MORE POLLS PAID IN COUNTY THIS YEAR THAN IN '34

STATE, COUNTY ADD PENALTY ON DELINQUENTS.

A total of 4,715 poll taxes were paid in Runnels county for 1935, according to a check today by W. A. Forgey, county tax assessor-collector. This is a hike of 1,786 over last year when 2,929 were secured, and 220 over the last election year, two years ago, when 4,435 were paid.

Although a check had not been completed on property taxes, Mr. Forgey expects the total will compare favorably with last year up to February when an 80 per cent collection was made, equivalent to $123,500. Today, even though an 8 per cent penalty has been added, a few late tax payers struggled in with their payments. In addition to the penalty a 6 per cent interest charge has been made effective.

1935 Federal Farm Census Gives State and Runnels County Productions and Important Developments

Many developments of major importance in Texas have been disclosed by the 1935 Federal Farm Census figures released by Director William L. Austin, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

First among these is the crop failure of 1934, amounting to about six and a half million acres, second is the cut of 6,800,000 acres in the cotton crop since 1929, third is the substitution of about 1,800,000 acres of major crops for cotton, about 400,000 of which were corn, 280,000 oats, 120,000 wheat and 1,000,000 acres of hay, and sorghums for forage. The fourth is the increase of crops for human consumption, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, and sugar cane, with increases, respectively, of roughly 20,000 acres, 10,000 acres and 3,000 acres.

Outstanding of the facts shown by the livestock inventory are the increases in cattle, particularly in the cows and heifers two years old and over amounting to almost 1,000,000. The decrease in work animals of 209,000 closely corresponds with the reduction in the acreage of cotton. Little change is shown in the totals for sheep and lambs, but there has been a decline of 177,000 in the number of swine.

The release of preliminary figures for the 1935 farm census for Runnels county, provides a means for determining the extent of the agricultural readjustments that have been taking place in Runnels county, since the Census of 1930.

Approximately 46,000 fewer acres of cotton were harvested in the county, in 1934 than in 1929, while the acreage of most of the other crops show large increases. The acreage of grain sorghums increased 33 percent, or 18,093 acres, hay, and sorghums for forage 41 percent, or 8,135 acres, oats nearly 60 percent, or 7,979 acres, wheat 102 percent, or 3,064 acres, and corn 24 percent, or 981 acres.

With a reduction in cotton acreage and a shift of a part of the acreage to other crops, farms and ranches increased in size. The average size in 1935 was 264.3 acres as compared with 234 acres in 1930. The number of farms and ranches was 2,337 in 1935 or 207 fewer than in 1930.

Accompanying the increase in the acreage of feed crops were increases in the number of cattle and sheep. On January 1, 1935 there were 23,550 cattle, as compared with 20,545 on April 1, 1930. The number of cows, however, was practically the same both years. Sheep numbered 84,699 in 1935 and 56,595 in 1930.

Preliminary figures, which give selected items only, for other counties and the State may be secured, without charge, from the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C.

CHASTAIN ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY CLERK

I am asking that the good people of Runnels county elect me to the office of County Clerk again. I feel no hesitancy in asking for this place, for I am sure every person who has come in contact with my office during the past four years has received every possible courtesy, and I know it has been a real pleasure to serve the people who entrusted the office to me.

I have been on the job faithfully since elected and my record will prove that the details have been handled in a satisfactory manner at all times. Day or night I have been on the job when needed and if I am re-elected to this position, I will continue to render the same kind of service.

I feel grateful to my many friends in this county who have been so loyal to me in the past and desire to express my appreciation for that support. The office has meant much to me in many ways and I feel that I am better prepared now to continue the work after my four years' experience.

I will see many of you between now and the date of the first primary and personally solicit your support, however, the duties of the office will make it impossible to be away much, therefore I am asking that you give me your consideration and support. If re-elected I will be on the job and render efficient service to everyone alike.

Sincerely,
W. W. CHASTAIN.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," Showing First Time at Saturday's Midnight Prevue, Has an Excellent Cast

"POWDERSMOKE RANGE," QUEEN'S CURRENT PICTURE, HAS FIVE TOP-NOTCH WESTERN STARS IN ITS GREAT CAST.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's great sea picture will be the featured attraction at the Queen Theatre at the Saturday night prevue, also Sunday and Monday. Although a historical romance wrung from the actual records of the British Admiralty, it is far more absorbing than pure fiction. Blazing a blistering trail for outdoor action pictures of the future to follow, nearly a score of the screen's greatest cowboy stars ride together through the stirring scenes of "Powder Smoke Range" showing today and tomorrow. "The Virginia Judge" will be featured Tuesday and Wednesday. "Bad Boy," the Fox picture written by Vina Delmar, with James Dunn will be shown Thursday only.

"Mutiny on the Bounty"
It is a sea drama as it actually took place a hundred and fifty years ago, a true chapter from maritime history that resulted in a great reform among all ships of the sea and which eliminated for all time the brutal treatment men who went to sea expected and suffered. It has been faithfully reproduced from the sensational book by James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, in so far as the medium of motion pictures permit. "Mutiny on the Bounty" is a he-man's picture, but a he-man's picture that women, as well, will thrill over. Clark Gable, Charles Laughton, Franchot Tone, Eddie Quillan and many others are seen in this great cast.

"Powder Smoke Range"
Dealing with a range dispute which flames into blazing warfare the story combines romance and comedy with bristling action in tracing the exploits of three cowboy pals in cleaning out a nest of outlaws who operate under the protection of crooked officials. It is a big western production co-starring Harry Carey and Hoot Gibson, featuring Big Boy Williams, Bob Steele, Tom Tyler, Boots Malory, Wally Wales, Art Nix, Buzz Barton, Buffalo Bill Jr., and other stellar outdoor favorites.

"The Virginia Judge"
Walter C. Kelly, himself, in the title role, contributes a noteworthy characterization as the lovable judge whose courtroom is the center of many bits of philosophical, but sarcastic, humor as he pronounces sentence on the many darkies who appear before him. Marsha Hunt, young screen sensation, makes her film debut in the production and delivers a fine unaffected portrayal as the attractive belle of the little southern town. Displaying a remarkable gift of naturalness in her acting, Miss Hunt reveals potentialities for future stardom. Stepin Fetchit, beloved sepien rogue romps away with the comedy's more amusing moments with a hilarious interpretation as the community's harmless but troublesome bad boy. Johnny Downs and Robert Cummings, as the two juvenile leads, are pleasing and capable in their respective roles.

"Bad Boy"
In this colorful tale of the boy's side of young love's struggle for happiness, James Dunn is the flippantly-gay, bantering, but fundamentally lovable young man who faces life with a grin and a wisecrack. Side by side with Dunn in his quest for a place in the world is Dorothy Wilson, typifying the eternal feminine who is willing to sacrifice comfort and ease for the man she loves. In the supporting cast, is Louise Fazenda, John Wray and Beulah Bondi, Victor Kilian and many others.

LYRIC THEATRE
As an officer in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in "Fighting Shadows" showing today and tomorrow at the Lyric Theatre, Tim McCoy wears the red serge coat which has symbolized law and order in Canada for more than sixty years. He is assigned to investigate the machinations of a ruthless band of fur-raiders who are terrorizing trappers of the Indian River Country. The last time Tim was in that territory he had run into difficulties with Brad Harrison, the brother of Geneva Mitchell, the girl he loves. Brad still believes the trapper stole a certain silver fox and is his worst enemy. When he arrives on the scene to see justice done he is hampered by Harrison, but eventually solves the mystery that has surrounded the case.

SAFeway OFFICIAL SAYS THE PUBLIC ALWAYS PAYS TAX BILL

The public always pays the bill of increased taxation regardless of whether the tax is concealed or direct, L. A. Warren, president of Safeway Stores, Inc., said in a statement issued today on the present tax crisis.

"Specific taxes by themselves," Mr. Warren said, "may not appear burdensome, although in view of the unceasing effort to impose new taxes it should be remembered that the total tax burden is constantly absorbing a greater share of the national income."

"As a matter of fact it is estimated that the 1935 national tax bill will be in excess of 350 per cent above the 1913 level.

"The year previous the country's tax bill amounted to $9,500,000,000, whereas the national income totaled only $47,600,000,000. This means that taxes absorbed 20 per cent of the total income."

"Even the most simple analysis will reveal to any thinking citizen that the individual consumer must, in the long run, pay the bill. It means that a constantly increasing share of the individual income will be inevitably absorbed by an ever-heavier tax-burden."

"Economic recovery, as a consequence, will be blocked, for in the final reckoning the prosperity of the nation is based on the prosperity of its individual citizens."

"It is false logic to expect any business to operate under an oppressive tax burden for if the tax is sufficiently heavy to erase all profit and substitute a loss evil consequences, such as increased prices, unemployment, or a diminution of the tax base result, and as a consequence the consumer, as always, is forced to pay the tax bill in the form of a higher cost of living," Mr. Warren concluded.

IN FOUR INSTALLMENTS
SYNOPSIS . . . Ben Furlong, a young but practical oil man and driller from the Pennsylvania field, drifted into the Texas oil country, broke and looking for work. Finally he fetched up at the Durham home where live an elderly aunt, shortly widowed by the explosion of a powder wagon, and her niece, pretty Betty Durham . . . Perhaps because of his smile, Betty cooks some food for Ben and while he eats she learns the aunt, in town on business, has an oil man, Tiller Maddox, sinking an oil well for her . . . A short 6 inch bolt worked loose from the rigging and is in the bottom of the well. Work has been suspended for days as the crew "fish" for the bolt and operating funds dwindle away . . . Furlong offers to give a hand but Maddox objects . . . Betty insists and overrules Maddox so Furlong fashions a tool which brings up the bolt . . . On the order of Betty's aunt, Furlong is given a job. Maddox shows his dislike for the new hand, especially because Ben and Betty are so friendly. While the two are in town shopping one evening, Maddox calls upon the aunt, demanding she help his case with Betty or there will be no well . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY . . .

THIRD INSTALLMENT
 "Did you drop that bolt in the well, Mrs. Durham bleated, in dismay.
 "I ain't sayin' I did or I didn't. But remember if this well ain't a producer, you're blowed up and it ain't a-goin' to produce till there's a Mrs. Tiller Maddox to see it and to get her share! We bargained that out, long ago. Yes, an' I ain't afraid of you going back on our deal, either. You don't dast."
 "I—I'll try again."
 "You better do more'n try. I will give you just one more chance. If she don't come across, I want you to go visit your folks Saturday evening, an' leave her here. Understand?"
 For a moment Mrs. Durham stared at the speaker, then she said:
 "Tiller Maddox, you're a dirty dog!"
 "Say! I've took all the back talk I can stand for one day. You heard me. You do like I tell you, an' you needn't to get back from your visit till Monday."
 Not until Ben and Betty had finished their shopping and were on their way home did he tell her about the trouble he had had with Maddox that morning.
 "He let on he was fooling, but of course he'll fire me the first chance he gets," Furlong predicted.
 "Oh, Ben! Why did you do it?"
 "We were bound to tie into each other sooner or later. You can't choose a time to get fighting mad; it's as much as you can do to pick good footing."
 "Aunt Mary won't let him fire you. She doesn't trust him any more than I do."
 "Say! What has he got on her?"
 The girl did not look up from her driving. She fetched a deep breath as she said: "I'd dearly love to know. There's something queer about it . . . Uncle Joe was a sweet, easy-going man and she rode him with a Spanish bit. She never would have let him take me in, when my folks died, only I did all the work. But he sure loved me. When the oil excitement came they rowed and fought for months. When ever he got an offer she claimed he was trying to give the farm away and threatened to go to law. I told you about that. He stood it as long as he could; then he up and announced that I'd been more of a daughter to him than she'd been a wife and he aimed to give most of his money to me anyhow, and then he made that lease with the Planet people. That's how Maddox came. I think she'd have poisoned me, if she dared, after what uncle said. When he was killed I suppose, of course, she'd throw me out, but she didn't. No use to do it, I suppose, inasmuch as he hadn't left any writing. As a matter of fact, she was better to me than she'd ever been. That's what makes me wonder sometimes."
 "Wonder what?"
 "If he didn't tell Tiller something. Something that makes her scared of him. Something she acts like it's only because of him that she's nice to me. I don't know what I'd do if she sent me away. I haven't got a red cent. There isn't a living soul I could—"

Ben passed his arm around the slim, girlish figure and drew it to him. "That'll be about all for you!" He kissed the cheek next to his and Betty hungrily pressed her face closer. "Good thing you aren't an heiress—and me with less than a hundred dollars!"

"You behave yourself, or you will wreck this car," the girl warned him.

Maddox carried out his intention. He discharged Furlong on Friday night, explaining that the well was down, and the next morning Ben broke the news to his sweetheart. Betty was indignant. She was for appealing to her aunt, but he refused to permit her. He promised to let her hear from him in a day or so.

Betty's face was flushed, her eyes were shining, when she entered the house after he was gone. She was surprised to find her aunt awaiting her.

"Tiller came over the other night when you was in town," Mrs. Durham began.

"Did he?"

"He talked a lot about you. Tiller's a fine man, dearie—"

Betty broke out irritably: "Don't let's start that all over again."

"Oh, your head's full of Furlong, I suppose! But what's he got? Nothing. Not even a job. Now Tiller wants to marry you and—you better do it."

"You know very well I'll do nothing of the sort."

"Maybe you won't and maybe you will." Mrs. Durham's lips set themselves in lines of inflexibility. "If you got a smitch of sense you will. D'you want to be poor all your life or d'you want to be rich?"

"I tell you I won't! I won't!" declared the girl. "The big, black, greasy brute!"

"Now don't fly off the handle till I'm through. I've been pretty good to you—"

"I've earned my board ever since I came. You'd have paid more for a hired girl than I cost."

"Oh, hush up and let me finish. We allus fight like this. Your Uncle Joe cared a lot for you and—and I want to respect his wishes. When that well comes in this farm'll be worth—I don't know what. Anyhow, my heart's set on seeing you get a good home and have everything. How'd you like to live in a fine house in Dallas?"

"What ails you? Are you losing your mind, Aunt Mary?"

"And you can have 'em if you marry Tiller. Marry Furlong and you'll spend your life over a cook stove."

"How can Tiller give me things like that?"

"I'll give 'em to you."

After a moment Betty inquired, curiously, "How much will you give?"

It was Mrs. Durham's time to hesitate, her words came with an effort. "I don't know—mebbe a quarter interest."

"Humph!" The exclamation was one of scorn.

"There's gratitude for you! Mebbe if it's a real big well I'd do better. You—you've got to do it, Betty!" the widow cried in distraction. "If you don't he will ruin everything. He said so. If that well don't come in the farm ain't worth—"

"So! That's why you're so generous. Now you listen to me. I wouldn't marry Tiller Maddox, not for all the oil in Texas, not if it was to save your life."

"Wait! Don't make up your mind in a hurry. I—I'm going to Cousin Anna's—"

"When? What for?"

"Right after dinner. You think it over while I'm gone, dearie. I feel like you was my own kin. I want to do right by you and—"

"Rats!" the girl said.

The town lay hot and gasping under the sun. There was no shade out-of-doors, for nothing grew in the streets, not even grass; its cinder yards, its board walls and iron roofs radiated waves of heat like those from a stove.

Late in the afternoon Ben Furlong entered the skating rink, paid his admission at the turnstile and went through. Here, at least, was a place to sit down out of the sun.

Out of the whirling throng upon the floor shot a figure; it was Ben's friend, the engineer of the Maddox rig. He rolled up to the bench where Furlong sat and collapsed upon it.

"Whew! It's hard work havin' a good time in this town," he panted. "Landed a job yet?"

"I've got some prospects lined up. What's the matter? You fired, too?"

"Naw! Maddox laid us off for the day. Miz' Durham brought us in."

"Did Betty come with her?" Ben eagerly inquired.

The engineer shook his head; a grin spread over his face. "Say! You know how scared Tiller is of nitroglycerine? When we left he was hidin' out in the brush like a quail. The powder wagon came an' he took it on the run."

"Powder wagon? What's a powder wagon doing there?" Ben inquired.

"Why, he aims to shoot the well. He got a permit an' the stuff's on the ground, ready for the men."

"He's crazy if he shoots that well," Furlong declared. "What's he thinking about?"

"So I told him. 'Leave her alone an' she'll blow herself in,' I says to him. She's coughin' now, an' I bet as many wells has been ruined by that stuff as they is wells that's been made."

"I'm going to see Mrs. Durham." Ben rose, but the other explained:

"She's gone away over Sunday to visit her kinfolks."

"Who's looking out for Betty?"

"I dunno, Tiller. I reckon."

Furlong frowned. For a while he listened inattentively to his companion, then he rose and left the rink.

Conditions all over the oil fields, as he well knew were unsettled, and he did not relish the thought of Betty out there alone in that farmhouse; but even more disturbing was the fact that Maddox proposed to shoot the Durham well. What ailed the man?

After some indecision Ben decided to warn Betty. It was none of his business, to be sure, but a word from her might induce the aunt to go slowly and perhaps save the cost of the well. It would be criminal to leave her in ignorance of the risks she ran. He tried to hire a car to run him back to the farm, but few were for hire were out, and it was some time before he could discover a truck that was later going in that direction.

It was considerably after dark when Furlong left opportunity; he had to walk the last three miles; so it was late bedtime when he finally arrived at the Durham homestead.

Evidently Betty was asleep; at any rate, the farmhouse windows were dark and Ben wondered how he could best awaken her without causing alarm. Visitors in the country at this time of night were not common. He decided to call softly from outside her window, so he closed the gate quietly behind him and made his way around the house.

He paused in surprise when he had turned the corner building, for the kitchen door was open. A momentary panic swept over him; then he drew a breath of relief, for at that moment he heard the girl's muffled voice.

"Who's there?" she cried.

He opened his lips to speak reassuringly, but the sound died in his throat, for inside Betty's room he heard a man's voice, then a stir, a movement. This was followed by a crash, as if a chair had been overturned, then a scream.

Furlong uttered a shout; he leaped forward. Some marauder had entered the house just ahead of him. Incredible as it seemed, he had arrived barely in time.

"Betty!" he yelled. "Betty!" He made for the door beyond.

That throaty clamor from the girl's room, meanwhile, continued. There were hasty movements—the sounds of a struggle.

Furlong had never been inside the front part of the house, but its plan was simple and he was guided by those shrieks of terror. The door to Betty's room was closed, but it opened when he found the knob. He glimpsed the dim square of a window opposite and silhouetted against it he saw the girl herself, then blackness engulfed him.

The next he knew Betty Durham was holding his head in her lap and splashing water into his face. It struck him as queer that the lamp should be burning when only the fraction of an instant before all had been darkness.

New Auto Drivers' License Law To Go Into Effect February 14th

Effective February 14, all drivers of automobiles must secure a driver's license. However, the new law allows six weeks of grace, the period ending, April 1, for persons to secure the licenses before prosecutions will begin.

Following are some of the high points in the new driver's license law:

1. All operator's licenses will be issued FREE. For chauffeurs' licenses the present fee of $3 per year will be retained.

2. Applications for both types of licenses must be filled out before notaries of the public. The law specifically states that no charge may be made for this service as follows:

"Every application for an operator's or chauffeur's license shall be made upon approved form furnished by the department (of safety), and shall be verified by a person authorized to administer oaths, and no fee shall be charged by any officer of this state, or any county thereof, for such certification."

3. The operator's licenses run for a three-year period (ending April 1, 1939), as compared to one year for chauffeur's permits.

4. Every person driving a motor vehicle, with certain exceptions noted below, whether for pleasure or hire, is required to carry his license. Inability to produce the license subjects a driver to immediate arrest.

5. Licenses must be obtained in the county in which licenses reside. Supposition is this provision will deter criminals from obtaining permits under aliases, as it is assumed each issuing officer will be reasonably acquainted with each resident applying for a license.

The licenses will be easy to get, but reckless drivers will find them hard to retain.

They may be issued to persons under 18 years of age only on application by the parent or guardian of the minor, and to persons under 14 only if the county judge, after investigation, approves. No chauffeur's license for commercial driving, may be issued to persons under 18 unless the county judge approves.

Habitual drunkards, those addicted to the use of narcotics, those not mentally responsible, and those suffering from physical or mental disabilities which prevent them from exercising reasonable and ordinary control of a motor vehicle, are barred from securing permits.

Suspension or revocation of a license is mandatory upon final conviction of the holder on any of the following offenses: negligent homicide resulting from operation of a motor vehicle; driving vehicle while intoxicated or under influence of a narcotic; failure of a driver involved in an accident to stop, render aid, and disclose his identity at the scene of the accident; or any offense punishable as a felony under the motor vehicle laws of the state; upon two convictions on charges of aggravated assault on a person by means of a motor vehicle; and upon three convictions of violating any motor vehicle laws which constitute misdeemeanors, within any 12-months period.

Suspension Mandatory
The license must be revoked or suspended, for any of the above courses, first for a period of six months. A second offense, however, makes mandatory suspension for an additional year.

Should any driver have his license suspended, and then drive a car despite that fact, the suspension will be extended for a period as long as the original suspension. In addition, a penalty of two days to six days in jail and a fine up to $500 is provided for those who drive while their licenses are suspended or revoked.

Any person denied a license shall have 30 days in which he may file a petition for hearing in county court and after 10 days the hearing will be held with testimony heard to show the merits of the case.

In three separate parts, the license is so designed that status of the holder as to misdemeanor convictions (he is allowed two) may be determined on examination. The first part, or license proper, bearing a detailed description of the holder, his signature, and date of issuance, is surrendered on the third conviction.

The second (or middle) part is captioned "Second Conviction Report" and the third (or last) part, "First Conviction Report." On first conviction of the holder of a misdemeanor, it is mandatory on the trial judge to execute and detach the bottom part of the license and mail it to the department of public safety, reducing the permit to second class. A second conviction makes it mandatory on the trial judge to execute and detach the second conviction report, with the license falling to third class. Suspension is mandatory on a third conviction.

It will be unlawful for any person to lend his license, or for any person to display as his own license one issued to another. In addition to the "laws of the road," the act specifies that these offenses shall be considered misdemeanors and licenses accordingly reduced in class on convictions.

As a further effort toward prevention of accidents on the highways, the state department will tabulate, analyze, and furnish annual reports from law enforcement agencies, traffic officers, ambulance operators, and hospitals all of which persons and institutions are required by law to furnish the report from which conclusions and recommendations for public safety may be drawn.

Only persons exempt from possessing licenses are: Persons driving or operating a road roller, road machinery or farm tractor, implement of husbandry (not including any automobile or truck), farm wagon, farm trailer, or any non-motor propelled vehicle or carriage temporarily drawn; persons in the service of the United States and when furnished with a driver's permit and operating an official motor vehicle in such service; drivers of commercial motor vehicles operating under jurisdiction of the railroad commission of Texas who are required to have a driver's

HEREFORD SHOW AT ANGELO FAT STOCK SHOW IS ENLARGED

San Angelo, Feb. 6.—The registered Hereford show, along with all other departments of this year's San Angelo Fat Stock Show and Rodeo, March 7-11, has been enlarged and accommodations have been made to care for more than 125 animals.

The division carries cash awards for winning stock, of about $480. Entries to date indicate the Hereford barn will have its capacity of exhibits. The animals are coming from the best herds in the Southwest.

In connection with the show will be the regular registered Hereford sale, to be held Monday, March 9, the third day of the show. Sixty-one animals, including 59 bulls and two females, the choice of herds of 23 breeders, will be offered at the auction.

Last entries were received on Feb. 1 and a catalogue will be ready for distribution Feb. 10, says Culberson Deal, show manager. Deal has recently returned from trips to both North and South Texas and reports he had many inquiries regarding this year's auction. He says the demand for good animals will be heavy and in the local sale breeders may select the type and age animal they find best suited to their needs.

Col. Earl Gartin, probably the best known livestock auctioneer in the Southwest, will call the sales. He was here last year.

Consigners for the auction include, J. B. Pettitt, Big Lake; Wimberly Hereford Farms, Sweetwater; J. A. Queen, Big Lake; J. R. Barton, Sterling City; C. C. Sanders, Big Lake; Walter Boothe, Sweetwater; Ross Boothe, Gonzales; Broome Estate, San Angelo; John B. Stribling, Rotan; Bade Brothers, Sterling City; I. A. Bird, Sango; E. O. Kothmann, Mason; E. CONSTITUTION AND THE COURT

It is interesting, in view of the general discussion of the recent decisions of the Supreme Court declaring certain acts of Congress unconstitutional, to look at the record. In all of the nation's history, the Supreme Court has passed on 24,300 public laws which had been challenged as being beyond the power of Congress under the Constitution, and has upheld Congress in all but 74 cases, involving 62 laws. David Lawrence reports in his United States News.

In the first 72 years of the Republic, down to President Lincoln's administration, only three Acts of Congress were held invalid by the Supreme Court. The two Grant Administrations hold the record so far, 14 of their laws having been reversed. In the two administrations of Woodrow Wilson twelve laws were passed by the Congress which failed to meet the constitutional test. In Mr. McKinley's administration there were six, in those of Lincoln and of Theodore Roosevelt, five each, in the Johnson, Harding and Coolidge administrations four each, and the same number in the two Cleveland administrations, while acts of the Taft regime were reversed in three instances, and one of those enacted when Benjamin Harrison was President met a like fate. The record of the present administration of reversals of its acts on constitutional grounds is ten.

On the whole, the record of the Supreme Court throughout its history, in sustaining the Congress in more than 24,000 cases in which the power of the Legislative arm of Government was challenged, and overruling it in only one case out of every 350, does not seem to furnish very solid ground on which to demand either the abolition of the Judicial branch of our system, or the imposition of restrictions upon it.

Recent events have focused public attention upon the structure of the Federal Government as on of the delegated powers, which may not be overstepped without further authority from the states and the people. The right of the people to change the system and the precise means whereby that may be done are set forth in the Constitution itself.

ANOTHER TERROR ELIMINATED

In the old days, before the discovery of anesthetics, dentists' chairs used to be equipped with straps to keep the patient from leaping out of the window when the dentist's instrument struck a nerve. Folks didn't bother much with fillings, in those good old days. If a tooth ached it was pulled out, and the best dentist was the one who had the strongest fingers. Teeth that couldn't be pulled by the fingers, were knocked out with a mallet and chisel!

Seeking a way to make dentistry less painful, an American dentist named Horace Wells discovered, in 1844, that nitrous oxide, which used to be called "laughing gas," would render a person unconscious of pain—and everything else—for long enough to extract the most resistant molar. That was a great stride forward in human knowledge; and an even longer step was taken two years later by another American dentist, Dr. W. T. G. Morton, who discovered the anesthetic properties of ether in 1846.

For the first time in history, major surgical operations could be performed without pain to the patient. Previously surgeons either had to knock their patients unconscious by hitting them on the head, or strap them to the operating table and let them scream.

Now the dental profession has once more added to the world's knowledge and its comfort by the discovery of a compound which, applied to a tooth, renders it insensitive to the pain of the dentist's drill. Dr. LeRoy L. Hartman, professor of dentistry in Columbia University, produc-

Washington, Feb. 5.—Topping all other subjects of conversation in Washington is the speech which Alfred E. Smith made at the Liberty League Dinner, and its possible effects upon the political situation. No utterance by a private citizen in recent political history has stirred up so much discussion. It is taken here by some political observers as the most important wedge that has been driven so far to bring about the much-talked-of split in the Democratic Party.

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt will be renominated, but there is no mistaking the intention of Mr. Smith and his followers, included in the Liberty League, to bolt the Party, whether they undertake to put a third ticket into the field or not.

How serious this defection may be in its effect upon the President's chance for reelection is a question upon which opinions vary widely. Naturally, the warm supporters of the Administration ridicule the idea that the Liberty League crowd can influence any material volume of votes. But behind the Liberty League is a practically unlimited amount of money, and at its head is Jouett Shouse, a very able political organizer.

Rumblings From South

Considerable significance was attached here to the declaration by the late Governor Allen, of Louisiana, that his organization would join up with the Liberty League in trying to prevent Mr. Roosevelt's renomination. Governor Talmadge of Georgia, long an outspoken enemy of the Administration, is the spearhead of another revolt inside the Democratic Party which is beginning to be taken seriously in the South. The expectation here is that the Talmadge movement may also be lined up with the Liberty League movement.

The point of greatest doubt is how far these attacks upon the President and his policies may be carried if they fail to stop his renomination. It is conceded by the political experts that a high percentage of those Democrats who dislike the New Deal will nevertheless swing into line under the Party banner, preferring to retain their "regularity" than to bolt the ticket. They may, as Al Smith expressed it, merely "take a walk," rather than affiliate themselves with a third-party movement.

Townsend Plan Fades

One third-party movement that seems to have been pretty well blown up is that threatened by Dr. Townsend if the present Congress did not adopt his plan of old-age pensions for everybody. In fact, Dr. Townsend's third-party threat has had exactly the opposite effect on Capitol Hill that it was intended to have. Instead of scaring Congressmen to flock to the support of his Old Age Revolving Pension plan, it has rather impelled many members to look upon it with less seriousness. That is partly due to the realization that from an economic standpoint the plan of paying every old person $200 a month would be ruinous, and partly because the voting strength behind the Townsend Plan is so far confined to a few areas and Congressional districts.

Representative John S. MacGroarty of California has a modified Townsend Plan in the form of a bill which would provide for $50 a month pensions to all the aged people of both sexes. It seems unlikely that the present Congress will adopt anything of the kind, but it does seem quite possible that amendments may be made to the Social Security Act to increase the benefits under that measure for workers who are already old, and to make them available much earlier than the date set in the original act, which is January 1, 1942.

The Tax Outlook

The financial situation of the nation is giving Congress food for thought. In spite of political reluctance to increase taxation in an election year, some new taxes are definitely in the offing. Among these are some sort of an excise tax on processors of farm products to take the place of the old processing taxes. New inheritance taxes, higher corporation taxes and higher individual income taxes seem to be a reasonable expectation.

The farm relief situation is still far from being clarified. As good a forecast as can be made at this time is that existing AAA contracts will be paid up and that 400 or 500 millions a year will be provided for new land lease subsidies. Whatever form the new farm plan takes, it is pointed out that there are plenty of trained employees to put it into operation.

Pink Eye Is Contagious Disease of Cattle and Sheep - - Williams

Pink eye is caused by a group of germs which are more or less common to cattle and sheep. The condition is spread by direct contact with affected animals or with infected materials. Cattle are much more susceptible to the disease than sheep. White-faces seem to take Pink-eye much more easily than other breeds of cattle.

The first symptom is an intense watering of the eyes. They become decidedly pink in color, and as the ailment progresses they become deep red. A bluish white scum form over the eyeballs, and an intense swelling may develop which often causes a rupture of the eyeball. After the eyeball ruptures, a tissue mass often develops which is called Cancer Eye.

Pink Eye occurs during the summer and fall and can be prevented by vaccination with a 5 c. c. dose of Keratitis Mixed Bacterin injected deep into the muscle of the neck. Vaccinated animals are immuned for a period of six months to one year.

In infected herds all animals should be promptly vaccinated with a full 10 c. c. dose of Keratitis Mixed Bacterin injected deep into the muscle of the neck. All affected with Pink eye should be isolated from the herd and vaccinated with 10 c. c. doses at 48 hour intervals until they recover. Yellow Mercuric Oxide Ointment (Double U. S. P. strength) should be applied to the eyes daily or twice daily as needed. It is very important that strict sanitation measures be followed to prevent a serious outbreak of Pink eye. It is necessary for all infected animals to receive the double dose to fully protect unaffected animals and as a treatment for affected animals who have not had time to develop symptoms of the disease.

Cattle and sheep recovering from an attack of Pink eye have an acquired immunity and are less subject to later attacks. The vaccine may be obtained at your Drug Store for ten cents per dose.

TEXAS FARMERS FILLED TRENCH SILOS IN 1935

College Station — Seventeen hundred and twenty-four new trench silos were dug on Texas farms and ranches in 1935 and filled from the most bountiful feed crop the State has ever known, according to figures issued by Jack Shelton, Vice Director of the Extension Service and State Agent of agricultural work.

There were also 1,745 other trench silos which had proved their value in 1934 filled again in 1935. "This method of storing feed is growing in popularity as it is recognized that it gives insurance from deterioration in feeding value, and from loss by storms, or fires or rats. That's four kinds of insurance and no premium to pay," Shelton said.

"The feed stored in silos is being used chiefly for dairy herds, beef cattle and for general feeding in wintering stock," Shelton stated "though some of it will not be touched this winter at all because it was put up to be kept as insurance against a feed shortage caused by future droughts. That, a fifth kind of insurance to be had by the use of trench silos."

"Other State-wide report figures of the Extension Service show 134,975 head of cattle on feed in Texas this winter and 101,562 sheep for market purposes," Shelton stated.

Information that is being gathered from county Extension agents indicates that many more animals are being fattened on Texas farms to be slaughtered for home use than has ever before been the case. The great feed crop and the detailed plans for living-at-home of the Extension Service have both tended to make this enormous increase.

E. Burton and Owen Forbus left last Saturday for Carrizo Springs where Mr. Burton will look after business interests there.

There's a month of steady cold plus a Blizzard on your present Gas Bill!

Gas service statements being received now include the season's worst blizzard. In addition to this period of unusually severe weather there was not a single day from the middle of December to the middle of January when heat was not required. This is one reason statements covering this period are higher.

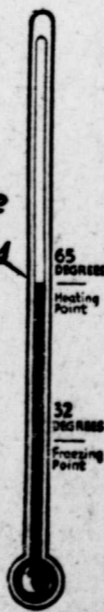

Another reason is the Christmas Holiday season. During this season extra gas was required for entertaining, extra cooking and for the comfort of house guests.

During this continued spell of steady cold weather your gas company has been alert to its responsibility of having sufficient gas at all times for every need. From the many hundreds of wells in the many fields where the supply originates, on along thousands of miles of pipe-line system are employees with years of experience in giving service and seeing that the gas supply to every home is adequate at all times.

So when you receive your statement this month, consider what you receive for the amount you pay for househeating, cooking and hot water service. Compare the healthful comfort, convenience, service and leisure hours you have bought with the price of anything else you purchase. You'll find that your gas service is the least expensive of anything you buy—and the greatest value.

Down where the "Heating" Begins

When the temperature drops to 65 degrees or lower, heat is needed for comfort. During the past 30-day period, each day's mean temperature was well below 65 degrees, with some days far below freezing temperature. Please consider this when comparing your present gas bill with previous ones.

Two calves fed by Merle and Gerald Proctor gained three hundred and fifty-two pounds each for the first 120 day feeding period.
