PUBLIC SAFETY DEPT. DECLARES WAR ON ALL GAMBLERS OF TEXAS

Austin, Dec. 31.—L. G. Phares, acting director of the Texas department of public safety, said today the state had declared a relentless war against "big time" gamblers.

"We have made up our mind that gambling can be stopped," Phares said. "That is what we are going to do. We told the big shot gamblers they may as well get out of Texas and if they don't get out we'll put them out. We will close up every 'big shot's' place if it takes the entire force to do it."

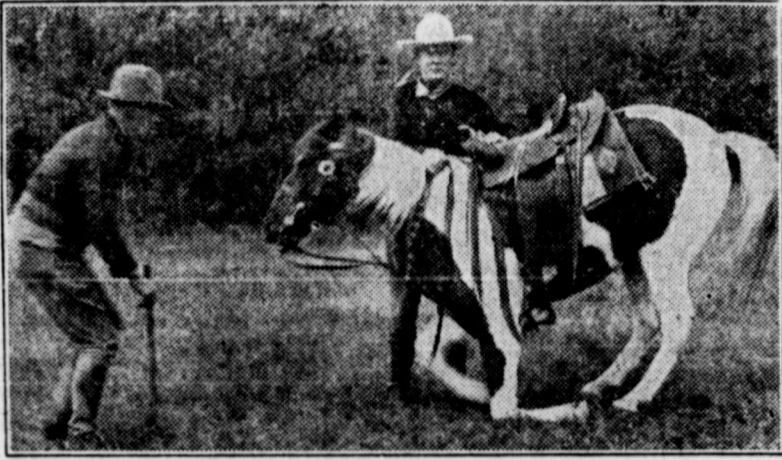

Phares said that where necessary rangers would be permanently assigned to gambling establishments to make certain gambling is not resumed.

"Our men are liable to pop up any time. Dressed any way," he commented. "Some may be disguised as women. If any attempt is made to gamble in their presence it will be just too bad."

Rangers donned dress suits in week-end raids on Houston establishments.

"There are lots of ways of killing a dog besides choking it to death," Phares commented on the change from traditional big hats and cowboy boots.

BEST TRAINED HORSE IN TEXAS

Captain Leonard Pack, chief of the Texas Ranger force at the Texas Centennial Exposition, puts his famous trained horse, Pinto, through his paces at Kiest Park, on the outskirts of Dallas. Assisting Captain Pack, who for 25 years has been one of the Southwest's best-known peace officers, is Jerry Wolfe, noted rodeo star. Pinto is said to be the best trained horse in the Lone Star State.

Seriously injured was Mrs. Pearl Newton, 35, gas company bookkeeper at Dublin, who was riding with her two nieces, Betty Jo Stephens, 6, of San Angelo, and Charline Barry, 15, of Dublin.

Mrs. Newton was taken to St. John's Hospital at San Angelo, where she still was unconscious several hours later. She has a fractured skull, a broken arm, possible internal injuries and facial cuts. The two girls were cut and bruised but were released after treatment at Shannon's Hospital at San Angelo.

TROY CARTER ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER, PRE. 3

IS NOW SERVING HIS FIRST TERM IN OFFICE.

Troy Carter authorizes The Enterprise to announce his candidacy for re-election as Commissioner, Precinct No. 3, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 25, this year.

Mr. Carter is serving his first term in this office and believes the experience gained better fits him to serve the county and precinct three in particular, than when he was first elected in 1934.

On his record of service to the county and precinct No. 3, Mr. Carter asked that you give his claims due consideration, and finally that you accord him the time-honored Democratic custom of a second term.

Mrs. R. C. Smiley of Elm-mott and her sister, Mrs. Emma Stone of Bermond spent the Christmas holidays with their sister, Mrs. W. R. Hord.

Securing Hospital Loan and Grant 1935 WAS YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT FOR WINTERS Was Most Important '35 Happening

With the climaxing of 1935 and the beginning of the new year, we glance back over the files and note important events of the past year. Probably the most important and progressive act made by the people of Winters was on September 3rd when the election on bonds for the construction of a Municipal Hospital carried nearly 3 to 1, after a loan and grant was approved by Washington. The hospital, when completed will have 20 beds, two operating rooms, nursery, etc., and will be air-conditioned.

On January 18th the Winters school was again accepted for membership, among 217 Texas high schools, in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools at the annual meeting in Atlanta, Ga. Winters schools reached their largest enrollment in September with a total of 748 students. The new rock wall was completed around the high school Blizard field and plans for financing lights for the field were successful and the lights will be ready for use next football season.

The Board of Community Development was organized in January and committees were named to raise a budget for their work, securing pledges totaling approximately $2,000 as a starter. Near June first a relief canning factory began operation. The first bale of cotton was brought in by Dolores Torres to be ginned on August 29th. Mrs. Ralph Lloyd and Mrs. I. F. Guin won automobiles in The Enterprise Circulation campaign which closed August 17th.

Winning a total of 1600 points on individual exhibits of the club members, the Winters home demonstration club won the cash prize at the Runnels County fair October 11th.

Government baby bonds sold through the local post office totaled $1,525.00 during the first week of sale in March. Under the Rehabilitation Department several farm houses were repaired. H. O. Jones was selected to fill the vacancy of postmaster.

Tragedies, sadness and sorrows also visited homes along with triumphs and joys. The town in union gathered in February for last tributes at the death of Carl Davis, and again in May at the passing of Albert Spill, both well-loved and successful business men.

And so we say farewell to 1935 and herald the new year—so on with the New Year and may health, prosperity, wealth and happiness be yours throughout 1936.

When Texas Centennial Exposition officials began to select the Rangerettes, hostesses for the Exposition, they planned to have one who was born in each of the 48 states. Then along came Mabel Rooks, shown above, and she passed the strict requirements. Officials found later she was born in the District of Columbia, so they increased the corps to 50, giving themselves a little leeway in the matter of states.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1936

All the signs point to the likelihood that the New Year beginning will be one of the most exciting years we have had for a long time.

In this country the big fact that this is a Presidential election year, and all the indications of the campaign, which will begin around the Fourth of July and run to November 9, will be the most exciting political episode in our national history since Bryan ran against McKinley in 1896, just forty years ago. It seems quite probable that there will be a major involving big European nations, before very long. Again, nobody can say with certainty that this war will break out in '36, but there surely will be enough war talk to keep the world in a state of jitters. Watch for big developments in the scientific and technical fields in 1936. The year just ended saw the establishment of the first air mail and passenger service across the Pacific Ocean, and seems to be on the cards that before 1936 is over we shall see beginning, at least, of a trans-Atlantic service.

It would take a brave man to advise that television will be perfected before the year 1936 is over. But it is certain that long distances will be made toward the goal of bringing the world's great events, as they occur, before the eyes of millions of people sitting comfortably in their own homes. No one can be quite certain that we have yet achieved the recovery for which we have been looking, but we are fully on the way. Doubtless there will be set-backs, but there thing now to suggest that the general economic situation will be worse when 1937 rolls in.

TRAINING PUBLIC OFFICIALS

What may rightly be called one of the most important pieces of news that has been published in a long time, is the recent announcement that a New York manufacturer and philanthropist, Lucius W. Littauer, has given $2,000,000 to Harvard University to endow a School of Public Administration.

The weakest spot in our whole political system is the lack of trained administrators. It is an old American saying that "anybody can run a hotel." Everybody knows that isn't true, but we intrust the management of our public affairs—and our tax money—to men whose only qualification is that they have been faithful workers for the party in power.

How far that system can be changed in a society as completely as that of the United States is somewhat doubtful. But if the new School of Public Administration does nothing more than focus public attention on the fact that special training is desirable for those who are to manage our complex administrative systems of government, it will have done something.

Want-ads get results!

around, and many signs to indicate that it will be better.

The most important thing that will happen in 1936, is what has been happening every year for the past 1935 years. That is the steady growth of the spirit of human brotherhood and good will, of justice and righteousness in human relations. For nothing is more certainly true than in such matters the world has been getting better every year.

It will keep on getting better in 1936.

QUEEN THEATRE HAS EXCELLENT PICTURES BOOKED NEXT WEEK

With all the magic attending such an event, the circus came to Hollywood for the filming of the M-G-M "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," co-starring Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper, and opening Saturday at the Queen Theatre at the midnight prelude for a two day run. Realism, so necessary in motion picture portrayals, was carried to the nth degree during the filming of "The Last Outpost" showing today and tomorrow with Cary Grant, Claude Rains and Gertrude Michael. Paul Muni will be seen on the screen Tuesday and Wednesday in his latest starring vehicle, "Dr. Socrates." "I Live For Love," gay comedy-romance is scheduled as the featured attraction Thursday night only with Dolores Del Rio and Everett Marshall.

"O'Shaughnessy's Boy"

Again the spirit and essence of "The Champ" have been recaptured from a different, novel angle, with an appealing, heart-throbbing twist—a father's regeneration through the love of his son—the son, realizing the sacrifices of his father, in turn sacrificing himself, as the picture reaches a triumphant, smashing climax. Wallace Beery has one of his finest roles as "Windy," the confident, easy-going, swaggering lion tamer. Jackie Cooper plays his son, and Spanky McFarland plays Jackie as a child. Leone Maricle, Broadway stage actress, makes her motion picture debut in the role of Cora.

"The Last Outpost"

It is a story of a handful of men who control the destinies of millions of people in the fierce, mysterious deserts and jungles of Arabia. Filmed by the same company that made "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," this film tells of a three-cornered romance between two officers and a nurse in a behind-the-lines hospital. Fast friends, inseparable, the two men go through many dangers together. Cary Grant's life is saved by his brother officer, who in turn, because of the girl, goes through a million hells to kill him.

"Dr. Socrates"

Paul Muni, in the role of a once famous physician whose nerves have been shattered by the death of his fiancée, tries to bury himself in a small town. In this he is successful until one night a notorious bank bandit forces him at the point of his revolver to dress a wound he had received in a battle with police. The bandit and his band terrorize the territory, rob the bank and shoot up the town. Among those injured is a girl who had leaped from the bandit's car. Muni, who has been dubbed Dr. Socrates by a blustering country doctor, a part played by Robert Barrat, dresses the girl's wounds and takes her to his home. Then things begin to happen. Ann Dvorak plays the part of the little hitch-hiker with whom Muni falls in love.

"I Live For Love"

Dolores Del Rio plays the part of a South American prima donna tempestuous and temperamental, who loves and hates with the passion of the fiery Latin. She thinks she is in love with an actor from her own country, a part played by Don Alvarado, who drives his producer frantic. Everett Marshall, a street singer who eventually becomes the toast of the country on the radio, is the rival lover, whom the prima donna thinks she hates. After a series of terrific battles between the two, he finally sweeps her off her feet and literally leaves the fiery Latin suitor waiting at the church.

TEXAS HAS MORE CASH THAN ANY TIME IN HISTORY

Dallas, Dec. 30.—Chas. Lockhart, state treasurer, said here Saturday that Texas has more cash on hand than at any time in the state's history.

Lockhart, en route for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, said the state has about $36,000,000 on hand, "or enough cash to pay off everything Texas owes, including the $16,000,000 deficit and have a little left over."

He added that this is impossible under the law, "and most of the funds will be transferred to the various accounts shortly." Lockhart announced he would seek re-election. He is serving his third term.

CITES COTTON CUT PROBLEMS

Dallas, Dec. 30. — David R. Williams, new director of rural industrial communities under the Works Progress Administration, said here today that reduced cotton acreage already has set some 2,000,000 tenant farmers and their families drifting over this section of the country.

He also expressed the belief that a good portion of the United States foreign market for cotton has been irretrievably lost to Brazil, Russia and other foreign countries. For that reason, he said, the South is going to have to cut its own cotton production, and its farmers will have to learn to produce other commodities which industry can use.

East Texas was cited as an area in which land being withdrawn from cotton production can be returned to the growing of pine forests to provide pulp wood. He had no product to suggest for the black land and other belts of Texas, but pointed out, by way of illustrating his contention that cotton land should be converted to other uses, that the growing of soy beans can be undertaken on a large scale to supply needs of the automobile industry.

Williams has under consideration the establishment of a model demonstration farm at the Texas Centennial Exposition, to show other uses to which Texas land may be put beside cotton growing. He said he would confer with Centennial officials regarding his proposal.

Referring to tenant farmers displaced by reduced cotton growing, Williams said these people must either be put to work growing some other products or become permanent relief problems.

He expressed the opinion that in the future there will be an

IN MEMORY OF LOVELLA CAMPBELL

As we shall gather together, And watch each sad face. There is a vacant place in our hearts,

Where our sweet Lovella had a place.

But the Savior called one day, And she answered His call that night.

To be a member of His Holy Land, Where the sun forever shines bright.

She was just like a rose, Plucked from our walk of life. To be taken up into Heaven Out of this world of sin and strife.

We shall miss that sweet and ready smile,

That nod of greeting and laughter,

That shadow and footstep we knew so well,

But this prayer will live in our hearts ever after.

"Oh, dear Lovella, how we miss you,

For no more on earth you roam;

Some sweet day we'll all be with you,

In that bright Eternal Home."

increasing demand for fabricated houses, the materials for which will be cut and assembled largely by machinery. The Government is using such houses in its settlement projects, he said.

In Georgia, where one of these settlement projects is under way, he said the work is progressing about 25 times as rapidly as it would if all the houses were built entirely by hand.

THE WINTERS

Jimmy Rowan was in love with Rose Morsett, the girl in Dover, course, that was in early school days. He was hopeless for her, which he was just "that" desperately poor. Rose's family was rich. Jimmy was working his way through college, Rose Morsett was away and the home blue barely enough to pay the bills. Jimmy vowed he'd get rich. . . . and the easier vowing than doing. . . .

Mr. Morris looked up now, swiftly; in his eyes was a glitter that Rowan had seen in the eyes of famished trail dogs. "Why, you don't know me! Besides—I'm not dressed for a place like this. I thank you, but—" "Come on. You'll be doing me a favor." Jim held the door open and waited for the ragged figure to precede him, then he selected a table in one of the booths and ordered a meal for two which caused his guest to say: "My dear sir, you can't be familiar with Nome prices. A T-bone steak is seven dollars and—those fresh vegetables! Why, you've ordered a millionaire's banquet." "Well, it is a sort of banquet with me. It celebrates an occasion."

times have changed; things have not gone well with me and it hurts a man's pride to acknowledge failure to his friends. I have some pride left. That's why I'm not going back until I land in the pay. Now that you know everything, I'm going to make a confession: I was—actually hungry when you invited me in!" "Hell of a camp, to let a man go hungry!" Rowan exclaimed, harshly. "You see, I'm pretty old and I'm not very strong. It's hard for me to get work. However, a little poverty, a little hardship, doesn't hurt anybody. It makes one enjoy good fortune when it comes. But, Jim, my boy, tell me about yourself. How did I ever help you? You must have struck it rich to be able to afford an extravagance like this—this banquet?"

SECOND INSTALLMENT
Jim rose and followed the man out of the building. Hiram Morris here! In Alaska! It was incredible. More incredible still was it to recognize in this bent figure of discouragement the once mighty man of Michigan, the colossus of Jim's youth. Mr. Morris shuffled along the street, shaking his head and muttering to himself. As he passed the entrance to a bakery when issued the savory odors of fresh bread, pies, and spicy cakes he paused, lifted his face, and breathed deeply. He halted again before a restaurant inside the show window of which were displayed raw steaks and chops and cold-storage chickens upon a bed of cracked ice.

"I met an old friend tonight: a man from my home town. Mr. Morris was ready and willing to talk about Nome. He had failed greatly and he was at a garrulous age, but about himself he had little to say and it was some time before Jim managed to discover that he had been here for two years, mining, but without success. "You know how it is," he explained with a tremulous smile; "it takes time to develop a placer property when you have no capital. But I have a splendid claim and one of these days I'll land in the pay." The two men chatted on until their food was served, and, inasmuch as the host had not seen fit to introduce himself, the guest did not make himself known. It was not until the latter had eaten ravenously, to his complete satisfaction, and had lighted an expensive cigar of Jim's selection, that the younger man said: "Perhaps you'd like to hear about that old friend I met. He was a big man in our town and I was a poor kid, but he gave me some advice that I've tried to live up to. It came about like this: one morning we were having a snowball fight in front of the school-house when he drove past in his cutter."

Rowan shrugged. "I've made a little and I've spent a little. You made me promise to fight fair and never hit a fellow when he wasn't looking. I could have made more if I hadn't lived up to that promise, but—" "Never mind. Crooked money isn't worth having and money of any sort isn't worth too high a price. This is a cruel country and it's hard to get ahead. But you're young and you've taken good care of yourself." Mr. Morris' failing eyes did not see that Jim's flesh was flabby and that the bleach in his cheeks came from lack of sunlight. "That's your early training. I've no sympathy for these wasters who squander their money over bars and gambling tables." Rowan nodded gravely; he spoke the literal truth when he said: "Neither have I."

"Why don't you leave?" "How can I?" The question was accompanied by a crooked smile and a regretful shake of the gray head. "But your family—" With a gambler's caution Jim was leading up to the question that had trembled upon his lips from the moment he had first recognized Rose's father. "Mrs. Morris died several years ago." "I'm sorry. I haven't heard from home in ages." There was a moment of silence, then with averted eyes and in a tone of indifference the younger man said, "Your daughter Rose must be a woman now." Hiram Morris looked up eagerly. "Yes, indeed! A lovely, sweet girl."

"Married, no doubt?" "No. But some day I hope her Prince Charming will come along. Poor Rose, she deserves a prince! She'd love to see you, I know, but—I'm afraid her pride is stiffer than mine. You understand. She feels our situation keenly—" "You don't mean she's—here?" "Why, yes! Where else would she be? She's all I have." Rowan felt himself grow dizzy, ill. Rose here! Dependent upon this poor, feeble old man whom he had surprised staring at a cafe window like a famished wolf! It was a moment before he could trust himself to inquire: "Where is she? What is she doing?" "She's out on the creek. I came in to look for a man, a helper, but—I can't pay wages and nobody cares to prospect a claim for an interest in it when there are so many claims to be had for the staking, or to be jumped. We've about reached the end of our rope. I saw the notice of that Michigan meeting and I thought I might find somebody there."

something. Well, I've put a pack on his back and hit the trail. It was the first time in nearly five years that he felt pack straps, for The Michigan Kid had taken his exercise by proxy, and he was dismayed to discover how soft and how short of breath he had become. He felt a pang when he heard the siren of his steamer giving the signal to weigh anchor, for he was heartily sick of the northland and hungry for the world outside. He had worked long for this hour; he felt now as if some one had offered him a drink and then snatched it away. And the worst of it all was that he had no doubt made a fool of himself! Rose would not—could not be the girl he had known; nor could the faint spark of a boyhood infatuation be fanned into the flame of a real man's love, for men's tastes change without their knowing it. He knew without asking that Rose shared all of her father's scruples and prejudices. Lucky for him that he had buried The Michigan Kid.

Rose had bloomed into exactly the sort of woman that Jim had expected, thereby disproving the cynical statement that our realizations never equal our anticipations. She was a little more fragile than he had pictured her, but the reason for that was evident and it wrung his heart. Ten minutes after he saw her, heard her voice, looked into her eyes, he had ceased all regrets about that departed steamship. She was delighted to see the boy she had known, and with her own hands she prepared the simple supper for three. Later she sought out Jim as he was strolling about the claim. "Father tells me that you have bought a complete outfit of supplies, and lumber for another cabin."

"Yes. They'll be out tomorrow." The girl lowered her eyes and said with some difficulty: "Of course you realize that they came just in time. It's almost easier to take charity from strangers than from old friends. I'm sorry you made the sacrifice." "Charity? Sacrifice? What sacrifice?" "Father says you were on your way 'outside'—after five years. I know what that means. (CONTINUED NEXT WEEK)

Chicken Pox Contagious Disease of Poultry

BY J. M. WILLIAMS

Chicken pox and diphtheria, commonly called sorehead, are but external and internal manifestations of the same disease. The virus causing the formation of warts or pox nodules on the head also causes the cheesy patches in the mouth and throat which are characteristic of diphtheria. It is a highly infectious condition caused by a virus of germ which passes through laboratory filters and cannot be seen with the most powerful microscope. Biting insects may spread infection, through inoculation, from sick to healthy birds.

This condition is often confused with bacterial roup but is distinguished from it by the fact that chicken pox runs a definite course, lasting from 30 to 60 days. Pox nodules form on the head, comb and wattles and canker formations, which are difficult to remove, are found in the nose and throat. Canker formations may also occur in the eyes.

The nodules begin as small, red or reddish gray growths with a shiny surface and gradually enlarge, while the color changes to a yellowish, brownish or dark brown, and the surface dries and becomes shriveled, uneven and warty in appearance. Symptoms in turkeys are the same as those manifested by chickens with the exception that the nodules on the head are much larger, and scab more slowly.

Treatment consists of removing sick birds from the flock and placing them in a well ventilated room, one that may be easily disinfected. Make a weak salt water solution and rub the nodules until they are loosened from the underlying tissue. Remove the nodules and apply tincture of iodine or a five percent solution of carbolic acid. If large swellings appear beneath the eyes, they should be opened with a knife the contents removed, and washed with the disinfectant solution. As the disease is contagious, the houses, drinking vessels, and feed troughs should be kept disinfected during the outbreak and for several days after the birds have apparently recovered. The drinking water may be made antiseptic by dissolving one-third teaspoon of permanganate of potash in each gallon.

Birds may be immunized against chicken pox with Fowl Pox vaccine. This vaccine will develop an immunity lasting for one year and in all probability for life. The method of applying this vaccine is very simple. Pluck from the thigh a few feathers (6 to 10 from young birds, 5 to 6 from layers and older birds). Moisten a cotton swab with the vaccine and rub over and in the exposed feather follicles. Approximately one-half drop is all that is needed to immunize a bird. The ideal age at which to vaccinate chickens and turkeys against chicken pox is 6 to 11 weeks. Birds of this age are more resistant and the reaction is less severe. All birds on the premises should be vaccinated but if only a part of the flock is treated they should be isolated for at least thirty days to prevent vaccinated fowls from transmitting the disease to them. Poultry disease authorities are now of the opinion that the immunization of poultry against chicken pox is an important means of preventing the occurrence of mixed infections roup, bronchitis, etc. This opinion is based on the observations that birds properly immunized against chicken pox at an early age are less apt to contract these diseases.

SLEEP OR LOUNGE

Pattern 8345—Here is a pair of pajamas which is so cleverly designed that it is equally suitable for sleeping or lounging, depending upon the material used.

Those of us who like to keep very snug and warm when the thermometer is way down, will find this pattern perfect for flannel, either in a solid pastel or in a gay print. Hardier souls will prefer to make it in cotton and may prefer the short sleeves. For a really luxurious effect, this model lends itself beautifully to silk crepe and satin, and it would make a stunning gift in either of these materials.

Note how the trousers are set on a well-fitting yoke, and how they flare gracefully at the ankles. The scalloped bodice, collar and cuffs are most appealing. Because both long and short sleeves are given, this is a good all-year round pattern — one which you should have for use from time to time.

For pattern, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired) your name, address, style number and size to Patricia Dow, The Winters Enterprise Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Jan. 2.—Without trying to predict what the final outcome will be, this is a good time to take note of the major issues with which the second session of the 74th Congress, convening on Friday, January 3, will occupy its time.

1. Immediate payment of the Veterans' Bonus. The only apparent open question about this is whether or not the bill as passed will provide for full cash payment or for a special issue of bonds.

2. The Townsend old-age pension proposal. This will stimulate a lot of oratory in both Houses. The Labor lobby will oppose it. The best guess is that the Townsend plan will not be adopted but that the agitation will result in liberalization of old-age benefits under the Social Security Act, which has got to be amended in many respects, anyway.

3. Lots of talk and some pretty hot debates on the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage green-back bill. Little chance, however, of its passage.

4. Government ownership of railroads. Again a lot of talk, backed by a well organized campaign of the railroad unions in favor of it. Action of Interstate Commerce Commission in ordering reduction of railroad passenger rates to two cents a mile, where they are now higher than that—which is all over the East. This will be a demonstration of the Government's present power over railroads, and may have a strong influence in bringing holders of railroad bonds into line for Government ownership.

Neutrality, Navy, Army
5. The neutrality question will come up early in the session. The present temper of Congress is to strengthen the neutrality laws. The strong belief prevails that a great war is rapidly approaching, and Congress will not be inclined to trust the State Department alone to keep us out of it. One outcome of the war is likely to be liberal appropriations for a bigger navy.

6. Proposals for increasing the army strength will be backed by reports that Mexico is planning an out-and-out Communist Government. This will give strength to the demand for military defenses along the Rio Grande.

7. There will be more debate on proposals to regulate wages and hours of labor. Outlook is for the passage of the Walsh Bill, requiring all concerns selling anything to the Government to conform to labor standards established by NRA.

8. Attempts will be made to straighten out the silver tangle, probably by mandatory legislation requiring the Treasury to increase its purchases and maintain the world price. The silver policy is not clearly defined as yet.

9. Amendments to the Housing Act probably will be made, with the objective of inducing private capital to go into large-scale low-cost housing projects. This is in accordance with the views of Secretary Morgenthau, Director Fahey of Home Owners Loan Corporation, and Peter Grimm, Housing Co-ordinator.

Many Investigations
10. A lot of noise that will be heard on Capitol Hill from now on will come from the committee rooms, where Public Utilities, railroads, munitions, chain stores, and various other phases of business will be under investigation. The program for this session will be complicated by Court decisions which reject new issues as submitted by the President. Politically, the road has been brought to the Hoover's speech in St. The Government's plan for the relief problem back states as fast as possible making headway.

Betting on Republican dates is now better money on Landon. He is not at neither Mr. Hoover's speech in St. The money is being a Republican Congress in but the Presidential odds still in Mr. Roosevelt's favor.

Underwood-Bird Wedding Held at Blanket Church

Below we are reprinting an article taken from the Brownwood Bulletin because of the local interest. Mr. Underwood is a son of J. C. Underwood of this city and a brother of Mrs. C. E. Sullivan.

Miss Maurine Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bird, became the bride of Wilburn Underwood Saturday evening, December 21st, at five o'clock at the Blanket Baptist church. The ceremony was the culmination of a romance started while the couple were students at Howard Payne College of which both are graduates. Rev. Judson Prince of Hamilton, former pastor of Blanket and former Howard Payne student, officiated in the ceremony which was performed before a large assembly of friends and relatives.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white satin bridal gown made with short jacket, long sleeves and a Queen Anne collar. The long skirt terminated in a short train and her finger tip veil was trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of calla lilies and gypsophila elegans.

Her sister, Miss Cleo Bird, attended as maid of honor. She was attired in a blue velvet gown made with wide sleeves and front fullness, which was trimmed in gold and worn with gold accessories. Miss Willie Mims Murphy of Brownwood and Miss Earnestine Richmond of Blanket were maids and they wore dresses similar in design to that of Miss Bird, but in plum color. All three carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums. Felton Underwood of Stamford served as best man while Jack Underwood, also of Stamford, and Roy Bird of Blanket were groomsmen. Emma Sue Swart and Louise Lanford of Blanket were flower girls and each was dressed in pink and blue dresses trimmed in silver. Tommie Jean Hall was ring bearer and he carried the ring in a calla lily on a white satin pillow. Four pupils of the bride, Dennis Evans, Acie Bert Chapman, Billy Duain Powers and Billy Stanly McDonough served as ushers.

Following the ceremony the Misses Allene, Eddie Lake and Anna Sue Tate of Brownwood, accompanied by Mrs. McAdoo Keaton, sang "The Rosary," and "I Love You Truly," Mrs. Keaton played other nuptial music.

The wedding party stood before an altar banked with palms, ferns and other greenery. Three baskets of white chrysanthemums guarded on either side by tall candelabra holding lighted white tapers outlined the altar space. Pews were tied with white and sprigs of greenery.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the Bird residence which was gaily decorated in holiday motifs. A lace cloth over pink satin covered the refreshment table which was centered with a wedding cake. The cake, a three-tiered confection decorated in pink flowers and pink lovebirds, was surrounded by white candles in pink holders. Miss Wilma Brewster poured tea.

When the couple departed on a local wedding trip to San Antonio, a wedding bouquet was caught by the bride's cousin, Willie Mims Murphy. Underwood traveled in a white ensemble with black and white accessories. Following all black accessories, the bride and groom were the Christmas holidays where to be at home in the coach and Mr. Underwood is a school faculty member of the high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and little daughter, Glenda Sue, and J. C. Underwood were present for the wedding.

Mrs. John A. Madole returned Tuesday to her home in Dallas after spending the holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Craig. She was accompanied by Dr. Craig who is transacting business in Dallas and Sherman.

May the New Year Bring ... PEACE and GOOD WILL ... to all the Peoples of the Earth

We have much to be thankful for in this country of ours—with many of the other nations of the earth in the throes of war and despair—with confusion and misunderstanding on every hand—with warlike leaders of state preparing to fight on a moment's notice—contrast these conditions with those of a free, happy people who are emerging from a long economic struggle—whose only thoughts of war are for the protection of their homes and country—then join us in our hope for a clearer International understanding and peace and good will among all mankind.

We have much to be thankful for in this business of ours—glad that we are doing business in such a country as this—proud of our community and its past achievements and glorious possibilities for the future—happy in the confidence of our friends and patrons as shown by their ever increasing patronage—Why shouldn't we enter the New Year full of hope and cheerfulness, and pride and satisfaction? We are thankful for these conditions—for our friends and patrons, and want you to know that we appreciate the opportunities that are ours and the many favors that you have bestowed upon us. May we serve you better in 1936 is our constant aim.

RUNNELS PIONEER DIED DECEMBER 26 AT SAN ANTONIO

CIVIL WAR VETERAN IS LAID TO REST AT BALLINGER.

A. D. Talley, age 89 years and 13 days, passed away at the home of his son in San Antonio, Texas, on Thursday, December 26, 1935. Services were conducted at Riebs Funeral chapel in San Antonio, Friday afternoon, December 27 and the remains were sent to Ballinger by Riebs undertakers.

Funeral services were held at King-Holt Funeral Home, Saturday, 2 p. m., December 28, by Rev. W. H. Doss, assisted by Rev. Homer Vanderpool. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery, Ballinger, Texas, by the grave of his wife, who died in 1914.

Pallbearers were J. Whit Patterson, J. W. Bixby, August Spill, J. W. Woods, W. E. Jones, Paschall Dietz.

A. D. Talley was born in Alabama, Dec. 13, 1846. He served 3 years in the civil war. In 1866 he came to Tyler county, Texas, and later at Chester, Texas, was married to Miss Jane H. Jennings. To this union twins were born, a boy, W. A. and a girl, Alma. The daughter died at the age of 12 years in Falls county.

In 1888 he moved to Runnels county and was in charge of the J. W. Harris estate for years. He helped locate the Crews cemetery, serving as county commissioner and justice of the peace of the Crews precinct for many years and united in marriage 131 couples, the greater part of them now living in this locality.

His greatest jewels in life were his friends, and to them his deeds and actions were a constant reminder of his march to a land of perfect day. And when the end came, he closed his eyes with a smile on his lips, he heard the summons from above. Grieve not friends, there is no death. What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but a suburb to the life elysian, whose portals we call death.

A. D. Talley joined the Methodist church at the age of 34, and lived a true Christian life to the end. He attended church regularly when his health permitted at the McKinley Avenue Methodist church in San Antonio, where he had made his home for the past few years.

Mr. Talley was captain of the Albert Sidney Johnson camp and at his death only 6 members are left of which 2 were active in the camp.

He leaves many to mourn his passing, the survivors include: his son, W. A. Talley and wife, grandsons, Marvin and wife and Lyle and wife, also great grandson, Marvin, Jr., all of San Antonio, Texas.—Contributed.

A. & M. SUGGESTS LIST OF 1936 RESOLUTIONS FOR TEXAS FARMERS

(For the benefit of those who did not hear the "Farm and Home" Hour broadcast from station WTAW, College Station, Texas, Tuesday, December 31st., this program is presented in part with some personal comment included by J. M. Williams, vocational agriculture teacher.)

Have you adopted any "farm resolutions" for the year 1936? Is there any room for improvement in the methods of operating your farm business? Such improved practices that might increase the amount of net profit a man may receive is naturally of interest to that individual. It is only through improved farm practices that we may expect agriculture to assume its proper position in the world of industry. I take it that any man is willing to adopt practices that improve his efficiency in carrying on his occupation. The following list of Farm Resolutions for 1936, which might be well classified as Improved Practices for 1936, are suggested by an official of A. & M. college as being appropriate for the new year.

Resolution number one involves the production of an abundant supply of food for home use; both for family and livestock and poultry. We have been led to realize the past two years the value of having at least a year's supply of food in store. This leads to the second resolution which provides for an abundance of storage including barns, trench silos, smoke houses, cellars, etc. Third, plan a farm program that includes a system of soil conservation. This program should consist of terracing, strip cropping, planting soil improving crops, etc. The fourth resolution suggested was to provide a good system of record keeping. Only through the keeping of records is a farmer able to detect those enterprises in his business which are showing a net loss. Fifth, good seed and the best of male animals should be included in the breeding program for the new year. The benefits derived from this practice cannot be over-estimated. Inheritance should not be overlooked in the reproduction of plants and animals. The sixth resolution suggested was to repair, paint, and clean up Texas farms. Seventh, keep informed on what is taking place in agriculture not only at home but also abroad. The farmer can better plan his cropping systems if he knows what is going on around him. By reading daily and weekly papers, farm papers and magazines, and government publications, he is able to keep posted as to the agricultural situation throughout the world.

Do any of these Farm Resolutions suit your particular need for the New Year? If so, I urge you to adopt them and keep them faithfully throughout the year and other years to come. Let's help to improve the agricultural situation in Texas, in the U. S. A. and throughout the universe.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. BEN F. BELEW

Oh, how we miss our Mother,
Her kind and pleasant smile,
But our dear Savior took her home,
For he thought it worth while.
Yes, she's too sweet to be left here,
Mid all the sorrow and care.
She has gone to Heaven,
To dwell with Jesus there,
We always miss her in our home,
There is always a vacant chair,
Her smiling face, her kind words,
We miss her everywhere.
At church there is a vacant seat,
We miss her humming, too,
But up above with Jesus,
She sings the whole day thru.
Oh, we would not call her back,
Into this sinful life,
But we will go and meet her there,
Free from all sin and strife.
—A Friend, Mrs. J. B. McReory.

Stick around him long enough and the fellow who tells you he never lets anything worry him will strike you for a loan. The chances are ten to one, if he gets it he will never worry about paying it back. If you have any money to loan, loan it to the fellow who can carry a little—if you ever want it back.

Safety is a good habit—grab it.

J. A. SMITH HAD LIVED NEAR HERE FOR 30 YEARS.

J. A. Smith, resident of the Drasco community for the past thirty years, passed away Sunday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. A. Dobbins, after a brief illness of one week.

Fast driving is said to be the cause of most automobile accidents, but you can hardly get a fast driver to admit it.

The idea of woman's superiority falls by the wayside when one considers the prerogatives that many of them get.

The man or woman who thinks that a public question is as plain as mud probably knows little or nothing about it.

The reason some people know nothing about money is that they don't keep it long enough.

SMALL PRODUCER PROTECTED UNDER CORN-HOG PLAN

College Station—A farmer with a corn base of 10 acres or more, or a market hog base of six hogs or more, is eligible to receive a corn or hog adjustment payment, respectively, under the new two-year corn-hog contract, according to E. M. Regenbrecht, chairman of the State Corn-Hog Review Board.

A contract signer with a corn base less than the required 10 acres, however, may receive a hog payment if he has a market hog base of six or more hogs and if he complies with the terms of his contract and the administrative rulings, Regenbrecht points out. Likewise, a man with a market hog base of less than six hogs may be eligible for a corn adjustment payment.

If a contract signer's corn base is less than 10 acres and he wishes to receive a hog payment, he must agree not to increase his corn acreage above his base. If his base is between 10 and 15 acres, he may either make an adjustment and receive payment, or obtain an exemption from adjustment, and agree not to increase his corn acreage above his base. This will enable a producer with a small corn base who needs all corn produced on his base acreage to participate in the program by making the necessary adjustment in his hog production.

A signer with a market hog base of less than six hogs may make an adjustment in corn acreage according to the terms of the contract and receive a corn payment if he agrees not to produce hogs in excess of his market base. And if his base is between six to 15 hogs, he may either make an adjustment and receive a hog payment, or not produce hogs in excess of his base and receive no hog payment.

We still maintain that paying cash is the best way to keep out of debt.

Safety is brought about only through thought.

One of these days the world will be more like you want it but you won't be here.

Warning: The death rate in the United States moved upward last year. Watch your step!

No man protects his property by standing idle while robbers take what his neighbors have.

We want peace, like everybody else, and like them we don't want to take any risk to get it.
