Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

It's getting that time of year when backers of Winters' Annual Rodeo are beginning to talk up the event, slated for June 23-25.

B. G. Owens, the perennial "Western Committee," is urging people to begin on the one phase of the annual celebration which he holds to be the greatest attention getter—getting in the mood, and creating an atmosphere of the "Old West." He wants again to hold a "whisker contest," for which we understand several prizes will be awarded.

We'll back that kind of drive for publicity on the rodeo, but think we'll pass active participation this year. Once each decade is about all we could stand of that; we're still in the dog house for the little patch of fur we tried to grow on the upper lip last year, and all to no avail, because someone with a full-grown brush patch edged us out in the contest last year.

We'll give all the publicity to the event we can, and do our best to help put the affair over—even to the extent of maybe offering a prize ourselves for the bushiest profile. But regarding participation in the "Brothers of the Brush" contest, think we'll just ask to be remembered as a step-brother this year.

If you're one of the many who last winter longed for "warmer" weather, this is it. Now we can start longing for fall and "cooler" weather.

Things we've read: For instance, that inflation is what caused the expression, "as hot as a two dollar pistol," to become "as hot as a four dollar pistol."

And that politicians mend their fences before election, straddle them during the campaign and just sit on them after they're elected.

And that a lot of people already have a four day week even if it takes them five or six days to do it.

And that too many politicians think they must approach every problem with a taxpayer's open pocketbook.

We've just been reading that a certain Congressman has asked the Federal Trade Commission to determine whether the New York Times is engaging in false and misleading advertising in declaring it publishes "all the news that's fit to print."

The congressman said, "Surely this questionable claim has a tendency to make the public believe . . . that the New York Times is superior to other newspapers . . ."

Something like that could snowball, and cause some big investigations. Just think of all the newspapers over the country which might be subjected to investigation because of their slogans. For instance, there is a newspaper in the Deep South which has for its slogan, "Covers Dixie Like the Dew." An investigation might force them to prove a statement like that. We once knew a paper which had the slogan, "Live and Let Live." An investigating committee could have a field day with that one.

Then there is the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's little underline on their front page flag, "Where the West Begins." They might have a hard time showing the exact line to investigators. The Cisco Press' slogan, "Your Home Paper," just might come under some cloud of insincerity in the eyes of an investigating committee. Also, what about the Abilene Reporter-News' "Without or with offense to friends or foes we sketch your world exactly as it goes?"

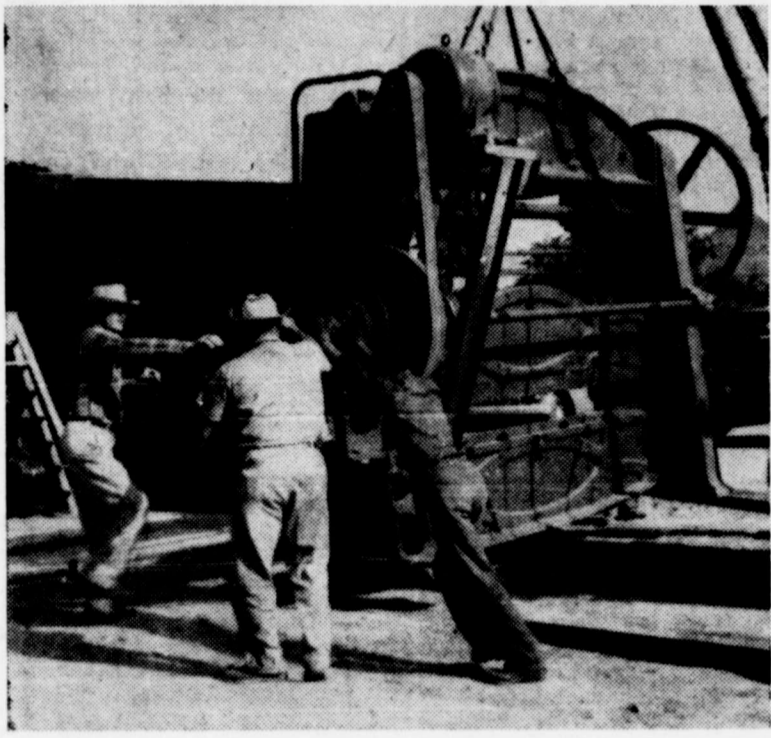

Congressing must be awfully slow these days.

VFW Auxiliary Wins Fourth In Dep't. Contest
Mrs. W. L. Collins, community service chairman and keeper of the scrapbook for 1959-60, received word this week that Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9193 and Auxiliary placed fourth for community service in the Department of Texas.

Books are judged on service to your local community, beauty and neatness.

Judges were Dr. Roy Krezdon, University of Texas, Mrs. Darrell Jones, artist, and Col. Jay Vessels, USAFR.

Awards will be presented at the Department Convention to be held in Fort Worth in June.

"14 TONS!"—A big hunk of iron is the sheet metal press recently installed at Dry Manufacturing Co. So big, in fact, that the side of the building where it will be housed had to be dismantled to move it inside. The big press, which has approximately 1,000-ton capacity, will free three other smaller presses to be used in the production of registers, grilles and louvers. With a 10-foot bed capacity, the press will make it possible, in one operation, to cut out 16 louvers in a register face, instead of the old method of 16 different operations. The newly installed press will be ready for production work in a few weeks, according to the company.

Residents Will Be Assessed For Trash And Garbage Hauling By Sanitary Dep't.

Hospital Hires New Technician

John S. Townsend III, 24, formerly of Trent, has been employed by the Winters Municipal Hospital as a medical technician, it was announced this week. He will begin his duties June 1.

Frederic Poe, hospital business manager, said the need for a technician has long been seen, and the hiring of Townsend follows many months of investigating that need by the hospital board. Poe said that additional laboratory equipment will be installed at the hospital, making it unnecessary for most laboratory work to be sent out of town.

The new technician will also be in charge of the x-ray laboratory.

Townsend is a graduate of Las Cruces, New Mexico, High School, and a graduate of McMurry College where he received his medical technician degree. He has worked at Hendrick Memorial Hospital for the past year. He had formerly been a science teacher in Holding Institute at Laredo.

The new hospital technician is married, and his wife has been employed by the Winters Independent School for the 1960-61 term. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will move to Winters in the near future, from Trent, where they now live.

Presbyterians To Begin Program For Young People

A youth program for all high school young people of Winters and their friends will begin Friday night, May 27, at 7 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, according to an announcement made this week.

The session of the church has authorized this activity and the statistics are: the basement of the Presbyterian church will be used as sort of a youth center for the high school young people (those entering or leaving grades 9 thru 12.) All races are welcome; any type of game within reason will be played. Checkers, dominoes, chess, ping pong, shuffle-board, card and many other games will be available.

Dancing will be permitted if the young people want it. Those who wish to dance should bring their own 45-rpm records. The sponsors will be the judges of what records will be played. Cold drinks and candy will be sold and the hours are from 7 p. m. until 11 o'clock each Friday.

There will be no religious indoctrination of any kind and the young citizens of Winters are cordially invited to participate in the youth program at the church.

Band and Choir In Year-End Performance

By Billy Lynn Little

The music department, consisting of the Winters Blizzard Band and Girls' Choir, under the direction of Robert R. Gans, presented their final performance for the 1959-60 season Thursday night in the high school auditorium.

The Girls' Choir, though not as heralded as the famed band, presented what was termed as an amazingly superb performance of "Christus Factus Est," "Praise Oh Praise Our God and King," "Unto Thee Lift I Up Mine Eyes," "Beauty," "Don't You Know," and "Graduation Day." Featured on the choir program were the well-known Sno-Flakes, consisting of Diane Buckner, Frances Saunders, Barbara Bolden, Sharon Denson, Tamala Gans, and Pamela Bedford.

Miss Bolden also sang a soprano solo, "The Holy City." Miss Gans serves as choir pianist.

Mr. Gans then took the baton to lead the band through its final concert of the season. Playing first, "March For a Festival," "Fantasy for Band," and "Awakening of Galatea," the three numbers on which they were awarded a first division at contest, the band then played "New Hartford March," with band captain Ernestine Scott conducting, and "Appalachian Suite," with James Bryan conducting (both Bryan and Miss Scott received first divisions in student conducting); "Standard Pop Favorites," a cornet trio consisting of Bryan, Charles Wetzel and Wes Hays, "The Black Knight," and "Marching Feet."

The band and choir then were combined by Mr. Gans with his own arrangements of "I Could Have Danced All Night," "Let There Be Peace on Earth," and the School Song.

Mr. Gans also announced the officers for next year's band and presented jackets to students making first divisions.

Next year's band will be headed by David Smith, a member of the Spanish Club, is solo baritone player of the band. Having served as lieutenant this past year the new captain will be a senior next year.

Bob Shoemaker will serve as lieutenant. Bob, who plays clarinet, served as president of the sophomore class this year.

Re-elected as sergeant was Cecile Nitsch. Cecile, who is also secretary-treasurer of the Student Council. Assistant Editor of the Annual, and a member of the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll, and will be solo french hornist next year.

Don Adams will serve as historian. Don is photographer for the annual staff, and also plays french horn.

City Vehicles To Give Warning Of Storm Danger

Emergency defense warning in case of approaching storms has been set up by the city police department and the fire department, it was announced this week by Chief of Police L. F. Hennigan, in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety.

The big siren which is used in case of fires will not be sounded as an emergency defense warning. The city has five emergency vehicles equipped with sirens and these five vehicles will drive up and down different streets in every section of town blowing the siren on the truck or emergency vehicle to alert everyone of danger.

"This warning of approaching storms will be given day or night, according to Hennigan, and the school will be notified first.

During stormy weather a highway patrolman will issue the warning to the city police department and then the entire city will be alerted to the approaching storm or tornado as the case may be.

Leaders who have been working with the girls all year are assuming the responsibility of serving as unit leaders and assistants at day camp. Without the help of these volunteer leaders who are dedicated to the development of children these program activities in outdoor living could not take place.

R. E. "Tot" McCowan of Abilene will be the speaker. Mrs. W. W. Wheat will play the processional and recessional and Charlotte Dooley will give the invocation. T. K. Martin, principal and band director, will present the diploma, and A. Dooley, superintendent, will present awards.

Members of the Winters Lions Club will be knocking on the door of every house in Winters this week, in an attempt to find out just how many people do live in Winters.

The separate count of residents is in cooperation with the Winters Chamber of Commerce, which has challenged the accuracy of the population figures for Winters as released recently by the district census supervisor.

The Winters Lions Club Tuesday volunteered to take the job of making a complete check in Winters. The town has been divided into sections, and each member of the Lions Club will be armed with a card upon which he will list the occupants of each house in Winters. Only the names of residents who were living in Winters on April 1, 1960, is being sought by the counters. No other information is to be sought. The Lions Club has expressed a hope that every citizen will assist in this new census.

A. W. Libbe, president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, met with the Lions Club Tuesday noon and reported that many people have expressed concern over the population figures released by the census bureau two weeks ago. A first figure of 3974 later was changed to 3197, a gain of only 521 over the 2676 count in 1950. Because there has been so many new homes built in Winters in the last ten years, and the apparent lack of an exceptional number of vacancies in the town, the last figures released do not seem to present an accurate figure.

In Conroe, Stapler will be head track coach, and first assistant football coach, and will teach in the Conroe High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapler and family plan to move to Conroe in June.

The Winters Board will not consider a replacement until they meet June 14, at which time applicants will be considered, Supt. James B. Nevins said this week.

Roger Babson Says

There Will Be No Shooting War With Russia in 1960 or 1961

Babson Park, Mass.—In view of the recent shooting down of one of our spies, there is revived interest in the possibility of World War III.

I therefore am repeating in this column the first four paragraphs of my Outlook for 1960.

My Reference To Russia Four Months Ago

1. Naturally, as I am just back from Moscow and Berlin, my first thoughts are what will happen to Berlin in 1960. My answer is definitely, "Nothing Will Happen." Mr. K will make no more ultimatums; President Eisenhower will continue his peace talks. Therefore, the Berlin situation will be just the same in 1960 and 1961 as it is today.

2. There will be no World War started between Russia and the United States in 1960. This does not mean that such a war will not come within 10 years; but just now neither country is ready for it. I am convinced of this after my recent visit to Moscow.

3. Airplane warfare with the dropping of bombs is a thing of the past. We are turning to rocketry with pinpoint precision. Our expensive air bases may gradually be vacated.

4. Moscow is Mr. K's "pride and joy." It is a beautiful city with broad streets and thousands of new apartment houses. Mr. K does not want it destroyed. Furthermore, he wants a reduction in armaments so that he will have money to raise the standard of living in Russia. I forecast he will have to do this in order to hold his power.

Effect Upon the Next Few Months
I am very sorry about the unfor-fortunate shooting down of our spy. In addition to the apparent "lying" in Washington about our policy upon its first announcement, it should be recognized that this airplane was about ten miles above the earth when the shooting took place. This demonstrates how high fighting can occur and also the possible aim and speed of the missile which Russia used to shoot down our plane. The successful use of the parachute from such heights is also demonstrated.

Although the event, from a propaganda point of view, is important to the Russians, yet it does not delay or hasten World War III, in my humble judgment. It seems foolish to delay the Summit Meeting, although it may prevent its accomplishing as much as it otherwise would have.

Let's Not Forget China
As I said in Paragraph 9 of my 1960 Outlook, "... the Russians are afraid of China." Over the long pull, China is no more friendly to the Russians than she is to the United States, but she is playing one against the other. Russia feels that the Chinese would walk into Russia's "back door" if Russia should attempt a shooting war on the West. Thus, it is very important that we review our relations with China.

This Chinese situation is the reason I am anxious to visit China this year; but whether I will get a visa from our State Department is very uncertain. There is no trouble in getting to Hong Kong, as I am in immediate correspondence with Hong Kong by airmail. The postmaster in Hong Kong tells me that any mail addressed to Peiping he forwards to Canton. As to what happens to it after that, he does not know.

Effect Upon Our Election In November

Surely the events of the past week will not help the Republicans, or the election of Nixon. How they will affect the Democrats, the next thirty days will probably determine. My present hunch is that the situation will help Symington, Johnson, or one of the others familiar with the defense situation. Mr. Kennedy has not specialized in foreign affairs or defense.

Of course, the event may cause a decline in European travel this summer and it cannot be helpful to business. It will make people think more about the possibility of World War III and the serious fallout which may accompany it. On the other hand, companies actively engaged in defense should be assured continued employment. Defense expenditures, however, will be directed to missiles and rockets, as I have said many times in my column, rather than to airplanes.

Cattle In Many Areas Need Phosphorus

Forage plants in many sections of Texas are deficient in phosphorus. When pasture forage is markedly deficient in this mineral, cattle grazing on such forage, says U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, should receive from 6 to 9 grams of supplemental phosphorus daily.

Thompson adds that experiments conducted at the East Texas Pasture Laboratory, Lufkin, have shown that cattle have a distaste for dicalcium phosphate when available to them in a mixture containing 35 percent of the material plus 65 percent common salt. Consumption was increased, he said, when the mixture was changed to 25 percent dicalcium phosphate and 75 percent salt. But with the increase, the consumption of dicalcium phosphate averaged only .23 ounce daily per cow as compared with an average consumption of 1.9 ounces of bone meal.

Equal parts of bone meal and salt were supplied free choice as a lick. The dicalcium phosphate used was odorless and tasteless to man.

The dicalcium phosphate contains 17.5 percent phosphorus and the bone meal 9.75 percent; thus, Station cows received about 1 gram of phosphorus from the dicalcium lick as compared with the 5 grams received from the bone meal lick.

Thompson added the work done at Lufkin shows that cattle prefer the bone meal and salt mixture. But he does not rule out the possibility that satisfactory combinations of dicalcium phosphate, salt and cottonseed meal can be developed to make it a phosphorus supplement.

NOTICE!

MY FIRST and LAST SALE! It is very hard for me to say this, but existing conditions make it necessary, never-the-less! Other business forces me to close-out my Dress Shop, and rather than "give it away" to a foreign bulk buyer and let him line his pockets I would rather let my customers, friends, and neighbors (who helped me build this business) have the benefits of the CLOSE - OUT prices on my good brand-name merchandise. So as I started this "epitaph" "my first sale will be my last." So to all my friends, customers and neighbors, my loss is your gain. Prices are good while quantities last.

The subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson is Sincerity in Religious Practices. Meditation: "The highest and noblest activity in which men can engage is the worship and service of God. Worship is the response of a redeemed heart to the love and goodness of a gracious God, expressed through prayer, praise, and service. God looks upon the heart, for all outward worship and service is measured by the love of a redeemed heart for God. The key verse for the lesson is: 'The Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart.'"

With State Elections Over, Interest Now Turns To Next Legislative Session

BY VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

With the main state elections over, statehouse interest now focuses on next January when a new Legislature will meet.

Lawmakers will have to hack their way through the same old jungle of state money problems that faced them in '59. Again the goal will be to find enough tax revenue to pay off the state's debts and provide government services for another two years.

Blazing of some possible paths is already under way. Gov. Price Daniel's 30-member State Finance Advisory Commission begins this week assembling data on the state's future financial needs and how they can be met.

Governor Daniel has said he will propose five different tax plans for Commission study. Any one of the plans, said the governor, would wipe out the deficit in the state's

TRUCKERS ASK RATE HIKE

In a sharply-contested hearing before the Railroad Commission, Texas truckers are asking to be allowed to charge higher rates for shipments within the borders of Texas.

Desired increase would be approximately 7.66 percent higher than present rates.

Firms that do a great deal of shipping and several local chambers of commerce are opposing the request. They contend that rates within Texas are higher than interstate rates now.

Truckers say they must have the increase because increased costs of operation are causing them to have substantial losses.

NO CREDIT UNION BRANCHES

Attorney General Will Wilson has ruled that credit unions are subject to the same prohibition as banks against setting up branch offices or receiving deposits anywhere except in their main offices. Ruling was asked for by the State Banking Commission.

In another ruling, based on a question from the Texas Animal Health Commission, the Attorney General held that the Commission is not compelled to begin brucellosis control work in an area "until such time as it is economically sound and scientifically feasible."

State law passed last year allows the Commission to set up controls on the cattle disease in areas where 75 percent of the cattle owners having 51 percent of the cattle request it.

Read the Label and Follow the Rules With Fungicides

One way to safeguard against excessive fungicide and nematode residues on harvested crops and protect those who handle the materials is to follow the recommendations of the manufacturer.

Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist, says the labeling of all fungicides and nematocides shipped interstate must be registered with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. All applications for registration or labeling are thoroughly examined to remove or modify any directions for use on particular crops which do not seem to meet the requirement of the law. Among other things, the USDA determines whether any treatment is likely to leave excessive chemical residues on the harvested raw agricultural commodities.

Smith suggests that the following rules be closely followed. Use a plant disease or nematode control chemical only on the crops for which it is recommended and in the amounts specified on the label. Applications of the pesticide should also be made in accordance with the label directions.

If a crop is not named on the label of a particular fungicide or nematocide, it may mean that no residue of that pesticide is permitted on that crop; and hence the treated crop could not be shipped if it contains a residue of that chemical.

Growers who follow the recommended time and rate of application can be assured the pesticide will not contaminate the edible part of fruit or vegetable, or will have been removed or decreased enough by weather, decomposition or other process so that the residue will not be excessive at harvest time.

If custom applicators, including those using airplanes, are employed, be sure they too follow the rules or directions listed by the manufacturer of the pesticide used, emphasizes Smith.

LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

MORE ACREAGE IN CONSERVATION RESERVE

New acreage placed in the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank in 1960 has surpassed the announced acreage goal for the program by more than one million acres.

The larger acreage accepted for contracts is chiefly the result of two factors: conservation practices are being established more economically than in the past, and per-acre annual payment rates under 1960 contracts are lower than anticipated.

Approximately 80 percent of the farmers placing new land in the program for 1960 elected to come in on a "whole farm" basis, that is, to place all their eligible cropland under contract. This is of maximum effectiveness in checking surplus production, since the entire farm is withdrawn from crops and usually from livestock production as well.

Under a whole farm contract, the family may continue to live on the farm, and recent field studies indicate that most of them are doing so. In some instances farmers who would have sold and moved off their farms are retiring and continuing to live on them. Some who have shifted to non-farm work and are continuing to live on their farms said they would have moved to town or cities if they had not had the opportunity to obtain a reasonable return from their farm property.

Participation in the program will be particularly heavy in the wheat-producing areas. The five leading states in new acreage, accounting for more than a third of the total, are Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, North Dakota and South Dakota.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to those who were so kind and thoughtful during my recent stay in the hospital. For your flowers, cards, gifts, and visits, I am deeply grateful. A special thanks to Dr. C. T. Rives and the hospital staff for their services. My family joins me in extending our heartfelt thanks. Mrs. Max Rogers and family. 1tc

Tomato Diseases New Publication Subject

Tomato diseases can be successfully controlled if recommended management practices are followed carefully. "Tomato Diseases," a new extension leaflet, lists the practices.

The location of tomatoes should be rotated each year, says Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist. Tomatoes should be grown in the same field oftener than once every five years, and should not follow peppers, Irish potatoes or eggplant.

Avoid planting tomatoes in southern blight, nematode or bacterial wild-infested soil. You can test for presence of these pests by growing a few plants in a representative soil sample.

Grow varieties that are disease-resistant and adapted for your area. It is important to grow fusarium wilt-resistant varieties in east and south Texas, he pointed out. Your county agricultural agent should be consulted about the newest disease-resistant varieties.

If adequate limestone is not present in the soil, add sufficient amounts to help prevent blossom-end rot.

It is best to use transplants grown under disease-free conditions, Smith emphasizes. The leaflet explains how disease-free plants can be produced.

Henry A. Newby, Former Bradshaw Resident, Dies

Henry Augusta Newby, 70 of Abilene, former Bradshaw resident, died at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Hendrick Memorial Hospital after suffering a heart attack earlier at his home at 141 1-2 Victoria Street.

Born March 6, 1890 in Williamson County, Mr. Newby moved to Bradshaw as a boy. While living at Bradshaw, Mr. Newby farmed and also served as county commissioner of Precinct 4, Taylor County. He moved to Abilene 15 years ago and has been in the real estate business since.

Farmers Using Fence Rows For Wildlife Food and Cover

"Many farmers and ranchers in the Runnels Soil Conservation District are using fence rows and other odd areas to provide food and cover for wildlife," stated Kirby Robinson, vice chairman of the District. Robinson says "Quail and other types of wildlife cannot survive without food and cover. Usually both can be provided easily by properly managing odd areas, turn rows, field strips, crop residues and native rangeland."

James Glynn, local Soil Conservation Service technician, stated that areas which are usually thought of locally as wasteland can be valuable if properly managed. Often protection from fire and grazing will serve the needs of wildlife areas and will retard erosion. Areas subject to severe erosion should be fenced and seeded.

Several small areas usually provide better protection for wildlife than one large area. These scattered small areas allow wildlife to escape from predator.

Wildlife conservation is everyone's business. It brings considerable satisfaction to landowners and operators in addition to protecting the soil from erosion.

Mrs. Loyd Roberson Gave Book Review At Primrose Party

"Mrs. Harris Goes to New York" was reviewed by Mrs. Loyd Roberson at the Primrose party honoring senior church women held in the little chapel of the First Baptist Church Thursday.

The book by Paul Gallico, author of "Mrs. 'Arris Goes to Paris," is the glowing story of a London charwoman's warm, tender, yet resolute nature which drives her to America on a roguish trip to reunite a child with his G. I. father.

Mrs. J. E. Smith, WMS president, greeted guests at the door. Rev. B. T. Shoemaker welcomed the group and favorite hymns were sung, led by Loyd Roberson, and accompanied by Mrs. Walker Tatum.

Mrs. Ella Ritch was recognized as the oldest mother present, and Mrs. N. J. Alexander, the oldest woman, by Mrs. George Poe who was in charge of the program.

The linen laid tea table was centered with an arrangement of roses and mock orange blossoms. Mrs. R. L. Briley Sr., served punch. She was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Richie.

Guests were registered by Mrs. T. H. Worthington and Mrs. Ches Busher.

Widows Should Apply For SS

"Widows should apply for social security benefits as soon as they are 62," Floyd B. Ellington, manager of the San Angelo District office, advises. "It would be even better if they applied a month or two before they are 62. Of course no one should delay, but widows in particular should be careful to apply for benefits promptly."

A woman's benefit based on her own account, or on the account of a living husband is reduced if she applies before age 65, but a widow's benefit is different. Widows' benefits are not reduced and the full amount is paid at age 62.

"So, if you are a widow," Ellington explained, "And we once paid you a lump-sum or monthly benefits, you should apply again when you are 62. In fact, you can speed your first check by applying a month or so before."

Working for Bumper and Auto of Illinois, Inc., ten 1960 Chevrolet pickups battle Chicago traffic day after day. Each truck averages about 2,000 miles a month in this wearing stop-and-start delivery service. Mr. Harry Haller, General Manager of S & H Truck Leasing, who leases the trucks to the bumper firm, reports: "We provide full maintenance on the trucks—gas, oil and everything else—so it pays us to know just where we stand on costs. And our records show that the '60 Chevies are giving us as much as 21 miles per gallon... with an average of better than 17 miles per gallon. Mister, these are our kind of trucks!"

Truck owners have good things to say about all Chevy engines. And when they're not talking about Chevrolet performance and economy, they're telling you how great that new Torsion-Spring Ride is. How it soaks up road shock and vibration. Protects fragile loads. Lets you run at faster, safe speeds to get more work done in a day. Drive a torsion-spring Chevy soon. LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

MIXED-QUALITY COTTON BALE LOSSES

Well in advance of the beginning of another ginning season, it might be well for Texas cotton growers to consider and remember the results of a recent study on money losses resulting from mixed-quality cotton bales.

The study was made by the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and showed that in a single season cotton farmers lost an estimated $2,400,000 because of mixed quality bales.

The AMS found the situation basically to be this: When cotton is sampled for grading, a small amount of lint is taken from each side of the bale, and both parts are classed. If the quality is different on the two sides, the farmer is paid on the basis of the lower quality—even though most of the bale may be higher.

Cotton shippers also lost money in payments to warehousemen for special handling of the mixed bales. Some warehouses reopened the bales, resampled, and rebaled them with the low-quality lint removed. Usually, the benefits were not enough to defray the costs.

The AMS reported that most frequently it is the ginners who get the blame for mixed bales because they often combine cotton from two different growers, but the study showed actually that it is the farmer who is most often responsible. It was found that 61 percent of the mixed-quality bales was brought to the gins as mixed seed cotton, with only 39 percent being mixed by the gins.

The problem of mixed-quality cotton, of course, can never be entirely eliminated because it is impossible for farmers always to bring in loads with the same quality of cotton throughout. Weather causes certain differences, and cotton from two different fields may have to be combined to make up a load.

However, the AMS made two principal suggestions: First, farmers can be more careful to reduce mixing cotton of different qualities, and, second, ginners in starting a new bale should see to it that their presses are not turned before all of the cotton from one farmer's load has been baled.

During one recent season, it was estimated that nearly half a million bales of cotton were of mixed quality. About 70 percent of these came from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, where only 37 percent of the year's production was ginned. All other states showed considerably less than the national average of mixed-quality bales, which amounted to only 3.4 percent of total ginnings.

David Wayne, with microphone, and Paul Muni, stars of Columbia Pictures' "The Last Angry Man," amuse Nancy Pollock and Joby Baker as they rehearse a TV show.

Amusements Coming to Local Theatres

"Operation Petticoat"

It's not that I stay so young. It's just that other people let themselves grow old.

Speaking was Cary Grant, film-dom's long-time reigning champion in the charm department, whose latest picture, "Operation Petticoat," in which Tony Curtis is his co-star, opens Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre. The picture, a wacky comedy, was produced by Grant's own company, Granart, for Universal-International release.

Although Grant is one of that rare group of stars who have captured the adulation of two full generations of movie fans, only a slight—and most attractive—graying at the temples signifies that he is not really as young as he looks. A superb physique, energetic gait and youthful features seem to make a mockery of the fact that "Operation Petticoat" is his 58th motion picture and marks the beginning of his 28th year as a screen favorite.

"The Last Angry Man"

When an actor of Paul Muni's stature returns to the motion picture screen, in a role that is tailor-made to his vast talent, it is truly an event of the first magnitude. Muni currently stars with David Wayne in Columbia Pictures' film version of Gerald Green's best-selling novel, "The Last Angry Man," due Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. Featured in the principal supporting roles of the new Columbia drama are Betsy Palmer, Luther Adler, Claudia McNeil and Joby Baker.

Muni, who has etched some of the finest film portraits in Hollywood, is magnificently seen in "The Last Angry Man" as a general practitioner, dedicated to his slum-dweller practice.

Fame and fortune, which Muni has scorned all his life, beckon when television executive Wayne asks him to appear as the first personality in a new TV show, on the strength of a little human interest item printed about the medico and his condemnation of "the galoots who won't let you live." Both for Muni and Wayne, the forthcoming TV show is seen as a means of resolving personal crises; Muni's continuing dissatisfaction with his neighborhood and his patients, and Wayne's failing marriage to lovely Betsy Palmer.

Afraid of snakes?
You have every right to be. They are not playthings. 'Tis better to run and scream—than not to be able to run or scream at all.
As the weather in Texas warms you'll see more and more snakes coming out of hibernation and on the move. Keep your eyes peeled for them—and keep out of their way.
They'll keep out of your way if you'll give them a chance!
Most Texas snakes are not poisonous. But enough of them are. So, if you don't know your snakes, be cautious.
When out for an outing, whether it be a picnic, a bit of boating, or just a stroll in the country—be aware of snakes. Avoid all rattlers, water moccasins, copperheads and coral snakes, regardless of size. Small ones are poisonous too, if they have a fang. But, the larger the snake, the more dangerous it is.
Be careful where you step and where you reach.
Be equally cautious around the rocks, leaves, tall grass, weeds and old lumber.
Be extremely careful when you travel a seldom-used path.
Watch for sleeping snakes as well as crawling ones.
Watch for snakes sunning on warm rocks.
Don't reach or crawl into holes you haven't carefully examined first—especially the dark corners.
Don't get real brave in the water either, for snakes are good swimmers. They can bite while under water or on top.
Our experience with snakes has been such that we now carry with us, at all times, when fishing, boating, or hunting, a pocket-size Cutter snake bite kit.
It consists of a small (1"x3") ribbed - rubber, tubular - shaped container resembling a capsule. It weighs but a few ounces. It is as easy to carry as a fountain pen and takes far less space.
The Cutter Kit has a small soft-rubber suction cup on the inside. In it is a long piece of strong string; a razor-sharp cutting blade; and a vial of antiseptic. Slipping tightly over the ends of this inside suction cup are two larger cups which meet to form the firm exterior of the compact kit, thus providing a total of three handy and efficient suction cups.

This cleverly made, small but very potent life-saving kit should be in your pocket whenever and wherever you take an outing.
Here are the progressive steps you should follow in using the Cutter Kit:
First, apply the antiseptic to the cutting blade, to sterilize it. Also spread the antiseptic over the fang marks.
Then with the cutting blade, make an "X" one eighth of an inch deep and one fourth of an inch long wherever the fang marks are visible.
Next, tie the red string (lymph constrictor) about an inch and a half above the bites—not too tight—just tight enough to dent the skin.
Liberally moisten the skin surface where you made the cross incisions. Then moisten the mouth of the suction cups. Use water or saliva. This is to improve suction.
Squeeze all air possible from the cup as you apply it. Set its wet edge firmly over the cut, allowing the air suction to hold the cup in place. This sucks out the venom, along with the lymph fluid with which the body tissues dilute the venom.
Use the larger cup where possible, as it will draw more blood. Smaller cup is for finers or shins.
Steady, continued suction is more important than powerful suction. If too painful, replace the cup and squeeze it less tightly than before.
Remember that immediate action at the fang marks is most important.
Now for a few important DON'TS.
Don't get excited. If possible sit down right where you are, but a safe distance from the snake.
Don't run, don't even walk back to camp.
Don't get slash-happy with the knife.
Don't take any alcoholic beverages, or stimulants.
Don't tie the lymph constrictor too tight or leave it on too long.
In fact, don't do anything that will increase blood circulation.
Finally, don't be ashamed to be afraid. If you're scared of snakes, you'll very likely be more cautious.

WAILING SECTION—Cheers turned to tears as the rooting section of St. Anthony's High School watches its basketball team lose in the last two seconds of play. Game was against Suffield High, in Bristol, Conn.

Cary Grant, Joan O'Brien, Dina Merrill and Tony Curtis provide the romantic interest as well as most of the humor in "Operation Petticoat," Granart Company comedy for Universal-International in which Grant and Curtis are the top stars.

President Vetoes Distressed Area Bill Last Week

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
The South and Southwest got a break last week when President Eisenhower vetoed the election-year distressed areas bill which had been pushed through Congress at the behest of sections smitten with chronic unemployment caused in many instances by industries closing up and moving south.
The bill would have created a new government agency, headed by a Director who would have the power to determine which community would be eligible to get the government help provided. It provided for Federal loans and grants totaling $251 million to urban and rural areas suffering from unemployment and loss of industry.
It was estimated that 132 industrial areas and several hundred rural communities would be eligible for assistance.
The Senate bill on the same subject, approved by the Senate last year, called for $379 1-2 million to be made available for grants and loans. But the Senate accepted the watered-down House version, approved two weeks ago, for the $251 million.
Many valid objections were raised to this legislation. It attempts to "bail out" areas which have lost industries due to high labor costs and excessive tax rates, by pouring Federal money in to help build or rebuild factories, train workers (at Federal expense) to do new jobs that would be created, etc. Many of these industries have moved south because of a more favorable labor market, lower taxes, etc.
If the government is to begin this practice of rushing to the relief of any area that finds a factory shut down, there would be no end to the applications and the political pressures that would be applied to get on the receiving end of this Federal largesse. It would tend to stifle local initiative, and would cause communities to look more and more to Uncle Sam to take over their burdens for them.
Once begun, it can be certain that this sort of a program would snow-ball. Undoubtedly billions of dollars would be poured into it, and there would be no end to this new run on the Federal treasury.
The President was wise in vetoing the bill.

Livestock Survey To Start June 1st

Postmaster Rankin Pace announced this week that Rural Mail Carriers will begin distributing June 1, 1960 Livestock Survey Cards to patrons on their routes about May 19.
This mid-year livestock survey is the first of three which your Post Office and U. S. Agriculture Departments cooperatively make each year. The June 1 survey provides basic information to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin for estimating the 1960 calf crop, what the spring pig crop actually numbered, and a preview of farrowing intentions for the fall season.
Also, poultrymen will get information on number of chickens raised during the spring. Those chickens will be the coming fall and winter's laying flock.
To be sure this community is well represented in this survey, Postmaster Pace urges each patron receiving a card to fill it out and return to his mail box.
Rural mail carriers working on this project are Ray L. Hollingshead, route one; R. D. Collins, route two; William S. Cooke, route three; and W. E. Little, Route Four.

Explains Disability Benefits Provisions

In order to receive social security disability benefits, only those are eligible who have a permanent disability—that is, a disability which is so severe that it prevents doing any substantial gainful work.
Floyd B. Ellington, District Manager of the San Angelo Social Security Office, emphasized, "The disability which the claimant has must be a condition which is expected to last indefinitely and one which will not likely improve with time or medical treatment."
Many people think a partial or temporary, disability is sufficient to enable them to receive disability benefits until they can return to substantial work and substantial earnings again. In effect, they believe that the social security disability payment is a "stop-gap" income on which they can depend until they are well enough to return to work. Ellington stressed that such provisions are not a part of the social security law.
"Rather," he said, "social security benefits are intended to provide some relief from loss of income due to a permanent disability." If the disabling condition will improve with time; or with medical treatment; or if the claimant can work at a job that is less demanding than his usual work, he will not be considered to be disabled under the social security law, and should not count on receiving disability benefits.
Ellington added that the local office has a booklet titled, "How Disabled Must You Be?", which sums up briefly the major points of the disability provisions in the law, and he suggested that anyone desiring further information should write or telephone the San Angelo Social Security District Office, and ask for a copy of this booklet.

Many Area Farmers Use Conservation Crop Rotation

M. L. Dobbins, Rt. 4, Winters, Frank Gregor, Norton, Arthur Eggeneyer, Rt. 1, Miles, Albert Workman, Hatchel, and Elwood Brown, Rt. 2, Ballinger, are a few of the many farmers in the Runnels Soil Conservation District who practice conservation crop rotation.
Glenn Green, local Soil Conservation Service technician states "the objective of this practice is to grow crops in a rotation or sequence where the soil improving crops offset the soil depleting crop in their effects on the soil."
Such high residue crops as small grains and sorghums are used freely in the rotation. They furnish living cover and their residues can be used to furnish soil protection at other times. By keeping the soil covered during fall, winter and spring, the hazards of wind and water erosion are greatly reduced.
Legumes such as winter peas, summer peas, guar and perennial grasses are excellent soil improving crops, and can be included in the rotation. Many farmers secure soil improving benefits from their small grains and sorghums by plowing them under for green manure crops. Others add nitrogen fertilizer to the dry residues when plowing them under. Another method is to fertilize the crop at planting time to produce larger amounts of residues to return to the soil.
