HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

You can't take a sentimental journey back to the little red schoolhouse—because that little old school isn't there anymore! Times change and there's been a revolution in the schoolhouse.

But here's your chance to find out all about it during Texas Annual Public Schools Week, March 6-10.

You are invited to visit your Public School and see for yourself how new teaching methods and techniques are helping your children to read and think. An open house has been scheduled in the Winters Elementary School next Thursday. Come and learn how education is adding up to a better life for all.

The Texas Public School system, established 118 years ago, has been a rich training ground for the youth which has helped them to make significant contributions in the fields of government, art, science and technology—and just living.

This is a year of critical issues and crucial decisions in education. It is important that we as parents and voting citizens, acquire an understanding of what the schools are trying to achieve and the methods used pursuant to this goal. It is no longer enough for a child to learn to read—he must learn how to apply his rational powers to new kinds of situations. In short, the parent, the school and the child form an important education triangle based on mutual understanding.

We can fulfill our obligation in this educational triangle by being active participants along with our children and our teachers.

The man down the block says the news dispensers have been so filled with China-talk and bits about big-time trials the past few days, he's begun to wonder what kind of skullduggery the rest of the world has been up to.

Our Bluff Creek friend says his wife is getting too many cues from television commercials. The other night, he said, she finished washing the dishes and handed him a dish towel and a dinner plate and said, "Dry it, You'll like it!"

Where did February go? It's been only a couple of days, it seems, since we were watching the big bowl games . . . and now we've been hit with the announcement that the annual Blizzard Relays will be run here Saturday—a sure sign that we're already in March.

If usefulness continues, we can expect March to make its presence very much known Saturday . . . if the day doesn't open up Marchy, it's bound to end up that way. Few times can be remembered when there has not been "track-meet-time" weather at least some time during the day of the big annual track meet.

Reminds us, during one track meet here a few years ago, a fellow we know fairly well decided to capture a few of the highlights on film. The day was typical March; the wind was high, and the sand was heavy, grating between the teeth, matting hair and clouding eyes. This fellow braved the flying sand and gravel, snapping the shutter and cranking about half a roll of film through the camera . . . until some well-meaning chap reminded him that the cap was still on the camera lens. His redness was covered up by a coat of red dirt on his face, but he regained an eagerness to the occasion long enough to explain that the sand was blowing so hard he kept the cap over the lens all the time to keep it from being scratched.

Large Crowd At C-C Membership Banquet Friday

One of the largest crowds in recent years to attend a Winters Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night heard humorist A. C. (Cullen) Akins of Odessa challenge chamber members to greater efforts in commercial and industrial expansion and promotion in the year ahead.

M. D. (Doc) Johnston, now of Fort Worth, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce, reported on the organization's work during the past year, and introduced other directors whose terms had expired. They included Mrs. J. W. Bahlman, H. M. Nichols, George R. Hill and Carroll Tatom.

Lee Harrison, president of the chamber for 1972, outlined some of the plans for this year, and introduced new directors, including D. C. Bissett, Mrs. W. M. Hays, Bobby Mayo, W. A. Griffin and George M. Beard.

Holdover directors are Mrs. John Gardner, Lee Harrison, Homer Hodge, Roy Young and Dr. T. L. Russell.

One of the highlights of the evening's program was the presentation of the Man of the Year award to George R. Hill, publisher of The Winters Enterprise, in recognition of his work in promotion of many community projects, and specifically his work for the new North Rannels Hospital. Ted Meyer, Man of the Year for the previous year, made the presentation.

A "political party" theme was used in banquet hall decorations, with miniature elephants and donkeys placed as centerpieces on the tables. Decorations and other arrangements were by wives of members of the board of directors.

More than 250 were present for the banquet, with many visitors from out of town in attendance.

Winters and Ballinger Expected To Study Rural Water Supply Proposal

City Councils of both Winters and Ballinger are expected to direct through studies to the proposal that one of the towns, or perhaps both in a cooperative effort, served as a source of water for the proposed North Rannels Rural Water Corporation, it was learned this week.

C. T. Parker, County agent, who was a main force in organizing efforts to develop a rural water system for North Rannels County, said Tuesday that Ballinger Mayor Charles Clifton had been contacted and that he had indicated Ballinger is "definitely" interested in the proposal, and that the city's engineers would be consulted within the next few days to study feasibility.

Winters Mayor Wade White said Tuesday that the proposal would be thoroughly studied by the Winters City Council; that "Winters has a big interest in the prosperity and well-being of the rural communities of North Rannels County." He said he could not speak for the Council, but he felt certain members would give this proposal a lot of attention.

A sub-committee, made up of members of the steering committee of the rural water group, has been appointed to meet with the governing bodies of the two cities for discussions.

The sub-committee will meet with the Winters City Council at 8:30 p. m. next Monday, March 6, Buford Baldwin, City Secretary, said Tuesday.

It was pointed out at a recent meeting of the steering committee that although the proposed project would cover a wide territory in North Rannels, the amount of water used "would not be prohibitive to either of the two cities." The committee was told that even if the system were built to accommodate 400 outlets—meters—this would mean consumption of roughly only 2,400,000 gallons per month.

It was also pointed out at the recent meeting that some years ago, the City of Winters sold water to a different type operation for many months, and the extra pumping exceeded the number of gallons expected to be used by the rural distribution system, all without endangering the available water supply.

FB Delegates To Conference In Abilene Friday

Rannels County Farm Bureau will be represented at an area legislative conference at the Thunderbird Lodge in Abilene Friday, March 3, according to M. L. Dobbins, president of the county organization.

Purpose of the one-day session is to plan ways and means to be more effective in implementing state and national Farm Bureau policies, the county FB leader said.

The meeting is one of 23 being conducted around the state by the Texas Farm Bureau for county Farm Bureau legislative committees.

Among the major issues expected to be discussed will be legislation restricting use of agricultural chemicals, financing of public education in wake of recent federal court ruling, farm labor and transportation strike legislation, as well as general tax problems.

STOCK MARKET
IN ELECTION YEARS

By Babson's Reports, Inc.

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — Some investors place a great deal of emphasis on the potential influence of national elections in formulating their investment plans, especially when it comes to presidential election years. Studies made by the Research Staff of Babson's Reports indicate there is considerable valid reason for assuming that an upcoming presidential election will exert an influence on the behavior of the stock market for some months in advance. During an election year, for example, stock market movements can and usually do reflect variations in investor sentiment as different forces come into play. Early in such a year, the ideas propounded by the presidential hopefuls, the results of primary elections, and other factors can spark market advances or dips. Later on, expectations as to the final candidates likely to be nominated at the conventions, and then the actual results, can have a definite effect on the stock market. Finally, the outcome of the election itself may exert a powerful impact—provided it is not a clearcut runaway which has already been discounted by the market.

MIRROR OF WIDE SCOPE

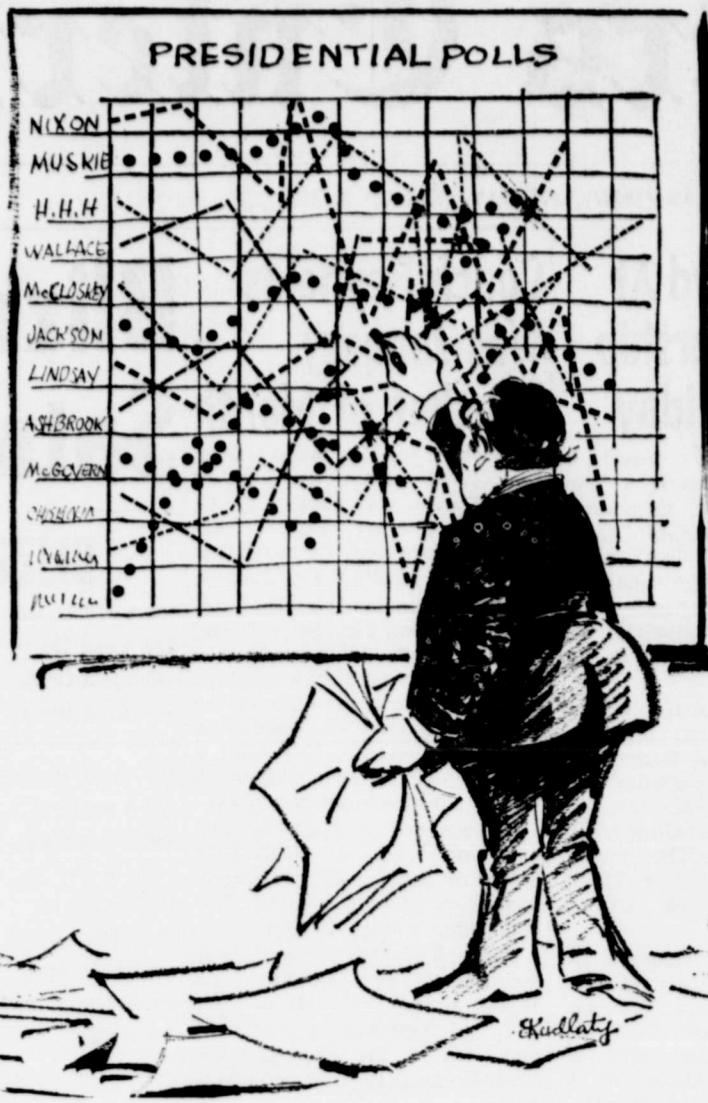

It is, of course, perfectly logical for the stock market to reflect this significant quadrennial event. After all, the market is basically a barometer of investor sentiment affected by a broad spectrum of hopes and fears, whether related to monetary, business, political, or international considerations. The significance is obvious in the case of a presidential election since the victor can shape the politics of the nation for the ensuing four years. Then, too, if the incumbent president is a candidate in the race, he can try prior to the election to create a favorable economic climate and place himself in an advantageous light by voting time. Such efforts tend to generate optimism on the part of investors, even though an inimical Congress can frustrate his intentions.

HISTORICAL PATTERN

Starting with the election of 1928 (the race which marked the twilight of the age when economic conditions could be automatically governed by the full gold standard), the past eleven presidential election years saw one only in which the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed the year virtually unchanged from twelve months before. In three of the years the Dow Average suffered a net loss. The remaining seven years were all on the plus side. Hence, there was a definite bias in favor of optimistically inclined investors. Generally speaking, for the election years studied, three phases of strength were noted: (1) A moderate rally extending from mid-winter through the early spring weeks, (2) a more pronounced gain from mid-spring through mid-summer, and (3) a post-election upward spurt.

Progress Report

NEW TWISTS

We could go back to presidential races before 1928, but historic changes since then have altered the picture. The appeal of pump-piming techniques and the deeply imbedded voter abhorrence of even a short, mild economic malaise have caused campaign promises of the two major parties to become similar in many important respects. This year there are innumerable other considerations that could affect the stock market beyond the matter of which party will win. There is acute public concern over preservation of the environment, as well as what forms of government spending will gain top priority. And, perhaps more than at any time in a number of years, the role of this nation in the troubled world is influencing investor sentiment.

Austin. — State operation and funding of a food stamp program in all 254 Texas counties was proposed this week by Gov. Preston Smith.

Cost to the state is estimated at $17 million to $20 million, but Smith says the expenditure would generate over $285 million of economic activity in Texas cities and counties and offer low income citizens opportunity for better nourishment than is provided by commodity programs in some counties.

Among problems with the proposal is lack of money available at the moment to the U. S. Department of Agriculture which funds a large portion of the food stamp program. USDA says it would have to ask for additional congressional appropriations to fund the governor's proposed state-wide program.

Smith says he believes the state's share of the cost would be money well spent and it would relieve counties of the financial burden of administering the program and issuing stamps—requirements under new federal guidelines.

Texas Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell said he doubts the statewide program could be initiated by the Sept. 1, 1972, start of the state's new fiscal year, as proposed by the governor, but he will talk to the governor about it.

Smith still says he wants to wait as long as possible before calling a special session of the Legislature this year to write an appropriations bill for fiscal '72 and handle whatever other matters the governor chooses to submit — including the food stamp proposal. He estimates cost of a special session at $800,000 to $1 million. Others claim his cost figure is far too high.

EDITORS' POLL MOVES WEST

Newspaper editors and publishers were polled on state political races last week at the meeting of the West Texas Press Association in Sweetwater.

Question one asked the editors was who they thought would carry their counties.

These were the results: Governor: Smith, 15; Barnes, 11; Briscoe, 9. U. S. Senate: Tower, 11; Yarborough, 10; Sanders, 7. Lt. Gov.: Connally, 10; Hobby, 5; Christie, 3; Hall, 1; and Jones, 1.

Asked whom they would vote for, the editors said: Governor: Briscoe, 15; Barnes, 8; Smith, 6; Farenthold, 4. U. S. Senate: Tower, 20; Sanders, 5; Yarborough, 5; Lt. Gov.: Connally, 11; Hobby, 7; and Christie, 3.

ELECTION FINANCING

Still up in the air is the question of how state primary elections this year are to be financed.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock, state's chief election officer, says the federal courts have clearly stated he has authority to use state funds for operation of the elections, just as state funds are used to conduct general elections. Other state officials say a special legislative session would be needed to provide the money.

TIMBER RECOVERY SOUGHT

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has filed suit to recover from the federal government $732,000 for lands ceded to national forests of Texas.

Texas seeks money for stumpage sales on 658,513 acres in four national forests. The forests are Angelina (Angelina, Jasper, Nacogdoches, and San Augustine counties); Davy Crockett (Houston and Trinity counties); Sabine (Jasper, Sabine, San Augustine and Shelby counties); and Sam Houston (Montgomery, San Jacinto and Walker Counties).

Under a 1911 act of Congress, 25 per cent of money received from each national forest was to be paid by the U. S. to the state in which the forest was located. Martin alleges that while there have been $2.9 million in Texas forest stumpage sales over the last six years, the federal government has withheld from the state the 25 per cent share due it.

HOG QUARANTINE LIFTED

Texas Animal Health Commission removed 28 counties from the hog cholera quarantine list last week and placed them under restricted movement.

Counties are Aransas, Bandera, Bastrop, Brooks, Caldwell, Calhoun, Colorado, Comal, Dimmit, Fayette, Frio, Guadalupe, Jim Hogg, Zapata, Jim Wells, Kendall, Kenedy, Kleberg, La Salle, Lavaca, Live Oak, McMullen, Matagorda, Medina, Nueces, Refugio, San Patricio and Wharton.

COURTS SPEAK

A $50 monthly expense allowance as mayor of Rusk does not bar Emmett Whitehead from running for the legislature, the Texas Supreme Court has ruled.

A federal district judge granted a government motion to dismiss an indictment of a San Antonio bank for making a loan to a gubernatorial campaign in 1970.

A Galveston district judge held the board of the rich Moody Foundation should be increased from three to seven members.

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Smith named six persons to the Texas Board of Private Detectives, Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies, effective immediately. George W. Bichsel, Assistant City Manager of San Antonio, and Capt. Robert A. Crowder, director of a Dallas private investigation firm, will serve two-year terms. Robert C. Taylor of Houston, regional manager of a detective agency, and Morris A. Ruebright, former Houston Crime Commission member, will serve four-year terms. Serving six-year terms will be J. Mason Lankford Jr., security administrator for a Fort Worth firm and J. W. Golden, Richardson police chief.

Bob Alcock, special assistant for Congressional Relations on the National Governors' Conference Staff, has been appointed

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There are some red faces around after secret proposals made to the Communist North Vietnamese were revealed that the President's emissary, Henry Kissinger, had offered Hanoi many of the same things the extreme doves have been demanding. It seems the President was willing to make just about every concession espoused by the 'peace' advocates, short of complete capitulation.

One point in Mr. Nixon's plan, as presented by Mr. Kissinger, was a $7 1/2 billion foreign aid program for all of Indo-China, with $2 1/2 billion earmarked for Communist North Vietnam. The significance of this point was somewhat lost among the others making up the proposal. In fact it is the most amazing of the main seven points involved.

Since when has the president —any President—or his representative in this case, been en-

Associate Director of the Office of State-Federal Relations, to take office March 1. He replaces former State Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews, who resigned his position to run for the Democratic nomination for Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts.

Reps. Jon Newton of Beeville and Richard Slack of Pecos have been appointed to an interim legislative committee to study the state's land vacancy statutes and recommend revisions to the laws.

Governor Smith reappointed Mrs. Jimmy (Annie Laura) Day of Brookshire and Dan R. Eddy Jr. of Dallas to the Good Neighbor Commission of Texas.

CRIME RATE

Houston and Harris County led the state during the first four months' collection of the new "crime tax", a court cost levied for use by the Texas Criminal Justice Council to upgrade local law enforcement planning.

The Legislature enacted the tax in 1971 to provide money for C.J.C. Under the tax, additional court costs of $2.50 are levied for misdemeanor convictions in city, county and justice of the peace courts, $5 for conviction on a misdemeanor in district courts and $10 for felony convictions.

Houston collected $210,387 during the period, said State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert. Totals for other major cities included Dallas, $117,266; San Antonio, $83,479; Fort Worth, $57,014; El Paso, $29,935; Austin, $34,098; Corpus Christi, $24,429; Amarillo, $18,453; Lubbock, $31,608; Beaumont, $23,811; Wichita Falls, $9,049; Irving, $13,582; Waco, $15,756; Arlington, $12,492 and Abilene $12,639.

County collections reported by Calvert included: Harris, $42,629; Dallas, $21,076; Bexar, $6,267; Tarrant, $7,811; El Paso, $9,168; Travis, $4,878; Jefferson, $6,553; Hidalgo, $7,184; Nueces, $5,116; Lubbock, $6,458; Galveston, $7,049; McLennan, $4,768; Cameron, $4,717; Wichita, $2,957 and Brazoria, $6,565.

SHORT SNORTS

The Governor's Criminal Justice Council has received notice it will be funded $58,640 to provide four-year courses of study in criminal justice at four Texas colleges. The grant, from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, U. S. Department of Justice, will be sub-granted by CJC to the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education. Participation colleges are University of Houston; Wayland Baptist College, Plainview; Christian College of the South-west, Mesquite and University of Texas at El Paso.

Twelve additional Texas counties have been approved for participation in the food stamp program of providing low cost stamps to low income persons for use in buying groceries. New counties with U. S. Department of Agriculture and State Welfare Department approval are Bowie, Cameron, Castro, Crosby, Dallas, Floyd, Hale, Hidalgo, Jefferson, Jim Wells, Swisher and Willicy.

University of Texas President Stephen H. Spurr was named to a new National Board on Graduate Education, a body which will investigate such things as oversupply of Ph.D.'s in certain fields and increasing costs of higher education.

Governor Smith has proclaimed March, April and May official Bluebonnet months.

dowed with the authority to make any such commitment? Where is their authority to appropriate, earmark and spend taxpayers dollars except by the Congress? This illustrates the usurpation of power by the Executive which has been in process for the last several years, including war-making.

The North Vietnamese have consistently shown a rather sophisticated grasp of American politics. They have played on the dissension in this country over the war to the fullest extent. In many ways they have successfully depended on this dissension to hold hostage our prisoners and to prevent total destruction of their country. At the same time, they probably know that Mr. Nixon may not be able to deliver on his $2 1/2 billion offer.

It is as if our bombing assaults had seriously damaged North Vietnam but the fact is they are not badly hurt by reason of our policy of limited attacks against it.

At the time when foreign aid is being reduced to friendly nations, the North Vietnamese probably, and correctly, have an idea that of the $7 1/2 billion total for Indo-China, their $2 1/2 billion might be pretty hard to come by. And, where would they be if the Congress balked at appropriating this kind of money? Where would we be if we walked out of South Vietnam leaving our prisoners in North Vietnam and unable to furnish the money pledged for a 'peace' settlement?

At a time when there seems to be a sentiment in this country and the Congress to reduce foreign aid and channel the savings into domestic programs of one sort or another, it is highly doubtful that another huge program of this dimension will be approved for Indo-China. There are active considerations in the Congress, and particularly in the Senate, ranging from reduction to the elimination of foreign aid. Looking at what the United States has always done in the past to aid former enemies, the North Vietnamese may expect such a policy to continue, regardless of what they do but if they are perceiving as it appears, they may get the message that such massive handouts are not likely. With the billions burnt up in the war, it would be cheap to pay off the North Vietnamese communists with $2 1/2 billion to withdraw their forces from South Vietnam; to cease their aggression and to release our prisoners but before the ransom is paid they should have to perform in advance their part of the agreement. This is the only way they might get the $2 1/2 billion.

Parks and Wildlife Commission is expected to review the Mustang Island purchase controversy at a Friday (Feb. 25) meeting.

Three Lunker Bass Caught In January

Austin—Wintertime bass fishing in East Texas has its rewards.

At least three catches of unusually large bass have been reported from three different East Texas lakes. Two of the catches came on the same day.

On Jan. 18, Grady Holton of Jasper wrestled a 10-pound, three-ounce lunker out of Toledo Bend Reservoir. On the same day, guide Larry Senf of Livingston hauled in an eight-pound, eight-ounce largemouth from a deep hole in Lake Livingston.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Start Flowers Indoors

"Get the jump" on spring by starting your summer-flowering annuals indoors, suggest the county agricultural agent.

Common bedding plants such as petunias, calendulas, snapdragons and larkspur will tolerate light frosts, but grow slowly when temperatures are low. Furthermore, marigolds, zinnias, cosmos, portulaca and certain other flowers cannot be planted outside until danger of frost has passed. Strong plants can be produced indoors during late winter in half the time required to grow them in the flower bed.

Plants that are started indoors can be set in the garden when they are almost ready to flower and the danger of a killing frost is past.

Parker suggests two methods for starting plants indoors. One involves the use of a seed flat in which vermiculite, perlite or coarse sand is used as a planting media. Or potting soil may be used with 1-2 or 3-4 inch covering of one of the above materials.

Fruit boxes, pans or trays may be used to start plants.

They should be three to six inches deep and have openings in the bottom for drainage. Soak the planting media thoroughly, then remove surplus water by squeezing or draining. Open tiny furrows 1-4 inch deep two inches apart. Distribute the seed 1-8 and 1-4 inch apart in these furrows and level the surface. Cover the seed flat with a clear plastic bag, using small wire hoops to hold the plastic off the young seedlings. Place flat in sunny window. If plastic bag is closed tightly, no additional water will be necessary.

Transplant the seedlings to small pots when the second pair of true leaves have developed. One-to-two inch plant bands, peat pots or "Jiffy Pots" or small plastic pots filled with potting soil may be used. Transplant one or two seedlings to each container, soak thoroughly and again cover with a plastic bag.

Open the plastic covering slightly the fourth day following transplanting. Spread the opening slightly more on the fifth day and still more the sixth day, then remove it completely on the seventh day. If the plastic is removed suddenly, the seedlings will die due to the drastic change in humidity.

Keep the plants in these small containers until they can safely be planted outside, advises Parker.

Seeding plants can also be produced by planting two to five seeds directly into the small containers in which they are to grow. The depth of planting, watering, management and cov-

Delectable Prunes

A delicacy of ancient Persia so captured the fancy of Alexander the Great during his invasion of the Middle East, that he returned home with tree stock to plant the first prune orchard in Europe. That was more than 300 years before Christ, according to legend.

Other Europeans liked this fruit from Persia, too: soon orchards began to flourish in Hungary and France as well as in Alexander's native land Greece.

The fruit was so delectable and highly perishable that it was harvested as soon as it began to ripen. So, prunes could be enjoyed only during the short harvesting season.

Then came an unexpected breakthrough that made the prune-plums available throughout the year. Hungarian farmers discovered that fruit left on the trees after it was ripe did not fall off. The prunes dried up during the hot summer months and then fell off. The farmer tasted this dried fruit, and they were surprised to find it just as delectable as the fresh fruit.

Soon every farmer with a prune orchard followed the practice of leaving some fruit to dry on the trees for late use.

And that's how dried prunes originated. The fruit came to the United States via two Frenchmen—Pierre and Louis Pellier—who went prospecting for gold in the Santa Clara Valley of California.

Although the Frenchmen didn't strike it rich, they decided to make the best of their adventure and remained in California to farm.

When Pierre grew lonesome for his sweetheart, Louis sent him to France to marry the girl. In 1856, Pierre returned to California with his bride and some cuttings from a French prune-plum tree—a present for his brother, Louis.

This was the beginning of the

The Hungarians use prunes in a pot roast. They add about a cup and a half of dried prunes to the kettle during the last hour of cooking. In this case, prunes need not be soaked ahead of time. Use them straight from the package.

President Nixon vs. Archie Bunker?

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (CEF)

The news that President Nixon's trip to China will be televised live in the United States raises some interesting possibilities.

The Democrats are grumbling that their presidential candidates are in for the biggest upstaging job of all time. Who, they say, will be interested in watching film clips of Hubert Humphrey in Peoria or Edmund Muskie in Pittsburgh when he can watch Mr. Nixon in Peking?

But there is the chance that there may be a backfire effect from this slickly devised maneuver of statesmanship and politics.

Imagine somebody unwittingly turning on his television set, twiddling the dial in the hope of finding Archie Bunker, Big Bird or perhaps an old Dracula movie, when he chances upon the President strolling along the Great Wall of China.

Mr. Nixon did make sure he scheduled the trip after the Super Bowl and Pro Bowl were both done with, so he wouldn't risk competing with them in the ratings.

He will, however, have to be careful to avoid preempting too many popular shows if he does not want to lose more votes than he gains. A little too much TV overexposure will have people talking to themselves: "Does he have to be on every channel?" "Is he going to shake hands with all 800 million of them?" "That Henry Kissinger is sure no Ed McMahon." "Let's hope he's off before it's time for 'My Little Margie.'" "I wonder if he knows how to say, 'I want to make one thing perfectly clear' in Chinese."

It has become a political axiom of sorts that it is a wise candidate who never gets between a voter and his favorite television program, though, and since Mr. Nixon is not one to ignore political axioms, he may well schedule his China activities to avoid conflicting with prime time viewing. This may present something of a problem, since Peking is from 13 to 16 hours ahead of continental U.S. time, so if Mr. Nixon wants to be on, say, around 4 p.m. here—thereby coming on after the soap operas but before the detective shows—he will have to visit the Great Wall at 5 in the morning. Even that, however, would be better than offending Marcus Welby's fans; you have to pay the price.

All the complications involved may in fact make Mr. Nixon wish he were back in the good old days, when Marco Polo could just jump on his camel and take off for China, without having to worry about how many reporters to take along with him.

But then again, Marco Polo wasn't running for president when he left for China 700 years ago.

"Skin Game" sounds like, but definitely isn't, a skin flick!

"Nope!" grins James Garner off-handedly. "I believe in keeping my shirt on, if you know what I mean." Garner's Cherokee Productions produced "Skin Game" for Warner Bros. The Technicolor film shows Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre. "I'm far from being a puritan," continued Garner, "but I don't go for all this nudity business. It's pretty obvious that when a producer finds he has a bomb in the making, he hires a girl to take her duds off and puts the footage in reel one. They call it insurance, I call it a cop out."

Garner stars with Lou Gossett in "Skin Game," the comedy-western about a pair of con-men who bilk slave owners out of their ill-gotten gains. Also starring in the film directed by Paul Bogart is a pair of lovely ladies, Susan Clark and Brenda Sykes.
