the police, report a fire, or call an ambulance, what number do you dial? In Winters, to call the police, you dial 754-4121; to report a fire, 754-4222; to call an ambulance, 754-4511.

But . . . if you are average you don't remember these numbers right off. Then you are forced to quickly look up the particular number in the telephone directory, and then dial; or dial "O" for the operator. All of which takes time . . time which can mean disaster in Most of us, when making an emergency call, probably would dial "O" for Operator, and report the emergency. This, too, can be time-consuming. Not because the operator would not put the call through immediately, but because of the heavy line traffic the operators are confronted with. Many times it is a comparatively long period

There is an answer to this perplexing problem. There presently is a system being used in some localities, according to an article in a recent magazine, which can be used nationwide, if the people really want it. Speaking further of television commercials, we know a local housewife who is provoked at one which shows a lady dressed and looking as if she had just stepped from a band box preparing breakfast, the aroma of which arouses her sleeping husband who comes to the kitchen all bright-eyed and eager. Our friend says that commercial should not be allowed: "No woman looks that pretty that early in the day. If allowed to continue, it might give our husbands the idea that we ALL should look that bright and chipper early in the morning!"
