HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Although conditions are still "pretty good," from all reports, we need a good rain in this area...

Much of the range land is dry, and just waiting for someone to drop a cigarette, a match, fall to douse a trash fire or camp fire.

There is nothing, perhaps, more terrifying than a grass or forest fire. One can start in what seems to be the most unlikely spot...

Fighting a grass fire is more than a little dangerous for the firefighters, too, little as we think about it.

And little as we might think about it, grass fires can be just as dangerous and devastating in town as in the rural areas.

So the volunteer firemen—and those other men who join the fire fighting when the need arises—are forever praying that someone doesn't become careless.

None of us can be too careful in the way we treat fires—our own lives or property could be destroyed through a careless act.

Dan Miller lost his billfold while plowing three years ago. Last week, Ervin Compton, plowing in the same field, found the billfold and returned it to Miller.

When N. O. Lawton's cantaloupes came up some weeks ago, he sank a coffee can in the ground beside the vine...

The school kids have a lot of excitement to look forward to, beginning August 21, when the school doors open again.

Probably Slow at First, But...

Hospital Construction To Begin Next Monday

Construction of the new North Runnels Hospital will begin next Monday, August 7, slightly more than nine months after voters approved a bond issue to build a new hospital.

Rose & Sons, Inc., construction company of Abilene, will build the new hospital, to be located on the southeast edge of Winters, fronting on FM 53 about two blocks east of the US 83-FM 53 intersection.

The board of directors of North Runnels County Hospital District met Monday night to complete contract negotiations with the construction firm, and to deduct several minor items from the original plans, to lower construction costs.

Cost of construction will be $496,281, with the possibility of another $1,174 to be deducted, subject to verification by the architect and contractor.

The Abilene firm had submitted the low bid for construction of the hospital—$508,403.00—at the bid opening July 13.

Members of the district board said the deletions from the original plans which were approved Monday night would in no manner change the structure or operating efficiency of the hospital, but would lower the overall cost of construction to near the original amount of the bond issue, $475,000.

Only minor items were deleted, they said, and in some instances "rough-ins" will be built for future additions of the deleted items.

Representatives of the construction company said all local labor possible will be used on this job. Applications for employment may be made at the job site.

John Chiles Allen of Austin is architect for the new hospital.

Start of construction will come about three years after initial creation of the hospital district, and barely more than nine months after voters of North Runnels County approved a bond issue of $475,000 for the purpose.

Creation of the district, comprised of the north half of Runnels County—old Commissioners' Precincts 2 and 3—was authorized by the State Legislature in regular session in 1969.

An election was held in August, 1969, and voters approved creation of the district and elected a board of directors. As a result of the formation of the hospital district, the Winters Municipal Hospital, built in the mid-1930s, was transferred to the district.

The board of directors of the new hospital district, upon election, began an immediate study of the community's needs, and of ways and means of improving hospital services for the district. Because of the age of the old Municipal Hospital, and other limitations which precluded approval by State and Federal agencies in many instances, the board sought the opinion of the people of the district. Acting upon the expressed desires of the public, brought out in public meetings and otherwise, the board employed an architect and began planning for the hospital.

A bond election was called for October 19, 1971, and issue of bonds for $475,000 was approved by the voters. Since that time, the board has worked closely with the architect and local medical people, in an attempt to build a hospital which would meet the needs of the community.

Runnels Farm, Ranch Land Being Evaluated For Tax Purposes

A crew employed by the County Tax Assessor-Collector's office, is now in the field contacting land owners of Runnels County, verifying tax records and information contained in a soil analysis report, to be used in evaluating land for tax purposes, County Judge Elliott Kemp said this week.

Monty England, Frank Nance and Bob Moore, all of Runnels County, have studied the Soil Survey Maps and reports prepared several months ago by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and will verify this information with on-site inspection, and check all tax listings for correctness.

Judge Kemp said that the Commissioners Court, almost a year ago, became aware of "the inequity and difficulty of fairly evaluating land for tax purposes," and initiated a plan based on soil analysis and production ability prepared by the USDA. Funds were received through the West Central Texas Council of Governments, and with cooperation from the school boards of Winters and Ballinger, and listing of all acreage and buildings in the county has been completed.

When this program is completed, Judge Kemp said, "it will be one of the best systems (of evaluation) in the state, and every property and land owner will be in a position to compare his valuation with any other in the county."

Capt. Len Stone To Thailand

Captain Len Stone, U. S. Air Force meteorologist, has been assigned to duty in a remote area of Thailand.

Based On Soil Analysis

Farm and ranch land being classed on ability to produce can be taxed accordingly," the County Judge said, "and this system should eliminate much of the guess work involved in assessing taxes."

Judge Kemp continued, "With the talk of the State taking over, the county wants to complete this survey and get it operational, because it would be the only way Runnels County could hope to get an even break with counties that may have better land or more favorable taxing conditions."

George Beard, principal of Winters Elementary and Primary Schools, has asked that all children who were not in the local kindergarten or first grade last year, register at the school next week.

Appointment letters have been sent to all parents, scheduling registration times during the week.

Shorter Workweek,
Earlier Retirement

Wellesley Hills, Mass., August, 1972. When some major union contracts come up for renegotiation next year, there will undoubtedly still be limitations on wage increases under Phase 2 or some extension of it. Hence, liberalization of working conditions is likely to receive more emphasis at bargaining tables than large-scale raises. Two important issues will take center stage during 1973: Shortening the workweek and planning for earlier retirement.

Four-Day Workweek

More controversial of the two demands is that concerning a cutback in the length of the workweek. While leaders in the auto and railway unions have placed the shorter workweek on the agenda for next year's bargaining, there is as yet no great rank-and-file pressure for such a measure. The four-day week has become rather widespread over the past year or more in smaller industries, and its acceptance has been fairly enthusiastic where it is workable in terms of the industry involved—even though the ten-hour day has generally been retained.

One thing, however, is certain. If the shorter workweek becomes a key bargaining point in autos and/or railways, the demand will be for a thirty-two-hour week spread over four days but at same take-home home pay. The forty-hour week accepted by many smaller industrial employe groups is definitely out as far as the big unions are concerned. This would mean a ten-hour day, which is scarcely doing away with job boredom—one of the chief reasons for considering cutting weekly hours.

Machinists Set Pace

Railway union chieftains are not overly enthusiastic about a four-day week even though Railway Employees Department delegates unanimously endorsed the thirty-two-hour week at forty hours pay. The Machinists Association, pace setter for railway bargaining, has shown little interest in this issue. Nor is it expected to unless there is enough unemployment next year to create local support for the short workweek as a key to more jobs.

Even if there is overwhelming support for a shorter week, most labor officials will fight to the end against a ten-hour day—no matter what the pay situation. They will stress that the eight-hour day was a major goal of organized labor from the time of the first Federation convention in 1886, and surely not a prize to be lightly surrendered, even for the purpose of cutting unemployment.

Workers Want To Retire Early

The United Automobile Workers are not expected to draft bargaining demands in specific terms until next March, just before negotiations begin. But there is little doubt that the issue of early retirement will be one of the prime considerations, possibly with top priority. A major cause of the prolonged strike against General Motors in 1970 was the determined union drive for retirement after thirty years in the plants, regardless of age. After this bitter battle, a compromise was reached, permitting retirement at age fifty-six after thirty years employment, with $500-a-month pension.

Look for renewed pressure at the bargaining table during 1973 to allow retirement after thirty years regardless of age. And there will be a new demand that would be more costly for the auto companies. Next year the union will call for an early-retirement pension of $650 a month, an amount it considers more realistic in terms of the inflationary price pressures since 1970. Even a tough price board would be less likely to object to this pension than to a sizable pay hike.

Trend Will Strengthen

The Research Department of Babson's Reports is of the opinion that both a shorter week and early retirement will be significant objectives of labor for a long while. Each step in these directions will be a consolidation — springboarding drives to increase the gains. All of this will keep labor costs in a decided upswing.

THE OUTDOOR LEISURE MARKET

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — Outlays for leisure activities have been expanding swiftly during recent years. Estimates place such spending at $105 billion for 1972 as compared with only $58 billion in 1965. In addition to the fact that Americans are energetic in their play as well as in their work, there are a number of factors responsible for the burgeoning of the leisure market in all parts of the country.

Personal income, for example, has advanced almost 50 percent in the past five years. This has occurred at the same time the worksheet was shrinking for an increasingly large segment of the populace. More than 40 million workers are now entitled to vacations of three weeks. Increased spending on leisure activities has also been fostered by long weekends, more holidays, and the trend toward a four-day workweek. Another development is the improvement in pension plans and social security benefits, enabling more employees to retire at an earlier age.

FAVORITE LEISURE ACTIVITIES

Outdoor activities favored by the U. S. population aged nine and up are reported by the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

EVEN LEE TREVINO gets that frustrated feeling sometimes when a putt won't drop.

Figures reveal that the greatest share of our people enjoy picnicking (49%) and swimming (46%). On down the list in terms of general popularity are participation in outdoor sports (36 percent), attending sports events (35%), fishing (29%), boating (24%), bicycling (22%), and camping (21%). Also gaining favor are nature walks, hunting, horseback riding, wildlife photography, and bird watching.

Over recent years there has been a definite trend toward "back to nature" types of recreation. One reflection of this is the enormous increase in the number of people visiting our national parks. The National Park Services this year anticipate a record-shattering 212 million visitors. Further evidence of mounting interest in the outdoors is the boom in production and sales of camping vehicles of all sorts. At the present time it is estimated that there are four million camping vehicles in this country, ranging all the way from $300 tent trailers to motor homes ranging as high as $25,000. If projections prove to be correct, the number of camping vehicles in the United States will have risen to 7.5 million by 1978.

COMMERCIAL VALUE INVOLVED

There is no question but that outdoor recreation is becoming increasingly important to the nation's economy. Spending on all types of goods and services related to outdoor recreation is taking a steadily larger portion of the consumer budget, and this uptrend appears destined to continue indefinitely. As a matter of fact, responsible estimates indicate that outlays for leisure-time activities will more than double during the decade of the 1970's.

American business is keenly aware of the growing economic impact of the leisure market. Companies currently engaged in manufacturing and marketing recreational products are numerous, and more may be expected to join the parade as the

FIRMS IN LEISURE FIELD

At present, the Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends two "leisure-time" issues for purchase. First is Igloo Corporation common stock, traded on the American Stock Exchange. The firm is a major producer of plastic picnic chests and metal and plastic beverage coolers. For the current year, earnings are likely to surpass $1.30 a share as compared with $1.09 in 1971 and 62c in 1970.

Second is Outdoor Sports Industries stock, also traded on the American Exchange. This company is favored because of its growing role as a manufacturer of horse riding equipment, camping and hiking goods, and sailing and marine equipment. Aided by acquisitions, company should be able to chalk up full-year 1972 results well above the 73c a share reported for last year.

move to build safer cars. It is also the reason the Texas State Department of Health and authorities in other states have moved to implement an intensive ambulance training program to provide the best medical care possible after an accident has occurred.

Some medical leaders say automotive experts must 'package the human' in his automobile in order to minimize injuries and reduce traffic mishap fatalities. Experience has shown that even people who consider themselves better drivers don't always fasten their seat belts and shoulder straps.

Some authorities believe better bumpers, better structural integrity and better door locks will help lessen injuries and fatalities. A big help, they say, would be 100 percent use of seat restraints, but the safety belts can't save you if you're sitting on them.

That is why it has become so necessary to have the best possible trained and equipped ambulance service and emergency medical care. The State Health Department to date has trained hundreds of ambulance attendants across the State, and through such programs, are upgrading the quality of emergency medical care in Texas.

Still, there is a need to build safety into the cars. Safety experts estimate only about one in five persons use safety belts and one in 20 use shoulder belts. Facts such as these have led to the movement toward "passive restraints."

Whatever the outcome of this movement, the Texas public can rest assured that better emergency medical care will be available as the State Health Department's training programs continue.

Conservation Group Buys Big Thicket Prairie Land

Austin—A small part of the Big Thicket is saved for the enjoyment of all Texans.

The Texas Conservation Foundation, acting in a recent meeting, voted to buy a little over three acres of the Marysee Prairie in Liberty County for $4,882.50.

The Marysee Prairie is located on Highway 162 between Baton and Moss Hill. Less than 100 acres of near-virgin prairie remain of the miles of extensive grasslands which greeted the first white men to Texas.

It is all of the prairie plant community which exists between Pine Island Bayou and the Trinity River.

According to the descendants of early settlers in the area, this portion of prairie has never been plowed or mowed. Local residents say that occasional wildfires swept the land and stimulated the exuberant growth of grasses such as Eastern gamma, Indian grass and bluestem.

Prairie wildflowers such as winecups and cornflowers, as well as species not found in any other part of Texas thrive on the Marysee.

Its proximity to forested land offers a unique opportunity to study the succession between prairie and woodlands.

The Marysee Prairie is not part of any bill to preserve the Big Thicket.

The Foundation's purchase was endorsed by Mrs. Geraldine Watson of Silsbee and Professor Richard C. Harrel of Lamar University in Beaumont.

A $5,000 check from the Atlantic Richfield Corporation made it all possible.

The area will be fenced and preservation will involve occasional burning under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service to prevent the invasion of alien plant species.

Texans interested in helping maintain this unique part of the state are encouraged to send their donations to the Texas Conservation Foundation, P. O. Box 12845, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

New York, N. Y., Wallace-Murray Corporation has reported that second quarter sales and earnings maintained the healthy rate of improvement established in the first quarter and that six months net income was 54 percent ahead of the like period in 1971.

Fred R. Raach, president and chief executive officer, said that volume for the six months ended July 2 was $130,156,457, compared with $108,609,392 in the first six months of 1971. Net income was $4,251,794 as against $2,757,862 for the same period in 1971. Earnings per share on the outstanding stock amounted to $1.13, compared with $.63 in the prior year, and on a fully diluted basis, earnings per share were $.87 vs. $.58 last year — a 50 percent improvement.

Sales for the three months ended July 2 were $67,711,056, compared with $55,409,250 the previous year. Net income for the same period was $2,476,144, compared with $1,572,517 the year before.

According to Mr. Raach, these solid improvements in sales and earnings can be attributed to continued strength in the Company's Building Products Group, to a steadily increasing contribution to profits from Power Components, and to the fact that the Cutting Tools Group is significantly ahead of last year.

Dry Manufacturing Division of Winters, manufacturers of registers, grilles and diffusers, is a member of the Wallace-Murray family of companies.

Experimental Dove Season To Provide Some Answers

Austin — Texas dove hunters with frostbite? Unheard of! Until this season, Texas dove hunters were more prone to head prostration or rattlesnake bite.

But recent action by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission split the mourning dove season, making a portion of it in September, and the remainder in January when the cold winds blow.

The North Zone season will be Sept. 1 through October 14, 1972, and Jan. 6-21, 1973.

In the South Zone the season will be Sept. 23 through Nov. 5, 1972, and Jan. 6 through Jan.

21, 1973, except that in counties having an open season for white-winged doves, the open season for mourning doves ends Nov. 2 during the fall segment of the season.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists stress the split season is just an experiment to see if the late season will result in additional recreation without unduly increasing the overall harvest of doves. They will keep a close eye on the results to see if late dove hunting in Texas might affect the breeding populations of other states.

Hunters have long been interested in such a season because of the many doves present in Texas during the winter months, according to department officials.

Permian Basin Javelina Season Set

Austin—Spare that javelina. Recent Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission rulings set a Sept. 1, 1972, through Jan. 31, 1973, javelina season in the Permian Basin with a bag limit of two.

The Permian Basin previously had a year-round open season on javelina and no bag limit.

"Javelina are taking hunting pressure in this area," said Horace Gore, department wildlife specialist, "above that which they can stand without damage to the population. Counties affected by the ruling which take effect July 22 are Andrews, Borden, Cochran, Coke, Concho, Crosby, Dawson, Fisher, Gaines, Glasscock, Has-ell, Hockley, Howard, Irion, Jones, Kent, Knox, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Mitchell, Nolan, Reagan, Runnels, Scurry, Sterling, Stonewall, Taylor, Terry, Tom Green, Upton, Ward and Yoakum.

Biologists called for the experimental season this year because they now have the means to evaluate the effects of a split season whereas in the past sources of the information needed were not available.

Austin, Texas—Gov. Preston Smith is threatening a special legislative session on insurance reform.

In a statewide, televised speech, he announced he will ask the Legislature to abolish the paid, three-member State Insurance Board, which he charges is company dominated.

Angered by Senate rejection July 7 of his longtime friend, Larry Teaver, to the Board, Smith blamed the defeat on the "powerful insurance lobby."

His recommendations to "completely reorganize and reform the regulation of the insurance industry" will be delivered to a special session this year or to the next regular session in January.

Reaction to his speech, the Governor said, will determine whether he goes through with the special session call. He feels reorganization of the Board can be achieved only in a limited special session, but he isn't sure whether the public yet supports reform strongly enough to insure action.

Dallas Sen. Oscar Mauzy, a leader in the move to reject Teaver, challenged Smith to follow through and call the session immediately. He said he opposed Teaver, not because he was a consumer advocate on the Board, but for "lack of character and ability."

Smith in his tv speech announced 19 vetoes of items totaling $8.35 million from the 1973 appropriations bill.

Among the vetoed items: funds to acquire facilities for an A & I University center at Corpus Christi; a legislative scheme to thwart construction of a new highway building near the capitol by forcing creation of a state "garden park" on the site; $1 million for a Fort Worth state school and $1.22 million for new branch junior college in Coleman, Lubbock, Haskell and Palestine.

Disabled Vets Get Living-Cost Increase Checks

Nearly 2.2 million veterans with military service-connected disabilities will receive checks with 10 percent cost-of-living increases in September, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Office Director, reported today.

President Nixon signed Public Law 92-328 granting compensation increases June 30. The increases won't go into effect until August 1. Allowances for dependents of veterans rated at least 50 percent disabled are included in the increases, the first since those provided under Public Law 91-376 two years ago.

Coker stressed that the increases will be paid automatically, and that eligible veterans need not contact the agency to receive them.

With the 10 percent increase, a 50 percent disabled veteran's compensation would go from $135 to $149 a month, and a 100 percent disabled veteran would receive $495 monthly instead of $450.

Before the 10 percent increase some veterans adjudged to have suffered certain specific severe disabilities could draw as high as $1,120 a month. They would receive $1,232 monthly under the increased rates. However, compensation in this category is decided on an individual basis.

Public Law 92-328 also provides a $150 a year clothing allowance for veterans who wear prosthetic devices because of service-connected disabilities, if these devices tend to wear or tear their clothing. Wheelchair patients are included. Additional details on that benefit will be announced later, Coker said.

Still another provision of the new law makes peacetime veterans eligible for compensation at the same rate as wartime veterans, instead of the 80 percent of wartime rate which has been in effect for 40 years. This equalization provision will not go into effect until July 1, 1973.

Compensation is paid to veterans whose injuries or diseases were incurred in line of duty (or aggravated by it).

"Summer of '42"
Warner Bros. "Summer of '42" showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, is an excursion into nostalgia for some and an open door to the innocent delights of a generation ago for others, but for everyone it is a simple human comedy with a timeless feeling. Its story is as true to today as it was in '42 and as it will be tomorrow. Only the calendar changes.

The Technicolor film was directed by Robert Mulligan and produced by Richard A. Roth. It is from an original screenplay by Herman Raucher.

"Summer of '42" stars three newcomers to the screen, chosen by director Mulligan and producer Roth after exhaustive tests. They are Gary Grimes, Jerry Houser and Oliver Conant. All hover around the age of 13, their ages in the film. The Mulligan-Roth production also stars a blazing beauty named Jennifer O'Neill as the "older woman" of 22 and marks her first dramatic starring role.

The story is one of growing up, of three boys spending the summer with their families on an island off the New England coast, of their adolescent yearnings and fumbings, especially with regards to girls, their adventures, their hesitant forays into the mysteries of oncoming manhood and the one great experience which one has with a lady more mature than he. Mainly, viewed through a few tears, it is excruciatingly funny.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Erysipelas is costly swine disease

Erysipelas is a bacterial disease of swine that is extremely hard to eliminate. Producers that have had the disease in their herds can either vaccinate or go out of business.

Once a farm is infected, the producer must deal with the disease for years. This is due to the bacteria's ability to live in its environment for long periods of time.

Germs are released from the infected animal in its excretions. These disease-carrying wastes cause a build-up on the farm, and other animals become infected through contaminated food and water. The disease can be picked up from contaminated soil as well.

Compounding the problem is the fact that the organism has a protecting wax coating. As a result, it is resistant to many agents used to kill many other bacteria.

According to Parker, vectors also carry the disease from one location to another. The erysipelas organism has been found in wild as well as domestic animals, birds, fish and insects. Soil, water and decaying organic matter also are sites of infestation.

Besides swine, the contagious disease infects sheep, turkeys and man.

Symptoms vary with the form of disease contacted. Generally, the pig runs a temperature of 104 degrees or higher and refuses to eat. Joints become swollen and the animal prefers to lie down. Spotting, usually light to dark purple, appears and disappears on the skin. Sometimes sloughing of the skin occurs. Gangrene can set into the tips of the ears and tail, causing them to eventually fall off.

A special vaccine administered in drinking water develops an immunity in about seven days and lasts from nine to 11 months.

Erysipelas serum provides immediate protection that lasts two or three weeks. This serum can protect healthy animals as well as treat sick ones when disease strikes the herd, points out the agent.

He adds that the breeding herd should be vaccinated every six months, preferably 30 days before farrowing. Pigs nursing on vaccinated sows will be immune for their first six weeks. At six to eight weeks of age, they should be vaccinated to provide immunity through marketing age.

Flowers That Fall
Flowers that provide a colorful fall landscape should be selected early so the plants can develop fully to escape frost damage.

Of all the fall flowers, the chrysanthemum is probably the most popular. There are many varieties of chrysanthemum in shades of red, yellow, lavender and white. And, the cluster-type mums will grow with minimum care and produce many blooms. If starting with small plants, best results are obtained by planting before August 1. But larger plants are often available from nurseries and garden centers and may be set out even when in blossom this fall. The agent states you can plant them in a bed with summer-blooming plants.

As summer-blooming plants begin to fade, replace them with fall-blooming types. To prepare for new plants, remove the entire planting of summer annuals and spade and hoe the bed.

Nectarines

In this age of computers and moon walks, old wives' tales still abound in the kitchens of many Americans. Priceless stories about nectarines are one of the most popular "leg-pullers."

Even though a nectarine is as sweet as a plum and pretty as a peach, a nectarine is a nectarine. Like the peach, cherry and apricot, the nectarine is a member of the rose family and is closely related to the almond.

Chances are both peaches and nectarines evolved from almonds in ancient China centuries before Christ. They flourished in the fabled Persian palace gardens and were cultivated by the Greeks and Romans. Later, nectarines were grown in Spain and Britain and presumably reached America from these countries.

Nectarines usually appear in markets throughout the southwest during July and August. The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reports this year's nectarine crop is the second largest of record which should provide plentiful sweetness all summer long.

Today's nectarine is new in the sense that most common varieties now found in supermarkets have been developed since World War II. In contrast to the delicate, white-fleshed fruit of the past, nectarines now have much firmer, golden meat.

For best eating enjoyment, the suggestions Mrs. O'Connor makes in selections are: That "give" ever so slightly to palm pressure and that show no green at the stem end. The skins should be taut and smooth. Intensity of red and gold is not necessarily a clue to ripeness because varieties vary in coloring (and shape).

Nectarines are ideal for out-of-hand summer eating because they needn't be peeled. The fuzzy-free skin is thin, tender and flavorful.

Another advantage, nectarines offer, is their ability to take heat. Few other fresh fruits may be used successfully in hot main dishes or sauces; but with their firm flesh, nectarines can take a thorough heating without losing their shape or golden color.

Because of their ability to retain their color and shape during cooking, nectarines can be combined with many meat dishes to create a glamorous hot dish delight. Pork Chops a la Nectarines are delicious and sure to put smiles on your family's faces:

6 large loin pork chops
1 cup apple cider
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 T. lemon juice
1-2 tsp. cinnamon

packing slips, a wild guess is that at least 3,000 volumes, covering many subjects, are being removed from cartons, labeled and stacked, ready for issue when school starts. The High School got a lot of new books, too.

This is not a complete turnover of textbooks, but covers only a few of the many subjects. Other subjects and departments will receive new books next year, or the next, or the next, or the next. A complete cycle takes several years.

New books received this year are for a new Reading Readiness program, grades 1 through 3; music, four grades, several titles; a new Texas History; a new geography; new social studies books for grades 1 through 6; new earth science books and others. In High School, the new books will cover such subjects as English 3-4, Related Math 2, Spanish 3-4, Industrial Arts, Consumer Math, Driver Education, etc., etc.

The change is never ending; there is always change in the approach to teaching all subjects.

We're lucky in Texas; this is a "free" textbook state, and books are provided in the same manner as other school facilities, except in rare instances. In some states, parents are required to dig up enough at the start of each school year to provide books for their children; and students hand down books, from one grade to another. In Texas, parents and children take it for granted that the books will be ready when the doors open, without extra charge.

Contract On 18th Valley Creek Dam To Coleman Firm

Ford Allen Construction Company of Coleman was the apparent low bidder for the Site No. 13A floodwater control dam on the Valley Creek watershed, according to Hugo Vogelsang, chairman of the Valley Creek Water Control District.

This will be the 18th dam to be completed in the project of 20 water control structures, and will be located approximately three miles northeast of Happy Valley in Taylor County.

The Coleman firm's bid of $214,541.30 was the lowest of five bids received, Vogelsang said. Engineers' estimate for the structure was $201,036.10, he said.

Work to be included on this structure will include brush clearing on 33 acres; 37,380 cubic yards of common excavation; 144,080 cubic yards of unclassified excavation; 284,640 cubic yards of placing and rolling soil in the dam; salvaging and placing 42,490 square yards of topsoil; and 12,050 feet of fence.

Vogelsang said the 20 dams, when completed, will have a total floodwater capacity of more than 18,000 acre feet, which will be released automatically at a controlled rate, preventing downstream flood damage.

Johnnie Bohuslav of Brownwood, Soil Conservation Service engineer, will be the project construction engineer for the work. There will be an SCS site inspector on the job at all times during construction, Vogelsang said.

Bradshaw Station Operator Receives Company Award

A special award was presented to O. L. Claxton, operator of the Enco station at Bradshaw, July 25.

The award, a plaque bearing two rare silver dollars, two Kennedy half-dollars, and a specially minted commemorative coin set in an automotive engine design, was presented for exceptional customer service by a representative of the Gates Rubber Company. The Denver-based rubber company sponsors a nation-wide contest to reward service station personnel who provide exceptional customer service.

State Soil, Water Board To Hold Hearing On Elm Creek Project

The State Soil and Water Conservation Board has scheduled a public priority-planning hearing in Winters, September 12, to discuss the proposed flood control project on the Elm Creek watershed, W. M. Hays, chairman of the board of Elm Creek Water Control District, said Wednesday.

The hearing will be held in the Winters Community Center, at 7 p. m., September 12, following a tour of the entire watershed by the board in the afternoon. Joe Antilley of Abilene is chairman of the State Board.

The State Board has scheduled the hearing to obtain evidence of the need for flood control on the Elm Creek watershed, and to weigh interest of the landowners and residents of the area in the flood control project.

County officials, Soil Conservation District officials, and city officials of both Winters and Ballinger, will be present at the hearing to present evidence, Hays said, along with other interested persons who are working for the project.

Hays and other members of the board of Elm Creek Water Control District are urging all landowners and residents of the area covered by the district, which includes a big part of East Runtels County, part of South Taylor County, Winters and Ballinger, to be present at the meeting.
