By R. C. THOMAS

Elsewhere in this issue of The Enterprise is the list of high school football players who were chosen all-district for District 7-AA for the 1959 season. It is interesting to note that there are no Winters boys listed on the first team, although five were listed on the second team.

The absence of any Winters boys on the first team can be explained by simply pointing out that there were no outstanding players on the 1959 Blizzard team. This statement is not as depressing as it sounds, when all things are considered. After all, it was the whole team, and not a few individuals, who played ten football games during the 1959 season. They turned in a fairly good record this year, as a team, even though they ended up in fourth place in the district.

Sometimes we think that perhaps too much emphasis is placed on picking outstanding players, at the expense of ignoring the rest of the team who perform yeoman duties all season with little hope of recognition. This is not a case of sour cabbage because no Winters boys were picked for the first team. Also, this may be old hat, but it can stand repeating: Too many times the road to glory for a few individuals is paved with the scarred backs of players who really did the work but received little credit because the limelight was thrown on a few.

This is the reason we point out that the absence of Winters boys on the "first team" is significant; it's the final reason for playing, the instilling in the boys the importance of teamwork.

Although rattlesnakes are supposed to be in hibernation now, warm sunny days can bring them out of their holes. Arthur Smith, on a quail hunt the other day, killed two rattlers, each about four feet long. We never did learn if he bagged his limit of quail.

Can't say we're exactly opposed to the world junket President Eisenhower is making, but do believe the trip could have been planned for another time. Coming at this time of year, just before Christmas, it may lead some of our friends to continue in the belief that there is, too, a Santa Claus.

Been reading so much lately about the strikes and the unions claiming that to put any more automation in the industries would throw men out of work, just about to reach the point where we agree with them. Several years ago, when the mule was being replaced by the tractor, there was the same cry, and it happened. Hardly ever see a muleskinner these days.

After the new parking and traffic regulations go into effect within the next few days, most of those who live on the west side will become involved in an early morning rat-race to find a place to park when they stop by the post office.

The one block of West State, from Main to Church Street, will become one-way, with no entrance on the west. The one block of Church Street, from State to Dale, will be one-way, with no entrance from the north.

So, the parking lot at the new post office will be unavailable to east-bound motorists on West State, unless they elect to travel four blocks around town and back on the one-way street to park. The only readily available parking area will be on the east side of the north-bound one-way block of Church Street where 12-minute meters will be installed. This area will hold about half a dozen cars. Post office patrons who wish to spend about three minutes picking up their mail will have to choose between traveling four blocks around to Main Street and back to the post office parking lot, or deposit money in the meters for the 12-minute parking privilege — if spaces are available. If not, they can go on to their destinations and walk back to the post office.

Blizzard Cagers Drop Opener To Lakeview, 62-47

By Billy Lynn Little

Coach Jerry English unveiled a hustling, well-rounded staff of twelve "A" string cagers at the season opener in Lakeview Tuesday.

The red-hot Chiefs downed the Blizzards 62-47, taking their second win of the season.

The Blue hit 43 percent of their field shots, and 50 percent from the free throw line. Led by co-captains Jimmy Smith with 14, and Sammy Albro with 8, the Blizzards had seven men in the scoring column.

Smith, reviving his role as ballhawk from former years, cleanly swiped the ball from frustrated Lakeview guards several times before four fouls forced him to "keep his hands to himself." Jimmy hit 6 of 7 field goal attempts for a percentage of 86, and nailed both free throw attempts for 100 percent from the charity line.

The entire team demonstrated a tight defense, being all over the Lakeview boys continuously. Also recalling the past was William Grissom, brother to last year's hot shot Rickey, as he hit three jump shots in the familiar Grissom manner.

Albro, one of the five seniors, dropped all his points in the first half, while dazzling sophomore Jerry Dunn dropped 7 in the second half. Gary Onken, another senior, had an off night, dropping only 3. Big "Pee Wee" (James) Williams dropped in 5 of 6 free throws for his points, and James (Button) Little hit 4 points in the final period for his output.

Another Blizzard, Kenneth Crowe, will miss several of these early games due to an accident suffered in workshop training the week before practice began.

Coach Don Edward's "B" team lost a squaker by 18-15 in the night's opener. Jimmy Johnson hit 6 for Winters, followed by Jimmy Dunnam with 3, and Joel Butts Mike Bedford and Tommy Young with 2 each.

The Blizzards travel to Colorado City Friday and Hamlin Tuesday, before returning home for home fans viewing against C-City Saturday night.

Traffic congestion, according to the city officials, has forced the City Council to make two blocks of streets in the vicinity of the new post office one-way streets. Involved will be West State and South Church streets. The City Council made the decision at its regular meeting Monday night.

According to Mayor H. D. Jones, one block of West State Street, from Main Street to Church Street, will be one-way, with traffic flowing east to west. One block of South Church Street, from West State Street to West Dale, will be one-way, with traffic from south to north.

The council also voted to install 12-minute parking meters on the east side of South Church Street, in the block to be designated one-way. No parking will be allowed on the west side of this block, city officials said.

Parking on the one-way block of West State Street, which runs in front of the new post office, will be prohibited, it was announced.

The new traffic and parking regulations will not become effective until signs are installed, Mayor Jones said this week. After signs are up, it will be illegal to enter the one-way block of West State Street from the west. Also, entrance to the one-way block of South Church Street from West Dale will not be allowed.

ROGER BABSON SAYS—

Buying Stocks In European Companies Would Be Dangerous Speculation

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 26. Since returning home from my long trip to Europe, I find that many of my friends here are greatly interested in buying stocks now of German, French, Italian, and other European companies.

Is All Europe Turning Socialistic? Let me first say that in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, the railroads, telephone and telegraph, and all the utilities are owned by their national governments. All these countries have many private stores and huge "co-operatives." In some of these countries every co-operative not owned by the state must have a majority of its directors citizens of that country. Holland and Belgium are more friendly to outside investors.

In Poland and Russia everything is state-owned. Hence, the purchase of European stocks by Americans is limited practically to stocks of corporations in a limited number of nations, as noted above.

Conditions In Germany West Germany is now very prosperous and this prosperity extends—in decreasing proportion—until we reach Spain. The German people are intelligent and industrious, and are not handicapped by unreasonable labor leaders or tax collectors. The favorite German stocks are the "industrial," namely chemicals, metallurgy, electronics, building materials, automobiles, paper products, and chain stores. The banks—which largely carry on the investment business—are also making money. Many of these companies may offer temporary profits.

American investors who buy them are, however, playing with fire. I hope I am wrong; but think that Mr. K. will succeed in getting control of all Berlin and will ultimately consolidate East Germany, which Russia now controls and which I visited—with West Germany. This could enable Mr. K. to control the entire area under the Polish System. The Poles insist they are not Communists; but all property is owned by the Polish Federal Government, which is friendly to Russia. Hence I do not recommend the purchase of any German stocks or bonds.

Khrushchev's European Program As I stated last week, Mr. K. does not want World War III. His hope is that some way can be worked out for him to gradually consolidate and control Germany without fighting. But if he must fight to bring about his goal, and if we should feel obliged to get into a nuclear war, I hate to think of what would follow. Western Europe does not want Communism; but I believe that with the exception of the property owners—who are a small minority—the majority are favorable to state ownership under the Polish System.

If World War III should come, all Europe would immediately turn socialistic and have state ownership.

State Capitol Highlights:

Governor Daniel Considering Calling Special Session On Teacher Salaries

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
Austin, Texas—Ordinarily, between Thanksgiving and Christmas, politicking takes a back seat to holiday preparations in the Capitol.

This year a lot of people are more concerned with what sort of "gifts" they'll get in January. Gov. Price Daniel has called special elections to fill the three legislative vacancies for Jan. 9. For the several candidates already actively running for these offices, election would be a highly acceptable post-season "present."

Governor Daniel also has written members of the Legislature asking how they feel about having a special session early next year to raise money for higher teachers' salaries.

Some already have stated, bluntly and publicly, that this is a "gift" they could pass up. It would force them to choose, right before running for re-election, between disappointing the teachers and passing a new tax, which always makes somebody unhappy.

Several have said that they feel the matter of teacher raises either should have been settled during the sessions last spring and summer or should be postponed until the next regular session. After statewide elections, it's pointed out, legislators might have a clearer idea of what all the people want.

Other lawmakers, however, say they feel teachers should have an immediate raise.

Talk now is that, if the special session is called, it will be about Jan. 12, just after the special elections.

For state officials in general, holiday dreams are focused, not on Dec. 25, but Feb. 1, the last day to file for a place on the primary ballot. For the candidates, no "visions of sugar plums" can compare with the hope of having Feb. 1 end with no tough opposition in sight.

WATER ENGINEER RESIGNS McDonald D. Weiner has resigned his post as chief state water engineer effective Jan. 12. Weiner said he was not leaving because of being "under fire by anyone" and that he did not have another position at the time.

Weiner is a retired Army Engineers Corps colonel. He was hired in April, 1958, to head the Water Board's planning section. Legislature authorized the planning section to study all the state's surface and underground water resources and make a statewide report to the Legislature.

Water Board has been the target of critical statements in recent months by the Texas Water Conservation Association and the Texas Society of Professional Engineers. TWCA charged that friction between board members had caused the state's water program to lag.

Governor Daniel, in a recent speech, recommended that the Water Board be reorganized along the lines of the State Highway Commission.

WATER FIGHT CONTINUES Whether the Trinity River or the San Jacinto is the best source for Houston's future water needs is the issue in a prolonged hearing before the State Water Board.

Trinity River Authority and the City of Houston are seeking permits to build two dams near Houston. San Jacinto River Authority is contesting the application. It contends Houston has an agreement to get its water from the San Jacinto and that Trinity water is insufficient and polluted.

Engineers for the Houston-Trinity group have presented mounting evidence that Trinity water is polluted; but gradually—war or no war—this is the trend. This especially applies to France, Italy, and perhaps to England, notwithstanding the recent fine victory of the conservative party. They don't want Communism; and I hope the Russians will get tired of it. Much, however, depends upon China which is fast developing its own form of Communism. All the above means that my U. S. readers had better look upon European stocks as dangerous speculations rather than as investments.

Our Securities And Exchange Commission Bankers and brokers have never liked our Securities and Exchange Commission. They claim its red tape puts a "ball and chain" on the sale of new issues of stocks and bonds. I, however, feel it is a protection to all honest investors, and even speculators, if they take the time to read the prospectuses which the Commission requires.

Stocks and bonds issued by bankers and corporations in Germany and other European countries do not have to be reported to such a commission; in fact, no such commission exists in Germany. Therefore, it is often impossible to get the records of earnings, assets, and other details of European stocks or bonds which the corporations or bankers do not care to publish. Furthermore, punishments for false rumors and "redains of statistics in support of their case that Trinity water will be adequate for industrial use and cheaper than San Jacinto water. City of Denton has dropped its opposition to the proposed dams after coming to an agreement with TRA and Houston to protect water rights of the Garza-Little Elm and Grapevine reservoirs.

COMMISSION STUDIES GAS PRICES Railroad Commission is now considering the record of nearly a year's heated discussion over whether Lone Star Gas Co. should be allowed to raise its rates.

More than 300 Texas cities are affected. Lone Star is asking to increase rates from 30 to 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. It says that 9 cents of this is swallowed up by the higher prices it must pay for gas at the wellhead. It is asking also that some system be established to adjust prices to customers automatically when costs to the company go up significantly.

Attorneys for the affected cities charge that the gas company is trying to put an unfair share of the costs on householders rather than on the big industrial consumers.

LAWS CLARIFIED In a series of opinions, mostly concerned with new laws passed this year, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled:

1. That parts bought for repair of air conditioners are not subject to the new 3 per cent sales tax on air conditioners. All parts sold for the original installation are taxable.

2. That the law creating a Texas Coordinating Commission for Health and Welfare Services is unconstitutional. Commission would have been made up of persons from both the legislative and executive branches of government, thus violating the "separation of powers" principle of the constitution.

3. That members of the State Board of Insurance can be paid their regular $50 per day fee for work on Saturdays.

4. That a juvenile offender arrested during the night can be held in jail until taken before the judge the next morning.

5. That county funds can be used to pay all or part of the hospitalization insurance premiums for county officials and employees.

6. That a veteran who refuses to execute a contract under the veterans land program after purchase has been approved forfeits his 5 per cent down payment and portions of the closing fees.

RECORD SALES SEEN Totals thus far indicate Texas should hit an all-time high in retail sales in 1959, says the Bureau of Business Research. BBR's estimate of total 1959 sales, based on the good showing of the first 10 months, is $13,658,000,000. This would be 8 per cent better than last year.

CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during our recent bereavement. For the beautiful floral offerings, cards, letters and food that was brought in, we are deeply grateful. May God bless each of you.

Tips For Cold Weather Driving Given By Safety Association

Six hot tips for cold weather driving were offered motorists today by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association.

Based on scientific research by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards, under actual driving conditions and during tests conducted by professional drivers and engineers, the cardinal rules for safe winter driving are listed as follows:

1. You are the key to your own safety. Driving conditions definitely are less favorable in winter. It's up to you to winterize your car, winter-wise your driving techniques, and determine to do your best to avoid accidents.

2. Rely on good tires and tire chains. Have good tires. You may prefer snow tires for winter, but you still should carry reinforced tire chains for the more severe conditions which can and will develop from time to time. Even with the help of snow tires, or the much greater help of reinforced tire chains, you should reduce speed on snow and ice.

3. Keep windshield and windows clear. Be sure your wiper blades are in good condition, and that wiper arms have adequate pressure to sweep snow and sleet off rather than slide over it. See that heater and defroster are working smoothly. Clear snow and ice from the windshield and all windows of your car before venturing onto the highway. Ventilate, to keep your windows from fogging.

4. Get the "feel" of the road. In order to avoid unintentional sliding or spinning of your wheels, try the brakes or gently press the accelerator while driving slowly and as traffic and highway conditions permit. Then adjust speed to a comfortable, safe rate governed by the existing road and weather conditions.

5. Follow at a safe distance.

Keep a good margin between your car and the vehicle ahead. It takes chainless cars from three to 12 times more distance to stop on snow and ice than it does on dry pavement.

6. Pump your brakes. A pumping action permits you to maintain better steering control on ice or slippery snow. A fast application and release of the brakes—one or two times per second—will give you short intervals of maximum braking effort separated by short intervals of controlled steering while wheels are rolling.

By Vern Sanford

It is said that the difference between an expert fisherman and an also-ran lies in one's ability to "read" a river, stream or lake. This because there definitely are certain choice spots—and he who finds them lands the lunkers.

Learn where the fish lie. That's the secret, say the pros. "And the time to do the learning is when fishing is at its worst."

For instance, when a stream or river is very low and clear, bottom obstructions, rocks, ledges, deep runs and pool areas become evident. Make a mental note of these physical factors.

In many instances, by using polaroid glasses you actually can spot the fish, and locate weed beds and drop-off areas where fish gather.

There are two other "handies." A thermometer and a waterscope. A thermometer helps locate spring holes. The waterscope, a tube with glass in one end, also is used to determine weed-bed areas and drop-offs.

A word to the wise... time taken in charting the favorite stream or river really pays off in better fishing later on.

'Tis said that he who fishes "up-stream" catches more and larger fish.

By upstream we mean "across and up".

Dry fly fishermen use this method successfully. Why wouldn't it work with other fishermen? Some say it does. They suggest a high rod and a constant retrieve in order to maintain a tight line. Also they point out that spinners, wobblers, small plugs and nymphs pay off in larger fish than do floating lures.

Learn your water and fish upstream for more and bigger fish, they re-emphasize.

No matter how shallow the water, there is ample concealment in weed beds or lily pads, says one tipster. He adds: Often fish lurk quite far back and do not see lures cast at the edge of weed beds or pads. In such instances a silent cast is not effective. Don't be afraid to let your lure drop with a loud splash.

There always is danger of a hang-up. That's when a heavier leader line comes in handy. There is no reason for not attaching a leader to a spinning line—just so long as it is short enough not to enter the spool. It sure does add a safety factor... and makes it a little easier to change lures.

It's well to know the depth of the water in which you are fishing. Next time you fish in deep water let your lure down alongside the boat and count slowly until it reaches the bottom. Then when you cast out, start your count when the lure hits the water. Allow the lure to sink freely. But start your retrieve with a short, hard, hook-setting motion the moment your count indicates bottom depth. Many times the lure is picked up by a curious fish on its downward float—and he may still have it in his mouth.

Tips on Monofilament Line

As spin-fishing grows increasingly popular the use of monofilament line becomes more general. It is true that monofilament offers many advantages. But there are disadvantages too. Perhaps we should say "handicaps".

A knot points up its biggest weakness. In fact if you want to break monofilament line at a specific place, just tie a knot there and jerk. The line will break at that exact spot.

This brings up these two facts:

1. When you find a knot in your monofilament line, either untie it

(which is almost impossible) or break the line, then and there. Otherwise some lunker will do the job for you... and you will lose a nice catch.

2. When you tie monofilament to a swivel (or direct to a lure) follow this tie-down tip and you will avoid use of a line-breaking knot.

First, run the end of the line through the eye of the swivel. Next, pull through about eight inches of line. Then, instead of tying a knot as you would with braided line, wrap the short length of line around the line proper—seven or eight times. Now comes the important part—run the end of the line through the loop that formed immediately above the eye of the swivel. All that's left to do is to pull slowly but firmly on the line itself and the wrapped-around portion will slide down the line to the swivel to form a vise-like grip.

Just be sure you pull the line tight and hard, and check to see that the swivel is firmly attached. If you have not pulled hard, then the end of the line may slip back through the loop. In that event you will have to repeat the entire operation. Until you learn the trick you may have to hold the tag end of the line to keep it from slipping through. However, after a few trials you'll find this tying method can be performed quickly. Also you'll discover that this is the safest and surest way to tie on a swivel or lure. Actually it's known as the clincher knot.

Finally, if you want to be doubly sure that the end of the line doesn't slip through—just strike a match and burn the tip of the line lightly. The monofilament will burn until a small but hard ball forms. This ball, on the end of the line, will keep the end from slipping through the loop. So, by burning the excess line you not only make a neater job, but a stronger one too.

A word of warning. Don't let any of the burning monofilament drip on your hands or clothes. It's hot as a poker!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Game Warden L. D. Nuckles wrote the following comments of a black bass talking to a game warden. You'll find this interesting. Between the lines there's good advice for fishermen.

Well, warden, I'm a black bass. And, as you can see, no little fellow.

I guess I must weigh at least 10 pounds. These fishermen who see me, once in a while probably go back to town and tell tall tales about the 15 to 20 pounder they discovered.

I live here under this old cedar stump and have lived here ever since the lake came up. I'll tell you, I'm glad to see the water in old Medina again. It was pretty rough when the lake was so low.

It was easy enough to get food then, because the shad were pretty thick. All you had to do was run into a school and catch all you wanted. But there was no good place to live. So I was always on the move. But all that is changed.

Now I can just lie here under this old stump and watch until a perch or minnow comes by, then rush out and get him.

It's only a few feet out to that rock ledge where the bottom drops off to deep water. That's where I go when the water gets too hot.

I get a kick out of watching the fishermen. Every one is different, even though each used the same old lures.

You take old Temperature Tim. He comes by here about once a week in that old green boat of his and makes an awful fuss about taking the temperature of the water.

He's right, you know. We fish do have certain likes and dislikes, just as humans do, when it comes to temperature. But if he'd spend the time fishing, that he does fooling with that thermometer, he'd catch more fish.

Not me, of course. He's not good enough to fool me—not in a thousand years—but he'll catch a lot of those three and four pound youngsters.

Incidentally, there's one good fisherman who comes around here ever' once in a while. I don't trust that guy. He knows someone's living under this old stump, and he cuts his motor off way up the line and sneaks up here with a paddle. Boy, is that guy good with a paddle.

Sometimes the first clue that I get that he's in the area is when his plug hits the water. His only fault is that he's not a good caster. If he could cast real good and would sneak up like that and drop a lure real easy, right on top of me, I might hit it before I realized what I was doing. Oh, I'll tell you, I have to be careful.

Old Top Water Tom worries me. Now there's a good caster. He fishes with nothing but a chugger. Even though I know he's in the area, when he drops that black chugger right on my nose and a d lets it stay there motionless for a while, I really have to hold myself to keep from just smashing that thing whenever he twitches it.

I guess I know just about every kind of lure there is. If a new one comes out, I'll see it pretty soon because old Changeable Charley will be out here throwing it at me. He almost caught me last year. Would have, too, if he hadn't been careless.

He threw a funny-shaped contraption in here early one morning and woke me up. I was in a foul mood anyway, so I just decided to smash that thing. Didn't

NOT HIS DAY—Robert Burns, 39, was seriously injured when his motor scooter overturned on the Bayshore Freeway, San Francisco, Calif. Adding insult to injuries, the bottom dropped out of the stretcher as police carried him from the scene.

Grazing Management Can Influence Value Of Winter Crops

Do you get your money's worth from winter grazing crops?

If the answer is no, perhaps changes are needed in winter grazing practice. Extension Agronomist John Box points out that when small grains, grass, and legume mixtures are properly grazed, they can supply the forage needed to step up the milk production from a dairy herd. The extra milk means larger milk checks.

However, many dairymen make the mistake of letting the entire herd graze as soon as a little green growth begins in the pasture. When this happens, the crop is grazed to the ground in a few days and future growth may be impaired. Box says closely grazed young plants recover very slowly since the root system has not developed and there is little leaf surface.

New growth on pasture plants is produced at the expense of previously stored organic food in the plant and over-grazed plants cannot develop sufficient leaf area to produce food for storage. Box recommends that grazing be controlled so that enough leaf area is left for food production and vegetative growth.

He says it's best to keep cows off of winter crops until there is enough growth to provide continuous grazing for at least two hours each day or until the plants are about six inches high. Even cool season crops stop growing when temperatures drop below 50 degrees F., says Box.

The agronomist points out that dairy cows grazing two or three hours daily and fed high quality hay will produce about as much milk as cows grazing all day. He also warns against grazing water-soaked winter pastures. This practice can damage a pasture. He advises dairymen to use their good judgment about grazing winter pastures during wet weather.

A good winter pasture, concludes Box, will provide a cheap source of feed, can be a labor saver, a means for increasing production and can be planted on land that is not always desirable for growing other crops.

see that monofilament line, cause he had it tied directly to that lure.

Man, was I surprised when he set that hook. I made one hard run and broke his line where it was frayed a bit near the lure.

I'm sure thankful he was one of those guys who never breaks off the last foot or two of his line when he's been fishing awhile. I jumped right near his boat and threw that fool thing out and I'll bet they heard him all the way to Seekatz.

These beginners furnish lots of entertainment for me, too. I'll admit it's not as bad as it used to be because most of them fish with this new spinning tackle and don't backlash like they once did.

But still, they're lots of fun. They get out here in the heat of the day when no self-respecting fish would be out. They stomp around in the boat and drink beer and throw the cans into the water, and cuss the game department for not stocking the lake. Of course, they never catch a thing, but maybe they'll learn. I'll just be careful—in case.

Excuse me, warden, there's a minnow over three that's hurt bad, so bad that he's just sinking down to the bottom. I want to catch him before some of those young nephews of mine see him. I'll be right back.

A FISHERMAN'S PRAYER

What more fitting way to end this column than to repeat "A Fisherman's Prayer" which appeared originally in North Carolina's "Wildlife" magazine:

God grant that I may live to fish until my dying day.

And when it comes to my last cast, I then most humbly pray, When in the Lord's safe landing net, I'm peacefully asleep,

That in His mercy I be judged as good enough to keep.

By Vern Sanford

Game-wise this has been a most unusual year.

There has been an eruption of practically every living thing. There was an abundance of food plants; the mast crop was heavy; and a record wildlife crop has been reported from practically every area of the state.

As a result, in some parts of Texas right now we are enjoying a bonus hunting privilege. It was possible, under regulatory authority, to open the Texas quail season a month early in almost a dozen Texas counties.

Two of these were in Southwest Texas, where shooting of quail was authorized to begin Nov. 3. The same action was taken for the tier of nine counties West of the Pecos.

In addition, the bag limit was jumped from 12 to 15 per day and from 36 to 45 in possession. This, in counties making up the Possum Kingdom and the Panhandle regulatory areas.

Many other counties in Texas might have enjoyed the same privilege had they been under regulatory authority. Now there are 103 counties in the state where the Game & Fish Commission has authority to set seasons on the basis of conditions.

This means an additional harvest of wildlife when the season is good, or the halting of the harvest when the season is bad.

Naturally this complicates things so far as keeping up with regulations is concerned. With 254 counties in Texas it would be possible to have as many as 254 sets of regulations. However, it wouldn't work out quite that bad.

Most of us who have hunted for any length of time have decried in the past the multiplicity of general laws changing seasons in various counties. That was done, however, more for political reasons.

Under the new program any change in regulations is based upon supply. This supply is the result of conditions.

In practically every other state in the Union there are very long and strict closed seasons on squirrels. In Texas, we have an abundance of squirrels, particularly in some areas where pecans are plentiful. If we continue to shoot them off the nest, however, our abundance can't last.

Under regulatory authority seasons will be set perhaps by ecological areas. When conditions are good there will be longer seasons, or perhaps the bag limits will be increased.

Other states have found this profitable. Colorado has been able to permit the killing of as many as four deer by one hunter, on a permit system, in areas where there were more deer than the carrying capacity of the land would justify.

This perhaps never will be possible in Texas because we don't have millions of acres of open public land.

Incidentally, more land owners this year have come to the belief that wild game is a crop. Many land owners permitted dove hunting at $1.50 to $2 per gun on their pasture lands, and found it profitable.

Most hunters would rather pay that amount than climb a fence. This year, for the first time, thousands of acres of good quail country will be opened up at prices ranging from $2 to $5 a day. Many Southwest Texas land owners already have been advertising their places for hunters.

Some motels in hunting areas have found it profitable to work out package deals. They have rates that include rooms, meals and hunting privileges. Some of them are pretty swanky places too.

For years duck and goose hunters have been able to hunt on a per diem basis. All along the Texas coast there are camp operators who provide boats and blinds at from $5 to $10 a day.

In the rice fields the going price charged goose hunters is $10 a day. And most of the hunters get their money's worth.

If you don't believe this, just drive along the Texas coastline in the late afternoon. Or during the day, drive around the back roads of the feeding grounds in the rice field area of Texas.

One of the best places to see geese in action is southeast of Eagle Lake in the Lisie prairie area, where thousands of geese feed.

Hunting there is available between sunup and 12 noon. By agreement, however, land owners close down shooting at noon, giving the geese a chance to catch up on their feeding and rest. It makes shooting better the next day.

It is all right to drive along the back roads in these areas and watch the geese in the afternoon, but don't get any wild ideas about climbing a fence. You might be the one who gets shot.

What's in a Name? Lure manufacturers are just about the "promotest" people we've seen. Evidently they sit up nights thinking up new names for their products. Guess they have to in view of the variety of products they make.

But we gotta take off the Texas Stetson to Herb Mills for the unique designations he has selected. Just look at this list: Acrobat, Waterloo, Little Savage, Matchless Minnow, Operator, Top Pop, Depth-finder.

We thought he'd really goofed when he called one The Goof Ball.

But sure'nuf it's a play on words. The lure is a second cousin to the "golf" ball, in appearance.

But do they appeal to fish? Evidently, because Wiley Thornton, Mills' Texas rep writes us every week about the great catches someone has made with a Hi-Baller, or a Spunky, or a Deepster, or a Hopalong. And nothing succeeds like success!

Research Sheds New Light On Cattle Bloat

One of the causes of chronic bloat in cattle is believed to have been found by researchers at Oregon State College, reports Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. According to their research, he adds, bloat runs in the family. The researchers kept records on 250 beef calves in the course of the study. Chronic bloat showed up in 7 out of 13 offspring of "bloater" bulls mated to "bloater" cows or to cows closely related to the bulls. Of the regular breeding herd, less than four percent bloated occasionally.

Bloat is caused by a buildup of gas during feed digestion in the large storage reservoir in a network of four stomachs in cattle.

Chronic bloating stunts growth and is a major cause of death losses in both beef and dairy cattle.

Patterson also reports that bloat occurs most often when animals are on high-quality feed such as good alfalfa hay supplemented with barley. Test animals received a pelleted ration of two parts half-inch cut alfalfa hay to one part grain mix.

Postmaster Pace Urges Early Mailing Of Xmas Packages

Postmaster Rankin Pace this week announced his annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, and outlined plans for insuring delivery of all Christmas gifts and cards by Christmas Eve.

"Public cooperation," he said, "has been a key factor in moving Christmas mail on time in recent years, and I am hopeful that it will be even better this year."

The Postmaster urged patrons of the Winters Post Office to start mailing Christmas packages now. Packages to distant places especially should be mailed as early as possible.

"This is also the week to prepare and mail your out-of-town Christmas cards," he said.

Mr. Pace gave these pointers on the proper mailing of packages, "Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure that every package is tied with a strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

"It is also important to make sure that your package bears the correct mailing address and your return address. If you are sending your package to a large city be sure to include the addressee's zone number. Including the zone number in the address always will facilitate delivery in large cities. Zone numbers also should be used on Christmas cards and other mail to cities with postal zones. "The address should be on the top of the package, and it should be carefully written or lettered. A piece of transparent cellophane tape placed over the address will usually prevent defacing in transit." It is also a good idea," Mr. Pace said, "to include the address inside the package in case the outside address should become defaced."

"If you use Christmas stickers or seals, place them where they will not conflict with the address. Then, before you drop the package in the mail, be sure you have firmly affixed the proper postage."

The Postmaster reminded that the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time. A delay now will contribute to a serious pile-up, particularly in the larger post offices, as the holiday approaches.

All packages going to distant cities should be in the post office by December 10. Other mail should be sent on its way as soon as possible, and all local mail should be in the post office no more than a week or ten days later. This kind of cooperation would mean that all Christmas mail would be delivered on or before Christmas Eve, the Postmaster explained.

Some people are unimpressed by anything that doesn't affect their pocketbook.

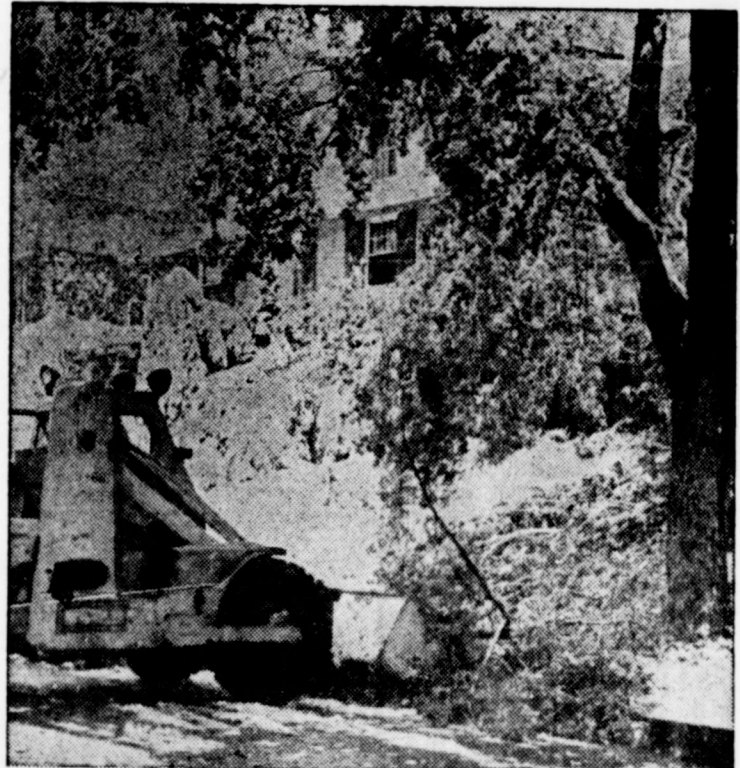

It's the little things along with the expensive things in life that a woman appreciates.

The term "nester," for a range settler, originated when the homesteader cleared a patch of brush and stacked it in a circular form to protect his feed patch from range cattle. It looked like a giant bird's nest.

Wedding Vows Solemnized Saturday For Sherry Mote and John N. Clark, Jr.

Wedding vows were solemnized Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the First Baptist Church, uniting Sherry Ann Mote, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Mote, and John Newton Clark Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Clark. The Rev. B. T. Shoemaker, pastor, officiated for the double ring ceremony before a white altar with a background of floor baskets of white mums and candelabras holding white tapers. Mrs. L. H. Hensley, organist, played wedding music and accompanied Mrs. J. F. Albro, sister of the bride, soloist. Sherry Mote was flower girl and Keith Poe was ring bearer. Miss Kathryn Ann Clark, sister of the groom, and Miss Gayle Owen of Colorado City, niece of the groom, were candlelighters. Darrell Compton served as best man and groomsmen were Joe McAlister of Ballinger, Jerry Sullivan of Winters and Dwayne Williams of Abilene. Ushers were Edwin Owen of Colorado City and Gene Dillard of Eden, both brothers-in-law of the groom. Totsie West was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Ophelia Dietz of Talpa, Marilyn Mitchell of Pumphrey and Janice Colburn, Winters. They wore identical waltz length gowns of peacock peau-de-orr styled with sabrina necklines, puffed sleeves and matching cummerbund. They carried colonial bouquets of white pom poms. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of peau de sole fashion with a moulded bodice of chantilly lace. Scallops edged the sabrina neckline studded with seed pearls and irridescent. A lace panel flowing from a bow at the waist in the back formed a chapel train for the princess skirt. Her finger tip veil fell from a Juliet cap sprin-led with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Members of the houseparty were Mesdames Frederic Poe, Gladys Benson, Monroe Boles, Lee Harrison, Audra L. Mitchell, Frank Johnson, R. D. Collins, all of Winters, Mrs. Gene Dillard of Eden and Mrs. Edwin Owen of Colorado City. For a wedding trip to Fort Worth, the bride wore a brown knit suit, a tan feathered hat and brown suede shoes and handbag. Other accessories were of tan and brown. The bride, a 1959 graduate of Winters High School, attended Draughon's during the summer months. The bridegroom, a 1958 graduate of WHS, attended John Tarleton and is now attending McMurry College in Abilene, where the couple will make their home after December 1.

For a Merry Xmas - Make It SAFE

It would be interesting to discover, in this era of motivation research, what the word "holiday" means to most people. What is the first thing that flashes to mind when the word is mentioned? Time off from work? A trip? An excuse to celebrate? A tragic accident toll? Unfortunately, truthful answers probably would place all of those higher on the list than the true meaning of the holiday. And it's especially unfortunate that holidays must have an association with high accident tolls. Christmas, with the deepest spiritual significance, is the deadliest holiday of all, according to the National Safety Council. Ironically, it achieves this terrible distinction precisely because we want it to be such a wonderful occasion. It is a sentimental holiday. People will drive long distances for the traditional family reunion, undaunted the worst weather. More travel—especially winter travel at highway speeds—means more accidents. It is a convivial holiday. The joyous spirit of the occasion is too often sought in liquid form. This deadly conjunction of the throttle and bottle has dimmed the true radiance from the star of Bethlehem. The National Safety Council and Texas Safety Association have asked for church leadership during this Christmas season to point out that accident prevention is practical religion, and that good will toward men can find no finer expression than behind the wheel of a car.

Amusements Coming to Local Theatres

"THE BEAT GENERATION"
One of the phenomena in America in the past year or two is the rise to prominence of the country's curious "beatnik" set, a group of individualists whose standards of life are at complete variance with the conventional.

Much has been said and written about these beatniks, and now MGM is releasing the first motion picture with beatnik characters and a background of their haunts. Titled "The Beat Generation," the picture stars Steve Cochran, Mamie Van Doren, Ray Danton, Fay Spain, Maggie Hayes, Jackie Coogan and Louis Armstrong and His All-Stars, with Cathy Crosby, Ray Anthony and Dick Contino in guest star roles.

The story, packing a powerful dramatic punch, concerns a psychoneurotic beatnik whose hatred for women causes him to commit a series of vicious criminal assaults. When he deliberately chooses the wife of a police detective as one of his victims, the latter comes close to destroying his own marital happiness in his fanatic pursuit of the criminal. A wide assortment of characters are involved in the suspenseful action, which reaches a gripping climax in a hair-raising fight underwater.

"The Devil's Disciple,"
"The Devil's Disciple," one of the most actionful, lusty and wickedly witty of all of George Bernard Shaw's plays, has been made into a movie starring Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas and Laurence Olivier. The picture, filmed on location in England, opens on Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre through United Artists release.

Supporting the triumvirate of stars are Janet Scott, lovely 19-year-old English discovery, Eva LeGallienne and Harry Andrews with Basil Sydney, George Rose, Neil McCallum and Mervyn Johns. "The Devil's Disciple" is a Hecht-Hill-Lancaster Films Limited production.

ited, and Bryn ap Idris, A. S. Presentation. Harold Hecht produced, and Guy Hamilton directed the John Dighton-Roland Kibbee screen adaptation of Shaw's famous drama of the American Revolutionary War.

The role of Dick Dudgeon—the devil's disciple himself—is played by Kirk Douglas, fresh from his role in the fabulous box-office success, "The Vikings." Douglas shines as the headstrong, reckless, cynical and highly romantic Dudgeon, who unexpectedly finds himself prepared to sacrifice his own life for that of the husband of the woman he loves.

Douglas and Burt Lancaster are appearing together for the third time in "The Devil's Disciple," their previous co-starring films having been "I Walk Alone" and "Gunfight at O. K. Corral."

Bourne, Mr. and Mrs. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Hollingshead, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Jones. Other members present were Mrs. Vada Smith, Mrs. W. J.
