

HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The cool front which moved into the Winters area Wednesday evening offered welcome relief from the hot blistering days we have had lately. There was some hope that the front would set off a few showers, but so far only a few drops have fallen in the immediate area.

Although a lot of the milo is already "made," there is a deep need for moisture for some late-maturing fields. And cotton is in need of rain. However, many observers have said that crops are looking very good over the area. C. T. Parker, Runnels County Agent, said this week that from his observation the north part of the county would again experience a bumper crop of milo; the north section is in much better shape, moisture-wise, than the south, he indicated. And so far there has been no excessive insect damage, he said.

We have been pressured all summer to get rid of a floppy old felt hat which has seen service through five or six winters, and get a straw hat. We finally knuckled under and got a straw—and what happens? Got caught in one of the first showers.

Winters Volunteer Firemen have extinguished grass fires a couple or three times on the Charlie Chapman farm north of Winters. Several days ago a field of sorghum alum was burned off, and firemen put the blaze under control and prevented the farm building from being destroyed. Tuesday of last week, Charlie expressed his appreciation by holding a steak dinner for 29 firemen at Pierce's.

The annual Firemen's barbecue is being planned for the third Thursday in August.

Final tally of grain shipped from Winters railroad siding, according to J. C. Jarrell: 181 cars of wheat, 82 cars of oats and barley.

Now that the Democratic convention is over—at this writing all that remains is the okay by the convention of the Presidential candidate's selection of a running mate—all things should return to normal—until the Republican convention.

It must have been hard for other important happenings over the country to gain the recognition they deserve while the convention has been in session. Events such as the selection of Miss Universe, the all-star baseball games, all kinds of bathing beauty contests, and the like. With all the hullabaloo at the convention, these other occurrences were crowded off the front pages, and made about as much impression as a sigh in a hurricane.

One youngster watching the convention on television, who has so far been fortunate enough to escape baptism by political banana oil, asked a serious question: "Do grown people act like that?"

This nation is well-endowed with political material; with personalities capable of leading us out of the wilderness of world-wide contempt; haled deliverers—if we are to take without salt the plaudits heaped upon those who were nominated at the convention. A being from outer space, for example, unused to the syrup of political hacking, would mistake each of these recommendations for applications for sainthood.

The television industry must be happy. Instead of relying on re-runs, they can now clip a couple of hours of film of the Democratic convention and run it when things get duller than they usually are. And just think of all the valuable film sequences they have, already made and stored up just waiting to be used in future shows. They can have ready-made mob scenes for dramatic stories; low-key night shots which can be used in suspense stories; with a little editing they can have a deliverer preparing to lead the multitude out of the wilderness.

We just heard of a man who is thinking about getting rid of his foreign car. Says his wife keeps breaking the windshield putting the car in the dishwasher.

Little Studio Had Ten Pictures Hung At State Meeting

The Eddie Littles, local photographers, continued their record of staying in the "Awards" list at the convention of the Texas Professional Photographers Association held in Dallas July 7-10.

All ten of the pictures they submitted were among the approximately 200 prints selected for hanging there in the exhibit. Two of their ten prints received blue ribbons awarded only to top portraits in the state. All of the group received gold star awards, indicating they had been chosen as being among the best of a large number of pictures submitted by photographers from all over the state.

Judges were masters of photography from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Mississippi, and North Carolina.

Little, who is a member of the board of directors of the T.P.P.A., attended a meeting of the board following the convention. He served as co-chairman of the print committee.

Mrs. Little, who was one of the hostesses for the convention, also served as a committee member.

They were joined in Dallas by their sons, Harvey, who is serving as interne on the Stamford American this summer, and Billy Lynn, who had been attending a freshman orientation session at the University of Texas.

City Mail Delivery Begins July 23rd; Residents Given Last-Minute Advice

With only a few days remaining before the start of city mail delivery in Winters, Postmaster Rankin Pace this week again reminded residents that there are several conditions which have to be met if they are to receive the service. City mail delivery begins July 23.

The postmaster pointed out that to receive mail at your residence or place of business, the house must be numbered. Second, it is necessary that a mail receptacle or mail slot in the door must be provided. Third, patrons are advised that they must notify the post office on change of address Form 3575 where they want mail to be delivered. The postmaster also said patrons need to notify publishers of magazines and newspapers of changes of address on post office forms 3578. Both post office department forms may be obtained at the post office.

Pace said carriers are being selected to deliver the mail, and that contracts for vehicles to deliver parcel post will be let soon. The post office will install five mail collection boxes for patrons' convenience. These collection boxes will be installed in convenient locations about town.

Everyone in the post office is anxious to help residents get their mail without delay," Pace said. "But for the post office to be able to do this patrons must help by notifying all correspondents of new addresses. It is very important that you notify the telephone company, city, utility companies, of the new address."

The postmaster also reminded patrons that changes of address should be given to insurance companies and social security offices. Postmaster Pace has asked patrons to have their mail addressed either to the street address or the post office box number. "We have a 90-day limit for you to have your address changed on papers and magazines," he said. "It was also pointed out that patrons may keep boxes in the post office, and also have mail sent to their street address. Mail will be delivered as addressed," he said.

The clean-up campaign, sponsored jointly by the City of Winters and the Winters Chamber of Commerce, will continue into next week, according to Robert Everett, who heads the chamber of commerce committee on streets and alleys.

An extra truck has been hauling trash this week, and four extra trucks and crews will be provided next week. Residents have been asked to pile rubbish in easily accessible places, and to notify the chamber of commerce office if they are missed in the pick-up or have trash to be hauled off.

Indiscriminate burning of trash and dead weeds and grass is not advised, because of the danger of fires getting out of hand. Only supervised burning off of vacant lots should be attempted, it was pointed out. And firemen pointed out that it is a lot safer to call for trucks to haul off trash than it is to set fire to it.

The recently chartered Jaycees this week offered to lend a hand in the clean-up campaign.

Winters Jaycees Told How They May Serve Community

Winters Jaycees Friday night were told that there are many ways young men can better serve their community and country. Richard R. (Dick) Wadsworth of Irving, state president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, told of the purpose and aim of Jaycee work at the charter banquet of the Winters organization.

"It is our challenge as young men of today to work to preserve the American way of life," the 31-year-old state president said.

Local and many area Jaycees were told that every quarter of the world is threatened today by communism. "Through clear thinking and steadfast leadership, communism can be stopped," Wadsworth said.

The state president said that a Jaycee club provides a vehicle to help young men to get where they are going.

"Cities are begging the Jaycees to give them community leaders," Wadsworth told the Jaycees, their ladies and guests. "People want those who will put courage into local government by serving in offices and executing policies consistent with the basic beliefs of integrity and efficiency."

Ernest Seals, vice president for region 5 presented the charter to the local organization and installed the officers.

Officers of the recently organized Winters Jaycees are James West, president; Franklin Milliff, first vice president; Johnny Wilson, second vice president; Jerry Whitlow, secretary-treasurer; and Lawrence Hennigan, state director. Club directors are Dalvin Ault, Jerry English and Weldon Huntsman.

Roger Babson Says

"The Days of the Passenger Trains Are Nearly Over; Few Passengers"

Babson Park, Mass. This column first warns readers that the days of passenger trains are nearly over. Several roads now operate only one passenger train a day; while passenger service is being cut by all railroads. This is further hastened by talk of railroad mergers. Let me give you some illustrations.

The Gravity Roads
The first recent important railroad consolidation was that of the Norfolk and Western and the Virginian Railway. These two high-grade roads did not need to consolidate for financial reasons. However, they both serve the soft coal fields of West Virginia, hauling coal to the seaboard at Norfolk, Virginia. Merger was thus very natural; in fact, the Virginian perhaps should never have been built.

I have been especially interested in the above two roads because they profit so much from Gravity, which readers know is a hobby of mine. Gravity not only enables the trains to "coast" down from the West Virginia mines, but Gravity also generates some of the electricity used in bringing the empty cars back. I believe Gravity will be a factor in many other railroad consolidations. At present, it is used industrially only in connection with water power. It surely will sometime be used for irrigation and small power requirements.

Baltimore and Ohio—Chesapeake and Ohio
One of the largest railroads is the Baltimore and Ohio; this road duplicates the service of the Chesapeake and Ohio. The two roads can be consolidated with considerable savings to both shippers and investors. If the I. C. C. gives a "green light," and if the stockholders of the two roads and other interested railroads agree, such a consolidation will take place.

The Chesapeake and Ohio stockholders now feel that the Baltimore and Ohio needs them, rather than vice versa; they believe the Chesapeake and Ohio stock is worth considerably more than the Baltimore and Ohio is offering in exchange.

New York Central Situation
Ever since the suicide of Robert Young, the New York Central has been a great disappointment to its stockholders. In view of the previous fight for control, most stockholders felt that the stock was very valuable and refused to sell it. This was a great mistake. (Incidentally, a proxy fight often affords a good opportunity for stockholders to take profits, as the price usually declines afterward.

In looking for a friend, the New York Central officials have flirted with the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Erie, but nothing concrete exists at the moment.

Florida Railroads
Negotiations between the Atlantic Coastline and the Seaboard have proceeded almost to the point of final agreement. There is no doubt but what the Florida East

State Fair To Show Use of Chemicals On Farms, Ranches

Agriculture Show at the 1960 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 8-23, will have as its theme "better foods through the wise use of agricultural chemistry."

The central exhibit which will be the focal point of the Agriculture Building at the State Fair will show the different ways agricultural chemicals are used on modern farms and ranches.

It will show how chemicals are used as fertilizers to make plants more healthy and increase their yield, as fungicides to treat seeds and soil, as herbicides to kill weeds and other unwanted plants, as insecticides, as pesticides to safeguard stored crops, and in animal health and nutrition to assure healthy livestock.

The exhibit will explain why agricultural chemicals are essential to the mass production of wholesome, flavorful, healthful and tasty foods in today's world. The specialized training required of farmers and ranchers in order to use such chemicals properly and wisely will be illustrated in the State Fair show.

In addition, district exhibits for all sections of Texas ranging from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande Valley will feature the crops and by-products that are raised in each region.

Crops and products that will be featured include wheat, soybeans, sesame and castor beans, grain sorghum, milk, livestock, cotton, wool and mohair, corn and oats, forestry, guar, peanuts, flax and broom corn, rice, citrus fruit and vegetables.

Coast should also merge with the above two roads.

Both the Atlantic Coast Line and the Seaboard are in excellent financial condition. The history of the Seaboard is, from an investment point of view, truly miraculous. Large amounts of money were made by the purchase of the Seaboard is, from an investment-reorganization. In fact, only directly after reorganizations do I buy railroad stocks.

Northwestern Roads
There is always talk of a consolidation of the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern, and the Burlington. At one time merger was almost certain, but it was stopped by a court fight that triggered the panic of 1907. There also is constant talk of merging the Boston and Maine, the Maine Central, and the New Haven; but no one now seems to want the New Haven. All of these New England railroads are "short line" roads which are being avoided by careful investors.

Railroad officials blame the I. C. C. for holding up these mergers. But the truth is that every consolidation means that certain officials, employees, and directors will be thrown out of jobs. The labor unions therefore insist on being heard, as well as certain of the small-town shippers. Such opposition, however, is largely motivated by personal selfishness rather than by consideration for the good of the nation as a whole.

Angie Dickinson Richard Burton and Barbara Rush star in "The Bramble Bush," Warner Bros. Technicolor film version of the sensational novel by Charles Mergendahl at the Fiesta Drive In Theatre, also stars Jack Carson and James Dunn.

Coming Attractions At Local Theatres

"Too Soon to Love"
Hollywood and its colorful surroundings added authentic backdrops to the filming of "Too Soon to Love," starring screen newcomers Jennifer West and Richard Evans, and opening Friday night only at the State Theatre.

Thirty-year-old film director Richard Rush took his cast principals and staff technicians to the following Southern California landmarks: the world-famous Hollywood Bowl, the exterior of Los Angeles High School where, incidentally, young Rush was a student; the downtown Los Angeles skidrow, a residential home in suburban West Hollywood, outside the Lost Angeles Tennis Club, home of the annual Southwest Pacific Tennis Tournament, and Malibu Beach, popular film and seashore community.

"Too Soon to Love" details the delicate tribulations of restless youth and was written for the screen by young Rush in collaboration with Laszlo Gorog. The new film is a Dynasty Film presentation for release by Universal-International.

"The Rookie"
"The Rookie," Twentieth Century-Fox's new laugh riot opening Saturday only at the State Theatre, is a comedian's movie in every phase of its conception. It was written by two top comedy personalities, produced by one directed by the other and features in its cast nine comedy stars. It's a tailor-made laugh film in which the comedy experts have been given full rein and it comes off as one of Hollywood's funniest comedies about servicemen.

Produced by Tommy Noonan, "The Rookie" also serves to introduce a zany comedy duo to films—Noonan and Pete Marshall. Moviegoers will see much more of them for this auspicious beginning marks the first of a number of productions scheduled by Twentieth Century-Fox to display their many talents.

The picture pokes fun at the army and Hollywood, at the same time, and utilizes innumerable funny sketches based on the story of a draftee who becomes the only rookie at a camp erroneously kept open and staffed after V-J Day just to put him through basic training.

"The Purple Gang"
"The Purple Gang," opening on Sunday only at the State Theatre, is a picture that hits America where it hurts.

Bringing to the screen the true story of the gunmen and racketeers who dominated Detroit for more than a decade during the prohibition era, it is a violent dramatization of the country's failure in dealing with its delinquent youth.

The Purples began as a teenage rat pack of the slums just after World War I, and the thesis of this Lindsay Parsons production for Allied Artists is that they could have been stopped in time. Coddled, instead, under the soft policy of social workers which tied the hands of police, they grew up to control the flow of illicit liquor from Canada, the dope traffic, gambling, and prostitution preyed on legitimate industry through the "protection" racket, and ruled the underworld with the machine gun. Many eventually died by the bullets of police or rival gangsters. In time, most of the others were sent to prison. A few were executed by the state.

Barry Sullivan is starred as Inspector William Harley, the tough-minded cop who hounds them from the beginning to the end of their bloody career. Elaine Edwards stars as his wife, who loses her unborn baby, goes mad, and dies when the gangsters try to intimidate her husband through her. Robert Blake has a costarring role as the leader of the Purples, and Marc Cavell portrays his chief lieutenant.

"The Bridges at Toko-ri"
One of the truly great war films of the Korean holocaust, Paramount's all-time aerial thrill-film, "The Bridges at Toko-ri," begins a return engagement Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fiesta Drive In Theatre. Starring William Holden, Grace Kelly, Fredric March and Mickey Rooney, the Technicolor bara Rush, Jack Carson, Angie Dickinson, James Dunn, Henry Jones and Tom Drake. It was directed in Technicolor by Daniel Petrie, prominent stage and television director, who is making his directorial film bow with this picture.

The picture deals straightforwardly with the scandals of a small Cape Cod town. The more controversial aspects of the story have been treated by director Petrie for their narrative value only and not for sensationalism.

"The Story on Page One"

Is justice always given a chance to triumph in the United States? Or are the cards legally stacked against the average citizen in our courtrooms? These are some of the grave, but often overlooked questions raised by Producer Jerry Wald and 20th Century-Fox in their new CinemaScope thriller, "The Story On Page One," starring Rita Hayworth, Anthony Franciosa and Gig Young.

Written and directed by playwright Clifford Odets, "The Story On Page One," opening Sunday and Monday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre, points out the inequity that exists today between the huge law-enforcement devices in the hands of the average District Attorney in the United States and the comparatively meager resources at the command of the average accused citizen.

In a large metropolis, for instance, there may be hundreds of anonymous people aiding the D.A. in his burdensome chore of proving the defendant guilty. Opposing this huge machine there are often only one or two people working for the defense. Many times a man or woman on trial for life can't even afford that much.

This is the powerful and arresting theme developed by Odets in "The Story On Page One."

List 15 Ways To Reduce Accidents On the Farm

You Mr. Farmer and Rancher, can help reduce accidents on the farm!

Mental alertness, safety consciousness, the ability to recognize hazards and a determination to eliminate them, and efficiency in all farm operations are more essential to safety in agriculture than many rules or regulations, says Sam Whitlow, president of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

However, for the sake of brevity, here are 15 good rules, which if followed, will help reduce the terrific toll of farm accidents, Whitlow points out.

(1) Keep walkways and steps in good repair, unobstructed and well lighted.

(2) Keep ladders in good repair and easily accessible in case of emergency.

(3) Always stop a machine before unclogging, oiling or adjusting it. Keep all machine guards and safety devices in place.

(4) Don't wear loose and floppy clothes around machinery.

(5) Start tractors smoothly and turn corners slowly—avoid ditch banks and soft ground—always hitch to the draw-bar.

(6) Speak to animals when approaching them. Keep THEM calm by acting with calm self-assurance YOURSELF.

(7) Always keep bulls in safe bull pens. Never handle bulls unless they are properly restrained.

(8) Know and obey all traffic laws. Stop driving if you get sleepy. Never ride with a driver who has had a drink.

(9) Keep your back straight and lift heavy loads with your leg muscles. Don't try to lift anything that is too heavy for you.

(10) Use the right tools for the job—make sure they are in good condition—keep them in a safe place.

(11) Give prompt attention to even minor injuries.

(12) Keep guns unloaded except when actually using them. Treat every gun as though it WERE loaded. And NEVER aim at anything you don't want to shoot.

(13) Don't use kerosene to start fires. Pour kerosene or gasoline outdoors to prevent the accumulation of treacherous vapors. Dry clean outdoors.

(14) Don't smoke around the barn.

(15) Never swim alone. Never dive into water without first determining the depth. And be careful around boats of any kind—never stand up in small boats.

An easy way to bewilder your wife is to underline a paragraph or two in each chapter of a sexy book, and then toss it aside with no comment, in the certain knowledge that she will pick it up for a casual look.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

Have you noticed the trend in outdoor fishing today? Nowadays, the little artificial lures are taking over . . . just the little cars are doing.

Just take a look at the assortment of lures. There are thousands to choose from, in varied colors and a multitude of shapes. You don't know whether the color will appeal to the women or the men — or the catch-em-fish effect. Anytime you can buy your artificial lure today in coal black or all black, in polkadot - black dots on white or white dots on black - a mixture of other colors.

You can buy them in solids and various shades of yellow, green, blue, chartreuse, orange, beige, tan, red, or what have you. You can buy them in white, black, or what have you. You can buy them in white, black, or what have you.

So, you can get them straight stick, or curved, or round, or in-between shapes - including cubes.

No matter what part of it is, they all fish. Some do it better than others - match. But we've never seen a lure yet that you couldn't get a fish on - of some size or color.

In fact, it's reported that one fish on the highland lakes was found with an empty beer can in its tummy. (Evidently a fish).

Nothing seems to discourage lure makers. Anglers too, for matter, because they buy up lures about as fast as man can make them.

Anyway, our hat's off to the manufacturers. They have a competition that a big white after a large school of shad.

And these bait boys really are their toes. Surely they must awake nights dreaming up shapes, sizes and colors of lures. And I imagine when they sleep they count lures in their heads.

How many lure manufacturers there are in Texas, but I'm certain that Texas has its share.

One of Texas' oldest firms is Bomber Bait Company of Mesquite. Another old-timer is Whopper Stopper of Sherman.

There's the Old English Lure Company of Corpus Christi, and Pico firm (Padre Island Company) of the same city.

Over in Houston is the Schucker Company, one of the few specialists in spoons.

Then there's the Hump Lure Company of El Campo. And the K Lure Company of Austin.

A newcomer in the field, Solmaster Bait and Tackle of Antonio.

Since Texas has a dozen more that we don't recall, or haven't seen or heard from. Anytime it's a thriving business that the bait boys operate, run by capable men, all keen fishermen as well as sharp idea men.

What's ahead for them? There's a new craze now. The trend is toward artificial worms.

It seems that these multi-colored, hook-imbedded, slimy-looking wigglers are the ones that are landing the lunkers.

So, today you can get artificial worms odorless, or you can get them perfumed. They have them tasteless. They have them tasteless. You can buy a mint-flavored worm, eel or tadpole. Or you can buy one that look and smell like a real worm.

And don't think for a minute that you have to slow-fish with artificial worms, eels or tadpoles.

It's true that you should if you're after the lunkers, way down deep. But we can say from experience that five straight fast and quick retrieves into the new era brought up three keepers: in black bass, with DeLong's worm licorice-flavored "Tad Poly," very small, tantalizing, artificial lure.

We returned the bass to their habitat to "grow up" - but it proved one thing - black bass will bite for that mimicking tadpole, and quickly, too.

On the other hand, we'll have to admit that the son, "Sandy," using a "Catch-Em-Quick" artificial worm, a white plastic job with black polkadots, pulled out nice four-pounder by fishing in the same area, slow and easy.

We're convinced that artificial worms, eels or tadpoles will take it. But, will all Texas lure manufacturers move into the artificial worm and eel business? I don't think so.

Why? First - because most of them don't want to. Second - they don't believe enough fishermen will master the technique of fishing with a plastic worm or eel.

Third - there isn't as much thrill catching a great big bass deep down as there is in watching one take a surface lure.

And - finally - it's a radical change-over from manufacturing the customary lures, to making the plastic worms, and it calls for another big and expensive investment in equipment.

Naturally, if the worm fishing craze continues to boom they will add worms to their lines and give greater encouragement to the idea. But most will buy ready-made and adapt to their own products.

You've seen the change in lures, from bigness to smallness, from wood to plastic, from drabness to colorfulness. Now, perhaps a new era has arrived - the heyday of the plastic worm.

Or perhaps we should say a return to the worm, which, after all, was perhaps the oldest bait known to man.

Hunt Season Will Be Set By Game Body

Setting up hunting regulations in counties under regulatory authority will occupy most of the time of the members of the Game and Fish Commission in their mid-summer quarterly meeting in Austin July 15.

Biologists of the Commission will meet in Austin three days in advance, tabulating recommendations following public hearings held in nearly 100 Texas counties during the past two weeks.

Generally, hunting and fishing regulations in those counties will be changed very little, according to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary.

"Biologists are recommending amending the regulations in a number of counties which will make the killing of spike bucks legal," Dodgen said. "Antlerless deer will include the killing of spike bucks as well as doe under the proposal. However, this will be just a recommendation of the field men and the actual administration must be done by the Commission."

Another important question will be liberalizing the dove season because of the increased number of birds apparent this year, he said.

It is possible hunters may get another 10 days of hunting in each zone, or an increase in the daily bag limit.

At a conference in Washington recently it was indicated there is a heavy crop of doves in practically every state. As a result, it was felt the law governing the killing of this migratory bird could be liberalized to permit extension of the season or increase in the season or increase in the daily bag or possession limit.

It also is expected the white-winged dove season will be set for three days in mid-September. Whether the hunt will be held on consecutive days or alternate days is still under discussion. Shooting would be permitted from 2 p.m. until sunset in the valley counties.

For the past three years shooting has been on alternate days, with a bag limit of 10 doves, either of mourners or whitewings, or a combination of both.

The Commission also must set next year's annual operating budget. The budget committee has been busy on the details of next year's operation for several weeks and the report will be ready for submission at the next meeting.

Authority probably will be given by the Commission for setting up the waterfowl season within an agreed bracket date. This will be subject to recommendations of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, on the basis of waterfowl counts now being made.

RAMBLING RAMP—Spiraling gracefully upward, this circular ramp was built especially for cyclists and pedestrians at Dusseldorf, West Germany. Much easier to ascend with a bike than the traditional stairs, the ramp leads to the lofty Dusseldorfer Rhine Bridge.

INDEPENDENCE CELEBRATION—Congoese citizens stage a colorful parade through the capital city of Leopoldville just prior to the formal granting of independence by Belgium.

VIOLENCE IN LEOPOLDVILLE—Police use rifle butts to prevent a tribe of natives from meeting a rival group in Leopoldville, Congo. Violence among competing political factions has marred the newly won independence of the African nation.

MISTAKE—After living with the "wrong" parents for her whole life, 17-year-old Gudrun Reuthe is the unwanted girl in a two-family fight in Hanau, West Germany. She was switched just after birth with another girl.

SEVENTEEN YEARS AFTER—Heldi Splithoff, 17, is shown with her "wrong" father in Hanau, West Germany. She was accidentally switched with another child just after birth by hospital attendants. Heldi says she wants to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Splithoff rather than go to her real father, school teacher Ernst Reuthe. The Splithoffs refuse to take back their real child, who grew up as Gudrun Reuthe.

In 1874, Chief Quannah Parker, son of the famous Cynthia Ann Parker, led some 700 picked Comanche, Cheyenne, and Kiowa warriors in battle against 28 brave frontiersmen and buffalo hunters in the Texas Panhandle.

He was defeated in this attempted "Alamo" style massacre by the small band of men that included the famous Bat Masterson and Bermuda Charlie.

This "Battleground of Adobe Walls" now rests peacefully just thirty miles north of Borger.

There are no dinosaurs in Texas, but we do have proof that the prehistoric monsters were here at one time.

Just travel twenty miles west of Cleburne to the town of Glen Rose, and you can see for yourself.

There you will find fossilized dinosaur tracks along the beautiful Paluxy River.

They have a fine specimen on exhibit downtown too.

You'll enjoy staying in Glen Rose, as it is a well-known vacation and health resort . . . famous for its mineral water.

At Texarkana, Texas, one of the major gateways into the Lone Star State, stands an impressive statue of James Bowie, one of the great men in Texas history.

On the monument are the words, "They never fail who die in a just cause."

Jim Bowie, for whom the Bowie knife is named, was one of the most famous of the valiant defenders of the Alamo who fought to make Texas free.

LaFitte's Grove is just 8 miles west of Galveston, Texas.

Established in 1817, this fort was the headquarters of the freebooter Jean LaFitte while he was pirating ships in the Gulf of Mexico.

This also was the site of the "Battle of Three Trees" between LaFitte's men and the fierce Karankawa Indians.

One of the world's largest meteorites lies about two miles west and six miles south of Odessa, in the far western portion of Texas.

The great meteor, a mass of iron, nickel and various other metals, rests 170 feet deep in a 10-acre pit.

This great visitor from outer space is estimated to have fallen to earth thousands of years ago.

Texas has been the home of many great and courageous men. A few words describing their feats often can imply the magnitude of their character.

Such are the words on a marker on the highway southwest of Llano, in Central Texas, which reads: "Enchanted Rock. From its summit, in the fall of 1841, Captain John C. Hays, while surrounded by Comanche Indians

Alfred J. Multer On FHA Committee

Appointment of Mr. Alfred J. Multer as a member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee was announced this week by John H. Curry, the agency's county supervisor serving Runnels and Coleman Counties.

Mr. Multer operates 400 acres of land near Olfen with cotton and maize as the main crops produced. Mr. Multer was recommended and selected because of his ability as a farmer and leader in the Olfen-Rowena communities. Mr. Multer was reared in this community and is well acquainted with the farmers and interested in their problems.

Two other members make up the 3-member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers' needs. The other two members are Thomas Egan, Jr. of Rt. 1, Ballinger and A. T. Williams, Rt. 4, Winters. Mr. Egan will serve as committee chairman during the next, or 1961, fiscal year.

Each member is appointed for a 3-year term. Mr. Multer succeeds Joseph F. Droll whose 3-year term expired this year.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agency's loan policies to conditions faced by farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible, different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

The Farmers Home Administration makes annual or intermediate term loans to farmers who need adequate funds to buy equipment and livestock, and longer term loans to build or repair houses and other essential farm buildings, and to purchase or improve land suitable for family-type farm operations.

It also advances credit to farmers or their non-profit associations to establish and carry out approved soil and water conservation practices, and to install and improve irrigation and farmstead water facilities.

who cut him off from his ranging company, repulsed the whole band and inflicted upon them such heavy losses that they fled."

Sam Houston was converted and baptised in Rocky Creek in 1854, 18 years before they built the Old Baptist Church that now stands at Independence, in Central Texas.

A monument stone on the bell tower by the church reads, "She sleeps within its sound." Reference is to Mrs. Nancy Lea, mother of Houston's wife. She donated her silver service to be melted into the bell.

The tower was erected with stones from the ruins of the original Baylor building. Judge Baylor's hearthstone is said to be included in the tower.

State Capitol Highlights

Hot Summer Days Find Little Action In State Capitol; Vacation Time

By VERN SANFORD
Things are rather quiet around the State Capitol these days. For one thing, it's the "off season," the hiatus that regularly occurs between state elections and the convening of a new Legislature.

For another, it's vacation time with a part of almost every agency staff off to forget it all for a time.

But mostly, for this week, the Austin lull stems from most people's suspenseful interest in the activity of Texans in Los Angeles. Gov. Price Daniel, vice chairman of the Texas delegation to the National Democratic Convention, and numerous others have been away for several weeks working in behalf of Sen. Lyndon Johnson's nomination for the presidency.

Despite these distractions state government goes on. Studies are under way on many subjects, on budgets, tax plans and other future legislation. It's important work, but quiet, during this digging and analyzing stage. It'll break into the news next fall as reports are made and trial balloons are run up on bills to be introduced in January.

Surest indication that state government is still on the job is that even now it's hard to find a parking place near the Capitol or the adjoining state office buildings.

During the summer a dozen or so parking slots by the Capitol's east entrance are set aside for tourists. As a rule, tourists don't keep them filled, and Capitol guards are regularly beset by the persuasiveness of local people who need a place "just for a minute."

NO TURNING BACK

Child adoption procedures, under Texas law, are about as final as the thing can be—more so than marriage or divorce.

Texas Supreme Court underlined this in a recent decision that denied the right to change her mind to a mother who had given written permission for her children to be adopted.

In the case at issue, the mother, a widow, gave written permission for her two children to be adopted. Two months later, having remarried, she sought to regain the children.

Lower courts held in favor of the natural mother, but the Supreme Court ruled that only fraud could be a basis for revoking of adoption consent.

Said the court opinion of the adoption laws: "The Legislature had the safety, education, care and protection of the children uppermost in mind and not primarily the contentment or welfare of either the natural or adoptive parents."

NO MISUNDERSTANDING

In another ruling involving adoption, the Supreme Court held that an adopted child could not inherit a trust set up for a direct descendant.

As a result, a four-year-old boy lost the chance to claim $830,000.

In the case originating in Dallas, lower courts had upheld the child's claim to the money from his late grandfather's estate.

In his will, the grandfather had instructed that the $830,000 trust be set up if "any child of my son is born after my death." High court ruled that this made it highly unlikely that the maker of the will intended the money to go to a child born to persons other than his son and daughter-in-law.

ROAD CLOSED

If Texas' truck licensing law had a loophole you could drive a truck through, the State Supreme Court has, in effect, halted the traffic.

High court ruled that a motor freight line cannot register and pay license fees on its trucks in Texas and use Mississippi licenses on its trailers. Texas' fee for a truck trailer is $226, compared to $10 in Mississippi.

High court ruled that if the truck line is resident in Texas, it must pay the Texas fee for the trailers, even if it pays in Mississippi, too. Result: $20,000 more taxes owed by the line in license fees to the State Highway Department.

OIL ON THE HIGHWAYS?

On the heels of a U. S. Supreme Court decision that Texas owns its tidelands 10 1/2 miles out comes a ruling that the state also owns the right-of-way along public roads.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that the state, not the county, owns the road right-of-way and that the counties cannot lease the land for mineral development.

Whether the state should exercise its right and lease right-of-way lands for oil and gas exploration probably will not be decided until the Legislature sets a policy. Involved is some 1,000,000 acres of land on 228,000 miles of public roads, some of it across areas with oil-bearing strata.

READING, 'RITING AND AND DRIVING

State Board of Education took a jaundiced view of a proposal of state-supported driver education in public schools. Plea for driver education, one of the main planks in Governor Daniel's program for increased traffic safety, was presented by Brad Smith, director of the governor's Highway Safety Commission.

"Driver education in the schools is the only way to reduce the flow of uneducated drivers into the stream of traffic," Smith declared. A statewide driver training program has been the goal of the huge Texas Federation of Women's Clubs for some years.

Board members said they felt the matter did not properly belong in a school curriculum. They declined to make a recommendation to the Legislature.

LEGAL TEST PROBABLE

Board of Education decided to consider again in September the dilemma of school districts which stand to lose their state aid money under terms of a 1957 law governing school integration.

Under this law, districts which integrate without approval in a local election automatically lose state aid.

Dallas and Houston schools are under federal court order to integrate this fall. Houston voters turned down integration. Dallas' election is set for Aug. 6.

State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar said he had written Houston and Dallas school authorities telling them their state aid would have to be cut off if they integrated without a voter mandate.

Board discussed seeking an attorney general's opinion on the problem, probably in September after the Dallas election.

Range Grasses Are Now Maturing Seed, H. Giesecke Says

H. Giesecke, Jr., of the Runnels Soil Conservation District board of supervisors, announced that range grasses are now maturing seed.

Range deferments at this time will allow the desirable grasses to make seed and increase, says Giesecke.

According to James Glynn of the local Soil Conservation Service, "Native range grasses only live for a few years." They are continually being replaced with plants coming from seed. When the desirable plants are not allowed to make seed, the inferior plants take over. In order to overcome this condition, rangeland should be rested for 60 to 90 days during the growing season about every third year. This will allow the desirable grasses to make seed and increase vigor, he says.

Fall deferment during August, September and October is desirable because grasses make a good seed crop during this period, Glynn said. This is also the season when plant vigor increases the most. Late deferments will also provide additional high quality forage during the winter months.

Glynn pointed out that deferments should be applied to the better pastures first, as they make the fastest improvement. Care should be taken to prevent other pastures from being overgrazed while resting one pasture.

There is nothing wrong with women that can't be corrected by masculine patience.

Lone Star Gas Has Lease Plan on Gas Air Conditioner

A gas air conditioning unit lease program, believed to be one of the first of its kind in the Southwest, has been announced by Lone Star Gas Company.

Lone Star feels the program will be particularly attractive to business establishments. Certain businesses may accrue tax and conservation of working capital benefits by leasing instead of purchasing equipment. The lease plan also is available to residential customers.

The program, offering two models of Bryant gas air conditioners, gives the lessee an opportunity to obtain summer comfort for a nominal monthly charge with no further concern of such items as maintenance, routine service or capital outlay, a Lone Star official said.

Lone Star chose to offer the Bryant unit as it permits installation with a minimum of disturbance to the customer's property. Bryant units are available in 3- and 4 1/2-ton models and are regarded as add-on units. Add-on units are installed outside a building thus requiring no floor space.

The lease term is for a 12 month period. The monthly leasing charge includes delivery and installation of unit, installation of concrete slab, necessary coils, water piping, thermostats and wiring. There will be no charge for service or replacement of any part on the lease equipment, the Lone Star official said.

In domestic guilt, such as forgetting an anniversary, a plea for mercy is sometimes effective, provided sincerity and abnegation are obviously not feigned.

What is True Security? is the subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson. Illustration: "In one of our American colleges, the dean's office discovered that a student had selected the same course in algebra for four years, although she passed the course the first time she took it. When the dean asked for an explanation, the student replied: 'I am so tired of arguing with my neighbors about everything in the world that I wanted to study something I could not argue about.' That student's answer expressed the human hunger of our day. Modern man desperately wants something in this perishable world that is secure and constant. Jesus gave us the solution. True security can be had only by a firm trust in God and in obedience to His will."

Essentials of Uniform Heating Revealed

There are eight essentials of uniform heating by which Winters residents may measure their home heating needs.

One of the most important of these essentials is fresh air heat," according to heating engineers of Lone Star Gas Company which is conducting its annual heating sales campaign in August and September during which special discounts will be given.

A good heating system," the engineers point out, gives positive, warm air circulation in every part of every room. Proper air distribution plus the addition of outside air minimizes staleness and stuffiness in a home. It aids also in controlling the amount of moisture released in a home by body heat and such day-to-day living habits as bathing and cooking.

In older homes this condition is controlled to a degree by air leakage around windows and doors. In newer homes, which have tighter construction and more insulation, normal outside air leakage usually is insufficient. But, in new central heating installations, provisions for adequate outside air can be made easily by providing a fresh air intake in the return duct system."

Lone Star engineers list the other essentials of uniform heating as follows:

A good heating system uses recognized quality equipment with years of proven performance.

A good heating system will be just the right size, give top performance during extreme weather conditions.

Good heating equipment has a sensitive control system and quick response to maintain uniform, accurate temperature.

A good heating system includes proper installation and location of adjustable supply registers and return air grilles for warm floors without over-heating at the ceiling.

A good heating system will operate economically.

A good heating system has the flexibility of equipment design necessary to fit your requirements and floor plan.

An integral part of a good heating system is adequate insulation of walls and ceilings to prevent heat loss and unnecessary expense.

Council Speaks Out On Pond Safety

The farm pond or stock tank has become a familiar sight in Texas. These ponds are important sources of pleasure and that indispensable commodity—water. Unless proper safety precautions are taken, however, these same useful ponds can become a source of tragedy, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

To emphasize the seriousness of farm pond hazards, the Safety Council points to a recent nationwide tabulation of causes of farm deaths. Texas ranked sixth in the number of deaths caused by drowning. This is one "Top Ten" list, they add, that Texas should not be on.

Anyone who has a pond or tank on his land should observe, and enforce, the following safety precautions. These measures could save a lot of grief, reminds the Safety Council.

Post safety instructions for boating, swimming and skating. Mark safe swimming areas. Place lifesaving devices such as ring buoys, ropes and long poles around swimming areas.

Do not allow anyone who cannot swim to get into the water.

Work To Free Runnels County Of Brucellosis

Runnels County is one of five West Central Texas counties which have been declared as Type II brucellosis areas by the Texas Animal Health Commission. Work will start in August and September, in Scurry, Throckmorton, Coke, Mitchell and Runnels Counties to get the areas free of brucellosis.

County Agent C. T. Parker said this week a hearing will be held in Austin on Sept. 12 regarding the work to be done to rid the area of the disease in cattle herds. It is unlikely there will be any protest against the program, the county agent said.

If the county is included in the program, agents of the Animal Health Commission will test all cattle herds free of charge. In herds of 100 or more, ten percent of the herd will be tested, it was pointed out.

Once the county is freed of the disease, sometimes called Bangs disease, cattle from contaminated

Beef Production Costs Studied

Research being conducted in East Texas by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station shows that it costs $99 per mother cow per year to produce beef, according to Tom Prater, extension farm management specialist. This $99 includes interest on investment, operator's labor, depreciation and all other annual costs, says Prater.

With each mother cow producing an average of 378 pounds of beef per year, the operator must receive slightly more than 26 cents per pound of beef produced if he is to break even, Prater points out. If the operator's labor charge is not included the cost is $82 per year. In this case, the specialist continues, the operator would be covering all costs if he received 21 1-2 cents per pound for his beef. This price would not, however, pay him anything for his labor.

Excluding interest on investment, the cost of production is $65 per cow. At a return of slightly over 17 cents per pound the operator would be receiving a fair wage, but he would not be receiving enough to cover any interest charges.

When labor and interest costs are both excluded, the annual cost is $47 per mother cow. This means that over a short period of time the operator could receive 12 1-2 cents per pound of beef produced and continue to operate. He would not, however, be receiving any return for labor and investment, Prater continues.

These costs indicate the items and factors that must be considered in operating a beef operation. They also indicate the necessity for good records and a constant study of the individual operation, Prater points out.

This information is contained in a master's thesis, written by J. E. Wright and based on Texas Agricultural Experiment Station data.

Crab Fishing Described In Fish Magazine

A child's future as a fisherman depends a great deal on the success of his or her first few fishing trips. At least, this is the theory of A. C. Becker, Jr. in his article, "Let's Go Crabbing," in the July issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine. "A couple of water-hauls," writes Becker, "and junior will suspect that those fish dad used to bring home came out of a fish market."

The author then explains why crabbing is the perfect way to introduce the youngsters to fishing. "Tackle requirements are simple and inexpensive, there's little know-how involved, and you can find crabs just about any place where there's salt water. Even if a child has ten thumbs, he can catch crabs — something edible that he himself caught and can be taken home for mom to admire."

A piece of string, a dip net, some meat scraps and salt water.

er are all that is required. "In no time at all," writes the author, outdoor editor of the Galveston Daily News, "junior will manage all by himself, feeling like a man. His interest will be thoroughly whetted for the outdoors, and before long he'll be graduating to more skillful phases of fishing."

Other articles in the magazine include a piece on the Golden Eagle; something on the importance of lake aquatic vegetation control; a glance at the Texas alligator situation; an introduction to the Aluminaut, a new underwater vehicle; a short but interesting story of the scissor-tailed flycatcher; and the history of a fish hatchery bass and her family.

When a man asks you what you think in respect to the general situation, you will know he wants to tell you what he thinks, and that you are in for it for an hour or so unless you can devise some way by which you can be called to the telephone.

Few are neglected any more; just about everyone is on the client list of the helpful agencies that bombard the listeners of radio public service programs.

Housewives Must File S. S. Reports For Workers

Many housewives in this area may be depriving their household workers of social security protection according to a joint statement issued by S. Baker Mallett, Administrative Officer of the San Angelo Internal Revenue office and Floyd B. Ellington, Manager of the Social Security district office.

"Workers' earnings are credited to their social security account from reports of their employers, and most of the employers," Mr. Mallett said, "faithfully report these earnings year after year." Some household employers who only recently hired household help may not realize their responsibility, and their employees, in particular, should make sure they are protected. The next quarterly report is due by July 31.

Postcard forms for checking your own account with social security are available at all social security offices and should be used at least every three years by all workers," added Ellington.
