HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

That's the way rumors get started: A while back, the State Theatre had billed for a weekend run a movie which had received a great amount of publicity during the past year. On the weekend of the screening, the title of the movie was spelled out on the theater's marquee, as is the practice each week for each movie.

Then Bobby Mayo, manager of the State, began receiving calls about the "closing" of the movie house. When would the theater be closed? Would it open up again? Would the drive-in theater be in operation? Where would our kids go to see a movie? Et cetera et cetera.

Bobby was puzzled for a while because of so much talk about the "closing" of the movie house, even though there had been no plans to that effect.

Then it suddenly dawned on him why all the talk and the calls—spelled out across the front of the show house was the title of the movie showing over the weekend, and some took it too literally—"The Last Picture Show."

Over the coffee bar at his newly remodeled Smith Drug, T. A. Smith has hung the following sign to the consternation of coffee hounds: "Serve Yer Self. Kaughy 5 cents."

A former local elected official spent a couple of hours on a recent Tuesday driving around town looking for the voting place. He wanted to continue to be a good citizen, and cast his ballot—but had forgotten that City Election Day had been moved to Saturday from Tuesday a couple of years ago, since the last time he ran for office.

Every man should have the right to work at any job available, having reached an individual agreement with the employer, without being required to pay financial tribute to any organization, union, or individual for the privilege of working on a given job, regardless.

Likewise, every man should have the same right to authorize an organization, union, or individual to negotiate in his stead with an employer, and the right to pay the negotiator for services, if he chooses, as a member of an organization or union.

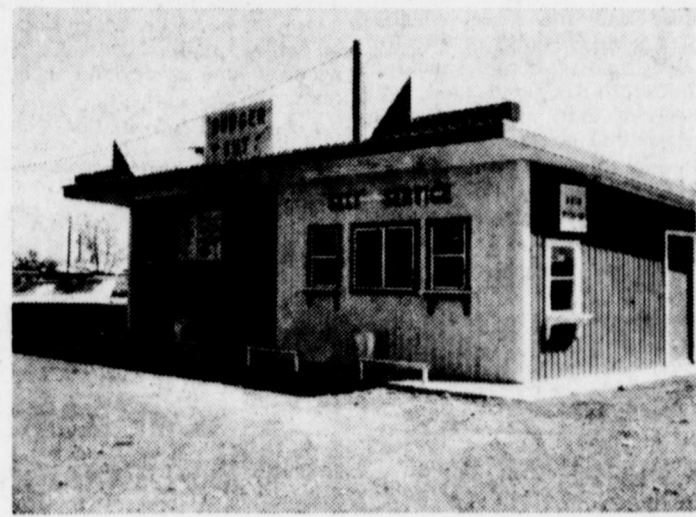

But to make either system compulsory to the exclusion of the other, in any industry or business, is not compatible with the rights of free men, on either side.

Texas has had a Right to Work Law, protecting the rights of all men, providing more or less that each individual has the right to act as his own agent, if he so chooses, without compulsory tribute payment, regardless of the circumstances of organization or union negotiation. A bill to abolish this Right to Work Law, or at least to weaken it to force independent workers to pay "agency shop" fees to labor unions, is expected to be voted on this month by members of the House of Representatives, according to informed sources.

House Bill 1374 would sanction compulsory unionism by legalizing the firing of non-union workers who refuse to pay "agency shop" fees to labor unions. Effect would be to repeal the Texas Right to Work Law by stripping independent wage-earners of their right to withhold monetary support from unions.

According to a public opinion survey by Opion Research Corp., two-thirds of the American people feel that a worker should not be fired for his refusal to join and support a labor union, even though he may benefit from its activities in some instances. That's the public climate regarding the rights of workers.

Some would say that this proposal, HB 1374, would have no direct bearing locally, that it would not concern this area. This is untrue, because anything which affects a man in any place in this state or nation has an effect on all men in all other sections. When one man is deprived of his rights, all men are deprived of the same rights.

BURGER HUT — The latest addition to the Winters business community is the Burger Hut, located one block east of the blinker light on the Coleman Highway (Highway 53), in the vicinity of the new North Runnels Hospital. Owned and operated by Bobby Mayo, the new business, occupying a new steel building, was opened for business Saturday. The Burger Hut features self-service windows, and also has an inside dining area. A main attraction, Mayo said, will be the auto pickup window, where customers may pick up phoned-in orders.

Employed at the Burger Hut will be Mrs. Jane Talley, who operated Jane's Coffee Shop in Winters for many years; Johnnie Spence, Helen Murphy and Mrs. R. O. Hood.

Mayo has been associated with the State Theatre in Winters for 34 years, and has been manager of the theatre for 21 years. Contrary to rumor, he said, the State Theatre will remain in operation, and he will continue as manager.

Commissioners Hire Abilene Firm To Look At Tax Collector's Books
Runnels County Commissioners last week employed the auditing firm of Ben M. Davis-Kinard & Co., of Abilene, to audit the records of the County Tax Assessor-Collector's office.

The general audit by the outside auditing firm will begin about May 1, County Judge Elliott Kemp said. The audit by an outside auditing firm was called for by the Commissioners in March, following disclosure of alleged discrepancies in the records of the Runnels County Tax Collector. The commissioners previously had received a request from Jack Farmer, who was elected Tax Assessor-Collector last November and assumed office January 1, for an audit of the records of the office. A check of the tax records by the Commissioners revealed the

City To Seal-Coat And Pave Streets

With $30,000 earmarked to be spent on paving of streets, and seal-coating repair on many of the streets already paved, the city of Winters this week called for contractors' bids on the work.

Some of the new paving planned will be around the new housing project of the Winters Housing Authority, but there will be some other new paving done, it was understood.

In addition, many of the asphalt-paved streets will receive a seal-coat, and other repair, during this program. An increase of traffic in some areas, plus hard freezes last winter, have caused major deterioration on some of the streets, and much work will be necessary to return them to satisfactory condition, it was stated by city officials.

Kirby Robinson Gets Conservation Award Recently

Kirby Robinson, Norton farmer, was the recipient of the "Conservationist of the Year" award from the Ballinger Lions Club Thursday of last week.

Harvey Kahlden, District Conservationist with the Runnels County Soil Conservation Service made the presentation.

In making the presentation, Kahlden gave a slide talk, stating, "This year's Conservationist entered into a district cooperative agreement with the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District in September, 1950. With technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Service, a complete conservation plan on his 335 acre farm was developed so that the natural resources could be developed and improved."

With technical assistance from the Runnels County SCS and cost-share assistance from the Rural Environmental Assistance Program, which has now been terminated, 46,860 feet of level closed-end terraces were constructed for moisture conservation and erosion control. Also a good conservation cropping system is being carried out, Kahlden said. This includes the rotation of cotton, forage sorghum, and grain sorghum, and the management of crop residues and contour farming.

Robinson's consideration for nature is expressed by his decision to leave and improve the existing cover of brush and vegetation along the creek bottom for wildlife habitat, Kahlden said, and he is constantly seeking more information concerning the conservation and development of natural resources.

While serving as a district director of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District from 1949 to 1971, Robinson actively supported all watershed projects. He has watched Valley Creek go from a dry flash-flood type creek to a permanent stream which supports an abundance of fish.

Robinson is married to the former Alpha Bryan. He was born and reared in Leon County and came to Runnels County in 1921. He worked in a grocery store in Norton before becoming involved in farming. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are members of the Winters Church of Christ. In addition to being an active director of the Runnels S&WCD, Robinson is a charter member of the Norton Lions Club, a director of the Coleman County Rural Electric Administration and a director of the Winters State Bank. He also has served two terms as a member of the FFA County Committee.

Charlsie Poe Writes Article For "True West"

"When Lightning Strikes," a story by Charlsie Poe of Winters, will be published in the June issue of "True West," one of the magazines published by Western Publications, Inc., of Austin. The magazine is now on most news stands.

The story concerns four men from the Pumphrey Community near Winters who were killed by lightning in 1906 while on a prospecting trip near Garden City.

One of the men, Jerry E. Ritch, was the father of Mrs. Lora Coupland, and she recalled many of the incidents for Mrs. Poe.

The story contains the words of "Methodist Hymn," a favorite song of the fun-loving Ritch family. How their lives were changed in an instant makes a moving narrative.

City To Seal-Coat And Pave Streets

Through a technical error, Buford Baldwin, City Secretary, said, it was reported some time ago that the City had contracted with a Brownwood paving contractor to do the street work. However, it was pointed out, the City must advertise for bids on a project of this nature. Thus the call for bid, he said.

In other business Monday, the newly-organized Council approved a resolution accepting a grant of $34,500 from the State Aeronautical Commission to be used on rebuilding the city's airport. The city is obligated to provide an equal amount, either in cash or "in kind"—land and facilities—and will receive payment from the Commission periodically as the work progresses and vouchers are forwarded to the State. Much of the land work at the airport has been done. Plans call for re-location and lengthening of the runway, re-location of service and hangar facilities, and paving of the runway. The city already has acquired a sufficient amount of land for the project.

New Council Was Organized Monday Night

The Winters City Council was reorganized Monday night, as the new mayor and two aldermen who were elected recently, assumed office.

Homer Hodge took oath of office as Mayor of the City of Winters, succeeding Wade W. White, who has served in that capacity since 1967. Woodrow Watts, reelected alderman, and Lloyd Gilbert, took seats on the City Council.

The new mayor presented plaques of service recognition to retiring Mayor Wade White and Erce Vaughan, whose term of office as alderman, had expired.

Woodrow Watts was elected mayor pro tem, the office he has held for the past year.

Aldermen were assigned city departments Monday night, to coordinate the work of the departments.

Woodrow Watts will head the Water and Sewer department; Bill Robinson, Parks and Recreation; Hal Dry, Streets and Airport; James Spill, Sanitation and Cemeteries; and Lloyd Gilbert, Electric Department.

Says Weather Service

When a Tornado Approaches, Your Action May Mean Life or Death

Although tornadoes literally know no season, springtime in this section of the country traditionally has become to be known as "tornado time," when thunderstorms can and do develop without much warning, and when most of the damage from tornadoes is done.

The National Weather Service annually issues brochures and informational sheets regarding the weather, and calls attention to the damage which can be received. A short set of "Tornado Safety Rules" is published by the Weather Service, and undoubtedly, even though there have been many lives lost due to tornadoes, a great number of lives have been saved because people have heeded these warnings and applied the rules.

The Weather Service rules note the difference in a "tornado watch" and a "tornado warning," with rules to follow in each case. Following these simple rules may save your life, the Service says:

"A tornado watch means tornadoes are expected to develop. Keep a battery-operated radio or television set nearby, and listen for weather advisories—even if the sky is blue.

"A tornado warning means a tornado has actually been sighted or indicated by weather radar. Seek inside shelter (in a storm cellar or reinforced building) and stay away from windows. Curl up so that your head and eyes are protected. Keep a battery-operated radio or television nearby, and listen for further advisories.

"In shopping centers, go to a designated shelter area (if one is available and marked) (NOT to your parked car).

"In homes, the basement offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under sturdy furniture if possible. In homes without basements, take cover in the center part of the house, on the lowest floor, in a small room such as a closet or bathroom, or under sturdy furniture. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them.

"In office buildings, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor, or to the designated shelter area.

"In schools, follow advance plans to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. If the building is not of reinforced construction, go to a nearby one that is, or take cover outside on low, protected ground. Stay out of auditoriums, gymnasiums, and other structures with wide, free-span roofs.

"In open country, move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is not time to escape, lie flat in the nearest ditch or ravine.

"Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds, and should be evacuated when strong winds are forecast. Damage can be minimized by securing trailers with cables anchored in concrete footing. Trailer parks should have a community storm shelter and a warden to monitor broadcasts throughout the severe storm emergency. If there is no shelter nearby, leave the trailer park and take cover on low, protected ground.

"Tornadoes are only one of a thunderstorm's killers. Lightning is the worst killer. Stay indoors and away from electrical appliances while the storm is overhead. If you are caught outside, stay away from and lower than high, conductive objects. Thunderstorm rains cause flash floods. Be careful where you take shelter."

Youth Council Talked History

Striped Bass Are Hatched In Texas For First Time

San Angelo—In a significant breakthrough for Texas anglers, Parks and Wildlife Department biologists successfully induced hatching of striped bass in Texas waters for the first time April 7.

The striped bass is a marine species which has done well in some inland Texas lakes.

Department biologist Bill Follis of San Angelo found an 11-pound female bass taken by a sport fisherman from nearby Spence Reservoir in March to be capable of spawning.

Normally, the striped bass ascends rivers to spawn and requires some 50 miles of running water to do so. Spence lacks such a lengthy watershed.

Follis gathered two additional female bass and several males from the lake in the latter part of March.

The fish were injected with hormones at a temporary hatchery set up at Spence Reservoir.

On April 4, one of the females was stripped of some 350,000 eggs which were then fertilized. The eggs were incubated at the temporary quarters and 108,000 striped bass fry hatched on April 7.

In the wild, only about one percent of all eggs deposited by the female striped bass survive.

"This is a good hatch," said Follis, "but perhaps a little below average when compared to some states which have been in this business longer than Texas."

Bob Kemp, Parks and Wildlife Department Director of Fish & Wildlife was apprehensive about the number of eggs which would hatch.

"The department lacks good facilities to properly hatch the eggs," said Kemp.

"Striper eggs should be kept in pure water at a constant 63 degrees."

Water for the hatchery is from a local reservoir and Follis said that his personnel had problems with both temperature and fungus infection on the eggs.

"The significance of the induced spawning and hatching," said Kemp, "is that Texas now has a source of broodfish in the Spence Reservoir stripers."

The department has been going to the East Coast and other parts of the country to obtain either young fish or fertilized striped bass eggs for stock-

High School and Jr. High Bands To Make Records

The Winters High School Blizzard Band, and the Junior High School Band, both sweepstakes bands, are planning a new recording of recent performances by both groups.

These long playing records will be available to the public on pre-order arrangement, and the cost will be $3.25 per record.

Kirke McKenzie, director of the bands, said plans are to include the Blizzard Parade Sound, including the Fight Song, Winter Wonderland, Blizzard Spellout, and the Multiple Drum Sounds of the Blizzard percussion section.

If interested in obtaining one of these records, you can contact any member of the high school or junior high bands to place your order, or call 754-5114 or 754-4435.

Deadline for record orders will be April 30. A maximum of six weeks should be allowed for delivery.

ing Texas lakes.

Spence Reservoir was first stocked with striped bass in 1969 and fishermen consistently catch 10- to 12-pound fish from the lake.

All fish hatched in this initial success have been placed in the San Angelo Number Two Hatchery ponds.

Pasture Planting Time Here Again

Gerald Merz, Range Conservationist, with the local Soil Conservation Service assisting the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, said pasture planting time is here again. He said the moisture condition looks fine for grass planting this spring. It appears that Bermudagrass plantings should be limited to irrigated land, soils receiving extra runoff water, or bottomland soils.

There are several hundred acres planned to be sprigged this year by cooperators with the Runnels S&WCD.

Merz said, in order to have a successful planting, a proper management is necessary. And more often than not, weeds are responsible for poor stands of Bermudagrass. Weeds grow faster, and overtake the newly planted sprigs, forcing the Bermudagrass to grow straight up rather than out and along the ground. Development of new sprigs can also be very slow because Bermudagrass is not able to compete with weeds for moisture, minerals, sunlight and space.

To get Bermudagrass established quickly, land preparation is very important, the land should be allowed to settle for several weeks before sprigging. If the soil is sprigged right after preparation, it should be rolled so the soil is firm. Only healthy, fresh, live sprigs should be used. The sprigs should be planted as soon as possible after they are dug. Keep the sprigs cool, moist, and protected from the sun while they are being taken to the field. The sprigs should be planted in a firm, moist soil and covered not over 1 or 2 inches deep. Weed control, while the newly sprigged Bermudagrass is getting established, is very important. There is a chemical on the market that will effectively control weeds, if applied before weeds emerge. The chemical kills weeds by entering through the root system of newly germinating weeds and grasses. Some of the weeds may emerge and appear normal, but after a few days the leaves turn yellow and the weeds die. If you will consult with your local chemical dealers, you will be given directions on the use of weed control chemicals.

Fertilizer is also important in the management of Bermudagrass. One thing to remember is that weeds will respond to fertilizer as well as the Bermudagrass will. The soil should be tested and recommendations should be followed for best results.

Merz went on to say, that the Bermudagrass should not be grazed until well established. The grass should be at least 8 inches in height before grazing and stubble height of about 6 inches should be maintained during the growing season.

Bermudagrass is a high producing grass under proper management, however, Merz said it is not adapted to all soils, especially under dryland conditions.

9098 Bales In, Few More Maybe

Ras Gideon, manager of Winters Warehouse Company, said Tuesday 9098 bales of cotton from the 1972 crop have been received by the warehouse. He expects perhaps half a dozen more bales to come in before the season is called over for the year.

About 5100 bales were received from the 1971 crop.

Austin, Tex. —The first of major reform bills before the 63rd Legislature—strengthening of "open meetings" requirements — has reached the desk of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The House quickly accepted Senate amendments, sending the measure (HB 3) on to the Governor.

Meanwhile, the Senate passed a version of the "shield bill" to protect newsmen's sources of information—except on State Supreme Court order. The Senate revision providing that citizens may bring mandamus action to reveal sources doomed the bill (HB 10) to conference committee delay.

A second reform bill (HB 8) backed by House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. — to require detailed reporting of contributions and spending in speakership races — also landed on the Governor's desk. The senate passed it with only minor amendment, and the House concurred.

Sponsors of the new open meetings law term it a marked improvement over the present statute, although it would still permit closed executive sessions of governing agencies for these purposes:

Discussions of personnel matters including evaluation, consultation with attorneys on pending or contemplated litigation or settlement offers, talks about real estate purchase, exchange, lease or sale, negotiated contracts for gifts or donations, and school board strategy plans for consultation with employees. Social functions could be kept private as long as no official action is taken and no formal agenda items are deliberated.

Fines up to $500 and jail terms up to six months are provided for know violations.

The House approved Daniel's final reform bill (HB 4), voting 140-3 to set up a State Ethics Commission to supervise tough new campaign finance reporting.

RIGHT TO REPLY BILL HEARD IN SENATE

Houston Senator Walter Mengden's bill which would require newspapers to provide a "right to reply" to political stories and editorials was heard by the Senate Jurisprudence Committee last week.

Senator Mengden copied the bill after the Florida and a Circuit Court and Appeals Court in Dade County, Florida. The Dade County decision is now on appeal in the Florida State Supreme Court.

The Houston Senator quoted so-called "attacks" on him by newspapers in his district, and felt he was entitled to reply to those attacks in the news columns of the newspapers. He cited the "equal time" doctrine of the broadcasting media under existing Federal law.

His measure, SB 541, would require newspapers to publish free of cost any reply a candidate "may make thereto in as conspicuous a place and in the same kind of type as the matter that calls for such reply."

Mengden did not have enough votes to get the bill out of committee, but Senators present did vote 5-2 not to send it to subcommittee and 5-2 to approve the bill and send it to the full Senate for a vote. Senate rules required seven votes to report the bill out, and many of the Senators were not in the meeting at the time of the vote.

The bill was opposed by the

Brazos Trout Fishery Off To Good Start

FORT WORTH—A Parks and Wildlife Department study that began on the Brazos River two years ago started to bear fruit January 17.

Some 4,000 rainbow trout were dumped into the cold waters flowing from the Possum Kingdom Reservoir Jan. 17, and in the first 4½ days of fishing, 732 anglers landed 1,232 trout.

"What looks to be a successful trout fishery," said Allen Forshage, department biologist at Fort Worth, "started back in 1971.

"We first had to determine if the Brazos River below Possum Kingdom Reservoir was suitable to support rainbows all year."

Rainbow trout thrive in 52- to 62-degree water of good quality with high levels of dissolved oxygen.

Trout have smaller gills than native largemouth bass and require more dissolved oxygen.

Abundant bottom dwelling organisms such as mayflies and caddis flies are necessary to feed the trout.

"The first four miles of the Brazos below the dam qualify as prime trout habitat," said Forshage.

The water quality study also determined that a normal flow of water from the lake is sufficient to maintain a trout fishery.

The department arranged for trout to be delivered to federal fish hatcheries in 1973.

In the meantime, a one-year creel census was initiated on the project drop sites.

Pre-trout fishing information will be compared with data from a creel census now being conducted along the drop sites to determine if trout stocking improved fishing along this stretch of the Brazos.

"This comparative information," said Forshage, "will be a valuable management tool for other potential trout streams in Texas."

The Brazos River study will not have to be repeated for other rivers if they are suitable trout habitat.

As it now stands, Texas will always have to go out of state for trout fingerlings. This year's trout came from New Mexico.

The young fish were transported to the Inks Lake Federal Hatchery under the supervision of Clay Young.

Young reared the trout at the Inks Hatchery for two months and then moved them to the drop sites.

The fact that only 15 of the 4,000 fish died enroute attests to Young's care in transporting the trout.

Some of the fish started biting as soon as they hit the river, and kept biting despite a rise in the water two days after the release and bad weather on Sunday.

Some anglers caught their limits of five fish within 45 minutes. Most fishermen congregated around the Hwy. 16 bridge where 2,000 trout were dumped.

Salmon eggs, corn, cheese and spinners accounted for 90 percent of the total catch.

Lions Club Noon Meeting Cancelled For Next Tuesday

The regular Tuesday noon meeting of the Winters Lions Club has been cancelled, due to the broom sale on Wednesday.

The regular luncheon meetings will be resumed on the following week, George M. Beard, president, announced.

TO GERMANY
Private First Class Wesley H. Crouch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Crouch of Spring Lake and formerly of Winters, has been assigned to the 48th Maintenance Company as a supply clerk, in Baumholder, Germany. He will be stationed there for a year with the U. S. Army.

Lawmen Continue Organized Crime Fight, But Need Public's Support

(This is the final article in a series about organized crime in Texas. Organized Crime does exist as evidenced in the preceding articles. The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, the Attorney General's Office, the Department of Public Safety and many other agencies are working with law enforcement officials at the local level to help put an end to organized crime.)

A few months ago outside a Dallas night spot, a well-known police character with an intriguing nickname, "The Creeper," died in a hall of gunfire in a scene straight out of a Hollywood gangster film.

Police had suspected he was the "enforcer" for a loosely-knit group of southern and southwestern thugs known as the "Dixie Mafia."

But before this scene conjures up visions of an organized crime takeover in the Lone Star State, Texans should be aware of the unrelenting statewide efforts already underway to crack down on crime.

Little publicized up to this point, the Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council is conducting an all-out drive to corral all segments of the criminal world.

The Council, co-chaired by Attorney General John Hill and Colonel Wilson E. Speir, Director of the Department of Public Safety, is comprised of top law enforcement officials from throughout the state.

"Some hoodlums are organized, but we are organized too," Colonel Speir pointed out recently, "and we are moving ahead steadily on all criminal fronts including gambling, auto theft, prostitution, gang killings, narcotics, fencing of stolen goods, credit card thefts and many others."

Attorney General Hill, since taking office in January, has expanded the organized crime division within his office, with responsibility to work closely with law enforcement officials to help ferret out organized crime activities. "My office can give legal and auditing help, and in conjunction with the DPS and officers at the local level, assist in yanking the welcome mat from under the organized criminal element in our state," Hill said.

Both Hill and Speir acknowledge organized crime does exist, but not of the classic Mafia or La Cosa Nostra vintage.

"Some of our home-grown hoodlums have friends within out-of-state mob ranks, and they may be getting some tips and cash, but we have no concrete information at this time the national syndicates as such are operating in the state," said Colonel Speir.

Leading the list of crime categories in profits by far is illegal gambling. Texans wagered more than $815 million in football bets alone during the 1971 football season with some $98 million flowing directly into the mainstream of organized criminal activity. But during the calendar year from which these figures were taken more than 130 arrests were made as the bookies began to feel the heat.

Increased pressure is being applied on drug traffickers in Texas. The DPS Narcotics Service has been averaging over 200 cases per month, mostly for sale of narcotics and dangerous drugs.

Agents estimate they will file some 3,000 cases against 2,000 defendants this year, compared to some 900 cases against 600 defendants three years ago.

One of the major areas of concern among law enforcement officials is the lack of public awareness of what constitutes organized crime. "Organized crime," said Colonel Speir, "in general consists of unlawful activities of the members of a highly organized, disciplined and sophisticated association . . . who seek to infiltrate and control legitimate business . . . and strive to corrupt public officials and others . . ."

As one officer points out, "The public itself needs to understand that a seemingly innocent little football bet is a contribution to organized crime. The public needs to understand that 'cheap' bargains on some items of merchandise very well could be from a 'fence' who is peddling stolen goods. The public needs to understand they are the ones being victimized and it won't stop until all citizens awaken to the fact that organized crime is everybody's business."

An "ombus crime bill" is being prepared at this time for presentation to the 63rd Legislature. It will contain a wide range of requests for new legislation and some Constitutional revisions.

"But without such investigative aids," Colonel Speir says, "it is almost impossible to get to the top of major illicit narcotics distribution systems and other organized crime activities simply because the most powerful mobsters never get involved beyond their telephones and penthouses." The same holds true with organized gambling and other crimes. Both Hill and Speir are confident Texas is moving in the right direction—and rapidly—in efforts to control organized crime.

"We have identified the problem, begun to speed arrests and push prosecution and the word is increasingly spreading that organized crime can't do business in Texas," Hill says.

"If the public will join in to a greater extent, the day when Texas can become free of organized criminal activity will come much sooner," adds Speir.

Frustrating, isn't it—this trying to catch fish when they simply will not take the lure?

We've just been through that experience—with Zero as the score. Now don't misunderstand—we've struck out many times before. Lots of 'em! But, never have we tried so hard, so long, and been so completely, helplessly, unsuccessful —yet so very hopeful.

It was an ideal morning, by all the finest rules for good fishing prospects. At least we thought so.

We were already at the lake, so when dawn came we were rearing to go.

The water looked great, with just enough wind to provide ripples, yet calm enough to permit easy and accurate casting.

Being a cloudy day made it all the better for the fish would not be hiding out in the shade way back under the low, overhanging trees, or deep, deep down. I felt I should be able to find them topside everywhere—and I did. But, they could see me, too.

Without the sun shining in their eyes, or heating the water, the fish were bound to be swimming shallow. Just the time to use those topwater lures. They were—and I did—but it was no go. Worse than that I could see big ones make a lightning-like dash for the bait, then put on the brakes and veer away.

Of course Mama Bass was there too and she would intercept the little ones and head them off every time they made a dart for the target. Commendable for her alright, but she was just holding class and showing the kids what NOT to do.

Yes, I tried many topwaters. I used chuggers in different colors. Also used "sticks" with spinners, and even one topwater bait with two large spinners (a big bait with lots of noise). And, you know what happened to that one? Mama Bass dashed over, slapped it with her tail and sent it skyward—far, far away from those eager-beaver kids of hers.

Minnows were all around the area—in big schools, and dozens of fish were feeding on them. So—I tried a cream-colored minnow. Bound to work! Then a dark one — then white. No dice.

Suddenly shad appeared, as if to torment me further. I hastened to attach a shad shaped lure to my line. First white—then colored. Still no luck.

I switched to a silver spoon, followed by a gold one. Then tried a fast retrieve, a slow retrieve, fished shallow, fished deep—even to the very bottom.

In desperation I tried deep-running noise-making spinner baits. I varied the colors of the leads and the skirts. Tried jigs 'too—even added eels and pork rinds.

Capitol Report

BY REP. LYNN NABERS

There have been several bills introduced this session which should be of great concern to the people involved in the business of agriculture. One such bill is H. B. 595 by Rep. Semos of Dallas. This bill would remove the exemption from the Limited Sales, Excise and Use Tax for machinery or equipment used exclusively on farms or ranches in the production of food for human consumption, production of grass, the building or maintaining of roads and water facilities, feed for any form of animal life, or other agricultural products to be sold in the regular course of business. This forceful bill is now in a subcommittee of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

The Predator Animal Bill which deals with the control of predator animals by means of aircraft has been reported favorably out of the Committee on Environmental Affairs and will soon come to the House Floor for consideration.

H. B. 1250 by Rep. Matt Garcia of San Antonio makes it illegal to hire any person who is not entitled to lawful residence in the United States. The violation of this law would constitute a misdemeanor with a fine of not less than $200 or more than $500. It is also stated in the bill that each alien hired would be a separate offense.

The House competitive car insurance bill by Rep. Don Cavness of Austin has been substituted by the governor's bill which gives the insurance board a stronger role than Cavness wanted. He informed the House Committee on Insurance that the board would be required to approve rates higher or lower

Judy Allene Smith, Jarrette Ireland Plan To Marry Here June 2nd

Mr. and Mrs. Jim C. Smith of Winters announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judy Allene, to Mr. Jarrette Lynn Ireland, of Stillwater, Okla.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ireland of Lake Jackson.

The wedding has been planned for June 2, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at the Main Street Church of Christ in Winters.

Miss Smith is a graduate of Winters High School, graduated from Abilene Christian College with a bachelor of science degree, and earned a master of science degree in microbiology from Oklahoma State University. She is employed in the Department of Microbiology at Oklahoma State University.

Mr. Ireland is a graduate of Brazosport High School, and Lamar Tech, Beaumont, where he received a bachelor of science degree. He earned a master of science degree in geology from Oklahoma State University in 1973. He is employed in the department of Geology at Oklahoma State University.

than those set by the board if an insurance company met the criteria set out in the bill. The committee members want to wait for several days before voting on the bill because the governor's bill is a complete substitute for Cavness' bill and they need more time to study. The substitute is strongly favored by State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie. It is my finding that Texans get back as little as 45 cents for each of their insurance dollars in certain coverages. I believe that the present system may be a good one and that all that is needed is for the board to lower rates so the companies won't make such big profits.

The Senate version of the competitive rates bill was introduced by Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Sen. H. J. "Doc" Blanchard of Lubbock. It has been set for hearing by the Senate Economic Development Committee on April 19.
