HOME TOWN Talk

Do you ever feel the importance of your own niche in time? Do you get the feeling that everything revolves around you, and for your benefit alone? Don't want to deflate anyone's importance—especially with the beginning of a brand-new year, but we found the following information in a publication which might be of interest to most anyone:

A science writer calculated that if the earth's history were compressed into a single year, the first eight months would be completely without life.

During the next two months only the most primitive creatures would be on earth.

Mammals wouldn't appear until the second week in December.

No homo sapiens would appear until 11:45 on December 31.

The entire period of man's written history would occupy only the final 60 seconds before midnight, December 31!

Is your own universe small? Consider, then: If an astronaut were sent off in a space ship traveling at rocket speeds of five miles per second, it would take him 80,000 YEARS to reach the nearby star, Proxima Centauri. That star is only 4.3 light-years away, meaning the distance light travels in one year.

Further deflation: A Cal Tech astronomer discovered a bright new light in the constellation Centaurus this year. It turned out to be an awesome phenomenon: the explosive death of a giant star.

Figuring that the explosion was sighted this year, a little comparative arithmetic will furnish a basis of figuring on the passage of time.

That exploding star, that just showed up on the telescopes this year, was 10 MILLION light-years away. That means it exploded 10 million (Earth) years ago, and it took this long for the light from the flare-up to reach the earth!

In this light, how insignificant, relatively, has been man's exploration of the moon!

Clipped from The Gatesville Messenger:

In the matter of gun control, as in so many areas of national life where critical policy decisions are being made affecting the rights and freedoms of individual citizens, logic has very little part in much of the debate that is carried on. Jockeying for political advantage, emotion is often the tool that is used.

Senator Dominick of Colorado, in supporting stiffer penalties for those who use a firearm in the commission of a crime, injected logic into the discussion when he said: "We have been concentrating on the weapon when what we really should be doing in addition is concentrating on the person who uses the weapon."

Making it illegal to own a firearm will not deter one who is already outside the law and planning a further crime from using a gun in the commission of that offense. What will make a difference to him, as the senator points out, is the realization that if he uses a gun in committing his crime, "he will be far more substantially punished than he otherwise would be."

The senator suggests that a mandatory increase in the term of imprisonment be given anyone convicted of using a gun in the commission of a felony.

Details of procedure will be matters of argument, but ultimately stiff penalties imposed without delay will be the only thing to control criminal use of firearms. The unreasoning drive to restrict or destroy the law-abiding citizen's right to own firearms as collectors' items or for use in sport shooting, hunting or competitive events, would threaten both the safety and the liberties of every American. At the same time, it would be a boon to the criminal bent on committing his depredations against society with the aid of a firearm.

Assets of Bank Over $10 Million

Total assets of The Winters State Bank, at the close of 1972, were in excess of $10 million, according to a statement of condition released this week.

Assets of the bank were $10,436,598.68, an all-time high, as of December 31.

Deposits in the Winters bank at the close of the year also reached an all-time high, $9,452,302.31.

The bank's assets had reached the $10 million mark in mid-1972, and continued to climb. Loans and discounts at the end of the year totaled $3,223,526.62.

The growth of the Winters bank continued in spite of the fact that 1972 was not a banner year for agriculture, it was pointed out. Although more cotton was produced in 1972 than in the previous year, overall crop production did not meet normal conditions.

Woodrow Watts, president of The Winters State Bank, said the continued growth of the bank testifies to the strong economic climate of the area. Contributing factors included diversification of agriculture, expansion of local industry and business, and a stronger livestock market.

Pasture Short Course January 8-11 Sponsored By School Ag Department

A pasture short course for adult farmers will be held at the Winters School vo-ag building, January 8-11, under sponsorship of the vocational agriculture department.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should contact Carroll Tatom, superintendent of schools, or Stanley Blackwell and Charles Allcorn, vo-ag teachers. An entry fee of $3.00 will be charged. Pasture Short Course certificates will be presented to each enrollee who attends all the training sessions.

Philip Nix, pasture specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences at Texas A&M University, will do the instructing in the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M University.

Nix stated that the short course will be adjusted to wishes and interests of farmers enrolled but that he expects to cover such subjects as adapted grasses and legumes, fertilization, weed control, grazing management and grazing systems. The primary purpose of the course is to help farmers and ranchers make the most profit from their pastures, he said.

Nix holds BS and MS degrees in Agricultural Education from Texas A&M University, and has also done work in Agronomy at Texas A&M. He has had nineteen years of field experience as a vocational agriculture teacher and as a county agricultural agent, where much of the emphasis was on pasture production.

"Many pasture short courses in various parts of the state have been taught by Mr. Nix and all have met with outstanding success," according to Ralph Moser, of Stephenville, area supervisor of vocational agriculture. Arrangements for adult education short courses in pasture and in other fields are made through Moser's office.

The short course at Winters is scheduled to begin January 8 at 7 p. m., in the vo-ag building. Other meetings in the series of pasture management will be held January 9, 10 and 11. During the dates the short course is in progress, Nix will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Blackwell and Allcorn.

"Short courses in pasture, as well as in other areas, are now available to farmers throughout the state under a cooperative program between the Texas Education Agency and Texas A&M University," according to Bob Jaska, associate professor, Department of Agricultural Education at Texas A&M University who coordinates the program for A&M.

"This cooperative program," Jaska said, "is designed to make the services of specialists available to conduct short courses under the supervision of vocational agriculture instructors to provide improved educational services to farm people."

Specialists are now available in the fields of Beef Production, Farm Electric Wiring and Safety, Farm Electric Motors, Farm Arc Welding, Swine Production, Tractor Maintenance, Oxy-Acetylene Welding, and Pasture.

8853 Bales Ginned From Current Crop

Fair weather allowed the cotton harvest to progress appreciably during the past week, and Winters Warehouse Company reported 8853 bales received by Tuesday of this week, from North Runnels gins.

For the Big Country area, B. B. Manley Jr., in charge of the USDA Cotton Classing Office at Abilene, reports the Abilene office classed 40,700 samples for the week ending December 29. This brings the season total to approximately 259,000 samples classed, as compared to 66,000 that had been classed by this date last season.

Some prices reported by the Agricultural Marketing Service were: 4231 premium mike, around 23 cents per pound, and 5231 brought around 20.25 cents.

The quality was little changed in comparison to that of the previous week. Twenty-six percent of the samples graded white; 67 percent graded light spotted; and 5 percent graded spotted. Grades 42 and 52 were the predominant grades at 42 and 19 percent of the total samples classed. Twenty-five percent of the samples were reduced in grade due to bark.

Staple lengths ranged from 30 through 34 with the following distribution: Staple 30 was 8 percent; staple 31, 59 percent; staple 32, 27 percent; staple 33, 4 percent; and staple 34, 1 percent.

Micronaire readings were 2 percent high, 26 percent low, and 72 percent in the 3.5 to 4.9 range.

Archery Range Being Readied For Tournament

The archery range of the Runnels County Archery Association of Winters is being made ready for the annual invitational tournament which will be held in March. The range is located in the area below the dam south of the Winters City Lake.

The range was inspected by state archery association officials in December, and received a five-star rating, the highest rating an archery range can receive. The local association recently was granted a five-year extension on the lease of the area from the City of Winters.

In preparation for the March invitational, members of the local archery club have moved the shooting paths at the range, and have painted bow racks. The picnic area has been cleaned up, and the organization has stressed that the area is open for public use at any time. Lights will be provided for night picnics by contacting Marvin Clark, the club secretary.

REVENUE-SHARING MONEY

Mayor White said the Council is presently considering ways of spending the money received recently, and that expected to be received during this month, in the federal revenue-sharing plan. The City of Winters received $17,070 as the first of two payments, with the rest expected this month. The second payment is expected to be slightly more than the first check, the mayor said. The City Council wants to hear opinions from the people of the city regarding spending of the funds, he said.

Annual Junior Livestock Show Next Week Expected To Be Biggest Ever

The Annual Junior Livestock Show, scheduled for Saturday of next week, January 13, is expected to be the largest such show here in several years.

Chamber of Commerce Group Selling "Shares" In Annual Livestock Show

To raise money for cash awards to exhibitors in the annual Junior Livestock Show, scheduled for January 13, the Winters Chamber of Commerce is again selling "shares" to individuals, businesses and commercial concerns.

The Chamber of Commerce announced that the committee will sell shares to raise $1750, to be used as cash awards to junior livestock exhibitors. This is an increase over the total awarded last year, but the increase was made necessary by the tremendous growth of the

Two subjects of great importance to the people of Winters will be discussed at a "public hearing" during the regular session of the Winters City Council at the City Hall next Monday, January 8, Mayor Wade White has announced.

The request by General Telephone Company for a rate increase for Winters customers will be discussed, along with the avenue of expenditure of the money Winters received recently in the federal revenue-sharing plan.

Mayor White said representatives of the telephone company will appear before the City Council next Monday night and make a formal request for permission to increase telephone rates. To date, the amount of increase to be asked is not known. The mayor said that many people have requested an opportunity to meet with the council at the time the telephone rate increase request is discussed. He said the Council is interested in the thinking of the people regarding an increase in telephone rates at this time, and also the thinking regarding the type of service which has been received, and what the phone customers expect in the way of service.

Proposals for extended area telephone service in the Winters area also will be discussed at the hearing, Mayor White said.

This service has been the subject for discussion many times in the past several years, he stated, but no final decisions have been forthcoming. This time, he indicated, it is the hope of the Council that extended area service will be offered by the telephone company, at a realistic rate. He said such extended area telephone service in this area would mean much to subscribers and businessmen.

The city has been warned, he stated, that the present method of stacking and burning of garbage and trash does not meet the health standards set by federal and state agencies, and that a landfill operation must be started. This will take additional dirt-moving machinery, and the revenue-sharing money could be used for this purpose.

The mayor also pointed out that, according to some instructions from the agencies handling the revenue-sharing money, there are areas in which the money cannot be spent. What information is available regarding requirements for spending the money will be explained at the public meeting January 8, it was stated.

Mayor White said the meeting will be open to the public, as are all City Council meetings, and all who would like to express opinions, either on the telephone rate increase request or the revenue-sharing money, are invited to attend. The meeting will begin at 7 p. m. in the City Hall.

TOO LATE TO BUY A HOME?

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — At any given time at least 25 million people in the United States are in the process of deciding whether to build or buy a home. Some are newlyweds or not yet married. Some are singles not yet considering marriage. Some are well into their 20s or 30s and have been living in apartments or with their parents. Many already own their homes but need a different type of house, or a summer residence. Or they have to buy a new place because employment or other considerations have dictated a move from their present home.

Should they build or buy? That is their $64 question. Many of them postpone a decision because they are frightened by high costs, including mortgage rates and taxes as well as the price of the home per se. They think that biding their time will get them a better deal, but this does not often turn out to be the case.

LAND PRICES

It is true that lots of land in some locations—especially in deteriorating urban areas—do not appreciate as rapidly as tracts in the suburbs, but for the most part individual plots or tracts suitable for subdivision are firmly locked into a long-term upward. The growing needs of a population of 200 million see to that.

Time was when land values did drop when economic recession hit. But during the past decade this has tended to be the exception rather than the rule. So there is no great point in delaying your plans to build or buy a home because you anticipate a slide-off in land prices. Either the slide-off will not materialize at all or it will not be large enough to warrant the delay and inconvenience.

DOING THE goalie stomp. Ken Dryden of the Montreal Canadiens snares one by St. Louis Blues' Noel Picard.

MORTGAGE FUNDS

While mortgage rates are not as high as they were in 1970-'71, their decline from those lofty peaks has been slow and slight. The next broad move will be on the upside; in fact, it has started.

Of course, mortgage rates and the availability of mortgage money do vary from region to region, even from bank to bank in the same or adjacent localities. In September the average interest rate on new-home mortgages was 7.42 percent—down a speck from August but higher than rates for the April-June period. In many parts of the country, mortgages can be negotiated at rates closer to, or even below, 7 per cent. But as a rule, you will pay considerably more in the West where rates well above the national norm have prevailed for several years.

YOUR NEEDS PARAMOUNT

Even in these days of relatively high interest rates, you can get a better mortgage deal

Robert B. Thuesen
Died In Austin
Home Recently

Robert Bruce Thuesen, 30, of Austin, a former resident of this area, died at his home sometime prior to December 28. His body was found by friends with whom he worked part time at the State Hospital.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in Spill Memorial Chapel in Winters, with the Rev. Harry Grant, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial was in the Wilmeth Cemetery. Mr. Thuesen was born at Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 22, 1942. He moved with his parents to Stephenville as a baby, and later to Houston. The family later returned to Stephenville and then moved to Ballinger. For the past five years he had lived in Austin, where he was studying for his Ph. D. degree at the University of Texas.

He was a member of the Unitarian Church. Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Fredna White of Anson; a sister, Mrs. Dennis Falk of San Antonio; and several uncles and aunts. Cousins were pallbearers.

by careful shopping. The same goes for home selection, whether you build or buy. Do not jump at a builder's or seller's pitch without checking to see that you get what you want.

Aside from this elementary caution over money rates and the cost of the home itself, however, do not delay unduly the building or buying of a house which you need or could use to best advantage right now. Health and happy living arrangements should outweigh penny-pinching in this area of steadily rising home prices . . . once you are satisfied that you are receiving a fair value for your outlay and that you can make the purchase without going too heavily into debt.

"Napoleon and Samantha"

That magical screen combination of children, animals and nature is excitingly brought together in Walt Disney Productions' dramatic and touching adventure feature, "Napoleon and Samantha," starring Michael Douglas and Will Geer and co-starring Johnny Whitaker and Jodie Foster in the title roles.

The unusual tale centers around two youngsters, who, rather than part with an old pet lion who was once a circus performer, go on a perilous mountain trek to stay with a recluse friend.

"Napoleon and Samantha" was shot in its entirety in the rugged, picturesque Malheur National Forest of eastern Oregon.

The cast also includes Arch Johnson, Henry Jones, Vito Scotti, John Crawford, Mary Wickes, Ellen Corby, John Lupton, along with Rex Holman, Claude Johnson, John Ortega and Monty Margotts, plus the residents of John Day and Canyon City.

Stewart Raffill wrote the original screenplay and both trained the lion for the picture, and with Tom Leetch, was an associate producer.

In color by Technicolor, Winston Hibler produced and Bernard McEveety directed the Buena Vista release.

WARDROBE OF BRUSHES

Brushes make an important "second wardrobe"—the personal care wardrobe. As such, they require proper selection and care. Several kinds of brushes make up this "second wardrobe"—brushes for hair, teeth, make-up, nails and even the back—all of which aid in personal care.

Bristle composition ranges from polyethylene (a soft plastic) to nylon, natural boar and sable. Price range varies as well.

Hair brushes get the most use. Brushing is essential in keeping hair looking its best. It cleans and polishes the hair shaft, while stimulating the scalp. Brushing does not cause hair to fall out — rather, it stimulates growth.

Men generally choose short-handled club brushes or military brushes without handles. Women, on the other hand, may own several. A stiff brush is needed for removing hair-spray, dirt and dandruff before shampooing. A close-bristled one with a lift is used for teasing and styling and a softer one adds the finishing touch.

Wigs, wiglets and falls stay in top shape with wire brushes, while long, thick hair generally requires a brush with stiff bristles.

No matter what a brush is made of or the cost involved, good care is necessary to lengthen its life.

Besides just cleaning, frequent washing eliminates potential build-up of bacteria on a brush.

Wash all brushes — including those kept in purses and glove compartments—in warm water and suds. Don't wash those belonging to different members of the family together—dandruff may be transferred in this manner from person to person.

Combs and brushes may be brushed against each other to help remove oils and dirt particles. Natural hair brushes require gentle treatment. Rinse and dry the brushes away from heat.

Toothbrushes also should be washed regularly with warm suds and rinsed thoroughly.

The family dentist can recommend the proper toothbrush—whether manual or electric, nylon or natural bristle, medium or firm bristle stiffness.

A long-handled back brush is an asset in the wardrobe of brushes—it reduces stretching to reach all parts of the back while bathing. Choose one with a long, sturdy handle and comfortable stiffness. Wash it often to remove all dirt and build-up of dead skin particles.

A nail brush is handy at the bathroom sink to remove dirt from under and around nails. Choose one which fits the hand comfortably, and clean it regularly.

Make-up brushes work beautifully for applying blushers, eye-shadow, powder, eyeliner, eyebrow color and lipstick. Choose washable brushes, so old make-up and bacteria can be removed.

Before purchasing any type of brush, read the care instructions on the package, in order to obtain maximum product use and consumer satisfaction.

Happy Homemaking

By BARBARA BAKER

When all else fails to interest a child, fill a little bucket with water, and give him an old paintbrush. Let the child "paint" the outside of the house or the porch. The brick or cement will turn dark from the water and give him a sense of accomplishment (until it dries anyway).

When planting small seeds, use a big comb to draw tiny rows on well-pulverized soil. After sprinkling on the seeds, comb lightly in the opposite direction to cover them.

An easy way to attach buttons to your son's Scout shirts is to coat the back of each badge with any good mending glue, then press with a WARM iron on both sides. The glue is also a timesaver in hemming trousers.

Make several one-foot extension cords. The length is perfect for cords that just miss reaching the electrical outlets (so near and yet so far) and you do not have to roll up and hide all those extra feet of cord.

Austin — Texas legislators, with new leadership in both houses and a swarm of first-term members, report here on January 9 for their expected history-making regular session.

They face a mountain of problems, the magnitude of some still unmeasured.

Revising the present method of financing public school education stands at the top of the list — depending on a U. S. Supreme Court ruling yet to come.

If the High Court upholds a three-judge federal court ruling in San Antonio just over a year ago, lawmakers are under order to revise the present system which is keyed to property taxes. A reversal could allow more time, but the State Board of Education is expected to vote January 13 for a complete state financing of basic education costs spread over a period of several years, regardless of the Supreme Court decision.

Lawmakers are hopeful of avoiding a major tax fight, but again the school finance case may completely upset those hopes.

Among other major items for legislators' consideration are these:

—Reform of the legislative process itself and state government in general including a new code of ethics law, a revised lobby control act and revision of campaign finance reporting requirements.

—Overhaul of state election laws to provide a new method of financing party primaries and possibly moving voting dates for primaries.

—Court reform.

—Redoing the legislative and congressional redistricting of 1971.

POLLUTION MAJOR JOB Atty. Gen.-elect John Hill assigned top priority in his new administration to tackling a heavy back-log of pollution cases.

Hill said he also plans heavy emphasis on consumer protection, including a fresh package of legislation in the field, and combating organized crime through a special, five-member task force of attorneys.

The incoming Attorney General said pollution not only damages the quality of life but is a serious economic factor, especially along the industrialized Gulf Coast.

He pledged to seek accelerated docketing of the air and water pollution cases, quicker filing of new cases submitted by state agencies and fast prosecution by his staff.

CAMPUS TROUBLED

An "extremely volatile" situation on the campus of the University of Texas at El Paso led to sudden appointment of a new president there.

Dr. Arleigh B. Templeton was dispatched to the troubled campus from the new UT-San Antonio which he had been picked earlier to serve as president. UT regents confirmed the selection in an emergency session. Dr. Joseph Smiley resigned November 1 as UT-El Paso president.

The U. S. Justice Department advised UT Chancellor Dr. Charles LeMaistre corrective steps were needed at El Paso to prevent a campus tragedy sparked by demonstrations against the administration.

PARK PLAN MOVES ON

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, over protest of some landowners, plans to add another 50 acres to the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park along the Pedernales River near the former president's ranch.

The P.W. Commission also approved 554 acres at Bryan Beach two miles southeast of Freeport in Brazoria County for a third Gulf Coast Beach Park.

A master plan for development of Mustang Island as a state park is being prepared and is expected to be presented to the Commission in about two months.

Meanwhile, Dallas County commissioners ordered a study to determine possibility of converting 603 acres of federally-owned land at Seagoville into a state park.

APPOINTMENTS

Charles G. Purnell of Dallas has been named as executive assistant and chief advisor to Gov.-elect Dolph Briscoe.

New Attorney General Hill picked Larry York of Houston as his executive assistant and Mary Jane Bode of Austin as his press secretary.

B. R. Fuller was named by Gov. Preston Smith as executive director of the Department of Community Affairs in the governor's office. He has served as city manager of Eagle Pass and San Marcos.

Charles Freeman of Pleasanton was reappointed by Smith to the Evergreen Underground Water Conservation District.

GAS ORDER EXPECTED

A Railroad Commission order setting priorities for use of natural gas when supplies are short is due to be entered by mid-January.

At a hearing here November 30, two Commission officers examined views on gas curtailment. They later made recommendations (as yet not disclosed) to the three-member Commission. Opposition to a state-wide standard of priorities was expressed at the hearing. Testimony was also offered in favor of granting priorities to homes, schools and hospitals in time of drastic shortage.

INAUGURAL DINNER SET

Democrats will celebrate inauguration of Governor Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby at a combination fund-raising and party victory dinner January 15.

The $25-a-plate dinner will offer entertainment by Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass and talks by Briscoe, Hobby and new National Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss. State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest of Bryan will be master of ceremonies.

Climbers Leaving Much Litter On Mountain Tops

Air pollution is an all too familiar menace. But another kind of high-up pollution is spreading fast. From a surprising source.

Mountain climbers, seeking wind-swept experiences and soaring sensations, are heaping trash on the pristine tops they scale. At the Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming this summer, rangers say they regularly returned from the peaks with "rucksacks full of junk." Within a decade, the number of people climbing the summits there has doubled to 4,000. And in the White Mountains of New Hampshire, helicopters are being used to fly out human waste in 55-gallon drums. The number of climbers in the White Mountains has been increasing 30 per cent each year.

Three miles up on Mount McKinley in Washington, clean-up climbers found a trash dump covering an area of 100 square feet. At such altitudes, where the air is thin and freezing, even normally biodegradable stuff will not decay. And helicopters cannot go up that high for clean up work.

Climbers in the White Mountains are now asked not to camp more than 4500 feet up. And rangers at McKinley talk to every climbing expedition urging them to bring back all their garbage and even to pick up extra litter along the way.

Polluted air. Polluted water. Polluted landscapes. And now garbage - strewn summits. We are a nation of polluters — cigarette smokers, litterers, trash burners, carbon monoxide-spewing car users — and must be made aware of the pollution we ourselves create and inflict on others.

TEST FORAGE FOR PROFITS

Forage testing is essential for livestock producers to know the nutritional value of their pastures and hay.

Adequate fertilization and utilization before the forage matures are the two most significant factors affecting forage quality.

Young, leafy forages are higher quality than old, stemmy and mature forages. Quality declines rapidly when forages begin to mature and may be reduced 50 percent in 10 to 14 days of plant growth.

For example, sorghum-sudan hybrids may be 15 percent crude protein or higher when the plants are young and before seedheads begin to form. Within 10 to 14 days after seedheads begin to form, the pasture's crude protein content may be as low as 8 to 10 percent. Coastal Bermudagrass may have a protein content of 15 percent when plants are leafy and tender. Within two weeks, this may decline 8 to 10 percent.

A summary of forage samples analyzed at the Texas A&M Forage Testing Laboratory reveals a wide range in all classes of forages. Some of the samples were exceptionally high quality while other samples were much less desirable.

Forage testing laboratories can determine the nutrient value of hay and pasture plants for a nominal fee. The small charge for determining protein and other factors is a good investment for knowing the nutritional value which livestock receive.

WINTER CARE FOR HORSES

Don't neglect your horse because it's winter and you aren't riding it. Adequate nutrition and a parasite control program are important during the winter months.

Young horses, especially those weaned this fall, need special attention because they are still growing and need an adequate ration to help them mature.

If good quality hay is fed, grain may not be needed. Dust-free leafy legume hay (alfalfa or clover) is a good feed for wintering horses. However, it's a good idea to feed a grain supplement with grass hay or other low energy hay.

Internal parasites, especially strongyles (blood worms) and bots are damaging during winter months. Such parasites can cause horses on a borderline ration to lose excessive body weight.

Strongyles attach to the intestinal wall and suck blood, reducing the vitality and condition of the horse. This could be fatal to young horses.

Worming and treating horses for bots during the winter is advised. Newer drugs may be administered with a grain mix-

CRACKING DOWN ON TB GERMS

There are several ways to track down TB germs. A tuberculin skin test is a good place to start.

TB germs can thrive almost anywhere in the body, but they usually attack the lungs. If the germs are flourishing and reproducing, they get into the person's sputum and can be spread by coughing and sneezing. This is active disease. Unless the person is treated by drugs, he or she will probably suffer ex-ture; however, individual animals should have a separate feed box to be sure that each animal receives the correct dosage.

Bots attach to the stomach lining and remain there for many months before passing to the outside in the spring and developing into flies. Treating horses for bots during the winter will break the life cycle of this parasite.

treme weakness, weight loss, and shortness of breath eventually.

Not everyone who is affected with TB germs, though, has active disease. TB germs can enter the body but remain in a dormant state for years. But under certain conditions—when the body's defenses are weakened—active TB can break out. Most new cases of active TB develop in people who have been infected with TB germs for some time.

A tuberculin skin test can indicate the presence of TB germs in the body. Though there are several types of tests, a common one consists of injecting an extract called tuberculin into the top layers of skin. The area of hardness around the injection two to three days later gives some indication about the presence of TB germs. Large reactions are particularly suspicious.

It is far easier to deal with an educated man than with an uneducated man.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

Abraham Lincoln and I share one thing in common: we were both born in a log cabin.

Of course, Lincoln's cabin was preserved and has been made into a kind of tourist shrine. My cabin crumbled into dust and has gone with the wind.

Breathing is life itself. And now new research indicates that the way infants breathe after they overcome the first crisis can be significant. In a study of normal newborns, scientists at the National Institute of Mental Health observed that babies who breathe rapidly in the first few days of life have different life-styles and reactions from babies who breathe slower. The differences in development are present later. The original group of infants was tested just after birth, again at preschool age, and then at seven years of age.

Fast-breathers are highly sensitive to touch but show lower levels of activity and performance. Slow-breathers are relatively insensitive to touch but are likely to develop into active, assertive, highly verbal toddlers.

Why should slower breathers have the edge? Dr. Richard O. Bell, chief of the NIMH Child Research Branch who directed the research, says, "It is possible that a state of relative torpor could be a protective mechanism in the transition from uterine to extrauterine existence. Thus, this torpor could be a sign that the development processes are proceeding properly."

More research is needed to find out just how this protective mechanism works and if the rate of breathing itself may reflect how soundly young lungs are developing.

But at every stage of life, the way we breathe is enormously important. And the hazards to sound lungs are all around us. Contributions fight some of those hazards, like cigarette smoking and air pollution, and combat TB, emphysema, and other lung diseases. In case you haven't already, be sure to send in your Christmas Seal letter—the one you received some time ago—right away. It's a matter of life and breath.

If you have troubles to burn make light of them.

HEALTH FOR ALL

It's that time of the year again when people all over the country sit down to write their New Year's resolutions. Or if we don't do that, we at least think about ways to improve the quality of our lives and attempt to accomplish certain goals. Texas health officials urge you to place "good health resolutions" at the top of your list this year.

Here's some thoughts on resolutions for you and your family, from the Texas State Department of Health.

Promote to give your body at least as good care as you give your car. Periodic examinations are the best way yet devised to detect bodily disorders while they can still be treated successfully, so let your doctor look you over thoroughly at least once a year whether you're ailing or not. Make it twice yearly if you're middle-aged.

Dental troubles may not kill you, but sometimes they can make you wish you were dead. So check in regularly with your dentist, too.

If you are putting on weight, resolve to start passing up the candied yams, boiled potatoes and the cream-filled tidbits which almost invariably spell extra pounds and perhaps an early demise.

Too much weight contributes to high blood pressure, and may be associated with hardening of the arteries and various forms of heart disease. Also, it means impaired vigor, greater surgical risk and greater danger from otherwise minor illnesses.

A good, approved exercise regimen will keep your body in shape, tone up your heart muscles and put the spring back into your step. There are many pursuits which people of all ages may undertake in order to get the needed exercise. While jogging might be all right for some, brisk walking may be recommended for others.

The statistics linking smoking to cancer and heart disease continue to pile up, and it is tougher and tougher to rationalize the habit. If you still smoke, now's the time to quit. Resolve also to impress the health hazards of smoking on the minds

When driving, consider that that every other car is being driven by a madman, and when walking trust motorists only as far as you can see them. Never mix drinking and driving. Most vehicle deaths stand far above accidental deaths of all other types.

Resolve to take full advantage of every advancement in medical science aimed at benefitting you and the family, but always on competent medical advice. Start by checking the immunization records of your entire family as a safeguard against diseases and their complications. Remember, certain immunizations are now required by state law for all school children.

Getting plenty of sleep is another resolution which will be of benefit. In the rushed-up pace of modern living, an individual may overlook the importance of rest. But it is essential if your body is to recharge itself after a day of activity.

Nutrition goes hand in hand with proper rest. To provide your body with the essential nutrients to make it function properly and most efficiently, proper diet is necessary. Our stores are crammed with different, tasty and nutritious foods, so resolve to put the proper ones on your table.

Your Social Security

"One of the changes included in the 1972 Amendments to the Social Security Act (signed into law in October, 1972) raises the amount an individual can earn and still draw full social security benefits," J. M. Talbot, social security manager, has said. The old figure of $1680 per year has been raised to $2100 per year. This goes into effect with taxable years ending after 1972. For most people this would be the 1973 calendar year.

If a beneficiary earns $2100 or less in 1973, he will get all benefits for the year. If he earns more than $2100 while he is under age 72, the general rule is that $1 in benefits to him or his family will be withheld for each $2 he earns over the $2100 per year.

An exception to this general rule is that regardless of total earnings in 1973 and later years, benefits will be payable for any month in which he neither earns wages of more than $175 nor performs substantial services in self-employment.

"The old $1680 per year (or $140 per month) limitation will continue to apply for 1972 earnings," Talbot emphasized.

MRS. JERRY LYNN SIMMONS

Marsha Hays, Jerry Lynn Simmons Wed In United Methodist Church

Marsha Hays became the bride of Jerry Lynn Simmons, in ceremonies at seven o'clock Friday evening, December 29, in the First United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Hays Sr., 213 Roselane, Winters. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Freeman Simmons of 217 Lullwood, San Antonio, and the late Mrs. Simmons.

The Rev. James Gehrels performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with greenery and large palm baskets. The church was lighted by candlelight.

Randy Stevens, organist, played traditional wedding music.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Hays Jr., brother and sister-in-law of the bride, sang "The Twelfth of Never." Mrs. Hays sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Melinda Hays of Holiday, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Howard Culp of Baytown was best man. Mike Hays of Houston, brother of the bride, Patrick Simmons of Nacogdoches, and Kenny Simmons of San Antonio, were ushers.

Chris Hays of Winters was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a dress designed with candlelight sheer organza bodice with a stand-up collar. The floor-length skirt was of tiny multicolored flowers in shades of red, orange, yellow and hot pink. She carried a basket of multicolored flowers.

The flower girl wore a floor-length dress with a high ruffled collar, and a flounce on the bottom of the dress. She also carried a white basket of multicolored flowers. Both the maid of honor and flower girl wore hot pink flowers in their hair.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a candlelight embroidered lace gown with leg-o-mutton sleeves. The scoop neckline and the fitted midriff were outlined in bands of Venetian lace. A deep flounce edged the floor-length skirt. Her veil was a fingertip mantilla of illusion bonded with Venetian lace with matching motifs appliqued over the crown. Orchids, gladiolas, lily-of-the-valley, ribbon tied love knots formed the bride's bouquet. The bride carried the Bible her mother carried at the time of her marriage; also, she carried a lace handkerchief her grandmother carried when she married.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Wesley Hays Jr., and Mrs. Mike Hays were at the bride's table; Mrs. Roger Bailey and Lynda Bickerstaff were at the groom's table. Mrs. Charles Matthews of Lonview, Mrs. Russell Dessen of Houston, and Mrs. Ruby Nell Rougas of Winters, were also in the house party.

The bride's table appointments were of silver and crystal. The centerpiece was formed by the bride's bouquet and the baskets of the maid of honor and flower girl. Table covering was a white lace cutwork table cloth.

Appointments of silver were on the groom's table, with a silver coffee service. Bronze mums graced the table which was covered with an orange tablecloth.

The bride is a graduate of Winters High School. She attended North Texas State University at Denton, and is a graduate of Angelo State University with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education.

The bridegroom is a graduate of C. M. Russell High School, Great Falls, Mont. He is in the U. S. Army, and is an instructor for the Army Security Agency at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo. He also attends Angelo State University.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will be at home at 4125 Ben Ficklin Road, No. 24, San Angelo.

Excise Tax On Phone Bills To Be Reduced

Telephone customers may notice a one percent decrease in their telephone bills in January, General Telephone Company has announced.

The reduction is the first scheduled step to eliminate the Federal Excise Tax paid by telephone customers and collected by telephone companies on telephone service, reducing it from 10 percent to 9 percent during 1973.

The government agreed in 1971 to continue the tax through 1972 and then reduce it one percent annually for 10 years until eliminated.

The Federal Telephone Excise Tax was first passed as a "temporary" tax during the Korean Conflict in 1953. It was an easy tax to assess, even easier for the government to collect since telephone companies did the collecting for the government free of charge.

Despite continuing efforts to remove the tax, felt by many to be unfair, it has continued since the end of the Korean Conflict. The tax is levied on both local telephone service and long distance calls.

Rental Housing Board Will Meet Tuesday, Jan. 26

The board of Winters Rental Development, Inc., will meet at 3 p. m. Tuesday, January 16, at the Winters Chamber of Commerce office, to discuss future planning with architects, Nelan Bahlman, president of the corporation said this week.

The board at that time also will study results of a current survey being made to determine what type of rental housing is needed in Winters. Woodrow Watts is chairman of the committee from the board making the survey.

In a recent meeting, members of the board decided to make another survey of rental housing need here, to meet requests of the Farmer Home Administration, the agency from which it is hoped loans can be obtained to build housing. A previous survey had been made, but was not complete enough, it was understood.

Winters Rental Development, Inc., a non-profit corporation, was formed several months ago by 50 people in an effort to build much-needed rental housing here. The corporation would obtain long-term loans from the FHA to build the housing, which would be only for rent and not for sale.

The board of directors of the corporation has not decided which type of housing to build—apartment units, duplexes, or single units. This will be determined by the survey, after discussion with architects.
