and France.

Two New Teachers Added to Faculty

Mr. Lloyd A. Woodridge of Stamford, recently was tendered the principal's chair of the Winters High school which place he has accepted.

Mr. Woodridge is a graduate of Simmons University and has taught mathematics in Simmons University for the past two years. Prior to that time he taught in the Stamford High school for five years. He comes to Winters bearing the highest recommendations as a school man and Christian gentleman.

Mr. Woodridge, with his wife and baby, expect to move to Winters about August 1.

Miss Ethel B. Montague, of Denton, has been elected Home Economics teacher for the coming school year. This department of the school will be placed upon a vocational basis, which it is thought, will assure high efficiency.

Miss Montague is a graduate of C. I. A., having specialized in Home Economics work throughout her entire college career. She has successfully taught this work at Lamesa the past year, and her record indicates that Winters has been very fortunate in securing her services.

Kit Hargrove Opens Grocery Store in Winters

After remaining out of business for the past several months, G. O. (Kit) Hargrove has opened a new grocery store on West Dale street.

Mr. Hargrove is an experienced grocerman and conservative business man and states that his business will be conducted just the same as in the past.

In the near future he is going to have a formal opening, announcement of which will be made later. Read his opening message this week.

MISS LONDON TO ADDRESS LIONS CLUB

Miss Susan Landon, educational representative of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, will be the principal speaker at the Lions luncheon next Tuesday at the Methodist church, according to announcement of the program committee. Another special feature for the luncheon will be an Irish song by C. W. Buchanan, county representative of the same organization.

B. G. Owens was in Abilene to meet Mrs. Owens and daughter, little Miss Sara Lou, who were returning home from a week's visit with friends and relatives in Wichita Falls, and where they also took in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

Club Passes Resolution of Appreciation

We, the 4-H Club Boys and Girls of Runnels county wish to take this means to express our most heartfelt thanks to our beloved county and Home Demonstration agents, C. W. Lehmer and Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth, for the splendid program and the wonderful time we enjoyed during the 4-H club rally day held in Ballinger, Saturday, May 14.

We appreciate very much the kindly interest they are taking in every individual member of the 18 organized 4-H clubs in the county.

We also wish to thank the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce for the splendid films jointly furnished for our instruction and enlightenment and for the comedy to round out the program. To Mr. Seales and the management of the Palace and Queen theatres we feel greatly indebted for so freely donating their theatres and their services for our special entertainment.

We hereby hand the Ukelele Sunshine Girls a bouquet of thanks for their splendid music and songs. We owe many thanks to the Ballinger Booster Band for the fine music they rendered and for the part they took in making our parade a success. To the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce and its energetic secretary, J. D. Motley, our friend and well wisher, we want to say we thank you a thousand times for cooling our temperatures with the delicious ice cream so freely furnished. To the Ballinger Bottling Works we extend a vote of thanks for the cold drinks and other refreshments so generously donated.

We also wish to thank the Winters Chamber of Commerce for the Scholarship to the Farmers Short Course given by this organization as first prize in the Girls' Clothing Contest; Higginbotham Bros. & Co. for the splendid gift of toilet articles given as second prize, and King Holt Co. for the beautiful rug given as third prize.

We especially wish to thank Mrs. Dora Barnes, clothing specialist of the Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas for the splendid service rendered in judging the Girls' Clothing Contest for her words of commendation and encouragement.

We further wish to thank Rev. McLean, Judge Paul Trimmer, Rev. Hooper, Mrs. Nicholson, J. D. Motley and C. R. Robertson for the part they took in the program and for their words of admonition, instruction and encouragement.

To all others who in any way contributed toward making this rally day the splendid success it was, we wish to express our deepest appreciation and sincerest thanks.

We had a great time and we are

Charges Filed Following Fatal Accident Here

Bill Clark, about 16 years of age, son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. S. T. Clark of this city, was released from custody Monday morning at Ballinger, after charges of homicide had been filed against him in connection with the death of W. A. Pace, which occurred in a local hospital early Sunday morning from injuries he received about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening when he was run down by a touring car driven by young Clark.

Mr. Pace was struck by the car while going down town from his home, the accident occurring on West Dale street, at the intersection of the Abilene & Southern railroad tracks. He had almost reached the sidewalk when, it seems, the car driven by Clark was attempting to pass another car and in doing so struck Mr. Pace, dragging him across both tracks of the railroad, resulting in internal injuries and probably a fractured skull. The injured man was immediately removed to the local sanitarium, but while being turned over in bed Sunday morning he fell back dead.

Pioneer Citizen Dies Sunday

The death of B. T. Carr marks the passing of a former pioneer citizen of this city. He came to Winters in the year 1909 and with his son, T. G. Carr, engaged in the grocery business for several years. He sold his possessions here and for the past few years has been living with his daughter at Mt. Sylvan.

The infirmities of old age so impaired his faculties that he was brought back here just a few weeks ago and quietly fell asleep Sunday May 22.

Bynum Turner Carr was born in the state of Tennessee, March 16, 1851. With his parents he moved to Louisiana when he was rather young and later they moved to Texas. He was converted and joined the Methodist church at Groesbeck at the age of nineteen and was married two years later to Miss Augusta Morris at Groesbeck and from this union four children were born, one dying in infancy. He was an upright, honorable and estimable gentleman and worthy of the high regard in which he was always held.

Surviving him are three children, Tom G. Carr and Miss Francis Carr of Winters; Mrs. Ora Carr Patrick of Mt. Sylvan; one brother, Rev. C. C. Carr of Snyder and two sisters, Mrs. S. F. Carter of San Antonio and Mrs. L. E. Taylor of Bruceville; seven grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist church Monday afternoon at 3:30 conducted by Rev. Gid J. Bryan, and interment was made in Fairview cemetery.

Active pall bearers were B. G. Owens, Bert E. Low, J. C. Meredith, H. H. Cryer, Walter Brian, Wallace Oliver, and E. A. Shepperd.

Honorary pall bearers were, W. W. Poe, H. L. Chapman, H. K. Reid, L. E. Low, J. R. Cook and J. W. Copeland.

The sympathy of all who knew the bereaved family goes out to them in this sad hour.

Mrs. B. F. Rothermel, of Santa Anna, was in the city a few hours last Friday afternoon visiting with her son, Paul, who is the bookkeeper for the West Texas Utilities company.

W. H. Brown left last Saturday for Amarillo, where he will spend some three or four months visiting with his sons, Clarence, Clark and Dan, who reside in that city.

determined to do more than ever before to make this the best year in 4H Club work in the history of Runnels County.—4H Club Resolutions Committee.

W. A. Pace Passed Away Here Last Sunday Morning

The sad death of W. A. Pace which occurred Sunday morning at the local sanitarium as a result of injuries received Saturday evening when he was struck by a car while on his way to the down-town section of the city, caused a deep shadow of sorrow to pass over the entire citizenship and expressions of sympathy for the lonely wife who was called upon so suddenly to give up the loved one who was so dear to her, were universal among our people.

William Alexander Pace was born at Prairie Dell in Bell county November 28, 1863, and died May 22, 1927, as stated above. He was united in marriage to Miss Charity C. Fender February 3, 1918, at Dallas. Deceased was a progressive citizen and had an active part in the rapid growth of Runnels county for the past thirty-eight years, having moved to Wingate in the year 1889, and had made his home in Winters for the past few years. He was converted and joined the Methodist church at Wingate in 1907 and during a protracted meeting held in this city in 1922 by Rev. Hawkins, he was reclaimed and joined the Methodist church here and since that time had lived an active Christian life. He was a lover of the great outdoors and on numerous occasions he and Mrs. Pace had made long hunting trips, as well as pleasure trips, and were making preparations to spend the summer in Colorado and Utah. Deceased was one of the directors of the First National Bank and had farming interests over the county. He was a man who was ever ready to help his fellowman over the rugged paths of life and to lend a helping hand when needed, never boasting of his actions.

Surviving the deceased besides his wife are four brothers, Marion Pace, Cleburne; Jno. W. Pace, Killeen; Sterling Pace, West Water, Utah; Julius B. Pace, Drasco, and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Pace Hodges of Prairie Dell and Mrs. Mary Evelyn Pace Stevens of this city, all of whom were present for the funeral except one brother, Sterling Pace, who arrived too late for the services.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at the First Methodist church, conducted by Rev. A. E. Turney, assisted by Rev. Gid J. Bryan. Interment was made at the Wingate cemetery.

Pall bearers were Jim Miller, Tom Puckett, T. O. Hughes, W. F. Hartzog, Walter Neely, C. P. Prewitt, Duncan Hensley and Bert E. Low.

Relatives and friends from out-of-town here to attend the funeral were J. B. Fender and wife, Kaufman; J. N. Fender and Mrs. W. I. Trantham, Dallas; Mrs. J. L. Patton, Haskell; Jim Pace, Haskell; Joe Pace, Littlefield; R. L. Pace, Killeen; John Hodges, Prairie Dell; Jarrett Pace, Ballinger; Rev. and Mrs. Roy L. Crawford, Robert Lee; Miss Marion Payne Pace, Cleburne; Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Lackford, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman, Munday; Mrs. T. A. Milliker, San Angelo; Dr. Halley, Ballinger, and perhaps others whose names we failed to get.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

Stars of Yesteryear Flare Up—If Dempsey Comes Back!—A Gentleman Athlete From England

By PHILIP MARTIN
That "year of vindication" you heard so much about concerning Ty and Tris seems to have been settled in less than three weeks.

Both Cobb and Speaker could quit the game now and be secure in the knowledge that their lifetime records are clear. They have received a tremendous ovation on their initial starts this year and are local heroes in their new ball-parks.

Washington thinks more of Spoke than Cleveland ever did, due to the stimulation of homage over the scandal. The same goes for Detroit, where a few murmurs against the Peach had been noising about.

It makes one's heart feel warm, somehow, to see the two old gents getting along like this.

What are the boozes going to think about Dempsey if he does come back?

If he goes through Paolino, the winner of the Sharkey-Maloney scrap, and tips over Tunney—everyone is going to do a little fast thinking and ask was that Sesqui thing in the bag.

If he flounders around and is messed up they are going to kick themselves for being suckers and wonder if the "experts" who bally-hooded him are on the promoter's payroll.

We need more chaps like Lord "Davey" Burghley, the British hurdler.

er, to come over here and compete in our track meets. "Davey" made a great impression in the Penn relays. He was as well liked by the men as he was by the ladies—which is so acid test for a fellow's personal popularity.

Track seems to be a meeting ground for international sport that is less fraught with trouble than football, soccer, boxing and other college sports that end in bad feelings.

The inside story of Bobby Jones was told me the other day by a man who signed him up at $200 a week to write golf articles for him.

Everyone, including yours truly, wondered why Bobby had religiously adhered to the amateur code strictly for so many years and then suddenly changed his mind.

"He needed some money. You know he is married and has a family."

ily and the nickles weren't coming in fast enough while he was attending law classes. He expressed a desire to earn it by writing so I made him an offer and he accepted immediately. That's all." So says his new boss.

Bobby is a likeable chap. No one begrudges him his liquor and his money.

Shannon's passenger had managed to reach the little railway station, and the young airman found him crouched up in huddled fashion on a bench and trembling from head to foot. The airman was not very old, but he was quick to realize that Emerson was very ill, and this was the opinion shared by the station master when he was brought out of his little room to stand and look at the man.

"Well sir, seems to me as the best thing we can do for 'im is to get 'im to the cottage hospital. They'll make room for him even if they're full up."

Emerson caught the drift of what they were saying, and tried to get to his feet. He stuttered with anger, but all at once he fell back with a groan, and but for the station master and the young man, he would have fallen on the ground.

"Never seen a man look worse," said the station master. "I wish I'd got a drop of brandy, but that's a thing I haven't seen or tasted for many a day. I'll watch over him until you come back, sir, and then together we'll get him into your car. Of course," he added, "I don't know nothing about illness, but I should say this poor chap has had a slight stroke by the look of him. Anyway, he cannot lie here, the hospital is the proper place for him."

Gerald Craven had sent Mrs. Northwood a telegram in which he told her that he had met Shannon (whom she knew very well by name), and that he would keep her well informed of his immediate movements. He managed to put a note of cheerfulness in his message.

The telegram had reached her in London and when she had been

"I'll come in, or rather bring this gentleman to me here, Parsons," said Mrs. Northwood. She felt suddenly excited and got up from her chair to meet her guest as he was ushered out of the house.

As they clasped hands and she spoke, there was a catch in her voice: "I am so glad to see you, Mr. Shannon! Come and sit down. Have you had your tea? Can I offer you anything?"

"If I might have something to drink I would be very grateful. I have flown here. I came down in a little village about four or five miles from you, and I was lucky enough to be able to hire a small car."

"Parsons was waiting, and Mr. Northwood beckoned to him. She ordered refreshment for her guest and then asked him to sit down.

"It is so pleasantly cool here now the sun has gone down." Then she added: "Jerry told me in a telegram which I received an hour or so ago that he had met you today, Mr. Shannon. I thought you were in London."

"We were both in London on this afternoon," Noel Shannon explained. "Then I took him down my little bus to Paxton Common and there I have left him. They are moving, Mrs. Northwood! I can speak freely to me! Jerry opened his heart and I know everything."

"Wait until you have had a long drink," said Bertha Northwood "and then you can tell me all you know."

She listened breathlessly to story Noel Shannon had to tell and when she had heard

Big Store Bargains Are Camouflage

The word "bargain" is sometimes one of camouflage used by big city concerns who are trying to centralize the business of the country and bring it finally to a monopoly. They shout "bargains, bargains, cheap, cheap", until it seems the words have the psychological effect of making people think they are getting something for nothing, when a little common sense applied to the situation would show there is no reason at all for supposing that they can sell an article for less than it is ordinarily sold on the public market. Nor do they sell cheaper, but they talk cheaper, that is all.

It may not seem very important to some people if merchandising should be centralized in a few of the big cities and the home town merchant disappear for lack of trade. But a glance at the local tax lists will reveal what it would mean in the loss of taxes to the local community to say nothing of the loss of improvements and the decay of the town. But outside of the drawbacks to a locality from loss of improvements and the decay of the town. But outside of the drawbacks to a locality from loss of trade and business to the big congested centers, there is another and even a more important fact to be considered. And that is the possibility of a retail trust organized and controlled by mail order houses. All they need to do to control merchandising is get control of 33 per cent of the retail trade. Once that is accomplished they can absolutely monopolize the retail business of the country and fix the prices of merchandise, for they will be able to control the manufacture and output of goods. They can then offer inducements to the manufacturer that will shut out the marketing of their goods except through the monopoly.

So that is another strong point in favor of patronizing home trade. If you send your money out of town you are not only depriving yourself and your community of further use of your money, but you are aiding in the establishment of a retail monopoly that can and will fix the price of goods once they get control. As an opponent of monopoly and the filching of large sums out of the people by organized greed, we feel that we must oppose anything that leads to the organization of such things that are dangerous to the interests of the people.

Read the series of home trade advertisements of the business men of Winters in this issue of the Enterprise who are awake to the dangers of this situation and wish to call attention of the people to it by a friendly discussion of the problems through the Enterprise.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pauline Malligate, strangely absent from her home in London for 18 months is believed to be "Mrs. Creswold" mistress of the Moat, a mystery house in Yorkshire, not far from the country place of Mrs. Bertha Northwood, friend of the Malligates.

Henry Emerson, wealthy stepfather of the girl, has now vanished mysteriously from a summer resort where he had been staying with his wife and another stepdaughter, Lorna.

Dr. Julian Emerson, claiming to be related to the missing man has taken Lorna and her mother to a strange estate in the suburbs, known as the "Mulberry House" where he has been holding them captive. He told Lorna that her stepfather had no right to marry her mother, but Lorna has told her mother that Henry Emerson was taken to London because of sudden illness.

Gerald Craven, Lorna's lover has joined with Mrs. Northwood and Noel Shannon, British war ace in tracing the missing family. Through information obtained from Ellen Storey, a maid at the Moat, they have planned to go from London to Paxton Common. There fortune gives Shannon the opportunity of offering his services to Julian Emerson, who is willing to pay handsomely for a quick trip to Yorkshire.

Craven, remaining at Paxton has made his way over the wall into the grounds of Mulberry House, where he finds Lorna. Following an affectionate meeting, the couple take refuge in a wood shed near the house where Craven tells her of Ellen Storey, "The Moat," the strange woman in charge and his suspicion that her stepfather is imprisoned there.

Shanon, who has started on the trip to Yorkshire by plane, makes a forced landing in unfamiliar surroundings. He finds Emerson has been knocked out by the rough landing. By the time the passenger regains his senses a crowd has gathered and two men assist him out of the machine. Emerson's first words are a demand for information as to whether they have arrived in Yorkshire.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Shannon, still wearing his helmet, and with his goggles pushed up on his forehead, was speaking to those about him. He shook his head.

"Oh, no. We are not yet half-way there. I came down as I thought the storm would probably kill you."

Emerson's face was white now with rage as he looked at the other man. There was a smile on Shannon's face; a curl of his lip that was not agreeable.

"I can stand alone!" he declared, adding: "I am not going with you any farther!"

"Quite right," said Shannon. "I have no wish to take you. You will make your way the best way you can now. I understand we are not very far from a railway station. You will feel safer on a train."

Then he slipped his hand inside his leather coat and brought out his pocketbook.

"Here," he said, "there's half the money back."

Emerson snatched at the notes with trembling hands, threw off the leather coat and the helmet which Shannon had lent him, and turning, staggered rather than walked away. It was evident that the swift flight has been too much for him, for more than once he fell. But when anyone attempted to help him he turned on the person with a snarl.

Shannon was told by those standing about that he had come down near a small wayside railway station, and after some more questioning, he had the satisfaction of knowing that it would take Julian Emerson a good many hours to reach his destination.

Among those who had run out to meet him when he had alighted, was a young man in the uniform of the Air force. Together he and Shannon consulted maps and exchanged notes. About half an hour after the landing the aviator was once more up in the air, and flying in the direction of Yorkshire, but before he went he asked the other aviator to keep an eye on Emerson.

"I'm not sure he isn't in a bad way. He ought to lie down and be kept quiet for a time. I wish you'd see what you can do, and look here, I'm making for a spot in Yorkshire called Barnsley-on-Moor. If this chap should collapse you might send me a wire. My name's Shannon."

The other man promised eagerly. The name of "Shannon" worked like magic with him, and after he had stood and watched the aeroplane moving swiftly, high up in the sky, until it disappeared, he turned and went in search of Emerson.

Shannon's passenger had managed to reach the little railway station, and the young aviator found him crouched up in huddled fashion on a bench and trembling from head to foot. The aviator was not very old, but he was quick to realize that Emerson was very ill, and this was the opinion shared by the station master when he was brought out of his little room to stand and look at the man.

"Well sir, seems to me as the best thing we can do for 'im is to get 'im to the cottage hospital. They'll make room for him even if they're full up."

Emerson caught the drift of what they were saying, and tried to get to his feet. He stuttered with anger, but all at once he fell back with a groan, and but for the station master and the young man, he would have fallen on the ground.

"Never seen a man look worse," said the station master. "I wish I'd got a drop of brandy, but that's a thing I haven't seen or tasted for many a day. I'll watch over him until you come back, sir, and then together we'll get him into your car. Of course," he added, "I don't know nothing about illness, but I should say this por chap has had a slight stroke by the look of him. Anyway, he cannot lie here, the hospital is the proper place for him."

Gerald Craven had sent Mrs. Northwood a telegram in which he told her that he had met Shannon (whom she knew very well by name), and that he would keep her well informed of his immediate movements. He managed to put a note of cheerfulness in his message.

This telegram had reached her in the afternoon, when she had been sitting out in her garden trying to read. With her mind so full of all that might be passing with Lorna and her mother, and also being greatly troubled about everything that Ellen Storey had told her, the reading was not a success. There were so many things to claim her attention. Pauline was one.

It was while she was still sitting under the trees, though the afternoon was growing late, that her butler brought her the information that a gentleman had just arrived in a small motor car and was very anxious to see her.

"He hasn't got a card, ma'am, but he told me to tell you that his name is Shannon and that he's come from Mr. Craven."

"I'll come in, or rather bring this gentleman to me here, Parsons," said Mrs. Northwood. She felt suddenly excited and got up from her chair to meet her guest as he was ushered out of the house.

As they clasped hands and she spoke, there was a catch in her voice: "I am so glad to see you, Mr. Shannon! Come and sit down. Have you had your tea? Can I offer you anything?"

"If I might have something to drink I would be very grateful. I have flown here. I came down in a little village about four or five miles from you, and I was lucky enough to be able to hire a small car."

"Parsons was waiting, and Mrs. Northwood beckoned to him. She ordered refreshment for her guest, and then asked him to sit down.

"It is so pleasantly cool here now the sun has gone down." Then she added: "Jerry told me in a telegram which I received an hour or so ago that he had met you today, Mr. Shannon. I thought you were in London."

"We were both in London until this afternoon," Noel Shannon explained. "Then I took him down in my little bus to Paxton Common, and there I have left him. Things are moving, Mrs. Northwood! You can speak freely to me! Jerry has opened his heart and I know everything."

"Wait until you have had a nice long drink," said Bertha Northwood, "and then you can tell me all you know."

She listened breathlessly to the story Noel Shannon had to tell her; and when she heard that he had left the man who called himself Julian Emerson a good many miles away from The Moat her face lit up.

"What do you propose to do next, Mr. Shannon?"

The young man gave her a smile.

"I mean to go to the Moat," he said. "Of course, we are only working on supposition, but putting two and two together, I am pretty sure we shall find something very interesting at the Moat, and if what we conjecture, Jerry and I, about his finding Miss Malligate and her mother in the house from which this man Emerson came this afternoon, why we shall in a very little while, I hope, be in a position to put a stop to all that is happening, and I hope to be able to turn this Mr. Julian Emerson over to the police. He is an ugly customer, Mrs. Northwood."

take a letter with you as I am writing a few lines to this young woman who is calling herself Mrs. Creswold, for I am not deceived. I know that she is Lorna Malligate's sister!"

THAT IS THE KIND OF PROFIT YOU CAN MAKE WITH THAT GOOD

Cackelo Egg MASH

Figure it out Yourself. Right now eggs are worth about 1 1-2 cents each. It will cost you less than three and one half cents a day to feed this mash to 12 hens.

6 eggs per day and you make 156 per cent.
5 eggs per day and you make 114 per cent.
4 eggs per day and you make 71 per cent.
3 eggs per day and you make 28 per cent.
2 eggs per day and you'd better sell your hens.

Not only do you make this kind of a profit. But you are keeping your hens in a good condition.

The main reason your profits do not seem large is because you do not have volume. What else do you have on your farm that pays the above percentage? What would you make if you had as much invested in poultry as you have in farm implements and stock? You do not raise anything on the farm once in ten years that will pay you the per cent profit that poultry does. You need volume.

J. J. Caves sold 100 bales of middling cotton here yesterday, the price being 15.40.

Buyers were here from Abilene, Sweetwater, Ballinger and Brownwood, and the cotton was classed by each buyer after which open bids were made for it, the bids ranging from 14.85 to 15.40, the latter figure being the bid of R. A. Cramer, local cotton buyer.

Messrs. Ace Rollin, Gaylon Hart, Morris Williams; Misses Ethel Finch, Emma Lou Finch, Tessie Rae Finch and Mr. and Mrs. Finch from Antelope were visitors in Ballinger Monday.

Mrs. Sanders Walker of San Antonio is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. E. Oliver.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of thanking the good people of Winters who were so kind and helpful during the sad accident and death of our husband and brother, W. A. Pace. Words fail to express our appreciation of our friends during these trying days. When the dark hours of life come to you, may you be surrounded by just such sympathetic and helpful friends and neighbors, is our prayer. —His Wife, Brothers and Sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chapman and children of Munday, Texas, were in the city the first of the week attending the W. A. Pace funeral and visiting relatives and friends. They left for their home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Newton and son, Robert, of Kingsville, Texas, are spending several days in the city visiting relatives and mingling with old friends.

Mrs. Boyd Eiland Buried Here Tues.

A sad message to friends and relatives here was that received of the death of Mrs. Boyd Eiland which occurred at the family home at Tulia, Texas, Sunday, May 22. The body was brought here for burial, arriving at Tuscola early Tuesday morning where it was met by a local funeral car and a large number of friends.

Lola Mae Bedford Eiland was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bedford and was born in Weatherford, Texas, June 28, 1904. She moved with her parents to Winters when she was three years of age. She graduated from Winters high school with the class of 1920 and was valedictorian and the youngest member of the class. She attended C. I. A. and taught school for three years. She made a profession of faith and joined the Christian church at the age of eighteen years and was married to M. Boyd Eiland July 12, 1922, moving with her husband to Paint Rock and later to Tulia. Deceased was a kind and affectionate mother and a faithful and loving wife ever thoughtful of the happiness of others.

She is survived by her husband and little son, Boyd Kraig, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bedford, five brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening at five o'clock conducted by Elder A. H. Clark, assisted by Rev. H. H. Stephens and the body was laid to rest in Fairview cemetery.

The floral offerings were in charge of Mrs. Luther Owens and the flower girls were Mildred Spill, Maurine Pumphrey, V. Marie Stephens, Annie B. Faulkner, Katherine Lamberth, Brooksie Justice and Gladys Graham.

Active pall bearers were Carl Henslee, Buford Owens, T. E. McAdoo, Barney McCasland, Dr. Lindley and A. H. Smith.

Honorary pall bearers were E. A. Shepperd, C. R. Robertson, Jake Davidson, R. K. Russell, John Hardegree and H. K. Reid.

Friends and relatives here to attend the services were Perry Thomason, Richard Thomason, wife and little daughter, Isabel, Mrs. Isabel Thomason all of Davis, Oklahoma; J. J. Bedford and wife and J. L. Odell of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Margaret of Roscoe; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Eiland, Plainview; Mrs. T. M. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Crawford, Mrs. Scott all of Pecan Gap; Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Eiland, Bangs, Mrs. Noah Staags, Weatherford and Mrs. W. F. Wetzel of Abilene and perhaps others whose names we failed to get.

Ford Dealers Announce Sale

Mr. Nance is pursuing his usual energetic policy in putting on the big used car sale which opens Saturday, May 28. The prices of these cars have been made very attractive to purchasers, many of them are extraordinary values according to Mr. Nance.

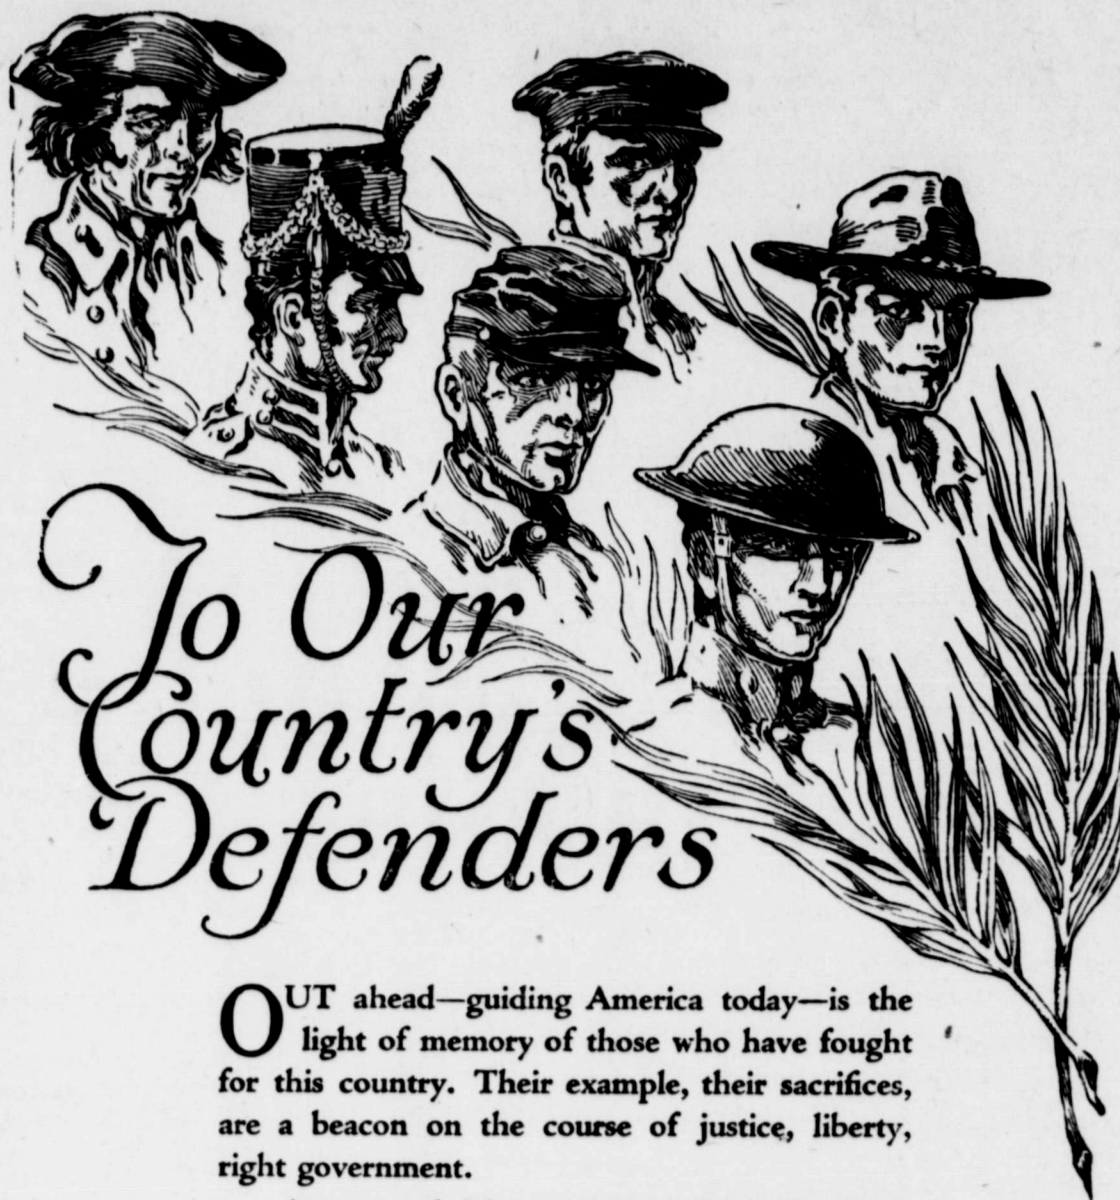

It is stated that all of the cars being offered have been thoroughly reconditioned in the repair shop of the Nance-Brown Motor company, who employ expert workmen, and many of them have been repainted, and new casings and batteries placed on them. In other words the cars offered for sale should give satisfactory service and a feature of this selling event is that Mr. Nance is giving the usual 30 days Ford guarantee on each car.

This office printed a large circular for distribution containing a great number of attractive car values. Mr. Nance complimented this office on its ability to handle a large advertising campaign in an adequate manner.

This event begins Saturday morning at the company's salesrooms. Study the advertisement on another page of this paper, you can find something that will meet your needs at money saving prices.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hickman and Anna Lee visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. S. Cobb at Coleman last Sunday. Anna Lee remained for a weeks visit with her father, S. T. Cobb.

Miss Laura Kittrell left the first of the week for Cisco, where she will spend some few days visiting friends and relatives.

OUT ahead—guiding America today—is the light of memory of those who have fought for this country. Their example, their sacrifices, are a beacon on the course of justice, liberty, right government.

Women Can Beat Oil Game, Too

The oil game is a woman's game as well as a man's.

That is the philosophy of Miss Lele May Barnum of Amarillo, Texas.

Miss Barnum owns oil wells by the score and oil lands by the thousands of acres in the Texas Panhandle field and her balance in the bank is growing rapidly every day as new wells come in on her lands.

Struggle at First

At first it was a hard struggle. Miss Barnum had made and saved a small stake as a professional entertainer, but she was determined to make it a big stake and she had heard of riches in oil.

So she made her way to Texas. Her first well was a "duster," but she was not to be discouraged and in the next attempt, when her funds were running low, she struck oil.

She bought and sold leases and put down more wells. Now she is one of the richest women in the southwest.

Tours Field Daily

Her daily routine calls for a tour of the field each morning. In this she dresses in cowboy boots, corduroy breeches and a short jacket. She drives her own custom made motor car.

Evenings find her enjoying her strictly feminine home. Then she dons her Paris gown and shows no resemblance to the oil field business manager of the morning hours.

Doesn't Seek Husband

"Please tell the men who read this, that it will do no good to write me proposals of marriage." Miss Barnum said to an interviewer in Amarillo. "I am happier without a husband. I can do the spending without help."

It is understood several hundred marriage proposals have been turned down by Miss Barnum since it became known she had acquired her wealth.

Drasco Doings

Mrs. Hollingsworth, the county demonstration agent, met with the girls club Monday.

The ladies club met with Mrs. V. B. Wod Monday afternoon. Those present were Mesdames Hubert Sandefer, J. A. Yates, J. A. Horn, J. Z. West, W. E. Hudson, Misses Clara, Lucille and Mary Hudson. The club will meet next time with Miss Pearl Williams.

The snior play was given at the school house Tuesday night. A large crowd was present, standing room being at a premium. Each participant did fine and displayed talent as well as did the instructor, Prof. J. C. Watts.

The erwoed condition made those present wish that Drasco had a larger tabernacle.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Baptist church had a program at the church. A Bible lesson, Romans 4 and 5, was studied, also a lesson in Royal Service with Mrs. J. C. Watts as leader.

A committee from Robert Lee was inspecting the Baptist church Wednesday. This is one of the best rural churches in some distance.

Mrs. Ira Toney returned from the Winters sanitarium Tuesday.

Miss Beatrice Belew returned from the Winters sanitarium Wednesday.

W. J. Belew is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Parks at Pumphrey.

Messrs Homer Bibbs and Nelson Crow of Winters, Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Dunlap of Abilene, attended the senior play.

Mrs. J. P. Wood is visiting her children at Drasco.

Mrs. J. B. Poe is on the sick list. Her many friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

Carl Corley has returned to his home at Haskell after a visit to his cousin, Buel Belew.

The many friends of Prof. J. C. Watts, Misses Ruth Wooten and Ila Walker will be very glad to learn than they will be teachers at Drasco next year. Miss Evelyn Gannaway has been elected in Winters. Her successor has not been selected.

Prayer meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday night. This is a community prayer meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Langston have returned to their home in San Augustine county after visiting their daughter, Mrs. E. W. Swearingen. Mrs. Melvin Roberts of Lamesa, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mayhew.

Mrs. Moore of Lubbock is visiting her mother, Mrs. Partlow.

Mrs. J. P. Wood and Miss Thelma of Winters are visiting relatives here.

Mesdames Will and W. J. Parks of Pumphrey attended the play at the school house.

A. W. Nix has returned from an extended visit to Mississippi and will visit his children, Mrs. Walter Daniels and Gordon Nix before going to his home near Big Spring.

The junior play was given at the school house Thursday night to a large audience.

Friday the school pupils were given a luncheon by the Parent-Teacher association. A large number of the patrons were present. All enjoyed the occasion very much.

Sorry to report that J. B. Belew, while harvesting oats for Alton Seaborn, hurt his foot with the machinery. He was rushed to Wingate for medical attention.

The graduating class: Miss Alice Partlow, Opal Baker, Effie Lewallen; Messrs. Travis Downing, Raymond Richardson and Roger McKeever gave their program at the Baptist church. Beautiful flowers were given them. Professor Watts made an able address and delivered one of the best, if not the very best, school terms Drasco has ever had. The teachers, trustees, pupils and patrons deserve credit.

J. B. Poe was in Winters Friday. Prof. J. Pace is expected home soon from the Georgetown College.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Smith were in Winters this week.

Mrs. T. P. Massengale returned from Stamford Sunday afternoon. Miss Elva, who has been teaching near Stamford returned with her mother.

Can you afford to spend 25¢ a week — to save 50¢?

IT is reliably estimated that it costs on the average $20 per year for removing carbon from a six-cylinder motor. This does not include the cost of necessary repairs due to the wear and tear which carbon causes.

That's why you save money when you use Conoco Ethyl Gasoline even though it costs 3c more per gallon than ordinary gasoline. It costs you about 25c more a week—$13 a year—but it saves you double this amount by reducing carbon removal and wear and tear bills. Isn't that wise economy?

Fashion Hints

The cotton frock is on the map of fashion again.

Last season cottons and linens lost almost every bout in their competitive battle with silks. Even the age old, traditional cotton house-dresses gave way to tub silk frocks.

Cotton manufacturers seem to have learned their lesson.

They have appropriated for their products many of the most winning qualities of silk—dainty patterns, soft, flattering colors and a pliability that lends itself to folds and drapes.

Cotton frocks and linen sports costumes will be quite "the thing" once June is here with her blazing sunshine—according to fashion predictions.

Two models, shown today, illustrate how charmingly cottons and linens can be utilized for stunning effects.

"Thunder and Lightning" is just such an afternoon frock. Soft blue, white and tan futurist patterned sateen fashions it. It is trimmed with white crepe de chine edging its neckline and surplice opening and forming cuffs for its sleeves.

This frock opens out like the wrap around skirt and is easily laundered. Its draped side gives an uneven hemline which is decidedly stylish at the moment. All of its fullness comes in the front and on the left side where the draped panel is caught up with a white pearl buckle.

Canary dominates the color of the sports frock. It is fashioned from cream colored linen with a printed pattern of yellow and black and uses yellow silk crepe for its sleeveless blouse, and two inch bandings on sleeves, collar and entire edging of the unlined coat and around the bottom of the skirt.

Smart box pleats just the width of the bandings cross the entire front width of the skirt. The back is plain which makes the suit twice as easy to keep looking fresh and unruffled.

For freshness and an appeal like that of daffodils, nothing could surpass this type of summer frock. It has also had the added advantage of being the type of frock. It also has the added advantage of being the type of frock a clever woman can fashion easily with her own needle. It would be charming in any figured material, but since early flowers like crocuses and daffodils mean freshness of spring to all of us, yellow is especially appropriate for this type of frock.

Southern states, perhaps to foster their own cotton industry and perhaps because they believe youth should be unsophisticated, are advocating voile graduation dresses this season. Voiles are strongly in favor for tennis frocks. Recently a picture of Mrs. Coolidge in a peasant blouse of embroidered voile has stimulated a vogue in voile blouses with suits.

Cretonne Has Place

Checked and figured voile gowns and summer negligees are good, too. And there is the prediction that figured cretonne or hand blocked linen will fashion the most stylish sports coats of the hot season.

Cottons are usually easier to make at home than silks because they cut more easily and fray less in making. Therefore housewives will welcome cotton's return to style. And for the cost also. For although the season's exquisite cottons are much more expensive than the old fashioned checked calico that fashioned mother's summer clothes, cottons and linens are apt to be less expensive than silks.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Jared, who are moving from Bonham to Sweetwater, were in Winters for one day the first of the week, visiting in the homes of Mrs. Jared's brothers, Messrs. Buford and Luther Owens. Mr. Jared is a traveling salesman representing an ice cream company of Sweetwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wetzel and Gladden Bedford were visitors in Abilene Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Smith and little daughter, Mandylee and Miss Christine Boone left Sunday for West to visit with their parents.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Craig, Mrs. G. E. Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. A. Madole, Mrs. Ella Hale and Rev. M. A. Quindlen enjoyed a few days outing on the Concho the past week. All report a good time with plenty of fish and squirrel to eat.

Miss Veda Wells left Tuesday for Big Spring for a short visit and later plans to attend school at Boulder, Colorado.

Bert Howell went to Coleman Monday to take Mrs. Howell and children for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. S. Cobb and other relatives.

Mrs. Carroll Spangler of Burkburnett is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hunt.

Miss Mamie eParl Parnell of Albany is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sheperd.

Dr. T. V. Jennings visited his mother at Mart the past week-end.

J. M. Skaggs left Wednesday for several days visit in San Antonio.

Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Anders and son, Robert, of Coleman, spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stokes.

Some towns are already talking about Fourth of July celebrations.

Modern youth is safe as long as there are yes-men and no-girls.

Lives are more valuable than a few minutes of time.
