HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The liberal number of awards won by FFA members and other young people of the area in recent livestock shows about the state serves to focus appreciation on the value of organized agricultural training. It is quite appropriate, therefore, that the week of February 21-28 has been designated Future Farmers of America Week in Texas, because the special week of recognition comes at a time when most livestock shows are completing their runs and interest is at an annual peak.

In designating the special week, Governor Preston Smith pointed out that the "Future Farmers of America organization is playing an outstanding role in assuring the future progress and prosperity of our State and Nation. . . . The importance of agriculture in our State increases as Texas progresses. It is vital to our well-being that we train skilled farmers and distribute farm products. The FFA is composed of students who are studying vocational agriculture in the public schools in preparation for careers in farming, ranching, and related fields. In studying the science of agriculture, these Future Farmers are striving to continuously improve this great industry for the welfare of all citizens."

We all realize, of course, that some of those students who are studying agriculture and livestock production, and are members of FFA, will not continue for lifetime careers farming and livestock raising, and that many of those others will not continue even in related fields. Those who do will find the road much easier because of the education and experience they have received. Those who choose other fields of lifetime work, however, will be forever richer because of their association with agriculture through FFA. For FFA and the study of agriculture offers an excellent vehicle for training, no matter what line of endeavor a young person may follow in later years.

Because, regardless of the importance of all other industry to the welfare of this nation, agriculture remains basic, without the produce of the land itself, all others would be abstract. If a young person, during his school years, can grasp the importance of this basic industry, he can more easily equate the reason and success of other fields to agriculture. It is training upon which no actual value can be placed. FFA is a training field for leaders in agriculture. . . but equally as important, it is a training field for leaders PERIOD.

Our Bluff Creek friend says those people who think they know everything provoke those of us who do.

It was bound to happen! If you are an arrowhead hound, and love to poke around ancient Indian campsites in search of tips, you'll have to make a report (we don't know how many copies) if you find anything worthwhile. And, as we understand it, if you do any extensive digging in search of some prizes, you'll have to have a permit!

According to the rules of the State Antiquities Committee, charged with regulating exploration for historic treasures in the state, any person or group seeking to excavate or salvage an archeological or historical site must obtain a permit from the Committee, and must be supervised by a trained archeologist. Findings must be recorded. The average arrowhead hunters are exempt from obtaining a permit, but will be required to make reports of their discoveries.

8076 Bales In

Up to Tuesday noon, 8076 bales from the 1969 cotton crop had been ginned and brought to the Winters Warehouse from North Runnels gins. Only a scattering of bales remains to be stripped.

Windup of harvest has been later this year than in many years. Ras Gideon, manager of the Winters Warehouse, said harvest this year has been the latest "I can remember. I know it is the latest since I have been with the warehouse."

GLACIER QUEEN — Brenda Hill, freshman, Bobby Wood, sophomore, and Debra Carroll, senior. A page in the Glacier, the high school yearbook, will be devoted to the Queen. Other candidates were Patricia Alderman whose terms of office expire this year are Homer Hodge Jr., W. L. (Bill) Bean and Bill Byrns.

Spill was associated for many years with his father, the late August Spill, in operation of a Spill Machine Shop. He operated the business until a little more than a year ago when it was leased to Aviation Industries, and he became plant superintendent.

The City election will be held Saturday, April 4, in the City Hall. Hans Gerhart will be election judge. Deadline for filing for the office of alderman is 30 days prior to the election.

CHAMPION—A meaty Angus steer shown by Rex Marks of Winters produced this reserve champion carcass over all breeds at the 1970 Fort Worth Stock Show. The 915-pound steer produced a 546-pound carcass that graded USDA Choice with 12.1 square inches of loin eye and .3 inch of fat cover. The carcass sold for $650 to General Motors of Fort Worth. Rex is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Marks of Winters.

Charlsie Poe's Book To Be Published Soon

Charlsie (Mrs. George) Poe of Winters has written the "History of Runnels County." The Naylor Company of San Antonio, which will release the book within a few weeks, announced that the book will include a large collection—36 pages—of rare photographs.

Mrs. Poe spent eight years in research on material for the book. Runnels County was named for planter-legislator, H. G. Runnels, and was created in 1858 from Bexar and Travis Counties, and was organized in 1880.

Mrs. Poe has been a feature-writer for the Abilene Reporter-News, has had several articles published in magazines, and is a regular contributor to The Winters Enterprise. She wrote many of the articles appearing in the special edition of The Enterprise on the occasion of Winters' 75th anniversary in 1965.

Mrs. Poe is the author of "Angel To the Papagos," (Naylor), a remarkable, true story of the Arizona frontier.

Cornerstone Will Be Removed Sunday As Demolition of U-M Church Begins

An informal ceremony will be held at 5:30 Sunday afternoon for removal of the cornerstone of the United Methodist Church building, as demolition of the structure was started this week.

Planning to participate in the removal of the cornerstone is one of the men who took part when the stone was laid by the Winters Masonic Lodge in 1924. N. C. Hinds was master of the local Masonic Lodge at that time, and will be present Sunday when the cornerstone is removed. The Rev. Glenn C. Bowman, pastor of the church, will be in charge of the ceremony.

There is an air of anticipation concerning contents of the cornerstone on the 46-year-old building. There are several people in the community who were present when the cornerstone was put down, but no one is sure just what was put in the repository. The Rev. Roy Crawford, retired Methodist minister, said he was present during the ceremony in 1924, and remembers only that there was "a Bible, and some other papers."

The Cornerstone was laid by Winters Masonic Lodge No. 743, and is so inscribed. Officers of the Lodge at that time, whose names are engraved in the stone, were N. C. Hinds, worshipful master; Carroll Spangler, senior warden; J. T. Curry, junior warden; and E. B. Huntsman, secretary.

On the other face of the cornerstone is inscribed the date of organization of the church, 1891, and date of erection of the building, 1924, with the names of A. D. Porter, P. E., and P. T. Stanford, P. C.

Methodist Service In Presbyterian Church Sundays

Regular Sunday worship services for the Winters First United Methodist Church will be held in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church during the next several months, while construction is underway on the new Methodist Church building.

The Rev. Glenn Bowman, pastor of the church, said only the Sunday morning worship services will be held in the other church building. Sunday School will meet in the educational building and a part of the old church building which will not be torn down, he said. Sunday evening services will be held in the parlor of the old church building, he said.

Members of the Methodist congregation have been removing furniture and equipment from the church building for the past several days, and the building was to be released to the contractor Thursday of this week and demolition of the old building was expected to begin immediately.

Only part of the old building will be torn down; a three-story section on the rear of the present building will remain, with the new sanctuary construction tied onto that.

Contractors expect to complete construction of the new building by Thanksgiving, it was understood.

Hiway 83 ROW Work To Begin

Several deeds for extra right-of-way footage which will be required in the project to widen US 83 (Main Street) have been forwarded to the City of Winters by the State Highway Department, Buford Baldwin, City Secretary, said this week. The City now will begin negotiations to acquire the extra footage. Baldwin said it is expected that additional deeds will be received within a short time.

The State Highway Department has spent several months in surveying and appraising the footage needed for the project, and is now preparing deeds to be released to the City.

The City of Winters will purchase the land. Appraisal was made by the Highway Department. Necessary funds for the City's share of the costs were raised through sale of bonds some time ago.

It is not known just how much additional land will be required for the widening project, nor in what areas, Baldwin said. This will be made known when the Highway Department submits final plans and deeds for the project.

At a regular meeting of the City Council Monday evening, City officials discussed with a Fort Worth contractor the removal of the north water storage tower, which must be moved or taken down when the highway widening project begins. No final action was taken. The City also is making plans for re-location of electric line, phone

In other business Monday night, the Council discussed construction of a sewer line from Winterhaven Addition on the east edge of the city.

The Council also authorized increasing liability insurance carried by the City, in compliance with the tort claims act. The increase will be from $50,000/$100,000, to $100,000/$300,000.

Hans Gerhart has been appointed by the City Council to serve as election judge for the City Election to be held April 4.

If you are a retired couple, own your own home and take in $3,940 a year, consider retiring in Austin.

According to a new Bureau of Labor Statistics study, the Texas capital city is one of the areas in which retired couples can live for the least amount of money.

Non-metropolitan areas in the South were among the lowest cost areas.

The bureau instigated the study to find living costs so pre-retired couples could know what to expect when they retire, whether to seek council and how to plan income for retirement, explained Minnie Bell, Extension specialist in aging at Texas A&M University.

An intermediate budget which was $3,940 and a higher budget at $5,803 were formulated also. Costs do not include gifts and contributions.

WASHINGTON, DC. — The classic type of inflation is caused by too much money chasing too few goods. In the present situation, goods have been in plentiful supply but as related to the availability of money over the last several years, a part of the inflationary pressures are still of the usual type. The Administration has now defined its economic policy but price increases have not responded to the extent that was hoped for by the application of the surcharge tax and the tightening of credit. The public response to these efforts has simply been lacking.

In statements of the last few days, the top fiscal advisors to the Administration indicate that tight money will soon be relaxed to some degree, which would in turn ease interest rates. This action is anticipated to prevent too sharply a downturn in the economy while prices remain high.

There is considerable desperation in trying to meet the continued rise in the cost of living. The question is will every group continue to push with all its economic muscle for higher prices and wages. Because of this assumption, some conclude that the spiral can not be broken without wage and price controls and that as a consequence the country might just as well expect this limitation on its free economy.

The least that can be asked is that before the specter of a strait jacket on a free enter-

Winters Art Guild Showed Paintings At Lions Club

Several works of artist-members of the Winters Art Guild were on display for viewing by members of the Winters Lions Club Tuesday, as members of the Guild presented a program for the organization.

Mrs. Gerald Walker, president of the Guild, pointed out several of the paintings, and Royce Phillips of Bronte, associate director-instructor of the Guild, explained the types of paintings displayed and the categories they represented. Displayed were a landscape and a still life by Mrs. Walker; a portrait of her nephew, a marine and an abstract by Mrs. E. E. Thormeyer; a marine and a portrait by Phillips.

Mrs. Walker explained that the Winters Art Guild was organized about a year ago, for the purpose of giving local artists an organization through which they might work and study painting. She said that painting offers a vehicle of self expression for anyone. Members of the Guild work in oils, watercolors, charcoal, pastels, pencil and ink. Instructor for the Guild is Frances Walker of San Angelo.

The Art Guild is planning an art show to be held in the spring. The organization has a studio in the Thormeyer building at 108 South Melwood, and meets for group and individual instruction each Tuesday at 5 p. m. Several works are on display at the studio and the public is invited to visit.

Also present for the Lions Club program were Mrs. E. E. Thormeyer and Mrs. M. D. Johnston, members of the Guild. M. D. Johnston was in charge of the program for the Lions Club.

prise system looms too big, executives, union leaders and others who make decisions that are pushing wages and prices skyward, take a long hard look at what is happening. The shipping industry is an immediate case in point. While there are proposals to build many new merchant ships at a subsidized price of $7 billion, ships are laid up in Eastern ports at the present time and others are going to foreign registry which can operate more cheaply. At this very time, ships are entering Eastern seaports without tugboats because of a strike. Obviously there is not much point in building more ships under these conditions.

The essence of freedom is to live and let live. A society can exist only by some means of maintaining order and balance among its competing elements. When voluntary restraints are thrown to the winds, the choice is between chaos and tyranny. Evidently too many groups of various interest and individuals who have reaped varying degrees of affluence during the inflated period of the last several years, are intent on making a killing while the opportunity is good. The trouble is that the "killings" pursued toward the same general end at the same time, threaten to destroy much of what has been accomplished in our normal economy by competition in reasonable price and by rendering superior service.

Real prosperity can not come to the country by raiding the value of the dollar. A free enterprise system keeps reasonable values in balance—that is income against costs. The amount of our individual income is only half measure of how well off we are. The other half is how much our income will purchase in goods and services.

It will indeed be a sad day for America if finally we have to admit to ourselves that the only way to stop this mad flirtation with a whirlwind is to surrender our economic freedom to a bureaucracy of Government which will call the tune.

AUSTIN—A sharp cut in welfare and medical assistance payments, to be effective April 1, was announced by the State Board of Public Welfare.

Board said the unprecedented increase in assistance rolls, the decrease in federal medical aid funds and the constitutional spending ceiling required an average $11 a month cut in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program and a 20 percent slash in Medicaid.

Board member Louis R. Sarazan of Fort Worth said there is no alternative.

Sarazan and board member W. Kendall Baker of Houston warned that further cuts may be in the offing before the end of the fiscal period next year.

Board ordered the lowering of AFDC payments from 75 percent to 66 percent of budget needs. Average AFDC family now draws $120.37 a month. Reduction would reduce this to $109.54.

Earliest and loudest protest come from Texas nursing home operators who claimed Medicaid outlay shrinkage would put 95 percent of them out of business.

Texas Nursing Home Association termed the situation of "crises" proportions and urged Gov. Preston Smith to take immediate action to summon lawmakers into special session for emergency appropriations.

Texas Medical Association charged the federal government has "promised more than it can deliver" in the health care area and is, in effect, asking providers of services to take a loss.

LAND PROGRAM FOLDS

Texas' 20-year-old veterans land program has folded. Through it more than 41,000 Texas veterans had purchased land under low-interest, long-term-pay provisions. It was a victim of high interest rates.

Veterans land board said that since the prime interest rate has been raised to eight and a half percent, veterans' bonds, with a constitutional four and a half percent ceiling, simply could not continue to attract investor capital.

More than 1,000 applications on file will be processed, but no more can be accepted until the interest-rate-bind eases.

COURTS SPEAK

An insurance company can be required to foot the damage bill for accidents that occur before a policy is actually written—if the contract already had been made without either applicant or company knowing of a loss, or an impending loss—the Supreme Court has held.

Supreme Court told a Dallas trial court that it should not have granted summary judgment against a couple suing General Motors Corporation on a claim that a faulty balljoint unit on a pickup truck caused an accident in which a woman was injured. Trial court held there was no defect.

In a divided verdict, the High Court held that Austin contractors cannot collect another $17,000 which all parties agreed is due them over and above the $864,888 contract for library and science building additions at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

Third Court of Civil Appeals held fast on its January 21 ruling invalidating the Alcoholic Beverage Commission's proposed tough rules for private drinking clubs, including guest card restrictions.

ANTIQUITIES RULES

State Antiquities Committee, charged with regulating those who dig for historic treasures in the state, has set its rules and issued its first permit.

Rules require that any person or group seeking to excavate or salvage an archeological or historical site obtain a permit from the Committee. Supervision by a trained archeologist, recording and publication of results and a scientific manner of working are the major points stressed in the rule.

Committee deleted from its rules a proposal that beachcombers and arrowhead hunters would have to get state permits. They will, however, be required to make reports of their discoveries. Explorers would be required to stop work immediately once a permit is cancelled.

First permit went to the Lower Plains Archeological Society for a salvage project at Big Spring. West Texas State University has agreed to sponsor the project.

APPOINTMENTS

Marvin Shurbet of Petersburg was named chairman of Texas Water Development Board by Governor Smith.

Smith also announced these recent appointments:

COLLEGE MONEY

Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System has voted to cut back on requests for increased higher education funds.

Board adopted a four percent faculty salary increase for the 1972-73 biennium. But this was below the 7.9 percent increase recommended by the Board's staff and the 8.1 percent increase requested by the institutions.

Staff asked for $206.3 million more for state senior colleges over the biennium, apart from salary increases. Board approved $166.8 million in additional funds.

STATE KINDERGARTEN

Texas Education Agency has begun working out the details of setting up state-supported kindergarten programs in all Texas public schools. Last Legislature authorized implementation of the program in a stair-step approach over the next seven years, with underprivileged children having first chance.

TEA said the major problem is finding 1,500 kindergarten teachers for the 1970-71 school year and 7,000 teachers by 1977-'78. They estimate it will cost the state $10 million the first year to implement the program.

JOB PROJECT LAUNCHED

New public service careers project seeks to open job opportunities in government to disadvantaged Texans and upgrade skills of state employees.

Governor Smith asked 12 key state agencies to cooperate, emphasizing a mutual policy of non-discrimination regardless of racial backgrounds or sex.

U. S. Department of Labor training funds are sought for Texas.

Smith expressed concern that over one fourth of the state's employees are separated from their jobs each year, while the positions remain vacant for months and half a million Texans seek work opportunities.

DEMOS TO MEET

State Democratic Executive Committee will meet in San Antonio March 9 to certify names of statewide candidates for the May 2 primary ballot.

Committee will also:—Decide the hour and place of the September 15 Democratic state convention.

—Establish a ratio for the number of delegates from each county or senatorial district convention to the state convention.

—Select site and hour for a May 12 SDEC meeting to canvass the first primary results and consider any other business.

SHORT SNORTS
Texas Restaurant Association has dropped the name "waitress" from its vocabulary and designated 1970 as the year of the "sales hostess."

Texas Education Agency received a $52,000 federal highway safety grant for evaluation study of driver education programs.

Former House Speaker James A. Turman of Gober took over as statewide campaign manager for U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

New cigarette tax increase provided $3.1 million more last month than in January, 1969.

"King of the Grizzlies." Seemingly, there is no film project that the Walt Disney nature photographers cannot tackle. And proof of this fact is the dramatic motion picture adventure feature, "King of the Grizzlies." This thrilling story of one of the most feared and dangerous creatures that man has ever faced with a camera at close range was filmed against some of the most spectacular and breathtaking scenery of the Canadian Rockies, the grizzly's domain.

"King of the Grizzlies" is the moving tale of an Indian who sees represented in the great bear Wab, all the power and wonder of nature. Forced to hunt down the animal who has been raiding the cattle of his rancher employer, the boy, Moki, is given an assignment he cannot bring himself to fulfill, for there has developed a strong spiritual bond between the two. How this touching drama is resolved makes for one of the most colorful film stories ever produced.

Grizzly Story... Shorty (Hugh Webster) tries to put distance between himself and Wab, a giant grizzly, who has surprised him while putting up a fence in Walt Disney Productions' adventure feature, "King of the Grizzlies." Not being able to outrun the beast he drops to the ground and plays dead to hopefully discourage the bear's further interest, as it comes in for a close look at its prey. Seeing that the motionless body is no threat to him, Wab buries him under a pile of mulch. In color by Technicolor, "King of the Grizzlies" was produced by Robert Lawrence Productions and Canary Productions Limited for Walt Disney Productions. Directed by Ron Kelly and produced by Winston Hibler from the book, "The Biography of a Grizzly," by Ernest Thompson Seton, the dramatic adventure feature is released by Buena Vista Distribution Company.

"Camelot"

After a year of international success as a roadshow screen presentation and winner of three Academy Awards, the Warner Bros.-Seven Arts multi-million dollar Technicolor presentation of "Camelot" shows Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre for the first time at popular prices.

Against the spectacular backdrop of Arthurian days, stars Richard Harris as Arthur, Vanessa Redgrave as Guenevere, Franco Nero as Lancelot and David Hemings as Mordred create an electric excitement in the poignant and personal musical romance-adventure.

Cherry Pie: Planning a cherry pie for Washington's Birthday? The canned or frozen cherries you purchase for your pie have followed a busy schedule since they were plucked from the tree and until they arrived at your grocer's.

The procedure for cherries that end up in delectable desserts begins when the delicate fruit is harvested—often by machines which shake the cherries from the trees.

Cherries fall onto a canvas catching frame, are elevated into tanks of cold water and taken to a processing plant. Cherries are very delicate fruits and must be handled quickly and carefully to prevent serious damage. The most critical period in the life of a newly picked cherry is its first two hours of freedom. During this time, friction, a temperature over 60 degrees or pressure, can cause injury which would affect appearance and quality.

At the plant, cherries pass through machines where small immature cherries and any remaining leaves and stems are removed. There may be some hand sorting for blemished cherries, but in most plants, this operation is now performed by ingenious, lightning-fast machines which pick up each cherry and move it through a bank of electronic scanning eyes which locate and remove cherries with spots or similar imperfections.

The next procedure is mechanical pitting—unique process in which rows of steel needles deftly push the pits through the cherries, with little damage of them. After the cherries are pitted, they are packed in the containers in which they go to markets.

But this is not the end of the story for red tart cherries. About 80 percent of the pack of frozen and canned cherries is inspected for quality by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. This is a voluntary service paid for by the user. For processors who request this service, an inspector with the C&MS fruit and vegetable division is stationed in the processing plant to check on preparation, processing and packaging operations. After processing is completed, the inspector examines the end product and certifies its quality or grade.

U. S. Grade A tart cherries are almost perfect. They are plump, bright red, firm and virtually free from defects. Lower grade cherries are not as uniform in appearance and other characteristics as Grade A. In most years, as a result of careful handling and processing, the major portion of the entire United States tart cherry pack is U. S. Grade A.

When the cherries go out into the world, they follow different routes. Some are canned, usually in water. A small amount is packed in cans for retail sale, either as a water pack or as a prepared pie mix which you may buy for use in a cherry pie. The rest of the canned pack is sold to bakeries for use in pies, turnovers and other tempting cherry desserts.

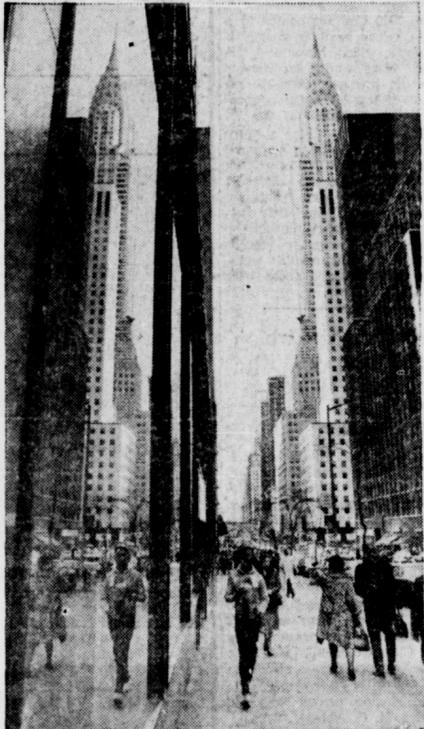

The second route is a cold one. These cherries, usually packed with sugar, are frozen. Some few are packed in syrup for the retail trade. The major part is for commercial use.

FU Members Say
Farm Program
Must Be Saved

WASHINGTON, D. C. — If major farm programs are allowed to expire at the end of this year, disaster will follow in the rural economy, a Fly-In group of some 260 farmers from eight states told members of the House and Senate here early last week.

"The Farmers Union has worked with 25 other general farm and commodity groups to develop the coalition farm bill. This bill—the Purcell bill—is co-sponsored by more than 50 members of the House and Senate. It is not all that Farmers Union believes is needed, but it provides the framework on which Congress can build an improved, long-range program," said Tony T. Dechant, national president of Farmers Union.

"Time is running short and we can no longer wait for an Administration farm bill. Members of Congress will have to go ahead and take the initiative and our coalition farm bill gives them the vehicle with which to start," he said.

"A year ago, they were telling the farm groups to get together. We did," declared Dechant. "Now, it is time to move the next step from coalition to consensus. One by one, the possible alternatives have been examined and rejected and the Coalition Farm Bill stands out as the one alternative which is broad in scope and would bring about a measurable improvement in farm prices and income."

Jay Nanan, president of the Texas Farmers Union, warned against either elimination of parity as a basis for farm support levels or making the farm programs entirely discretionary with the Secretary of Agriculture.

The 65-member Texas delegation headed by Nanan met with ASCS Administrator Kenneth Frick to protest a 13 percent reduction in "projected yields" of cotton. The meeting was called by Congressman George Mahon of the 19th Congressional District of Texas.

A group of rice farmers in the Texas delegation also protested the reduction of rice acreage allotments for 1970.

The grassroots lobbyists also urged restoration of advance payments in the 1970 farm programs, inclusion of a strengthened food stamp program in the farm bill and a rollback of the currently excessive interest rates.

Other issues on which the Fly-In delegates worked were approval of the Senate version of the G. I. education bill, now nearing a House-Senate conference; reduction of the premium fee in the voluntary doctor care part of the Medicare program, now scheduled to go from $4 a month to $5.30 a month on July 1; an increase in the minimum monthly benefits under the Social Security program to $100 a month for individuals and $150 a month for couples; and an increase in federal aid to education to help alleviate the tax burden on local property taxpayers.

In a session at the Department of Agriculture, the Fly-In group met with Secretary Clifford M. Hardin; his executive assistant, E. F. Behrens; Carl Farrington of the ASCS; Andrew Mair, specialist on international trade; Joseph Haspray of the Farmers Home Administration and Jon Greeneisen of the Farm Credit Administration.

Also the Fly-In members were given a briefing at the U. S. State Department, by Irwin Hedges of the Food-For-Peace program and Alfred Riefman of the Bureau of Economic Affairs.

New Camaro On Display Feb. 26-27,
Waddell Chevrolet

A totally new "second stage" Camaro will go on sale in Chevrolet dealerships on Thursday, February 26, John Z. DeLorean, division general manager, has announced. The new car will be on display locally at Waddell Chevrolet Co.

"Innovations in design and engineering make the new Camaro different from any car now offered," DeLorean declared.

"Its new long hood, expensive looking body and highly improved handling, ride and sound isolation create a completely new car. It is well equipped to become the sales leader among all small sport cars."

DeLorean called the car "a significant second stage" in the concept of a personal, four-passenger package of excitement that has drawn 6500,000 Camaro buyers since introduction in 1967.

The 1970 Camaro comes in a single 2-door hardtop model. It is longer, wider, lower and has wider front and rear treads than the previous Camaro but continues the highly maneuverable 108 inch wheelbase.

Wide choice to tailor a Camaro to a customer's personal taste is continued. A Rally Sport version includes a different grille and front end treatment while Camaro SS and Z-28 versions include higher performing engines and special chassis components. Chevrolet's multitude of options and accessories are also available.

Safety Council
Looking For Rural Texas Hero

Texas is looking for a rural hero!

This person will receive the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council's Rural Heroism Award during the Texas Safety Association meeting March 23 in Dallas. The award is presented annually to a deserving person, living in a rural community of 2,500 or less, who has risked personal life or injury in performing a heroic act.

While it specifically honors one individual for exceptional bravery at a time of crisis or disaster, the safety program points up this highly important objective: the continuing need for improved safety conditions in our rural areas—at work, at home and at play.

The award may go to a person credited with pulling another from a flaming building, saving a drowning person or any other feat of heroism. Anyone knowing of the performance of such an act during the past twelve months is urged to submit a nomination for this important award.

Nominations should include a narrative of the heroic incident, giving complete details. It should include the names of all persons involved, and should be accompanied by clippings and pictures if they are available. The award recipient will be chosen by a panel of judges, based on the material submitted by the nominee.

Civil War Widows
May Be Eligible for $50 More Monthly

The Veterans Administration recently completed interviews with some 450 Civil War widows on its rolls to see if they might not be eligible for the $50 extra monthly pension provided those who require the regular aid and attendance of another person.

A total of 437 such widows now receive the VA's "aid and attendance" allowance compared to 110 before the interviews.

The United States provided for payments to disabled Union veterans and widows in 1861-62. Confederates were added to VA compensation and pension rolls in July 1958 and today 51 percent of the widows on the VA rolls are from the South.

Widows of Union and Confederate soldiers range in age up to 107.

The last Confederate veteran, Walter W. Williams, Houston, died December 19, 1959, at the age of 117. The last Union veteran, Albert Woolson, Duluth, died August 2, 1956, at the age of 109.
