HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Because Sunday, June 21, is Father's Day, and because of the tediousness of the times and the recent Supreme Court ruling which practically leaves to the discretion of each individual whether he is to be drafted into the service of his country, the following, written by the late General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, seems appropriate. Additional comment would be unnecessary:

"A FATHER'S PRAYER"

"Build me a son, O Lord, who will be strong enough to know when he is weak, and brave enough to face himself when he is afraid; one who will be proud and unbending in honest defeat, and humble and gentle in victory.

"Build me a son whose wishes will not take the place of deeds; a son who will know Thee—and that to know himself is the foundation stone of knowledge.

"Lead him, I pray, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under the stress and spur of difficulties and challenge. Here let him learn to stand up in the storm; here let him learn compassion for those who fail.

"Build me a son whose heart will be clear, whose goal will be high; a son who will master himself before he seeks to master other men; one who will reach into the future and yet never forget the past.

"And after all these things are his, add, I pray, enough of a sense of humor, so that he may always be serious, yet never take himself too seriously. Give him humility so that he may always remember the simplicity of true greatness, the open mind of true wisdom, and the meekness of true strength.

"Then I, his father, will dare to whisper, 'I have not lived in vain.' —Douglas MacArthur.

Well, along with many others, we climbed out on a limb several weeks ago, burdened down with our "guessimates" regarding the population growth of our hometown. Along came the Bureau of the Census—apparently they hadn't got the word—and neatly sawed, chopped and trimmed said limb from under us, leaving us in an undignified position in the dust. Apparently we failed, as did many, to recognize that a city can experience "growth" and yet lose in population. Incongruous, yes, but we undoubtedly failed to realize that when a new house is built and an old house is not torn down it doesn't necessarily follow that the population is increasing. There's all kinds of ways for this to happen.

But we figured back in March, that just because there were a lot of houses here which did not exist in 1960, there just had to be a population increase. We figured about 20 new homes built in Winterhaven Addition since the last Census; several in Parkview, and in Skyline Addition; besides several about town. In addition, there have been houses moved in from the country, to increase living facilities. We also used a "growth indicator"—water connections as a base to make our prediction. 1960 connection count was about 1000, according to the City, and had grown to about 1175 in 1970. In 1969 alone, seven new houses were built in Winters. Too, the City Limits were extended in some instances. Also, the Texas Almanac's estimates for Winters' population for 1970-71 was 3,501.

We grabbed onto all these "indicators," and climbed the tree, predicting that, in spite of an expected drop in county population, that the "City Limit" population of Winters for 1970 would be 3,500, give or take 25! We even went so far as to guess that including the people living in adjoining additions, but not legally in the City Limits (they are not counted), the population count for Census '70 would reach 4,500!

We did admit, though, back in March, that we'd climbed out on a limb until the official figures were published. It didn't seem shaky at the time! Know what? We'll probably climb out on the same limb in 1980!

Operation In Cambodia Saved Lives, According To Senator John Tower

"The fact is that the Cambodian operation has hastened the time when we can minimize our involvement in Southeast Asia and eventually become completely disengaged from any combat activities there. In the long run, the operation has indeed insured a saving of American lives."

This was a positive statement by Senator John G. Tower in a news release last weekend following a tour of Southeast Asia.

Water Dept. Is Planning Projects

The Water Department of the City of Winters is planning several water and sewer projects, Department Superintendent W. D. Waggoner told the City Council Monday night.

The department is planning additional water and sewer lines to be installed in Skyline Addition, on the northeast edge of town east of Parkview Addition. Also, Waggoner said, plans are underway for a new sewer line on Trinity Street in northeast Winters.

The new sewer line has been completed to connect Winterhaven Addition, on the Novice Highway, to the main system. Residents of that addition may now make arrangements to connect to this line.

Water Department personnel also have been painting some 200 fire hydrants in the city, and have done some repair on the earthen dam of the Old City Lake.

In other business Monday night, the City Council authorized purchase of a new pickup by the Electric Department.

Water Tower To Come Down Soon

Contract probably will be let soon to dismantle and remove the old water storage tower in the north part of town, Buford Baldwin, City Secretary, said this week. Low bidder on the project has been tentatively selected, he said, but a few formalities must be completed before the contract is let.

Removal of the water tower is necessary to make room for widening North Main Street (US 83). It would not be feasible, according to City officials, to relocate the tower because of its age and condition. The Council is presently studying proposals to erect a new tower to replace the old one.

The old north tower has been out of use for about two years, Baldwin said, and removal of the structure will make no difference in available water pressure. The old tower had a capacity of 50,000 gallons. The south water tower, which is much newer, has a capacity of 100,000 gallons.

Population Here Drops By 471

Winters, along with most other small cities in the state, experienced a drop in population from 1960 to 1970, a preliminary report issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, indicates.

The final 1960 Census listed Winters with an official count of 3266. The preliminary report for the 1970 Census, taken in May, indicates that the population of Winters now is only 2795, a drop of 471 from 1960.

Released figures for Runnels County indicate that the county lost about 3500 people in the 10-year span, with Ballinger the biggest loser, from 5043 to 4018. Miles had a gain, from 626 to 632, according to the figures released.

The indicated drop for Winters is in line with what has been reported for most other small cities in the state. Colorado City experienced the greatest drop in population for area cities, from 6457 to 4915.

Many officials of cities in this area and throughout the state have expressed disappointment in the preliminary figures, and local counts have been instituted in some localities. There are some indications, it is reported, that some people were missed in the May count, and when this information is compiled the final count may show some change, however, it is not expected that the change will be significant.

In Winters, The Chamber of Commerce published an appeal to those who may have been missed for some reason to report. Some reports have been forwarded to the Chamber office, and this information will be forwarded to the district office of the Bureau of the Census, it was stated.

The final official figures must be submitted to Congress by December 1. In 1960, there was about a 1 percent gain in the final figures over the preliminary count.

Were You Yonder

When Roll Called Here

Reports coming in to the Winters Chamber of Commerce indicate that there were some people away from home or inadvertently missed when the 1970 Census takers made their rounds here during the first of May.

Were you one of those missed? If so, the Chamber of Commerce would like to know about it. Just call 754-5210 if there is some doubt that you were included in the count.

Preliminary reports from the Bureau of the Census indicate that Winters lost in population during the decade from 1960 to 1970. Although most people are accepting the reported figures as being "pretty near right," there are indications that some were missed in the count. These are the ones the Chamber of Commerce are interested in, so that the Bureau of the Census can be notified.

1970's Wheat Practically "In Barn" As Harvest-Weather Holds Locally

The 1970 wheat crop in this area is practically "in the barn," with the fast-paced action of the past few days rapidly grinding to a halt.

This week will see most of the wheat harvested with only a few fields left to be covered. In fact, according to grain men, harvest already had slowed to a dribble the first part of the week.

Harvest-time weather has been most favorable this year, with no moisture falling to drive combines out of the fields during peak of the cutting, an unusual situation when compared with many previous seasons when rains halted and prolonged the field work.

Although reports indicate there were not as many acres in wheat in this immediate area as have been planted in previous years, production will at least equal and perhaps surpass other years. Per-acre production has been very good this year, too, it has been reported. Also, there was some loss to hail and high winds in some communities—in some cases for the third year in a row. Otherwise, this has been a good small grain year, grain men and farmers say.

J. C. Jarrell, agent for Abilene-Southern Railroad, said Tuesday 120 cars of wheat (120,000 pounds each) have been shipped by rail out of Winters so far this year. He expects the total to hit at least 150 cars. Every day last week, during height of the season, trains of grain cars left Winters daily; this dropped to every other day this week, Jarrell said. In addition, much wheat has been shipped out by truck, and some has been put in loan storage.

ASCS Lists Some "Final" Dates For Farmers

In a recent bulletin, the County Committee, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, listed several dates farmers should note in planning.

July 1 is the final date to apply for new wheat farm allotment, according to the bulletin. July 10 is the final date to aerial spray mesquite, and August 1 is the final date to certify cotton, feed grain, and diverted acreage.

Runnels County producers also were reminded that early compliance and early certification will mean early payments. Producers should certify compliance as soon as possible. The date certified is the final farm disposition date, it was noted. Producers were reminded to certify correct acreage, because once acreage is certified it cannot be adjusted. Also, diverted acreage can not have cotton, feed grains or sweet sorghum growing on it when certified, it was pointed out.

The bulletin also stated that June 10 was the normal planting date for cotton in Runnels County and July 15 for feed grains. If weather conditions are such that farmers cannot plant, or if crops are destroyed after the planting date and farmers want to plant some other crop, approval must be received in writing and the land must be inspected before another crop is planted.

Regulations differ considerably on planted and destroyed and never planted acreage. If either condition exists in an operation, farmers are urged to check at the county office for detailed information.

The county ASCS office will be closed Friday, July 3, in observance of Independence Day.

★ MOVIES ★

"Funny Girl"

Just a few short years ago, Barbra Streisand was an ambitious young woman in a fever to become an actress, who daily "made the rounds" on Broadway. Meeting only callous rebuffs from casting agents oblivious to her talent, Barbra "gave up" the theatre. She determined "they" would come to her; she would make it on her own.

Now America's leading female singer and a major star of Broadway and television, Miss Streisand marked her motion picture debut by winning the Academy Award as Best Actress of the Year. She stars with Omar Sharif in the film version of her Broadway hit, "Funny Girl," the William Wyler-Ray Stark production, a Columbia Pictures and Rastar Productions presentation in Technicolor and Panavision. "Funny Girl" is now in general release, at the State Theatre.

Lake Thermoclines Are Misunderstood

Lake fishermen hear about it every summer. But most of them go on fishing, unconcerned. What is a thermocline, anyway? Veteran anglers with lots of lake savvy can turn the thermocline into an advantage in fishing. Others it hurts. Thermocline is a layer of water which tends to separate the warmer mass of water near the surface from the cooler mass in the depths. But the thermocline's effect is more significant than that. Marion Toole, inland fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said the thermocline acts also as a "lid" which traps gases and oxygen-starved water below a certain depth—making part of the lake "dead" for the maintenance of fish life. The thermocline forms like this: As the late spring and summer sun warms a lake's temperature, the warm temperature gradually increases deeper and deeper until a point is reached where the water temperature changes over one degree centigrade in one meter of depth. This causes the lake water to stratify — or separate into "layers" — the warmer water on top and the colder water below. After stratification, detritus on the lake bottom begins to decompose, using up the available dissolved oxygen in the water which cannot be replaced. The gases resulting from decomposition cannot escape through the thermocline so they continue to build up. Therefore, the only replenishment of dissolved oxygen in the lake occurs above the thermocline. It is useless, then, to fish below the thermocline. The thermocline usually remains stable until cooler weather, when the upper and lower levels' temperature equalize. When that happens, the thermocline disappears and the trapped gases escape to the surface.

This is the phenomenon which prompts fishermen to opine that the lake's "turning over." A good rule of thumb, however, for summer and early autumn fishing is to fish above 25-30 feet. Although fishing is bad below the thermocline, it often is very good in or just above that level. Toole said some lakes have a much more pronounced stratification than others. Some have no thermocline at all.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

Austin, Tex. — Pressure from the courts may move the Legislature to massive election law reforms next year.

At least two major Texas cases which could have far-reaching consequences for the state election processes and political system are pending in three-judge federal courts.

In one, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and San Marcos plaintiffs challenge the constitutionality of the annual voter registration requirement and the January 31 registration deadline. They ask reopening of registration after the June runoff primaries to allow voters until October to qualify for the November general election. More than 30 states already have a general election sign-up extension, and no state requires as early a close-off of registrations as Texas.

A second case tests validity of the candidates' filing fee system. An El Paso candidate for county commissioner and a Tarrant County candidate for county judge won places on the May primary ballot through court action when they pleaded they could not afford to pay the stiff filing fee.

A third case attacks the constitutional validity of the statute denying aid to illiterate voters in marking ballots.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. acknowledges a great many changes are needed in the state election code. He is compiling a list of needs with an eye on court decisions and plans to contact legislators about them soon.

Dies indicates he is inclined to favor the recommendation that May-June primary dates be moved back until August and September (as some 14 states now provide).

He also tentatively likes the idea of making voter registrations good for four years. And the state, believes Dies, "is going to have to reach the conclusion candidates cannot continue to completely finance primaries."

LEGISLATIVE DECORUM EYED

A House committee studying ways to improve the legislature's decorum and public image indicated it wants curbs on the familiar practice of lawmakers' voting for absentees on an electronic machine.

Committee members couldn't bring themselves to condemn "proxy" voting for members absent from the floor for a few minutes to take telephone calls from constituents. But they frowned on votes cast for legislators who are transients from the capital.

Committee, headed by Rep. John E. (Ned) Blain of El Paso, discussed a variety of proposals to make the House of Representatives look and act better.

Among other major suggestions: a glassed-in spectators' gallery, desk-to-desk floor telephone communications and also overhead projectors to display hasty floor amendments to legislation.

DRUG MEMO SIGNED

High-ranking state officials signed a "memorandum of understanding" with the U. S. Department of Justice Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Memorandum formalizes the present working agreement and outlines areas of responsibility for state agencies and the federal bureau in which mutual efforts and cooperation will be necessary or desirable.

Overall purpose of the memorandum is to establish and maintain effective working arrangements between the state and the federal bureau to hold to a minimum diversion of narcotics and dangerous drugs from legal channels to illicit traffic. Most of the stimulants and depressants sold illegally originated from legitimate foreign or domestic channels.

APPOINTMENTS AND HONORS

Sen. Criss Cole of Houston, a war-blinded Marine Corps veteran, has been nominated for the "outstanding rehabilitant in the nation."

Former Lake Jackson Mayor William D. Colegrove is the new president of the Beautify Texas Council.

Ralph D. Spencer of Lubbock now is secretary of the Texas Board of Architectural Examiners.

Dr. Robert Skinner was named acting director of the State Health Department tubercular control program.

Gov. Preston Smith announced these appointments: Southern Regional Education Board — Rep. Russell Cummings of Houston.

Commission for Indian Affairs — Barney Joseph Wieland of El Paso.

Lavaca-Navidad River Authority Board — Hans R. Wittenburg of Edna.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court heard arguments as to whether it should uphold a district court decision that the Texas obscenity control law is unconstitutional.

By a six to three decision, High Court held that a man could not recover damages although an Arlington hospital nurse fed him solid food soon after a colon operation.

A suit for $43,600, against a life insurance company that issued a policy on a quarter-horse, was refused by the Supreme Court because the company was not notified immediately when the animal became ill.

High Court ruled for Grand Prairie in a 3,000-acre annexation dispute with Arlington.

Court refused to hear the appeal of an Austin teenager dismissed from school after he was caught with marijuana in his pockets.

HOSPITAL FUNDS DISTRIBUTED

State Board of Health allocated $1,477,880 to 12 applicants for federal Hill-Burton health facilities construction funds. Projects and amount allocated are:

Southwest Texas Methodist McAllen General Hospital, — Hospital, San Antonio, $400,000; $315,000; Spohn Hospital, Corpus Christi, $225,000; Torbett-Hutchings-Smith Hospital, Marlin, $150,000; Fort Worth Radiation Center, $60,000; Teague Hospital Authority, $99,715;

West Coke County Hospital, Robert Lee, $38,295; Overall-Morris Memorial Hospital in Coleman, $19,010; —Sterling County Hospital, $38,900; Morningside Manor, San Antonio, $41,960; Space Center Memorial Hospital, Nassau Bay, $50,000; and St. Mary's-Gates Memorial Hospital, Port Arthur, $40,000.

Hill-Burton program pays up to 50 per cent of cost of construction or modernization of Hospitals and other health facilities in areas of critical need.

THREE CITIES HONORED Governor Smith presented the Community Achievement Awards to Lockhart, Atlanta and Graham.

Awards were for cities of up to 12,000 population in tribute to progress made toward improving the quality of living.

Smith cited Atlanta for such improvements as a new high school, a 65-bed hospital, city-wide beautification and a new sewage treatment plant.

Lockhart was honored for improved housing, health services and general beautification projects.

Graham drew its citation for broad-based citizen participation to improve medical-health services, beautification and economic and property use.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Raza Unida Party in Hidalgo County cannot get its local candidates on the November ballot unless it gathers new petitions from non-participants in other party primaries, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

Texas Has Biggest Interstate Hiway System In U. S.

Texas has more miles of Interstate highways open to traffic at this moment than any other State will have when the giant national system of super-highways is completed sometime in the mid-1970s.

The designated Interstate network in Texas will total 3,170 miles—more than any other State, naturally.

As of May 31 Texas had 2,283.84 miles of Interstate highways open to traffic.

That happens to be 2.84 miles more than California (with the second-largest designated mileage) will have when the network is complete.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads reported on March 31 that California had 1,632 miles open to traffic of a 2,281-mile designated Interstate system.

The Texas mileage includes sections of Interstate highways complete to full Interstate standards and others on approved locations which are complete to standards deemed adequate for present traffic volumes.

Assuming that construction money from the Federal Highway Trust Funds is received on schedule, the Texas portion and the national system will be complete sometime in the mid-1970s.

The trust fund was set up at the beginning of construction on the Interstate system in 1956. It is a depository for federal levies related to the operation of motor vehicles, including the four-cents-per gallon federal gasoline tax. From the trust fund comes 90 percent of the cost of building the Interstate.

To invest its trust funds in home office facilities, land and equipment used for administering the system, to manage and control facilities and pay expenses for operating, maintaining, repairing and improving them.

Election officers named to hold district school trustee elections must hold a regular election for county school trustees and are to be compensated by the school district which also pays for election supplies out of the maintenance fund.

SHORT SHORTS

Governor Smith directed a $1.2 million highway fund transfer to reinforce the Department of Public Safety budget.

Texas Committee on State and Local Tax Policy invites suggestions on revenue sources and making tax laws more efficient, equitable.

Federal Office of Emergency Preparedness turned down Governor Smith's request to declare San Marcos a disaster area for flood damage aid.

Parks and Wildlife Department authorized $127,509 in spending for beach cleaning and maintenance in Galveston, Brazoria County and Nueces County.

Texas Rangers Fought Indians In Runnels County

Runnels County is rich in historical lore. Not the least in historical excitement is the story of "Ranger Camp" at Content, in the northeast section of the county, which is only one of many stories which furnished background material for the many thousands of tales—some true—of frontier life and fire-fights between the Indians and the cavalry, the settlers, and the Texas Rangers.

"THE RANGER CAMP AT CONTENT"
In 1874 Texas Rangers which were a part of the Frontier Battalion were sent into Runnels County to protect the settlers from the Indians. These Rangers camped about one-half mile from a peak which is known today as Ranger Peak. The camps were always near a mountain peak to be used as a look-out for Indians. On this peak two men were kept throughout the daylight hours, alternating the morning and evening shifts with two other Rangers.

The Ranger Camp at Content, which was a part of Co. E. of the Frontier Battalion was commanded by Capt. W. J. (Jeff) Maltby. Headquarters for this camp was on Mud Creek. Headquarters first was on Home Creek in Coleman County. A disastrous flood in August of 1874 caused the loss of all supplies and equipment, and the men barely escaped with their lives. After this the headquarters for Company E was moved permanently to the Mud Creek location. The camp at the foot of Ranger Peak was a scouting camp and was composed of about twenty-five men.

The Frontier Battalion of which Company E. was a part, was made up of six companies. These companies were numbered from A to F and were located on the Western Frontier which extended from the Red River to the Nueces. All of the Frontier Battalion was under the command of Maj. John B. Jones. The camp in Runnels county was on the western edge of this frontier.
Indian troubles in the years prior to 1874 had wrought much havoc among the few settlers here. Big Foot, the Kiowa chief and his assistant the Comanche, Jafe caused much trouble for the settlers. Both were kept at Fort Sill but escaped time and again to steal and plunder in Runnels and surrounding counties. Both were apprehended and killed on Valley Creek in Runnels by Capt. Jeff Maltby and his men of Company E.

The Rangers in the Runnels camp were sheltered in tents. Though there were log cabins at the foot of the peak, these men lived in tents at the camp site one-half mile east of the peak.
They dug a well 60 feet deep by hand, the shale and other rocks taken out of the well are still visible at the sight. Pole corrals made from mesquites were built to pen the horses. At night the best mounts were tied in a row at a picket line. These were always guarded at night. Had the horses not been tied to the picket line at the camp on Home Creek, the Rangers would not have had horses to ride and escape the heavy flood waters.
Maj. Jones made regular trips to the Content camp bringing with him supplies and provisions for the men. However, there were times when it was necessary for the men to provide for themselves. They grazed the horses on the verdant grasses, Buffalo grass, wild timothy and Turkey Foot. They supplemented their diet by feeding them mesquite beans when corn was scarce.

The Rangers themselves ate wild game, but were not allowed to fire a shot while on a scouting party except at an Indian. One day as food was scarce they chanced upon a big brown bear on the trail. The bear stood in defiance of them, as if he knew they were not allowed to shoot. Sgt. Mathers who was in the lead gave orders for his men to halt and remain mounted. He rode within a few feet of the huge bear who promised to be a real fighter. Mathers uncoiled his lasso from the saddle horn and roped the bear. His horse tightened the rope, and hurriedly the ranger ran to the bear and with his bowie knife pierced the bear's heart. They took the bear into camp and dressed him. While in the process, Tolbert Burford, a nine year old son of one of the settlers, rode into camp to get tobacco for his father from the Rangers. He witnessed the skinning and dressing. Many times in later years he told of seeing the Rangers skin the bear at the camp site.

The Texas Rangers of Co. E abandoned the Runnels Camp in 1876 after Major Jones reported to Adj. Gen. William Steele that the Indians had been driven from the Western Frontier and few were seen in the area at this time.

Investments High For Ag Producers

What resources are needed for full employment in an agricultural enterprise and what are the returns?
Farmers continually ask county agents these questions, Tom E. Prater, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University, reports. Equipment, livestock units, land requirements, feed resources and similar items are the bundle of resources considered in developing income and expenses for an enterprise and the basis for borrowing finances, Prater said.
"As land, farm equipment, livestock and various input items increase in price, it becomes more important to estimate the resources needed for certain levels of return and full employment," he said.
"If you are looking for full employment in beef cow-calf operation it will take 300 mother cows," Prater said. "An estimated return to labor-man-

The couple will be married August 8 in the First Baptist Church of Ben Wheeler.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Each time a pesticide is used on the farm or in the home there are four basic rules of safety which should always be followed to the letter, reminds County Agent Parker.

Always take the appropriate protective measures. These are outlined on the container label. And, notes the county agent, the label should be reread each time an application is made. Point two, always strive for accurate application. Hit the pest at the right time with the proper insecticide. Remember to protect those around you by preferably storing the unused pesticide under lock and key. And finally, don't leave the disposal of containers or left-over chemicals to chance.

The correct disposal of left-over chemicals or containers is not always covered on the label instructions; therefore, that job is left to the user. To safely break glass containers, roll them first in paper and then crush them. Metal and plastic containers, other than aerosol containers, should be punched full of holes to make them unusable, and then crushed. These along with the glass should be buried in an out-of-the-way place where there is no possibility of contamination. It is best to also bury paper containers; however, they may be burned provided there is no wind and you stay out of the smoke. Since there nearly always is a residue in the empty bags, it's a good idea to bury the ashes.

Do not puncture or burn aerosol (pressurized) bug-bombs. They should be buried or taken to a land-fill dump for proper disposal.

And finally, reminds the county agent, the safe use of agricultural chemicals depends upon the user. They are safe when used according to label instructions and in accordance with safety recommendations.

If you see a triangle of fluorescent orange and reflective red ahead on the highway, it means slow down and drive carefully. It's a Slow Moving Vehicle emblem and was placed on the machine as a warning to motorists to slow down, points out County Agent C. T. Parker.

The emblem was developed by agricultural engineers to warn drivers when they are approaching a slow-moving vehicle. The emblem can be seen and recognized up to 500 feet away at any time of the day and under almost all driving conditions.

Many accidents are caused simply because the motorist often does not realize that the object ahead is moving so slowly until it is too late to avoid a collision, explains the county agent. If the emblem is in place and is duly noted, there is time to slow down or even stop, he says.

The center of the emblem is fluorescent yellow-orange, the most visible color in daylight and the outside border is reflective to show up at night. The emblem is intended for use on vehicles designed to travel 25 mph or less and can be easily mounted on most farm equipment.

It's inexpensive, durable, and movable and doesn't interfere with the machine or its operator.

Runnels County farmers who must move farm equipment and machinery on highways should attach the SVM emblem on the back of the tractor or implement being moved. The emblem is being used nationwide and motorists should be familiar with it. It's use is cheap insurance against rear end collisions, believes the agent.

Fish—When the fish population in a pond becomes unbalanced with small stunted or rough, undesirable fish, it is best to remove all fish and start over with balanced stock, advises County Agent C. T. Parker, Jr.

If the pond contains adult fish, pond owners should not stock the pond with fingerlings obtained from state or federal hatcheries. Certain fish are cannibals as well as predators, and a few of these adults can "eliminate" every added fingerling in short order.

The use of rotenone is recommended as an easy, safe and practical way to remove fish from private ponds. Increased rates will get even the tough bullhead catfish.

Fish killed with rotenone are edible, reminds the county agent. The material is not a poison in the true sense since it kills by suffocation. People, livestock, pets, snakes, frogs and other vertebrate animals are not affected when they swim in or drink water treated with rotenone.

The material is to be used only in private bodies of water for management purposes. Interested persons are advised to check with the county agent for more detailed information on controlling undesirable fish and restocking ideas.

You never outgrow your need for milk. And people in Runnels County need to consume more dairy products for best health conditions, observes C. T. Parker.

FROM CALIFORNIA

Since June is Dairy Month, now is a good time to plan meals which utilize the abundant supply of wholesome dairy products, he says. Too, since temperatures are approaching summer levels, it is also the time when refreshing, easy-to-serve meals come into their own and dairy products fill the bill.

From our earliest colonial history, the dairy cow has played a major role in the progress of our nation, says Parker. The early settlers depended upon the dairy cow for a large portion of their food supply and today the nation's dairy industry supplies an ever-increasing population with an abundance of wholesome and healthful dairy products — many not even dreamed of by the pioneers.

And still back of the mighty industry is the dairy cow, a marvelous creature, says the agent. She takes grass and grain from our fields and makes them into nature's most nearly perfect food — milk. And what's more, notes the county agent, the dairy products, including milk, are a food bargain in today's supermarkets. Compare their cost from the standpoint of food nutrients supplied with other sources of the same nutrients and you can readily see why dairy products are a best food buy, concludes Parker.

Garden Leaflet Available From Runnels SC Office

Gardening and conservation is the subject of a new USDA leaflet written by the Soil Conservation Service.

The District Conservationist Woodrow Hoffman of the Ballinger SCS office, said the 8-fold leaflet, "Gardening on the Contour," outlines ways to control erosion in a backyard garden. It tells, for example, how rows can be laid out on the contour using a carpenter's level mounted on a 2 X 4. The leaflet also explains how rainwater which drains from a neighbor's property might be diverted away from your garden.

"Some of our gardeners in the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District are excellent conservationists," Hoffman reported. "Many use mulches on the soil surface to help reduce erosion and to improve soil fertility similar to the way conservation farmers use crop residues. A few local gardeners compost their grass clippings and tree leaves for this purpose. Others use hay, straw, cottonseed hulls or peat moss. Preventing erosion in a garden is just as important to a gardener as it is to any other land user," the conservationist pointed out.

Hoffman said copies of the new leaflet are available free at his office at Ballinger.

New IRS Form To Claim Exemption From Income Tax Withholding

Students working for the summer, and retired persons and other part-time workers may be entitled to exemption from income tax withholding under the Tax Reform Act of 1969. Forms for claiming this exemption are available from Internal Revenue Service offices in North Texas.

Any employee who had no income tax liability last year and anticipates none for this year should use Withholding Exemption Certificate, Form W-4E, to claim the exemption, stated Ellis Campbell, Jr., IRS District Director for North Texas.

For 1970, a single person who makes less than $1,725 owes no tax. This is based on the $1,100 low income allowance and a personal exemption of $625. A taxpayer over 65 can earn wages up to $2,350 without incurring a tax liability, Mr. Campbell explained.

Anyone who qualifies can fill out the form and give it to his employer to claim exemption from income tax withholding on his wages.

Employers needing quantities of the new Form W-4E may obtain them from their IRS District Office.

"How much are you short," he asked the woman.

"It was the check," she said. "It wasn't as much this time."

With the checker's help they looked over her cart of groceries. There was a large bag of rice and about three pounds of cheap hamburger meat, there was a box of laundry powder and two loaves of yesterday's bread, which can be bought for 10 cents off the regular price.

Then there were some fresh vegetables, some toilet tissue and a quart of skim milk. Included were potatoes, wieners and a large box of cereal. There were several packs of soft drinks, some peanut butter and king sized cans of beans.

The eyes of the two, the checker and the woman, went over the items almost one by one.

Back to the shelves went a jar of red cherries, two or three oranges, some vanilla ice cream and a jar of jelly.

Back went about everything that makes things a little nicer — to improve on the pebeian.

The woman was still a dollar short, so back went the peanut butter and one carton of Kool aid, and maybe another little item.

than 50,000 mortar rounds. It has denied the enemy any future use of many thousands of tons of small-arms ammunition and a quantity of rice capable of feeding more than 25,000 enemy troops for a month."

Senator Tower went on to say "We could negate our military success in Cambodia and jeopardize our military position in Southeast Asia if we allow the Congress to tie the President's hands and limit his options as military Commander-in-Chief while he seeks to attain an honorable peace. At a time when we are enjoying military success, we cannot afford to make concessions to the enemy. We cannot afford to re-create for him the sanctuaries we have so effectively denied him. We cannot afford to give him aid and comfort. We cannot afford to undercut the morale of our troops and to buoy the hopes of the enemy. If we do, we shall have sacrificed 42,000 American lives in vain."

"All of us are tired of war. We do not like to send our boys into combat. But I believe most Americans would like to see us extricate ourselves with honor. Our military success in Cambodia helps to guarantee success for the Vietnamization program. We have demonstrated that we need not fight a totally defensive action in which our troops and those of our allies are forced to repel enemy attacks only to have the enemy retire to sanctuary until he wishes to again take the initiative. It would indeed be tragic, if we moved to tie the hands of the President at the very time we are about to achieve our objective," the Senator said.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of alienon lace over taffeta designed with empire bodice, high round neckline and leg o'mutton sleeves. The lace ruffle at the neck was accented by a white satin bow, which was also repeated at the waist line of the bodice and on the sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held in place by a large Dior bow. She carried an informal bouquet of pom-pom chrysanthemums centered by a corsage of carnations on a white Bible, belonging to Mrs. Lee Harrison, and has been carried by 30 previous brides.

The reception was held in the garden on Laurel Drive with Debra Carroll serving the cake and Becky Mathis ladedled punch.

A graduate of Winters High School, the bride was a member of the National Honor Society, Winters girls basketball team, the Goal Diggers Club and is a past president of the club.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Winters High School and served as president of the Deca Club in high school. He plans to attend Texas Technological College at Lubbock beginning in September.
