... about your SOCIAL SECURITY

There are about 580,000 students in the United States ages 18 through 21 who receive monthly social security checks, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager. The checks are sent each month because the students are unmarried and in full-time attendance at schools. These students are children of parents who have retired, become unable to work, or have died and have enough social security credit to permit payment of benefits. The checks average about $90 each month and are based on the average earnings of the parents.

About this time each year, Mr. Talbot said, the student or his representative payee is sent a small card containing questions and an envelope in which to return the card. The questions ask whether the child has married, if he is still in full-time attendance at school, and whether he intends to continue his education after the end of the present school term.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Winters may call toll free by dialing "Operator" and asking for "Enterprise 2058".

Vets In School Must Send In Attendance Cards

"Mail in your certification of attendance card for your final month of training, or you can't be paid."

That is the reminder the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office is sending to 44,306 Texas veterans attending colleges and universities under the GI Bill. It's a message VA mails to veterans each year with their next to final check for the enrollment period, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Director.

The idea is to induce the veteran to fill out the "cert" card, sign it, and return it immediately to his VA Regional Office so he won't be wondering what happened to his education allowance for his final month of training. For most schools, this means the months of May or June.

Here, specifically, is why reminders are being sent to veterans attending college: VA cannot prepare the final check for the spring 1971-72 school year until it receives the "cert" card.

If the card is not returned at the end of the current semester, the veteran cannot automatically be enrolled under the GI Bill for the upcoming summer or fall semesters.

It was also pointed out that veteran-students have the responsibility of keeping VA informed on changes in the number of dependents, or education programs.

College registrars also have a responsibility in insuring that veterans receive their allowance checks on time. Registrars should promptly return students' re-enrollment certification so payments will start automatically when study is resumed.

Details are available at the nearest VA office, veterans county service office, or from local veterans service organizations.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Weed Control Can Boost Pastures

The stockman searching for low-cost feed may find it in his pasture-lands, provided he has kept them free from weeds.

Pastures don't produce as much feed per acre as do the intensively tilled fields producing grain, says County Agricultural Agent Parker.

But, because pastures do not require the input of labor and machinery as do other crops, they can yield high quality feed at low cost.

For every pound of weeds that grows in a pasture, a pound or more of good forage does not grow, Parker notes.

"Herbicides are available to control many broad-leaved weeds infesting pastures. In most cases, they are cheaper and more effective than mechanical methods. Proper management of livestock to prevent them from grazing pastures too close also helps in controlling

WASHINGTON
"As It Looks From Here"
OMAR BURRELLSON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It has been gratifying to learn that occasionally these comments in "As It Looks From Here" have been used by Civics teachers in our public schools and in some Political Science classes in colleges.

This being the case, this is the first of a series of three articles which, it is hoped, will be helpful in discussions on the Constitutional separation of powers of the three branches of the Federal Government. Although oriented towards classroom study it is further the hope that others may find interest in comments on a very old subject and one which has arisen in intense controversy from time to time all through our history. As a matter of fact, it has been a continuous debate, depending on the times and personalities formulating policies in the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches of our Government.

At the moment is the issue of the commitment of overseas armed forces by the President of the United States without the consent of Congress. The issue is emphasized further by the contention of certain Senators that the President exceeds his authority by resorting to "Executive Agreements" with foreign governments instead of formal treaties requiring confirmation by the U. S. Senate.

Generally, however, the discussion in the several following articles will deal primarily with relations between the Legislative arm of Government and the Judiciary.

The Congress passes laws and the Supreme Court interprets those laws as to their applicawinter in the old bags, removal and destruction of the bags before the larvae emerge will also control this pest.

Fire Blight Damaging Pears

Fire blight is causing considerable damage to the pear crop in Rannels Co. this year. Parker explains that weather conditions during bloom time were favorable for disease development, and as a result, "blossom blight" occurred. The blight has now progressed to the point that in some cases large limbs will be lost to this bacterial disease if control measures are not taken, says the agent.

Symptoms of the disease include scorching and then rapid death of young leaves and twigs.

Control of this disease is both a combination of chemical and cultural control, points out Parker. Variety selection is important. Kieffer and Orient have some tolerance to this problem, whereas Bartlett is extremely susceptible. Excessive levels of nitrogen should not be used around pears as it will stimulate succulent growth which is highly susceptible to the disease.

Chemical control is difficult since three to four sprays are required at 14-day intervals beginning at bloom. Fixed coppers at the rate of two tablespoons per gallon of water are effective against fire blight.

tion and constitutionally in a particular case. It has often been said that in more recent years, the courts have not been ruling on what the law is but rather on what they think it ought to be. When this becomes the case, the courts are then legislating instead of interpreting.

The role of each branch of Government, that is the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial, was established by our founding fathers as coequal and coordinate branches of Government. The genesis of the American political experiment fashioned in 1789 was the fragmented nature to create checks and balances, one against the other. The framers of the Constitution divided political power between the Federal and State Governments and made further division within the Federal structure to balance the authority given to each of the three branches.

Without question this division of governmental authority was a deliberate act intended by the framers of our Constitution to preserve to the maximum extent an individual's freedom from the only creature capable of taking it away—an irresponsible government.

These political innovations are fundamental to our form of government and not subject to change except by the will of the people themselves. Unfortunately, from time to time in our history, and at the present, these great principles which were envisioned to give us a sense of security and comfort are now viewed as immutable. The States are rapidly becoming merely administrative appendages of the Federal Government. Because so much legislation has been enacted by the Congress, the administration of which is given the Executive, in too many instances the Executive has dominated the legislative. In more recent times, the Judiciary has assumed an activist role in shaping national policy. For this reason the "checks and balances" have become more of a slogan than meaningful. To the extent that this carefully structured system is being eroded, individual freedom itself may be in jeopardy.

There is little doubt that there is an uneasiness which pervades our land concerning the recent actions of the Judicial Branch of Government. People are realizing that they are being governed by people not elected by them. These are the people in the bureaucratic setup under the Executive Department and the courts. Insofar as the courts are concerned, it is well to keep in mind their historic functions. Simply stated courts exist to provide a forum for the fair and peaceful resolution of private wrongs. For example, a private wrong might include a typical automobile accident case, a land dispute or divorce. The litigation is a private controversy between identified litigants to a dispute of a transaction or an event. A public wrong on the other hand affects all of society such as the environment, poverty, illiteracy or any other soc-

1972 Rainfall Ahead of Previous Year; Conditions Normally Good

With May more than three-quarters over, recorded rainfall for the city of Winters—and for most outlying communities in North Runnels County—is already ahead of the total received in the area for the first five months of 1971.

However, most of the rainfall for the year has fallen during the month of May, according to the Winters record. Through the first four months, only 1.50 inches of rainfall was recorded; 3.83 inches has been received in Winters proper during May to bring the total for the year to 5.33 inches, Roy Rice, official recorder for the U. S. Weather Bureau, reports.

In 1971, only 4.25 inches of rainfall was recorded for the first five months, with the biggest amount—2.51—received in April, following several months of extremely dry weather, Rice said. The "big hail" hit Winters and the surrounding area on May 8, 1971, but only 1.42 inches of rain was recorded for the entire month of May last year. June was the big month for 1971, with 8.33 inches recorded in Winters.

Amount of rainfall for the North Runnels area has been varied this year. Some sections have received much more than others, and at different times, and growing stages of crops—and planting operations—reflect this situation. Many farmers had planted before the rains came earlier this month, and crops were up and growing, while many were forced to wait for planting moisture. Also, several had planted just prior to some of the heavier rainfall, which was accompanied in some communities by light hail, and have been forced to replant. Even with light recordings during the first four months of 1972, conditions had been bettered by the rains which fell in the last six months of 1971. It is not too far to moisture, according to many reports, and reports of a great amount of "seepage" in many localities of North Runnels have been received.

Heaviest rainfall during May for Winters proper was recorded on May 7. Roy Rice points out that in some instances rainfall credited to certain dates may actually have been received on the day before. Readings are taken at 8 a. m. daily, covering the previous 24-hour period, so that in some cases, rainfall which may have been received on a Saturday afternoon is recorded in the Sunday report.
