HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The Christmas season is a period of happiness and joyful happenings; of cheerful words and friendly deeds; of laughter and song.

That is, it is supposed to be. But many times it can turn into a period of unhappiness and disappointment and hurt. And all because of a moment of forgetfulness. For instance, this is one season when thieves — professional and amateur — are on the lookout for automobiles, laden with packages gay with Christmas wrappings, which are left unattended and unlocked. These autos are prime targets for the thieves, and they take a heavy toll each Christmas season.

We usually associate such thievery with the larger cities, but it can and does happen right here in our own community. Seldom does a holiday season pass without reports of loss of articles which have been left in unlocked cars. Some are recovered, but some are never found, which causes disappointment and expense.

It is all so unnecessary, too. If we all would take greater pains to secure our autos when we leave them parked, there would be less thievery. The extent of the carelessness becomes evident with a casual stroll down one of Winters' streets. Next time you walk down the street, notice how many of the cars parked at the curb have been left with windows open, keys in the ignition, and packages lying on the seats. Open invitations to thieves. We may have the idea that in a town as small as this one, where everyone knows everyone else, supposedly, it would be unlikely that someone would pilfer a car parked on Main Street. But try to remember the last time you walked down the street: Did you make a mental survey of everyone entering or leaving a car parked at the curb? If you're average, you took little note of anything, unless the person and the car were familiar to you.

The best insurance against such thievery is foresight. If you have to put your packages in the car, put them in the trunk and lock the trunk; lock the car doors and take the keys with you. . . no matter where you park and no matter how long you expect to leave the car, unattended.

In the same vein, we are warned by law enforcement officials that thieves are just waiting for us to leave our homes unlocked and unprotected. This is especially true in the rural areas, but the same danger exists in town. It is always a good idea to lock doors when leaving home for any length of time, and to keep valuables out of sight and under lock and key so far as is possible.

Law enforcement officials also warn us again of the many con artists at work during this season of the year. They suggest that we be suspicious of all door-to-door salesmen we do not know, and to be very careful when making purchases or signing "contracts." We should know the person we are doing business with and make certain they are legitimate and have proper permits and clearances. Else we may end up holding an empty bag.

If we do that, we will make it harder for the crooks to operate. . . a legitimate businessman or salesman welcomes the opportunity to prove his legitimacy.

It is sad that during this season which is supposed to be filled with good will toward men, that we must be suspicious of all unknowns. . . but it would be impossible for us to exist without it.

School Band-Choir Concert Monday Night In Gym

"Christmas In Texas" will be the theme of the annual Christmas concert to be presented Monday, December 14, by the Winters High School concert band and choir, under direction of Kirke McKenzie.

The concert will be held in the WHS gymnasium, beginning at 7:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge for this concert.

This year, the concert will present a "new concert sound," Director McKenzie said. A variety of Christmas music and march music will be played by the 98-member concert band. The High School choir will present a selection of mostly Christmas music, Director McKenzie said. This will be the first public performance of the year for the choir.

In addition to the musical program, the 1970-71 WHS Band Sweetheart will be crowned during the evening. The Band Sweetheart, a senior girl, is chosen by secret ballot by band members.

The musical program will last about 45 minutes, McKenzie said.

Christmas Parade Last Saturday One Of Biggest In Several Years

Marching to music of three bands from Winters Public Schools, the annual Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Christmas Parade held Saturday was described as "one of the biggest and best in several years."

Hundreds of people lined Winters' downtown streets to view the parade, which had "something for everybody." The weather cooperated with sunshine, although the wind was brisk and turned chilly in late afternoon. Winds failed to chill the spirit of band members, the young people who rode the several large Christmas floats, and the smaller children who made up a division of their own.

Following the parade, Santa Claus met the children in his special headquarters at 133 West Dale Street.

Bands in the parade included the Winters High School marching band, the junior high school band, and the Winters sixth grade band. These bands were separated by the float and kiddie divisions.

The Winters Chamber of Commerce presented cash awards for the first three places in each division. Winners were:

Most taxpayers of Runnels County who received statements for their 1970 county taxes also received applications for voter registration certificates. Certificates will be issued from these cards.

Some residents, however, who have not received tax statements, or for some reason do not receive registration certificate applications with their statements, must obtain an application. Applications may be obtained from the Winters sub-office of the county Tax Collector, or from the Collector's office in Ballinger.

January 31, 1971, is the deadline to apply for voter registration.

Runnels Countians Attend Farmers Union Convention

Several officers and delegates from Runnels County Farmers Union attended the 67th annual Texas Farmers Union Convention in Amarillo December 3-5.

Featured speakers at the three-day meeting were Senator Ralph Yarborough, Tony Dechant of Denver, National Farmers Union president; Jay Naman of Waco, Texas Farmers Union president; Charles Hanavan Jr., Rocky Mountain Farmers Union president; and Paul Babey, president of Uni-farm, the new Canadian farm organization.

Attending from Runnels County were Roscoe Morrison, county president; Mrs. Morrison, secretary and treasurer; county vice president, R. Q. Marks and Mrs. Marks; directors, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Rogers; and County Service Agents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gerhart.

Bobby Rogers was reelected District VIII secretary and Roscoe Morrison was elected District VIII membership chairman.

Milton Gerhart, the Runnels County Service agent, was recognized as second high agent in Texas for membership building. Runnels County received a membership award as seventh in the state.

A District VIII meeting was set for January 5 in Colorado City.

In his speech, Sen. Yarborough said, "The present administration has shown an incredible lack of concern for the small farmer. The Secretary, who was alleged to be an expert in agricultural matters, made several sweeping and callous decisions that struck at the very heart of the farm policy."

National Farmers Union President Tony Dechant told the group, "The trade bill passed by the House of Representatives and now pending before the Senate could endanger an estimated $130 million a year market for Texas farm products."

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman stated that "the present farm program will cost Texas cotton farmers much money. Extra measures of support, dedication and determination will be needed in the coming year to save farm programs essential for survival of farm families and rural communities." The Farmers Union, he said, "must lead a campaign to convince the administration that the new farm bill's radical changes in traditional farm program concepts will be unworkable, undesirable and in direct conflict with the wishes of farmers."

Cong. Burleson Files Bill Which Would Ease Burdens of Small Hospitals

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Omar Burleson advises that he has been successful in getting the Committee on Ways and Means to adopt an amendment to the Social Security Bill which will relieve small hospitals of the requirement of having a registered nurse on duty at all times. Under present law, many small rural hospitals simply have been unable to qualify for Medicare under the provisions requiring around-the-clock registered nurse care.

Burleson contended that Texas has a very fine Licensed Vocational Nursing Program which can adequately furnish nursing services under the direction of registered nurses and doctors.

The essence of the adopted measure authorizes the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, under certain conditions, to waive the requirement that an access hospital have a registered nurse on duty at all times. This requirement could be waived by the Secretary if he finds that the hospital has made and is continuing to make a bona fide effort to comply with the nursing staff requirements but is unable to find qualified personnel in the area. It further provides that in small towns located away from the larger hospitals the nursing requirement would be waived.

Under the provision proposed by Burleson, the Secretary of HEW would examine the nursing staff requirement with respect to each hospital each year and the waiver would be granted on an annual basis but not beyond December 31, 1974.

Congressman Burleson says that it is the hope that with other legislation providing Federal funds and facilities for training health personnel, that the shortage in this field may be relieved by that time. "At least, this gives time for the older hospitals in small towns to make required changes for safety and other standards, but particularly will it relieve the acute situation now existing with reference to registered nurses," the Congressman said.

Burleson introduced the first proposal to relieve this situation but included a waiver of certain physical requirements to which officials of HEW objected, but who have given an indication they will be lenient with enforcement in those areas where discretion is permitted.

"Of course, we must have hospital standards for quality medical care, but they should be reasonable and adaptable to the possible," he said.

Four McMurry students from the Winters area were among the college band members making a tour of West Texas, December 2-6.

Making the tour to several West Texas cities were Rhanae Hoppe, Roger Nichols, Eddie Harrison, and Carla Davis.

This band tour was one of particular nostalgia for Dr. Raymond Bynum. It marked his 25th year as director of the McMurry Band.

Dr. Bynum began his long career in school music by organizing the first all student high school band in the state of Texas. He is nationally known in the field and is listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

Miss Hoppe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin J. Hoppe of Winters, is a freshman at McMurry, majoring in Music Education and minoring in Elementary Education.

Miss Davis, also a sophomore, is the daughter of Mrs. Willis C. Davis of Winters, and is majoring in Business.

Harrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Harrison of Ovalo, and is an Art Education major, with a minor in Speech. He is a senior at McMurry.

A "Civic Betterment" meeting has been called to acquaint residents of the Winters area with "certain matters regarding the city, school, and hospital district," and to exchange ideas on what can be done for continued progress in the area.

The meeting will be held at the Winters Community Center, Friday, December 11, beginning at 7:30 p. m. All residents of the community—including Winters and the surrounding areas—are invited to attend the meeting and to voice their thoughts on the operation of the various boards and committees of the area.

Members of the sponsoring group represent many of the official boards and committees in North Runnels County which conduct the programs. They are Wade White, Nelan Bahlman, Woodrow Watts, John W. Norman, Jim Cowlishaw, George Hill, John Dry, Ray Alderman, Carroll Tatom, J. W. Bahlman and Ted Meyer.

A special invitation letter was published last week, urging residents of the area to attend the meeting. "All too often citizens of our community are elected as representatives to various boards and offices, and are expected to provide services, programs, and long range plans according to the desires of those they represent," the letter said. But, the letter points out, "we never let them know what we want."

Friday night's meeting is being offered as an "opportunity to express some of our ideas" it was stated by spokesmen of the sponsoring group.

Everyone attending the meeting will be given an opportunity to ask questions about the operation of various districts and boards, and to express opinions on what should be done.

Productivity Is the Factor That Will, In the Long Run, Curb Inflation

By Cong. Omar Burleson
WASHINGTON, D. C.—During the recent political campaigns much was said about inflation, unemployment, high interest rates and tight money. Everyone knows the effects of these conditions but few discussed remedies. Perhaps it is just as well since even the experts disagree on causes and remedial action.

There is, however, one fundamental factor involved which seemingly can not be ignored as the taproot of the problem—productivity.

This is not necessarily a political question but one within the scope of action by us as individuals.

No doubt inflation is due in part to the fact that the nation has spent $69 billion more than the national income during the decade of the 1960's.

It is also true that the reluctance of the Congress to curb spending and stay within our income contributes heavily to the continuing increase in prices.

The unemployment situation has been aggravated by an uneasy economy and the fact that defense cutbacks have eliminated more than 300,000 jobs. The recent General Motors strike cost an estimated $90 million a day in lost business. This is a key part of productivity as related to income and prices.

Productivity is the factor that has made the working man of America unique. His ability to use tools and knowledge to out-produce all others has made American goods competitive all over the world.

Productivity of the American worker has made the price of things he bought for his own needs and pleasures, a reasonable proportion of his own pay check. It has provided the producer with the highest income in the world and the highest standard of living.

Things get out of going when wage settlements reached in major industries have no relationship to output but are only designed to pay higher prices for goods and services. The higher prices in turn are created by the decreasing production of the individual.

This has brought an increasing demand from certain industries for tariff and quota protec-

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the kindness and thoughtfulness of our friends during our recent sorrow. We appreciate the floral tributes, food, memorials and cards. A special thanks to Dr. P. A. Christy and the personnel of Ward 5A, Veterans Hospital, Kerrville; Dr. B. A. VA's Predischarge Education Program (PREP) helps servicemen on active military duty earn high school diplomas in order to prepare them for higher education or vocational training.

The Japanese for instance are able to outsell us in our own markets because they produce in quantity for a lot less than we can produce the same items in this country.

This is why Washington can not have all the answers to this matter of high prices and all the side effects going with it. In the long run the final answer seems to lie in a free enterprise economy, with wage and price controls created and related to productivity. No government has yet been able to repeal the natural law of supply and demand in a free flowing economy.

Hunting Season Progressing Nicely

Austin—With the hunting season well underway, Texas hunters are having average to good success over the state, and those who are connecting are finding the animals in generally excellent shape.

But for all the reports of excellent game populations and healthy animals, a black cloud hangs on the horizon in most parts of the state—continued warm, dry weather.

With the exception of the easternmost portion of the state, biologists say that unless there is a good rain immediately, there may not be enough food to carry the present population level of quail and deer through the winter, and the results could be a heavy and widespread die-off.

The quail population in the Edwards Plateau is good, but again, if dry weather persists it could cause problems. In the Possum Kingdom area the quail population is down in spots, but the birds are abundant enough to supply good hunting conditions. Hunters are reporting less than average bags compared with an excellent season last year.

I think it may be true that fortune is the ruler of half of our actions, but she allows the other half or thereabouts to be governed by us.

GROWTH AHEAD FOR DENTAL SUPPLIERS

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—It is entirely possible that before long a visit to the dentist for a two-or-three-minute application of a plastic sealant on one's teeth may permanently do away with cavities. This is the hope of Dentsply International, the leading producer of dental equipment and supplies. Dentsply's Caulk Division has developed a plastic substance for tooth-decay protection. Initial limited testing met encouraging success over a two-year period. The National Institute of Dental Research is now conducting an expanded test, and the product may be available to dentists as early as next February.

Industry's Growth Forces
The aforementioned development is just one example of the progress and changes occurring in the growing field of dental supplies. Even though the industry is relatively small when stacked up against many of the country's foremost industries, it has an impressive record of growth. Moreover, its future is promising. An annual growth rate in the vicinity of 15 percent over the next four to five years is attainable.

Impetus for the anticipated improvement is expected to be generated by the country's rising health standards, increased stress upon personal appearance, high spendable income, and an expanding population. Also, benefits will come from new and more effective dental procedures and products, and from federal and state dental health programs.

Roster of Participants
The dental-supplies industry is characterized by a high degree of fragmentation. There are many small (and often privately owned) firms which have a stake in the business. In fact, there exists only a relatively limited number of publicly owned companies whose major interests center around dental equipment. Prominent among these are Dentsply International, Cavatron, Sybron, Howmedica, and Stern Metals.

In addition, there is a fairly sizeable number of companies which are primarily identified with other fields but also possess some interest in the dental field. Among these are Johnson & Johnson, IPCO Hospital Supply, American Hospital Supply, Litton Industries, Warner Lambert, Pennwalt, and NARCO Scientific.

Mergers and Acquisitions
Prior to the mid-1960s, there was undoubtedly a larger number of smaller companies in the dental-supplies field than exist today. In the merger binge of the middle to late 1960s, many of these small firms were acquired by the conglomerates and other large companies bent on diversification. Even some of the larger dental-supply firms accentuated their growth by acquiring smaller dental suppliers.

In 1966, for example, Pennwalt acquired S. S. White Dental one of the world's largest dental supplies firms. Sybron was formed through a merger of Ritter Pfaudler and Taylor Instrument in 1968, and Sybron now derives nearly half of its sales from dental, medical, and laboratory equipment. Last year,

Narco Scientific, primarily a producer of avionics equipment, acquired McKesson Company which produces anesthetic and analgesic equipment for both hospital and dental use.

Varied Product Mix
Cavatron and Warner Lambert (via its Lactona Products Division) produce ultrasonic units for cleaning and drilling. Sybron, American Hospital Supply, and a division of Litton Industries, produce items such as dental chairs, console units, and sterilizers. Material for fillings, dentures, and bridgework are provided by Stern Metals, IPCO Hospital Supply, Johnson & Johnson, Pennwalt, and Warner Lambert.

The Research Staff of Babson's Reports Inc. presently favors for representation in this field Dentsply International, one of the largest suppliers of artificial teeth, dental supplies, and equipment. Its product line includes syringes, metallurgical and chemical compounds, carbide burs, and hand tools, plus the seasant previously discussed.

Sound Trucks: Bane or Blessing?
To one bystander, a blaring sound truck is a form of noise pollution, fouling the public air. But to another, the same truck is a healthful exercise in the right of free speech.

Which view is correct? With an increasing frequency, our courts are being called upon to decide. They begin with the proposition that freedom of speech is not an absolute, unlimited right. In one case, a city ordinance forbade sound trucks from making "loud and raucous noises." A local union, embroiled in a labor dispute, challenged the ordinance as an unconstitutional interference with free speech.

But the court turned down this objection. The court said that, in the name of peace and tranquility, a community had the right to hold noise down to a moderate level.

However, while reasonable restrictions are all right, most courts frown on efforts to ban sound trucks altogether. When a city tried a ban of this kind, a union again took the matter to court.

At the hearing, the city argued that the union could use some other, quieter means of getting its message across to the public. But the court held the ban unconstitutional, saying:

"In certain instances, the sound truck may be the only practical means for communication of opinion. The right of free speech is worthless in the absence of a meaningful method of its expression."

Another city passed an ordinance saying that sound trucks could be used, provided the chief of police first gave his permission. However, the ordinance said nothing at all about any guidelines on which the chief's approval or disapproval should be based.

Here, too, when the ordinance was challenged in a test case, the court saw danger to freedom of speech, especially in the realm of politics.

"The sound truck has become an accepted method of political campaigning," said the court. "Must a candidate for governor or Congress depend on the whim or caprice of the chief of police in order to use his sound truck for campaigning?"

Holding the ordinance invalid, the court said the power to prevent speech, just like the right to speak, must be kept within reasonable limits.

What is known as success assumes nearly as many aliases as there are those who seek it. Like love, it can come to commoners as well as courtiers. Like virtue, it is its own reward. Like the Holy Grail, it seldom appears to those who don't pursue it.

Have you fifty friends? It is not enough. Have you one enemy? It is too much.

SUPERJET ERA is in full swing at new Flight Wing One facility at New York's Kennedy Airport. Three 747s and four 707s are parked outside sprawling complex.

Austin Tex.—Legislative Budget Board staff members added little to the season's cheer for legislators with their estimate that even a rigidly-conservative 1972-73 budget will require a $643.5 million tax bill.

Lawmakers, who report for the biennial session in January, must pass a $51.4 million emergency finance measure to head off a 20 per cent welfare cut in April, the Budget Board warned. And early approval of a constitutional amendment to raise the $80 million welfare ceiling also will be necessary to avert eventual sharp reductions in aid to the needy.

Board stressed that its budget compilations allow for no new construction funds for any purpose (not even new colleges already authorized) and no money for state employee salary raises.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes called the situation a "crisis." Senate leaders turned down a no-tax plan advanced by a Houston group. This plan would freeze teacher salaries, raise college tuitions, abandon general revenue appropriations for farm-to-market roads, change school finance formulas and divert a portion of the permanent school fund to current spending. Such proposals, said Barnes, "would get about two votes."

"Sharp growth in welfare rolls and long-range educational programs already enacted are primary reasons cited for the record tax need."

BOUNDARY HEARING SET

Texas - Louisiana boundary dispute will be argued before Judge Robert Van Pelt in the U. S. Supreme Court in Houston on December 16.

Judge Van Pelt is a senior federal district judge for Neb. Texas claims that midstream of the Sabine River, Sabine Lake and Sabine Pass were established in 1848 by Congress as the dividing line. Louisiana claims the entire river.

TEXAS FOURTH

Texas now is the fourth most-populous state in the nation. New census figures show 11,298,787 population which includes 102,057 Texans abroad.

California still is No. 1, with more than 20 million. New York remains second with 18.2 million and Pennsylvania third with nearly 11.9 million.

or maybe even less than in 1969. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White figures.

A wire service story on November 25 stated that prices of Thanksgiving turkeys over the nation were nine per cent higher this year, but White said this was not true in Texas.

White based this statement on a survey of prices in leading markets of San Antonio, Houston and Dallas.

About 19 per cent more turkeys were produced in Texas this year than in 1969.

HEARING SET

A December 21 public hearing will be held in the McAllen civic center on proposed piece rates for hand harvesting of agricultural commodities.

Rate system, under the state Minimum Wage Law, will be based on average worker productivity by commodity and will become effective on February 1.

A comprehensive statewide field study of actual worker productivity has been under way since September, 1969. Proposed rates will be recommended at the December hearing for harvesting citrus fruit and all Texas vegetables.

COURTS SPEAK

Reversing itself, the State Supreme Court upheld a $10,000 libel judgment against a Denton publishing company as the result of an erroneous report (which the Court said was not privileged). Story reportedly stated that a local developer was bankrupt. In an earlier opinion, the High Court, by a 5 to 4 vote, had held for the newspaper publisher. Newspaper had quoted a statement made at a city council meeting but through oversight did not say who made the statement.

In other cases the High Court: *Set arguments for January 20 over the validity of the incorporation of West Lake Hills, and Austin suburb.

*Upheld a lower court decision invalidating a Comanche County local option election to permit liquor sale.

*Affirmed the right of a Fort Worth school district to prevent students from belonging to secret clubs.

Court of Criminal Appeals, in Smith and Tarrant County cases found that a 1969 legislative act wiped out part of the state law against ex-convicts carrying concealed weapons.

AG OPINIONS

Federal navigation powers under the commerce clause of the U. S. Constitution are superior to state powers or rights where the waters involved form a part of navigable waters of the U. S., says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Same applies, Martin said, where alteration of the flow of non-navigable tributaries there-of would affect navigable waters. He further held that: federal authorization of a Texas water project preempts a state project on the same river site unless federal consent is obtained by law; federal government can retard, impound and use waters behind government dams in Texas if use is reasonably related to powers under the commerce clause, and suits over federal projects could be removed to a federal district court.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that: *Law prohibiting deer hunting with artificial lights was not repealed in Smith County by the Uniform Wildlife Regulatory Act.

*Maximum salary for Orange County Court at Law judges is $6,600 a year.

Dec. 31 Deadline For Filing For Low Draft Selection

According to an announcement by Texas Local Board No. 21, serving Coleman and Runnels counties, draft registrants must file a written request for reclassification to be postmarked or received by the board no later than Dec. 31, 1970, if they wish to take advantage of a lower Priority Selection Group.

Mrs. Mary E. Sewell, executive secretary of Local Board 21, announced that the highest Random Sequence Number reached by this board in 1970 was 158.

Mrs. Sewell advised that any registrant of Local Board 21 currently deferred in Class I-S(H), II-S, II-A, II-C, or III-A with a Random Sequence Number above 158 could file a written request, on or before the deadline, for Class I-A, thereby taking advantage of the Second Priority Group on January 1, 1971.

Being in the Second Priority means that all registrants in the Extended Priority Group and those in the First Priority Group would have to be called before a registrant in the Second Priority could be reached.

You Can Still Work And Draw S. S.

Do you receive social security checks? Do you expect to earn over $1680 this year? If so, have you told the social security office? J. M. Talbot, social security manager, asked these questions today.

You can earn up to $1680 and still receive all your social security checks. If you earn over $1680 a year, one dollar in benefits is withheld for each two dollars you earn. One dollar of your benefits is withheld for every dollar you earn over $2880 in a year.

There is a very important exception to this rule: No matter how much you earn in the year, you can receive a check for every month you do not earn more than $140. If you are self-employed, you get a check for each month you don't work in your business.

You will be overpaid if you haven't reported to the social security office that your earnings will be over $1680. Don't wait and find you have to repay when a simple telephone call can help you prevent it.

For further information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue, P. O. Box 3808, San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in your area.

County Agent's Column

Attractive Fireplace:

A little work done now can make the fire place the center of attraction during the Christmas season.

Why not do some log treating or paper log making now for that special occasion, asks county agent Parker? You can have flames that are red, green, blue, orange or purple depending on the chemicals used to treat the material to be burned in the fireplace.

Parker explains that calcium chloride can be used to produce orange colored flames, copper chloride—blue, potassium chloride—purple, strontium nitrate, lithium chloride—carmine, and copper sulfate—emerald green. Dry pine cones, small blocks of wood, or chips, can be soaked in solutions of these chemicals to produce the multi-colored flames when burned. Most of the chemicals can be purchased from chemical suppliers or local drugstores.

To treat cones or wood, a plastic pail and onion sack are needed. The cones or chips are placed in the sack and immersed in a solution containing one pound of the desired chemical dissolved thoroughly in one gallon of water. The bag must be weighted down so the material is completely covered by the solution. The cones or wood should soak for at least 10 minutes.

After soaking, the treated material may be placed on newspapers to dry. After an overnight of drying, they will be ready for use in the fireplace.

"Logs" can be made of loosely rolled newspapers tied with a heavy twine and soaked in a solution of four pounds of copper sulfate and three pounds of rock salt in a gallon of water. They will require several days to dry out. Once dry, a paper log will burn all evening and produce a rainbow of colors, advises the county agent.

There isn't much doubt that winter has arrived. Each succeeding cold front that races through seems to drop temperatures a bit lower and they are now getting down to water pipe freezing levels, reminds county agent Parker.

There is something that can be done to prevent frozen water pipes in the home and around the farm. The county agent suggests the use of inexpensive electric heating cable.

Some places are especially vulnerable to freeze-up, such as short sections of exposed pipe in an unheated barn or exposed faucets that must operate. All that is needed to prevent the freeze problem is to wrap a heating cable around the pipe or faucet in spiral fashion and plug it into a convenient electrical outlet. The cable can be bought in a wide range of lengths to suit the job, points out the county agent.

It is best, he notes, to wrap some kind of insulating material around the cable to conserve heat and electricity. For even more economy, and freedom from supervision, a thermostat with a bulb sensing element can be used. This will automatically control the on-off operation of the cable and at a set temperature.

With the arrival of colder weather, proper feeding of cows and calves takes on more importance, reminds county agent C. T. Parker, Jr.

The production efficiency and comfort of a mature cow is not reduced by cold weather, provided she is full of good forage, has a dry coat and is exposed to dry still air, points out the county agent. These are conditions which are often hard to come by in this part of the state he notes.

The temperature at a given level of feed intake where additional feed is necessary to maintain body temperature is called the critical temperature. It is slightly above the temperature at which cattle begin to shiver. A cow on a fasting diet or without any feed will reach the critical temperature at about 55 degrees Fahrenheit. A maintenance ration will lower the critical temperature to about 23 degrees F.

Cattle can keep warm and survive cold weather if they consume sufficient forage. Low-quality roughages high in fiber serve as effective feeds during storms because of the high heat production that results from the digestion process.

Therefore, notes the county agent, the stockman who makes every possible effort to keep his cattle comfortable during periods of cold weather can expect them to work just a bit harder for him.

I have sometimes said the scarcest personal quality in our world today is genuine, deep, sustaining self-confidence. Look behind the behavior of the bully, the egotist, the show-off, the whiner, the dictator, and you will almost always find a lack of belief in self.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is somewhat difficult to understand just why there is a critical shortage of health care personnel. True enough, our population now stands at 205 million people but the last decade increase is not in proportion to the demand for Registered Nurses.

Warnings come from doctors and other experts in the field of health care that the situation is likely to worsen before it gets better.

Latest statistics show that there are now about 720,000 Registered Nurses on active duty but that 155,000 more are needed. It is estimated that by 1975 a million more RNs will be required to keep hospital care up to minimum standards.

Even during the present shortage, Federal, State and local health care people are attempting to close the shortage gap by a number of methods. One method is providing financial aid for nurse training. From 1950 up to the last two years, active Registered Nurses have been increased by 76 percent. Licensed Practical Nurses have risen at the same period by 134 percent, but the shortage continues to be described as critical.

In addition to more Graduate Nurses and Licensed Vocational personnel, some of the big-city hospitals have been recruiting nurses from England, Canada, Australia and Ireland. Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas has filled 104 nursing positions with foreign personnel. Many nurses have been induced to return from retirement to their active profession by reason of increased pay. It is reported that Los Angeles County has offered a bonus for retirees which is estimated to be 30 percent of registered nurses living in the City, to return to duty.

Other incentives are being offered. As an example, All Saints Episcopal Hospital in Ft. Worth is reported to offer facilities for the care of children while the mother works. In some cities retired police and firemen are being offered nurse's training and the guarantee of a job.

From all indications the problem of qualified health care is greater in the big city hospitals and in the more rural hospitals than in medium-size towns and cities. One of the reasons given for this situation is living conditions in these two extreme circumstances. In the cities there is the problem of living in the area where the hospital is located. There is a fear of going out at night in crime-infested cities, and the opportunity is plentiful to take on assignments in the day-time at a more convenient place. In the small towns is almost a thing area, opportunity is less for the husband of a married nurse, and the pay is less.

Health experts say that the availability of nurses for home duty in the inner cities and small towns is almost a thing of the past. This results in the necessity of caring for patients in a hospital who otherwise might be as well cared for at home.

A lack of registered nurses and other qualified health care personnel leaves some medical facilities unutilized, so reports from many parts of the country say. Of course, the work-load of Registered Nurses has been increased by requirements under Medicare and Medicaid, some of which could be performed by other professions qualified for the particular service.

Although Federal, State, local and private professions in the health care field are making tre-

Lutheran Ladies Aid Circle Met

The Ladies Aid Circle of St. John Lutheran Church met Thursday with Mrs. Walter Gerhart presiding. Mrs. E. E. Thor-meyer was in charge of the program. Mrs. Charlie Adami gave the offering meditation.

Mrs. Al Flathman, a missionary to New Guinea, who is home on leave, spoke on "Christmas in New Guinea."

Mrs. Walter Kraatz showed a film on the earthquake destruction in Peru. Bible study leaders were Mrs. T. F. Hantsche, Mrs. Carl Gottschalk, Mrs. Raymond Kurtz and Mrs. L. E. Jacob.

Gifts were exchanged from a decorated Christmas tree. Present were 36 members and three visitors. Hostesses serving refreshments were Mrs. John Hiller, Mrs. Bill Hoppe, Miss Emma Henniger, Mrs. Hans Gottschalk and Mrs. T. F. Hantsche.

Stamp Collectors Specialize In Christmas Seals

Some stamp collectors specialize in Christmas Seals. Seals from more than 100 different countries.

The Christmas Seal and Charity Stamps Association of the United States, founded in 1931, has 1,000 members. Thousands of amateurs also collect samples of the Seals, which first appeared in this country in 1907 to help fight a terrible disease called the White Plague, tuberculosis.

All the stamps to fight TB around the globe bear the international symbol of this pervasive struggle, the red double-barred cross of Lorraine. Seals from other lands come in all shapes and sizes and may feature such un-Christmasy art as tropical flowers (Ceylon), butterflies (Brazil) and ghosts (Denmark). Recent issues in Mexico have sported beautiful designs of ancient Indian art and magnificent native costumes.

This year's American design features an entire town, a horse drawn holiday parade around the town square. An old-fashioned, fantasy town. Contributions to this year's Christmas Seals help fight many more hazards than TB, though. They strike out at respiratory diseases such as chronic bronchitis and emphysema. And at air pollution and smoking, two causes of disease of the lungs.

Last year, nearly 40,000 new active cases of TB were found in the U. S. An unknown number of people also have active disease without knowing it. And they spread it to others. Millions of Americans have one or more respiratory diseases. And 49 million Americans still smoke. Many of them live in polluted cities. Christmas Seals have their work cut out for them.

Use Christmas Seals. It's a matter of life and breath.

Cowboy Band Good Example of H-SU

Bill Grantz of Winters, one of 44 members of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band has returned to Abilene after taking part in Macy's 44th Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City.

Grantz, a freshman, and other members of the band played in concerts enroute at Fort Sill, Okla.; Kansas City, Mo.; Seymour, Ind.; Dayton, Ohio; Denver, N. J.; and Greenwich, Conn.

Asked his reactions to the trip, Grantz responded "I think the most outstanding parts of the whole trip were the way the band was accepted and the opportunities which the band had to recruit students for Hardin-Simmons. I think that through our participation in the Macy's Parade we showed the people of the United States what kind of school we have and the pride we have in it."

Life is much like Christmas—you are more apt to get what you expect than what you want. It is not necessary that we should all think exactly alike, but we should all think.

Apple Trees:

Early voyagers discovered the New World lacked one very important thing—the apple.

The situation was soon remedied, though, as many new apple varieties were introduced in America. Some came as carefully hoarded "apple seeds"—others as young grafted trees.

Then, from the coastal settlements of Virginia, the Carolinas and New England, apple seeds were carried into the backcountry wilderness by Indian traders and missionaries.

The juice of the apples was important to the pioneers, too. They used apple juice, cider and applejack. In fact, during the first 200 years of our history, the greater part of every apple crop was pressed into liquid of varying degrees of potency.

Apple juice is still an important aspect of our apple crops, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It's a delicious beverage that can be used "as is" or included in a number of drinks and many cooked items.

With a large apple crop moving to market, supplies of apple juice also are plentiful, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Swiss Steak with Apples provides a hearty meat dish for a cool day.

2 lb. beef steak (round, rump or chuck)
1-3 cup seasoned flour
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup apple juice
2 carrots, sliced
1 bay leaf
1-4 tsp. oregano
2 and 1-2 cups apple slices.
Have beef cut 1 and 1-2 inches thick. Wipe with cloth and rub seasoned flour into steak, or pound in with wooden mallet. Brown meat on all sides in a little fat in heavy skillet. Add onion, carrots, apple slices, bay leaf, oregano and apple juice. Bring to boiling point.

Cover and simmer gently for 1 and 1-4 hours, or until meat is tender, adding boiling apple juice as it evaporates. Thicken stock in pan with a little flour mixed to a smooth paste in cold water. Makes six servings.

Jellied Apple Juice Relish
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 and 1-2 cups apple juice
1-4 cup sugar
1-2 tsp. salt
1-2 cup ground raw cranberries
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup grated raw carrot

Soften gelatin in 1-2 cup apple juice. Heat remaining apple juice, add gelatin, sugar and salt, and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add cranberries, celery and carrot. Pour into individual molds or an 8X8X2 inch pan which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm.

Unmold and cut into squares. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Makes six servings.

Apple Juice Salad Dressing:
1-4 cup sugar
2 T. cornstarch
1-4 tsp. salt
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup apple juice
1 egg, well-beaten
3 ounce pkg. cream cheese

Combine dry ingredients, add fruit juices and blend. Cook over hot water for about 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Quickly stir some of the hot mixture into the well-beaten egg, then add mixture to remaining cooked portion.

Return to heat and cook another five minutes, stirring constantly. Cool slightly. Mash cream cheese with fork and beat into cooked mixture. Chill. Makes one cup. Serve with Waldorf Salad or other fruit salad combinations.

"They Call Me MISTER Tibbs" Sidney Poitier repeats the role of Detective Tibbs he made famous in "In The Heat of the Night" in the new Mirisch production "They Call Me MISTER Tibbs," coming to the State Theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday, from United Artists entertainment subsidiary of the Transamerica Corporation.

★ MOVIES ★

"They Call Me MISTER Tibbs"

Cool, calculating and dedicated police detective Virgil Tibbs who in the person of Sidney Poitier made the thunderbolt "In The Heat of the Night" a five Academy-Award winner, pits wits against the perpetrator of an almost perfect crime in the powerful Mirisch Production Company presentation "They Call Me MISTER Tibbs" which comes to the State Theatre Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in Color by DeLuxe as an offering from United Artists, entertainment subsidiary of the Transamerica Corporation.

Sharing stellar honors with Poitier in the new film is TV and film veteran Martin Landau with co-star billing going to Barbara McNair.

The Tibbs character was created by John Ball for "In The Heat of the Night" in which Poitier gave his memorable performance opposite Rod Steiger. Alan R. Trustman took the character from there to create the new film which was prepared for the screen by himself and James R. Webb. The film was produced by Herbert Hirschman whose recent "Halls of Anger" was also something of a thunderbolt, with Walter Mirisch serving as executive producer and directed by Gordon Douglas. Anthony Zerbe of "Cool Hand Luke" fame is also co-starred, and the picture's music is by Quincy Jones.

Dams, Reservoirs And Ecology

Just the mention of a reservoir in water-short Texas often brings cries of joy from around the state.

A reservoir means water saved, great recreational opportunities in the way of boating and fishing, and increases in property values for those owning shoreline property.

But as more and more of Texas reservoirs are built, biologists, ecologists and wildlife specialists are taking second looks at reservoirs to assess their impact on wildlife ecology.

R. G. Mauermann, deputy director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, says the well-known law of physics which states "for every action there is an opposite and equal reaction," can be applied to environmental problems too.

"In the environmental sense," says Mauermann, "we can be sure that whenever the environment is altered by any action of man or nature, changes from the known normally will follow. Because nature and the environment are dynamic, gains made in one direction are usually made at the expense of something else."

The old belief that fish and wildlife resources will be enhanced by construction of reservoirs is not necessarily so. It is possible, he warns, that fish and wildlife will be adversely influenced by the construction of storage reservoirs or conveyance structures, such as canals, for the distribution of water to areas of water shortage.

Because reservoirs inundate large areas of bottomland, the state loses thousands of acres of prime, or potentially prime, habitat for deer, turkeys, squirrels and furbearers. With the present reservoirs and those planned for the future, this represents a tremendous loss of first-rate, irreplaceable habitat.

Any crowding, according to Mauermann, will not be beneficial for either the wildlife or its habitat.

"Stream species," Mauermann said, "which are left above the dam of a newly-inundated reservoir basin, usually find very favorable conditions because their numbers are few compared with reservoir water volume. Because their environment is suddenly expanded, game fish populations explode and, for a while, flourish."

But biologists after taking a long term view of the situation have seen that the fish which ultimately dominate the reservoir fish populations are those naturally best adapted to the newly-created open water habitat. These are what most persons consider "rough fish" such as carp, buffalo, shad and suckers.

Panhandle Aoudad Hunt Nets Hunters Forty-One Sheep

Wheeler—Hunters spent a lot of time, ammunition and effort during the 1970 aoudad sheep hunt in six Panhandle counties, but they went home with only 31 rams and 10 ewes.

Richard DeArment of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said the first day of the seven-day hunt was cold, followed by six days of sunny weather. Since hunting was comfortable and trophy heads were in demand, average hunting time per man was 18.9 hours versus the 7.9 hours spent by each hunter during last season's bitterly cold weather.

DeArment said the 129 participating riflemen may have worked a little harder this year, firing an average of three shots each compared to the 2.6 shots per man the previous season. But in at least one instance the effort paid off. Gene Dozier of Ft. Worth, hunting on the Ransom Ranch in Armstrong county, dropped a ram that weighed 210 pounds field dressed. It boasted a horn length of 31 5-8 inches and 13 inches in diameter at the base.

The largest Texas ram was a 31 7-8 inch horn taken in 1969. In New Mexico where the 44 original sheep stocked in the Palo Duro Canyon area in 1957 originated, the record for horn length is 33 1-2 inches.

Mayor's, Council's Salaries Set At Monday Meeting

Salaries for the mayor and members of the City Council for the next year were set during the regular meeting of the Council Monday night. State law requires that salaries be set prior to January 1 for the following year, with no changes permitted during the effective year.

Council set the salary of the mayor at $20 per month, plus $10 per regular meeting and $5 for each called meeting. Salaries for councilmen were set at $10 per regular meeting, and $5 for each called meeting.

Council also re-appointed Dr. H. H. McCreight as City Health Officer for the next year.

A proposed ordinance to prohibit drinking of alcoholic beverages in the City Park, and controlling traffic in the park, was tabled for further study.
