Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink." Musical Extravaganza, Coming to Queen Theatre Sunday and Monday

JOAN BENNETT AND GEORGE RAFT ARE DELIGHTFUL IN COMEDY HIT "SHE COULDN'T TAKE IT," BOOKED FOR TUES.-WED.

Eddie Cantor, in "Strike Me Pink" the pop-eyed comedian's sixth annual musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, begins a two day run at the Queen Theatre Sunday. "Bar 20 Rides Again," Paramount's latest "Hopalong Cassidy" picture, featuring William Boyd is showing today and tomorrow. George Raft and Joan Bennett battle their boisterous way through laughs, thrills and romance in Columbia's "She Couldn't Take it" showing Tuesday and Wednesday. "My Marriage" with Claire Trevor, Kent Taylor and Paul Kelly will be the featured attraction Thursday only. Preston Foster and Margaret Callahan in "Muss 'Em Up" showing at the Lyric Theatre Saturday only.

"Strike Me Pink"

Eddie Cantor is cast as a timid fellow who takes a correspondence course in acquiring a dominating personality and becomes manager of Dreamland Amusement Park. Here he becomes involved with a gang of slot machine racketeers who have put every previous manager on the spot. The gangsters learn that Eddie secretly adores a glamorous night club star, played by Ethel Merman. This lady is really the wife of one of their number and they use her as a "come-on" for Eddie. Sally Eilers, seen as Eddie's Dreamland sweetheart; Harry Parke, better known as the Greek dialectician Paryakarkus of Radio fame, William Frawley and the 1936 crop of Goldwyn girls are featured.

"Bar 20 Rides Again"

Is a stirring story about Hopalong Cassidy's subjugation of the notorious outlaw, "Nevada" who has a hideout in the Snake Butte country. The outlaw and his band of rustlers have been preying on Jim Arnold at the SV ranch, and Jim appeals to Hopalong for help. That hard-riding, quick-on-the-trigger cow-puncher succeeds in locating Nevada's place in the hills, where he pretends to be a "sucker" for the outlaw's crooked card games. Then into the scene rides the rest of the Bar 20 gang—Johnny Nelson and Red Connors among them—to lend Hopalong Cassidy a hand in ridding the countryside of the rustler's gang.

"She Couldn't Take it"

Headed by the stellar pair, George Raft and Joan Bennett and cast with a long list of excellent players, the picture relates the colorful tale of an ex-gangster who undertakes to manage the affairs of the socially prominent Van Dyke family, whose escapades and front-page scandals have kept them tabloid-headlines for a half-score of years. George Raft, of course is the ex-racketeer who is commissioned by the father, Walter Connolly to "rough 'em up and tame 'em." His greatest problem is the madcap Miss Bennett, whose escapades, marriages, divorces and police engagements have been the major source of scandalizing publicity. Then, too, there are James Blakely, whose only outlook on life is through the bottom of a whiskey tumbler and Billie Burke, collector of poets, bogus titles and other objects masculine. Raft and Bennett turn in superb performances in the starring roles.

"My Marriage"

The first dramatic impact of the story occurs when Claire Trevor's father is killed and police reveal that he, who was one of society's favorites, was actually a powerful racketeer. Kent Taylor, scion of an aristocratic family marries her and brings her back to face society when she attempts to flee publicity. Working insidiously and quietly Taylor's mother, Pauline Frederick finally creates a rift between these two. When Miss Trevor is abandoned by Taylor, she turns for aid to Paul Kelly, a police official and once a friend of her father. Working together they delve to the bottom of the mystery surrounding the death of her father, discover a scandal that would rock Park Avenue. After thrilling encounters with underworld killers, the picture moves rapidly to its emotional climax as the girl is taken back by society which had marked her as an outcast, restored to her position and the love of her husband.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. . . . Impressive ceremonies featured the launching of the new U. S. Navy aircraft carrier, Yorktown, as it was launched here this week. The First Lady, Mrs. Franklin D. Texas Farmers Organize To Administer the New Soil Conservation Program College Station — That the Soil Conservation Allotment program is progressing is evidenced by the many hundreds of meetings being held throughout the State by county agricultural agents, and the organization of county boards to administer the new farm program.

Farm demonstration councils and key farmers have divided the counties into "communities" of about 500 farmers. Each of these "communities" has elected three committeemen who together will constitute a County Conservation Board.

Officials point out, in reviewing some of the highpoints of the program, that all crops will be classified into two classes—soil depleting and soil conserving; and that a neutral classification has been set up to include idle land, fallow land, woodland, pastures, vineyards, tree fruits, small fruits and so forth.

Payments will be made to farmers upon proof of having cooperated in the program. This money, which will be paid in one check, will include payments for replacing certain percentages of soil depleting crops with soil conserving crops and for using soil building practices.

Bases established on the old reduction contracts will be taken as a guide for establishing the base for 1936 on the soil conservation program, with due allowance for crops not included in former contracts.

About 20 percent of the base acreage in soil depleting crops in 1936, must be replaced by soil conserving crops in order to qualify for participation in the program.

The soil conserving payments will be based on the productivity of the land; for cotton it will be five cents per pound; for peanuts 1 1/4 cents a pound based on the average yield per acre of the farm; for rice it will be 20 cents for each 100 pounds of the producer's domestic consumption quota, subject to certain specified agreements.

Rate of payments for soil building practices is being approved, according to officials of the program.

PROMENADE DECK

by Ishbel Ross

SYNOPSIS . . . A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marena" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romantic, entertaining . . . and tragic . . . Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls . . . These characters are aboard the ship: Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, runaway wife, and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship . . . and his soul . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

Peter squeezed her arm, then wandered off to look at the carving in the temple. Jenny stood in contemplation before the Emerald Buddha. She stared at him until she was half-hypnotized. Angela came walking up to her.

"I think, in a way, that this is one of the best of the Buddhas," she remarked.

"It goes so well with the bright grimcrackery of Bangkok," said Jenny. "Isn't it an amusing place?"

"I've always thought it the most exotic place on earth. Have you seen the white elephants?"

"My husband and I have just been looking at them."

"Oh, is he about?"

"He was, a minute ago."

Jenny looked round, but there was no sign of Peter. "He's always wandering off," she explained. "He's a born traveler, but he forgets that he has me on his hands at times."

They were walking through the courtyard now, Jenny turning her head from side to side. "I'm looking for Peter," she said. "It would be so easy to lose a husband among the wats of Bangkok."

"Rather! All those winding stairways and giant devas. He's probably hidden behind a deva!"

"Should we leave the courtyard and look somewhere else? But he may come back, expecting to find me here."

"You stay where you are and I shall stroll outside. He may have gone towards the gate."

Jenny stood in the middle of the courtyard, leaning on her parasol. Everyone else was troping out. They were all on their way to the Phya Thai Palace for luncheon. Peter could not fail to see her, standing there so conspicuously in the center of the courtyard. It must be fully half an hour since he had looked at his watch and said it was twelve o'clock. Had something happened to Peter? But how ridiculous to think that a competent person like Peter should come to harm.

"I shall go through these buildings, and you take the orders, Angela, will you please?" said Jenny, indicating the two to the left. "I'm getting frightfully nervous."

"Don't, my dear. There's nothing to worry about at all. Your husband knows his way about. I think you should stay in the courtyard until he comes and finds you."

Jenny ignored her warning and hurried across the cobbles on feet that were now winged with alarm. It was most disquieting. She raced from building to building. When she rejoined Angela she was panting, and her eyes were wide with fright.

"Jenny, my dear," said Angela, "the thing for you to do is to come back to the hotel with me. Nothing is to be gained by standing here."

Jenny was at last persuaded to leave the palace. She was drooping now. A thought flashed like a thunderbolt through Jenny's mind. The words sprang to her lips before she could check them: "Have you seen Mrs. Langford about?"

"No, said Angela. "I'm sure she didn't come with us today. Johnny was looking for her from end to end of the train, and is now in a huff because he couldn't find her."

Jenny's face grew smooth again and her spirits rose. Of course, Peter was sure to be somewhere about.

The hotel was really an old palace, with spacious salons like ballrooms, and bedrooms the size of halls. There was no sign of Peter in the lounge. He had not been heard of at the desk, nor was he in the bar, where Macduff was busy with the Phya Thai cocktail. Her dismay came back, swooping down on her with fresh certainty. Angela made some discreet enquiries, but none of the cruise men had caught a glimpse of Peter. Perhaps his launch was still on the river, or he had wandered off to explore another part of the town.

The afternoon wore on in a blaze of overpowering heat. Angela stayed with Jenny, who sat like a shadow in the great hall of the hotel. Nothing seemed to rouse her. At tea-time one of the cruise men came bustling up to tell her that Peter had taken a train back to the boat shortly after noon.

"I came up on a later train and happened to run into him at the station," he said. "When I got here they told me you were looking for him."

"Oh, yes. Thanks so much," Jenny's voice was automatic.

"Clare, of course!" she thought, and saw the same idea reflected on Angela's face. The older woman put out an arm and steadied her for a minute.

"Let's have our tea," she said. "What a relief to know that nothing has happened to him!"

"Yes, a relief," Jenny responded in the tones of a parrot. "I wonder when the next train goes down," Jenny speculated, sipping her tea.

"There isn't another till we all leave at half-past ten tonight. I've enquired."

"Heavens!" said Jenny. "How gay I shall feel until then. Marguerite in Bangkok. Peter on the Marena. What does it all mean?"

"My dear, you're building a mountain out of a molehill," Angela's voice was soothing.

"Angela, you know better."

Of course she did. Angela thought with a sudden rush of pain of Lovat stealing out of their stateroom after he had danced with Clare, Lovat kissing his hand and waving to Clare at Cairo. She knew that Jenny had good grounds for her fears.

"Let's walk about," Jenny suggested, restless and brooding.

"We'll walk in the gardens."

Round and round they went, past Greek statues, terraces and hedges, their feet crunching on the gravel paths. The Marena passengers were dozing on the veranda or behind the cool shutters of the hotel.

"What time is it now, Angela?"

"Five o'clock."

"Let's go back to the hotel," she cried. Angela followed her patiently, ready to humor her whims. Jenny wanted to rest for a while. They took a room, and each in turn had a cooling bath. It was refreshing and Jenny felt her courage rise. Angela took a nap, but Jenny could not close her eyes.

It seemed as if Jenny had aged five years when Angela awakened. "Forgive me for dropping off when you were so miserable," she pleaded.

"Nonsense! I'm glad you did. There's nothing you can do."

Angela studied her closely. "Let's have another bath, then we'll go down to dinner. King Prajadhipok's dancers are going to perform for us in the garden afterwards. You must come and watch them."

Jenny was listless. "If only we could get to the boat!" she thought.

Jenny went round in a trance, following her companion from place to place. She went into the diningroom and remembered nothing of how it had looked or what she had eaten. Night, star-flecked and warmly perfumed, came hurrying down as they dined. Afterwards they went out to the garden, which was magical in the silvery essence of the evening.

"What an idyllic spot!" Angela exclaimed, seating herself on a marble bench and regarding the Greek columns.

"I feel as if this day is everlasting," Jenny's voice broke in on Angela's thoughts.

"We'll soon be on our way now." She slipped her arm protectively through her friend's.

An hour later Jenny stood at the roadside like one in a dream, waiting for the train to take them back to Paknam. It was slow in coming, and her pulses raced in her fever to reach the boat. But what should she do when she confronted Peter?

At last they were off, and she watched the heads of the tired passengers nodding in the yellow bubbles of light.

When they reached Paknam they still had a long distance to travel by tender. Jenny felt ill with fatigue and worry. Her head was throbbing and her fears were like thorns piercing her flesh. Angela was a comforting presence, although she did not attempt to talk to her. The tender rode smoothly, the water slipping her sides. A breeze came whipping in from the gulf. Angela took off her hat and her silver hair flew loosely over her ears. Jenny still clutched Peter's cigarette-case in her hand.

The boat drew nearer and nearer. They could now detect the outline of her funnels looming above the lifeboats. Jenny picked out a nautical cap. It must be Dick Charlton in his white uniform. The chasm of water narrowed till they touched the sides of the Marena. She did not know if her feet would carry her to her stateroom, or sustain her when she came face to face with Peter.

"Buck up, old dear!" said Angela. "We might as well be moving down."

Jenny caught a glimpse of a tall figure looking over the side of the promenade deck. The shoulders suggested Peter; the face she could not see. He might be waiting for her at the gang plank. The tender was bumping her sides against the steamer, scraping and tearing, heaving and barging off.

Angela and Jenny were caught in the outgoing rush and were among the last to leave the boat. Angela saw the girl's face was like skimmed milk, and she caught her round the waist. Jenny drew her hand down over her eyes and stepped up the ladder, her glance darting from side to side. Dick smiled at her in passing, although she scarcely saw him. There was no sign of Peter. Of course not. He would wait for her in their stateroom.

Angela took her part-way along to her door for Jenny's legs were wavering. It was open and on the hook. She pulled the curtain aside and gripped it again to steady herself as she saw that the room was dark. Perhaps he was in bed and asleep. She switched on the lights. The room stared at her, empty and dead, and at the same moment she felt the engines throbbing their familiar tune. She got as far as Peter's bed, then fell in a dead faint on the untouched cover.

It was long before she opened her eyes, to find herself staring at the tinted lights and panelled walls. Her glance flew to the back of the door and she saw that Peter's dressing-gown was missing from its hook. "He's afraid to come near me tonight," she thought, and burst into storms of tears.

Burying her head in the pillows, she sobbed wildly and hysterically. At last, exhausted, she fell asleep and did not hear a knock on the door. Reassured by quiet, Angela stole away, believing that it was no longer any of her concern. They were already pounding through the Gulf of Siam, the Marena steering her course with midnight stealth on limpid waters.

Jenny slept late, a heavy, drugged slumber. When she awakened, the sun was pouring in through the open porthole, and the rose wall-lights were still on, like evening dress at breakfast-time. She looked across at the other bed and saw that it was empty. Then she remembered the events of the night before. Raising herself on her elbow, she held her head, which ached as if it had been hit with a hammer. Her glance swept around the stateroom for familiar objects, and in a second she sprang to her feet. Where were Peter's things? All of his things? She dashed into the bathroom. His brushes, his hair tonic, his soap, his razor—everything was gone. Dared she open his wardrobe door? She sat down on a chair and waited for strength, but it did not come. At last she staggered across the cabin and looked inside the closet. It was emp-

Texas Exposition First Air-Cooled World Fair

Dallas, April 30.—The Texas Centennial Exposition will be the first air-conditioned World's Fair in history.

"For the first time, an exposition has been designed and is being built with the comfort of its visitors primarily in mind," said William A. Webb, general manager of the $25,000,000 show which opens in Dallas June 6.

"More than $1,000,000 is being spent to provide fresh, cool air throughout every major building. The temperature and humidity of the atmosphere will be kept constant over more than ten acres of floor space in twenty-nine buildings. This is 60 per cent of our floor space. The air over all other floor space will be changed completely every 8 minutes or less, thus lowering the temperature ten degrees or more and insuring fresh, clean air at all times.

"With two exceptions, our exhibit buildings have been erected without windows. This makes it much easier to control the temperature.

"There were a few air-conditioned spots at the Century of Progress in Chicago," Mr. Webb continued, "but this is the first time an entire world's fair has been air-conditioned. We feel sure, however, that in future all big expositions will be equipped this way."

Air-conditioning engineers said 6,000,000 gallons of water will be used daily in cooling the atmosphere at the Dallas exposition. As an economy measure, this water will be used over and over again, only enough being added to take care of evaporation.

"This volume of water, of course, does not include that used in the many fountains, reflecting basins and the lagoon," Mr. Webb explained, "although they also will help cool the air. Indeed, engineers tell us they will take a considerable load off the air-conditioning equipment."

Let's not get the idea that the era is approaching when we can get something for nothing.

Men begin conversations with 'did you hear, etc?' and ladies begin, 'she's a nice girl, but—'

CARD OF THANKS

We deeply appreciate the many kindnesses shown us at the death of our brother, George Maddox, and wish to take this method of thanking each of you for your thoughtfulness.

Especially do we wish to thank all those who sent flowers and by your sympathy shared our grief and sorrow.

May we be such friends in your hour of sorrow as you have been to us, is the wish of Mrs. Willis Poe, Mrs. F. H. Watson, Mrs. Cora Stephens, and Mrs. Dave Emory.

Epworth League Enjoyed Wiener Roast Tuesday

The Methodist Epworth League and their sponsor, Mrs. W. A. Pace, and pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Sharbutt, enjoyed a wiener roast at the Country Club, Tuesday evening, April 28.

Everyone enjoyed having plenty of roasted wieners, potato chips, pickles, onion, and toasted marshmallows.

Merle Coward Is Hostess For Merri-Maids Club Mon.

Merri Maids club met Monday evening with Merle Coward for the regular weekly meeting.

After a short business session a program was given on "Club Friendship." Vivian Cryer gave "Definition of Friendship;" Geneva Cary, "Friendship in the First Degree;" Norma West, "Cooperation of Friends;" Estelle Baldwin, "Etiquette, an Important Element of Friendship;" and Leona Inman gave "Lasting Friendship."

Members present were Norma West, Catherine Inman, Estelle Baldwin, Vivian Cryer, Geneva Cary, Eva Lou Poe, Novie Moreland, Allene Hardegree, Mary Lou Fields, Leona Inman, Mrs. Raymond Lloyd and the hostess.

Report on Annual Conference Given Methodist M. S.

Report on the Methodist Woman's Missionary society annual conference at Hillsboro was given by the delegate, Mrs. J. W. Sharbutt at the regular meeting at the church Monday afternoon.

Mrs. J. M. Skaggs presided and opened the meeting by singing "Take the Name of Jesus With You" and "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go." A chapter on love was read and prayer by Mrs. Sharbutt.

Some of the important items given by Mrs. Sharbutt in her report were: that the major aim of the conference was to increase the interest of women in missions and world fellowship; the missionary magazine "The World Outlook" should be taken by all the members and read every day; Mrs. J. W. Mills of Beaumont, president of the Woman's Council, gave the inspirational address which was the main address of the meeting; the Winters W. M. S. received two credits on two missionary books recently studied.

One of the outstanding features was a service honoring the Brownwood district missionary women who had passed away during the conference year. A pink carnation was placed in a basket in memory of each. The local society was proud of the splendid report given by Mrs. Sharbutt.

A short business session was held in which some reports were given and several committees were appointed.

Those present were Mesdames Ella Ritch, Frank Williams, W. A. Pace, Miller, Harris Mullin, Guy Mullins, T. V. Jennings, M. L. Patterson, M. E. Leeman and Ann, E. L. Crockett, J. W. Sharbutt, T. B. Young, W. W. Poe, J. M. Skaggs, and the reporter, Mrs. Wm. Stevens.

Triple Four Club Dinner Given at Chapman Home

Triple Four club members were guests Tuesday evening at a dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Chapman. Hostesses were Mesdames W. G. Bedford, W. P. Gardner, T. V. Jennings and C. L. Chapman.

Vases of roses gave the floral attractiveness to the rooms and bowls of pansies centered the quartet tables for the serving of the three course dinner.

Places were laid for Messrs. and Mesdames A. Boone, Lyle Deffebach, S. E. Hunt, Harris Mullin, J. M. Skaggs, E. D. Stringer, L. E. Low, Chas. Chapman, W. G. Bedford, Dr. and Mrs. T. V. Jennings, Mrs. Jess Wetzel, Mrs. J. W. Dixon, Mrs. W. P. Gardner, and Miss Mildred Boardman.

Interesting games of progressive forty-two were enjoyed after the dinner hour.

Baptist W.M.U. Met in Home of Mrs. Dixon

With Circle C entertaining, the W. M. U. of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Dixon last Monday afternoon for an interesting program and social hour.

Mrs. Lora Hinds was leader for the program which opened by the group singing the hymn, "Come Thou, O Mighty King." Mrs. M. A. Quindlen gave the devotional followed by a prayer by Mrs. F. W. Debo. Hymn, "The Kingdom is Coming" was sung by the group. An introductory talk was given by Mrs. Lora Hinds and Mrs. Gladden Bedford gave an interesting talk on "Pioneer of the W. M. U." by Miss Fannie E. S. Peck. "Dr. I. T. Tichenor, Pioneer on Home Missions" was given by Mrs. C. L. Cooke and as a special number Helen Hamor read a clever poem in keeping with the program. Closing prayer was given by Mrs. S. L. Alexander.

Dainty refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames M. A. Quindlen, E. A. Meadros, F. W. Debo, J. L. Pumpfrey, Sam Cooke, Lester Graham, H. B. Melton, Clifton Wyatt, M. G. Roper, Lora Hinds, M. E. Miller, J. W. Dixon, A. L. Barlow, L. Sullivan, W. G. Bedford, Floyd Smith, G. E. Nicholson, S. L. Alexander, Otis Grissom, C. L. Cooke, Frank Pumpfrey, E. J. Lambert and Helen Hamor, Robert Melton, Robert Grissom and Harold and Gerald Dixon.

Dinner is Given Honoring Couple at Norton Sun.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wilson, Jr., who were married Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Good were hosts at dinner Sunday, at their home in Norton.

The festive board was loaded with all kinds of good things to eat and the dinner was served family style.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wilson, Sr., Bobbie and Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Eulan Hillard and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hambricht, Miss Louise Martin, Mrs. Raymon Cantrell, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ashby, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. L. F. Wilson, Jr. and Norton Girl Married Saturday

Marriage vows, uniting L. F. Wilson, Jr., and Miss Eunice Good of Norton, were taken Saturday night at the Presbyterian Manse, with Rev. J. W. Joiner reading the ring ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

The bride was reared in Norton where she received her high school education. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Good.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wilson and was reared in Winters. He received his high school training in the local schools graduating with the class of '35. He had been employed with the Dry & Wilson Grocery store until recently he secured a position with a Red & White store in Santa Rita.

Those present for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wilson, Sr., Mrs. J. R. Dry, Mrs. J. L. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymon Cantrell, Mrs. Paul Neill and Lynn W. Neil of Santa Rita.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home at Santa Rita.

Friendly Class of Methodist S.S. Met in Johnson Home

Members of the Friendly class of the Methodist Sunday school met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson for the regular business and social meeting. Mrs. Joe Martin joined Mrs. Johnson as hostess for the occasion.

Interesting games of "Monopoly" gave the diversion and a brief business session was conducted by Mrs. T. A. Smith. "Friendly Shadows" were revealed.

The hostesses served ice cream topped with candied pineapple and cherries with chocolate cake to Mesdames Ronald Duncan, Gattis Neely, E. D. Stringer, M. J. Jones, George Hood, J. M. Williams, Martin Middlebrook, Lyle Deffebach, Joe Parks, John Norman, T. A. Smith, T. F. Peters.

Club Meets

The Wingate Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Ralph Dunn with 12 members present. Each member gave a report of home improvement.

A reading was given by Mrs. Hopkins.

A delicious salad plate was passed to the following: Mesdames G. W. Blackwell, C. Busher, W. C. Harkins, Dew Whitfield, C. B. Bryan, I. N. Phillips, Troy Carter, Hopkins, Loyd, Toney, Hancock, R. V. Rogers, Vera Whigham, and the hostess, Mrs. Ralph Dunn.—Reporter.

C. L. Cooke and Mrs. Charlie Graham left Wednesday afternoon for Fort Worth in response to a message advising them that their father, Dr. Robert Cooke, was dangerously ill.

NEVER SATISFIED

SATISFACTION IS EVER THE DEATH OF BUSINESS PROGRESS

Whenever we feel ourselves getting satisfied with our banking service, we strive constantly to give better and still better service, so that we shall never be satisfied.

For we have found that our own dissatisfaction with our banking service, our steady and consistent effort to improve it, is the best way to keep growing and to maintain the highest standards.

If your business is not with us, you are invited to place it under the protection we have provided.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Miss Jessamine S. Whitney, statistician of the National Tuberculosis Association, has done something that no one has ever attempted. She has made a thorough study based on death rates by occupations, and her clear picture of the mortality of working men will be of immense value to professional men and women, to social work students in schools and colleges and to other groups interested especially in labor legislation. Miss Whitney has been called the foremost woman vital statistician of the United States. She is the author of numerous books and studies. She is an ardent baseball fan and her hobby is compiling the statistical record of all players in all phases of their performances.

The only woman in the Mississippi Legislature, Mrs. John Robinson, of Madison county, is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club of her state. She has been named chairman of a committee on eleemosynary institutions, and a member of various other committees, such as census and appointments, appropriations, and universities and colleges.

One of the two women in the country serving on State liquor control boards, Mrs. John Sheppard, was selected for her advocacy of liquor control divorced from politics. Miss Josephine Schain, participated as chairman of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War.

The Duchesse de la Rochefoucauld is a feminist. Although her countrywomen in France do not vote, she says they are free to raise their voices to proclaim their immense love of peace. She is looking forward to the time when woman's pity, which to some extent has redeemed the horrors of war, will be strong enough to keep civilized peoples from knowing such horrors.

The two women chosen from the field of social work were: Mrs. Mark K. Simkhovitch, who has spent thirty-five years doing settlement and welfare work, and Dr. Valeria H. Parker, lecturer, and organizer in social hygiene activities.

It is interesting to note that C. F. Hamor of Cisco is in the city this week, visiting in the home of his son, Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Hamor.

Mrs. Alvin Ballard and son, Tommie Joe, of Cisco, are guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Bridwell, this week.

SUPERFEX MAKES COLD BY BURNING KEROSENE

SUPERFEX is the refrigerator that brings the delights and conveniences of city refrigeration to country homes. It keeps foods fresh, freezes ice cubes and makes frozen desserts by burning kerosene—just a few cents worth a day.

All you have to do is light the burners. The rest is automatic. At the end of 2 hours the burners go out. But Superfex keeps right on working. The burners don't have to be lighted again for 24 hours... or even longer!

And Superfex can be bought on easy terms, if you wish. Ask for free home demonstration.

VICTORY CLUB HAS PROGRAM ON TEX. CENTENNIAL

Mrs. V. A. White was hostess for the last meeting of the Victory Home Demonstration club, and Mrs. Riley Marks, vice president of the club, presided for the meeting. Twelve members and a visitor, Mrs. Pete Davis, were present.

An interesting program on Texas Centennial was given. Miss Thelma White gave a talk on Early Texas History and discussed plans for the centennial celebration.

The next meeting will be held in the H. E. White home on May 5, and the program will be on parliamentary laws and hooked rug demonstration.

OAK CREEK CLUB MEETS IN J. H. CLARK HOME TU.

The Oak Creek Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. J. H. Clark Tuesday, April 28, with ten members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Wyatt McKown read the minutes and reported on the club funds—$17.00 was made on the play last Friday night.

The Monthly 42 tournament will be held Friday night, May 1. All 42 and bridge players are invited to attend. Plenty of refreshments will be served and entertainment all evening.

Mrs. Clark served lemonade and cake to those present.

Nidra Williams, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Williams submitted to an operation Tuesday morning for the removal of her tonsils.

Mrs. W. R. Franklin and Mrs. C. W. Gregory spent the last of the week in Dallas where they bought summer merchandise for Mrs. Gregory's shop.

When an individual becomes a partisan his reason is, in part, impaired.

On Texas Farms

After reading the March reports of the county agricultural agents, M. R. Bentley, Extension agricultural engineer, commits himself to the belief that the work done in terracing and contouring land on Texas farms and ranches was "stupendous and colossal!"

Bentley thinks that the answer to the oft-asked question "How can I terrace when there is nearly always a growing crop?" is to be found in some of these reports.

Live Oak County—Crops must be planted on this land before the terracing machinery will be available, but the farmers are leaving out a 25-foot strip along the terrace line so that the terraces may be built at any time the machinery becomes available.

Howard county—Early maturing or soil improvement crops will be planted on a strip 40 feet wide along the terrace line to leave ample room for the terrace building work without molesting other crops.

Oldham county—Henry Creitz, farmer of Adrian says, "I will mark my terrace lines at present with one round of a disk plow or small county grader that I can pull with my own tractor. Then I will do all working and planting on the contour between the lines, adding at least one round to the terrace each year until a good crop is made; then I can complete the terraces, in the meantime getting some advantage from the terraces and much from the contour farming."

Lee County—C. F. Wieder, farmer in the Good Hope community, recently decided to strip crop his land and build the terraces next fall after harvesting the crop.

Falls county—H. E. Wrenn, farmer living near Marlin, has had terrace lines run on 90 acres, changed his rows to run with the lines and will strip crop this land before building terraces. Part of these strips he has planted to sweet clover and will plant negari on the other strips with the intention of building the terraces this summer after these crops are harvested. This gives an opportunity to build the terraces after crops are made and during a time when the ground is in better shape for moving the dirt.

Henderson county—The county agricultural agent in this county has been suggesting to farmers that in all instances where terrace lines are being run, if they fail to get their terraces built at the present time, by all means run the rows on the terrace contour with the intention of building the terraces after the crop is harvested, when more time is available.

Wheeler County—Farmers in this county who will be unable to wait for the county grader are leaving a wide row so that the line can be found next year and there will be no necessity for rerunning these lines again. Many of these farmers who will not have time to build terraces are listing their land with the terrace lines.
