HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Area viewers were offered a change of diet in programming during the past several days when KPAR-TV beamed — at least twice—a special hour-long program of college and university students displaying their talents in the entertainment field.

The film feature was made on-campus at many colleges and universities throughout the state, from the coastal county of Houston to the Staked Plains area of Lubbock. From the examples displayed on tv screens, there's a lot of talent in the State's schools of higher education.

Which, of course, gives an excuse to come to the point: The young people who performed before the cameras for that special were from widely separated places about the State, and from outside the State. But we wonder if there is another city the size of Winters that can boast of having at least two former students performing on a program among student artists from such a wide area.

Wesley M. Hays Jr., a senior music major at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, was a trumpeter in the "Brass Ensemble" representing that school on the program.

And Jerrel Elliott, a graduate of Winters High School, is one of a trio, "The Windjammers," representing McMurry College, Abilene.

Hays, a graduate of Winters High School, is the son of Mayor and Mrs. W. M. Hays of Winters. Elliott is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Elliott, former residents of Winters and now of Cisco.

(The Windjammers will be here for a personal appearance March 25. And there is talk of trying to get the Brass Ensemble from H-SU to come here for some kind of function.)

Good News To the City of Winters, Winters Public School System, Blizzard Booster Club, Winters Country Club, Winters Chamber of Commerce, and all groups working toward making Winters a better place in which to live:

RICHELIE'S BACK!
May we welcome Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Richie back to Winters. They recently moved back here from Abilene. He has retired after working for Humble Oil Company for many years.

The strength of this nation always has been in the unleashed energy and initiative of the millions of separate individuals. Without this initiative and the individual will of every man—or most men—to do for himself, this nation would never have gained the world prominence and stature it has enjoyed down through the decades. Conversely, this nation would merely have become a carbon copy of the nations—many of them decadent—from which our seeds have come.

However, during the past several years, there has grown a tendency on the part of many individuals and so-called leaders to debase the worth of individualism, and to attempt to compress the energy and efforts of all citizens into slightly woven mat of collectivism, with each man answering to the "state"—in this instance, a Federal central control—for each of his actions, and looking toward the "state" for sustenance in the absence of his own will to do for himself. This push for total central control and management of social as well as industrial capacities has been, and is being, made under the guise of seeking to gain for the individual his personal rights and liberties. It is being done for purely personal political reasons, mostly, by those who see a chance to grab a few more votes, with little recognition given to the basic thoughts of the framers of our system.

The idea is being advanced that no matter how little a man contributes to the general welfare, he is entitled to as much—or possibly more—of the profits as is the man who earns his own bread and contributes. This idea has grown until it has become a specter to haunt our thus-far successful system. It is dangerous and if allowed to grow will become not only the last straw but the complete bundle of straws which will break our backs.

WHS Students Take Merit Qualifying Tests

About 14 students of Winters High School took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST) Tuesday, March 1, Mrs. Lee Harrison, guidance counselor, announced.

The NMQST, a two and one-half hour test of education development, is the first step in the twelfth annual competition for four-year Merit Scholarships. Students who wished to be considered for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1967 were required to take the NMQST on that date.

All students' scores will be reported to their school before May 15, together with interpretive and guidance materials for schools and students. About 14,000 semi-finalists, the highest scorers in each state, will be announced Sept. 22, 1966. The names of the semifinalists will be sent to colleges and organizations offering financial aid to undergraduates. In October approximately 38,000 students who score just below the level required of semifinalists will receive letters of commendation for their high performance, although they will not be eligible to compete for Merit Scholarships.

Each semifinalist will be required to substantiate his NMQST performance on a second examination and submit certain biographical information in order to become a finalist in the competition. Only finalists are eligible to be considered for the Merit Scholarships financed by NMSC and sponsors. Every finalist will be awarded a Certificate of Merit for his outstanding performance in the 1966-67 merit program.

Finalists who win Merit Scholarships will be selected on the basis of school records and recommendations, test scores, extracurricular activities, leadership ability, and accomplishments outside the classroom. The awards range from $100 to $1500 per year according to the student's need. About three-fourths of the 2004 Merit Scholarships awarded in 1965 were sponsored by corporations, foundations, colleges, associations, unions, trusts of individuals.

Bids Asked For Two Retarding Dams In Valley Creek Watershed Project

The Board of Directors of the Valley Creek Water Control District is now advertising for bids for two more floodwater retarding dams in the Valley Creek Watershed Project, according to Hugo Vogelsang, president of the board. He said the bids will be opened for these two structures Thursday, April 7, at the Wingate office.

"When these two dams are completed," Vogelsang said, "we will have 10 of the proposed 20 build. This means the project will be half completed." He said necessary easements have been cleared for three more structures and advertising will be made for bids on these in the near future.

The project, when completed, will have a floodwater detention capacity of a little more than 18,000 acre feet. Vogelsang said this floodwater is automatically released through a pipe in the dam at a controlled rate over about a two-week period.

The board president said one of these dams now being advertised for bids will be on the Carl Gottschalk farm, seven miles west of Winters on FM Road 384. He said the dam will involve, among other things, about 45,000 cubic yards of compacted earth fill.

The other dam will be on the W. T. Talley farm about one and one-half miles north of Shep in the Taylor County portion of the watershed. This dam will have about 131,400 cubic yards of compacted earth fill.

The Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Program, under which the Valley Creek Project is being installed, is administered by the Soil Conservation Service. Woodrow Hoffman presently heads the local Conservation Service. H. N. Smith, State Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service in Temple, directs the program through local sponsoring organizations, such as the Valley Creek Water Control District.

Hoffman said that Weber McNeese, project construction engineer of the Soil Conservation Service, is the consulting engineer for the Valley Creek project, and R. C. Moore of the SCS is the site inspector for the construction of the dams.

Roger Babson Says—

Inflation Causes Prices To Advance Faster Than Worker's Income

Inflation
Babson Park, Mass. Inflation is in the air. Nearly everybody is talking about it. Only a handful of people know anything about it. And, unfortunately, those who claim to know are now busily disagreeing with each other as to how serious it is and whether something should be done about it or not.

What It Is
Old-school economists say that inflation is a climb in the money supplies of a nation greater than the increases in that country's output of goods and services. More or less humorously, it has been said that inflation is too much money chasing too few goods around.

Such definitions are undoubtedly correct, as far as they go. But what Mr. and Mrs. Consumer know is that inflation means rising costs for everything they have to buy. Furthermore, they have learned in previous periods of rapidly rising prices that the cost of food, clothing, rents, services, etc., has a nasty habit of advancing at a faster pace than their income. For all of us then, inflation is simply mounting prices and costs. The more rapid the spiral, the greater the hurt.

Why It Is Bad
Frustrating though inflation may be for the wage or salary earner, there is always hope that a raise may come along. Of course, the pay increase will never catch up with the zoom in prices and costs. But it does give hope of a catchup some day.

In inflation, however, . . . for the elderly, the pensioner, the thrifty saver of small means, . . . there is not even hope. This group has "had it," as far as being able to maintain the purchasing power of their savings or their income from pensions is concerned. Think of it—in the past two decades alone, the purchasing power of our dollar has been slashed by two-fifths! Those who retired at the end of World War II (and there are many still living) have had their visions of a comfortable existence as senior citizens rudely jarred. Some are in dire straits. But today's crop of older people is small contrasted with the big bulge in over-65ers who will be coming along in the next two decades. By permitting inflation to snowball now, we are assuring this increasing segment of our population that they will be afflicted with years of misery in the 1970's and 1980's.

THE LADY AND THE TIGER—Mary Chipperfield, a lady animal trainer, couldn't resist saying goodbye to Suki, a tiger, before taking her marriage vows. Mary married a circus performer and the two have settled down to manage a lion preserve.

The Breakout

1965 may prove a landmark in the inflation that now seriously threatens. For it was in that year that wholesale prices broke out of the long rut they had been marking from 1958 through 1964. In those seven years wholesale prices varied only a tiny bit; but last year they soared 3 per cent. And the pace appeared to be accelerating as the year closed and the new one opened.

Not to be outdone, the plodding advance in consumer prices—which had been climbing something over 1 per cent annually—suddenly spurred, racking up a gain in 1965 of 2 per cent. Worse still, our studies suggest that the hardship of this 2 per cent hike was much greater than the figures indicate; for meat, the big item in the housewife's food budget, rose over 13 per cent, with beef prices alone soaring double that figure.

Behind The Bulge

The behind-the-scenes spade-work for today's price spurts has been long in the making. The great moving force has been mushrooming credit—at historic rates and quantities. Then take wage increases above productivity gains, Uncle Sam's continued budget deficits, more spending abroad than foreigners spend here, . . . and you have a pretty good formula for inflation. But if you add the jetspurt of spending for Vietnam (for things that will be thrown away), you have a super-duper concoction for a nation-rocking economic blowoff.

Can Anything Be Done?

Our prescription for the avoidance of inflation and its grim consequences is more spiritual than economic: Avoid greed! The greed of business, the greed of strong unions, the greed of politicians seeking votes at all costs, . . . these greeds combine to push us closer to the inflation precipice. Each group must ask itself: Is it good for the country? Certainly not: Is it good for me? The nation is at war, and sacrifices should extend behind the lines of battle. For the duration, more taxes and less affluence may save us all from great woe later.

Emotions And The Stock Market

Babson Park, Mass. Last June 10 in this column we stuck our neck out and predicted that the Dow-Jones Industrial Average would "reach at least 1,000 in 1965." Furthermore, we then forecast that the May 1965 high of 939 on the Dow would be exceeded by Christmas. We were "right as rain" about new highs before Christmas. But we missed the puncturing of 1,000 by a hair's breadth. However, we still stick by that forecast that the Dow Industrials will soon record a closing figure above 1,000.

Pessimism Rampant Last June

In June when we took our optimistic stand, pessimism was thicker than a London fog. Stocks were being heavily sold and the averages tumbled almost daily. Between mid-May and late June the Dow Industrial Average crashed roughly 100 points. Many professional analysts turned bearish. Followers of the ancient "Dow Theory" method of projecting the course of stocks proclaimed that we had entered a "bear" market.

The country last June was going through a real case of war jitters. Many columnists were full of dire forebodings as to what would happen to our soldiers in Vietnam when they were attacked by the wily Reds under cover of the torrential monsoon rains. Fears of what the Russians and Chinese might do were heard everywhere. There was a growing disposition to write off our war effort before it had really begun.

Mind Over Matter

Since that great wave of gloom in June, almost every statistical indicator of our economy's health has soared to new heights. And, after some wobbling in July, the stock market climbed almost straight up to new all-time peaks. Those who felt back then that the tumble in securities was predicting a recession have lost a lot of faith in the market as a prophet for the economy.

The really big lesson to be learned from what happened in the late spring of 1965 is the overpowering part that emotion plays in determining the actions of businessmen and investors. Last June the prospects of jungle fighting stirred great fears. Within a very few months, however, expectations of an even bigger war aroused deep worries over inflation; and the people who had dumped stocks six months earlier rushed to buy them as a shield against inflation. Then, the emotion of greed took over. Buyers flocked into the market to get some of the profits others were piling up in stocks.

After 1,000, What?
Although we are convinced that the 1,000 mark will be scaled by a wide margin before long, we are even more certain that sometime this year an event will occur that will once more sharply change the emotions of stockholders. Of course, we are not saying that stock prices are governed by emotions alone. We realize that any big drop in profits would see stocks going much lower. What we have in mind today are those sudden "out-of-the-blue" breaks such as we experienced last June and in 1962.

Whatever the cause for the next shift in emotions, be sure of one thing, . . . it will come suddenly and unexpectedly. Hence, when the Dow soars above 1,000, don't be carried away by the wave of rejoicing. Keep your investment feet on the ground and a good reserve of quality bonds and savings books in your safe deposit box.

The Things We Say

By Ruby Shannon

Any time a person in some profession attempts to perform without being adequately qualified or trained, his critics may speak of him as being "half-baked."

The expression is not complimentary; but at times it seems that we have to put up with a lot of half-baked individuals, especially in professions where the demand exceeds the supply.

The expression "half-baked" came about because all baking used to be done at home. Mothers taught their daughters and these daughters in turn taught their daughters exactly how long to leave the pastry in the oven so that it would be crisp and not fall.

Daughters, being what they are, sometimes experimented for themselves. If the cake looked done, they opened the oven door. If it was not done, it would fall and be ruined, for rebaking would not put the bounce back.

When school dropouts get into the labor market, they often find that they are only "half-baked" and thus need more education; and quite often it is too late to go back and get it.

Congress (HR 8282), to "establish a new permanent Federal program of unemployment adjustment benefits for workers who meet certain requirements, and prescribe minimum unemployment benefit standards, which the States must meet." The bill, if passed, would take from the hands of the States the power to control unemployment compensation, and hand it over to a Federal bureaucracy. But it goes much deeper than that. It would encourage the dissolution of individual initiative by way of offering a man compensation even when he is physically able to work and there are jobs to be had. It would allow a man so inclined to work perhaps six weeks, quit for no reason, and receive compensation while he loafed for as long as 52 weeks! It has been pointed out that HR 8282 proposes to add 26 weeks of Federal unemployment benefits presently provided, and would require every State to pay unemployment compensation to those who, without good cause, had voluntarily quit their jobs. Fifty-two weeks of assured compensation, plus an open invitation to quit whenever the mood strikes. The results are obvious!

One proponent of the bill has shed crocodile tears because "Workers are hired and fired to meet production requirements of the employer, not to merit unemployment—compensation tax bonuses." (Cong. Record Aug. 25, 1965.) As if the necessity to meet production requirements is not what industrial enterprise is all about in the first place! If the standards proposed by HR 8282 do become law, the benefit provisions involved would probably cost billions of dollars more than present compensation programs, and employers—who have always paid the bill—would be saddled with the increase. And it would necessarily have to be handed down to the one who eventually pays, the consumer. The increase in tax payments could mean the difference in a company remaining in business or folding—to put more men out of work.

No one in his right mind denies the necessity of unemployment compensation—under the right circumstances. But to make it possible—and inviting—for a man to receive compensation for doing nothing when there is work to be done would be, to borrow a phrase which has been overworked of late, regarding another matter, like "putting a fox in a henhouse."

When thus far free men allow themselves to become pawns of the political security seekers, they already have lost most of their freedom.

As It Looks From Here

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

The Small Business Administration was obviously created to assist small business. Probably there has been more lip service paid to assisting the small businessman than about any other group in our economy, unless it is the "family-size" farmer. Just about everybody seems to be for the small businessman, and most of us have contended for years that he is the backbone of our economy.

Yet, when it comes to individual cases, it seems there are a lot of reasons given for not assisting him. Under the trends of bigness, the large gets larger and the small disappears. This is happening in agriculture and in small business because volume does not afford competition and, consequently, not enough for a living.

Urbanization is having its effect too. It appears now that the greater part of small business loans are going into the large Eastern cities with less attention being paid to the moderate-size cities and towns, which, again, we say should have the principal benefit. The Department of Agriculture, originally the voice of the farmer, is now concerned with its "image," and serves about as many city people as it does those engaged in agriculture. Certainly there is reason to give attention to consumers, because we are all consumers. Since there are many more consumers than there are producers, the 1965 Agriculture Yearbook carries the title, Consumers All—and, incidentally, it is an interesting publication. The point is that not all activities of the Agriculture Department are aimed at farmers any more. In its own way, every Department of Government is concerned about city support.

There has been pressure to Merge The Small Business Administration with the Department of Commerce. This agency has the job of administering a portion of the Poverty Program, and out of $28 million appropriated for administration, all but approximately $10 million has been spent on salaries, but very little has gotten to the places intended. Out of 73 applications for Small Business Development Centers in the five States of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico, and four have been approved. Out of approximately 15 applications filed in Texas alone, only one has been approved, at Aspermont.

Not Only Is Big Government Difficult To Fathom but small operators are being lost in the shuffle and communities, and even States, are having their responsibilities assumed by the Government, which causes it to be still bigger.

A New Power Is Forming Between Big Government and the biggest United States cities. Within this structure, another kind of authority takes place within the Federal Government itself. This is the kind which results in putting together unrelated departments, such as was done under the Eisenhower Administration to form the Cabinet rank Department of Health, Education and Welfare, H.E.W., as it is called, is a hodgepodge of activities, and only the most far-fetched argument would support the idea that the United States Public Health Service, the Office of Education, the Social Security Administration, the Food and Drug Administration, and a myriad of other activities have any business being included under one wing.

Last Year Another Department Was Created with Cabinet rank, known as the Housing and Urban Development Department. Its activities will be pointed primarily towards large city problems, such as transportation, housing, health and hospital care, and recreation. It is not a question of these being good things—the question is that the Federal Government is taking over the responsibility for it. The concentration of power in Washington is like a magnet. In reverse, its assistance in any broad scope, even if desirable as a system, is becoming more and more woefully deficient.

In Case There Is Any Question about Federal power, consider these available actions—

(1) Instructing all government agencies not to buy from companies that increase prices over suggested guidelines.

(2) Waging a campaign to spur public resentment against price and wage increases. This will be done by publishing figures on how price or wage increases will raise the cost of consumer goods.

(3) Releasing materials from government stockpiles to force down prices if they are hiked above suggested guidelines.

(4) Encouraging imports to reduce prices through competition.

(5) Withholding public funds called "incentive" payments, which simply means "You won't get it if you don't do it."

Mrs. J. Stevenson Died Here Sunday, Funeral Monday

Funeral services were held Monday at 3 p. m. from the Winters Church of Christ for Mrs. Jim Stevenson, 85, who died Sunday morning at 7:15 at her home following a heart attack. Officiating was Willis Jernigan, minister of the church. Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery under direction of Spill Funeral Home.

Mrs. Stevenson died on her husband's ninetieth birthday. She had been hospitalized the past three weeks, but had gone home from the hospital Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Stevenson was born Dasy Cunningham Dec. 19, 1880, at Chulifin, Ala. At the age of five she moved with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cunningham, to Bell County, Texas. Two years later they moved to Ellis County, where she lived until her marriage to Mr. Stevenson Dec. 26, 1897. Following their marriage they moved to Hollis, Okla., where Mr. Stevenson filed for land homestead, which filing was originally signed by Theodore Roosevelt, who was then vice president of the United States.

In 1914 the family moved to a farm in the Wilmeth Community in North Runnels County. They continued living on the farm until 1959 when they moved to Winters.

Mrs. Stevenson had been a member of the Church of Christ for more than 70 years.

Survivors include her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Ira McNeill of Winters, and Mrs. Kirksey Coates of Abilene; four grandsons; 14 great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Hickie Sheid, Mrs. Ella Plummer, and Mrs. Fannie Harbin of Hollis, Okla. A son, Edsall, died in 1943.

Pallbearers were Luther Gideon, George Beard, Mord Tucker, J. C. Eager, Grover Davis, John S. Brown, Jess Shipman and James Brown.

Elvis Presley is involved in two romantic entanglements, one with Mary Ann Mobley (left); the other with Fran Jeffries in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Harum Scarum," a scintillating comedy-drama with an Arabian Nights setting. The color attraction is highlighted by swashbuckling adventures and a lot of new Presley songs. It was directed by Gene Nelson.

★ MOVIES ★

"Revenge Of The Gladiators,"

Spectacular drama, filmed on a giant scale in Technicolor and Techniscope, on vast locations with thousands of players and involving both romance and the conflict of powerful protagonist, has always intrigued and entertained moviegoers, and the new Paramount release, "Revenge Of The Gladiators," showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre is no exception.

The extravagantly staged, action-filled picture, set in the Roman Empire as it existed in 73 B.C., stars Roger Brown, Italy's sensuous Scilla Gabel and Gordon Mitchell in a dynamic tale of seething unrest among the downtrodden masses of Rome and their bid to remove the shackles of oppression that bind them.

Filed where it happened, in the historic settings that once was Rome, the film recreates an incredible chapter in the mighty drama of the Roman Empire.

"Living It Up"

There is a veritable cavalcade of singing and dancing in the Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis Technicolor comedy "Living It Up" which is due to show Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

The music in "Living It Up" was composed by talented tunesmiths Jule Styne and Bob Hilliard and these melodic moments are perfectly blended into the picture along with the unbridled buffoonery that is dished out by Martin and Lewis.

"Harum Scarum,"

Elvis Presley's legion of fans will see the most action-filled and laugh-loaded Presley film of them all with the showing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Harum Scarum," a tongue-in-cheek romp set against an Arabian Nights background, with Elvis cast as a modern-day Rudolph Valentino type of hero surrounded by beautiful harem maidens and up to his neck in derring-do.

When you watch Elvis wrestling with a lion in a wonderful film-within-a-film sequence, or galloping across the screen on a fiery Arabian steed, engaging in swordplay, hurling himself over precipitous rooftops and routing an army of villains, you'll see him in a rollicking, rambunctious, red-blooded role of a genre he has never played before.

"Harum Scarum," shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre.

Fort Davis is a name well known to mule deer hunters everywhere.

It is in the Fort Davis area of Texas that the largest mule deer are found.

There is a reason, too. It is high country, surrounded by tall mountains and deep canyons. The valleys usually are verdant pastures of good grass. Browse on the sides of the mountains afford wonderful deer food.

Fort Davis itself is a small, quaint western town, with only a few residents, except during the summer months when many tourists go to the area because of its historic background.

Now that group of tourists will increase, because Fort Davis has become a national historic site, established by the Department of Interior.

It is one of 18 such national historic sites, Uncle Sam, through an act of congress passed several years ago, acquired 447 acres of land from private interests. This resulted in perpetuation of the few remaining buildings, and restoration of others.

Fort Davis was established as an army post back in 1854. At that time ownership of the property was claimed by John James, a San Antonio surveyor. The fort was constructed as an outpost to protect the Texas frontier and early travelers heading west for California.

It was named after Jefferson Davis, secretary of war. Seven years later Davis became president of the Confederacy.

Following the Civil War the fort, which had been surrendered to the Confederate troops in 1861, was reactivated and reconstructed, on land leased from James. Buildings were of stone and adobe. Some of them still stand today, although portions of the roofs and walls have fallen.

Not too far away is the well-known Indian Lodge, operated as a state park. And only a short distance beyond is the famous McDonald Observatory, where scientists of the University of Texas and Yerkes Observatory study the moon and the stars. But all the land between is a verdant game paradise.

Besides the mule deer, there are whitetails. Antelope play on the prairies and a few mountain lions are known to hide out along the high walls of the canyons.

Between Fort Davis and Kent on U. S. 80 West, there are a few head of buffalo on the Reynolds ranch. It is a great country for blue quail and a few wild turkey of the Rio Grande species.

This is an ideal area for hunting with a camera. Rockhounds also find many interesting formations in the upheavals that made the mountains.

So, whether you hunt wild game in season, or are content to just look at the beauties of nature, you'll enjoy a visit to the Fort Davis Country. Ample accommodations are available at Alpine, Fort Stockton, Marfa and other places in the area. Or, if you are lucky, you may find a place in one of the small motels of Fort Davis, or even the Indian Lodge.

ELDON MAHON
... Candidate For Congress

Eldon Mahon States Views In Congress Race

Eldon Mahon, Abilene attorney and businessman, has issued the following statement concerning his candidacy for the office of U. S. Congressman from the 17th District:

"I feel that there is a definite need for a change in our district's representation in Washington. If I didn't feel this way—and if I had not found a substantial amount of agreement among voters with whom I've talked—I wouldn't be making the race.

"My reasons for feeling that we need a change are based on my belief that our district has not always been represented in the past with the kind of initiative and enthusiasm I think is required to get the results our district needs and deserves.

"Since announcing my candidacy originally, I have personally visited all twenty-four counties of the new 17th district and have been extremely gratified by the widespread support and encouragement I've encountered. There appear to be many who feel as I do that it is time for a change.

"If elected, I will start working immediately upon my arrival in Washington to be assigned to those committees which deal with the problems directly affecting our new district and in this way endeavor to get something concrete accomplished for it.

"The scope of action is now in the national Congress. We of the new 17th district must make our voice heard in Washington, stronger than it has been in the past. We need a representative who is truly concerned with the new 17th district's needs, one who will listen closely to all the people, then champion their interests in an aggressive, effective manner. If elected, I intend to be that kind of Congressman.

"Although I have been a Democrat all my life, I will not be a 'rubber-stamp' Congressman for the Administration's programs. Nor on the other hand, will I be a rubber-stamp opponent of measures that mean real progress... saying 'no' automatically each time a worthwhile new proposal comes up.

"I believe that too much control of our government's affairs has passed out of the hands of Congress, and into the hands of the regulatory and administrative agencies. This authority, which has been lost by default, must be reclaimed by the Congress. The trend of surrendering authority to agencies and commissions—who are supposed to administer the laws instead of make them—should be halted. I think it is time that Congress recognize this usurpation of its power and authority for what it is: government by bureaucracy. When Congress loses its authority, then the people lose theirs, for Congress is the voice of the people.

"One of my most important objectives is to get something done about our district's water situation. There is no greater problem facing the new 17th district than the need for adequate water, now and in the future. I will work for and support any feasible legislation that promises to create greater water resources for our area. Such legislation is a must, because we don't have enough water as it is, and to neglect it further would be to compound a tragedy. The problem is of such magnitude that it is going to require great study, imagination and vision to solve it. I, for one, am ready to begin.

"Farming is another area in which something must be done that would be of direct benefit to our district. I believe that the present Omnibus Farm Bill places too much authority in the hands of the Agricultural Department and its Secretary. A glaring example of this is the arbitrary policy ruling by the Department which changes skip-row planting in such a way that it works a great hardship on most of our district's farmers. If elected to Congress, I will start working at once to get skip-row planting rules amended so that our farmers can again engage in the kind of farming that is most productive and profitable for them.

"The oil and gas industry is, of course, vital to all of us in the district and - as a Congressman—I would support legislation aimed toward putting it in a healthier condition. Oil and gas is a prime business—an indispensable business—and contributes heavily to the welfare of the district. I am in full accord with the 27 1-2 per cent oil depletion allowance, and would resist any measure that would seek to change it.

"As to my position on government spending, I might point out that I have always been opposed to excessive federal spending, and see no excuse whatever for the kind of waste in government that we have tolerated in the past. There is no justification for deficit spending except during times of national emergency. These are prosperous times and it is now that we should be paying the national debt, rather than creating more of it. After all, if we don't pay off our debt during good times, when do we pay it?

"Regarding Viet Nam, I will always support an unyielding stand against communism, and I feel that there is no other tenable position for us to take in Asia than that which the President has taken. We simply cannot afford to be soft toward an ideology that has set out to destroy our own way of life. At all times, of course, I believe we should keep the doors open for possible negotiations that would bring about a peaceful solution to open conflicts such as we have in Viet Nam. Our goal there is to stop aggression on the part of the communists toward a peaceful people who have every right to seek their own destiny."

Mahon is running for the congressional seat now held by Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson. He is a native of Lorraine, Texas, son of a pioneer West Texas family, and a graduate of McMurry College and the University of Texas.

A former District Judge and District Attorney, Mahon is a partner in the Abilene law firm of Mahon, Pope and Glandon, and is a partner and general manager of radio station KVMC in Colorado City, in addition to maintaining farming interests in Mitchell County, Texas. His wife is a registered nurse, a graduate of Kendrick Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Abilene, where they own their own home.

Mahon is on the board of trustees of McMurry College, is active in the Chamber of Commerce, the Lions Club and many other civic organizations, and is an overseas veteran of World War II.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation to every one who has helped us so much during Frank's illness. Especially to those who helped in so many ways during our stay at Temple in February, for the cards and letters that brightened each day to remind us that the folks back home were concerned and thinking of us, for the many gifts of money, for the flowers and the love offering from the Friendly Fellows Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church.

We want to express our appreciation to the men for plowing and putting our land in such good shape for the spring planting and to those who served the lunch. Words cannot express just how deeply we appreciate each kind deed and thought. Your prayers, visits and phone calls are such an inspiration to us. May God bless each of you is our prayer.
