HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Got any mice around the house these days? Most everyone in this neck of the woods is experiencing an over-visit of these little beggars, so if you haven't noticed extra mice around these past few days, perhaps you're not doing your ecological bit in sharing them with your neighbors.

This is one of those "cycle" years, apparently, when the mouse population either gets bigger, or all those which normally live out in the open are heading for heavier shelter. It seems that this happens about every five or seven years—the mice start to increase, and few homes are free of them.

These little rascals can come in through the smallest of openings, too. Just let a water or gas line from the outside fail to fill a hole completely and snugly, and watch what happens! We sometimes think they can come through window screens. Anyway, once they choose your home, and set up housekeeping in the walls and attic, they're there to stay, if immediate and definite action is not taken to run them out. They will gnaw through boards in a wall, and before long they'll have open runways running from one end of the house to the other.

They bed down in attics, and when they begin their nocturnal running about, they can sound like a herd of buffalo, scampering about over your head. They will come down the walls in an opening, perhaps a wall heater, and into the open rooms even. Once inside a room, they're liable to take up living in sofas and couches, and in the upholstery of chairs. Many a coat hanging in a closet has become home to a family of mice—the pockets make such snug places to live.

They can get into cabinets, even when there seems to be absolutely no opening big enough for them to crawl through. And they can gnaw through a sack of flour or sugar, or into a loaf of bread before you can turn around. Some say they can even get into covered canisters with tight lids!

And they get bold! They'll venture out in broad daylight, and scamper across a room. And if you get a broom after one, they take it as a sort of game. We even found one on top of the refrigerator, sitting there glaring at us as if to dare us to do something about it.

If you see a mouse about the house, you can bet there are many more around. They say that for every one seen, there are half a hundred (or is it a hundred?) on the premises, unseen.

How to get rid of them? There lies a problem. There are a dozen different methods, and each is claimed to be the best. And there are a dozen different poisons to put out for them. Best bet, it seems, would be a professional full-time exterminator—but there are not that many professionals around.

There are traps, which will catch a few for a while, but some believe they sometimes run in pairs to eliminate the (Continued on page 8)

School Cafeteria Will Observe National School Lunch Week

"You Are What You Eat" will be the theme of National School Lunch Week, October 8-14. The Winters School Cafeteria will observe the week with a special "universal" menu for Wednesday, October 11. Mrs. J. B. Whitlow, supervisor, announced.

The universal menu for next Wednesday will be: Meat and spaghetti casserole, buttered green beans, tossed green salad, sliced peaches, garlic french bread, peanut butter cookies, milk or chocolate milk.

The National School Lunch Program gives growing children a nutritious meal every school day of the year. The well balanced lunches have become a part of the American learning process since 1946, with the enactment of the National School Lunch Act.

In recognition of this vital role that the program plays in feeding the nation's school children, Congress passed a joint resolution in 1962 designating the seven-day period beginning with the second Sunday in October each year as National School Lunch Week.

Many schools plan special ceremonies and activities to celebrate this 25th year of the program. The universal menu has been worked out which will be served at all schools on Oct. 11. Last year the lunch program helped offer noon meals to about 19.9 million children in nearly 76,000 schools in all parts of the country.

Elm Creek Election Info Meetings Oct. 7 and 10

The first public information meetings, to discuss the proposed $300,000 Elm Creek Water Control District bond issue, will be held Saturday, October 7, at the Crews Community Center, and Tuesday, October 10, in the Methodist Church at Bradshaw.

Residents of the Elm Creek Water Control District will vote Tuesday, October 31, on the bond issue. If approved, sale of bonds will allow the district to acquire right-of-way and easements to build water retaining structures on Elm Creek and its tributaries, in a flood control and water conservation plan. Actual construction cost of the structures will be paid for through Federal grants.

Kirby Robinson Gets Special SCS Award

"Ecology is a relatively new word in our vocabulary, but Kirby Robinson has been practicing ecology for a number of years," W. F. (Bill) Minzenmayer told the group making the annual Soil Conservation tour Tuesday.

Minzenmayer, chairman of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, presented Robinson with a plaque in recognition of Distinguished Service to the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District from 1948-71.

"Robinson has served as a district director of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District since the time the district was organized in 1949, being elected Sept. 8, 1949, and serving until his retirement last fall. During his tenure in office, he helped formulate one of the best conservation programs in the state, for the people of the Runnels district," Minzenmayer said.

Robinson attended more than 260 board meetings and spent countless hours of his time working to make the Runnels District a success. Minzenmayer said, "His tireless work helped the district to grow from infancy to a district with some 1045 cooperators today," he concluded.

The Distinguished Service plaque was presented during the noon lunch stop of the tour at the Winters City Park Tuesday. There were 31 people on the tour, and nine stops were made at several farms and ranches to view soil and water conservation practices. At the election of directors held during the noon stop, Douglas Cole of Winters was named director for Zone IV of the district, which includes all the area north of the Bronte-Winters-Nowice highways. He succeeds Minzenmayer, whose term expires in October.

Teachers, School Employees Raise $846 For Rehab

The Winters Classroom Teachers Association is sponsoring a unique method of soliciting donations for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene, and have to date raised $846 for the Center, Miss Nancy Grundy, president of the CTA, has announced.

The sum collected has been donated by teachers, administrators, maintenance employees, office employees, cafeteria employees, and members of the school board.

The method sponsored by the CTA, although it has been used successfully in raising a goodly sum for the Center, does not put an all-at-once donation burden on any of the donors. They are asked to sign twelve checks, one for each month in the next year, in the amount of $1.00 each. These checks then are forwarded to the Rehab Center, which cashes them as the months come up.

Working on the CTA committee also are Mrs. Sarah Parker, Mrs. Diane Davis, Mrs. Frances Bredemeyer, Mrs. Maurine Burroughs, and Stanley Blackwell.

Typing classes of Winters High School type all the checks.

Non-Conference Game

Blizzards Play In Brady Friday

After chalking up their third win for the season last Friday night, the Winters Blizzards travel to Brady this Friday for a non-conference game with the Brady Bulldogs.

This will be the last non-conference game for the Blizzards, who will have an open date the following week before going into District 6-AA play October 20 against the Pied Pipers of Hamlin.

The Blizzards now have a 3-1 record for the season; their only loss was to Coleman two weeks ago.

The Brady Bulldogs, usually formidable opponents, have come upon hard times this year and have yet to win a game in four outings. They have scored only 29 points this season, while allowing opponents 127.

Winters has scored 83 points, and have allowed only 71 by opponents.

Winters and Brady have played only one common opponent, Coleman, thus far. Coleman defeated Brady 34-0, and also beat Winters 42-0, both non-conference games. Ballinger, the one other team in District 6-AA with Brady on the pre-conference schedule this year, defeated the Bulldogs 20-0.

Although Brady has been unable to get out of the lost column this year, the District 24-AA Bulldogs are expected to give a good account of themselves in their try to stop the second-runner team in District 6-AA. Games between Winters and Brady in the past have always been wide open contests, regardless of the standing of either team at the given time.

During his tenure in office, he helped formulate one of the best conservation programs in the state, for the people of the Runnels district," Minzenmayer said.

Robinson attended more than 260 board meetings and spent countless hours of his time working to make the Runnels District a success. Minzenmayer said, "His tireless work helped the district to grow from infancy to a district with some 1045 cooperators today," he concluded.

The Distinguished Service plaque was presented during the noon lunch stop of the tour at the Winters City Park Tuesday. There were 31 people on the tour, and nine stops were made at several farms and ranches to view soil and water conservation practices.

At the election of directors held during the noon stop, Douglas Cole of Winters was named director for Zone IV of the district, which includes all the area north of the Bronte-Winters-Norwich highways. He succeeds Minzenmayer, whose term expires in October.

BLIZZARDS OF THE WEEK

Lee Choate, offensive half-back, and Glenn Hoppe, defensive tackle, were named "Blizzards of the Week" by the Blizzard Booster Club Tuesday night.

Nominations for the recognition are made by the coaches following the previous Friday night game, and Blizzards elected by the Booster Club.

The Crews meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m., and the Bradshaw meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Slides of past flood damage in the area will be shown, along with slides on similar projects which have been completed. Also, members of the board of directors of the district will explain tax plans of the district, W. M. Hays, chairman of the board, said.

Hays said this week that although final figures have not been obtained on valuations within the district, which includes a big portion of Ballinger, Winters, and farm and ranch lands in Runnels County and South Taylor County, it has been estimated that it will reach approximately $16 million. He said that at the proposed rate, which has not been finalized at this time and would not become effective until 1973, taxes on 100 acres of land would run from $2.70 to $8.40, depending on the type of land. This would be figured on a 21 cent basis per $100 valuation, he said.

Hays pointed out that the board of directors would not set a tax rate until after the bond election, and until the project has progressed much further if the election carries.

All residents of the Crews and Bradshaw areas are urged to attend the two scheduled meetings in order to get first hand information regarding planning for the district.

Annual Livestock Barbecue Brings Out 776 Monday

More than 776 people attended the annual barbecue of the Winters Livestock Association Monday evening in the Winters Community Center.

The barbecue is held each fall at the conclusion of the annual membership drive. Membership in the organization reached 413 this week, according to officers of the association. Membership dues are used to finance and promote the annual junior livestock show held here shortly after the first of the year each year.

Teachers, School Employees Raise $846 For Rehab

The Winters Classroom Teachers Association is sponsoring a unique method of soliciting donations for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene, and have to date raised $846 for the center, Miss Nancy Grundy, president of the CTA, has announced.

The sum collected has been donated by teachers, administrators, maintenance employees, office employees, cafeteria employees, and members of the school board.

The method sponsored by the CTA, although it has been used successfully in raising a goodly sum for the center, does not put an all-at-once donation burden on any of the donors. They are asked to sign twelve checks, one for each month in the next year, in the amount of $1.00 each. These checks then are forwarded to the Rehab Center, which cashes them as the months come up.

Working on the CTA committee also are Mrs. Sarah Parker, Mrs. Diane Davis, Mrs. Frances Bredemeyer, Mrs. Maurine Burroughs, and Stanley Blackwell.

Typing classes of Winters High School type all the checks.

W. D. (BILL) WILSON
... Winters Artist

W. D. Wilson Is Abilene C. of C. "Artist of Month"

W. D. (Bill) Wilson, Winters artist, has been chosen "Artist of the Month" for October by the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, and has 48 paintings on display in the Abilene Chamber building.

An area artist is chosen each month by the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

Most of Wilson's paintings in the showing are landscape oils; there is one pastel, painted in 1916 while he was in high school in Oklahoma, and one charcoal. Most of the paintings are for sale.

Wilson, who is a retired tool and die maker and machine designer, started painting while still in school. He quit painting in about 1917, and did not start until 1954, in Winters.

He started mechanical drawing and machine designing for the Coleman Lamp Company in Wichita, Kans., in 1936. He was with Coleman for 10 years, then moved to Abilene where he lived for a year, and then to Winters in 1949. He worked for 17 years as a tool and machine for J. R. Dry & Sons, which became Winters Manufacturing Co., then Pan American Industries. He then worked for a manufacturing concern in Abilene for five years before retiring a little more than a year ago.

Since retiring, he has continued to "dabble" in tool and machine designing, on a freelance basis. He also has stayed close to his easel in a special "painting and drafting" room in his home in Winters.

Farmers Union County Meeting Next Monday

The Runnels County Farmers Union County Convention will be held Monday, October 9, at 7:30 p. m. in the Winters Community Center.

A barbecue supper will be served.

Officers and directors for the new year will be installed, and F. A. Lollar, a Farmers Union member from Anson, will be the principal speaker.

A resolutions committee will present a report at the meeting, and members will be encouraged to present their ideas on the farm program.

Fire Auxiliary Elected Officers At Recent Session

Officers for the new organizational year were elected at a recent meeting of the Firemen's Auxiliary in the home of Mrs. Bonnie Dry. Mrs. Margie Chafey was co-hostess.

Following the meeting, the firemen and their families had a barbecue supper sponsored by Victor Merfeld, at the Community Center.

Those present for the Auxiliary meeting were Jere Bailey, Nina Bedford, Lou Bowden, Virginia Carey, Dana Chambliss, Melba Emmert, Helen Henderson, Janice Merrill, Jo Miller, Beth Whitlow, Margie Chaney and Bonnie Dry.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be a tacky party, to be held in the home of Dana Chambliss, Oct. 24.

Non-Conference Game

Blizzards Play In Brady Friday

After chalking up their third win for the season last Friday night, the Winters Blizzards travel to Brady this Friday for a non-conference game with the Brady Bulldogs.

This will be the last non-district game for the Blizzards, who will have an open date the following week before going into District 6-AA play October 20 against the Pied Pipers of Hamlin.

The Blizzards now have a 3-1 record for the season; their only loss was to Coleman two weeks ago.

The Brady Bulldogs, usually formidable opponents, have come upon hard times this year and have yet to win a game in four outings. They have scored only 29 points this season, while allowing opponents 127.

Winters has scored 83 points, and have allowed only 71 by opponents.

Winters and Brady have played only one common opponent, Coleman, thus far. Coleman defeated Brady 34-0, and also beat Winters 42-0, both non-conference games. Ballinger, the one other team in District 6-AA with Brady on the pre-conference schedule this year, defeated the Bulldogs 20-0.

Although Brady has been unable to get out of the lost column this year, the District 24-AA Bulldogs are expected to give a good account of themselves in their try to stop the second-runner team in District 6-AA. Games between Winters and Brady in the past have always been wide open contests, regardless of the standing of either team at the given time.

Salvation Army Drive To Begin With Kick-Off Supper Tuesday

The annual drive to raise funds for the Salvation Army will begin with a kick-off dinner at the Winters Community Center for all team captains and workers, Ted Meyer, chairman of the service unit committee, has announced. Dinner will be at 7 p. m.

Wesley Vogler will be the campaign chairman for the drive this year, Meyer said.

Vogler announced the appointment of twelve captains to lead the drive: Mrs. Johnny Merrill, Mrs. Nancy Barker, Mrs. Charlotte Davis, Mrs. Jimmy Guevara, Mrs. Richard Green, Mrs. Stanley Kvapil, Mrs. Nadine DeLaCruz, Mrs. Gaston Boatright, Mrs. John Schaffrinn, Mrs. Jo Ann Grun, Marvin Clark and Richard Grun, all of Winters; and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Albro of the Wilmeth Community.

Money raised during this campaign will be used locally and statewide to help the less fortunate, Meyer said. The local aid will be given in the form of groceries, clothes, shoes, medicine, medical aid, or any other aid which is deemed necessary by the local committee. The money which goes to state will be used for homes and hospital care for unwed mothers, summer camp for boys, rehabilitation centers for alcoholics, homes for the elderly and for disaster services.

Committee workers are soliciting the support of the local people "in order for our local committee and the state organization to continue this very worthwhile work." Residents were reminded of the aid which has been given many people in the community following hailstorm disasters in recent years.

In addition to Meyer, the local committee is made up of F. R. Anderson, vice chairman; Wesley M. Hays, treasurer; Joe Stevens, welfare secretary; Dr. H. H. McCreight, Marvin Bedford, W. H. Craven, Mrs. Emma Marks, all from Winters; and Mrs. Chester McBeth, Crews Community. Mrs. W. W. Wheat of the Wingate Community, is a life member of this committee, although inactive at present.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS FOR FOURTH QUARTER

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — The nation's economy has shifted into high gear, and there is little evidence that the upward momentum will slacken in the near future. The Gross National Product, in current dollars, posted a smart 2.7 percent gain from the first to the second quarter reaching an annual rate of $1,139.4 billion. When third-quarter figures for GNP are available, they will doubtless show a continuation of the broadly distributed upturn. For the final three months of 1972, we look for further strength, with real gain likely in most sectors of the economy.

LESS INFLATION

The upswing this year has been accompanied by a slowdown in the inflation rate, making the economic showing even more impressive. The second-quarter GNP price deflator was up only 0.4 percent, and in August consumer price increases slowed to 0.2 percent. Thus, the dollar's purchasing power is declining more slowly than in recent years.

There is, however, considerable conjecture about the course of inflation in 1973. Many feel the economy is growing too fast for inflation to continue at this low level much longer, especially with the big labor pacts up for renewal next year. But despite 1973's uncertainties, inflation should remain under control this year.

GNP AND INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT

The Research Department of Babson's Reports is still projecting a gain in current GNP of about 10 percent for all of 1972, with most of the advance—more than 6 percent—in real terms and somewhat less than 4 percent due to inflation. The final figure could be slightly higher, reflecting greater-than-anticipated growth in consumer spending and inventory accumulation. The rate of gain in the last quarter should be comparable with that of the quarter just ended. Industrial production will continue its climb during this final three months. The capacity utilization rate will also improve, but may stay below earlier peaks.

CORPORATE PROFITS

Aided by increased volume and a lesser rate of inflation, corporate profits are registering good gains. This trend should not only continue but may even be stepped up in the last quarter. Consequently, Babson's Research Department expects a brisk 16 percent gain in corporate profits for the full year. The better profit picture is greatly enhancing the cash flow of most corporations. And because of dividend - payment restrictions, most companies have an ample supply of cash.

INCOME AND CONSUMER SPENDING

While unemployment has changed little since June, total employment has continued to climb. Job gains, increased social security benefits, and a somewhat longer work week will boost personal income this quarter. Consumer spending will thus be helped to make a strong showing in the last three months of the year. Big-ticket items, especially related to housing, should show additional strength, while spending for nondurables may gain faster than in the quarter just ended.

CAPITAL SPENDING AND HOUSING

Businesses are still projecting a 9.7 percent increase in plant and equipment expenditures for all of 1972, according to the Commerce Department—only a bit below the May projection of 10.3 percent. Manufacturers are planning a 5.6 percent expansion—year to year, unchanged from the May survey, while nonmanufacturing lines are planning to spend slightly less than in the earlier survey (12.1 percent vs. a 13.15 percent rise).

Although housing starts in the second quarter were 16 percent ahead of the year-earlier level, they were unchanged from the first-quarter rate, thus ending a string of eight consecutive quarterly housing records. August starts, however, surged to the highest point since last February's record, while building permits also soared. Housing starts may slacken in coming months but they should, nevertheless, remain at an extremely high level by historical standards.

Food For Thought

OUTLOOK FOR NONFERROUS
METALS

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — The aluminum, copper, lead, nickel, and zinc industries in late years have been experiencing some serious difficulties. In reflection of this, the stocks of the foremost companies in these fields are now priced near their lows for the past few years.

Despite the depressed prices of the common stocks of the important nonferrous companies, however, the Research Department of Babson's Reports is not currently recommending their purchase. But "hold" advices are being maintained at current low levels since some intermediate-term improvement seems likely. When purchases are being considered, there appear to be more attractive opportunities in areas other than nonferrous metals.

ALUMINUM

Last year was particularly troublesome for the aluminum industry as excessive worldwide additions to capacity were made at a time when both the economy and aluminum demand were lagging. Thus, an oversupply situation developed and prices weakened. To add to the problem, the industry signed a costly three-year labor agreement. The four leading producers—Alcoa, Alcan Aluminum, Reynolds, and Kaiser—were all under considerable pressure.

So far in 1972 there has been some moderate improvement, although the aluminum outlook is far from bright. Prices of some fabricated products have been increased, but aluminum prices in general remain weak and the world oversupply persists. A higher return on the industry's investment is a must if meaningful progress is to be made. But this does not appear to be a near-term probability.

COPPER

Housing and autos, the two largest markets for copper, have been doing well this year—which has been of some help to the copper industry. Overall, however, copper prices have been depressed and worldwide demand has been sluggish. In July prices of the red metal were reduced 2c per pound by the major producers.

Recently, copper futures prices moved up in anticipation of a pickup in demand. So far, however, increased demand has failed to materialize. The copper industry remains extremely volatile, and profits of its leading producers—Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, and Cerro—will fluctuate widely.

LEAD AND ZINC

Lead supplies currently exceed demand and American Smelting lowered its lead price by half a cent a pound a few weeks ago. Despite this, however, it should still be a reasonably good year for the lead industry due in part to the excellent business experienced by the battery makers. Consumption of lead for gasoline additives is turning downward, but not as rapidly as might be expected. St. Joe Minerals, the nation's Number One lead producer, is doing better this year.

In May the price of zinc was raised from 17c per pound to 18c. Many in the industry feel that another price rise is imminent. Thus, some inventory building is currently taking place. Actually, because production capacity of the nation's zinc industry has been sliced nearly in half by the closing of several old smelters, domestic zinc is in short supply. The leading producer of this metal is New Jersey Zinc, a subsidiary of Gulf & Western.

NICKEL

Because of steadily rising costs of both labor and materials, nickel prices were recently raised 15 percent by the two leading producers, International Nickel and Falconbridge Nickel—both Canadian companies. Everything considered, however, prospects for the nickel industry are not especially bright although there has been some betterment over last year's poor showing. Hopefully, the supply-demand situation will show some further improvement over coming months.

Total Recall?
By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (CEF)

These days of heightened consumer awareness have made life difficult for Harold R. "Yank" Embach, vice president of recalls for Boomerang auto manufacturing.

But he likes his work. "Over the past 18 months we have been averaging 3,792 cars recalled per day, which is 900 per cent more than are rolling off the assembly line," he said proudly in an interview, beaming until he remembered he was supposed to be glum about it. "Of course, we do our best, but I always say that we have the best recall on wheels."

What goes into a really good recall? "Well, you can't scare people too much," Embach said. "So we always try to announce our recalls on a day of the week when there is a lot of other big news to keep their minds occupied and our announcement will get buried back on page 53 in the papers. Then we do our best to word the recall in a positive fashion. One recent announcement, for instance, said, 'Tests showed that the 1,737,423 cars produced last year all have a fault that makes them lose their wheels and melt at speeds in excess of 17 miles an hour, which is still another step in our company's campaign to cut auto exhaust pollution.'"

Embach is especially proud of his work on the recall of the Boomerang Yo-Yo, introduced just this year.

"That was the one where the poison sumac was accidentally mixed into the material used to make the seat covers," he remembered. "It also had the doors put on backwards, one of the cylinders left out and that unfortunate mixture that caused the steering wheel to fall off every time the driver made a left turn."

Embach takes pride in the congenial relationship he has built with folks whose cars have been recalled.

"There's one devoted Boomerang owner in Indiana who has written to me 911 times, once for each recall he's gone through," Embach said. "He had to quit his job so he could spend more time traveling to and from his local dealer but he has never lost his sense of humor. Last week he wrote and said that he hoped I would be permanently recalled by the Big Auto Maker in the Sky."

Even the usually good-natured Embach bristles, though, when he hears about allegations that automakers pay for recall costs by raising the prices on next year's models.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Cattle Fever Tick on Loose
Cattle fever ticks have been found in several South Texas counties, and livestock producers are cautioned to be on the lookout for the costly livestock pest, according to County Extension Agent Parker.

Fever ticks were first reported near Alice several weeks ago and have since spread to neighboring counties. Infested counties that are under state quarantine include Jim Wells, Duval, McMullen, Live Oak, Nueces and Brooks.

According to Parker, all infestations have been traced to cattle shipped from the infested herd near Alice. Therefore, cattlemen who have purchased cattle from that area are especially urged to check these animals for fever ticks.

Federal and state livestock inspectors are engaged in checking cattle herds to pinpoint infestations and initiate eradication procedures. A Cattle Fever Tick Eradication Center has been established in Alice.

Officials of the Texas Animal Health Commission have labeled the outbreak as the most serious in the last 30 years. However, eradication measures have been effective and officials believe the outbreak is under control. Should the tick infestation spread, eradication could become a long-term process due to the life cycle of the insect.

The cattle fever tick can cause a fever or disease called babesiosis or piroplasmosis. Symptoms of the disease are similar to anaplasmosis, explains the county agent.

Parker urges all livestock producers in the county to check their animals closely for fever ticks. If ticks are found, a sample should be placed in alcohol in a screwworm vial and sent to Austin for identification. The mailing address is: State-Federal Brucellosis Testing Laboratory, 702 Colorado St., Room 301, Austin, Texas 78701.

The cooperation of all producers is vital so that all infestations of the cattle fever tick can be traced back to the original infestation where eradication procedures can be initiated. This action is essential to minimize the spread of the fever tick, emphasizes C. T. Parker.

Spray Cattle For Ticks
Livestockmen in the county should be on the lookout for ticks on cattle-the insect pests irritate livestock and reduce production efficiency. Another major problem with ticks this year is that they can cause secondary infestations of screw-worms which are so numerous. The screwworm fly is readily attracted to any minor wound so all tick infestations should be treated as soon as they are detected.

Numerous materials are available for use in controlling ticks. These include carbaryl (Sevin), coumaphos (Co-Ral), dioxathion (Deinav) lindane, malathion, ronnel (Korlan) and toxaphene.

The county agent cautions all producers to follow closely the manufacturer's recommendations on the label of the particular insecticide. Special attention should be given to the waiting period, or number of days required from time of application to time of slaughter.

Field Borders Aid Wildlife Farmers

Field borders are a boon to wildlife. That fact is especially in evidence during the fall when hunting season rolls around once again.

In addition to providing cover for wildlife, field borders also give protection against soil erosion during heavy rains and wind.

Field borders give wildlife a place to hide, provide travel lanes and offer variety in habitat. In fact, natural field borders contain several species of vegetation which provide the variety of food and cover types that wildlife demands.

A field border system is particularly important to quail and pheasant management. Good permanent woody cover in the fence row close to corn or fallow fields allows the birds to make use of food in the fields. Old grass six to eight inches high adjacent to a fallow field is a prime meeting area for game birds.

Field borders also provide homes for predators of insect pests. By encouraging biological control of such pests, his need for chemical pesticides may be reduced.

Make A Weed Map
Making a weed map now could be the key to controlling next year's weed crop. Late summer and early fall are the best times to make such a map, because weed problems are fresh on your mind and patches of perennial weeds are still growing.

Making the map is simple and quick. First, draw an outline of the farm. Using colored pencils or crayons, sketch in the locations and types of weed patches. Notes can also be made at the bottom of the map as to which herbicides worked and which ones failed during the past season.

During the fall and winter use your spare time to consult the experts on your weed problems, advises Parker. And use your map to plan weed control strategy for the next year.

The weed map can be especially helpful in trying to eliminate perennial weeds. Proper tillage and follow-up measures as well as repeated use of herbicides may be needed to eradicate perennials. Crop rotation can also be used as a method for weed control.

Get a jump on next year's weeds by drawing a map now and then organizing a battle plan to be carried out next spring.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

Pork has been eaten in America ever since the colonists brought hogs here, when the three essential animals on a farm were a sow, a cow and a hen.

Before the day of meat packing houses, farmers cured their own pork at home in a barrel of salty brine. When it was ready, the meat was washed and smoked, and again stored in a barrel where it could be kept covered and safe from flies or other insects.

Early American farm wives would go to the pork barrel for a slab of bacon or a cured ham when the one they kept in the kitchen had been eaten, and their husbands would kill more hogs for the pork barrel when it began to get low.

It wasn't long before politicians began applying the term "pork barrel" to government appropriations made to particular individuals "to improve rivers and harbors" and other projects. It was often found that the appropriations were made more for political patronage than for really necessary improvements.

The practice of political patronage continues to this day. You will have to look a long time before you find a pork barrel in anybody's smoke house. In fact, you may have to look a long time for a smoke house.

"Watchdog of the Treasury" Award To Cong. Fisher

H. Vernon Scott, President, National Associated Businessmen, Inc., has just presented Rep. O. C. Fisher with the organization's "Watchdog of the Treasury Award" in honor of the Congressman's economy voting record for the 92nd Congress, 1971-1972. This makes the fifth time in a row Fisher has received the coveted NAB award.

In a Capitol Hill presentation ceremony Mr. Scott said: "your outstanding economy voting record indicates you have a keen awareness of the need for fiscal responsibility. I know it takes much courage to resist the pressures of unnecessary Federal spending."

Made up primarily of small business firms, the NAB is a nonpartisan organization with its headquarters in Washington. Its goals include fiscal responsibility in government and the elimination of the Federal Government from competition with private business.

AGENDA BROADENED A special session that started off confined to insurance and broadening the governor's fiscal powers has three times been expanded.

Smith earlier submitted trailer-brake-light exemptions, school dis-annexation, exempting aviation schools from the proprietary school act, and reimbursement of medical schools for $13.5 million in funds "borrowed" to avert a 1970 welfare crisis.

Last week, he asked the Legislature to define the state's role and responsibility in developing deep draft offshore port facilities.

The next day, he proposed an appropriation to the governor for emergency use, authority for the chief executive to meet certain fiscal emergencies from the fund, a $365,000 supplemental appropriation to finance this year's primary elections, and permanent statutory establishment of the Texas Film Commission as a division of the governor's office.

HIGHWAY FUNDS SHORT Demand for better highways is running ahead of state ability to pay for them, Highway Commission Chairman DeWitt C. Greer says.

Highway work pending ranges in need "from immediate to desperate," according to Greer, and there is no money in sight.

An adequate program for next year, with maintenance and operational costs, would carry a price tag of $1.2 billion, Greer estimates.

Highway Department net income for the next 12 months is estimated at about $482 million. Greer cites these factors in the financial squeeze:

—It now takes $1.58 to buy highway construction that cost $1 only 10 years ago.

—Release of money from the federal highway trust fund has been spasmodic for several years. This year, Texas anticipated about $283 million from the trust fund — derived from federal highway user taxes. Actually, prospects are the state will receive only about $189 million from the federal trust fund.

Greer says the Highway Commission has pending requests for highway projects totalling about $2.7 billion. The Commission is pushing for a gasoline tax raise next year.

AG OPINIONS Retired or active judges sitting as commissioners of the Court of Criminal Appeals are merely assigned additional duties and not a new office, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held. Martin said the appointees may be compensated.

In other recent opinions, he concluded: —The U. S. Postal Service is an agency of the U. S. government for purposes of eligibility for state fund investment.

A transaction by an original manufacturer agreeing to give exclusive use of a motor vehicle to another for any period of time and for a consideration, is to be taxed on the basis of the gross receipts from the transaction.

Austin. — Senate rejection of Secretary of State Bob Bullock to the Insurance Board amid the special session's bitterest infighting opened new speculation as to who may get the job.

Sources close to Gov. Preston Smith appeared to be deliberately encouraging rumors that former U. S. Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough would be the Governor's next choice for the Insurance Board.

Yarborough himself said he had never been offered the post by the Governor or even felt out on his availability by intermediaries. AFL-CIO President Roy Evans and State Sen. Oscar Mauzy formally urged Smith to designate Yarborough, and Mauzy predicted the former senator could get state senate confirmation where Bullock and Larry Teaver failed.

Would he take the job if offered? Said Yarborough: "That is entirely too 'iffy' a question." Senators voted 19-11 (with one abstaining) for the Bullock confirmation. Eleven opposition votes can block any appointment.

Bullock promptly blamed Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and the insurance industry lobby for his defeat.

Smith chastised the Senate, charging the body "apparently will not permit a person who is committed to protecting the insurance consumer serve on the State Board of Insurance."

Bullock foisted the claim the Governor had used some persuasive tactics on his own, dangling the prospect of submitting pet home district projects to the Legislature for senators who would support Bullock.

The Secretary of State said he now intends to remain in his present job through the Smith administration.

SESSION SUCCESS DOUBTED Some legislators are doubting if the special legislative session really is going to come up with a competitive rating bill, the subject Smith called them to work on.

Senator Mauzy of Dallas, one of the bill sponsors in the Senate, says he doesn't think a competitive rate bill can be agreed on because of House opposition. Mauzy charged the House committee hearing the rate measure is lobby dominated.

Conflicting testimony was heard on advantages vs. disadvantages of free competition in rating during week-long testimony by out-of-state experts.

At the end of the period, Lt. Governor Ben Barnes acknowledged:

"I have never been so much in the dark on legislation. People want to vote for a bill, but proponents have not done a good job convincing people competitive rates would be beneficial."

Winters Blizzards Whip Eldorado For Third Victory of 1972 Season

The Winters Blizzards blew into Eldorado on strong north winds Friday night and came away with their third victory of the season, 28-13, over the Eldorado Eagles.

The first quarter was scoreless. The Blizzards threatened on their first possession, but penalties nullified some fine offense. Quarterback Oscar Torres mixed his calls very well, using halfbacks Lee Choate and Jerry Mack Jackson effectively. A Torres-Scott King pass covering 15 yards and a Torres-Kirk McCuiston toss for 22 yards highlighted the drive. The Blizzards punched down to the one yard line, but couldn't get across the goal line and had to turn the ball over to the Eagles. Eldorado's offense fizzled out after 64 yards and Winters resumed possession on their own 35. This drive was sparked by a Torres-Jackson pass for 19 yards and a 17 yard run by Jackson, but David Kirchmann had to be called into service to punt, good for 38 yards.

The Eagles wasted little time in the second quarter getting on the scoreboard. Their touchdown came on a 69 yard play; the kick was good, and the score was 0-7 with 10:57 remaining in the half.

The Blizzards' next offensive threat was extinguished by a fumble on the Eldorado 45. The Eagles drove down to field goal range but failed on the field goal try. The Blizzards took over on their own 20 and scored two plays later on a sparkling 80-yard carry by Choate. Jackson circled left end for the two-point conversion, and the Blizzards led 8-7. The Eagle receiver fumbled the ensuing kickoff after a jolting tackle by Jackson, and Mike Moore recovered for the Blizzards on the Eldorado 15-yard line. A 15-yard penalty stifled the Blizzards' drive, and the ball went over to Eldorado on downs. Eldorado took to the air, but it turned out to be a windfall for the Blizzards, as linebacker Rickey Mathis intercepted and ran it back 48 yards for a touchdown and a 14-7 halftime score. The PAT was no good.

The first eight minutes of the third quarter saw neither offense sustaining a drive and consequently several exchanges of punts. But each team managed a touchdown in the final four minutes of the quarter. Winters scored first, set up by Joe Ray DeLaCruz's recovery of an Eagle fumble on the Eldorado 7. Jackson advanced the ball four yards, and Choate lugged it the final three for the score. Jackson's carry after the touchdown was good for the two-point conversion, and the scoreboard read 22-7. Eldorado's score came late in the period, capping a 76-yard drive. The PAT failed, for a score of 22-13.

The Blizzards' fourth quarter score was set up by Rex Pritchard's interception of an Eagle pass on the Eldorado 32 yard line. A Torres-Jackson pass advanced the ball 16 yards toward the goal, and Choate took it the rest of the way in three carries. The PAT was no good, for a score of 28-13 with 3:00 remaining. Ricky Gonzales returned the ball to the Winters offense by recovering an Eagle fumble. Blizzards Mitch Davis, Ricky DeLaCruz, Johnny Ray Liggins, and Rex Pritchard manned the backfield for the remainder of the game, driving for one first down before having to punt the ball over to Eldorado.

Mr., Mrs. Belew To Minnesota For Farmers Union Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Scotty Belew of the Wingate community recently returned from a visit of several days in Minnesota. The trip was sponsored by the Runnels County Farmers Union. They were accompanied by six other couples from Texas.

The trip was an "exchange" visit sponsored by the Farmers Union. Several farmers from North and South Dakota visited this area some months ago on a similar exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Belew visited several co-ops, and the Farmers Union Central Exchange in Minneapolis. They also visited farms about 150 miles west of Minneapolis.

On Friday night, they attended a Farmers Union meeting at Wilmar, Minn., where they heard Congressman Don Frazier speak. Belew also spoke at the meeting, explaining farming methods used in Texas.

AROUND THE 6-AA FOOTBALL LOOP

Six-AA loopers, as a whole, have fallen upon bad days, it seems. Apparently they can't seem to get it all together thus far, this year, in contests with outsiders. Although an 8-11-2 record does not look so bad on paper, only two of the teams are credited with two-thirds of the wins, while two others have only one win each, and two teams have failed to register at all during this pre-conference season.

After losing all of the games played the previous week, 6-AA could come up with only two wins in six contests last Friday night—and some of the losses were shellackings.

Haskell, the only team with an unblemished record, is still out front but the Indians have played only three games thus far. They rode roughshod over the Breckenridge Buckaroos—35-6—last Friday night, after a week's layoff. They had previously opened the season with a 21-20 squeezout against highly-touted Eastland, and then came back to swamp Seymour 53-0.

The Winters Blizzards last Friday night, after their single season's loss to Coleman the week before, regained their composure, and took Eldorado 28-13, to mark up a 3-1 record for the young season.

The Ballinger Bearcats, with a tie and two losses under their belts, went after the Coleman Bluecats with "upset" thinking under their helmets, but failed to pull it off. The stats show the game was fairly even, but the Bluecats, predicted to win, hit the scoreboard overtime in each of the first two quarters, then settled down to allow Ballinger only one cross and a 2-PAT. Final score, 14-8.

Stamford, always a creditable adversary, has stumbled this year, with only a single win thus far. They took Breck, then let Clyde run over them, and this week took a terrific beating at the hands of Jacksboro.

Hamlin remains in the no-win column, but does have a tie to keep them completely out of the cellar ahead of Anson. The Pipers have played only three games, however. In their last outing, against Colorado City Friday night, they had to settle for a 42-6 loss.

Anson continues to trail the pack, looking for some sort of win. Coleman, Rotan and Albany kept them down, and then Clyde last Friday night hit them 14-0.

The game to watch this week will be the Winters-Brady contest, at Brady. Ballinger took Brady 20-0 in the season opener—the Bearcats' single win for the year—and this week's game will serve as a strength-comparison match. Ballinger has an off week, so probably half the Bearcat bunch will be in the Brady stands watching—the annual Winters-Ballinger game will come up Oct. 27!

Plaid-Mad World

It's a plaid-mad world for fall—adding new dimensions, built-in interest and excitement to the season's fashions. However, Mrs. O'Connor stated that plaids are special fabrics—they present a challenge to the homemaker but produce results well worth the extra effort. A plaid is a woven or printed pattern of stripes that cross at right angles, she said. They may be spaced evenly, unevenly or repeated in sequence.

An even plaid is arranged in the same sequence, both crosswise and lengthwise on the fabric, forming a perfect square.

When the fabric is folded diagonally through the center of any repeat, spaces and colors of the plaid match in both directions. On the other hand, the spaces and colors of an uneven plaid fabric don't match in both directions when folded diagonally. Although they may appear even at first glance, the plaids don't form perfect squares.

For best results in working with a plaid fabric, select a simple-designed pattern with a minimum of seams.

Check the pattern envelope to see if the garment is appropriate for plaids.

If the envelope states 'unsuitable for plaids' this means that seams can't be matched due to the garment design.

As a rule, if the garment is illustrated in plaid on the envelope, the pattern designer deems it particularly suited for plaids.

When purchasing a plaid, there are several considerations. First, choose a plaid in scale with the size of the person wearing it. The agent states that a small person is overpowered by a large-scale plaid. Also, consider the size of the plaid and the actual garment.

For example, a suit or skirt generally looks better in a smaller plaid than a dress or coat since there is less area to complement the large, plaid design.

Remember to allow extra yardage to match the plaids. Usually the larger the plaid, the more widely spaced each repeat or the larger the pattern size, the more yardage is required.

With small plaids, she indicated about one-fourth to one-half extra yardage of fabric is adequate to match the plaids, while large ones require one-half to one extra yard.

Again, refer to the back of the pattern envelope for information concerning additional yardage.

When selecting a printed plaid check that strips of the plaid follow the grainlines of the fabric. If extremely off-grain, the fabric will not prove satisfactory made into a garment.

If the design is only slightly off-grain, the home sewer should match the plaids rather than the grain because the plaid is the more noticeable.

Don't try to buy a plaid from

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C.—Since the presidential election is just a month away, perhaps this is a proper time to review, in thumbnail, a little touch of history of Presidents.

George Washington, our first president, was a rich military leader and the Father of the "military-industrial complex." He was also famous for his ill-fitting false teeth and added to his other "firsts" might be the "Father of British Dentistry." In his farewell address, in which he warned against entering foreign alliances, such as NATO, SEATO and the United Nations, he might now be identified as the "Father of Neo-isolationism." Washington was followed by a small sample or watch—the illusion created by several repeats of one pattern may be much stronger than the single design.

Before laying the pattern on the fabric, hold the fabric up to your figure in front of a mirror. Different effects can be created by the way the dominant stripes are positioned on the body. Avoid accenting figure faults.

Arrange and cut pattern pieces so the plaids will match at joining seamlines, not cutting pattern.

For example, a notch at the top of a repeat should match its corresponding notch at the top of the same repeat.

Uneven plaids contribute more challenges to the homemaker than even plaids, as all pattern pieces must be laid on the fabric in the same direction.

Although plaids require a little extra planning and patience, they can provide an exciting and creative experience for the homemaker, she concludes.

Beefburgers and Green Salad
Fix Beefburgers on tasty, buttered French bread, and a crisp green salad made with everyone's favorite, western iceberg lettuce.

For fun, and a new flavor experience, brush the beef patties lightly with Kikkoman soy sauce before and during the cooking period. For more than three centuries Kikkoman has been used in the Orient to enhance flavor in foods.

Something special happens, too, to a crisp western iceberg lettuce salad when creamy crescents of avocado and red onion rings are added and all tossed with a basic oil & vinegar dressing.

Avocado Iceberg Tossed Salad
1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 clove garlic, peeled
1-2 tsp. salt, pepper
1-2 tsp. aromatic bitter
1-2 cup corn oil
2 T. wine vinegar
1-4 tsp. paprika
1 red onion, sliced, 1 avocado

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; chill in lettuce "crisp-it" or disposable plastic bag. Combine oil, garlic, vinegar, salt, pepper, paprika and bitter; let stand 1 hour. Discard garlic. Reserving outer leaves to line bowl, tear remainder into bite-size pieces. Peel and slice onion; break into rings over top. Peel and remove seed from avocado; slice in crescents. Stir dressing; pour over salad and toss lightly to coat well.

John Adams, best known for being the second president.

Thomas Jefferson, our third president, not only founded the Democratic Party but also pulled off one of the greatest real estate deals in history. He bought the whole Middle West of the Country from Napoleon for $15 million.

Madison, the great constitutionalist, followed Jefferson and he was succeeded by Monroe, the author of the doctrine which bears his name. This document is talked about more and read less than Playboy.

Monroe gave way to John Quincy Adams, who soon gave over to Andrew Jackson.

President Jackson, as stories go, had a terrible temper but loved people. He invited a lot of people into the White House and at his inauguration they smeared cheese on the furniture in the Blue Room so that Mrs. Kennedy had to have the whole place redecorated.

Then came Van Buren who never liked not being remembered by name. It seems everyone could name the first seven Presidents but not the eighth. The story goes that Van Buren was sitting near two men in a dining room near the White House and they were arguing as to who was President. They turned to Van Buren and asked him. On that morning he had had an argument with Senator John Calhoun and was so preoccupied he couldn't remember either.

After Van Buren came "Tippecanoe and Tyler too," Polk, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, and Franklin Pierce.

Next came James Buchanan, who later didn't like to be known as the President who preceded Abraham Lincoln.

A president about which volumes have been written, needs no comment. He became the inspiration for that great American descriptive phrase, "a real human being."

After Lincoln things became a little confused. Andrew Johnson was impeached and General Grant became President. At that time General Custer grew hair down to his shoulders, there was corruption and soon about everyone grew long hair and got fat.

All men who had not by choice grown long hair, or couldn't grow hair at all, got fat.

It was difficult to tell what his name Hayes from Garfield or Chester A. Arthur or Cleveland from William Howard Taft. Benjamin Harrison had the problem of Van Buren. "Did you know we have a President by the name of Benjamin Harrison?" people would say. So he was replaced with William McKinley who became a memory in the hardest of ways.

Then came the more lean, clean-shaven type of President who could better be remembered because they didn't all look alike.

Entering the 20th Century most all Presidents became even more controversial, and the less said, the less controversy. No one invites a controversy—or do we? Just give us greatness and forget the rest.

"The Magnificent Seven Ride!" starring Lee Van Cleef, is the fourth film in the tradition of the highly-successful 1960 movie, "The Magnificent Seven," with Yul Brynner and Eli Wallach.

Yet the new film is not a sequel in any sense. Walter Mirisch, President of the Mirisch Production Company, under whose aegis the picture was made, regards Arthur Rowe's original screenplay of "The Magnificent Seven Ride!" as one of the most exciting and inventive scripts of the Western genre. All of the "Magnificent Seven" films are released by United Artists, an entertainment service of Trans-america Corporation. It will show Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the State Theatre.

Set in the turn-of-the-century Arizona Territory, the story centers around a famous marshal (Van Cleef) who must defend a border town against a horde of bandits—the town has been decimated of its men, leaving only women and children.

The marshal has only one available ally, a tenderfoot Eastern journalist who has come west to write the marshal's biography. The lawman conceives a daring plan. Five dangerous but resourceful felons are released from prison to his custody, given a chance to earn pardons by serving as his posse. All are personal enemies of the marshal, who has put each of them behind bars.

How the marshal keeps his posse together and organizes defense of the town a-

Burleson Given "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award

Washington, D. C.—The National Associated Businessmen, Inc., today presented Congressman Omar Burleson with the "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award for his 90.9 percent economy voting record for the 92nd Congress, 1971-72. The Award has been presented to Burleson annually since the organization began its recognition of Members of Congress whose actions and votes were found to be for fiscal responsibility in Government.

The National Associated Businessmen, Inc., represented by its President, H. Vernon Scott, in congratulating Cong. Burleson, said, "Your outstanding economy voting record indicates to your constituents and to our membership that you have a keen awareness of the need for fiscal responsibility. I know it takes much courage to resist the pressures for unnecessary Federal spending.

"As you know so well, inflation contributes to a higher cost of living which touches all of us," he continued. "Your votes for economy in government merit the appreciation of each of your constituents."

Made up primarily of small business firms, the NAB is a nonpartisan organization with its headquarters in Washington. Its goals include fiscal responsibility in government and the elimination of the Federal Government from competition with private business.

Against sixty well-armed marauders—teaming the Seven with townswomen—provides the unique and violent climatic sequences of the story.

Faulty Muffler Blamed For Deaths Of Two Winters Young People Sunday

A faulty muffler was blamed for the deaths of two Winters young people Sunday.

Ronnie Ellis Wilson, 20, and Gayla Deone Springer, 17, were found in a car one half mile off FM 1770 by Winters Chief of Police Joe Stevens, after a county-wide search had been launched for the two earlier in the day.

danger of traps—one holds down the snapper while the other gets the cheese! Anyway, local stores have been doing a land office mouse trap business, and stocks sometimes are depleted before they are shelved. So you may have to look around a while before you find one.

Cats used to be considered a good protection against mice, but of late it seems there is a conspiracy between the two.

There may be ways to completely mouseproof a house, but no one to our knowledge has come up with them to date. If such could be built, it would have to be too tight and too dark for human habitation.

Burning down a house seems a bit drastic!

Some people say that the heavy mouse infiltration is a sure sign of an early and hard winter. If this be true, then we can expect to be right cold this winter, and right up into late spring.

Home Town Talk-- Cotton Stripping Starting Slow, 236 Bales In

Stripping of the 1972 cotton is off to a slow start, but is expected to pick up within the next few days as more and more defoliated cotton becomes ready. Some farmers will not defoliate, but wait for frost.

Winters Warehouse Co. reported Tuesday afternoon that 236 bales of this year's crop have been brought in from North Rannels Gins.
