Hail Destroys Considerable Cotton Here Sunday

The Winters trade territory received rain in streaks accompanied by hail which did considerable damage to the cotton crop of this section. About 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon the much needed rain began to fall and from Drasco to Benoit a strip of country from two to four miles wide was almost totally devastated by the hail, especially where cotton was up. The estimates of the damaged area run as low as four thousand acres all the way up to ten thousand. The heaviest hail fell along Bluff and Elm Creeks.

Farmers were preparing Monday to replant their cotton as soon as the ground was dry enough to begin work. The feed crop suffered quite a bit of damage but it is the opinion of most farmers that it will continue to grow and make good feed.

Gambill's store is completing some very attractive changes in their store making it suit the needs of an institution of this kind. This change makes a much nicer display of their goods and adds to the convenience and comfort of their customers.

Miss Naomi Hunt left Sunday for Kansas City where she will devote the summer to the study of Expression. She will return home this fall and open a class.

T. & P. Adds New Freight Service

According to S. E. Hunt, local agent for the Texas & Pacific railway, there is an additional service which has been recently installed which will mean quite a saving to the people of Winters in both time and money. This service is a through freight service from Dallas and Fort Worth, that is, a car is started every day from Dallas which comes straight through, giving us a one line rate with daily freight service from those points. This means that freight reaches Winters two days after it leaves Dallas, which is almost as rapid as express.

The rate is a one-line rate and is a saving of about 13 cents per hundred on first class matter. Where the rate was $1.42 per hundred it is now $1.29 1/2.

Winters is to be congratulated on this new service and it is hoped that the T. & P. will continue to add various forms of conveniences over the line which will greatly benefit this section.

Miss Landon Will End Speaking Tour at Ballinger

Miss Susan Landon, of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association, has been speaking for the past two weeks in communities throughout this county and has enjoyed a good hearing at all places. She will continue through this week and will be in San Angelo Thursday night; Rowena, at the Sons of Herman hall, Friday night, and in Ballinger will close her tour on Saturday afternoon, June 11th, at 2:30. This will be a county wide meeting and Miss Landon will have a great message to all that will come—to the people living in the towns and cities as well as to those who live in the country. The court house will be filled to capacity, and it will be advisable for those who have not yet heard her to come early in order to secure seats. Seats will be reserved for the ladies and the court house will be made pleasant with electric fans. It will mean much for you to hear this speech, as every subject of interest will be discussed in an interesting and educational way.

Thinks He Owns Oldest Mule Since Old Queen Died

W. E. Hudson says that since the death of Old Queen, 37-year-old mule owned by Uncle Sam Davis, he believes he holds the record. His mule is now 30 years old, and has been retired from work. In fact, he has given everybody on his farm instructions to permit the mule to roam anywhere she wants to. If she wants to go into the field the gate is opened for her, or if she takes a notion she wants to come back into the lot, she is turned into the lot.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pumphrey are visiting in Wichita Falls this week.

Has Fifteen Acres Cotton Blooming

J. W. (Jewell) Proctor, who lives on the John McNeill place, about 10 miles west of town, has 15 acres of cotton which was planted last March and which is now in full bloom. Mr. McNeill was in town Monday wearing some of the blooms in his buttonhole for flowers, and stated that he was going to see what effect they would have on his credit at the local banks. He also stated that some of the stalks of this cotton contained as many as fifteen squares. Mr. McNeill stated that they received about a third of an inch of rain Sunday evening, but since that time we are informed his section of the country was visited by another good rain.

Lindbergh's Smile of Victory

Returning home to meet the greatest welcome ever accorded any hero in history, this is the smile of victory "Lucky" Charles Lindbergh wore after his flight from New York to Paris. Lindbergh's plane was almost demolished by the crowds in Paris and London. This is an unusual photographic study of the young 25-year-old flyer about whom more has been written than any other person in the day's news.

Band Concert at Baptist Church

A rare treat is in store for music lovers this week, for the San Marcos Academy Military Band will give a concert on the lawn of the First Baptist church Sunday evening, at 8:30 o'clock. The concert will consist of various sacred numbers and standard music.

This band is under the direction of Donald G. Davis, who has built a strong organization that is capable of playing good music. It will also be of interest to local people because a Winters boy is playing in the band and has made a good record as a student in the academy. Elmo Low, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Low, will be listed among the members of the clarinet section of the band. Elmo is experienced, and has made an enviable record with the organization. The band concert will take the place of the regular preaching.

Public Asked to Welcome Lindy

Postmaster B. F. Huntsman is in receipt of a bulletin from the post office department at Washington, and it contains an appeal to the general public to write Captain Chas. A. Lindbergh a letter of welcome and send it by air mail to be delivered to him at Washington during the welcoming celebration to be held in the capital tomorrow.

This is asked for two reasons, the first, because Capt. Lindbergh's reception was requested by President Coolidge to be nation-wide, and second, because prior to his flight over the ocean Capt. Lindbergh was a member of the postal service, an air mail pilot.

"It is hoped," states the letter, issued by Postmaster-General New, "that all who are interested in Capt. Lindbergh and the air mail may send him a greeting by air mail to be delivered upon his arrival in Washington. Arrangements will be made to give special handling and to see to it that it is authoritatively delivered and promptly upon Capt. Lindbergh's arrival."

Several letters of welcome have been sent the young aviator from the Winters office this week.

Thanks C. of C. For Scholarship

Winters Chamber of Commerce, Winters, Texas.—Dear sirs: I won first prize in the clothing contest held in Ballinger May 14th, for the 4-H Club Girls of Runnels county, and I wish to thank the Winters Chamber of Commerce for awarding the first prize.

It was good of Mrs. Hollingsworth to put on the contest and it was splendid of you to give the scholarship to the Short Course at the A. & M. College for this summer. I shall surely attend as the representative of the Herring 4-H Club and of Runnels county, and I shall do my best to be a credit to the Winters Chamber of Commerce, the county, and Mrs. Hollingsworth. It is an opportunity that I had never hoped to have and I shall make it worth as much as possible to myself.

Again I wish to assure you of my thanks for the trip. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate it.—Respectfully, Della Bragg.

Mrs. Irene McNeill came home last Saturday from Abilene to spend the summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McNeill. Miss McNeill has been a student in McMurtry College the past term.

Miss Brown Weds Denton Man

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Cordelia Brown of this city to Mr. B. H. McFall of Denton, came as a surprise to her many friends, when they learned she had been married since April 30.

The marriage took place at the Presbyterian manse at Ballinger and was kept a secret from the public until she finished her school at Tuscola, only close relatives or intimate friends knowing of the happy event.

Miss Brown is well known here, having taught in our public schools for three years, but for the past two years has taught at Tuscola. The groom is a prominent business man of Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. McFall left Saturday for Denton where they will make their future home.

Local C. C. Elects New Secretary

S. W. Cooper of Crosbyton, Texas, has been elected to succeed C. R. Robertson as secretary of the local chamber of commerce. Mr. Cooper was elected at an executive session Monday and wired his acceptance Tuesday. He will begin work about July 1st.

Mr. Cooper is a man of much experience in commercial work, having served almost five years as secretary of the chamber of commerce at Crosbyton. During his tenure of office in that city he has put over an extensive program including a splendid highway and railroad program. The entire county has been cemented together by the splendid feeling that has permeated the organization during the time he has been connected with it.

Numerous letters and words of high praise have come to the committee regarding his work and all speak well of him and his family, both as to his efficiency in the work, and their standing in the community. From all reports Winters is to be congratulated upon securing a man who is so well schooled in experience and who measures up to such high standards.

Mr. Cooper is a man who has been in business himself, having been a banker at one time, and has gleaned much useful knowledge in his work with business men. He is regarded as one of the best commercial executives in West Texas, and his leaving will be regretted by the South Plains people.

Huntsman Writes From Flood Area

New Orleans, La., June 2.—Winters Enterprise, Winters, Tex. Dear Friends: I have just finished reading the last issue of the Enterprise which is always just like a big newsy letter, and I read everything in it—advertisements and all—but was very sorry to read of the accident which occurred there causing the death of Mr. Pace, and I wish to say that he will be missed more than any one will ever know, not only by his own people but by the friends over the country where he has lived so long.

I know only too well the trouble that carelessness and other things can cause, for just twelve months ago, one Lord of this month I received the news that nearly snuffed out my life, and if it had not been for the many kind friends to look after me I would surely have passed into the land from whence no traveler returns, and all this makes me wonder if there cannot something be done that will make the lives of our people a little more safer.

The Mississippi is falling here at New Orleans but it will take some time before all the lands up the river are fit for cultivation. The loss is very great, besides all the suffering caused.

I trust that the men at Washington will see fit to take charge of this mighty menace and see that this does not ever occur again.

Will Rogers, the famous humorist, and entertainer is here and will give an entertainment tonight for the benefit of the sufferers—all gross receipts to be turned over to the Red Cross, the seats selling for $2 to $2,000. Several have been sold at $2,000.

I hope to be able to return home very soon as I am getting along just as well as I possibly can, I suppose.

I went to the docks Monday and saw a ship unloading bananas, and of course they don't carry many on a ship. There were only 4 tons on this ship. There was enough fruit thrown aside to feed Winters for 2 or 3 days.

Can buy all the bananas you want here 3 dozen for 25 cents.

I want to tell you about a man I met in the hospital here.

He has seven war medals and one of them, known as the Sampson medal, was won by his being one of the men to go with Hobson when he sank

Lynn Presented Silver Set by Seed Crushers Assn.

H. W. Lynn, manager of the Winters Oil Mill, and retiring president of the Texas Seed Crushers Association was accorded signal honor at the close of this year of service. At the close of the convention held at Galveston last week, Mr. Lynn was presented with a full service set of monogrammed sterling silver, which included almost everything that can be named in the category of silver. The gift was made in token of appreciation of the splendid work which the president did the past year for the association. While the gift is a large one and is useful, the greatest value is placed upon the spirit in which it was given. We rejoice that another Winters citizen has acquired favor in the circle of big business men of Texas. Winters is to be congratulated upon having men who are farsighted in business, accessible in daily life and who are capable of winning recognition, as Mr. Lynn has.

The first open air concert of the Junior Band will be given at Tinkle Park tonight at 8:30. This will be the beginning of a series of concerts by the two bands during the summer. Director Shepperd states that the band is picking up new music right along and that it should be capable of playing a concert every two weeks while the members of the old band will also be able to give a concert the intervening weeks. Watch for the dates and come to the park and enjoy an hour of good music.

The following program will be rendered tonight:

Closed Car Turns Over Twice, None Seriously Injured

What at first appeared to be a serious accident proved only a slight one Wednesday when a car of cotton choppers were driving down the highway, and in attempting to turn in at the Koehler farm their car was struck by another car from behind. The rear car, which was a closed model was occupied by a family from Lubbock, turned over twice, breaking the glass in the windshield and doors a baby being slightly cut about the head and legs. Other occupants of the car sustained minor injuries.

Raymond Lloyd and Mrs. Ralph Lloyd accompanied Johnnie Robertson to Abilene Monday. Mr. Robertson has been in school in A. C. C. this year and has been a frequent visitor in the Lloyd home. He will be employed in a drug store at his home in Frankston, Texas.

The Merrimac in Havana Harbor during the Spanish-American war, in an attempt to bottle up the Spanish fleet. Sure is interesting to hear him talk of it and other feats he did to win the other medals. He is every inch an Irishman and was born near Dublin, Ireland.

I wish that the Winters country had the water that has passed by in two blocks of me in the river since I started to write this. Hoping that in the near future I can see you all, I am very truly your friend.—Emet Huntsman.

Grow Them RIGHT

Growing mash is just as necessary for growing chicks as buttermilk starting feed is for baby chicks. Neither an exclusive grain ration nor laying mash will do a satisfactory job of growing good pullets. Grain puts on fat and slows up growth. Laying mash forces early growth too fast and over develops the reproductive organs and forces pullets to lay before they have attained full size.

Growing mash is not expensive to use; it costs but little more than laying mash and the results obtained makes it far cheaper to use than anything else

To use laying mash or an exclusive grain ration means that a high percentage of the pullets will be culls and that means a serious loss to the poultryman right at the time he can least afford it; when eggs are high in price.

A WORTHY HERO

By refusing to capitalize his wonderful exploit by going on the stake and parading himself before the public as a hero, which he is, Captain Lindbergh, youthful aviator, is displaying a strength of character that is as admirable as his wonderful feat of jumping across the Atlantic at a single hop. A million dollars profit on an accomplishment of 34 hours, and he turned it down. Our hat is off to this intrepid Missouri national guardsman, who is not looking for cheap, sensational display.

Captain Lindbergh is the most spectacular hero in the world today. His name is on every one's lips and he continues to receive front page place, though his non-stop flight from New York to Paris was made nearly three weeks ago. This heroic lad has written his name high on that blazing list of men who have dared and done as they looked into the face of death and laughed.

Other aviators had negotiated the traverse of the broad Atlantic, but no mortal in the long lapse of earthly time ever crossed it as Lindbergh did, up to that time. This glory and distinction are his alone. No air adventure has ever attracted more attention. The exploits of Capt. Lindbergh have commanded thousands and thousands of columns of newspaper space during the past months. A New York newspaper clipping bureau has announced that it never has handled so many clippings on any one subject in its thirty years of business.

This flight will do inestimable good to the progress of aviation, and Captain Lindbergh faces a brilliant future. He has blazed a path that within a few brief years will be an aerial path.

FLAG DAY

The 14th of June, whether by tradition or historical fact matters not, is the accredited birthday of the immortal Stars and Stripes. Is the day when the true American shows his colors.

The name of Betsy Ross in the popular imagination is ineradicably associated with the birth of Old Glory. No one at this time wishes to rob the young Philadelphia widow of an iota of the fame tradition has conferred on her or the part she played in the Arch-street upholstery shop on that historic June day of 1776.

Though ours is youngest of the present-day nations, historians tell us that only two of the present national flags are older than the Stars and Stripes. It symbolizes today what it symbolized when it was first flung to the breeze. It floats above us, whether in peacetime or in wartime, as the emblem of our liberties, our free institutions, our governmental ideals.

Every good citizen should honor Old Glory's natal day. Let that honor be made visible by flinging it to the breeze from every home, every business house, every public building in the land on its birth.

Getting Ready for the Short Course at Texas A. & M.

The county home demonstration agents, C. W. Lehmborg, and Mrs. Hollingsworth are working hard trying to put Runnels county on top in sending more delegates to the Short Course at College Station than any other county in the State, and they are meeting with a good deal of encouragement.

The following organizations and firms have volunteered to send delegates: Winters Chamber of Commerce, one girl; Ballinger Chamber of Commerce, a boy and a girl; the Rowena Chamber of Commerce, a woman delegate; Harwell Motor Co., one boy. Other firms and individuals have indicated a desire to send delegates and anything that may be done along this line will be most highly appreciated. Those desiring to go as representatives of their community should make reservations through the county home demonstration agent. The following letter is self-explanatory and is being sent to every family in the 34 organized communities in this county:

To the citizens of Runnels county: Dear Friends: Do you want Runnels County to hold the foremost place among the progressive counties in West Texas? Do you want your community to stand head and shoulder above any other community in Runnels county? You, of course, will say "Yes, we do." You can make it so if you will give us your full and whole-hearted cooperation in carrying out a Community

Plan during months of June and July. Here is the plan: As representatives of the Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas we are planning to meet each organized community in Runnels county for the purpose of holding community socials—a big community family reunion or rally. To make this complete we must have you and your family present. We want a 100 percent community turn-out for this occasion. We are depending on you to help us put this plan over.

The purpose of this community social is: 1. To revive the old time rural community spirit. 2. To bring about a closer community fellowship. 3. To show the citizens of Runnels county that your community is the best organized community in the county and that every family in your community is cooperating 100 per cent to make your's the best community in which to live a happy, contented life. 4. To work up a red hot friendly community rivalry to culminate in a farmers' Rally Day to be held at the court house in Ballinger on July 9th from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. 5. To stimulate community interest in sending delegates from your community to the Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College, College Station, Texas, July 25th, to 30th.

The feature of this Community Social will be an ice cream supper furnished by the citizens of your community to raise money to send these delegates. During this week farmers, their wives, club girls and club boys from practically every county in Texas will meet at College Station to discuss community, farm and home problems and to listen to expert discussions on topics related to the farm, the home, the church and the school. This is a red letter week for Texas. Surely you want your community represented at the A. & M. College during this week.

We are planning now to work out ways and means to carry at least fifty people from this county to the Short Course this summer. Just think what that would mean to Runnels County. What a wonderful advertisement this would be for your county. We want your community to be represented in this delegation.

Any suggestions that you might offer to make this Community Social the success we want it to be will be appreciated. We will furnish part of the program in the form of a free out-door picture show and other stunts and comedies. We also offer a cash prize of ten dollars to the community that will raise the largest amount of money to send delegates to the Short Course.

Your local entertainment committee will work out all details for this Community Social. Please get this before all your people and we will meet you at your school on the proposed date.

Anticipating your hearty cooperation in making this an occasion to be long remembered, we are, Your friends and fellow-workers, C. W. Lehmborg, Co. Agent, Mrs. Laura Hollingsworth, Home Demonstration Agent. Following is the list of dates and meeting places for the Community Socials in each of the respective communities, beginning June 13th and ending July 8th:

C. E. NOTES

On Thursday evening, June 2nd, a business meeting of the Adult C. E. Society of the Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. Vanzandt for the purpose of electing new officers for the coming term, beginning July 1. The devotional was conducted by the president, Mrs. C. T. Rives, after which the report of the nominating committee was heard, resulting in the election of the following officers:

Mr. Haynie, president; Mrs. W. R. Ganaway, vice president; Mrs. Kate Vancil, treasurer. The following chairmen of committees: Prayer Meeting, Mrs. Albert Spill; Lookout, Mrs. W. R. Johnson; Missionary, Mrs. August Pfeffer; Social, Mrs. C. T. Rives; After the business session Mrs. Vanzandt served delicious refreshments of angel food cake and grape juice, which was greatly enjoyed by all of those present.

C. E. Picnic

A delightful picnic was given at Tinkle Park Monday evening, June 6, by the Intermediate, Young People, and Adult C. E. societies of the Presbyterian church. After supper there were games for the children and the different societies spent the time in committee and business meetings making plans for the summer months. The Young People's society held their regular monthly business meeting, electing the following officers for the new term:

Miss Gertrude Morgan, president; Merrick Spill, vice president; Miss Mildred Labenske, secretary; George Hall, treasurer; committee chairmen: prayer meeting, Mildred Spill; Lookout, Morris Chapman; social, Evelyn Ganaway. During June, July and August the three societies have planned to have joint prayer meetings on Sunday evenings each in turn putting on the program for the evening. Every member of each society is urged to be present at these meetings if they are in town. Let's make this a profitable summer for C. E. in Winters.

Whose Rent do You Pay?

Are you helping to pay the rent of the big city stores? Are you contributing to the taxes, insurance, interest, employees' wages, and the hundreds of other expenses of the department stores or mail order houses?

Most surely you are if you are buying anything from them. Every dollar's worth of goods sold by such business houses must help pay these expenses. These costs are enormous and must be paid—and if you buy you pay.

Isn't it better economy to buy from the merchants of your town? You pay less and you get more, and your money stays where it will be invested for our own good.

"Why Wives Worry" Coming to Winters

When the Little Theatre group presents "Why Wives Worry" on June 23rd, the public will have an opportunity to see one of the most humorous plays ever presented in Winters. The play is equal to "The Push" and "Other People's Business" and is written by the same author.

A slight misunderstanding of affairs in a neighboring house causes a gossiping woman to almost get two families broken up and a prominent citizen prosecuted for bigamy. Two men who go by the name of Roy Baker develop the ancient art of deceiving to the nth degree but appease their conscience by calling it being diplomatic.

You will have an opportunity to see some of your favorite comedians in action with some old favorites back. E. M. Shepperd's orchestra will be back to furnish music between acts and a short concert before the first curtain raises.

The following is a revised cast which has been made necessary due to the fact that some of the original cast will be on their vacation at that time:

Roy Baker No. 1, Carl Henslee; Roy Baker No. 2, John Norman; Robert, the butler, C. R. Robertson; Gibbs, Parham Witt; Officer, Auburn Neely; Jennie Baker, Leon Campbell; Minnie Baker, Charlie Graham; Mrs. Gibbs, Iva Modisette.

Judge and Mrs. R. T. Thornton, Jr., with some of Mrs. Thornton's relatives, are expected home today from the Devil's river, where they have been fishing the past few days.

Noel Reid left last Sunday for San Antonio where he becomes an inmate of a hospital in that city in the interest of his health.

Now trans-oceanic aerial flights are a matter of course.

The man who can't hide behind a woman's skirts nowadays is a pigmy.

Nothing like "dumplings" to make some old tough rooster fit to eat.

Mrs. Arch Adams and Wendy Wood were called to Brownwood Tuesday to be at the bedside of their mother, who recently had a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Cooke, Miss Mattie and Raymond left today for McAllen, Mission and other points in South Texas for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Clara Callan and son, Jack, returned home the first of the week from a two weeks visit in Fort Worth Dallas and Wichita Falls.

Power of United Prayer

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 12: The Power of United Prayer. Text: Acts 12: 5-17.

Text: Acts 12:5-17

Peter therefore was kept in prison, but prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

And, behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals: and so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

And he went out, and followed him; and wist not that it was true which was done by the angel, but thought he saw a vision.

When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

And when Peter came to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

And when he had considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying.

And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came to hearken, named Rhoda.

And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the gate.

And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, It is his angel.

But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

But he, beckoning unto them with the hand to hold their peace, declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

WRITERS and interpreters of the gospel have found in this lesson the symbols of life's difficulties and barriers overcome by the power of united prayer.

The difficulties are the chains and guards and iron bars which disappear when challenged by faith in God's guidance.

Fellowship

In its early days the Christian church faced many such obstacles as it here surmounted. Steering its course through the seas of vigorous opposition, the church often had to call for the greatest sacrifices from its members in the name of fellowship.

Peter was one of the most conspicuous figures in the early church, and when he was thrown into prison, the character and faith of the disciples was called forth.

"Though he was in prison, prayer was made earnestly of the church unto God for him."

In connection with Peter's escape, one thinks of the experiences of Paul and Silas later, in the stocks, but singing hymns to God. They had the opportunity of escape but remained, encouraging their fellow prisoners to stay that the life of the prison guard might be saved.

Interpreting the Lesson

Peter here meets the opportunity differently. He responds to the angel's bidding to leave the prison. A sad feature of the narrative is that the keepers of the prison were condemned to death when it was learned Peter had escaped. Each must interpret the lesson according to his own sense of values.

Throughout life we meet hills that seem hard to climb. But man is inclined to make mountains of molehills and the crooked way is often made straight. The power of united prayer helps to smooth the pathway of the soul.

A cheap tube can cost you 10 times its price

THIRTY-NINE YEARS of tube-building experience has proved to Dunlop that "cheap tubes" do not pay.

That is why Dunlop tubes are made casing shaped. It costs a little more than to build them on a straight pole, as cheap tubes are built.

But a casing-shaped Dunlop tube is strong everywhere. The outside edge is not weakened by excess stretch. The side next to the rim has no wrinkles to crack with age and blow out. A Dunlop tube protects your casing, because it fits. And your casing is worth ten times the cost of the tube.

We strongly recommend a Dunlop tube for every casing

FOUNDERS OF THE PNEUMATIC TIRE INDUSTRY

An Interview With JIM SCOTT

Jim Scott's steady rise in the business world is no mystery. He makes no secret of how he did it. And it is not a high-power "success story," either, but just plain common sense.

When you meet Jim in his own private office and ask him how it came about, here's the way he tells it:

"Well, sir; it was just a little "attention-caller" that started it all. I had been going along fairly average, dropping a little money into my checking account now and then, but never letting much of it get a rest in the bank. Then one day a friend of mine, an officer in the bank, gave me some information.

"He told me that the bank had always lost money on my account. That hadn't occurred to me before. He also told me that my credit was not anything to brag about, if based on my checking account. He pointed out how the bank—my bank, mind you—would have to refuse me if I asked for a loan. Then I began to do some thinking.

I started in that very day to build up my balance and to establish my credit. Well, I did it. Little by little and, believe me, I'm no step-child in my bank now. You are standing in the result of my effort—this office and my business."

Perhaps everyone won't go as far as Jim Scott has. But anyone is bound to profit by a better bank balance.

And don't you think the many ways in which your bank serves you entitles it to an adequate balance in your account?

Members of the Texas Railroad commission, the president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association and many other prominent professional leaders will attend the conference. The proposed Oil and Gas Bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce would have for its purpose "the exploitation, conservation, protection and development of the oil and gas industry of West Texas." The advisability of such a bureau will be discussed and decided upon at the Breckenridge meet.

PYOTE—Organization of an active chamber of commerce was effected here recently at a mass meeting of the Pyote citizenship. Men from every phase of commercial and civic life enlisted in membership of the body. Among officers elected were the following: Paul S. Cotner, president; A. J. Sifton, vice president and J. J. Ross, secretary-manager.

CISCO—Notable and prominent leaders of West Texas and the State will be in attendance at the Board of Directors' meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held in Cisco June 13. This gathering will mark the first official executive session to be held by the board appointed at the ninth annual convention. Momentous action is expected to characterize the meeting at which a comprehensive program for the year will be outlined.

DALHART—Cream receipts for the Kaufman Creamery company, located in Dalhart for the past two years, totalled $5,300.60 for the month of May, up to noon of May 27th. This amount is more than twice the business of May 1926. More than 450 farmers are patrons of the company. The establishment has promoted introduction of several carloads of dairy cattle.

SWEETWATER—This city will be the assembling point for the distinguished personnel which will make up the motorcade party sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to the Davis Mountain section of West Texas and to the scenic wonderland of eastern New Mexico. Cars will gather here July 2, and will proceed with Alpine, Texas, and Cloudcroft, N. Mex., as objective points, at which places district West Texas Chamber of Commerce conventions are scheduled. Short stops are to be made at towns en route, and three days will be spent in side trips to points in the Davis Mountains. One or two days will be spent in El Paso. An exploring party through the famed Carlsbad Caverns will climax and close the trip.

SLATON—Construction is in progress on between 15 and 20 blocks of street paving in the residence section of the city. When completed, there will be 40 blocks of pavement in Slaton. It is all of brick, laid on a concrete base.

McCAMEY—An emergency fire-works system is under construction here giving McCamey fire protection which it has needed since the town was first built. Actual proceedings have been started toward building a road to the Yates oil field, thereby giving McCamey additional 25 miles of trade territory and giving the town connection with the greatest shallow oil field in the world. The erection of $200,000 worth of new schools is also under way. All these projects are being sponsored by the chamber of commerce which recently reorganized with the following new officers: Tyron Lewis, W. H. Chiles, J. W. Schooler, G. L. Hildebrand, E. L. Cole, the latter being secretary-manager of the commercial body.

Keep Money in Circulation Here

This is an age of competition, an age where the things that survive in the business world are the things that must prove their merit. Anything that is useless or inefficient soon loses out in the strenuous race for supremacy. So when you view your successful business establishments in your home community you are viewing those who have proven their merit and a right to your patronage and consideration.

The business field in the small towns especially, is not exclusive to anybody. The game is open to anybody who desires to enter and cares to risk the necessary capital. Nobody faces fiercer competition on every hand than the country merchant. A dissatisfied customer does not have to trade with him and he knows it. There are the competing stores across the street or next door. Or if those do not suit there are usually towns within a very short distance that invite his patronage. So the country merchant must find a way to meet these conditions, and he can only meet them by giving the service, the goods and prices that do satisfy the customers.

Most people expect and receive accommodations from the home merchant which they would never receive in a thousand years from the mail order concern. Just this feature of accommodation should be a strong point in favor of the home merchant, but that is not all. There are churches, the schools, the various public activities that are only possible because the home merchant and business man is doing a successful business. All of these things are inseparable and if everybody would trade out of town, the town would decay and public activities would soon cease. There is no way that a prosperous town can be maintained and at the same time have a large part of the business of the town go elsewhere.

Many people do not realize what it means to send money out of the town. Of course a few would not matter, but when it begins to mount up to thousands of dollars a month then one can see the vast damage to the town caused by the loss of this liquid capital. The banks find their business curtailed, the merchants cannot carry the stock they should, money becomes "tight" and everybody finds it scarce because it has been sent away to the everlasting benefit of some big, overgrown metropolis.

On another page of The Enterprise will be found the advertisements of business institutions that are particularly interested in getting their side of this question before the public. They have selected The Enterprise as their medium of expression. Take note of their advertising. They have their capital invested in their various enterprises and wish to show you by service rendered that they deserve your patronage.

PAULINE Malligate, strangely absent from her home in London for 18 months, is believed to be "Mrs. Creswold," mistress of "The Moat," a mystery house in Yorkshire, not far from the country place of Mrs. Bertha Northwood, friend of the Malligates.

HENRY Emerson, wealthy stepfather of the girl, has vanished mysteriously from a summer resort where he had been staying with his wife and another stepdaughter, Lorna.

DR. JULIAN Emerson, claiming to be related to the missing man, has taken Lorna and her sick mother from the resort to Mulberry House, an old estate in Paxton Common, where he is holding them captive.

GERALD Craven, Lorna's lover, has joined with Mrs. Northwood and Noel Shannon, British war ace, in tracing the missing family. Through information obtained from Ellen Storey, a maid at "The Moat," Craven and Shannon fly to Paxton Common. There Shannon accepts a heavy fee for taking Dr. Emerson to Yorkshire.

Craven, remaining at Paxton, manages to make his way into the grounds of Mulberry House and to have a secret conference with Lorna. They decide that Craven shall go for help; while Lorna, to avoid suspicion, shall remain with her mother, who lies in the house under the influence of a drug administered by Dr. Emerson.

In the meantime a storm has forced Shannon down midway of his destination. His passenger is so unnerved that he refuses to go on. Shannon continues his way alone and arrives at the home of Mrs. Northwood, who reiterates her suspicion that "Mrs. Creswold" is Pauline Malligate. Shannon decides to go to "The Moat" and settle the question.

Craven, remaining at Paxton, manages to make his way into the grounds at Mulberry House and to have a secret conference with Lorna. They agree that Craven shall go for help; while Lorna, to avoid suspicion, shall remain with her mother, who lies in the house under the influence of a drug administered by Dr. Emerson. Two of Dr. Emerson's guards intercept Craven as he is leaving. They beat him into unconsciousness and leave him in the road. A boy, witness of the fight, runs to the village and tells the men at the tavern what he has seen.

"That dreadful rough looking man frightens me. Won't you stay with me, Mrs. Brown?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

In a very little while this group had hastened to the direction the boy had indicated and as they came upon Craven's unconscious body, they hesitated just for an instant. Then one of them went forward and kneeling down examined Gerald Craven.

"He's breathing faintly, but he has had a nasty knock out. Say, what shall we do with him?"

The boy who had fetched them volunteered the information that that same afternoon he had seen this young man walking with lame Leonard.

"Well, you run back and see what Leonard's got to say. We'd best get something to carry this poor fellow on—and we'd ought to stop that bleeding on his head." "We'll call at Dr. Horder's on our way back and ask him to have a look at him," volunteered one of the men; then he added: "Perhaps we'd best leave him lying where he is until Dr. Horder has seen him. We may do harm by moving him."

"That's right, Tom," said another man. "I'll fetch the doctor—I know he's in for I saw his car go by just as we come out of the King's Head."

In a very little time they brought the doctor on the scene, and whilst he was making a cursory examination of young Craven the boy was seen returning followed by Leonard, who advanced as quickly as his crippled condition would allow. Behind him came Mrs. Donald carrying a little brandy and some water in a bottle.

"Can you identify the man who attacked this gentleman?" the doctor asked of the boy when he reached the group.

"Well, sir, I ain't quite sure, but I think it was that there Indian chap what belongs to this house."

"The Mulberry House?" queried the doctor. "Well, before we go into that part of the matter, I must get this poor fellow away from here. The question is where to take him?"

It was Leonard who answered him; Leonard, speaking with difficulty and leaning heavily on his crutches.

"I've been followed and set upon. I know this gentleman, sir—he's a great friend of Flight Commander Shannon. They came down by air this very afternoon and Mr. Craven—that's his name, sir—he set with me a while after supper; then he went out for a little stroll and must perhaps he's been robbed."

Mrs. Donald came up panting at this moment. "I want to take care of this gentleman," she said breathlessly. "I've a spare room. It's all right, doctor; you know me; I'm a good nurse."

Lorna had gone back swiftly to the house. She breathed a little more easily as she felt Gerald had gone away, and she allowed her hope to grow until it became a conviction that in a very little while those who had the right to protect her and her mother would soon be on the scene.

She found Mrs. Brown waiting for her, who announced that Mrs. Emerson was still lying in the same comatose condition.

"I am going to stay here in mother's room tonight," Lorna announced. "I'm not only anxious about her, but that dreadful, rough looking man frightens me. Won't you stay with me, Mrs. Brown?"

But the housekeeper shook her head.

"No, I must be about downstairs for a while, at least, or else I shall arouse their suspicion"—she caught her breath sharply—"and I am always uneasy until I know Kassan is in his room after he has been to the village," she added. "When Dr. Emerson comes back I shall report him."

She went downstairs after she had heard Lorna lock the bedroom door, and she found the man called Carter sitting smoking in the square hall.

"Aren't you going to bed?" she queried.

"I'm all right. It's very peaceful here, and the air coming in from that door is very refreshing. Besides I am waiting—Gilbert and Kassan are still out."

"I wish they hadn't gone to the village," said Mrs. Brown hurriedly. "Kassan is bad enough by himself, but he is worse when he is with that brute," she paused and then put a question to the man in the chair. "I suppose you can tell me why the doctor went off in such a hurry this afternoon?"

Carter shook his head. "I know nothing."

Mrs. Brown clasped her hands and walked to and fro. And then she stopped in front of the man.

"Oh, Mr. Carter—sir—what does it all mean? Something dreadful must be going on. I tell you my heart fairly aches for that poor lady and the girl upstairs. She is a sweet girl and she's fretting terribly about her mother, and not without cause! Much more of this treatment and the mother will die!"

"There are worse things than death," the man Carter said in his slow, dreary voice.

Mrs. Brown put out her hand warningly.

"Hush," she said, "they're coming in now through the kitchen. There's no need for them to come to this part of the house, so I'll lock that door that leads from the kitchen. They've got their own rooms to sleep in, and I won't have them here."

But even as she moved quickly toward the door that led to the back part of the house, it was pushed open and the two men appeared.

The face of the man called Gilbert was discolored and blood was pouring from his mouth.

Mrs. Brown drew back from him involuntarily, but she quickly saw that she must master this situation, and she spoke to him harshly:

"What do you mean by coming to the door in this way? Go back! Go back to your proper place. And you Kassan—you go to bed. You'll have something to answer to the doctor when he comes back tomorrow. He'll know how to treat you for creeping out of the house against his orders."

A look of terror passed into the Indian's face and he suddenly turned on his heels and went off. But the other man lunged against the doorway and sneered in an ugly fashion at the woman.

"Giving yourself airs, aren't you? Setting yourself to order people about! Who are you, anyway? You go and get me some hot water and some disinfectant. I suppose you think you're throwing dust in my eyes! Well, we pretty soon finished up that fine young gentleman as you've been entertaining here tonight."

Gilbert lurched forward with a very ugly word and looked as if he would strike the woman, when suddenly the man who had been sitting in the chair gazing out into the garden, got up and came forward.

"Now, then, that will do, Gilbert!" he said. "That will do! Go back to your kennel, dog!"

Just a moment before he had made a very strange assertion, this man Carter, and he had said that he was not afraid of Julian Emerson, but that Julian Emerson was afraid of him. And now the woman saw in a sense a visible proof of his power, for Gilbert retreated quickly to the passage that led to the kitchen and shut the door behind him hurriedly.

"You can go to bed, now, Mrs. Brown," Carter said, falling once again into his former dreamy way of speaking. "I am not tired."

No More Hot Summer Kitchens

WITH A HOTPOINT SUPER-AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC RANGE

Wives, Mothers! Learn about this modern way to cook. No longer need you stay at home near your cooking, to watch it and see that it is properly done. No more guessing at cooking temperatures. No more uncertainty about results. With a Hotpoint Super-Automatic Electric Range you can go out for precious sunshine hours with the children, for golf, shopping, bridge or matinee.

You can place a complete meal in the oven—roast, potatoes, vegetables en casse-role and a dessert, for instance.

Merely set the Automatic Temperature Control for the exact heat to be maintained during the cooking. Then set the Automatic Timer for the time cooking should start and the time it should stop. And leave for all day if you like. When you return at dinner time, open the oven. You'll find the dinner ready to serve, hot and more deliciously cooked than if you had constantly watched it, the old-fashioned, tied-to-the-kitchen way.

Electrical cookery is MODERN. It is cooler, cleaner, more convenient, saves time. Hundreds of thousands of women in all parts of the country are now cooking electrically—more on Hotpoint Ranges than any other make.

For 50 Years Ned Lee Has Set Picnic Day for Children—and It Never Rained

It won't rain in Davenport, Ia. Saturday, June 11. Ned Lee says so.

The weather man may guess wrongly now and then, but when Ned Lee, the original "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'" man, says that it isn't going to rain, it doesn't rain.

Ned Lee is 83 years old. For some 50-odd years now he has selected a Saturday in June as the day for his annual children's picnic, and has defied Jupiter Pluvius, traditional heavenly sprinkling can artist, to do his darndest. And it never has rained in Davenport on a Ned Lee picnic day.

Two years ago it rained the night before the picnic, and it rained again the night after the picnic, but it didn't rain on the day of the picnic.

That's why the people of Davenport, particularly the youngsters, firmly believe that it will not rain there June 11.

Plenty of Adventures
Moving slowly along the street with slouch hat and cane, the gentle old man would scarcely cause one to suspect that his has been a life of thrills.

As a twenty-year-old Union soldier in the Civil War he escaped from Andersonville prison under fire from Confederate guns and hid in a river, clinging to the rudder of a boat until darkness. Once he "converted" with a poker a 200-pound longshoreman who attempted to raise a "rough house" in his mission. For years he was the unofficial chaplain of a river city red-light district.

It was more than half a century ago, when he was a settlement worker in Oswego, N. Y., that Ned Lee started making his "no rain" predictions for the children. He conducted an annual excursion boat trip on Lake Ontario, issuing his own verbal "rain insurance" for the day each year. Later he predicted "dry" days successfully for Bowery outings in New York, and for 32 years he has been defying Jupiter Pluvius in Davenport.

His annual picnics have been the most interesting phase of his work for children here in recent years. More than 700 attended his 1926 outing.

In Union Army and Navy
The peaceful mission where Ned Lee carries on his work has been a haven to him for more than three decades, rounding out a turbulent lifetime.

Born and reared in Oswego, N. Y., Lee enlisted for naval service at the outbreak of the Civil War, and saw action on the gunboat "Pioneer" in its adventurous attempt to cut the blockade chains off Cape Hatteras.

After his term of enlistment in the navy expired, he entered the Union army and served in most of the important battles of the Potomac campaigns.

After the war, he acted as assistant to a temperance lecturer and later he became a minister. He worked in various cities of New York state and for years in the Bowery district. More than a score of his mission boys he declared, have become ministers.

Finally Lee's health gave way, and physicians told him that he must leave New York. He had offers from Washington, D. C., and Denver, and also a letter from a clergyman in Davenport, Ia., requesting him to turn his attention to that middle western city. He decided to go on to Denver, but agreed to stop off at Davenport for a conference.

He stopped at Davenport and he has been there ever since. A number of the leading business men of the city agreed to furnish him with a mission house and a substantial maintenance fund. That was 33 years ago.

Ned Lee established his mission in "Bucktown," the red-light district of the wild, wide open saw-mill and steamboating town which was the Davenport of three decades ago.

"The Bowery had nothing on the Davenport red-light district in those days," reminisces Lee.

Friend to Wayward
Ned Lee was not one of the "hell, fire and brimstone" reformers. His method was to make friends with the unfortunate and the wayward, to lead them back to the paths of righteousness rather than to drive them back or legislate them back. His mission house became a great gathering place for the poor and needy.

Although 83 years old, Lee still visits his mission daily, and he delights in telling of his experiences. Fraternal organizations co-operate in the work of the mission, one lodge assisting Mr. Lee each year in providing a New Year dinner for "hoboes" and in distributing shoes to the poor.

Standards of the people are higher than they were half a century ago, the veteran mission worker believes. The apparent increase in sin and crime, he says, is merely due to an increasing population.

MAKING BUSINESS

"Poor Jim has been sent to an asylum," said the barber flourishing a shining razor over his customer.

"Who's Jim," asked the man in the chair.

"Jim is my twin brother, sir. Jim kept brooding over the hard times, and I suppose he finally went crazy."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, we used to work side by side for years, and we looked so much alike that the people couldn't tell one of us from the other. We both used to brood a great deal, too. No money in this business now."

"What's the reason?"

"Prices too low. Unless a customer takes a shampoo it does not pay to shave or cut hair. Poor Jim! I caught him trying to cut a customer's throat because he refused to have a shampoo; so I had the poor fellow locked up. Makes me sad. Sometimes I feel sorry I didn't let him slash all he wanted to. It might have saved his reason. Shampoo, sir?"

"Yes."

THE TRAVELING CLINIC

Georgia's traveling physician and nurse will take to the field May 11, to spend the summer and fall examining mothers and babes. The first territory to be covered will be in the southwest part of Georgia. Some eleven counties will be visited. In July the unit will move to the northwest section, where six counties will be covered.

This work is made possible through the benevolence of the National Phi Mu Sorority, in co-operation with the State Board of Health and the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor. Phi Mu gave this truck and the equipment to Georgia mothers for the reason that the Sorority had its origin at our own Wesleyan College for Women at Macon, 75 years ago. The National Phi Mu meeting will be held in Macon the latter part of June.

In addition to the gift already made the good ladies of the Sorority are now busy raising an endowment of $50,000 to go towards the per-
